Although, absent a duty to disclose, silence is not misleading, once a party discloses material facts in connection with securities transactions, a duty arises to speak fully and truthfully on those subjects. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5(b).

Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Securities Regulation
Nondisclosure

Investor's complaint, alleging that for-profit college's omissions regarding its enrollment practices, placement rate of graduates, its purported focus on student, and its compliance with federal regulations governing eligibility for student financial aid programs, misled investors, did not sufficiently articulate a plausible claim of securities fraud, absent plausible theory that had college's omissions been timely disclosed, it would have made a difference with respect to investors' decisions. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5(b).

Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Investor's apparent theory of scienter, that for-profit college's Chief Executive Officer and his management team implemented recruiting and enrollment practices in order to increase revenues and thus also the price of college's stock, was not sufficiently plausible, much less capable of supporting the requisite strong inference of scienter required by PSLRA. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4; 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5(b).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Securities Regulation

Scienter, Intent, Knowledge, Negligence or Recklessness

Scienter required for a § 10(b)/Rule 10b–5 claim refers to a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud; negligence alone is not enough. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5(b).

Cases that cite this headnote

[13] Securities Regulation

Scienter

To satisfy PSLRA, an inference of scienter must be more than merely plausible or reasonable-it must be cogent and at least as compelling as any opposing inference of nonfraudulent intent. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4.

Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Securities Regulation

Causation;existence of injury

To adequately plead loss causation under PSLRA, a complaint alleging securities fraud must state facts showing a causal connection between the defendant's misstatements and the plaintiff's losses. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4.

Cases that cite this headnote

[15] Securities Regulation

Causation;existence of injury

To support its securities fraud claim against for-profit college, investor was required to allege that college's reduced stock price reflected anything other than changed economic circumstances, changed investor expectations, new industry-specific or firm-specific facts, conditions or other events, which taken separately or together accounted for some or all of that lower price. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4.

Cases that cite this headnote

[16] Securities Regulation

In general;control persons

A claim for control person liability is thus derivative of a primary claim of securities fraud, that is, control-person claims are predicated on plaintiffs first establishing that a controlled person was a primary violator. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, §§ 10(b), 20, 15 U.S.C.A. §§ 78j(b), 78t.

Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

1072 Ian D. Berg, Mitchell M.Z. Twersky, and Ximena R. Skovron, Abraham, Fruchter & Twersky, LLP, New York, NY; and Vernon J. Vander Weide, Lockridge Grindal Nauen, P.L.L.P., Minneapolis, MN, for Plaintiff.

Wendy J. Wildung, Faegre & Benson LLP, Seventh Street, Minneapolis, MN, for Defendants.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

SUSAN RICHARD NELSON, District Judge.

This matter is before the Court on the motion to dismiss brought by Defendants Capella Education Company, J. Kevin Gilligan, Lois M. Martin, and Amy L. Ronneberg. (Doc. No. 45). For the reasons stated below, this Court grants the motion.

I. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

In this securities fraud action, Lead Plaintiff Oklahoma Firefighters Pension and Retirement System claims that Defendant Capella Education Company, and three of its officers—(1) Defendant J. Kevin Gilligan, Capella's Chief Executive Officer, (2) Defendant Lois M. Martin, Capella's Chief Financial Officer and Senior Vice President, and (3) Defendant Amy L. Ronneberg, Capella's Vice President and Controller (collectively, the "Individual Defendants")—violated the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations issued by the Securities Exchange Commission ("SEC").

Capella is a for-profit, on-line university that receives a significant portion of its revenue—"approximately 78%"—from tuition financed by government loans. (Doc. No. 41, ¶¶ 2, 4.) In 2006, the federal government first allowed online, for-profit institutions to participate in federal financial aid programs under Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 ("HEA"). (Id. ¶ 4.) In order to remain eligible for such funding, Capella must maintain compliance with applicable regulations promulgated by the United States Department of Education ("DOE"). (Id. ¶ 5.)

Federal law prohibits institutions such as Capella from making any false, erroneous, or misleading statement regarding the nature of its educational program, its financial charges or the employability of its graduates to any student or prospective student. (Id. ¶ 33.) Such institutions must also provide an accurate description of the complete costs of attending the institution. (Id.) In addition, at least with respect to most educational programs, such institutions must prepare students for "gainful 1073 employment in a recognized occupation." (Id. ¶ 5.)

On May 26, 2009, the DOE published a notice of its intent to establish a negotiated rulemaking committee to consider changes to the rules regarding federal financial aid programs. (Id. ¶ 37.) At issue was incentive compensation paid to student recruiters and an institution's record of placing graduates in gainful employment. (Id.) On May 29, 2009, the Deputy Undersecretary for the DOE reported during a conference call that the DOE was considering reversing the "safe harbor" provision related to the ban on incentive compensation and adding standards that graduates find "gainful employment" in their field of study. (Id. ¶ 38.)[1]

During the time DOE officials met with industry representatives, the DOE focused on developing certain thresholds to demonstrate "gainful employment." To be eligible for federal student aid, the DOE was considering requiring a program to meet one of two thresholds: (1) a loan repayment rate of 90%, with loans not considered to be in repayment if they were delinquent, in default, in deferment, or in forbearance; or (2) certain debt-to-income ratios. (Id. ¶ 40.) The DOE was also considering eliminating the "safe harbor" exceptions to the ban on incentive-based compensation for admissions and financial aid personnel. (Id. ¶ 41.)

In June and July of 2010, the DOE issued proposed regulations for public comment. With respect to the ban on incentive compensation for admissions and financial aid personnel, the proposed rule removed all of the "safe harbor" provisions. (Id. ¶ 42.) With respect to the gainful employment requirement, programs would remain fully eligible to receive Title IV funds if at least 45% of the principal of former students' loans was being paid down, or if graduates had debt-to-income ratios of less than 20% of discretionary income or 8% of total income. (Id. ¶ 43.) A program would be completely ineligible for Title IV funds if the repayment rate by its graduates was less than 35%, or if their debt-to-income ratios were greater than 30% of discretionary income or 12% of total income. (Id.) A program with students falling in between these two ends of the spectrum would be subject to restrictions on its eligibility for federal funds. (Id.)

In the interim, the GAO was conducting undercover investigations of the admissions procedures and standards at fifteen for-profit schools other than Capella. The Complaint alleges that the "[t]he truth [regarding Capella's alleged omissions] was revealed between August 3rd and August 16th, 2010," beginning with the GAO's issuance of its report "identifying widespread recruiting and enrollment practices at for-profit institutions—such as those [allegedly] engaged in by Capella." (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 12.) The GAO's report, issued on August 4, 2010, identified deceptive enrollment practices and received substantial media attention. (Id. ¶ 163.) Although Capella was not named as one of the fifteen schools investigated, the stock prices of many for-profit schools, including Capella, fell when it was reported that the abusive practices were widespread throughout the industry. (Id. ¶¶ 163–66, 168, 170, 172.) And a committee of the U.S. Senate, which had been conducting hearings regarding for-profit schools, took testimony about the GAO report. The committee then requested documents from thirty publicly-traded for-profit schools, including 1074 Capella. (Id. ¶ 173.) On September 30, 2010, the committee released a report criticizing the number of students who dropped out of the programs at issue, but not naming Capella.

The price of Capella's common stock fell with each event. "In reaction to the disclosures made between August 3rd and August 16th, 2010, the price of Capella stock decreased by 34.8% from a closing price of $93.48 on August 2, 2010 to close at $60.94 on August 16, 2010." (Id. ¶ 14.) In particular, on Friday August 13, 2010, after the markets closed, the DOE released data on the loan repayment rates for more than 8,000 post-secondary schools, including Capella, showing that the repayment rate by Capella's students was only 40%. That day, shares of Capella's stock declined by $9.26, or over 13%, on high trading volume. (Doc. No. 41, ¶¶ 176, 201.) The following Monday, August 16, 2010, the price fell over 13%, or $9.26 per share. (Id. ¶ 201.) The price did not recover and the stock traded at about $44.00 when the Amended Class Action Complaint was filed in late June 2011. (Id. ¶ 14.)

On June 27, 2011, Plaintiff filed the Amended Complaint ("Complaint"), asserting claims under Sections 10(b) and 20(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. §§ 78j(b), 78t(b), and the SEC's Rule 10b–5, 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.[2] Seeking class certification on behalf of all persons similarly injured by acquiring Capella securities, Plaintiff alleges a Class Period from July 28, 2009 to August 16, 2010 (inclusive), just after the DOE's release of data showing the overall repayment rate on government loans taken by students at for-profit schools, including Capella.

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants made materially false and misleading statements and omissions regarding matters such as (1) Capella's recruiting and enrollment practices, (2) Capella's incentive compensation system, and (3) Capella's failure to disclose the loan repayment rates of its graduates. (Id. ¶ 10.) Plaintiff contends that Defendants, in order to increase revenues by increasing enrollments, "instituted abusive recruiting and enrollment practices," including quotas, repetitive cold calling, spam emails and an improper compensation system. (Id. ¶¶ 51, 52.) Plaintiff alleges that due to the new scheme, "Capella's enrollments grew by over 26% in 2009, and its revenues also grew by over 23%." (Id. ¶ 7.)

Plaintiff further alleges that Defendants "continually misrepresented the impact of the regulatory changes" being considered by the DOE before and throughout the Class Period. (Id. ¶ 87.) "Defendants repeatedly stated that Capella would be able to comply with the elimination of the 'safe harbors' yet concealed the fact that its current compensation system was actually in violation of the current ban on incentive compensation, including the 'safe harbors,' and would continue to be in violation once the 'safe harbors' were removed." (Id.)

"Defendants Gilligan and Martin repeatedly stressed Capella's low cohort default rates to suggest that Capella's repayment rates were correspondingly high and, thus, exceeded a 90% threshold," but "misleadingly failed to disclose" that "cohort default rates are in no way comparable to repayment rates," as cohort rates measure only outright default, while repayment rates also exclude loans that "are in deferment, forbearance, delinquent or are otherwise not being repaid." (Id. ¶ 89.) And 1075 even before the DOE disclosed it was considering "a 90% repayment rate as a threshold, [D]efendants should have but failed to, disclose Capella's 40% repayment rate." (Id. ¶ 90.)

Furthermore, Plaintiff alleges, "Capella inflated its revenues by failing to properly account for student withdrawals" caused by Capella's emphasis on "enrollment without regard to the quality of the applicants or their ability to actually complete the online curriculum." (Id. ¶ 92.) Plaintiff contends that Defendants overstated revenue by (1) recognizing as revenue all of the tuition for courses from which students withdrew early, in which case Capella was required to refund either 75% or 100% of the tuition, and (2) "by improperly manipulating the effective dates of students' withdrawals" so as to be able to keep all of the tuition they paid. (Id. ¶¶ 93, 94 ("Under Title IV regulations, if a student withdraws after 60% of the course has been completed, then the institution has 'earned' 100% of the Title IV funds and is entitled to keep them.").) Thus, "Capella materially overstated its revenues" by hiding its "fraudulent scheme from investors, by, among other things, concealing a key metric from" them: instead of disclosing student withdrawal rates, "Capella continuously touted its high number of enrollments and its high enrollment growth rates." (Id. ¶ 99.)

Plaintiff also alleges that all of Capella's financial statements issued during the Class Period "were materially false and misleading because they failed to comply with SEC rules and GAAP." (Id. ¶ 100.) Finally, Plaintiff contends that Defendants failed to maintain proper internal controls over financial reporting. (Id. ¶¶ 110–13.)

Defendants now move to dismiss.

II. DISCUSSION

Plaintiff's Complaint asserts two claims: (1) a claim under Section 10(b) and Rule 10b–5 against all of the Defendants, alleging that Defendants made false statements of material fact that deceived Plaintiff (Count I); and (2) a derivative claim under Section 20(a) against the Individual Defendants, alleging that they were liable as "control persons" under the Exchange Act (Count II). (Doc. No. 41, ¶¶ 204–14.)

Defendants argue that the allegations of the Complaint fail to satisfy the heightened pleading requirements of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1985 ("PSLRA"), Pub.L. 104–67, 109 Stat. 743, 758 (codified at 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4), with respect to the identification of false or misleading statements and the requisite state of mind, as well as other legal requirements for pleading securities fraud claims, particularly with respect to loss causation.

A. Dismissal Standard

The Court accepts as true the factual allegations of the Complaint and draws all reasonable inferences in Plaintiffs' favor, but does not defer to any legal conclusions or formulaic recitations of the claims' elements. Minneapolis Firefighters' Relief Ass'n v. MEMC Electronic Materials, Inc., 641 F.3d 1023, 1027 (8th Cir.2011). Under Rule 12(b)(6), the Complaint " 'must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.' ' " Id. (quoting Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009)). Plausibility turns on whether the facts alleged allow the Court to draw the reasonable inference that the Defendants are liable for the alleged misconduct. Id.

[1] [2] In addition to these general pleading standards, the PSLRA imposes a heightened pleading standard in securities fraud actions with respect to certain elements 1076 of securities fraud claims.[3] "The PSLRA requires plaintiffs to state with particularity both the facts constituting the alleged violation, and the facts evidencing scienter, i.e., the defendant's intention 'to deceive, manipulate, or defraud.' " Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 313, 127 S.Ct. 2499, 168 L.Ed.2d 179 (2007).[4] The intent of the PSLRA was to " 'put an end to the practice of pleading fraud by hindsight.' " Elam v. Neidorff, 544 F.3d 921, 927 (8th Cir.2008) (quoting In re Navarre Corp. Sec. Litig., 299 F.3d 735, 742 (8th Cir.2002)). Thus, to survive a motion to dismiss, a securities fraud complaint must point to "contemporaneous reports, witness statements, or any [other] information that had actually been provided to defendants" at the time they were alleged to have misrepresented material facts. Id.

B. Count I: The Section 10(b) and Rule 10b–5 Claim

With respect to the primary claim of liability under Count I, the Complaint essentially alleges that Defendants, in violation of Section 10(b) and Rule 10b–5, "disseminated or approved" statements that "they knew ... were materially false and misleading," or recklessly disregarded their falsity and misleading nature, "in that they contained misrepresentations and failed to disclose material facts necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading." (Doc. No. 41, ¶¶ 207.) Section 10(b) > makes it unlawful for any person to "use or employ, in connection with the purchase or sale of any security ... any manipulative or deceptive device or contrivance in contravention of such rules and regulations as the [Securities Exchange] Commission may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors."

Matrixx Initiatives, Inc. v. Siracusano, — U.S. —, 131 S.Ct. 1309, 1317, 179 L.Ed.2d 398 (2011) (quoting 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b)).

> SEC Rule 10b–5 implements this provision by making it unlawful to, among other things, "make any untrue statement of a material fact or to omit to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, > in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading."

Id. (quoting 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5(b)).

[3] At the pleading stage, a plaintiff asserting liability under Section 10(b) and/or Rule 10b–5 must satisfactorily allege " '(1) a material misrepresentation or omission by the defendant; (2) scienter; (3) a connection between the misrepresentation or omission and the purchase or sale of a security; (4) reliance upon the misrepresentation or omission; (5) economic loss; and (6) loss causation.' " Minneapolis 1077 Firefighters' Relief Ass'n, 641 F.3d at 1028 (quoting Stoneridge Inv. Partners, LLC v. Sci.-Atl., Inc., 552 U.S. 148, 157, 128 S.Ct. 761, 169 L.Ed.2d 627 (2008)).

The thrust of Plaintiff's Complaint is that Capella, starting in March 2009 under the new leadership of CEO Gilligan and his management team, "improperly sought to exploit the availability of Title IV funding by engaging in a series of abusive and deceptive recruiting and enrollment practices designed to inflate enrollments —and thereby increase access to Title IV funds—without regard to students' welfare, their ability to complete a postsecondary education, or their understanding of the true costs they were incurring." (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 6.) "[W]here previously Capella was student-focused with an emphasis on enrolling qualified students, the focus at Capella under Defendant Gilligan's management changed to a high-pressure, quota-driven recruiting and enrollment 'factory.' " (Id. ¶ 7.) Moreover, Capella did not disclose to investors that it had begun aggressive recruiting of unqualified students in order to secure government guaranteed student loan funding, which comprised about 78% of Capella's revenue. (Id.; accord id. ¶¶ 59–60.)

In response, Defendants argue that the drop in Capella's stock price results not from securities fraud, but from investors' reaction—perhaps overreaction—to the DOE's development, from May 2009 through early June 2011, of new regulations under Title IV governing an educational institution's eligibility for federal student loans and grants. (Doc. No. 46, at 4.) In early August 2010, news reports about a Government Accountability Office (GAO) investigation of some for-profit schools, other than Capella, "scared the market," according to Defendants, such that investors' fear that the government would "over-regulate" all for-profit schools caused an industry-wide fall in stock prices, including that of Capella. (Id. at 4–5.) They now seek dismissal, contending that the allegations of the Complaint (1) fail to identify the false statements, and fail to plead the alleged materiality and falsity of the statements at issue, (2) do not support the requisite inference of scienter, and (3) fail to plead loss causation. (Id. at 5.) They further argue that the Section 20(a) claim must also be dismissed because it is derivative of the Section 10(b) claim. (Id. at 37–38.)

1. Material Omissions or Misrepresentations

[4] [5] [6] A viable securities fraud claim under Section 10(b) and/or Rule 10b–5 first requires that Defendants made a material misstatement or omission—that "the defendant made a statement that was 'misleading as to a material fact.' " Matrixx Initiatives, Inc. v. Siracusano, —— U.S. ——, 131 S.Ct. 1309, 1318, 179 L.Ed.2d 398 (2011) (emphasis in original) (internal citation omitted). To be material, the statement must create " 'a substantial likelihood that the disclosure of the omitted fact would have been viewed by the reasonable investor as having significantly altered the total mix of information made available.' " Parnes v. Gateway 2000, Inc., 122 F.3d 539, 546 (8th Cir.1997) (quoting Basic Inc. v. Levinson, 485 U.S. 224, 231–32, 108 S.Ct. 978, 99 L.Ed.2d 194 (1988)).

> Material information is that which "would have assumed actual significance in the deliberations of the reasonable shareholder." This determination requires "delicate assessments of the inferences a 'reasonable shareholder' would draw from a given set of facts and the significance of those inferences to him."

In re: K-tel Int'l, Inc. Sec. Litig., 300 F.3d 881, 897 (8th Cir.2002) (internal citations omitted). "In contrast, a fact is immaterial 1078 '[w]here a reasonable investor could not have been swayed' by the misrepresentation." Id. And > some statements are so vague and such obvious hyperbole that no reasonable investor would rely upon them. "The role of the materiality requirement is not to attribute to investors a childlike simplicity but rather to determine whether a reasonable investor would have considered the omitted information significant at the time." [Thus,] "soft, puffing statements generally lack materiality because the market price of a share is not inflated by vague statements predicting growth. No reasonable investor would rely on these statements, and they are certainly not specific enough to perpetrate a fraud on the market."

Parnes, 122 F.3d at 547 (internal citations omitted), cited in Hutchinson, 536 F.3d at 960–61.

[7] [8] [9] With respect to pleading falsity, the "PSLRA's heightened pleading requirements compel the plaintiff to 'plead the 'who, what, when, where and how' of the misleading statements or omissions.' " In re 2007 Novastar Financial, Inc. Sec. Litig., 579 F.3d 878, 882 (8th Cir.2009). "To meet the falsity requirement, a complaint must not only indicate that false statements were made, but must indicate why the alleged misstatements were false when made." Lustgraaf v. Behrens, 619 F.3d 867, 874 (8th Cir.2010). Accord In re Cerner Corp. Sec. Litig., 425 F.3d 1079, 1083 (8th Cir.2005). And although, absent a duty to disclose, silence is not misleading, once a party discloses material facts, a duty arises to speak fully and truthfully on those subjects. In re: K-tel Int'l, Inc. Sec. Lit., 300 F.3d 881, 898 (8th Cir.2002). In other words, the law requires an actor to provide complete and non-misleading information with respect to the subject on which he undertakes to speak. Id.

Here, Plaintiff asserts that "Defendants misled the market about the reasons behind, and sustainability of, Capella's financial performance and enrollment growth" by omitting material facts regarding the real basis for its performance and instead attributing that success to factors such as (1) "strong demand fundamentals and solid execution," (2) "the strength of [Capella's] competitive position", and (3) its "very high quality learner base." (Doc. No. 53, at 15.) Thus with respect to the bulk of the statements at issue here, Plaintiff's theory of the case is not so much that what Defendants said was itself false, but that such statements were misleading because they omitted information that investors would have found material.[5] In particular, 1079 the Complaint alleges that Defendants attributed Capella's growth to factors other than the undisclosed new recruiting and enrollment practices that Plaintiff alleges generated the seemingly positive results. Plaintiff asserts that Defendants misled the market "about the reasons behind, and sustainability of, Capella's financial performance and enrollment growth" by attributing that success to such factors as "strong demand fundamentals," the strength of Capella's "competitive position," its "solid execution," and the high quality of its students. (Doc. No. 53, at 15.) Plaintiff contends that the statements at issue were misleading because Defendants omitted material facts that Capella's enrollment growth was in fact based on: (1) improper compensation of enrollment staff in violation of existing DOE regulations; (2) use of aggressive telemarketing practices that resulted in the enrollment of unsuitable students; and (3) abusive and deceptive recruiting and enrollment practices regarding matters such as the true costs of academic programs. (Doc. No. 53, at 15–16.)

As Plaintiff contends, "Defendants made positive statements about Capella's revenue and enrollment growth without disclosing the key reasons for" that growth—its new strategy of "improper recruiting and enrollment practices"—and thereby "misled investors as to the true reasons for Capella's financial performance, as well as the sustainability of its financial performance going-forward." (Doc. No. 53, at 18.) For example, while Gilligan attributed Capella's results for the third quarter of 2009 to various factors, he did not disclose "that he implemented new procedures that more aggressively sought increased enrollments, at the expense of enrolling quality students." (Id. at 19.)

[10] Apart from the host of individual arguments asserted by Defendants, the Court discerns a more fundamental problem with the Complaint. Plaintiff's theory of the case-that Defendants' omissions regarding the basis for Capella's success under Gilligan misled investors—fails to articulate a plausible claim of securities fraud. At bottom, such a claim requires that a defendant's statement—or, as more relevant here, omission—misled investors about the true basis of the company's financial position as reflected in its stock price. According to Plaintiff, investors in Capella's stock would have made different decisions with respect to the purchase or sale of shares had Defendants disclosed the allegedly aggressive and abusive recruiting practices newly instituted under Gilligan's tenure. But even accepting Plaintiff's allegations that those practices were overly aggressive and abusive, there is no plausible theory that Defendants' actions, had they been timely disclosed, would have made a difference with respect to investors' decisions.

Granted, if Capella misled prospective or existing students by misrepresenting the costs of its programs, its graduation rates, or the likelihood of achieving gainful employment rates upon graduation, those students might have a valid claim for misrepresentation. In re ITT Educational Services, Inc. Sec. and Shareholder Derivatives Litig., 859 F.Supp.2d 572, 580–81, 2012 WL 1632762, *7 (S.D.N.Y. May 4, 2012) ("These allegations, if true, might establish a strong claim for a dissatisfied student to bring against [the school]."). But that does not necessarily translate to a shareholder's claim for securities fraud. Id. (dismissing action despite recognition of defendant's recruiting and enrollment practices). [6]

1080 The allegations at issue here are remarkably similar to those in In re ITT Educational Services, Inc. There, the plaintiff alleged that the school engaged in > four types of fraudulent misrepresentations: (1) misleading statements regarding recruitment and enrollment growth; (2) misleading statements regarding [the school's] business focus; (3) misrepresentations of [the school's] graduate placement rate; and (4) misleading assurances regarding legal compliance.

Id. at 578, at *5. There, too, the plaintiff alleged that the school " 'operated a systemically predatory business model that relied upon deceit, manipulation, lies, and outright fraud' to enroll as many students as possible in order to maximize [the school's] federal Title IV funding." Id.

(a) Capella's Recruiting and Enrollment Practices

But as the ITT court concluded with respect to the first type of allegedly fraudulent misrepresentations, "there is no direct connection between Defendants' statements regarding the sources of its revenue and enrollment growth and the omitted information regarding [the school's] predatory recruitment practices or quota system." Id. at 579, at *6. The defendant's statements regarding the basis for the school's success "are not misleading because they do not suggest that the undisclosed improper activity alleged by Plaintiff was not occurring." Id. "At most, Plaintiff alleges that a material number of [Capella's] students were victims of [Capella's] predatory recruitment practices, and thus a material portion of [Capella's] revenue came from this undisclosed 'source.' This is too tenuous a connection to render [Defendants'] statements regarding its financial success misleading." Id.

Here, if Defendants had disclosed that they had instituted under Gilligan a more aggressive recruiting and enrollment strategy, the Court fails to see how current or prospective investors would have likely made different decisions. Investors already knew that Capella was a for-profit educational institution and that much of its revenue, which presumably consisted almost entirely of tuition, was derived from federal financial aid programs. And there is nothing surprising, much less fraudulent or otherwise illegal, in the fact that a successful business aggressively markets its goods or services.

Moreover, the Complaint alleges that to conceal from investors the increased number of early student withdrawals resulting from its new "business model," Defendants improperly recognized revenues from tuition that it was required to refund when students withdrew early. And "[w]hile defendants may have accounted for these revenues by making an allowance for bad debt expense, Capella did not disclose that that was the case." (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 93.) But the Complaint fails to plausibly connect this "bad debt expense" theory with the allegedly fraudulent actions that it attributes to Gilligan's management team. Plaintiff alleges that "between 2007 and 2010, Capella's bad debt expense grew steadily, from $3.6 million [in 2007] to $8.7 million in 2010." (Id.) But the Class Period extends only from July 28, 2009 through August 16, 2010. (Id. ¶ 26.) And, 1081 of course, Plaintiffs attribute Capella's change of course in terms of its recruiting and enrollment practices to Gilligan's new management team that did not take over until March 2009. But if Capella's bad debt expense had been growing "steadily" from 2007, and it allegedly totaled $5,225,000 for 2008, it is difficult, if not impossible, to discern the necessary connection between the improper accounting for revenues that Capella could not retain and the allegedly fraudulent non-disclosure of that practice that apparently began no earlier than March 2009.

The Court also notes that Plaintiff alleges that Capella's "massive 'churn and burn' scheme" was exposed by a compliance audit conducted by the Office of the Inspector General ('OIG') for 2002–03 through 2007–08, which concluded that Capella had failed to return to the DOE substantial Title IV funds that could not be retained by Capella due to early student withdrawals. (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 9.) The audit, which began in April 2006, was concluded by March 2008, when the OIG issued its final report. (Id. ¶ 95.) Again, it is difficult to discern the relevance of whatever accounting irregularities Capella might have engaged in prior to the Class Period, and prior to Gilligan assuming the position of CEO. And insofar as the OIG's report was public, the problem of substantial early withdrawals—and its effect on Capella's bottom line—would have been readily available to, if not actually known by, investors. If anything, such allegations only undermine Plaintiff's theory that the newly-instituted practices of overly aggressive and abusive practices under Gilligan's management were the means by which Capella generated revenue growth.

(b) Capella's Placement Rates

With respect to the second type of allegedly fraudulent misrepresentations, that is, those regarding the school's employment placement rate, the court in ITT Educational Services noted that "[b]ecause placement rates are not directly related to revenue, Plaintiff must show an especially egregious discrepancy between [the school's] disclosed rate and its actual rate" for any misrepresentation to be material to investors. Id. Here, too, the allegations fail to satisfactorily plead that an accurate disclosure would have had a substantial likelihood of significantly altering the total mix of information available to a reasonable investor. Matrixx Initiatives, Inc. v. Siracusano, —— U.S. ——, 131 S.Ct. 1309, 1309, 179 L.Ed.2d 398 (2011).

(c) Capella's Purported Focus On Students

With respect to the third type of allegedly fraudulent misrepresentations, that is, those regarding the school's purported "business focus" on student outcomes, the ITT court found the statements to be inactionable puffery. 859 F.Supp.2d at 580–81, 2012 WL 1632762, at *7. Here, too, for example, Defendant Martin stated that Capella's "very strong results" for the quarter and "optimism" for the future "validate our strategy to focus on our learners, educational quality and excellence in operations to deliver against our financial goals." (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 118.) Even if such statements are not too vague or such obvious hyperbole and corporate cheerleading, they suffer from the same problem as those regarding recruiting and enrollment. In fact, statements that Capella recruits and enrolls mostly high-quality students is simply the flip-side of the coin that it failed to disclose that it was enrolling unprepared students. The connection between such statements and Capella's financial success is too tenuous to provide the basis for a securities fraud action.

(d) Capella's Compliance With Title IV Requirements

With respect to the fourth type of allegedly fraudulent misrepresentations, that is, 1082 those regarding the school's compliance with the regulations governing eligibility for student financial aid programs, the ITT court noted that "the Complaint itself never alleges that [the school] was ever found to be in noncompliance at any point during the Class Period." Id. at 581, at *8. Moreover, to be misleading, allegations of such noncompliance must reflect "widespread problems of noncompliance throughout [the company's] many campuses and programs." Id. Because the regulations "do not prohibit or penalize incidents of such behavior," but rather only "set numerical thresholds for certain metrics, such as the maximum percentage of tuition revenue a school may draw from Title IV funding," "allegations of specific instances of unethical or fraudulent practices do not render Defendants' broad statements regarding compliance misleading." Id.

Here, although the Complaint alleges that Capella was not in compliance with certain existing regulations during the Class Period, it does not allege that the DOE, Congress, or any other oversight body had found Capella to be in such violation. As discussed above, the only determinations that Capella had been in violation of any regulation or standard pertain to the time before the Class Period. Rather, the Complaint attempts to suggest violations of Title IV by focusing on the issue of the DOE's changes, and proposed changes, in the rules governing federal financial aid programs. Throughout the Class Period, at the quarterly conference calls, it became clear that the DOE was considering various changes in its rules regarding a school's gainful employment rate and loan repayment rate. But Defendants were consistently clear that Capella was uncertain as to what precise changes the DOE would eventually implement. (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 132 ("We are still in the early stages of the process.... So as a result, it's difficult to express a specific point of view about where the regulations will come out or what the detailed implications will be to post-secondary institutions."), ¶ 136 ("Well I'll say here again, I don't know if we want to get into speculating about that."), ¶ 138 ("I think it remains to be seen what the final regulations are.").) Because the fact that the DOE was considering changes in the governing regulations was so well known, concerns as to whether existing practices were sustainable could not have been due to any fraudulent omissions and would apply to any for-profit institution engaging in similar practices, such as ITT Educational Services, Inc. In sum, any investor concerns about the sustainability of Capella's financial success, even if directly traceable to practices that Capella might not be able to sustain under the new regulatory framework, amount to little more than the uncertainty about the future that any business faces.

In sum, the Complaint alleges that Capella engaged in undisclosed recruiting and enrollment practices that, at most, might support a student's misrepresentation claim. And if such allegations were to be substantiated, the Court does not suggest that it condones such practices. But the Court fails to see how not disclosing Capella's alleged shift towards such practices could amount to securities fraud here. In short, this Court does not discern any material omissions of fact that, had they been disclosed in a timely fashion, would have significantly altered the total mix of information available to investors.

2. Scienter

[11] In light of the Court's conclusion that the Complaint fails to plead any material omissions, the Court need not address the issues of scienter and loss causation. Nonetheless, the Court observes that 1083 Plaintiff's apparent theory of scienter—that Gilligan and his management team implemented the recruiting and enrollment practices in order to increase revenues and thus also the price of Capella's stock—is not sufficiently plausible, much less capable of supporting the requisite strong inference of scienter required by the PSLRA.

[12] As noted above, the PSLRA imposes heightened pleading requirements with respect to not only the allegations of false or misleading statements, but also the allegations of scienter. Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 321, 127 S.Ct. 2499, 168 L.Ed.2d 179 (2007). The Supreme Court has clarified that the scienter required for a Section 10(b)/Rule 10b–5 claim "refers to a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud." Ernst & Ernst v. Hochfelder, 425 U.S. 185, 193, n. 12, 96 S.Ct. 1375, 47 L.Ed.2d 668 (1976). Thus, negligence alone is not enough. Id. at 201, 96 S.Ct. 1375. And if the alleged misstatement or omission is a "forward-looking statement," the "required level of scienter is 'actual knowledge.' " Matrixx Initiatives, Inc. v. Siracusano, —— U.S. ——, 131 S.Ct. 1309, 1324 n. 14, 179 L.Ed.2d 398 (2011) (quoting 15 U.S.C. § 78u–5(c)(1)(B)).

[13] With respect to scienter, a plaintiff "must 'state with particularity facts giving rise to a strong inference that the defendant acted with the required state of mind.' " Tellabs, 551 U.S. at 313, 314, 127 S.Ct. 2499 (quoting 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(2)). This standard requires more than a showing "that a reasonable fact-finder plausibly could infer from the complaint's allegations the requisite state of mind." Id. Rather, on a motion to dismiss, the court "must engage in a comparative evaluation; it must consider, not only inferences urged by the plaintiff, ... but also competing inferences rationally drawn from the facts alleged." Id. In short, "an inference of scienter must be more than merely plausible or reasonable—it must be cogent and at least as compelling as any opposing inference of nonfraudulent intent." Id.

In evaluating the sufficiency of the allegations, "courts must consider the complaint in its entirety," inquiring "whether all of the facts alleged, taken collectively, give rise to a strong inference of scienter, not whether any individual allegation, scrutinized in isolation, meets that standard." Id. at 322–23, 127 S.Ct. 2499 (emphasis in original). And in determining whether allegations "give rise to a 'strong' inference of scienter, the court must take into account plausible opposing inferences." Id. at 323, 127 S.Ct. 2499. In other words, the elevated statutory standard does not merely require that a plaintiff allege "facts from which an inference of scienter rationally could be drawn. Instead, Congress requires plaintiffs to plead with particularity facts that give rise to a 'strong'—i.e., a powerful or cogent-inference." Id. (emphasis in original).

This "inquiry is inherently comparative," requiring the court to "consider plausible, nonculpable explanations for the defendant's conduct, as well as inferences favoring the plaintiff. The inference that the defendant acted with scienter need not be irrefutable, i.e., of the 'smoking-gun' genre, or even the 'most plausible of competing inferences.' " Id. at 323–24, 127 S.Ct. 2499. But "the inference of scienter must be more than merely 'reasonable' or 'permissible'—it must be cogent and compelling." Id. at 324, 127 S.Ct. 2499. Accordingly, a complaint will survive a motion to dismiss "only if a reasonable person would deem the inference of scienter cogent and at least as compelling as any opposing 1084 inference one could draw from the facts alleged." Id.

Here, the Complaint alleges that Capella's allegedly abusive practices instituted under Gilligan were financially successful, with Capella's enrollments having grown "by over 26% in 2009, and its revenues" having grown by over 23%. (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 7.) But it also alleges that because the students were unsuited for Capella's programs, "[t]hey were therefore far more likely and in fact did withdraw" before completing the minimum percentage of coursework required for Capella to be able to retain the Title IV funds. (Id. ¶ 8.) It is difficult to understand why Defendants would engage in such practices of enrolling unprepared students when, quite predictably, that lack of preparation increased the likelihood that a disproportionately greater number of them would withdraw too early for Capella to be able to retain their tuition. As the Complaint itself alleges, "[a]s a result" of the large number of unprepared students, "many students dropped out soon after enrolling." (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 92.) Plaintiff further alleges that, unlike other educational institutions that can absorb a reasonable amount of "midstream reduction in expected revenues" with only "a minimal impact on overall profitability," Capella > had a high drop-out rate that presented severe risks to its revenue stream. Not only did student withdrawal affect the Company's ability to realize revenue for the portions of the programs the students did not attend, but to the extent Capella returned the withdrawn students' Title IV funds, student withdrawals also limited the Company's ability to recognize revenue for the courses the students did attend.

(Id.)[7] Thus, the Court finds it difficult to believe that Defendants would have attempted to fraudulently inflate the price of Capella's stock by engaging in aggressive practices that not only would not increase Capella's revenues, but also might be self-defeating insofar as those practices only increased Capella's expenses because the time and effort expended to recruit such students would be wasted.

In sum, not only does Plaintiff's theory of Defendants' allegedly fraudulent motives for having shifted to an overly aggressive recruiting strategy not meet the PSLRA's heightened standard for pleading scienter, Plaintiff's theory does not satisfy the plausibility standard under Iqbal.

3. Loss Causation

The Court also notes similar problems with respect to Plaintiff's theory of loss causation. Plaintiff alleges that the "truth was revealed" by a series of events occurring between August 3, 2010, when the GAO Report revealed that all fifteen of the colleges the GAO had investigated had engaged in abusive and deceptive recruiting and enrollment practices, and August 16, 2010, a period over which the price of Capella's common stock fell 34.8%. (Doc. No. 41, ¶¶ 12, 14.) The biggest drop occurred after Friday August 13, 2010, when the DOE revealed after the markets had closed that the repayment rate on loans taken by Capella's students was only 40%. (Id. ¶ 14.)

Defendants, however, claim that the Complaint does not satisfactorily allege 1085 loss causation because it shows no causal connection between the alleged fraud and the drops in Capella's stock price, that is, that it fails to explain how any of the information disclosed "corrected any prior, potentially actionable misstatements by Defendants." (Doc. No. 46, at 35–37.) They contend that none of the events on which Plaintiff relies, such as the GAO report and the Senate hearings, "even mentioned Capella, much less contained information that would constitute a corrective disclosure." (Doc. No. 55, at 12.)

[14] "To adequately plead loss causation, the complaint must state facts showing a causal connection between the defendant's misstatements and the plaintiff's losses." McAdams v. McCord, 584 F.3d 1111, 1114 (8th Cir.2009).[8] But as the Supreme Court has explained, a reduced stock price "may reflect, not the earlier misrepresentation, but changed economic circumstances, changed investor expectations, new industry-specific or firm-specific facts, conditions or other events, which taken separately or together account for some or all of that lower price." Dura Pharmaceuticals, Inc. v. Broudo, 544 U.S. 336, 342–43, 125 S.Ct. 1627, 161 L.Ed.2d 577 (2005).[9] Plaintiff thus must "show that the defendant's fraud—and not other events—caused the security's drop in price." Schaaf v. Residential Funding Corp., 517 F.3d 544, 550 (8th Cir.2008).

Here, Defendants contend that the GAO's Report cannot be considered corrective because that report did not mention Capella and the GAO did not investigate Capella. Defendants argue that "disclosures of new industry-specific events do not suffice to plead loss causation." (Doc. No. 46, at 36.) For the same reasons, they assert that the August 6, 2010 announcement that the Senate had requested information from Capella revealed nothing evidencing fraud. In addition, the Senate's report that was issued after the Class Period did not, Defendants contend, contain any specific information about Capella. Finally, they argue that the DOE's release of loan repayment rates for the first time on August 13, 2010 "cannot be considered revelatory of any fraud" because Defendants had not previously disclosed a "withdrawal rate" or "loan repayment rate"-as the DOE did not require such disclosures. (Id. at 37.) Defendants thus contend that the rates calculated by the DOE did not exist until the end of the Class Period and cannot be used "to show how Capella might fare under the then-proposed version of the 'gainful employment' rule," which, in any event, "never became effective." 1086 (Id. at 22.) Moreover, Defendants contend that the rate for Capella was not corrective of anything they had said.

[15] This Court concludes that the Complaint does not satisfactorily allege that Capella's reduced stock price reflects anything other than "changed economic circumstances, changed investor expectations, new industry-specific or firm-specific facts, conditions or other events, which taken separately or together account for some or all of that lower price." Dura Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 544 U.S. at 342–43, 125 S.Ct. 1627. There's no dispute that Capella's stock price fell upon the various disclosures at issue. But those disclosures did not reveal what Plaintiff alleges had been fraudulently omitted, that is, that Capella's success was in fact due to it engaging in aggressive and abusive recruiting and enrollment practices. All of the disclosures concerned the for-profit educational industry as a whole, and only one specifically mentioned Capella. The stock price of Capella, as well as the stock prices of others in the for-profit industry fell in reaction to governmental announcements that signaled a likely change in the regulation of that industry. And such changes in the law, triggered by the government's dissatisfaction with the for-profit education industry as a whole, are too attenuated from any disclosure of allegedly material information that Defendants omitted.

C. Count II: The Section 20(a) Claim

[16] In Count II of the Complaint, Plaintiffs allege that the Individual Defendants were controlling persons of Capella, such that they are liable under Section 20(a) of the Exchange Act of 1934. (Doc. No. 41, ¶ 213.) Under Section 20(a) of the Exchange Act, "[e]very person who, directly or indirectly, controls any person liable" under Section 10(b) and Rule 10b–5 "shall also be liable jointly and severally with and to the same extent as such controlled person is liable." 15 U.S.C. § 78t. In other words, the statute generally subjects to liability "those who, subject to certain defenses, 'directly or indirectly' control a primary violator of the federal securities laws." Lustgraaf v. Behrens, 619 F.3d 867, 873 (8th Cir.2010). A claim under Section 20(a) for control person liability is thus derivative of a primary claim, that is, "[c]ontrol-person claims are predicated on plaintiffs first establishing that a controlled person was a primary violator." Cummings v. Paramount Partners, LP, 715 F.Supp.2d 880, 907 (D.Minn.2010); accord In re Hutchinson Technology, Inc. Sec. Litig., 536 F.3d 952, 957–58 (8th Cir.2008) ("[A] Section 20 claim is derivative and requires an underlying violation of the 1934 Act.").

Because this Court has concluded that Count I does not survive Defendants' motion to dismiss, Plaintiffs' Section 20(a) claim also fails.

D. Leave To Amend

Finally, Plaintiff seeks leave to amend the Complaint. (Doc. No. 53, at 46.) Granted, "dismissal under Rule 12(b)(6) generally is not immediately final or on the merits because the district court normally will give the plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint to see if the shortcomings of the original document can be corrected." 5B Charles Alan Wright & Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice and Procedure § 1357, at 733 (3d ed.2004). But this rule is based on the "policy of deciding cases on the basis of the substantive rights involved rather than on technicalities," such that the plaintiff should "be given every opportunity to cure a formal defect in the pleading." Id. at 738. The defect here, however, is not merely "formal" or "technical." Moreover, Plaintiff articulates no additional 1087 or different allegations or claims that it would make. In re NVE Corp. Sec. Litig., 527 F.3d 749, 752 (8th Cir.2008) (affirming dismissal with prejudice where "appellants have not articulated any changes they wish to make, much less demonstrated how revision would address the numerous pleading deficiencies identified by the district court"). The Court thus denies the request for leave to amend.

III. ORDER

Based on the foregoing, and all the files, records and proceedings herein, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

1. Defendants' motion to dismiss [Doc. No. 45] is GRANTED;

2. This action is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

LET JUDGMENT BE ENTERED ACCORDINGLY.

All Citations

873 F.Supp.2d 1070, Fed. Sec. L. Rep. P 96,902

Footnotes

1 The safe harbor permitted such compensation essentially as long as the incentives were "not based solely on the number of students recruited, admitted, enrolled, or awarded financial aid." 34 C.F.R. § 668.14(b)(22)(ii)(A).

2 The original Complaint was filed on November 5, 2010 by a different investor in Capella's stock. After the Oklahoma Firefighters Pension and Retirement System was named Lead Plaintiff, it filed the Amended Class Action Complaint.

3 The heightened pleading standards imposed by the PSLRA are confined to the two components of falsity and scienter and do not apply to the issues of materiality and loss causation. Gebhardt v. ConAgra Foods, Inc., 335 F.3d 824, 830 n. 3 (8th Cir.2003).

4 With respect to pleading misleading statements and omissions, "the complaint shall specify each statement alleged to have been misleading, the reason or reasons why the statement is misleading, and, if an allegation regarding the statement or omission is made on information and belief, the complaint shall state with particularity all facts on which that belief is formed." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(1). With respect to pleading the required state of mind, "the complaint shall, with respect to each act or omission alleged to violate this chapter, state with particularity facts giving rise to a strong inference that the defendant acted with the required state of mind." Id. § 78u–4(b)(2)(A).

5 Plaintiff identifies five groups of statements it alleges were false or misleading: (1) statements regarding Capella's 2Q09 financial results; (2) statements regarding Capella's 3Q09 financial results; (3) statements regarding Capella's 4Q09 and 2009 annual financial results; (4) statements regarding Capella's 1Q10 financial results; and (5) statements regarding Capella's 2Q10 financial results. With respect to each of the five groups of statements at issue, the Complaint explains that the statements were false or misleading because: (1) Capella's enrollment and revenue figures were inflated due to its recruiting and enrollment practices; (2) the statements failed to disclose as much, and those practices violated federal law, thereby jeopardizing Capella's ability to maintain its primary source of revenue, that is, student loans; (3) the same failures jeopardized its ability to remain an accredited institution; (4) Defendants' discussion of the factors purportedly behind Capella's success failed to disclose its enrollments were inflated due to the alleged practices at issue; (5) the figures Capella reported were overstated as a result of the failure to disclose student withdrawal rates; and / or (6) the statements failed to disclose Capella's 40% student loan repayment rate and the consequences under the proposed "gainful employment" regulations. (Doc. No. 41, ¶¶ 116, 129, 142, 151, & 162.) In effect, each of the five sets of statements shares the same alleged deficiency of omission.

6 Allegations that a securities fraud defendant engaged in unsavory or abusive practices, however reprehensible, does not necessarily provide a valid basis under the PSLRA for a valid claim of securities fraud. Although the Court does not condone such actions, it reiterates that such claims must be premised on a material misrepresentation to investors, that is, a false or misleading statement or omission that would have made a difference in a reasonable investor's decision to buy or sell the security.

7 The Complaint alleges that, in order to conceal from investors the increased number of early student withdrawals, Defendants improperly recognized revenues from tuition that it should have refunded, and that Defendants "may have" accounted for these revenues by making an allowance for bad debt expense. But as discussed above, Plaintiff's "bad debt expense" theory itself fails. See supra § II.B.1(a) (explaining that bad debt expenses were increasing before Gilligan took over in 2009).

8 Unlike the elements of material misrepresentations and scienter, which are subject to heightened pleadings standards imposed by the PSLRA, the pleading of loss causation is subject only to Rule 8(a)(2)'s requirement of a short and plain statement of the claim. Dura Pharmaceuticals, Inc. v. Broudo, 544 U.S. 336, 346, 125 S.Ct. 1627, 161 L.Ed.2d 577 (2005) (assuming "that neither the Rules nor the securities statutes impose any special further requirement in respect to the pleading of proximate causation or economic loss"). The PSLRA addresses loss causation, but simply provides that "the plaintiff shall have the burden of proving that the act or omission of the defendant alleged to violate this chapter caused the loss for which the plaintiff seeks to recover damages." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(4). Nonetheless, this requirement of pleading loss causation is still subject to the plausibility requirements imposed by Twombly and Iqbal.

9 The Court rejected the argument that a plaintiff may satisfy its loss-causation requirement simply by pleading that the stock price " 'on the date of purchase was inflated because of the misrepresentation.' " Id. at 338, 125 S.Ct. 1627. In a fraud-on-the-market case, "[a]n inflated purchase price will not itself constitute or proximately cause the relevant economic loss." Id. at 342, 125 S.Ct. 1627. Rather, a plaintiff must then show that revelation of the fraud "deflated" that price.

End of Document © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

KeyCite Yellow Flag - Negative Treatment
Declined to Follow by Smilovits v. First Solar Incorporated, D.Ariz., August 11, 2015

774 F.3d 598
United States Court of Appeals,
Ninth Circuit.

OREGON PUBLIC EMPLOYEES RETIREMENT FUND; Amalgamated Bank, as Trustee for the LongView LargeCap 500 Index Fund, the LongView LargeCap 500 Index Veba Fund, the LongView Quantitative LargeCap Fund, and the LongView Quantitative LargeCap Veba Fund; Mineworkers' Pension Scheme, Plaintiffs–Appellants, v.
APOLLO GROUP INCORPORATED; John Sperling; Gregory W. Cappelli; Charles B. Edelstein; Gregory J. Iverson; Joseph I. D'Amico; Brian L. Swartz; Brian E. Mueller; Peter V. Sperling; William J. Pepicello, Defendants–Appellees.

No. 12–16624.
|
Argued and Submitted Oct. 10, 2014.
|
Filed Dec. 16, 2014.

Synopsis

Background: In consolidated class action, plaintiffs representing class of investors that purchased stock in for-profit education company during class period alleged that company and its officers and directors violated § 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 by making false and misleading statements of material fact regarding company's enrollment and revenue growth, financial condition, organizational values, and business focus, that during class period certain individual defendants traded on inside information related to those statements, and that certain officers and directors were liable as controlling persons for misstatements and omissions of their supervisees. Defendants filed motion to dismiss amended complaint for failure to state a claim. The United States District Court for the District of Arizona, James A. Teilborg, J., 2012 WL 2376378, granted motion. Plaintiffs appealed.

Holdings: The Court of Appeals, Milan Dale Smith, Jr., Circuit Judge, held that:

[1] as matter of first impression, heightened pleading standards of federal civil rule governing fraud claims applied to all elements of securities fraud action, including loss causation;

[2] material misrepresentations alleged in three of four counts of amended complaint were not objectively false statements, but rather were examples of lawful "business puffing";

[3] plaintiffs also failed to adequately plead scienter or causation;

[4] plaintiffs did not show how company's accounting numbers regarding student revenue were incorrect or misstated;

[5] plaintiffs failed to state claim for insider trading because alleged nonpublic information to which defendants had access was the same information at issue in first four counts; and [6] plaintiffs could not establish control person liability.

Affirmed.

West Headnotes (15)

[1] Securities Regulation
Manipulative, Deceptive or Fraudulent Conduct

To plead claim under § 10(b) and Rule 10b-5, plaintiffs must allege (1) a material misrepresentation or omission, (2) scienter, (3) connection between misrepresentation or omission and purchase or sale of security, (4) reliance, (5) economic loss, and (6) loss causation. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

28 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Securities Regulation
Pleading

Securities fraud claims are not subject to notice pleading standards and must meet higher, exacting pleading standards of federal civil rule and Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA) which require that fraud claims be pled with particularity. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, §§ 10(b), 21D(b)(2)(A), 15 U.S.C.A. §§ 78j(b), 78u–4(b)(2)(A); Fed.Rules Civ.Proc. Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.; 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

11 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Federal Civil Procedure
Fraud, mistake and condition of mind

Federal civil rule requiring that fraud be pled with sufficient particularity applies to all elements of a securities fraud action, including loss causation. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.; 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

23 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Securities Regulation
Facts or opinions

In securities fraud action, court distinguishes puffing from misrepresentation; "puffing" concerns expressions of opinion, as opposed to knowingly false statements of fact, whereas statements by company that are capable of objective verification are not "puffery" and can constitute material misrepresentations. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

19 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Securities Regulation
Facts or opinions

Material misrepresentations alleged in three of four counts of amended securities fraud complaint against for-profit education company were not objectively false statements, but rather were examples of lawful "business puffing"; unlike accounting calculations or ignorance of rule violations, statements were subjective and preceded by qualifiers, such as "We believe." Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

7 Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Securities Regulation
Matters to Be Disclosed

Securities fraud complaint failed to state claim based on omissions theory, despite investors' arguments that for-profit education company failed to disclose to them that it recruited flawed students who were ultimately unable to pay tuition and allegedly hid fact that it had created incentive system for recruiters that made misconduct inevitable because the recruiters were focused on getting as many students as possible; investors knew that they were investing in institution whose business model relied on recruiting students for profit, public filings revealed that company was spending money every year on marketing which was used to advertise to and recruit students and made clear that company targeted individuals unable to attend traditional colleges and universities, and company also disclosed its enrollment numbers and withdrawal rates. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Securities Regulation
Scienter, Intent, Knowledge, Negligence or Recklessness

Securities fraud defendant who makes misrepresentations or omissions either intentionally or with deliberate recklessness acts with "scienter." Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b)(2)(A), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2)(A).

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

10 Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Where plaintiffs seek to hold individuals and company liable on securities fraud theory, court requires that plaintiffs allege scienter with respect to each of the individual defendants; however, it may impute scienter to individual defendants in some situations, e.g., where it finds that company's public statements are so important and so dramatically false that they would create a strong inference that at least some corporate officials knew of the falsity upon publication. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b)(2)(A), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2)(A); Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.; 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

10 Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Investors bringing securities fraud class action against for-profit education company and its officers and directors did not adequately plead scienter, as they did not allege sufficient facts to establish claim that defendants either did not know or were consciously reckless of their deceptive student recruitment practices; they relied on statements by various anonymous employees and executives who suggested that they personally witnessed faulty recruiting or attended meetings where company representatives discussed marketing to unfit students, they did not provide specificity about those meetings or discuss what made students unfit, instead relying on generalizations about groups of people who were supposedly unreliable, and at best their allegations revealed isolated instances of faulty recruitment rather than widespread deception. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Securities Regulation
Causation;existence of injury

To prove loss causation, securities fraud plaintiffs must demonstrate causal connection between deceptive acts that form basis for claim of securities fraud and injury suffered by them. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

20 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Securities Regulation
Pleading

Investors bringing securities fraud class action against for-profit education company and its officers and directors failed to adequately plead loss causation, even under notice pleading standard rather than heightened pleading standard for fraud claims; company's disclosure in press release that review by Department of Education (DOE) had "expressed a concern that some students enroll and begin attending classes before completely understanding the implications of enrollment, including their eligibility for student financial aid" was insufficient, as was Government Accountability Office (GAO)-issued report that focused on for-profit education industry as whole and purportedly "revealed a systemic practice of manipulative and deceptive recruitment practices within industry." where investors did not specify which of defendants' statements were made untrue by GAO report. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5; Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rules 8(a), 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Securities Regulation

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Financial or periodic reports;accounting data and valuations

Investors bringing securities fraud class action against for-profit education company and its officers and directors did not plausibly establish fraudulent misstatement or omission in violation of § 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 where they alleged that, by publicly counting tuition expected from Title IV students as part of its revenue, company made misstatements and omissions about company's financial condition and overstated tuition revenues and receivables attributable to students. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Higher Education Act of 1965, § 400 et seq., 20 U.S.C.A. § 1070 et seq.; 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

Cases that cite this headnote

[13] Securities Regulation

Financial or periodic reports;accounting data and valuations

Although overstatement of revenues in violation of generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) may support claim of securities fraud, plaintiff must show with particularity how the adjustments affected the company's financial statements and whether they were material in light of the company's overall financial position. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Securities Regulation

Corporate officers or directors;insiders

Investors in for-profit education company failed to adequately allege that certain officers and directors sold company stock while in possession of material, nonpublic information, as required to state plausible claim for insider trading; alleged nonpublic information to which they had access was the same information at issue in other claims, namely that company's public filings contained statements that were false and misleading. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, §§ 10(b), 20A, 15 U.S.C.A. §§ 78j(b), 78t–1; 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[15] Securities Regulation

In general;control persons

Investors could not establish control person liability of individual defendants where they had not adequately alleged violations of § 10(b) and Rule 10b-5. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, §§ 10(b), 20(a), 15 U.S.C.A. §§ 78j(b), 78t(a); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

602 Stuart M. Grant (argued), Grant & Eisenhofer P.A., Wilmington, DE, for Plaintiffs–Appellants.

Linda T. Coberly (argued), William P. Ferranti, and Benjamin L. Ellison, Winston & Strawn LLP, Chicago, IL; David B. Rosenbaum, Osborn Maledon, P.A., Phoenix, AZ, for Defendants–Appellees.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the District of Arizona, James A. Teilborg, District Judge, Presiding. D.C. No. 2:10–cv–01735–JAT.

Before: J. CLIFFORD WALLACE, BARRY G. SILVERMAN, and MILAN D. SMITH, JR., Circuit Judges.

OPINION

M. SMITH, Circuit Judge:

In this consolidated class action, the Plaintiffs–Appellants (Plaintiffs) represent a class of investors that purchased stock in Apollo Group Inc., between May 21, 2007 and October 13, 2010 (the Class Period). The Plaintiffs allege that the Defendants–Appellees (Defendants), Apollo, a for-profit education company, and Apollo officers and directors, violated section 10(b) of the Securities and Exchange Act and SEC Rule 10b–5. According to the Plaintiffs, the Defendants made false and misleading statements of material fact regarding Apollo's enrollment and revenue growth, financial condition, organizational values, and business focus. The Plaintiffs also allege that, during the Class Period, certain individual Defendants traded on inside information related to the false and misleading statements of material fact. Finally, the Plaintiffs allege that certain officers and directors of Apollo are liable as controlling persons for the misstatements and omissions of their supervisees. The district court dismissed the Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint for failure to state a claim under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6). We affirm the decision of the district court for four reasons.

First, the material misrepresentations the Plaintiffs alleged in Counts I, III, and IV of the Amended Complaint are not objectively false misstatements, but are examples of lawful "business puffing." Even if the Plaintiffs adequately alleged a misstatement or omission, they did not adequately plead scienter or loss causation, both of which are independent bases on which to affirm the district court's decision.

Second, Count II contains largely conclusory allegations that Apollo improperly recorded student revenue. The Plaintiffs do not show how Apollo's accounting numbers were incorrect or misstated. Apollo also disclosed to its investors information concerning the collection of revenue and tuition, which negates the Plaintiffs' misstatement and omission theory.

Third, the Plaintiffs' allegations that the Defendants are guilty of insider trading fail to state a claim because the alleged non-public information to which the Defendants had access is the same information at issue in Counts I, II, III, and IV of the Amended Complaint.

Fourth, the Plaintiffs cannot establish control person liability because their control person claim relies on the faulty allegations made in the other counts.

FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

Defendant Apollo Group Inc. is an Arizona-based company that owns and operates postsecondary education institutions, and is one of the largest private education providers in the United States. The majority of Apollo's revenue comes from its *603 subsidiary, the University of Phoenix. The remaining Defendants are individuals who served as Apollo officers and directors during the Class Period, between May 21, 2007 and October 13, 2010. The Plaintiffs represent a class of investors who purchased Apollo stock during the Class Period.

Counts I, II, III, and IV of the Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint allege that, during the Class Period, the Defendants made materially false and misleading statements concerning Apollo's (1) enrollment and revenue growth, (2) financial condition, (3) organizational values, and (4) business focus in violation of section 10(b) of the Securities and Exchange Act and SEC Rule 10b–5. These alleged misstatements appeared in Apollo's filings with the SEC, press releases, and conference calls and interviews. The Plaintiffs also allege that the Defendants failed to disclose material facts necessary to make the statements not misleading.

In Counts V and VII of their Amended Complaint, the Plaintiffs allege that individual Defendants John Sperling, Peter Sperling, Joseph D'Amico, and William Pepicello committed insider trading by trading on non-public information related to the allegedly false and misleading disclosures that Apollo made to its investors.

Finally, in Count VI, the Plaintiffs allege that, during the Class Period, Defendants John Sperling, Peter Sperling, Joseph D'Amico, Gregory Capelli, Charles Edelstein, Brian Swartz, Brian Mueller, and Gregory Iverson violated section 20(a) of the Securities and Exchange Act because each was a controlling person who had direct and supervisory involvement in the daily operations of Apollo. As controlling persons, they would be jointly and severally liable for violations of section 10(b) of the Securities and Exchange Act and Rule 10b–5.

After allowing the Plaintiffs to amend their initial complaint, the district court dismissed the Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) for failure to state a claim. The Plaintiffs subsequently filed this timely appeal.

JURISDICTION AND STANDARD OF REVIEW

We have subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to Section 27 of the Securities and Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. § 78aa(a), and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1337(a). We have jurisdiction over this appeal pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1291.

We review de novo the district court's dismissal of the Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) and accept all factual allegations in the Amended Complaint as true. N.M. State Inv. Council v. Ernst & Young LLP, 641 F.3d 1089, 1094 (9th Cir.2011).

DISCUSSION

I. Legal Standard

[1] To plead a claim under section 10(b) and Rule 10b–5, the Plaintiffs must allege: (1) a material misrepresentation or omission; (2) scienter; (3) a connection between the misrepresentation or omission and the purchase or sale of a security; (4) reliance; (5) economic loss; and (6) loss causation. Stoneridge Inv. Partners, LLC v. Scientific–Atlanta, Inc., 552 U.S. 148, 157, 128 S.Ct. 761, 169 L.Ed.2d 627 (2008).

A. PSLRA and Rule 9(b)

[2] The Plaintiffs incorrectly argue that each of the six elements of their 10(b) claims is subject to the pleading standards of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a)(2), which requires that "a complaint [ ] contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, 604 to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.' " Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007)). Securities fraud class actions must meet the higher, exacting pleading standards of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 9(b) and the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA). See Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 313–14, 127 S.Ct. 2499, 168 L.Ed.2d 179 (2007). Rule 9(b) requires that "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake." Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b).

The PSLRA requires that "the complaint shall, with respect to each act or omission ..., state with particularity facts giving rise to a strong inference that the defendant acted with the required state of mind." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(2)(A). The PSLRA also requires that "the complaint shall specify each statement alleged to have been misleading, the reason or reasons why the statement is misleading, and, if an allegation regarding the statement or omission is made on information and belief, the complaint shall state with particularity all facts on which that belief is formed." Id. at § 78u–4(b)(1)(B).

B. Pleading Standard for Loss Causation

Although it is clear that Rule 9(b) and the PSLRA apply to almost all elements of a securities fraud action, the law is less clear about the pleading standard that applies to the loss causation element. In Dura Pharmaceuticals, Inc. v. Broudo, the Supreme Court suggested that Rule 8's "short and plain statement" might apply: "we assume, at least for argument's sake, that neither the Rules nor the securities statutes impose any special further requirement in respect to the pleading of proximate causation or economic loss." 544 U.S. 336, 346, 125 S.Ct. 1627, 161 L.Ed.2d 577 (2005).

After Dura, we have applied a plausibility standard to loss causation, which avoids the question of whether the Rule 8(a) or Rule 9(b) pleading standard applies. See WPP Luxembourg Gamma Three Sarl v. Spot Runner, Inc., 655 F.3d 1039, 1053 (9th Cir.2011) ("It is unclear in this Circuit whether Rule 9(b)'s heightened pleading standard or whether Rule 8(a)(2)'s 'short and plain' statement applies to allegations of loss causation."); In re Gilead Sciences Sec. Litig., 536 F.3d 1049, 1057 (9th Cir.2008) ("So long as the complaint alleges facts that, if taken as true, plausibly establish loss causation, a Rule 12(b)(6) dismissal is inappropriate."). At times, we have applied both Rule 8(a) and 9(b) standards to allegations of loss causation, finding that plaintiffs meet both standards. See Berson v. Applied Signal Tech., Inc., 527 F.3d 982, 989–90 (9th Cir.2008).

Some of our sister circuits have suggested that heightened pleading standards apply to loss causation. See Katyle v. Penn Nat'l Gaming, Inc., 637 F.3d 462, 471 (4th Cir.2011) ("We review allegations of loss causation for 'sufficient specificity,' a standard largely consonant with Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b)'s requirement that averments of fraud be pled with particularity."); Tricontinental Indus., Ltd. v. PricewaterhouseCoopers, LLP, 475 F.3d 824, 842 (7th Cir.2007) ("To plead loss causation, the plaintiff must allege that it was the very facts about which the defendant lied which caused its injuries."). The Second Circuit applies a different, but heightened, two-part test for loss causation, requiring that plaintiffs show that the loss was both foreseeable and caused by the materialization of the risk concealed by the fraudulent statement. See ATSI Commc'ns, Inc. v. 605 Shaar Fund, Ltd., 493 F.3d 87, 107 (2d Cir.2007). At least one district court in the Sixth Circuit has suggested that heightened pleading requirements apply to loss causation. See Fla. Carpenters Reg'l Council Pension Plan v. Eaton Corp., 964 F.Supp.2d 875, 891 (N.D.Ohio 2013). The First Circuit, like our court, has only stated that it is unclear whether a plaintiff has to plead loss causation under Rule 8(a) or 9(b). See Mass. Ret. Sys. v. CVS Caremark Corp., 716 F.3d 229, 239 n. 6 (1st Cir.2013).

Other circuits have suggested that heightened pleading standards do not apply to loss causation. The Fifth Circuit has concluded that Rule 8(a) applies. See Lormand v. U.S. Unwired, Inc., 565 F.3d 228, 258 (5th Cir.2009). At least one court in the Third Circuit agrees with this approach. See Nat'l Junior Baseball League v. Pharmanet Dev. Grp. Inc., 720 F.Supp.2d 517, 558 (D.N.J.2010).

[3] We are persuaded by the approach adopted in the Fourth Circuit and hold today that Rule 9(b) applies to all elements of a securities fraud action, including loss causation. This approach is appropriate for at least three reasons.

First, the law on securities fraud is derived from common-law fraud. As the Supreme Court has noted, "the case law developed in this Court with respect to § 10(b) and Rule 10b–5 has been based on doctrines with which we, as judges, are familiar: common-law doctrines of fraud and deceit." Basic Inc. v. Levinson, 485 U.S. 224, 253, 108 S.Ct. 978, 99 L.Ed.2d 194 (1988). The requirement of loss causation, in particular, is founded on the common law of fraud and deceit. Dura, 544 U.S. at 343–44, 125 S.Ct. 1627 ("the common law has long insisted that a plaintiff in [a fraud or deceit] case show not only that had he known the truth he would not have acted but also that he suffered actual economic loss."). Since Rule 9(b) applies to all circumstances of common-law fraud, Salameh v. Tarsadia Hotel, 726 F.3d 1124, 1133 (9th Cir.2013) cert. denied, —— U.S. ——, 134 S.Ct. 1322, 188 L.Ed.2d 306 (2014), and since securities fraud is derived from common law fraud, it makes sense to apply the same pleading standard to all circumstances of securities fraud.

Second, Rule 9(b) clearly states that "[i]n alleging fraud or mistake, a party must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake." Securities fraud encompasses six elements, including loss causation. Dura, 544 U.S. at 341–42, 125 S.Ct. 1627. Loss causation is part of the "circumstances" constituting fraud because, without it, a claim of securities fraud does not exist.

Third, our approach creates a consistent standard through which to assess pleadings in 10(b) actions, rather than the piecemeal standard adopted by some courts.

Accordingly, we hold that Rule 9(b) governs the Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint. However, the Plaintiffs' claims fail even if the less stringent Rule 8(a) standard applied.

II. Counts I, III, and IV

We first address Counts I, III, and IV of the Amended Complaint.[1] The Plaintiffs allege that the Defendants made false and misleading statements concerning Apollo's 606 enrollment, revenue growth, business model, and recruitment of students. The Plaintiffs allege that Apollo grew largely as a result of unethical recruitment of unqualified students, in contrast to Apollo's disclosures and public filings, and did not disclose their unsavory practices to investors.

A. Material Misstatement

[4] The Plaintiffs fail to state a claim because the material misrepresentations the Plaintiffs allege are not objectively false statements. We distinguish "puffing" from misrepresentation. "Puffing" concerns expressions of opinion, as opposed to knowingly false statements of fact: "When valuing corporations,[ ] investors do not rely on vague statements of optimism like 'good,' 'well-regarded,' or other feel good monikers. This mildly optimistic, subjective assessment hardly amounts to a securities violation." In re Cutera Sec. Litig., 610 F.3d 1103, 1111 (9th Cir.2010). Statements by a company that are capable of objective verification are not "puffery" and can constitute material misrepresentations. See SEC v. Todd, 642 F.3d 1207, 1216–17 (9th Cir.2011) (finding that a defendant's accounting calculation of the financial impact of a transaction was objective and a material misrepresentation).

[5] The statements the Plaintiffs allege Apollo made are inherently subjective "puffing" and would not induce the reliance of a reasonable investor. The Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint cites several alleged statements made by Apollo, but we analyze a few illustrative examples here. In each of its Form 10–K filings between 2006 and 2008, Apollo stated that "[w]e believe that our track record for enrollment and revenue growth is attributable to our offering comprehensive services combining quality educational content, teaching resources and customer service with formats that are accessible and easy to use for students as well as our corporate clients." In several of its 10–K and 10–Q filings between 2006 and 2008, Apollo described enrollment and revenue growth as "significant events." These statements are vague and do not set out with specificity the reasons for its enrollment and revenue growth. We concluded that the statement "all the advantages only the nation's largest wireless company can provide" was vague and provided nothing concrete upon which a plaintiff could reasonably rely. Shroyer v. New Cingular Wireless Servs., Inc., 622 F.3d 1035, 1042–43 (9th Cir.2010). Much like the defendant in New Cingular, who only used the general term "advantages" in its description, Apollo's use of general terms like "educational content" and "teaching resources" "provided nothing concrete upon which [the Plaintiffs] could rely." Id. at 1043. See also Glen Holly Entm't, Inc. v. Tektronix, Inc., 343 F.3d 1000, 1015 (9th Cir.2003) (affirming dismissal of fraud claim that was based on defendants' alleged promise that development was a "high priority").

The cases cited by the Plaintiffs are inapposite because they consider statements that can be true or false on an objective standard, rather than business puffery or opinion. In SEC v. Todd, we considered an objective misstatement, where a defendant publicly reported an incorrect amount for the accounting impact of a transaction. 642 F.3d at 1217–18. In *Freudenberg v. E*Trade Financial Corporation*, the Southern District of New York considered financial statements that clearly understated net income and loss reserves as well as the quality of mortgage loans. 712 F.Supp.2d 171, 178, 182 (S.D.N.Y.2010). In re Van der Moolen Holding N.V. Securities Litigation dealt with a company that did not disclose that 607 its revenue had been generated by unlawful trading practices, even though it had knowledge that its employees were violating rules of the New York Stock Exchange. 405 F.Supp.2d 388, 400–401 (S.D.N.Y.2005). Unlike accounting calculations or ignorance of rule violations, the statements by Apollo were subjective and preceded by qualifiers, such as "We believe."

B. Omission

[6] According to the Plaintiffs, Apollo failed to disclose to investors that it recruited flawed students, who were ultimately unable to pay tuition. Apollo also allegedly hid the fact that it had created an incentive system for recruiters that made misconduct inevitable because the recruiters were focused on getting as many students as possible.

The Plaintiffs' omissions theory fails to state a claim because the Defendants clearly disclosed material information to investors. See Desai v. Deutsche Bank Secs. Ltd., 573 F.3d 931, 939 (9th Cir.2009) ("As for omissions, the term generally refers to the failure to disclose material information about a company, as opposed to affirmative manipulation."). Investors knew that they were investing in Apollo and its University of Phoenix program, an institution whose business model relied on recruiting students for profit. Public filings, readily available to Apollo's investors, revealed that Apollo was spending money every year on marketing, which was used to advertise to and recruit students for the University of Phoenix. Apollo's public filings made clear that it targeted individuals unable to attend traditional colleges and universities. Apollo also disclosed its enrollment numbers and withdrawal rates.

C. Scienter

We can affirm the dismissal of Plaintiffs' claims in Count I, III, and IV of the Amended Complaint based solely on the Plaintiffs' failure to allege specific facts to show a material misstatement or omission. Even if the Plaintiffs had adequately alleged a claim on misstatement or omission grounds, however, they did not adequately plead scienter. This is an independent basis on which to affirm the district court's decision.

[7] A defendant who makes misrepresentations or omissions "either intentionally or with deliberate recklessness" acts with scienter. In re Daou Sys., Inc., 411 F.3d 1006, 1015 (9th Cir.2005).

> Under Tellabs and Ninth Circuit law, we conduct a two-part inquiry to determine whether scienter has been adequately pled: first, we determine whether any of the allegations, standing alone, are sufficient to create a strong inference of scienter; second, if no individual > allegation is sufficient, we conduct a 'holistic' review of the same allegations to determine whether the insufficient allegations combine to create a strong inference of intentional conduct or deliberate recklessness.

N.M. State Inv. Council v. Ernst & Young LLP, 641 F.3d 1089, 1095 (9th Cir.2011) (internal citations omitted).

[8] Where, as here, the Plaintiffs seek to hold individuals and a company liable on a securities fraud theory, we require that the Plaintiffs allege scienter with respect to each of the individual defendants. See Glazer Capital Mgmt., LP v. Magistri, 549 F.3d 736, 743–44 (9th Cir.2008). We may, however, impute scienter to individual defendants in some situations, for example, where we find that "a company's public statements [are] so important and so dramatically false that they would create a strong inference that at least some corporate 608 officials knew of the falsity upon publication." Id. at 744.

[9] Employing a holistic review, we conclude that the Plaintiffs do not allege sufficient facts to establish a claim that the Defendants either did not know or were consciously reckless of their deceptive recruitment practices. The Plaintiffs rely on statements by various anonymous employees and executives who suggest that they personally witnessed faulty recruiting or attended meetings where Apollo representatives discussed marketing to unfit students. The Plaintiffs do not provide specificity about these meetings and do not discuss what made students unfit. Instead, the Plaintiffs rely on generalizations about groups of people, such as the homeless or veterans, who were supposedly unreliable students. At best, the Plaintiffs' allegations reveal isolated instances of faulty recruitment, rather than widespread deception, which would be necessary to establish fraudulent intent or reckless ignorance based on a holistic analysis. See N.M. State, 641 F.3d at 1095. The Plaintiffs' statements also do not sufficiently allege the individual Defendants acted with scienter.

D. Loss Causation

[10] "To prove loss causation, [the Plaintiffs] must demonstrate a causal connection between the deceptive acts that form the basis for the claim of securities fraud and the injury suffered by the [Plaintiffs]." Ambassador Hotel Co., Ltd. v. Wei–Chuan Inv., 189 F.3d 1017, 1027 (9th Cir.1999).

[11] The Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint fails, whether we apply Rule 8(a) or Rule 9(b). The Plaintiffs do not allege specific statements made by the Defendants that were made untrue or called into question by subsequent public disclosures. Although the Plaintiffs point to several public disclosures, we analyze a few illustrative examples below. On January 7, 2010, Apollo disclosed in a press release that a review by the Department of Education had "expressed a concern that some students enroll and begin attending classes before completely understanding the implications of enrollment, including their eligibility for student financial aid." It is unclear what claims made by the Defendants were invalidated by this statement. An expression of concern, moreover, does not constitute a corrective disclosure and a public admission of Apollo's alleged fraud. In similar circumstances, we recently held that a company's announcement of an internal investigation, by itself, does not "reveal fraudulent practices to the market" and therefore is insufficient to establish loss causation. See Loos v. Immersion Corp., 762 F.3d 880, 890 (9th Cir.2014).

Similarly, the Plaintiffs claim that, in the beginning of August 2010, the Government Accountability Office issued a report that discussed for-profit education and conduct by Apollo schools. The GAO report purportedly "revealed a systemic practice of manipulative and deceptive recruitment practices within Apollo's industry." This report focused on the for-profit education industry as a whole, rather than Apollo and the University of Phoenix. The Plaintiffs do not specify which of the Defendants' statements were made untrue by the GAO report. As a result, the Plaintiffs have not adequately alleged that there was a causal connection between the public information contained in the GAO Report and subsequent market activity.

While their appeal was pending, the Plaintiffs submitted a First Circuit case, Massachusetts Retirement System v. CVS Caremark Corporation, as supplementary authority for their loss causation claim. 716 F.3d 229 (1st Cir.2013). In CVS Caremark, investors on a conference call with a 609 high-level CVS executive asked him about the integration of CVS and Caremark after a merger. The executive disclosed that the company had lost a major contract as a result of "service issues" and that the company was facing challenges after the merger. Id. at 235. The First Circuit concluded that the disclosure by the executive was sufficient to establish loss causation, especially where analysts had already expressed concerns about CVS' ability to integrate Caremark. Unlike the present case, CVS Caremark involved a specific statement made by a high-level executive about the exact fact that had been misrepresented in the past, the successful integration of the two companies. CVS Caremark does not help the Plaintiffs plead a loss causation claim.

III. Count II

[12] In Count II of the Amended Complaint, the Plaintiffs allege the Defendants made misstatements and omissions about Apollo's financial condition and overstated tuition revenues and receivables attributable to students. The Plaintiffs allege that, by publicly counting tuition expected from Title IV students as part of its revenue, Apollo made fraudulent misstatements and omissions in violation of Section 10(b) and Rule 10b–5.

Because the Plaintiffs' allegations do not plausibly establish a misstatement or omission, we hold that the district court correctly dismissed Count II of the Amended Complaint. See Stoneridge Inv. Partners, LLC v. Scientific–Atlanta, 552 U.S. 148, 157–58, 128 S.Ct. 761, 169 L.Ed.2d 627 (2008). The Plaintiffs' allegations in Count II also do not establish scienter and loss causation, which are independent bases on which to dismiss the Plaintiffs' claims. We do not address those requirements here because the factual analysis is similar to that contained in Part II of this opinion.

A. Misstatement and Omission

[13] The Plaintiffs do not allege a misstatement related to Apollo's accounting of Title IV funds. Businesses have some discretion in making accounting estimates. "Generally accepted accounting principles [ ] tolerate a range of reasonable treatments, leaving the choice among alternatives to management." Thor Power Tool Co. v. C.I.R., 439 U.S. 522, 544, 99 S.Ct. 773, 58 L.Ed.2d 785 (1979) (internal quotation marks omitted). "The case law indicates, therefore, that although overstatement of revenues in violation of GAAP may support a plaintiff's claim of fraud, the plaintiff must show with particularity how the adjustments affected the company's financial statements and whether they were material in light of the company's overall financial position." In re Daou Sys., Inc., 411 F.3d 1006, 1018 (9th Cir.2005).

On the one hand, the Plaintiffs do show that many of Apollo's students were funded by Title IV of the Higher Education Act and that, when students left the University, Apollo was required by law to return to the federal government Title IV funds. However, Apollo retained discretion to set its refund policy and made no fraudulent representations regarding its accounting. See United States Department of Education and Federal Student Aid Handbook, Vol. 5, at 5–3 (2012) ("The Return of Title IV Funds (Return) regulations do not dictate an institutional refund policy."). Although students may not have been able to pay the remainder of their tuition out-of-pocket, under the federal guidelines in place at the time, Apollo could charge for the remaining tuition owed by the student. Id. Apollo, in turn, could use the expected tuition revenue from withdrawn students as part of its accounting. Apollo did not make a misrepresentation 610 by including this revenue in its public filings.

The Plaintiffs' allegations also do not establish an omission theory. Apollo disclosed to its investors the difficulty of collecting tuition from withdrawn students. In 2006, Apollo publicly stated that "[m]anagement is committed to remediating the control deficiencies that constitute the material weaknesses described herein by implementing changes to our internal control over financial reporting." Apollo's financial statements for the Class Period included increasing amounts of bad debt reserves to take into account the challenges of collecting revenue from withdrawn students. Apollo disclosed that increases in its bad debt expense were partially attributable to uncollectible student tuition. The Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint admits that "Apollo eventually recorded allowances for doubtful accounts with respect to its receivables from withdrawn students." Accordingly, the Plaintiffs do not adequately allege the specific errors made by the Defendants in accounting, and therefore, the district court correctly dismissed this claim.

IV. Counts V and VII

[14] The Plaintiffs also argue that certain individual Defendants sold Apollo stock while in possession of material, non-public information in violation of sections 10(b) and 20A of the Securities and Exchange Act and SEC Rule 10b–5.

The alleged material, non-public information is the same information at issue in the Exchange Act claims, namely that Apollo's public filings contained statements that were false and misleading. We hold that the Plaintiffs have not adequately alleged that the Defendants made misstatements or omissions. Therefore, the Plaintiffs have not adequately alleged that the Defendants were in possession of material, non-public information.

V. Count VI

[15] Count VI of the Amended Complaint alleges that certain individual Defendants violated section 20(a) of the Exchange Act because they were controlling persons who had direct and supervisory involvement in day-to-day operations of Apollo. As controlling persons, the individual Defendants would be jointly and severally liable for the institution's violations of the Securities and Exchange Act.

We hold that the Plaintiffs cannot establish control person liability because they have not adequately alleged violations of section 10(b) and Rule 10b–5.

VI. Conclusion

The district court properly dismissed the Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint for failure to state a claim. The Plaintiffs do not state enough specific facts to plausibly allege that the Defendants violated Securities and Exchange Act 10(b) and SEC Rule 10b–5. We affirm the decision of the district court. All outstanding motions filed by Plaintiffs–Appellants and Defendants–Appellees are denied. Each party shall bear its own costs on appeal.

AFFIRMED.

All Citations

774 F.3d 598, Fed. Sec. L. Rep. P 98,323, 90 Fed.R.Serv.3d 632, 14 Cal. Daily Op. Serv. 13,926, 2014 Daily Journal D.A.R. 16,578

Footnotes

1 The Plaintiffs' allegations in Counts I, III, and IV of the Amended Complaint allege similar legal theories and cover the same factual matter. This Opinion treats the allegations together. For example, the Plaintiffs' business ethics claim, Count IV, alleges misstatements concerning Apollo's "student recruitment practice" and its organizational values. Count I also contains allegations related to Apollo's business and recruitment model.

End of Document © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

KeyCite Yellow Flag - Negative Treatment
Declined to Extend by Lomingkit v. Apollo Education Group Incorporated, D.Ariz., February 16, 2017

859 F.Supp.2d 572
United States District Court,
S.D. New York.

In re ITT EDUCATIONAL SERVICES, INC. SECURITIES AND SHAREHOLDER DERIVATIVES LITIGATION.

No. 10 Civ. 8323(VM).
|
May 4, 2012.

Synopsis

Background: Investors brought putative securities fraud class action against private for-profit college and its officers alleging defendants had misled investors through a series of calculated statements attributing college's positive financial performance to legitimate business practices when, instead, success was a result of school's predatory business model. Defendants moved to dismiss.

Holdings: The District Court, Victor Marrero, J., held that:

[1] allegations of fraudulent statements regarding college's enrollment growth and revenue were not pled with particularity;

[2] federal securities laws imposed no general duty on college to disclose corporate mismanagement or uncharged criminal conduct;

[3] college's alleged overestimates on placement rates were not material to investment decisions; and [4] statements regarding student focus and admission standards were mere puffery.

Motion granted.

West Headnotes (11)

[1] Federal Civil Procedure
Fraud, mistake and condition of mind

Plaintiff claiming fraud, including securities fraud and common law fraud, must satisfy the heightened pleading requirements of federal rule by stating with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Securities Regulation
Misrepresentation

A complaint alleging securities fraud must meet requirements of PSLRA by specifying each statement alleged to have been misleading, the reason or reasons why the statement is misleading, and, if an allegation regarding the statement or omission is based on information or belief, the particularity of all facts on which that belief is formed. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5; Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b).

6 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Securities Regulation
Manipulative, Deceptive or Fraudulent Conduct

To state a claim under Rule 10b–5 for misrepresentations, a plaintiff must allege that defendant: (1) made misstatements or omissions of material fact, (2) with scienter, (3) in connection with the purchase or sale of securities, (4) upon which the plaintiff relied, and (5) that plaintiff's reliance was the proximate cause of its injury. 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Securities Regulation

Misrepresentation

To satisfy federal rule for pleading fraud and PSLRA pleading requirements, a securities fraud complaint based on misstatements must: (1) specify statements that plaintiff contends were fraudulent; (2) identify the speaker; (3) state where and when the statements were made; and (4) explain why the statements were fraudulent. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.; Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5; Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b).

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Securities Regulation

Duty to Disclose or Refrain from Trading

Although Rule 10b–5 imposes no duty to disclose all material, nonpublic information, once a party chooses to speak, it has a duty to be both accurate and complete. 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Securities Regulation

Pleading

Vague and disorganized allegations of fraud, no matter how voluminous, do not satisfy requirements of pleading fraud under PSLRA. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b).

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Securities Regulation

Misrepresentation

Investors' allegations that private for-profit college made misleading statements regarding its enrollment growth and revenue failed to plead fraud with particularity required by federal rule or PSLRA; although investors alleged that college had failed to disclose that the true reasons behind its financial performance were results of predatory quota system for recruiters and its hyper-aggressive sales tactics, investors failed to demonstrate that college's original statement regarding its financial success based on expanding student enrollment, graduate placement rates, and focus on student outcomes was false. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5; Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Securities Regulation

Matters to Be Disclosed

Private for-profit college was under no duty to disclose to its investors its allegedly hyper-aggressive sales tactics and quota system or to characterize its business model and educational programs in a pejorative manner, since federal securities laws imposed no general duty to disclose corporate mismanagement or uncharged criminal conduct. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Securities Regulation

Materiality of violation

Even if private for-profit college stretched its publicly reported graduate employment placement rates by counting graduates employed for only one day, as well as graduates employed in fields unrelated to the programs they had completed, there was no indication that such statements were material to investors so as to significantly alter the total mix of information made available, as required to prove securities fraud. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.; 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5; Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

[10] Securities Regulation
Facts or opinions

Statements that private for-profit college made to its investors regarding its focus on student outcomes, admission standards, and high quality career-based instruction were typical corporate puffery, and thus as such, even if misleading, were not actionable under federal securities laws. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5; Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Securities Regulation
Misrepresentation

For-profit college's statements to investors regarding its commitment to legal compliance, particularly with respect to federal Title IV student eligibility and funding, did not violate federal securities laws as false or misleading, since there was no indication that the college had ever experienced widespread problems of noncompliance throughout its campuses or programs. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5; Higher Education Act of 1965, § 490(a), 20 U.S.C.A. § 1097(a).

2 Cases that cite this headnote

*574 DECISION AND ORDER

VICTOR MARRERO, District Judge.

This matter is before the Court on the Motion to Dismiss (the "Motion") (Docket No. 43) Plaintiff's Corrected Consolidated Class Action Complaint (the "Complaint" or "Compl.") (Docket No. 36) filed by defendants Kevin M. Modany ("Modany"), Daniel M. Fitzpatrick ("Fitzpatrick," with Modany, the "Individual Defendants"), and ITT Educational Services, Inc. ("ESI", collectively, the "Defendants"). [1]

Wyoming Retirement System ("Plaintiff") is the lead plaintiff in a putative federal securities class action suit brought pursuit to §§ 10(b) and 20(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. §§ 78j(b) & 78t(a), and Securities Exchange Commission ("SEC") Rule 10b5 ("Rule 10b–5") promulgated thereunder, 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5. Defendant ESI is a private for-profit college system with a focus on technology-oriented education. Modany and Fitzpatrick are ESI's Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, respectively. Defendants move to dismiss the Complaint on the ground that it fails to meet the heightened pleading requirements of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act ("PSLRA"), 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b).

By Order dated March 30, 2012, the Court preliminarily granted Defendant's motion to dismiss, for which the Court now sets forth its findings, reasoning, and conclusions.

I. LEGAL STANDARD

"To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.' " Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 1949, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007)). This standard is met "when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Id. A court should not dismiss a complaint for failure to state a claim if the factual allegations sufficiently "raise a right to relief above the speculative level." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555, 127 S.Ct. 1955. The task of the court in ruling on a motion to dismiss is to "assess the legal feasibility of the complaint, not to assay the weight of the evidence which might be offered in support thereof." In re Initial Pub. Offering Sec. Litig., 383 F.Supp.2d 566, 574 (S.D.N.Y.2005) (internal quotation marks omitted). The court must accept all well-pleaded factual allegations in the complaint as true, and draw all reasonable inferences in the plaintiff's favor. See Chambers v. Time Warner, Inc., 282 F.3d 147, 152 (2d Cir.2002).

ED-17-0431-A-004808

[1] [2] Plaintiffs claiming fraud, including securities fraud and common law fraud, must satisfy the heightened pleading requirements of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 9(b) ("Rule 9(b)") by "stat[ing] with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud." Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b); see ATSI Communications, Inc. v. Shaar Fund, Ltd., 493 F.3d 87, 99 (2d Cir.2007). A complaint alleging securities fraud must also meet the requirements of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act ("PSLRA"), 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b), which requires that a complaint "specify each statement alleged to have been misleading, the reason or reasons why the statement is 575 misleading, and, if an allegation regarding the statement or omission is based on information or belief, the complaint shall state with particularity all facts on which that belief is formed." Id.

[3] "To state a claim under Rule 10b–5 for misrepresentations, a plaintiff must allege that the defendant (1) made misstatements or omissions of material fact, (2) with scienter, (3) in connection with the purchase or sale of securities, (4) upon which the plaintiff relied, and (5) that the plaintiff's reliance was the proximate cause of its injury." ATSI, 493 F.3d at 105.

[4] [5] In order to satisfy Rule 9(b) and PSLRA pleading requirements, "[a] securities fraud complaint based on misstatements must (1) specify the statements that the plaintiff contends were fraudulent, (2) identify the speaker, (3) state where and when the statements were made, and (4) explain why the statements were fraudulent." Id. at 99. An omission is actionable "only when the [defendant] is subject to a duty to disclose the omitted facts." In re Time Warner Inc. Sec. Litig., 9 F.3d 259, 267 (2d Cir.1993). Although "Rule 10b–5 imposes no duty to disclose all material, nonpublic information, once a party chooses to speak, it has a 'duty to be both accurate and complete.' " Plumbers' Union Local No. 12 Pension Fund v. Swiss Reinsurance Co., 753 F.Supp.2d 166, 180 (S.D.N.Y.2010) (quoting Caiola v. Citibank, N.A., N.Y., 295 F.3d 312, 331 (2d Cir.2002)).

II. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS[2]

ESI is a for-profit college system that owns and operates over 105 ITT Technical Institutes and Daniel Webster College. With a focus on technology-oriented programs, ESI operates in 38 states and serves approximately 80,000 students. Almost all of ESI's revenue derives from federal financial aid provided to its students by Title IV ("Title IV") of the Higher Education Act of 1965 ("HEA"). The HEA delegates regulatory authority to the Department of Education ("DOE") to establish eligibility standards for schools seeking to benefit from Title IV funding.

The present suit arises from a dramatic decline in the value of ESI stock during the summer of 2010 following (1) the release of a report by the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions (the "HELP Committee") critical of the for-profit college industry, (2) the Government Accountability Office's ("GAO") investigation of the industry, (3) DOE's announcement that it would propose tougher new regulations regarding Title IV eligibility, and (4) negative media coverage of for-profit colleges.

A. DEFENDANTS' ALLEGED MISREPRESENTATIONS AND OMMISSIONS

Plaintiff alleges that between October 23, 2007 and August 13, 2010 (the "Class Period") the Defendants "operated a systemically predatory business model that relied upon deceit, manipulation, lies, and outright fraud" to enroll as many students as possible in order to maximize ESI's federal Title IV funding. (Compl.¶ 3.) This practice involved: setting stringent enrollment quotas for ESI recruiters; using high-pressure sales tactics to recruit students; enrolling students who were unprepared to succeed in school; misrepresenting to prospective students the services 576 provided, the transferability of ESI credits, and the true costs of an ESI program; counting as "enrolled" students who attended class for only one day; enrolling students past the start date of the semester; and stretching ESI's graduate employment placement rates. Plaintiff supports these allegations with statements from 42 confidential witnesses ("CWs"), news articles and reports, public filings, press releases, and other public statements issued by ESI. The CWs are former ESI students and former employees of ESI who were employed during the Class Period.

The Complaint alleges that ESI failed to disclose this "systematically predatory business model ... as the driving force behind its financials and future business prospects ...." (Id. ¶ 13.) Instead, the Defendants misleadingly attributed ESI's growth in student enrollment, and thus its financial success, to (1) demand for ESI's "high-quality, career focused" programs; (2) longer tenure of ESI's recruiters and improvement in its recruiter training program; (3) its "single internal focus" on student outcomes; (4) effective advertisement campaigns; and (5) its graduate placement rates. Because of Defendants' nondisclosure of the real reasons behind its financial success and growth, ESI stock was artificially inflated throughout the Class Period.

The Complaint also alleges that Defendants made misleading statements regarding ESI's commitment to ensuring compliance with Title IV requirements; when in fact, ESI's "predatory business model" put the institute at risk of losing Title IV eligibility. ESI's quota system, for example, in which, according to Plaintiff, recruiter compensation was determined solely by whether enrollment quotas were met, put ESI at risk of violating a DOE regulation prohibiting salary adjustments "based solely on the number of students recruited, admitted, enrolled, or awarded financial aid." 34 C.F.R. § 668.14(b)(22)(ii)(A).

In sum, the Complaint alleges that the Defendants "misled investors through a series of calculated statements attributing ESI's positive financial performance to legitimate business practices," when in fact, ESI's success was a result of its "predatory business model." (Pl. Opp. at 2.)

B. ALLEGATIONS OF SCIENTER

The Complaint alleges that the Individual Defendants were aware of ESI's "fraudulent scheme" by virtue of their positions at the ESI. (Compl.¶ 431.). It alleges that that they "had access to material non-public information about [ESI's] business, finances, enrollment, markets and present and future business prospects via access to internal corporate documents, conversations and connections with other corporate officers and employees, attendance at management and board of directors meetings and committees thereof and via reports and other information provided to them in connection therewith." (Id. ¶ 435.) These allegations are largely supported by CW statements regarding the Individual Defendants' "hands-on" management style and their personal involvement with ESI's recruiting practices, including the company's quota system and standardized script used by recruiters. (Id. ¶¶ 144, 155, 180.)

Because the Individual Defendants were aware of the "ongoing fraudulent scheme," the Complaint alleges that they were therefore also aware that the public documents and statements they issued on behalf of ESI "were materially false and misleading." (Id. ¶ 431.) Furthermore, the Complaint alleges that the Individual Defendants had a motive to commit fraud because of ESI's executive compensation structure, which awarded bonuses based in part on ESI's earnings per share, total 577 student enrollment, and graduate employment rates. (Id. ¶ 433.)

C. ALLEGATIONS OF LOSS CAUSATION

Plaintiff alleges loss causation through a series of partial disclosures of previously concealed information to the market. These disclosures include:

- In June 2010, (1) an announcement of a series of hearings to examine federal spending at for-profit colleges; (2) a DOE announcement that it was preparing tougher new regulations for the for-profit education industry; and (3) the HELP Committee hearing and report, which questioned practices at for-profit institutions. Allegedly, these three disclosures caused the price of ESI stock to fall more than fifteen percent over the course of June 2010. (Compl.¶¶ 396–400, 450.)

- A July 1, 2010 media report criticizing for-profit colleges, in which Senator Durbin compared the growth of for-profit educational institutions to the subprime mortgage bubble and decried "worthless diplomas" and "whopping levels of debt." (Compl.¶ 401.)

- An August 3, 2010 New York Times article regarding the impending release of a GAO report detailing abuses in the for-profit education industry, which allegedly caused the price of ESI stock to fall 4.53 percent.

- The August 4, 2010 GAO report presenting findings of an investigation into whether for-profit colleges engaged in fraudulent, deceptive, or otherwise questionable marketing practices, which allegedly caused the price of ESI stock to fall 4.47 percent.

- An August 6, 2010 disclosure that ESI received a request for information and documents from the HELP Committee related to ongoing hearings, including information on ESI's student recruitment practices and loan default rates, which allegedly caused the price of ESI stock to fall nearly six percent.

ED-17-0431-A-004810

- On August 13, 2010, a release of data by the DOE showing a student-loan repayment rate of thirty-one percent at ESI, which allegedly caused the price of ESI stock to drop 7.17 percent on August 13, and 14.6 percent on August 16, 2010.

According to Plaintiff, these partial disclosures caused the price of ESI common stock to fall 58.8% from its Class Period high. This decline in value caused "substantial harm to investors who suffered losses as the artificial inflation generated by Defendants' fraud was removed." (Compl.¶ 452.)

III. DISCUSSION

A. ALLEGED MISSTATEMENTS AMD OMISSIONS

[6] Plaintiff's allegations concerning the Defendant's material misstatements and omissions fail to satisfy the pleading standards of Rule 9(b) and of the PSLRA. Not only is it unclear which statements are alleged to be misleading, but Plaintiff also fails to state with the required particularity the "reason or reasons" these statements are misleading. 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(1). The Complaint includes 76 pages of block quotes of nearly every public statement made by ESI during the Class Period, with the statements alleged to be misleading in bold and italics. (Compl.¶¶ 84–423.) Interspersed throughout these block quotes are vague allegations purporting to explain how and why the bolded and italicized portions are misleading. 578 However, Plaintiff's bolding and italicizing does little to satisfy the PSLRA's specificity requirement. This is because Plaintiff highlights more than half of the text in the giant block quotes, while simultaneously conceding that it is not challenging many of the statements it has chosen to highlight, (See, e.g., id. ¶¶ 249–50, 258, 268–69, 296, 329, 346 & 349 (simple statements of ESI's historic revenue are repeatedly bolded and italicized despite Plaintiff's concession that "it is not challenging ESI's historic revenue." (Pl. Opp. at 14))). Vague and disorganized allegations, no matter how voluminous, do not satisfy the PSLRA. Tabor v. Bodisen Biotech, Inc., 579 F.Supp.2d 438, 453 (S.D.N.Y.2008) ("Plaintiff's use of large block quotes from SEC filings and press releases, followed by generalized explanations of how the statements were false or misleading are not sufficient to satisfy the heightened pleading standard.").

The Court will nevertheless attempt to organize the allegations in the Complaint so that it can address the conduct alleged to be fraudulent as a coherent whole. Specifically, the Court concludes that the Complaint alleges four types of fraudulent misrepresentations: (1) misleading statements regarding recruitment and enrollment growth; (2) misleading statements regarding ESI's business focus; (3) misrepresentations of ESI's graduate placement rate; and (4) misleading assurances regarding legal compliance. [3]

1. Misleading Statements Regarding Enrollment Growth and Revenue

[7] Plaintiff alleges that Defendants made misleading statements by "repeatedly attributing ESI's financial success ... to expanding student enrollment, graduate placement rates, and ESI's 'single internal focus' on student outcomes and the 'value proposition' of an ESI education." (Pl. Opp. at 12.) Such statements are misleading because Defendants failed to disclose that "the true reasons behind ESI's financial performance were its focus on a predatory quota system [for recruiters], stretching job placements, and hyper-aggressive sales tactics." (Id.)

Plaintiff further alleges that Defendants' made misleading statements by attributing ESI's strong enrollment growth to, among other things, increased demand for ESI's expanding programs of study, a more experienced and better-trained recruiting department, and effective advertising campaigns. Defendants failed to disclose, however, that the real reason for ESI's enrollment growth was its "predatory" recruitment practices and the counting of students that barely attended class. Notably, Plaintiff does not challenge ESI's reported revenue or enrollment numbers during the Class Period; the allegations are limited to misrepresentations concerning "the driving force behind ESI's performance." [4] (Id. at 14.)

Although the Complaint describes all of these statements regarding revenue and enrollment as "false," it does not allege any facts contradicting their veracity (except possibly with respect to graduate placement rates and ESI's business focus, which are discussed below). Plaintiff does not allege that ESI's increased revenue 579 was not due to higher student enrollment, or that ESI's increased enrollment was not attributable, at least in part, to more experienced and better-trained recruiters, effective advertising, and increased demand for its expanding programs. The issue then is whether these statements are misleading, such that ESI had a duty to make further disclosures concerning its predatory recruiting practices.

[8] The Court notes that absent a duty to cure prior misleading statements, ESI was under no duty to disclose its hyper-aggressive sales tactics and quota system or to characterize its business model and educational programs "in a pejorative manner." Ballan v. Wilfred Am. Educ. Corp., 720 F.Supp. 241, 249 (E.D.N.Y.1989). This is "[b]because the securities laws do not impose a general duty to disclose corporate mismanagement or uncharged criminal conduct." In re Marsh & Mclennan Cos., Inc., 501 F.Supp.2d 452, 469 (S.D.N.Y.2006). Moreover, the alleged omissions must be "sufficiently connected to Defendants' existing disclosures to make those public statements misleading." Id.

Here, there is no direct connection between Defendants' statements regarding the sources of its revenue and enrollment growth and the omitted information regarding ESI's predatory recruitment practices or quota system. Defendants' statements that ESI's revenue grew because of higher enrollment and tuition say nothing about how ESI compensates or incentivizes its recruiters, or how aggressively it markets itself to prospective students. Even statements that its enrollment growth was due in part to more experienced and better-trained recruiters would not suggest to a reasonable investor that ESI does not use a quota system for its recruiters, or that its recruiters do not use a script or employ hyper-aggressive sales tactics. In short, these statements are not misleading because they do not suggest that the undisclosed improper activity alleged by Plaintiff was not occurring. See, e.g., In re FBR Inc. Sec. Litig., 544 F.Supp.2d 346, 358 (S.D.N.Y.2008) ("[P]laintiffs do not point to any specific statement in the press releases that could be interpreted by a reasonable investor as suggesting that the company or its executives had not assisted or participated in a single insider trading violation.").

Plaintiff cites several cases finding that when a company puts at issue the cause of its financial success, "the alleged failure to disclose the true sources of such revenue could give rise to liability under Section 10(b)." In re Van der Moolen Holding N.V. Sec. Litig., 405 F.Supp.2d 388, 401 (S.D.N.Y.2005). (See Pl. Opp. at 14–15.) Here, however, the connection between the misleading statement, i.e., the source of ESI's success, and the alleged omission, i.e., the nondisclosure of the predatory business model, is far more tenuous than the connections between statement and alleged omission at issue in the cases cited by Plaintiff. ESI stated repeatedly that the source of its revenue was Title IV-funded student tuition, and Plaintiff does not allege that a material portion of ESI's revenue came from some other undisclosed source. At most, Plaintiff alleges that a material number of ESI students were victims of ESI's predatory recruitment practices, and thus a material portion of ESI's revenue came from this undisclosed "source." This is too tenuous a connection to render ESI's statements regarding its financial success misleading.

2. Misrepresentations Regarding ESI's Graduate Employment Placement Rate

[9] Plaintiff alleges that ESI "stretched" its publicly reported graduate 580 employment placement rates in order to mislead prospective students and investors. (Compl.¶¶ 194–147.) According to several CW statements, ESI did this by counting graduates employed for only a day as well as graduates employed in a field unrelated to the ESI program completed.

However, even if one cobbles together all of Plaintiff's allegations regarding stretching, the Complaint does not plead the extent to which such stretching actually impacted ESI's reported overall placement rate. Because placement rates are not directly related to revenue, Plaintiff must show an especially egregious discrepancy between ESI's disclosed rate and its actual rate, in order for Defendants' nondisclosure of the alleged incidents of "stretching" to be material to investors. Here, Plaintiff has not met this burden, and thus has failed to establish "a substantial likelihood" that such disclosure "would have been viewed by [a] reasonable investor as having significantly altered the total mix of information made available." Matrixx Initiatives, Inc. v. Siracusano, ——U.S. ——, 131 S.Ct. 1309, 179 L.Ed.2d 398 (2011) (emphasis added).

3. Misleading Statements Regarding ESI's Business Focus

[10] The Complaint alleges that, throughout the Class Period, Defendants made misleading statements portraying ESI as an institution focused on providing quality, career-focused, postsecondary education, including such statements as:

- We're very focused on the outcomes for the students.... (Compl.¶ 287.);
- Outcomes is the most important thing that we do, so we have a lot of focus there. (Id. ¶ 292.)
- We strive to attract students with the motivation and ability to complete the career-oriented educational programs offered by our institutes. (Id. ¶ 284.);
- Our single internal focus continues to be on maximizing students' success and helping our students improve their lives through a high quality career-based education offered by our ITT Technical Institutes. (Id. ¶ 306.)

Plaintiff alleges that these statements were false and misleading because "[i]n reality, ESI was focused upon manipulating its student population at all stages" and "on increasing enrollment numbers at any cost, without regard to student's academic success ...." (Id. ¶¶ 261, 294.) According to Plaintiff, "[a]ll that mattered to ESI was meeting quotas ... [t]he company is nothing more than a sales machine that operates on federal financial aid." (Id. ¶ 261.)

These allegations, if true, might establish a strong claim for a dissatisfied student to bring against ESI. However, the alleged misleading statements, when made to investors, amount to typical corporate puffery, and as such, they are not actionable under the securities laws. These statements are precisely the type of vague, boilerplate pronouncements that no reasonable investor would substantially rely upon when evaluating a company. See, e.g., ECA & Local 134 IBEW Joint Pension Trust of Chicago v. JP Morgan Chase Co., 553 F.3d 187, 206 (2d Cir.2009) (finding statements regarding business practices such as that defendant "set the standard for integrity" to be "precisely the type of 'puffery' that this and other circuits have consistently held to be inactionable."); Footbridge Ltd. v. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc., No. 09 Civ. 4050, 2010 WL 3790810, at *24 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 28, 2010) ("Statements about corporate culture 581 and integrity are typically considered to be inactionable puffery.").

Plaintiff further alleges that Defendants' statements regarding its admissions standards were misleading because they implied that ESI had standards, when in fact, according to Plaintiff, it did not. Plaintiff points to ESI's admittance of convicted criminals as evidence of its lack of admissions standards. However, the statements cited by Plaintiff do not imply that ESI claimed its admissions standards to be anything other than minimal. (See Compl. ¶ 286) (stating that for some programs students are required to pass an admissions test); ¶ 368 (other programs may require students to complete the SATs or simply take a college tour). And Plaintiff does not allege that ESI ever claimed that it did not admit convicted criminals. Therefore, any discrepancy between ESI's stated admissions standards, which were expressly minimal, and its actual standards, which may or may not have been marginally lower, could not be material to an investor. This is especially so because selectivity is not necessarily positively correlated with profitably, in fact, the opposite may be true.

4. Misleading Assurances Regarding Legal Compliance

[11] The Complaint also alleges that statements regarding ESI's commitment to legal compliance, particularly with respect to Title IV eligibility, were misleading because ESI's predatory business model put the company at risk of losing federal aid funding. However, these allegations are not discussed in the parties' briefings and the Complaint itself never alleges that ESI was ever found to be in noncompliance at any point during the Class Period. Moreover, for ESI's general assurances of compliance to be misleading. Plaintiff must particularly and specifically establish widespread problems of noncompliance throughout ESI's many campuses and programs. Plaintiff's allegations of specific instances of unethical or fraudulent practices do not render Defendants' broad statements regarding compliance misleading. The relevant regulations, in fact, do not prohibit or penalize incidents of such behavior. Rather the regulations set numerical thresholds for certain metrics, such as the maximum percentage of tuition revenue a school may draw from Title IV funding. Again, there is no suggestion that Defendant ever violated these regulatory limits.

Because the Court finds no well-plead actionable misstatements, it would be impossible for the Court to conclude that the Complaint sufficiently alleges scietner, i.e., that Defendants knowingly or recklessly misled the market. Moreover, this holding necessarily means that Plaintiff's control-person claim against the Individual Defendants also fails. See SEC v. First Jersey Sec., Inc., 101 F.3d 1450, 1472 (2d Cir.1996).

IV. CONCLUSION

Accordingly, for the reasons stated above, it is hereby ORDERED that the Motion (Docket No. 43) of defendants Kevin M. Modany, Daniel M. Fitzpatrick, and ITT Educational Services, Inc. to Dismiss the Corrected Consolidated Class Action Complaint is GRANTED; and it is further, ORDERED that the Clerk of Court is directed to terminate any pending motions and to close this case.

SO ORDERED.

All Citations

859 F.Supp.2d 572, 284 Ed. Law Rep. 752

Footnotes

1 Also before the Court is Defendants' Request for Judicial Notice (Docket No. 45) and Plaintiff's letter brief in opposition to the Request (Docket No. 52). Because the Court limits its analysis to the Complaint, the Request for Judicial Notice is denied as moot.

2 The facts below are drawn from the Complaint and documents cited or relied upon therein. Except where specifically quoted, no further reference to these documents will be made. The Court accepts these facts as true for the purposes of ruling on the Motion. See Spool v. World Child Int'l Adoption Agency, 520 F.3d 178, 180 (2d Cir.2006).

3 To the extent this Decision and Order does not address specific statements alleged to be misleading that are not included within these four categories, the Court finds that Defendants' general arguments as to particularity and materiality would defeat any claims based on such statements.

4 Because Plaintiff does not challenge ESI's actual enrollment numbers, the Court deems the allegation that ESI stretched its numbers by-counting students that only attended one day of class to be dropped.

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Opinion, 534 F.3d 1068, amended and superseded.

KeyCite Yellow Flag - Negative Treatment
Declined to Follow by Smilovits v. First Solar Incorporated, D.Ariz., August 11, 2015

540 F.3d 1049
United States Court of Appeals,
Ninth Circuit.

METZLER INVESTMENT GMBH, Plaintiff–Appellant,
and
Conway Investment Club, individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated, Plaintiff,
v.
CORINTHIAN COLLEGES, INC.; David Moore; Anthony Digiovanni; Dennis Beal, Defendants–Appellees.

No. 06–55826.
|
Argued and Submitted Feb. 11, 2008.
|
Filed Aug. 26, 2008.
|
Amended Aug. 26, 2008.

Synopsis
Background: Investors brought putative class action for alleged securities fraud against operator of private for-profit vocational colleges and three of operator's officers. The United States District Court for the Central District of California, Manuel L. Real, J., dismissed for failure to state claim. Investors appealed.

Holdings: The Court of Appeals, Betty B. Fletcher, Circuit Judge, held that:

[1] investors failed to allege loss causation element of securities fraud claim;

[2] investors failed to adequately plead scienter; and

[3] complaint lacked specificity required to adequately allege falsity element of securities fraud claim.

Affirmed.

West Headnotes (30)

[1] Securities Regulation
Manipulative, Deceptive or Fraudulent Conduct

Required elements of a private securities fraud action are (1) a material misrepresentation or omission of fact, (2) scienter, (3) a connection with the purchase or sale of a security, (4) transaction and loss causation, and (5) economic loss. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

38 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Securities Regulation
Pleading

Complaint in putative securities fraud class action was subject to pleading requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA). Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2).

11 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Securities Regulation
Scienter

In reviewing complaint under requirement of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA) that private securities fraud claim give rise to strong inference of scienter, court must consider all reasonable inferences to be drawn from the allegations, including inferences unfavorable to plaintiffs; this examination requires court to survey the complaint in its entirety, not to simply scrutinize individual allegations in isolation. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2).

33 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Securities Regulation
Pleading

By requiring securities fraud complaint to specify each statement alleged to have been misleading, Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA) prevents plaintiff from skirting dismissal by filing a complaint laden with vague allegations of deception unaccompanied by a particularized explanation stating why defendant's alleged statements or omissions are deceitful. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(1).

40 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Securities Regulation
Causation;existence of injury

In securities fraud action, "loss causation" is the causal connection between defendant's material misrepresentation and plaintiff's loss. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

58 Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Securities Regulation
Pleading

Securities fraud complaint fails to allege loss causation if it does not provide defendant with notice of what the relevant economic loss might be or of what the causal connection might be between that loss and the misrepresentation; stated in the affirmative, complaint must allege that defendant's share price fell significantly after the truth became known. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

36 Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Securities Regulation
Pleading

Securities fraud plaintiff does not need to prove loss causation to avoid dismissal for failure to state claim, but must properly allege it. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

22 Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Securities Regulation
Pleading

Securities fraud complaint must set forth allegations which, if assumed true, are sufficient to provide defendant with some indication that the drop in defendant's stock price was causally related to defendant's financial misstatements. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

8 Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Securities Regulation
Causation;existence of injury

Securities fraud complaint must allege that the practices which plaintiff contends are fraudulent were revealed to the market and caused the resulting losses. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

38 Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Securities Regulation
Pleading

Investors failed to allege loss causation element of securities fraud claim against operator of private for-profit vocational colleges and its officers when investors, though relying upon news story disclosing Department of Education investigation at one of operator's campuses and operator's earnings announcement, did not allege that story or announcement disclosed, or even suggested, to the market that operator was manipulating student enrollment figures company-wide to procure excess federal funding, which was fraudulent activity that purportedly forced stock price drop causing investors' losses, and neither story nor announcement could reasonably be read to reveal alleged widespread financial aid manipulation by operator. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

22 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Evidence
Weights, measures, and values

Evidence
Corporations and Associations and Members Thereof

District court could take judicial notice of corporate defendant's reported stock price history and other publicly available financial documents, including its filings with Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), in securities fraud action. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

105 Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Securities Regulation
Causation;existence of injury

Loss causation cannot be alleged in securities fraud action by referring to a drop in a stock price that occurs prior to the revelation of the alleged truth. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

13 Cases that cite this headnote

[13] Securities Regulation
Scienter, Intent, Knowledge, Negligence or Recklessness

To state a claim for securities fraud, plaintiff must allege that defendant acted with scienter, in that defendant had an intention to deceive, manipulate, or defraud. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

11 Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Securities Regulation
Scienter

To meet scienter pleading requirement, securities fraud complaint must contain allegations of specific contemporaneous statements or conditions that demonstrate the intentional or deliberately reckless false or misleading nature of statements when made. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

28 Cases that cite this headnote

[15] Securities Regulation
Scienter

When assessing securities fraud complaint for compliance with requirement under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA) that allegations give rise to strong inference of scienter, court must consider the complaint in its entirety and inquire whether all of the facts alleged, taken collectively, give rise to a strong inference of scienter, not whether any individual allegation, scrutinized in isolation, meets that standard. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

34 Cases that cite this headnote

[16] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Even when considered collectively, investors' allegations of insider trading by officers for operator of private for-profit vocational colleges, existence of sophisticated information management system enabling operator's management to access all student and financial records for all of operator's schools, and involvement of operator's chief financial officer (CFO) in operator's revenue recognition policies and rejection of alternate accounting methods did not give rise to strong inference of scienter required under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA) to adequately plead securities fraud claim against operator and officers based on alleged manipulation of operator's student enrollment figures to procure excess federal funding. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Cases that cite this headnote

[17] Securities Regulation

Scienter

Although suspicious stock sales by corporate insiders may constitute circumstantial evidence of scienter in securities fraud action, such sales only give rise to an inference of scienter when they are dramatically out of line with prior trading practices at times calculated to maximize the personal benefit from undisclosed inside information. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

20 Cases that cite this headnote

[18] Securities Regulation

Scienter, Intent, Knowledge, Negligence or Recklessness

Three factors are relevant to inquiry into whether suspicious stock sales by corporate insider constitute circumstantial evidence of scienter in securities fraud action: (1) the amount and percentage of the shares sold, (2) the timing of the sales, and (3) whether the sales were consistent with the insider's trading history. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

18 Cases that cite this headnote

[19] Securities Regulation

Scienter

Stock sales made by chief executive officer (CEO) and chief financial officer (CFO) for operator of private for-profit vocational colleges during class period of securities fraud action did not give rise to strong inference of scienter required under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA), given that many of challenged sales took place before Department of Education began investigation at one of operator's campuses and there was nothing particularly suspicious about timing of sales, that only CFO sold large amounts of his total stock holdings and operator's chief operating officer (COO) made no sales, and that both CEO and CFO sold stock in manner consistent with their pre-class period sales. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

9 Cases that cite this headnote

[20] Securities Regulation

Scienter

Insider stock sales made according to predetermined plans may rebut an inference of scienter in securities fraud action. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

6 Cases that cite this headnote

[21] Securities Regulation

Scienter

Use by operator of private for-profit vocational colleges of management information system which monitored student enrollment and other data company-wide and statements of confidential witness indicating that operator's senior officers were regularly made aware of status of operator's enrollment and placement figures did not give rise to strong inference of scienter required to state securities fraud claim under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA) in action based on operator's alleged manipulation of student enrollment figures to procure excess federal funding, particularly when it was more cogent and at least as compelling to conclude that operator maintained its information tracking systems for necessary and legitimate purpose of running its business. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform

Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

6 Cases that cite this headnote

[22] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Corporate management's general awareness of the day-to-day workings of company's business does not establish scienter needed to state securities fraud claim under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA), at least absent some additional allegation of specific information conveyed to management and related to the fraud. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

20 Cases that cite this headnote

[23] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Statements that were made after class period in securities fraud action stemming from alleged manipulation of student enrollment figures by operator of private for-profit vocational colleges to procure excess federal funding, which included slide show presentation that summarized internal audit and referred to findings regarding operator's financial aid practices, did not raise strong inference of scienter required to plead securities fraud claim under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA), given investors' failure to allege any corroborating details to indicate that audit revealed company-wide fraud or that operator and its senior officers were aware of fraud during class period. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

4 Cases that cite this headnote

[24] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Complaint did not raise strong inference of scienter required to plead securities fraud claim under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA) when it alleged that chief financial officer (CFO) for operator of private for-profit vocational colleges insisted on perpetuating improper method of revenue recognition for operator in violation of generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) by accounting for full month of revenue during students' first months and spreading revenue recognition for students with externships to include post-class instruction period, given complaint's failure to sufficiently allege that CFO knowingly and recklessly engaged in improper accounting practice and to tie disputed practice, or operator's restatements when practice was changed, to complaint's general theory that operator invented presence of students to increase access to federal financial aid. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[25] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Statement purportedly made by chief financial officer (CFO) for operator of private for-profit vocational colleges to operator's admissions officers, indicating that they were "gray area" in dealing with unqualified students, did not raise strong inference of scienter in securities fraud action based on operator's alleged manipulation of student enrollment figures to procure excess federal funding, as required to satisfy pleading requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA), even though statement could be read as instruction to perpetrate fraud through admission of unqualified students, given that statement could also be read as broad exhortation to improve business. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

Cases that cite this headnote

[26] Securities Regulation
Pleading

Complaint lacked specificity required to allege adequately, under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA), falsity element of securities fraud claim against operator of private for-profit vocational colleges and its senior officers, given that assertions that operator's fraudulent practices generally, along with its failure to make earlier disclosures of regulatory investigations, rendered operator's filings with Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and other public statements either affirmatively false or false by way of omission lacked requisite allegations of fact demonstrating falsity of operator's characterizations of its financial health and business practices, and that operator was not required to make immediate disclosure of regulatory investigations. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(1); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[27] Securities Regulation
Pleading

A litany of alleged false statements, unaccompanied by the pleading of specific facts indicating why those statements were false, does not meet standard under Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA) for pleading falsity in securities fraud action. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(1); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

42 Cases that cite this headnote

[28] Federal Courts
Pleading

Denial of leave to amend is reviewed for abuse of discretion.

36 Cases that cite this headnote

[29] Federal Civil Procedure
Successive applications

District court's discretion to deny leave to amend pleading is particularly broad when plaintiff has previously amended the complaint.

66 Cases that cite this headnote

[30] Federal Civil Procedure
Effect

Dismissal with prejudice of investors' third amended complaint in securities fraud class action was not abuse of discretion, even though prior dismissals did not give investors guidance as to basis for dismissal, given that prior amendments were intended to cure deficiencies underlying dismissal of third amended complaint and investors pointed to no additional facts that they could allege to cure those deficiencies, which persisted in every prior iteration of complaint.

8 Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

1053 Jeff S. Westerman, Arthur Miller (argued), Milberg Weiss Bershad & Schulman 1054 LLP, Los Angeles, CA, for the plaintiff-appellant.

John W. Spiegel, Munger, Tolles & Olson LLP, Los Angeles, CA, for the defendants-appellees.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Central District of California; Manuel L. Real, District Judge, Presiding. D.C. No. CV–04–05025–R.

Before: ALFRED T. GOODWIN, B. FLETCHER, and N. RANDY SMITH, Circuit Judges.

ORDER

We hereby amend our Opinion filed July 25, 2008 at Slip Opinion 9249 [534 F.3d 1068]. We file the Amended Opinion contemporaneously with this order. We amend as follows:

Delete the paragraph on page 9282 [534 F.3d at 1090] beginning "Second, Corinthian ..." and ending with "regulatory scrutiny."

Insert a new paragraph reading:

> "Second, Corinthian was not required to make an immediate disclosure of the DOE and California AG investigations, at least not on the facts of this case. A comparison to In re Apollo Group, Inc. Securities Litigation, 509 F.Supp.2d 837, 841 (D.Ariz.2007), is instructive. In Apollo the district court denied the parties' cross-motions for summary judgment based in part on a disputed fact regarding the materiality of a DOE investigation of the Apollo Group. Id. Like Corinthian, Apollo is a large for-profit provider of post-secondary education. Id. at 839. The plaintiffs based their claim on the fact that Apollo failed to reveal a DOE investigation of misconduct that tied recruiters' compensation to enrollment figures. Id. Defendants failed to disclose a report containing a preliminary DOE finding of non-compliance related to those practices. Id. ("The report, which was issued on February 5, 2004, concluded, among other things, that the [Apollo campus at issue] improperly compensated its enrollment counselors 'solely based on [the] recruiters' success in securing enrollments,' a violation of DOE regulations.") (second alteration in original). Two weeks after the DOE issued that report, Apollo released a press statement regarding a dismissal in related lawsuits based on allegations of recruiter misconduct and that "the government declined to intervene" in those suits. Id. at 841–42. Although this statement was formally true, the court found a disputed issue of fact as to whether it was "misleading" in light of the DOE report concerning the exact same recruiting practices.[14] Id. at 842; see also In re Apollo Group, Inc. Sec. Litig., 395 F.Supp.2d 906, 920 (D.Ariz.2005) (denying motion to dismiss in same case where CEO misleadingly suggested that no report would issue from DOE). Here, unlike the complaint in Apollo, the TAC does not connect the DOE or California Attorney General investigations to any false or misleading statement—i.e., some affirmative statement or omission by Corinthian that suggested it was not under any regulatory scrutiny."

OPINION

BETTY B. FLETCHER, Circuit Judge:

Due in large part to the enactment of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act ("PSLRA") of 1995, Pub.L. No. 104–67, 109 Stat. 737 (1995), plaintiffs in private *1055 securities fraud class actions face formidable pleading requirements to properly state a claim and avoid dismissal under Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(6). Plaintiff Metzler Investment GMBH's ("Metzler") Consolidated Third Amended Complaint ("TAC"), despite its lengthy and far-ranging allegations, fails to meet these requirements. We affirm the district court's dismissal of the TAC, with prejudice.

I. FACTUAL BACKGROUND[1] AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Metzler, an institutional investor, is lead plaintiff in a putative federal securities fraud class action brought pursuant to §§ 10(b) and 20(a) of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 and Securities Exchange Commission ("SEC") Rule 10b–5. Defendant–Appellee Corinthian Colleges, Inc. ("Corinthian") is one of the nation's largest operators of private for-profit vocational colleges. As of June 30, 2004, Corinthian operated 88 such colleges in 22 states. Three individuals who served as officers of Corinthian during the Class Period are also named as Defendants: Dennis Beal, Corinthian's Chief Financial Officer and Vice President; David Moore, Corinthian's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer; and Anthony Digiovanni, Corinthian's President and Chief Operating Officer.

During the Class Period, which extended from August 27, 2003 to July 30, 2004, Metzler purchased 116,000 shares of Corinthian stock. Numerous other plaintiffs also purchased stock during the Class Period and filed their own actions against Corinthian. Eleven separate actions were consolidated with this proceeding and Metzler was appointed lead plaintiff.

A. The TAC's allegations of fraud and falsity.

Metzler alleges that Corinthian's colleges are pervaded by fraudulent practices designed to maximize the amount of federal Title IV funding—a major source[2] of Corinthian's revenue—that those schools receive. The TAC alleges that Corinthian engaged in a variety of false or deceptive schemes: falsifying financial aid applications to obtain federal funds and increase federal award entitlements; encouraging students to falsify federal student aid forms themselves; manipulating student enrollment by counting students not yet enrolled (referred to in the TAC as "false starts"); manipulating or falsifying student grades to maintain federal funding eligibility; exposing the company to bad debt in order to meet regulatory requirements for continued federal funding; delaying notification to federal officials of dropped students and delaying refunds to the federal government after students had dropped; and manipulating job placement data in order to satisfy federal and state regulatory requirements. According to the TAC, the net effect of these practices was that "at numerous Corinthian campuses, as many as 50% to 60% of the people defendants represented to the U.S. government as being qualified, attending 'students' were either 'no shows' in class or unqualified for admission and federal funds from the outset." TAC ¶ 4. Thus, according to the TAC, Corinthian's public face to the market—one of growth and financial success 1056 premised on increasing student enrollment and successful placement rates—masked extensive fraud. The TAC alleges that this fraud resulted in an artificial inflation of Corinthian's stock price.

The TAC further alleges that Corinthian violated Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP") by improperly recognizing revenue. According to the TAC, at some of its schools Corinthian recognized an entire month's worth of tuition revenue for a student's first full month of attendance, regardless of the date during that month on which the student started. Corinthian ultimately changed this practice to recognize tuition for half of a student's first month of attendance and half of a student's final month of attendance. As a result, in August 2005, it issued restated financials that reflected a $16.9 million decrease in retained earnings.

These allegations of fraudulent practices are supported principally by statements taken from confidential witnesses (abbreviated in the TAC as "CW"), who are former Corinthian employees that served at numerous campuses in differing capacities. The CW's identified in the TAC include campus presidents, admissions officials, financial aid officers, and IT and accounting personnel. These CW's, with varying degrees of specificity, attest to instances of misconduct on their campuses that support the more generalized allegations of fraud contained elsewhere in the TAC.

The TAC also avers to post-Class Period events that serve to confirm the TAC's allegations of Corinthian's fraud during the Class Period. In November 2005, Corinthian released restated financials that revealed Corinthian had overstated its revenues during the Class Period. The restatement revealed that revenues were overstated by 10.5% for the quarter ending September 30, 2003, 4.5% for the quarter ending December 21, 2003, and 15% for the quarter ending March 31, 2004. The TAC points to government investigations and private litigation, initiated after the close of the Class Period, that further confirm Corinthian's fraudulent practices. In November 2005, the Florida Attorney General subpoenaed documents from a Corinthian campus in Florida related to Corinthian's advertising and admissions practices. In December 2005, three Corinthian campuses in Georgia had their accreditation revoked by the Accrediting Bureau of Health Education Schools ("ABHES") for failing to meet student completion and placement requirements. Similarly, Corinthian colleges in Michigan and Indiana were ordered by the ABHES to show cause why, because of alleged improper admissions and high attrition, they should not have their accreditation revoked.

Because Corinthian campuses were allegedly pervaded by fraudulent admission practices, the TAC alleges that virtually every Class Period statement discussing Corinthian's financial status was false. Specifically, the TAC alleges that public statements in regulatory disclosures and related documents regarding the company's financial performance were rendered false by the fact that Corinthian's underlying fraudulent practices remained hidden. The TAC states:

> All of Corinthian's stated financial results during the entire Class Period were false and misleading as a result of the Company-wide scheme to inflate enrollment figures in order to misappropriate federal financial aid funding. Likewise, defendants' statements lauding the Company's strong financial performance were also false and misleading.... Defendants also made positive statements regarding the Company's educational services and business practices that were false and misleading in light of the fraudulent means by which a substantial portion of the Company's business was 1057 gained, in complete disregard for their students' educational goals and financial well-being.... The totality of defendants' statements underlined above create the false impression that defendants ran their business with proper financial reporting compliance with student enrollment and federal loan practices which were critical to the viability of the business, and that quality of education was emphasized.

TAC ¶¶ 142–150. The TAC thus alleges that any positive financial statement released by the company created the decidedly false impression among investors that Corinthian's success was due to "legitimate business means that could be expected to continue," when in fact its "financial performance was materially driven by fraudulent manipulation of the Title IV funding program and could cease at any time if exposed." TAC ¶ 147(a).

In addition to these alleged affirmative false statements, the TAC also claims that Corinthian made "omissions to conceal [its] regulatory and accounting problems," by failing to immediately disclose a Department of Education ("DOE") investigation at Corinthian's Bryman College campus in San Jose, California ("Bryman"). TAC ¶ 322. The DOE investigation, commenced in December 2003, concluded that admission officials at Bryman failed to properly verify student information submitted in connection with financial aid applications, and resolved inconsistencies in those applications in a manner favorable to Bryman's ability to obtain federal funding. As a result of the DOE investigation, the Bryman campus was placed on "reimbursement" status; reimbursement status requires an institution to seek reimbursement for federal funding as opposed to having those funds dispersed up front. The lag time between application and reimbursement may be as long as 45 days. Corinthian did not disclose this investigation or its findings in its fourth quarter 2003 or first quarter 2004 SEC filings. Instead, on June 24, 2004, a Financial Times news article reported on the investigation, stating that, "Inspectors discovered that school officials had helped students manipulate financial aid documents to obtain the maximum possible towards tuition fees—breaching Title IV of the Higher Education Act. They found admission officers assisted students in claiming extra dependants to obtain additional financial aid, according to the legal sources." [3] Corinthian responded with a press release the same day, confirming the investigation and stating that DOE's primary finding was that "the school had not properly verified information in students' financial aid applications." The following day, on June 25, 2004, a DOE official was quoted in a Financial Times article as stating that the investigation "did not confirm or deny anything about fraud."

Similarly, the TAC alleges that Corinthian improperly withheld information related to an investigation by the California Attorney General. The California Attorney General had met with Corinthian officials on July 21, 2004, in order for Corinthian to voluntarily provide information related to its admission practices and student satisfaction. Again, Corinthian did not immediately disclose this meeting or its purpose. Instead, a press release issued on August 2, 2004, which also included an adjusted revenue forecast, disclosed the fact of the meeting and Corinthian's 1058 voluntary compliance with the California Attorney General's requests.

B. The TAC's scienter allegations.

The TAC states that "defendants acted with scienter," which requires an intent to defraud or deceive, as to their alleged fraudulent practices and false public statements. TAC ¶ 348. The TAC relies on a variety of allegations to support its claim that Corinthian's practices were intended to deceive investors.

First, the TAC alleges that suspicious stock sales made by Beal and Moore during the Class Period reflect the fact that Corinthian's purported fraudulent practices were intentional. During the Class Period, Beal and Moore sold over $33 million in stock. These Class Period sales constituted approximately 37% of Moore's total holdings and 100% of Beal's holdings. The proceeds from those sales were substantially higher than the proceeds each received from pre-Class Period sales (82% higher for Moore; 252% higher for Beal). Neither Beal nor Moore made any sales after the June 24, 2004 Financial Times story revealing the investigation at the Bryman campus.

Second, the TAC points to Corinthian's "hands on" management and tracking of student data and information. TAC ¶ 369. According to a 2003 Form 10–K, Corinthian's senior management exercised close oversight over school performance and "monitor[ed] operating performance and profitability of each college and ha[d] access to operational data through our sophisticated information systems ... [including] lead flow, starts, student population, and other operating results to determine the proper course of action." TAC ¶ 367 (quoting Corinthian's 2003 Form 10–K). Several confidential witnesses corroborated the fact that Corinthian management closely monitored performance at each campus, including information regarding student enrollment and retention. This information was also contained in a "sophisticated information management system and database [Corinthian] employed to track everything from student recruitment to job placement." TAC ¶ 371. The inference plaintiffs draw from the availability of such a wide swath of data is that Corinthian's management must have known about underlying fraudulent conduct to achieve maximum federal funding at various schools.

Third, the TAC avers to Beal's knowledge of Corinthian's early revenue recognition practices—crediting a full month's worth of tuition regardless of whether a student started at the beginning or end of that particular month—as reflective of knowledge of fraudulent conduct more generally. The TAC also alleges that at a company-wide meeting in Spring 2004, Beal complained to Corinthian corporate officers and campus officials that the company's numbers needed to improve, and that admissions officers work in "the gray area" when dealing with unqualified students. TAC ¶ 297. Beal also resisted changes to Corinthian's revenue recognition practices because he was reluctant to take the one quarter "hit" that would result from changing the practice; an end of month revenue recognition would result in a loss to reported revenues for earlier in the month. TAC ¶ 130. When other Corinthian officers raised concerns regarding the practices, Beal allegedly dismissed those concerns as unimportant or insignificant. Again, this revenue recognition practice was ultimately changed in August 2005 after the close of the Class Period.

More generally, the TAC refers to post-Class Period statements that confirm that Corinthian was aware of wrongdoing during the Class Period. The TAC contends that a slide show given at Corinthian's 2005 Presidents' meeting demonstrates 1059 that it knew compliance problems were detrimental to the company's well-being. Those slides stated that "failure to adhere to program requirements impacts students[sic] skill development and may lead to student injury, lack of certification, poor patient care, [and] other end-customer impact." TAC ¶ 62. The presentation slides also referred to the significance of Corinthian's regulatory compliance obligations, observing: "As a publicly traded company, we must disclose violations of regulatory non-compliance: Increases administrative burden on the corporation to respond and defend; Impacts public confidence, stock price; Even non-material violations, if detected, are highly scrutinized by investors." TAC ¶ 141.

C. The TAC's allegations that Corinthian's fraud was revealed to the market, causing Metzler's losses.

The TAC points to two specific disclosures that purportedly revealed Corinthian's fraudulent student enrollment and financial aid practices to the market: (1) the June 24, 2004 Financial Times story reporting the DOE investigation at the Bryman campus, and (2) an August 2, 2004 press release disclosing reduced earnings and earning projections. According to the TAC, when read in tandem these two disclosures revealed "the truth regarding [Corinthian's] fraudulent practices and deception," and precipitated considerable drops in the value of Corinthian stock. TAC at 18.

As described above, the June 24 Financial Times story revealed that the DOE investigated Corinthian's Bryman campus in December 2003, and as a result that campus had been placed on reimbursement status. The Financial Times story further reported, however, that the DOE review and Bryman's placement on reimbursement status,

"does not affect the status of other Corinthian schools." Nonetheless, Corinthian stock fell $2.55 on June 24, losing 10% of its value and closing at $22.51. Corinthian's stock rebounded within three trading days and by June 29, 2004, it rose to $25.11, an amount that exceeded the stock's value before the June 24 Financial Times story.

The second alleged disclosure occurred on August 2, 2004, when Corinthian issued a press release announcing that it had cut its revenue and earnings projections for the fourth quarter of 2004 and all of fiscal year 2005. That press release also revealed that the company had participated in a meeting with the California Attorney General regarding Corinthian's business practices. The release announced revised earnings per share ("EPS") for fiscal year 2004 of 86 to 87 cents, down from earlier projections of 94 cents EPS. The company also lowered guidance for all of fiscal year 2005. CEO Moore attributed the reduced earnings and accompanying projections to a number of factors:

> During the fourth quarter [FY 2004] we achieved a remarkable growth rate in student enrollments, although below our expectations. Strong growth, unfortunately, sometimes brings challenges, and there were several during the past quarter that we now believe caused our revenue to fall short of our expectations and earlier guidance. Those factors included changes in lead flow mix among television leads, direct mail leads, newspaper leads and Internet leads; higher than anticipated attrition; negative publicity related to student litigation in Florida; and later than anticipated new branch campus openings.

After the August 2, 2004 earnings miss, Corinthian's stock dropped 45% to $10.29.

The TAC focuses on a particular passage from the August 2 release: Moore's reference to "higher than anticipated attrition" at Corinthian schools. The TAC contends that this language is a veiled reference 1060 alerting the market to Corinthian's more extensive fraudulent student enrollment and financial aid practices:

> Plaintiff and the Class members purchased Corinthian shares during the Class Period at artificially inflated prices without knowledge of defendants' fraudulent financial aid and related practices.... [A]rtificial inflation in Corinthian's stock price was eliminated on August 2, 2004, when defendants announced the lowered financial results and—for the first time—partially attributed the revenue shortfall to "higher than anticipated attrition"—a euphemism for an admission that they had enrolled students who should not have been signed up at all, resulting in a 45% stock drop. This precipitous drop in share value is consistent with plaintiff's allegation that as much as 50% to 60% of enrollment at some Corinthian schools were illegitimate "false starts."

TAC ¶¶ 48–49. Although the TAC contends that the August 2 press release's reference to attrition alerted the market to inflated student enrollment numbers, that same release reported that Corinthian's overall enrollment had increased 49.9% for fiscal year 2004. The TAC does not dispute that there was an increase in overall reported enrollment in 2004, nor does it point to information—beyond the Financial Times story and the August 2 press release—that informed the market that Corinthian had engaged in widespread student enrollment and financial aid fraud. But the TAC avers that the cumulative effect of these two disclosures was to peel back the curtain and reveal Corinthian's "impaired and falsely presented financial condition," leading to the considerable stock drop that caused Plaintiffs' claimed damage. TAC¶ 50.

D. The district court's dismissal of the TAC.

Plaintiffs, with Metzler acting as lead plaintiff, filed the Consolidated Amended Complaint ("CAC") on February 17, 2005. The Defendants moved to dismiss for failure to state a claim under Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(6); on September 6, 2005, the district court dismissed the CAC without prejudice and granted leave to amend. No written order accompanied the dismissal of the CAC. A Second Consolidated Amended Complaint was filed on October 3, 2005. Again, the Defendants moved to dismiss under Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(6), and again that complaint was dismissed without prejudice via a minute order issued without comment or analysis.

On February 6, 2006, the TAC was filed; Defendants followed course and moved to dismiss. After argument by counsel on Defendants' motion at an April 24, 2006 hearing, the district court dismissed the TAC, this time with prejudice. The district court offered no reasons for the dismissal at that hearing, other than to comment, "I don't think you have been able to find anything that goes to the real core of what you allege, and the motion [to dismiss] is granted this time with prejudice." The Defendants prepared a written dismissal order at the district court's request. Defendants' four-page prepared order recounted the various arguments presented in favor of dismissal and concluded: "Defendants' arguments are well-taken and their motion to dismiss is granted. Plaintiff has failed to allege an actionable securities claim." The prepared order was signed, unaltered, by the district court on May 1, 2006.[4]

This timely appeal followed.

*1061 II. STANDARD OF REVIEW

The court reviews dismissal under Rule 12(b)(6) de novo. See Livid Holdings, Ltd. v. Salomon Smith Barney, Inc., 416 F.3d 940, 946 (9th Cir.2005). The court "accept[s] the plaintiffs' allegations as true and construe[s] them in the light most favorable to plaintiffs." Gompper v. VISX, Inc., 298 F.3d 893, 895 (9th Cir.2002). Review is limited to the complaint, materials incorporated into the complaint by reference, and matters of which the court may take judicial notice. Tellabs, 127 S.Ct. at 2509.

[1] The required elements of a private securities fraud action are: "(1) a material misrepresentation or omission of fact, (2) scienter, (3) a connection with the purchase or sale of a security, (4) transaction and loss causation, and (5) economic loss." In re Daou Sys. Inc., 411 F.3d 1006, 1014 (9th Cir.2005) (citing Dura Pharms., Inc. v. Broudo, 544 U.S. 336, 341–42, 125 S.Ct. 1627, 161 L.Ed.2d 577 (2005)).

[2] [3] As a putative securities fraud class action, the TAC is also subject to the pleading requirements of the PSLRA. See DSAM Global Value Fund v. Altris Software, Inc., 288 F.3d 385, 388 (9th Cir.2002). In order to state a claim for securities fraud that complies with the dictates of the PSLRA, the complaint must raise a "strong inference" of scienter—i.e., a strong inference that the defendant acted with an intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud. 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(2); Ernst & Ernst v. Hochfelder, 425 U.S. 185, 193, 96 S.Ct. 1375, 47 L.Ed.2d 668 (1976). In reviewing a complaint under this standard, "the court must consider all reasonable inferences to be drawn from the allegations, including inferences unfavorable to the plaintiffs." Gompper, 298 F.3d at 897 (emphasis in original); accord Tellabs, 127 S.Ct. at 2509 ("[I]n determining whether the pleaded facts give rise to a 'strong' inference of scienter, the court must take into account plausible opposing inferences."). This examination requires the court to survey the complaint in its entirety, not to simply scrutinize individual allegations in isolation. See Tellabs, 127 S.Ct. at 2509 (citing Gompper, 298 F.3d at 897).

[4] The PSLRA also requires that "the complaint shall specify each statement alleged to have been misleading, the reason or reasons why the statement is misleading, and, if an allegation regarding the statement or omission is made on information and belief, the complaint shall state with particularity all facts on which that belief is formed." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(1). By requiring specificity, § 78u–4(b)(1) prevents a plaintiff from skirting dismissal by filing a complaint laden with vague allegations of deception unaccompanied by a particularized explanation stating why the defendant's alleged statements or omissions are deceitful. See Falkowski v. Imation Corp., 309 F.3d 1123, 1133 (9th Cir.2002).

The district court did not attempt to explain why the TAC or the prior complaints were subject to dismissal.[5] Based 1062 on the thorough dismissal briefing below and the arguments raised on appeal, however, we are able to accurately identify the three contested grounds for dismissal: (1) failure to plead "loss causation," (2) failure to raise a "strong inference" of scienter, and (3) failure to allege "falsity" with the specificity required by the PSLRA. We agree that the TAC fails on all three bases.

III. DISCUSSION

A. The TAC does not adequately plead "loss causation."

[5] [6] [7] As explained by the Supreme Court in Dura Pharmaceuticals, loss causation is the "causal connection between the [defendant's] material misrepresentation and the [plaintiff's] loss." 544 U.S. at 342, 125 S.Ct. 1627 (citation omitted). A complaint fails to allege loss causation if it does not "provide[ ] [a defendant] with notice of what the relevant economic loss might be or of what the causal connection might be between that loss and the misrepresentation[.]" Id. at 347, 125 S.Ct. 1627. Stated in the affirmative, the complaint must allege that the defendant's "share price fell significantly after the truth became known." Id. A plaintiff does not, of course, need to prove loss causation in order to avoid dismissal; but the plaintiff must properly allege it. Id. at 346, 125 S.Ct. 1627 ("[N]either the Rules nor the securities statutes impose any special further requirement [beyond Fed.R.Civ.P. 8(a)(2)] in respect to the pleading of proximate causation or economic loss.").

[8] The principal Ninth Circuit case applying Dura's loss causation standards is In re Daou Systems, 411 F.3d 1006. The Daou court explained, "A plaintiff is not required to show 'that a misrepresentation was the sole reason for the investment's decline in value' in order to establish loss causation." Id. at 1025 (quoting Robbins v. Koger Props., Inc., 116 F.3d 1441, 1447 n. 5 (11th Cir.1997)) (emphasis in original). A plaintiff's complaint must, however, set forth allegations that "if assumed true, are sufficient to provide[the defendant] with some indication that the drop in [defendant's] stock price was causally related to [the defendant's] financial misstatement[s]." Id. at 1026; accord Berson v. Applied Signal Tech., Inc., 527 F.3d 982, 989–90 (9th Cir.2008). So, in Daou the court held that the plaintiff had pled loss causation based on allegations that major losses reported in an August 1998 quarterly report were causally connected to the company's premature recognition of revenue—the practice that served as the basis of the alleged fraud in the plaintiff's complaint. Id. But the court held that the plaintiff had not adequately pled loss causation for the drop in the defendant's stock that occurred prior to the August 1998 disclosure, because those losses took place "before the revelations began in August 1998, [when] the true 1063 nature of [the defendant's] financial condition had not yet been disclosed." Id. at 1027.

[9] Thus, the Daou court's careful delineation between losses caused after the company's conduct was revealed, and losses suffered before the revelation, confirm that the complaint must allege that the practices that the plaintiff contends are fraudulent were revealed to the market and caused the resulting losses. In Daou the plaintiffs' theory of fraud was that the defendant was systematically recognizing revenue on contracts that had not been completed. Id. at 1012–13. Plaintiffs adequately pled loss causation in Daou because their complaint alleged that the market learned of and reacted to this fraud, as opposed to merely reacting to reports of the defendant's poor financial health generally. Id. at 1026 ("[T]he TAC alleges that 'Defendants further revealed that the Company's rapidly escalating work in progress account represented over $10 million in unbilled receivables—the direct result of prematurely recognizing revenue.") (emphasis in original); see also Teachers' Ret. Sys. of La. v. Hunter, 477 F.3d 162, 186 (4th Cir.2007) (holding that plaintiffs must plead [loss causation] "with sufficient specificity to enable the court to evaluate whether the necessary causal link exists"); Tricontinental Indus., Ltd. v. PricewaterhouseCoopers, LLP, 475 F.3d 824, 843 (7th Cir.2007) (holding that to plead loss causation plaintiff had to allege that the defendant's "material misrepresentation [ ] caused [the plaintiff] to suffer a loss when that material misrepresentation 'became generally known' ").

[10] Here, Metzler relies on the June 24 Financial Times story disclosing the DOE investigation at the Bryman campus and the August 2 earnings announcement. In doing so, Metzler fails to adequately plead loss causation.[6] The TAC does not allege that the June 24 and August 2 announcements disclosed—or even suggested—to the market that Corinthian was manipulating student enrollment figures company-wide in order to procure excess federal funding, which is the fraudulent activity that Metzler contends forced down the stock that caused its losses. Neither the June 24 Financial Times story nor the August 2 press release regarding earnings can be reasonably read to reveal widespread financial aid manipulation by Corinthian, and the TAC does not otherwise adequately plead that these releases did so.

[11] As for the Financial Times story, it does reveal a DOE investigation at the Bryman campus and the campus's placement on reimbursement status as a result of improper financial aid practices; but it simultaneously notes that the investigation there "does not affect the status of other Corinthian schools." The TAC does not allege that all, or even some appreciable number, of Corinthian's schools were being investigated or placed on reimbursement status. Only the Bryman campus was subject to that sanction. Indeed, the TAC itself discredits the notion that the June 24 disclosure revealed company-wide manipulation of student enrollment, by describing the June 24 disclosure as revealing to investors "the potential but real risk of all 88 colleges being placed on reimbursement status, which would have delayed Title IV funding and increased accounts receivable by up to $135 million company-wide." 1064 TAC ¶ 159 (emphases added). But neither Daou nor Dura support the notion that loss causation is pled where a defendant's disclosure reveals a "risk" or "potential" for widespread fraudulent conduct. In Daou the defendant disclosed that the company actually had $10 million in unbilled receivables, not merely that there was some risk it might accrue such receivables. 411 F.3d at 1026. Moreover, as Corinthian notes, its stock recovered very shortly after the modest 10% drop that accompanied the June 24 announcement.[7]

The TAC's characterization of the August 2 earnings announcement similarly fails to allege that the market became aware of, and the resulting stock drop resulted from, widespread enrollment fraud. At best, the TAC contends that the reference in the August 2 announcement to "higher than anticipated attrition" was understood by the market as Corinthian's "euphemism for an admission that they had enrolled students who should not have been signed up at all, resulting in a 45% stock drop." TAC ¶ 48. Metzler's appellate brief asserts that the August 2 disclosure made investors "realize [ ] that Corinthian's improper manipulation of student and enrollment records was not limited to [the Bryman campus at] San Jose, nor was it immaterial." But the TAC does not allege facts to suggest that on August 2 the market became aware that Corinthian was manipulating student records company-wide, other than an undocumented assertion that Corinthian's August 2 stock drop was, by necessity, a result of this market "realization."[8]

Metzler is correct to observe that neither Daou nor Dura require an admission or finding of fraud before loss causation can be properly pled. Dura Pharms., Inc., 544 U.S. at 346, 125 S.Ct. 1627; Daou, 411 F.3d at 1025. But that does not allow a plaintiff to plead loss causation through "euphemism" and thereby avoid alleging the necessary connection between defendant's fraud and the actual loss. So long as there is a drop in a stock's price, a plaintiff will always be able to contend that the market "understood" a defendant's statement precipitating a loss as a coded message revealing the fraud. Enabling a plaintiff to proceed on such a theory would effectively resurrect what Dura discredited—that loss causation is established through an allegation that a stock was purchased at an inflated price. 544 U.S. at 347, 125 S.Ct. 1627. Loss causation requires more. Daou, 411 F.3d at 1026 (plaintiff's complaint quoting an analyst as interpreting defendant's unbilled receivables as suggesting "they are manufacturing earnings").

[12] Finally, while the court assumes that the facts in a complaint are true, it is not required to indulge unwarranted inferences 1065 in order to save a complaint from dismissal. In re Syntex Corp. Sec. Litig., 95 F.3d 922, 926 (9th Cir.1996) ("[C]onclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim.") (emphasis added) (affirming 12(b)(6) dismissal of securities fraud complaint). The TAC's allegation that the market understood the June 24 and August 2 disclosures as a revelation of Corinthian's systematic manipulation of student enrollment is not a "fact." It is an inference that Metzler believes is warranted from the facts that are alleged. But Corinthian persuasively explains why this is not the case. As to the June 24 disclosure, Corinthian points out that its stock quickly recovered from the 10% drop that followed the Financial Times story. Similarly, the August 2 announcement contained a far more plausible reason for the resulting drop in Corinthian's stock price—the company failed to hit prior earnings estimates. The August 2 announcement simultaneously reported that student population growth was up nearly 50% overall and same-school population increased 15%, making it even further unwarranted to infer that the reference to "attrition" was understood by the market to mean that Corinthian had revealed widespread misrepresentation of student enrollment to fraudulently procure excess federal funding. The TAC thus fails to allege loss causation based on the June 24 and August 2 disclosures.[9]

B. The TAC does not raise a "strong inference" of scienter.

[13] [14] In order to state a claim for securities fraud, a plaintiff must allege that defendant acted with scienter-that the defendant had an intention "to deceive, manipulate, 1066 or defraud." Ernst & Ernst, 425 U.S. at 193, 96 S.Ct. 1375. "[P]laintiffs proceeding under the PSLRA can no longer aver intent in general terms of mere 'motive and opportunity' or 'recklessness,' but rather, must state specific facts indicating no less than a degree of recklessness that strongly suggests actual intent." Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 979. "To meet this pleading requirement, the complaint must contain allegations of specific contemporaneous statements or conditions that demonstrate the intentional or the deliberately reckless false or misleading nature of the statements when made." Ronconi v. Larkin, 253 F.3d 423, 432 (9th Cir.2001) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

[15] The PSLRA placed an additional gloss on the scienter requirement so that a plaintiff must "state with particularity facts giving rise to a strong inference that the defendant acted with the required state of mind." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(2) (emphasis added). The PSLRA does not further define what is required in order to allege a "strong inference" of scienter. In Tellabs the Supreme Court addressed that question, holding that a court evaluating a complaint for compliance with PSLRA's "strong inference" of scienter:

> [M]ust engage in a comparative evaluation; it must consider, not only inferences urged by the plaintiff ... but also competing inferences rationally drawn from the facts alleged. An inference of fraudulent intent may be plausible, yet less cogent than other, nonculpable explanations for the defendant's conduct. To qualify as "strong" within the intendment of [the PSLRA], we hold, an inference of scienter must be more than merely plausible or reasonable—it must be cogent and at least as compelling as any opposing inference of nonfraudulent intent.

127 S.Ct. at 2504–05. When assessing a complaint for compliance with this standard, "courts must consider the complaint in its entirety ... [and inquire] whether all of the facts alleged, taken collectively, give rise to a strong inference of scienter, not whether any individual allegation, scrutinized in isolation, meets that standard." Id. at 2509 (emphasis in original). [10]

[16] The TAC alleges that scienter is principally established here by three factors: (1) insider trading during the Class Period by Defendants Moore and Beal; (2) the existence of a "sophisticated information management system" within Corinthian that would have enabled management to access "all student and financial aid records for all Corinthian schools," TAC ¶ 371; and (3) Defendant Beal's involvement in Corinthian's revenue recognition policies and his rejection of alternate accounting methods. Metzler's allegations—even when taken collectively—do not give rise to a "strong inference" of scienter sufficient to defeat dismissal.

1. The insider trading alleged does not raise a "strong inference" of scienter.

[17] [18] [19] While " 'suspicious' stock sales by corporate insiders may constitute circumstantial evidence of scienter," such sales only give rise to an inference of scienter when they are " 'dramatically out of line with prior trading practices at times calculated to maximize the personal benefit 1067 from undisclosed inside information.' " Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 986 (quoting In re Apple Computer Sec. Litig., 886 F.2d 1109, 1117 (9th Cir.1989)). Three factors are relevant to this inquiry: (1) the amount and percentage of the shares sold; (2) the timing of the sales; and (3) whether the sales were consistent with the insider's trading history. Id. During the Class Period, Defendants Moore and Beal sold a total of $33 million of Corinthian stock; the sales constituted 37% of Moore's stock and 100% of Beal's. TAC ¶ 360. Metzler makes repeated reference to the gross profits obtained by these sales to allege scienter, but a more careful look at the transactions tells a different story.

[20] Many of the sales alleged to demonstrate scienter took place in October 2003 before the DOE began its investigation at the Bryman campus. There is therefore nothing particularly suspicious about the "timing of [these] sales," even accepting as true Metzler's theory that the DOE Bryman investigation would have triggered a sell-off amongst insiders. Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 986 (affirming dismissal where trading consistent with prior practices). Moreover, of the three individual Defendants, only Beal sold large amounts of his total stock holdings during the Class Period—and half of these sales were before the DOE investigation at the Bryman campus. Digiovanni made no sales during the Class Period; Moore sold only 37% of his total stock holdings during the Class Period. We typically require larger sales amounts-and corroborative sales by other defendants—to allow insider trading to support scienter. Id. at 987–88 (no inference of scienter with sales of 75.3% of holdings); see also Tripp v. Indymac Fin., Inc., 2007 WL 4591930 at *4–5 (C.D.Cal. Nov.29, 2007) (dismissing for lack of scienter where several individual defendants sold no stock, and the sales of the sole defendant who sold "were relatively small given his overall holdings"). Moreover, both Moore and Beal sold in a manner consistent with their pre-Class Period sales; they regularly sold as their options vested. So the sales here are largely consistent with the prior trading history. Nursing Home Pension Fund, Local 144 v. Oracle Corp., 380 F.3d 1226, 1232 (9th Cir.2004) ("Stock trades are only suspicious when 'dramatically out of line with prior trading practices at times calculated to maximize the personal benefit from undisclosed inside information.' ") (quoting Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 986).[11] The allegations of insider trading do not raise a "strong inference" of scienter, particularly when considering the possible "opposing inference[s]" to be drawn from the pattern of trading in this case. Tellabs, 127 S.Ct. at 2504–05 Namely, Moore and Beal were simply trading in line with prior patterns, and selling without regard to the timing and substance of the DOE investigation at Bryman. Digiovanni meanwhile sold nothing at all, suggesting that there was no insider information from which to benefit. So, when the allegedly improper stock transactions are viewed as a whole, they fail to raise the necessary "strong inference" of scienter required by the PSLRA.

2. Corinthian's use of a "management information system" does not raise a "strong inference" of scienter.

[21] The TAC also alleges that because Corinthian had in place a "management 1068 information system" that monitored enrollment and other data company-wide, its principals must have had knowledge of the alleged fraudulent practices. TAC ¶ 371. This argument rests on an inference that the existence of Corinthian's complex computer tracking-system mutually excludes the possibility that Beal, Moore and Digiovanni were unaware of massive enrollment fraud. This allegation is further supported by the statements of a confidential witness who alleged that the Defendants, Beal in particular, were regularly made aware of the status of Corinthian's enrollment and placement figures.

[22] [23] Again, the TAC's allegations lack the specifics required to establish a "strong inference" of scienter. As this court has noted on more than one occasion, corporate management's general awareness of the day-to-day workings of the company's business does not establish scienter—at least absent some additional allegation of specific information conveyed to management and related to the fraud. In re Vantive Corp. Sec. Litig., 283 F.3d 1079, 1087–88 (9th Cir.2002) ("[P]laintiffs have failed to cite to any specific report, to mention any dates or contents of reports, or to allege their sources of information about any reports."); Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 988 (allowing a plaintiff "to go forward with a case based on general allegations of 'negative internal reports' would expose all those companies to securities litigation whenever their stock prices dropped"). Viewed under the rubric of the Tellabs Court's instruction to comparatively weigh inferences, it is more "cogent and at least as compelling" to conclude that Corinthian maintained its information tracking systems for the necessary and legitimate purpose of running its business. 127 S.Ct. at 2505.[12]

3. Beal's insistence on certain revenue recognition practices do not raise a "strong inference" of scienter.

Relying on the statements of confidential witnesses, the TAC alleges that Beal insisted on perpetuating an improper method of revenue recognition for Corinthian in violation of GAAP. As mentioned, the revenue recognition practice in question involved accounting for a full month of revenue during a student's first month, and spreading revenue recognition for students with externships to include the post-class instruction period. The TAC also alleges that Beal implied to admissions officers at a company-wide meeting that they had the authority to admit unqualified students. TAC ¶ 297 (CW20 testifying that Beal stated admissions officers "are the gray area").

[24] The first of these allegations—going to Corinthian's revenue recognition for certain students—fails to raise a "strong inference" of scienter because the TAC does not sufficiently allege that Beal knowingly *1069 and recklessly engaged in an improper accounting practice. The TAC does not allege that Corinthian's external auditors counseled against the practice or that Beal admitted or was aware it was improper. Although the TAC does draw its own legal conclusion that the practice was improper, TAC ¶ 289, the TAC's factual allegations point only to disagreement and questioning within Corinthian about the practice. Finally, the TAC does not tie the disputed revenue recognition practice, or Corinthian's restatements when the practice was changed, to the TAC's more general theory that Corinthian invented the presence of students in order to increase access to federal financial aid. Given the standard for reliance on technical GAAP violations to plead securities fraud, the TAC fails to establish scienter based on these allegations. Daou, 411 F.3d at 1022 ("scienter cannot be established by publishing inaccurate accounting figures, even when in violation of GAAP"); DSAM Global Value Fund, 288 F.3d at 389 ("To allege a 'strong inference of deliberate recklessness,' Appellants 'must state facts that come closer to demonstrating intent, as opposed to mere motive and opportunity.' ") (quoting Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 974) (affirming dismissal due to failure to allege scienter based on GAAP violations).

[25] The TAC's most persuasive allegation of scienter involves Beal's comments to admissions officers at the company's Spring 2004 meeting, purportedly telling admissions officers that "they are the gray area" in dealing with unqualified students. TAC ¶ 297. This is perhaps the closest the TAC comes to an allegation that the named Defendants were aware of or encouraged fraudulent conduct related to Corinthian's admission practices. Viewing the TAC in its totality, however, this statement does not raise a "strong inference" of scienter. Beal's statement is capable of being read in the manner Metzler urges—Beal was instructing admissions to admit unqualified students. But the Tellabs Court's directive that a complaint must be read in its entirety cuts both ways. Although a defendant cannot gain dismissal by de-contextualizing every statement in a complaint that goes to scienter, a plaintiff cannot avoid dismissal by reliance on an isolated statement that stands in contrast to a host of other insufficient allegations. Tellabs, 127 S.Ct. at 2509 ("all of the facts alleged, taken collectively, give rise to a strong inference of scienter, not whether any individual allegation, scrutinized in isolation, meets that standard") (emphasis in original). Beal's "gray area" statement is susceptible to Metzler's characterization that it was intended as a winking suggestion that admissions officers should perpetrate fraud. But it is equally susceptible to an interpretation, not unlikely given its utterance at a company-wide meeting, that Beal was simply making a broader exhortation to improve business. In light of the Court's guidance in Tellabs and PSLRA's heightened standards for plaintiffs' securities fraud cases generally, this statement it not so indicative of fraudulent intent that it carries the weight of the entire 181–page complaint for purposes of establishing a "strong inference" of scienter. [13]

1070 C. The TAC does not adequately plead falsity.

[26] [27] The PSLRA has exacting requirements for pleading "falsity." The plaintiff's complaint "shall specify each statement alleged to have been misleading, the reason or reasons why the statement is misleading, and, if an allegation regarding the statement or omission is made on information and belief, the complaint shall state with particularity all facts on which that belief is formed." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(1). A litany of alleged false statements, unaccompanied by the pleading of specific facts indicating why those statements were false, does not meet this standard. Falkowski, 309 F.3d at 1133 ("Although the allegations here are voluminous, they do not rise to the level of specificity required under the PSLRA. The allegations consist of vague claims about what statements were false or misleading, how they were false, and why we can infer intent to mislead. We have dismissed much more specific and compelling allegations."). The TAC alleges that Corinthian's fraudulent practices generally along with its failure to make earlier disclosures of regulatory investigations—particularly the DOE investigation at the Bryman campus and the California AG investigation—rendered Corinthian's SEC filings and other public statements made during the Class Period either affirmatively false or false by way of omission. TAC ¶¶ 142–150. These allegations lack the specificity that the PSLRA requires. See, e.g., TAC¶ 142 ("All of Corinthian's stated financial results during the entire Class Period were false and misleading as a result of the Company-wide scheme to inflate enrollment figures in order to misappropriate federal financial aid funding.").

The TAC alleges that virtually every statement made by Corinthian during the Class Period related to the company's financial health or performance was, by definition, false. The TAC mistakes quantity for quality. Although the TAC sets forth a considerable number of alleged false statements, the TAC's explanation of how and why the statements were false is decidedly vague. The TAC alleges that Corinthian's statements regarding its financial status were false because they "create the false impression that defendants ran their business with proper financial reporting compliance with student enrollment and federal loan practices which were critical to the viability of the business, and that quality of education was emphasized." TAC ¶ 150. But this Circuit has consistently held that the PSLRA's falsity requirement is not satisfied by conclusory allegations that a company's class period statements regarding its financial well-being are per se false based on the plaintiff's allegations of fraud generally. In re Vantive Corp. Sec. Litig., 283 F.3d at 1086 ("[A]lthough the complaint alleges that over the fifteen-month class period, [defendant] continually and deliberately misled investors by stating that its sales-cycle was 'holding steady at three to six months,' much of the complaint fails to allege any facts to indicate why this statement would have been misleading at the several points at which it was alleged to have been made.") (falsity not established due to lack of particularity; dismissal affirmed); Ronconi, 253 F.3d at 429–32 (affirming dismissal due to lack of falsity where plaintiff's allegations based on defendant's general statements regarding strength of its sales); Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 984–85 ("[Plaintiff] would have us speculate as to the basis for the allegations about the reports, the severity of the problems, and the knowledge of the officers. We decline to do so."). Here, the TAC fails to sufficiently allege facts that demonstrate the falsity of Corinthian's 1071 characterizations of its financial health and business practices during the Class Period.

As to the specific regulatory investigations, Metzler is likewise unable to connect their non-disclosure with any statement by Corinthian's regarding its financial health rendered false or misleading due to the omission. Ronconi, 253 F.3d at 432 (plaintiff "must [ ] alleg[e] specific 'contemporaneous statements or conditions' ... deliberately reckless [ ] or misleading ... when made."). The general statements the TAC identifies as false or misleading are Corinthian's disclosures of its current revenue projections and anticipated growth. But the TAC's connection between the falsity of these statements and the regulatory investigations is extraordinarily vague. TAC ¶ 147(a) (financial statements false because they "created the overarching impression that the Company was outperforming expectations and continually increasing revenue through legitimate business means") (emphasis omitted). The PSLRA requires a clearer explication of why a statement is false. 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(1) (must specify "the reason or reasons why the statement is misleading"); Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 974 (must plead facts that demonstrate intent).

Second, Corinthian was not required to make an immediate disclosure of the DOE and California AG investigations, at least not on the facts of this case. A comparison to In re Apollo Group, Inc. Securities Litigation, 509 F.Supp.2d 837, 841 (D.Ariz.2007), is instructive. In Apollo the district court denied the parties' cross-motions for summary judgment based in part on a disputed fact regarding the materiality of a DOE investigation of the Apollo Group. Id. Like Corinthian, Apollo is a large for-profit provider of post-secondary education. Id. at 839. The plaintiffs based their claim on the fact that Apollo failed to reveal a DOE investigation of misconduct that tied recruiters' compensation to enrollment figures. Id. Defendants failed to disclose a report containing a preliminary DOE finding of non-compliance related to those practices. Id. ("The report, which was issued on February 5, 2004, concluded, among other things, that the [Apollo campus at issue] improperly compensated its enrollment counselors 'solely based on [the] recruiters' success in securing enrollments,' a violation of DOE regulations.") (second alteration in original). Two weeks after the DOE issued that report, Apollo released a press statement regarding a dismissal in related lawsuits based on allegations of recruiter misconduct and that "the government declined to intervene" in those suits. Id. at 841–42. Although this statement was formally true, the court found a disputed issue of fact as to whether it was "misleading" in light of the DOE report concerning the exact same recruiting practices.[14] Id. at 842; see also In re Apollo Group, Inc. Sec. Litig., 395 F.Supp.2d 906, 920 (D.Ariz.2005) (denying motion to dismiss in same case where CEO misleadingly suggested that no report would issue from DOE). Here, unlike the complaint in Apollo, the TAC does not connect the DOE or California Attorney General investigations to any false or misleading statement—i.e., some affirmative statement or omission by Corinthian that suggested it was not under any regulatory scrutiny.

In sum, the TAC's far-ranging collection of alleged false statements simply fail to identify with sufficient specificity how and 1072 why the statements were false, and thus fail to comply with the PSLRA.

D. Dismissal with prejudice was proper.

[28] [29] [30] Denial of leave to amend is reviewed for abuse of discretion. In re Vantive Corp. Sec. Litig., 283 F.3d at 1097. As we have observed, "the district court's discretion to deny leave to amend is particularly broad where plaintiff has previously amended the complaint." In re Read–Rite Corp., 335 F.3d 843, 845 (9th Cir.2003) (internal quotations and citation omitted). Admittedly, the prior dismissals here did not provide Metzler with guidance as to the basis for the dismissals. But the parties' dismissal briefing below and on appeal confirms that Metzler's prior amendments were intended to cure the deficiencies that lead us to affirm dismissal here—that the TAC failed to properly plead loss causation, scienter, and falsity. Metzler points to no additional facts that it might allege to cure these deficiencies, which persisted in every prior iteration of the TAC. See Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 991. We therefore affirm dismissal of the TAC with prejudice.

IV. CONCLUSION

The TAC's allegations, although not lacking in breadth or numerosity, ultimately fail to meet the PSLRA's exacting requirements and the standards for pleading loss causation. The disclosures that the TAC relies on simply do not identify the requisite causal connection between Metzler's claims of fraudulent student admission and financial aid practices, and a resulting drop in Corinthian's stock price. Likewise, the sheer volume of alleged false statements and claims supporting scienter do not overcome the lack of specificity that the PSLRA requires. For these reasons, we affirm.

AFFIRMED.

All Citations

540 F.3d 1049, 08 Cal. Daily Op. Serv. 11,367, 2008 Daily Journal D.A.R. 13,580

Footnotes

14 In a settlement agreement that contained no admission of wrongdoing, Apollo agreed to pay $9.8 million to settle the DOE's program review. In re Apollo Group Inc., 509 F.Supp.2d. at 839–40."

1 Our factual summary is taken from the TAC, documents incorporated into the TAC by reference, and matters that were properly judicially noticed by the district court. See Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 127 S.Ct. 2499, 2509, 168 L.Ed.2d 179 (2007). For purposes of our review, we accept as true all factual allegations in the TAC. See id.; In re Silicon Graphics, Inc. Sec. Litig., 183 F.3d 970, 983 (9th Cir.1999).

2 In 2003, Corinthian derived 82% of its revenue from federal student loan funding.

3 The Bryman campus was notified by the DOE that it had been returned to standard advance payment status on September 22, 2004. A Corinthian press release explained, "The notification from the DOE stated that the change in status was based, in part, on the school's ability to demonstrate that it can comply with the rules and regulations of the Federal Title IV programs."

4 The dismissal with prejudice was, according to the prepared dismissal order, based on Metzler's "multiple opportunities to amend and [being] unable to cure the defects that required dismissal of [ ] previous complaints."

5 The prepared four-page dismissal order signed by the district court provides no meaningful guidance as to why the TAC—181 pages comprised of 399 paragraphs—was deficient. Fortunately, the parties' briefing below and on appeal accurately identifies and thoroughly analyzes the disputed issues. But good lawyering is not a substitute for clear judging.

Dismissal of securities fraud complaints by way of a boilerplate prepared order effectively requires the appeals court to decide the 12(b)(6) motion without any explanation from the district court as to the complaint's defects. Moreover, the parties themselves never receive the benefit of learning the district court's reason or reasons—whatever they may be—for the dismissal. Although there is no absolute rule requiring a district court to issue a written dismissal for failure to state a claim, the preferred practice is to provide at least some modest explanation for the decision. See Bonanno v. Thomas, 309 F.2d 320, 322 (9th Cir.1962) ("Where a complaint is dismissed on the ground that it fails to state a claim, the order should also inform the plaintiff of the reason for dismissal so that he can make an intelligent choice as to amending."). A review of published and unpublished decisions in recent securities fraud cases confirms that the truncated manner of dismissal here is the exception that proves the rule, as other district courts appear to routinely issue well-articulated dismissal orders. See, e.g., In re LeapFrog Enters., Inc. Sec. Litig., 527 F.Supp.2d 1033 (N.D.Cal.2007); In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig., 2006 WL 1320466 (N.D.Cal. May 12, 2006); Plumbers & Pipefitters Local 572 Pension Fund v. Cisco Sys., Inc., 411 F.Supp.2d 1172, 1178 (N.D.Cal.2005).

Based on the extensive record before us, we are nonetheless confident that Metzler was sufficiently well-informed of the deficiencies in the TAC and the prior complaints, and that no harm was suffered as a result of the district court's failure to provide a reasoned explanation for dismissal. But neither the parties, nor the interests of efficient civil justice, were well-served by the district court in this case.

6 Despite Corinthian's arguments to the contrary, there is no prohibition against Metzler alleging loss causation through a series of disclosures by the Defendants. Daou, 411 F.3d at 1026. So, the TAC's allegations of loss causation premised on two separate disclosures-one on June 24 and one on August 2—are, in theory, a permissible means for alleging loss causation.

7 Defendants sought judicial notice for Corinthian's reported stock price history and other publicly available financial documents, including a number of Corinthian's SEC filings. In its dismissal order, the court granted Defendants' unopposed requests for judicial notice. Metzler does not contest the propriety of the noticing of these documents on appeal, which in any event was proper. See Dreiling v. Am. Exp. Co., 458 F.3d 942, 946 n. 2 (9th Cir.2006) (SEC filings subject to judicial notice).

8 Nor do the June 24 and August 2 disclosures become adequate when viewed in tandem. The June 24 Financial Times story discusses impropriety regarding the financial aid practices at one school; the August 2 release contains one reference to attrition. The combined force of these statements does not suggest that the market was alerted to widespread enrollment and admissions fraud at Corinthian schools nationwide. Nor does the TAC allege any genuine causal connection between the August 2 earnings miss and the allegations that Corinthian had manipulated student enrollment in order to receive excess federal funds, or that the earnings miss was caused by slashed federal funding.

9 Corinthian also argues that Metzler cannot, as a matter of law, establish loss causation because the TAC describes post-Class Period events that indicate that the purported fraud continued beyond the Class Period. Relying on the Seventh Circuit's decision in Thomas v. Farley, 31 F.3d 557 (7th Cir.1994), Corinthian argues that the allegations of post-Class Period misconduct are fatally inconsistent with the theory that Corinthian's misconduct was revealed through the June 24 and August 2 disclosures. This argument is not supported by the record or the law.

The post-Class Period conduct and statements in the TAC do not aver that Corinthian continued to conceal its alleged unlawful enrollment practices after the close of the Class Period. Rather, nearly all of these references in the TAC concern Corinthian's restatement of revenue that took place later in 2005, an occurrence that does not inexorably lead to the conclusion that Corinthian was continuing to conceal its student enrollment practices. So, while it is correct that loss causation cannot be alleged by referring to a drop in a stock price that occurs prior to the revelation of the alleged truth, Glaser v. Enzo Biochem, Inc., 464 F.3d 474, 479 (4th Cir.2006), Corinthian has not persuasively shown that is what the TAC's references to post-Class Period conduct does.

Moreover, the Seventh Circuit's holding in Thomas that a plaintiff can plead "himself out of court" by alleging particulars that contradict the plaintiff's legal theory is not applicable in this case. 31 F.3d at 559. Thomas is applied in this circuit as support for the rule that precludes a party from avoiding summary judgment by making statements that contradict earlier allegations. See Cline v. Indus. Maint. Eng'g & Contracting Co., 200 F.3d 1223, 1232 (9th Cir.2000) (citing Thomas for proposition that "Appellants could not contradict their earlier allegations in an effort to survive summary judgment."). Corinthian points to no authority that prevents a securities fraud plaintiff from alleging that the defendant continues to perpetuate the misconduct after it has been revealed to the market. Although such behavior is no longer "fraud" per se—because the misrepresentations have been revealed and reliance is no longer possible—that does not mean that the earlier fraud is somehow legally negated. Hence, the TAC's reference to post-Class Period conduct does not defeat loss causation as a matter of law (although, for reasons discussed above, the TAC also does not otherwise establish loss causation).

10 The Tellabs Court cited with approval this court's decision in Gompper, which articulated a standard for evaluating a securities fraud complaint's scienter allegations similar to the standard ultimately adopted by the Court. 127 S.Ct. at 2509 (citing Gompper, 298 F.3d at 897 ("the court must consider all reasonable inferences to be drawn from the allegations, including references unfavorable to the plaintiffs") (emphasis in original)). We thus rely on the Ninth Circuit's pre-Tellabs decisions interpreting the PSLRA's scienter requirement where appropriate here.

11 As Defendants note, the bulk of Beal's and Moore's sales took place according to pre-determined 10b5–1 trading plans. Sales according to pre-determined plans may "rebut [ ] an inference of scienter." Cf. In re Worlds of Wonder Sec. Litig., 35 F.3d 1407, 1427–28 (9th Cir.1994) (sales based on pre-determined trading plan coupled with small sales amounts rebutted allegations of scienter).

12 Metzler's insufficient scienter allegations are not overcome with references to post-Class Period statements. Metzler places special emphasis on a slide show presented at Corinthian's Presidents' Meeting in 2005 that summarizes a Corinthian 2004 internal audit and refers to several findings regarding Corinthian's "Financial Aid" practices. TAC ¶ 13 ("Unresolved Credit Balances ... Missing Documents ... Late Refunds ... Incorrect DOD's"). Metzler alleges that these slides point to "internal reforms" that raise a "strong inference" of scienter. But plaintiffs fail to allege any corroborating details to indicate that the audit revealed company wide fraud, or that the Defendants were aware of the fraud during the Class Period. Accordingly, these post-Class Period statements do not rectify the lack of scienter pled elsewhere. See No. 84 Employer–Teamster Joint Council Pension Trust Fund v. Am. W. Holding Corp., 320 F.3d 920, 941–42 n. 20 (9th Cir.2003) (noting that generalized references to internal reports insufficient to provide strong inference of scienter as to particular defendant).

13 The TAC relies on the statement of CW20, a former Director of Financial Aid at Corinthian's Las Vegas College, who was employed by Corinthian for part of the Class Period and attended the meeting at issue. CW20's identity and knowledge, as with the other confidential witnesses named in the TAC, are described with sufficient specificity to meet the PSLRA's standards generally. See Daou, 411 F.3d at 1016 ("Plaintiffs here describe the confidential witnesses with a large degree of specificity."). The problem for Metzler is not that the confidential witnesses are inadequately identified—the problem is that these witnesses do not convey information sufficient to support the strong inference of scienter that the PSLRA requires.

14 In a settlement agreement that contained no admission of wrongdoing, Apollo agreed to pay $9.8 million to settle the DOE's program review. In re Apollo Group Inc., 509 F.Supp.2d. at 839–40."

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

KeyCite Yellow Flag - Negative Treatment
Distinguished by Metzler Inv. GMBH v. Corinthian Colleges, Inc., 9th Cir.(Cal.), August 26, 2008

509 F.Supp.2d 837
United States District Court, D. Arizona.

In re APOLLO GROUP INC.
SECURITIES LITIGATION,
This Document Relates To: All Actions.

No. CV04–2147–PHX–JAT, CV04–2204–PHT–JAT, CV04–2334–PHX–JAT.
|
Sept. 11, 2007.

Synopsis

Background: Investors filed securities fraud class action alleging that corporation operating for-profit university kept its stock artificially high during class period by misrepresenting status of Department of Education (DOE) program review. Parties filed cross-motions for summary judgment.

Holdings: The District Court, James A. Teilborg, J., held that:

[1] fact issues remained as to whether public statement regarding qui tam action against corporation was intended to mislead investors;

[2] fact issues remained as to whether DOE report would affect reasonable investor's decision to buy or sell stock; and

[3] fact issues remained as to whether market professional's analysis of DOE report constituted corrective disclosure.

Motions denied.

West Headnotes (12)

[1] Securities Regulation
Manipulative, Deceptive or Fraudulent Conduct

To prevail on securities fraud claim under Rule 10b–5, plaintiff must prove that: (1) defendants made misrepresentation or omission (2) of material fact (3) with scienter (4) that caused alleged loss. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Securities Regulation
Matters to Be Disclosed

While corporation may not have affirmative duty to disclose interim regulatory findings, it does have duty under Rule 10b–5 to disclose material facts that are necessary to make disclosed statements, whether mandatory or volunteered, not misleading. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Securities Regulation
Misrepresentation

Statement that is literally true is misrepresentation, for purposes of Rule 10b–5, if context in which it was made misled listener as to true state of affairs. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Federal Civil Procedure
Securities cases in general

Genuine issue of material fact as to whether public statement by corporation operating for-profit university that United States declined to intervene in qui tam action alleging that it improperly compensated its enrollment counselors was intended to mislead investors into thinking that government viewed lawsuit's allegation of improper compensation as meritless precluded summary judgment in investors' securities fraud class action alleging that corporation kept its stock artificially high during class period by misrepresenting status of Department of Education (DOE) program review based on failure to properly compensate enrollment counselors. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Securities Regulation

Materiality

In Rule 10b–5 context, omission is "material" if there is substantial likelihood that disclosure of omitted fact would have been viewed by reasonable investor as having significantly altered total mix of information available. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Federal Civil Procedure

Securities cases in general

Genuine issue of material fact as to whether Department of Education (DOE) report indicating that corporation operating for-profit university failed to properly compensate its enrollment counselors would affect reasonable investor's decision to buy or sell stock in corporation precluded summary judgment on materiality grounds in investors' securities fraud class action alleging that corporation kept its stock artificially high during class period by misrepresenting report's status. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Securities Regulation

Scienter, Intent, Knowledge, Negligence or Recklessness

"Scienter" necessary to support securities fraud claim under Rule 10b–5 is mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Securities Regulation

Scienter, Intent, Knowledge, Negligence or Recklessness

To satisfy scienter element of securities fraud claim with knowledge, plaintiff must prove that defendants acted with knowledge that failure to disclose information would make their statements misleading, not merely that defendants had knowledge of material information. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Federal Civil Procedure

Securities cases in general

Genuine issue of material fact as to whether officers of corporation operating for-profit university knew that their public statements were misleadingly incomplete because of their failure to disclose Department of Education (DOE) report indicating that university failed to properly compensate enrollment counselors precluded summary judgment based on lack of scienter in investors' securities fraud class action alleging that corporation kept its stock artificially high during class period by misrepresenting report's status. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Securities Regulation

Facts or opinions

For purposes of Rule 10b–5, statement of opinion or belief is false or misleading if (1) statement is not actually believed by speaker, (2) it is believed by speaker, but there is no reasonable basis for that belief, or (3) speaker is aware of undisclosed facts tending to seriously undermine statement's accuracy.

Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Securities Regulation

Causation;existence of injury

Losses caused by market factors unrelated to alleged fraud do not afford basis for recovery under Rule 10b–5. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Federal Civil Procedure

Securities cases in general

Genuine issue of material fact as to whether market professional's analysis of Department of Education (DOE) report indicating that for-profit university failed to properly compensate its enrollment counselors constituted corrective disclosure, even though underlying facts had been previously disclosed to investing public, precluded summary judgment on ground that there was no loss causation in investors' securities fraud class action alleging that corporation that operated university kept its stock artificially high during class period by misrepresenting report's status. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 10(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78j(b); 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5.

4 Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

*839 Leonard Barrack, Stephen R. Basser, Jeffrey A. Barrack, Samuel M. Ward, Barrack, Rodos & Bacine, Philadelphia, PA, Andrew S. Friedman, Francis J. Balint, Jr., Bonnett, Fairbourn, Friedman & Balint, P.C., Pheonix, AZ, for Policemen's Annuitiy and Benefit Fund of Chicago.

ORDER

JAMES A. TEILBORG, District Judge.

In this consolidated securities-fraud class action, Lead Plaintiff Policemen's Annuity and Benefit Fund of Chicago alleges violations of section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 10b–5 promulgated thereunder. Lead Plaintiff has filed a motion for partial summary judgment (Doc. # 204), and Defendants Apollo Group, Inc. ("Apollo"), Todd S. Nelson, and Kenda B. Gonzales have filed a cross-motion for summary judgment (Doc. # 215). After reviewing these motions, and the responses and replies thereto, the Court denies both motions.

I. Background

Defendant Apollo is the largest for-profit provider of higher education in the United States and the parent company of the University of Phoenix ("UOP"), a wholly-owned subsidiary that accounts for over ninety percent of Apollo's total revenue. During the time period relevant to this case, Defendant Nelson was Apollo's chief executive officer, and Defendant Gonzales was Apollo's chief financial officer. Lead Plaintiff represents a class of persons who purchased Apollo stock between February 27, 2004, and September 14, 2004.

At issue in the case is whether Defendants kept Apollo stock artificially high during the class period by misrepresenting the status of a Department of Education ("DOE") program review at the UOP. Lead Plaintiff alleges that the failure to disclose the contents of a DOE report [1] rendered certain public statements made by Defendants during the class period false or misleading. The report, which was issued on February 5, 2004, concluded, among other things, that the UOP improperly compensated its enrollment counselors "solely based on [the] recruiters' success in securing enrollments," a violation of DOE regulations [Lead Plaintiff's Statement of Undisputed Facts ("LPSUF") ¶ 20]. Violations of DOE regulations can result in "limitation, suspension, or termination" of Title IV eligibility [LPSUF ¶ 6], a significant event to a company whose future success is "highly dependant" on such eligibility [LPSUF ¶ 5].

On September 7, 2004, before the DOE issued a final determination in the program review, the UOP agreed to pay $9.8 million to the DOE to settle the program *840 review. The settlement agreement specified that the act of entering into the agreement did not constitute an admission of wrongdoing or liability on the UOP's part. Shortly thereafter, on September 14, 2004, news of the allegations contained in the DOE report were made public for the first time. The price of Apollo stock fell significantly on September 21, 2004. Lead Plaintiff claims that the disclosure of the DOE's allegations caused the stock-price decline.

II. Legal Standard

Summary judgment is appropriate when "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law." Fed.R.Civ.P. 56(c). A dispute about a fact is "genuine" if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the non-moving party. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 91 L.Ed.2d 202 (1986). The Court construes all disputed facts in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Ellison v. Robertson, 357 F.3d 1072, 1075 (9th Cir.2004).

III. Discussion

[1] Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule 10b–5 promulgated thereunder forbid the making of "any untrue statement of a material fact" or the omission of any material fact necessary "to make the statements made ... not misleading." 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5 (2004). To prevail on its securities-fraud claim, Lead Plaintiff must prove, among other things, that (1) Defendants made a misrepresentation or omission (2) of material fact (3) with scienter (4) that caused the alleged loss. Binder v. Gillespie, 184 F.3d 1059, 1063 (9th Cir.1999); Provenz v. Miller, 102 F.3d 1478, 1483 (9th Cir.1996).

In moving for partial summary judgment, Lead Plaintiff contends that the undisputed evidence in this case establishes as a matter of law that (1) Defendants made misrepresentations (2) of material fact (3) with scienter. In contrast, Defendants maintain that the undisputed evidence demonstrates that they are entitled to summary judgment for three reasons: (1) they had no duty to disclose the DOE report; (2) they did not act with scienter; and (3) the alleged misrepresentations did not cause the alleged loss, i.e., Lead Plaintiff has not proved loss causation. Because of the overlap of the issues raised in these motions, the Court will organize its discussion around the relevant legal elements of Lead Plaintiff's securities-fraud claim.

A. Misrepresentation

1. Duty of Disclosure

As a preliminary matter, Defendants attempt to characterize this lawsuit as a nondisclosure case and contend that, as a matter of law, they had no duty to disclose the DOE report. Their arguments in support of this contention, however, overlook the fact that Lead Plaintiff characterizes this lawsuit as a misrepresentation case and has presented evidence in support of this claim. In other words, Defendants' preliminary arguments regarding disclosure focus only on when an affirmative duty to disclose specific facts is triggered, rather than the corresponding duty to never make misleading public statements.

For example, Defendants' first argument is that, because they believed the DOE report to be unauthorized and the allegations contained in it to be false, they owed a fiduciary duty to their shareholders to not disclose the contents of the report in order to prevent market overreaction. Such paternalism finds no place in the federal securities laws. As the Supreme *841 Court has stated, "Disclosure, and not paternalistic withholding of accurate information, is the policy chosen and expressed by Congress." Basic v. Levinson, 485 U.S. 224, 234, 108 S.Ct. 978, 99 L.Ed.2d 194 (1988).

Defendants' second argument is that they have no duty to disclose interim regulatory findings, like the DOE report, in an ongoing regulatory process, like the DOE program review. It is true that the securities laws do not impose an absolute duty of disclosure on corporations. Basic, 485 U.S. at 239 n. 17, 108 S.Ct. 978 ("Silence, absent a duty to disclose, is not misleading under Rule 10b–5."); Gallagher v. Abbott Labs., 269 F.3d 806, 808 (7th Cir.2001) ("We do not have a system of continuous disclosure. Instead, firms are entitled to keep silent ... unless positive law creates a duty to disclose."). However, none of the cases cited by Defendants supports the broad proposition they urge the Court to accept. Instead, each case involves an alleged misrepresentation where a court found—on the specific facts before it—that the failure to disclose certain information did not render the statements made false or misleading. [2]

[2] In other words, while Defendants may not have an affirmative duty to disclose interim regulatory findings, they do have "a duty to disclose material facts that are necessary to make disclosed statements, whether mandatory or volunteered, not misleading." Hanon v. Dataproducts Corp., 976 F.2d 497, 504 (9th Cir.1992). The language of Rule 10b–5 mandates this result. [3] In its essence, then, Defendants' argument boils down to a contention that the failure to disclose the DOE report, under the circumstances of this case, did not render any of their class-period statements false or misleading. The Court will address this argument below.

2. The Alleged Misrepresentations

The heart of Lead Plaintiff's claim is that certain public statements made by Defendants were misleadingly incomplete. Defendants contend that none of their class-period statements were false or misleading as a matter of law. The Court, however, finds that Lead Plaintiff has presented evidence sufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact with regard to a number of class-period statements.

For example, on February 27, 2004, Defendants issued a press release announcing the dismissal of a qui tam lawsuit that had been filed against Apollo by two of its employees. The lawsuit alleged that Apollo improperly compensated its enrollment counselors—the same allegation contained in the DOE report that Defendants had received several weeks earlier. In relevant part, the press release read:

> Apollo Group, Inc. learned today that on February 19, 2004, the U.S. District 842 Court for the Eastern District of California granted our motion to dismiss the previously disclosed qui tam action.
>
> The qui tam action was brought by two of our current employees on behalf of themselves and the federal government and alleged that we improperly compensate our employees who are involved in the recruitment of new students. The government declined to intervene in the lawsuit.

LPSUF ¶ 63 (emphasis added).

[3] [4] Defendants assert that the press release was literally true and therefore not misleading, an argument that rests on the fallacious premise that literally true statements can never be misrepresentations. On the contrary, a statement that is literally true is a misrepresentation if the context in which it was made misled the listener as to the true state of affairs. Kaplan v. Rose, 49 F.3d 1363, 1372 (9th Cir.1994); see also 9th Cir. Civ. Jury Instr. 18.0 (2007). Lead Plaintiff alleges that stating that the government declined to intervene misled investors into thinking that the government viewed the lawsuit's allegation of improper compensation as meritless, when in fact the government had made the same allegation in the DOE report. The Court cannot conclude that no reasonable jury could agree with Lead Plaintiff's interpretation of this press release. Thus, whether the press release was misleading is a genuine issue of material fact for the jury, and Defendants will not be granted summary judgment on this basis.

Lead Plaintiff also moves for summary judgment on this issue, maintaining that certain statements made by Defendants during the class period, including the statement in the press release quoted above, were misrepresentations as a matter of law. The statements Lead Plaintiff relies on, however, are not so obviously misleading " 'that reasonable minds [could] not differ.' " See Fecht v. Price Co., 70 F.3d 1078, 1081 (9th Cir.1995) (quoting Durning v. First Boston Corp., 815 F.2d 1265, 1268 (9th Cir.1987)). [4] Thus, whether any of Defendants' class-period statements were misleading as to the true status of the DOE program review is a genuine issue of material fact for trial.

B. Materiality of the DOE Report

Lead Plaintiff argues that the DOE report was material as a matter of law for several reasons. First, the alleged regulatory 843 violations contained in it could result in substantial fines or even the termination of the UOP's ability to participate in Title IV programs. Second, the DOE report required the UOP to implement certain corrective actions that could adversely affect its business. In light of these considerations, Lead Plaintiff maintains that the report would unquestionably affect a reasonable investor's decision to buy or sell stock. Moreover, Lead Plaintiff contends that Defendants implicitly admitted the report's materiality by closing the insider trading window after receiving the report.

In response, Defendants challenge the validity of the report and Lead Plaintiff's characterization of its contents. Defendants claim that the DOE employee who issued the report was not authorized to do so. Moreover, even assuming the report's validity, Defendants argue that it was only a preliminary report that was subject to change and that could not, by its nature, require corrective action. Finally, Defendants allege that the market failed to react to the report's disclosure in September 2004, and that this alleged failure is also evidence of the report's immateriality. Lead Plaintiff, in reply, points to evidence that disputes each of Defendants' contentions.

[5] [6] Materiality is an objective concept that is viewed from the perspective of the "reasonable investor." TSC Indus., Inc. v. Northway, Inc., 426 U.S. 438, 449, 96 S.Ct. 2126, 48 L.Ed.2d 757 (1976). In the Rule 10b–5 context, an omission is material if there is a "substantial likelihood that the disclosure of the omitted fact would have been viewed by the reasonable investor as having significantly altered the 'total mix' of information available." Basic, 485 U.S. at 231–32, 108 S.Ct. 978 (quoting TSC Indus., 426 U.S. at 449, 96 S.Ct. 2126). The focus of this inquiry is on the "fact's potential to influence an investor's particular decision—the decision to buy or sell a security." United States v. Berger, 473 F.3d 1080, 1100 (9th Cir.2007). Given the pervasive factual disputes surrounding the nature of the DOE report, the Court cannot say that its omission is " 'so obviously important to an investor that reasonable minds cannot differ.' " TSC Indus., 426 U.S. at 450, 96 S.Ct. 2126 (quoting Johns Hopkins Univ. v. Hutton, 422 F.2d 1124, 1129 (4th Cir.1970)). Thus, the Court finds that the materiality of the report presents a genuine issue of material fact for the jury to decide.

C. Scienter

Lead Plaintiff contends that, assuming the DOE report was material and the failure to disclose it rendered certain statements misleading, Defendants' knowledge of the allegations contained in the report establishes scienter as a matter of law. Defendants contend that the undisputed evidence shows that their decision to not disclose the DOE report was made in good faith and supported by the advice of counsel, and that, as a result, they are entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

[7] [8] Scienter is "a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud." Ernst & Ernst v. Hochfelder, 425 U.S. 185, 193 n. 12, 96 S.Ct. 1375, 47 L.Ed.2d 668 (1976). To satisfy the scienter element with knowledge, Lead Plaintiff must prove that Defendants acted with knowledge that the failure to disclose the DOE report would make their statements misleading, not merely that Defendants had knowledge of material information. See In re Daou Systems, Inc., 411 F.3d 1006, 1021 (9th Cir.2005) (noting that the "knowledge" required for scienter is the "false or misleading" nature of the statement). Thus, although Defendants admittedly knew about the adverse contents of the DOE report at the time they made their statements, such knowledge standing 844 alone does not entitle Lead Plaintiff to judgment as a matter of law.

[9] As for Defendants' theory, even assuming that Defendants acted in good faith on the advice of counsel, which Lead Plaintiff disputes, such evidence would not entitle them to judgment as a matter of law. Although knowledge of the DOE's allegations does not entitle Lead Plaintiff to summary judgment, the knowledge does provide a basis from which a reasonable juror could infer that Defendants knew their statements were misleadingly incomplete, especially in light of other circumstantial evidence in this case.[5] In re Software Toolworks, Inc., 50 F.3d 615, 626 (9th Cir.1994) (stating that summary judgment is appropriate only when " 'there is no rational basis in the record for concluding that any of the challenged statements was made with the requisite scienter' " (quoting In re Apple Computer Sec. Litig., 886 F.2d 1109, 1117 (9th Cir.1989))).

[10] Moreover, some of the statements that Lead Plaintiff claims were misleading were Defendant Nelson's optimistic statements about the program review. The Ninth Circuit has held that a statement of opinion or belief is false or misleading "if (1) the statement is not actually believed [by the speaker], (2) [it is believed by the speaker, but] there is no reasonable basis for the belief, or (3) the speaker is aware of undisclosed facts tending to seriously undermine the statement's accuracy." Kaplan, 49 F.3d at 1375. Although undisputed evidence of Defendants' good faith and reliance on the advice of counsel would eliminate the first two prongs of this disjunctive test, the third prong would still remain. A reasonable jury could conclude that Defendant Nelson's knowledge of the DOE report's allegations of regulatory violations seriously undermined his optimistic statements about the program review. In sum, whether Defendants acted with the requisite scienter presents a genuine issue of material fact for the jury to resolve.

D. Loss Causation

1. Legal Background: The Event Study

[11] To prevail on a Rule 10b–5 claim, the plaintiff must prove loss causation. Dura Pharm., Inc. v. Broudo, 544 U.S. 336, 342, 125 S.Ct. 1627, 161 L.Ed.2d 577 (2005). "Loss causation" is the "causal connection" between the alleged misrepresentations or omissions and the economic loss. Id. Losses caused by market factors unrelated to the alleged fraud do not afford a basis for recovery. Id. at 344, 125 S.Ct. 1627; Green v. Occidental Petroleum Corp., 541 F.2d 1335, 1342 (9th Cir.1976) (Sneed, J., concurring). According to the Restatement of Torts, a person becomes liable for a stock purchaser's loss "when the facts ... become generally known" and "as a result" share value declines. § 548A, cmt. b, at 107.

The tool most often used by experts to isolate the economic losses caused by the alleged fraud is the "event study." In re Imperial Credit Indus., Inc., 252 F.Supp.2d 1005, 1014 (C.D.Cal.2003). "An event study is a statistical regression analysis that examines the effect of an event on a dependant variable, such as a corporation's stock price." Id. at 1014. For securities-fraud purposes, the "event" analyzed is the disclosure of the alleged fraud to the market.

The fraud is not always "revealed through one correction." Bradford Cornell & R. Gregory Morgan, Using Finance Theory to Measure Damages in Fraud–on–the–Market Cases, 37 UCLA L.Rev. 883, 889 (1990). At least some, and perhaps 845 most, securities-fraud actions "consist of a series of exaggerations, omissions, and misleading statements which are corrected, or merely revealed for what they are, in a series of subsequent statements that convey additional information as well." Id. In such cases, it is appropriate to view the series of corrective disclosures as a single cumulative event, or event window, for the purposes of the event study. Id. at 906. The "length of the window depends on the facts of each case." Id.

2. Applicability to this Case

In this case, both Lead Plaintiff and Defendants hired experts to perform event studies to determine whether the disclosure of the alleged fraud caused Apollo's stock to decline. Lead Plaintiff's expert concluded that the September disclosures caused the stock to decline, and Defendants' expert concluded that they did not. The fundamental disagreement between the experts, which caused the divergent results, is the dating of the final corrective disclosure, i.e., the point at which the alleged fraud was fully disclosed to the market.

Lead Plaintiff's expert, Dr. Steven P. Feinstein, concluded that the truth of Defendants' alleged omission of the DOE report trickled into the market in a series of partial disclosures that began with several newspaper articles on September 14, 2004, and ended with two analyst reports authored by Kelly Flynn on September 20, 2004 (the "Flynn reports"). According to Dr. Feinstein, each of the partial disclosures was necessary for the market to fully appreciate the significance of Defendants' alleged omission. Consequently, in conducting his event study, he viewed the partial disclosures cumulatively as one overarching event, and found that this event caused Apollo's stock price to decline on September 21.

Defendants' expert, Dr. Kenneth Lehn, concluded that the newspaper articles of September 14 fully disclosed the truth of the alleged fraud. He chose not to include the Flynn reports in his event study because, according to him, they were not corrective disclosures. Dr. Lehn found that, rather than introduce any new facts about Defendants' alleged fraud to the market, the Flynn reports merely analyzed the facts previously disclosed in the newspaper articles, something the rest of the market was just as capable of doing. Utilizing September 14 as the "event" in his study, Dr. Lehn concluded that the disclosure of the alleged fraud did not cause Apollo's stock to decline six trading days later on September 21.

Dr. Feinstein disagrees with Dr. Lehn's characterization of the Flynn reports. According to Dr. Feinstein, although the contents of the DOE report were concededly revealed in the newspaper articles, the import of those contents was not appreciated until Kelly Flynn issued her reports on September 20. He maintains that the newspaper articles and previous analyst reports—as well as the manner in which Apollo announced its settlement with the DOE without disclosing the specific allegations that led to it—all gave the impression that the DOE report had no bearing on Apollo's current or future regulatory problems. By contrast, the Flynn reports took the position that the seriousness of the allegations in the DOE report revealed that Apollo was vulnerable to future regulatory problems.[6] Predicting future vulnerability on the basis of the contents of the DOE report was additional information that, according to Dr. Feinstein, was necessary 846 to fully reveal the nature of Defendants' alleged fraud.

[12] In order to grant summary judgment to Defendants on this issue, the Court would have to conclude as a matter of law that a market professional's analysis of facts that had been previously disclosed to the investing public can never be a corrective disclosure. Defendants have not cited, and this Court has not found, any case that supports this proposition.[7] Thus, on the record before it, this Court cannot conclude as a matter of law that the Flynn reports were not corrective disclosures. Lead Plaintiff's expert proposes to testify that the analysis in the Flynn reports was additional information that, in conjunction with the information previously disclosed, finally and fully revealed Defendants' alleged fraud. A reasonable jury could infer from this testimony that the Flynn reports were necessary to fully disclose the truth of the alleged fraud. See Perkins v. Standard Oil Co. of Cal., 395 U.S. 642, 648, 89 S.Ct. 1871, 23 L.Ed.2d 599 (1969) ("If there is sufficient evidence in the record to support an inference of causation, the ultimate conclusion as to what the evidence proves is for the jury.").

Alternatively, Defendants contend that, even assuming the Flynn reports were necessary to fully disclose the alleged fraud, the efficient market would have absorbed the information into the price of Apollo stock by the end of trading on September 20, the day the reports were issued. Dr. Feinstein's use of a two-day window to measure the effect of the corrective disclosures, Defendants maintain, is inconsistent with the efficient market hypothesis.

"An efficient market is one which rapidly reflects new information in price." 4 Alan R. Bromberg & Lewis D. Lowenfels, Bromberg and Lowenfels on Securities Fraud and Commodities Fraud § 7:484, at 7–925 (2d ed.2007).[8] The Ninth Circuit, however, has declined to adopt "a bright-line rule requiring an immediate market reaction" and instead focuses on the specific facts of each case. No. 84 Employer–Teamster Joint Council Pension Trust Fund v. America West Holding Corp., 320 F.3d 920, 934 (9th Cir.2003); see also Basic, 485 U.S. at 249 n. 28, 108 S.Ct. 978 (specifically declining "to adopt any particular theory of how quickly and completely publicly available information is reflected in the market price"). In this case, the proposed testimony of Lead Plaintiff's expert witness directly contradicts Defendants' contention. Thus, whether the efficient market would have absorbed the information in the Flynn reports by the end of trading on September 20 as opposed to September 21 is a genuine issue of material fact for the jury to decide. See Southland Sod Farms v. Stover Seed Co., 108 F.3d 1134, 1144 (9th Cir.1997) (" 'As a general rule, summary 847 judgment is inappropriate where an expert's testimony supports the nonmoving party's case.' " (quoting In re Apple Computer Sec. Litig., 886 F.2d at 1116)).[9]

IV. Conclusion

The Court having found a disputed issue of material fact as to each element of the claim,

IT IS ORDERED that Lead Plaintiff's Motion for Partial Summary Judgment (Doc. # 204) is denied;

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment (Doc. # 215) is denied;

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all evidentiary objections contained in the motions are overruled without prejudice.

All Citations

509 F.Supp.2d 837, Fed. Sec. L. Rep. P 94,465

Footnotes

1 The Court acknowledges that Defendants dispute whether this report was authorized by the DOE and refer to it throughout their pleadings as the "Wittman Report," Wittman being the DOE employee who authored it. For convenience, however, and without deciding this question, the Court will assume throughout this order that the report was properly issued by the DOE.

2 See Gallagher, 269 F.3d at 811 (holding that the failure to disclose a compliance letter from the FDA did not render the CEO's projection of continued growth false or misleading absent evidence that the CEO did not honestly believe in the projection); City of Austin Police Ret. Sys. v. ITT Educ. Servs., Inc., 388 F.Supp.2d 932, 946 (S.D.Ind.2005) (holding that the failure to disclose a state regulatory investigation did not render false or misleading optimistic statements regarding the company's business model and marketing approach); In re Medimmune, Inc. Sec. Litig., 873 F.Supp. 953, 966 (D.Md.1995) (holding that the failure to disclose "mere questioning" by a regulatory body during an application process did not render the projected approval of the application false or misleading).

3 The pertinent part of the regulation states: "It shall be unlawful for any person ... [t]o make any untrue statement of a material fact or to omit to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading ...." 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5 (2004) (emphasis added).

4 In addition to the press release discussed above, the alleged misrepresentations include:

(1) the following statement made by Defendant Nelson during a March 12, 2004, conference call in response to the analyst question "[D]o you have any sort of timetable when you think the program review will be completed or when any type of report will be issued?":

> Well, it's, you know, again, tough to say.... [O]nce we have had a chance to respond to any issues, that's when we would, again, feel if there's a problem or not. And we have had the opportunity to do that in [this case], and we feel very good about that response.

[LPSUF ¶ 70];

(2) Apollo's April 13, 2004, Form 10–Q, in which it disclosed a DOE audit that affected a subsidiary that accounted for less than five percent of Apollo's tuition revenue but failed to disclose the DOE report issued to the UOP, which accounted for about ninety-five percent of Apollo's tuition revenue;

(3) the following statement made by Defendant Nelson during a June 24, 2004, conference call with market analysts: "The program review at the [UOP] continues to go from our point of view very smoothly" [LPSUF ¶ 83];

(4) optimistic statements concerning the program review at an August 25, 2004, conference call days after the DOE had made a settlement offer of $81 million; and

(5) Defendants' disclosure of the existence of the DOE report and its "negative tone" during a September 7, 2004, conference call without disclosing the report's contents [LPSUF ¶ 106].

5 For example, Defendant Nelson acknowledged in a letter to the DOE that disclosure of the report would cause Apollo's stock price to decline.

6 In the report, Flynn wrote, "We also think the contents of the DOE's recent program review may cause more concerns about [Apollo's] regulatory risk" [Defendants' Amended Statement of Undisputed Facts ¶ 82].

7 During oral argument, Defendants relied heavily on In re Williams Securities Litigation, 496 F.Supp.2d 1195, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 49123 (N.D.Okla. July 6, 2007), in which the court excluded an expert's testimony because the expert failed to differentiate between losses caused by corrective disclosures and losses attributable to negative market developments unrelated to the alleged fraud. Id. at *1266–1271, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 49123, at *200–14. In this case, however, unlike In re Williams, if the jury agrees that the Flynn reports were necessary to fully disclose the fraud to the market, then Dr. Feinstein has isolated and removed the non-fraud factors that contributed to the stock-price decline.

8 This theory was used by the Supreme Court to create a rebuttable presumption that securities-fraud plaintiffs justifiably rely on misrepresentations or omissions in deciding whether to buy or sell stock in an efficient market. Basic, 485 U.S. at 245–49, 108 S.Ct. 978. Lead Plaintiff concedes that Apollo's stock traded in an efficient market.

9 Defendants make two other arguments that attempt to discredit Dr. Feinstein and the viability of his event study: (1) that Dr. Feinstein employed a result-driven methodology that "cherry-picked" the only event window that generated a statistically significant stock decline; and (2) that Dr. Feinstein failed to assess potential market overreaction by not including September 22 in the event window. These matters are better suited for testing by cross-examination at trial, and the Court will not decide them as a matter of law. See Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharm., Inc., 509 U.S. 579, 596, 113 S.Ct. 2786, 125 L.Ed.2d 469 (1993) (stating that "cross-examination, presentation of contrary evidence, and careful instruction on the burden of proof are the traditional and appropriate means" of testing the credibility of an expert opinion).

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

930 F.Supp.2d 222
United States District Court,
District of Columbia.

PLUMBERS LOCAL # 200 PENSION FUND, individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated, Plaintiff,
v.
WASHINGTON POST COMPANY, Donald E. Graham, and Hal S. Jones, Defendants.

Civil Action No. 10–01835 (BJR).
|
March 19, 2013.

Synopsis

Background: In securities fraud class action brought against parent corporation and certain of its individual officers, institutional investor alleged that defendants oversaw a for-profit education company, which was a subsidiary of a subsidiary, built and dependent upon defrauding students and the federal government, that the individually named defendants misled the market by failing to disclose that company's strong enrollment growth was driven, not by affirmative efforts to operate within the law, but almost exclusively by predatory enrollment practices, illegal compensation policies, and other violations. Defendants moved to dismiss the complaint.

[Holding:] The District Court, Barbara J. Rothstein, J., held that complaint did not allege a strong inference of scienter required by Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA).

Motion granted.

West Headnotes (3)

[1] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Extreme recklessness meeting Private Securities Litigation Reform Act's (PSLRA) scienter requirement, can only be shown where there is an extreme departure from the standards of ordinary care, which presents a danger of misleading buyers or sellers that is either known to the defendant or is so obvious that the actor must have been aware of it; stated another way, scienter can only be shown where the danger was so obvious that the actor was aware of it and consciously disregarded it. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Securities Regulation
Scienter

To determine whether a "strong inference of scienter" exists so as to satisfy stringent pleading requirements of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act's (PSLRA), court engages in a comparative evaluation; it must consider, not only inferences urged by the plaintiff, but also competing inferences rationally drawn from the facts alleged, and when an inference of fraudulent intent which is plausible, but less cogent than other, nonculpable explanations for the defendant's conduct, the allegations fail to satisfy the PSLRA. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Securities Regulation
Scienter

Complaint brought against parent corporation and certain of its officers did not sufficiently allege that the individual officers knowingly or recklessly misled the market with respect to allegedly fraudulent activities of a subsidiary of a subsidiary, which operated a for-profit education company, which allegedly failed to disclose its strong enrollment growth was driven almost exclusively by predatory enrollment practices, illegal compensation policies, and other violations, and therefore complaint did not allege a strong inference of scienter required by Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (PSLRA); even if the information provided to individual officers in relation to executive meetings and witness statements raised some inference of scienter, the allegations were not enough to tip the comparative balance of inferences to give rise to a strong inference of scienter. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, § 101(b), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78u–4(b)(2).

ED-17-0431-A-004846

1 Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

223 Roger M. Adelman, Law Office of Roger M. Adelman, Washington, DC, David J. George, Robert J. Robbins, Robbins Geller Rudman & Dowd LLP, Boca Raton, FL, for Plaintiff.

Kevin Taylor Baine, Steven M. Farina, Williams & Connolly LLP, Washington, DC, for Defendants.

MEMORANDUM OPINION GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS

BARBARA J. ROTHSTEIN, District Judge.

This matter is before the court on Defendants' Motion to Dismiss the Amended Consolidated Class Action Complaint [Docket No. 37; Filed May 11, 2012] ("Motion to Dismiss"). Plaintiff filed an Opposition to the Motion to Dismiss on June 25, 2012 [Docket No. 39], and Defendants filed a Reply on August 9, 2012 [Docket No. 41]. Having considered the parties' arguments, case pleadings, and relevant case law, the court finds that oral argument is unnecessary. Accordingly, for the reasons set forth below,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Motion to Dismiss [# 37] is GRANTED.

I. BACKGROUND

This matter involves allegations that Defendants committed securities fraud. On December 23, 2011, the court granted Defendants' first motion to dismiss on the grounds that the amended complaint pending at that time failed to plead a strong inference of scienter, a crucial element in securities fraud jurisprudence. Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d 291, 303–04 (D.D.C.2011). However, the court agreed to permit Plaintiff to amend its complaint to attempt to cure the deficiency. Order [# 34] at 3. The Amended Complaint [Docket No. 35], which is the operative pleading for resolving the Motion to Dismiss, was filed on March 13, 2012.

As set forth in the court's prior Order, Plaintiff is the lead plaintiff in a class action lawsuit against Defendants Washington Post ("WPO"), Donald E. Graham, the Chairman of the Board and CEO of WPO, and Hal S. Jones, the Senior Vice President and CFO of WPO. Plaintiff claims that defendants violated §§ 10(b) and 20(a) of the Securities Exchange Act and Securities Exchange Commission Rule 10b–5. WPO is the parent company of Kaplan, Inc. ("Kaplan"). Among Kaplan's holdings is Kaplan Higher Education Corp. ("KHE"), a private, for-profit college with approximately seventy campuses nationwide. The lawsuit addresses dramatic decreases in the value of WPO stock in temporal proximity to revelations that the Department of Education ("DOE") and elected officials were investigating admissions and financial aid fraud throughout the for-profit college industry. Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 293.

During the Class Period, which is pled as July 31, 2009 through August 13, 2010, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants "oversaw a for-profit education company built and dependent upon defrauding students and the federal government." Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 3. More specifically, Plaintiff contends that the individually named Defendants misled the market by "failing to disclose that WPO's 'strong enrollment growth' was driven not by affirmative efforts to operate within the law, but almost exclusively by predatory enrollment practices, illegal compensation policies, and [other] violations...." Id.

As noted above, the court's prior dismissal Order focused on the lack of allegations that gave rise to the strong inference 224 that Defendants knowingly misled the market about the value of KHE and the business practices that contributed to that value. The court's analysis centered on the conduct of and information attributable to Defendants Graham and Jones, who were the WPO designees to communicate with the market. See United States v. Philip Morris USA Inc., 566 F.3d 1095, 1118–23 (D.C.Cir.2009) (noting that "to determine whether a corporation made a false or misleading statement with specific intent to defraud, [the court looks] to the state of mind of the individual corporate officers and employees who made, ordered, or approved the [market] statement[s]" at issue). Specifically, the court focused on seven allegations and omissions from the prior complaint that spoke to the issue of scienter of the individual Defendants. Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 294–95. Because the inference that gives rise to a strong showing of scienter may be shown by a combination of information, the court considers the prior information alongside the new allegations contained in the Amended Complaint.

II. STANDARD OF REVIEW

To state a private securities fraud claim, a complaint must sufficiently plead that: (1) there was a material misstatement or omission; (2) made with scienter, i.e., an intent to defraud; (3) in connection with the sale or purchase of security; (4) that was relied upon by plaintiffs; (5) which resulted in economic loss; and (6) that loss was caused by the material misstatement or omission. Dura Pharm., Inc. v. Broudo, 544 U.S. 336, 341–42, 125 S.Ct. 1627, 161 L.Ed.2d 577 (2005). To curb potentially abusive lawsuits, motions to dismiss claims related to securities fraud are reviewed under the standard prescribed by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act ("PSLRA"). Metzler Inv. GMBH v. Corinthian Colleges, Inc., 540 F.3d 1049, 1054–55 (9th Cir.2008). This heightened pleading standard exceeds those set forth in Fed.R.Civ.P. 8 & 9. See Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 313, 317, 127 S.Ct. 2499, 168 L.Ed.2d 179 (2007). In particular, a pleading must "specify each statement alleged to have been misleading [and] the reason or reasons why the statement is misleading" and must "state with particularity facts giving rise to a strong inference that the defendant acted with the required state of mind." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(1), (2).

In performing the relevant analysis, the court must accept all factual allegations in the complaint as true. Tellabs, 551 U.S. at 322, 127 S.Ct. 2499. The court must also "consider the complaint in its entirety, as well as other sources courts ordinarily examine when ruling on Rule 12(b)(6) motions to dismiss, in particular, documents incorporated into the complaint by reference, and matters of which a court may take judicial notice." [1] Id. In relation to 225 scienter, "[t]he inquiry ... is whether all of the facts alleged, taken collectively, give rise to a strong inference of scienter." Id. at 323, 127 S.Ct. 2499 (emphasis added). This consideration necessarily requires the court to consider all inferences, both for and against plaintiffs' claims. Id. at 323–24, 127 S.Ct. 2499. "A complaint will survive ... only if a reasonable person would deem the inference of scienter cogent and at least as compelling as any opposing inference one could draw from the facts alleged." Id. at 324, 127 S.Ct. 2499.

III. ANALYSIS

[1] Sufficient allegations of scienter are necessary to plead securities fraud. Scienter requires a showing that Defendants intended "to deceive, manipulate, or defraud." Ernst & Ernst v. Hochfelder, 425 U.S. 185, 188, 96 S.Ct. 1375, 47 L.Ed.2d 668 (1976). The D.C. Circuit has defined scienter as "[e]ither intentional wrongdoing or 'extreme recklessness.' " Liberty Prop. Trust v. Republic Props. Corp., 577 F.3d 335, 342 (D.C.Cir.2009) (citation omitted). While extreme recklessness is a lesser form of intent, it is not a " 'should have known' standard." Dolphin & Bradbury, Inc. v. SEC, 512 F.3d 634, 639 (D.C.Cir.2008) (citation omitted). Rather, extreme recklessness can only be shown where there is an "extreme departure from the standards of ordinary care, ... which presents a danger of misleading buyers or sellers that is either known to the defendant or is so obvious that the actor must have been aware of it." SEC v. Steadman, 967 F.2d 636, 641 (D.C.Cir.1992) (citation omitted). Stated another way, scienter can only be shown where "the danger was so obvious that the actor was aware of it and consciously disregarded it." Dolphin, 512 F.3d at 639.

[2] To determine whether a "strong inference of scienter" exists, the court "engage[s] in a comparative evaluation; it must consider, not only inferences urged by the plaintiff ... but also competing inferences rationally drawn from the facts alleged." Tellabs, 551 U.S. at 314, 127 S.Ct. 2499. To this end, "[a]n inference of fraudulent intent may be plausible, yet less cogent than other, nonculpable explanations for the defendant's conduct." Id. In such a case, the allegations fail to satisfy the stringent pleading requirements of the PSLRA.

As noted above, the court previously addressed seven core allegations relevant to the issue of scienter in relation to the prior complaint. Specifically, the court considered allegations related to (1) twenty-two confidential witnesses discussing abusive and/or improper recruiting and financial aid practices, mandatory quotas, and employee compensation; (2) the individual Defendants' attendance at executive meetings where these practices may have been discussed; (3) WPO's monitoring of data related to enrollment, financial aid, and anonymous employee complaints regarding enrollment practices at KHE; (4) public statements made about KHE's business by the individual Defendants attributing growth to sound, as opposed to fraudulent, business practices; (5) the core business theory, i.e., the value of KHE to WPO's bottom line; and (6) the remedial post-class-period conduct of the individual Defendants, including the creation of a program deferring payment of tuition. In addition, the court considered the absence of allegations that the individual Defendants profited from their alleged market fraud.

Of the seven areas referenced above, the court found that only two plausibly raised an inference of scienter and that neither alone, nor collectively, did these allegations raise a strong inference. Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 298–99, 301 (attendance at executive meetings where the alleged fraud may have been discussed and statements 226 made as market designees which either hinted at or hid the alleged fraudulent practices). By contrast, the court discredited Plaintiff's reliance on the confidential witness statements, WPO's data monitoring of KHE's business, the core business theory, and post-class-period conduct. Id. at 297–98, 299–300, 301–03. Moreover, the court noted the absence of any lucrative stock sales by the individual Defendants. Id. at 295, 303. While not conclusive, the lack of these allegations was significant and required Plaintiff to provide allegations of scienter of a "correspondingly greater" degree. Id. (quoting ECA v. JP Morgan Chase Co., 553 F.3d 187, 198–99 (2d Cir.2009) (citation omitted)). Plaintiff was unable to satisfy this burden.

[3] The Amended Complaint attempts to nuance and expand allegations which speak to several of the prior categories addressed and rejected by the court. The Amended Complaint also raises new allegations which fall within previously unaddressed categories of information. In total, Plaintiff asks the court to consider approximately fourteen allegations relevant to the scienter inquiry. See Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 14–15. For ease of resolution, the court determines that these allegations fall within the following categories: participation in executive meetings; data monitoring; public statements; core business; lobbying efforts; and whistleblower lawsuits.

A. Case Precedent and the Absence of Motive

Prior to addressing the allegations raised in the Amended Complaint, the court notes that alleged securities fraud at for-profit education institutions has been a frequent subject of recent litigation. These cases have been overwhelmingly unsuccessful. As the court noted in its prior Order, the analysis set forth by the Ninth Circuit in Metzler is particularly relevant. That case also dealt with allegations of securities fraud allegedly committed by executives of a for-profit college. There, the court found that despite several witnesses' interactions with the individual defendants and their attribution of knowledge to them based on that specific interaction, a strong inference of scienter was not pled. Metzler, 540 F.3d at 1067–69. This holding is compelling for two primary reasons. First, the allegations in Metzler created a closer link between the witnesses and the individual Defendants. Second, the executives in Metzler were actually employed by the college and were far more involved in the day-to-day operations of the company than has been alleged here.

The court also notes persuasive holdings regarding similar allegations in cases involving the for-profit college industry. See, e.g., Oklahoma Firefighters Pension & Retirement Sys. v. Capella Educ. Co., 873 F.Supp.2d 1070, 1083–84 (D.Minn.2012) (rejecting speculative theory that management's desire to increase enrollment, coupled with knowledge of high attrition, equated to scienter of the alleged fraudulent scheme); In re Apollo Group, Inc. Sec. Litig., Nos. CV–10–1735, 2012 WL 2376378, at *5–7 (D.Ariz. June 22, 2012) (rejecting a finding of scienter based on theories of rampant fraud, core business, data monitoring, attendance at executive meetings, and receipt of complaints from DOE); Boca Raton Firefighters' & Police Pension Fund v. DeVry Inc., No. 10 C 7031, 2012 WL 1030474, at *10–12 (N.D.Ill. Mar. 27, 2012) (rejecting witnesses' statements that they were motivated to employ fraudulent practices by pressure from management, where few reported to management, and dismissing allegations that management monitored data, even where stock sales during the class period had been made); 227 Karam

v. Corinthian Colleges, Inc., No. CV 10–6523, slip op. at 14–15 (C.D.Cal. Jan. 30, 2012) (rejecting the rehashing of allegations dismissed in previous complaint, including that senior-level officials must have been aware of fraud because of their positions, and rejecting vague statements of witnesses who did not communicate directly with defendants); cf. Ross v. Career Educ. Corp., No. 10 C 276, 2012 WL 5363431, at *9–11 (N.D.Ill. Oct. 30, 2012) (finding a strong inference where allegations showed that one defendant was made aware of the fraud from multiple sources and participated in suspicious activities, but rejecting allegations against second defendant based merely on his position, SEC filings, and data monitoring).

The above case law is persuasive and represents a compelling hurdle for Plaintiff to overcome. First, many of the rejected pleadings raise strikingly similar allegations to those contained in the Amended Complaint. Second, the court notes that several pleadings were authored by the same counsel representing Plaintiff here. See, e.g., Boca Raton, 2012 WL 1030474; Karam, No. CV 10–6523, slip op. Third, the court notes that the unsuccessful cases cited above address alleged fraud occurring at the company where the individual defendants were employed. None address a situation like the one present here, where the alleged fraud occurred at a subsidiary two levels below that of the parent and where neither individual Defendant is alleged to have ever worked. See generally Pugh v. Tribune Co., 521 F.3d 686, 694 (7th Cir.2008) (citation omitted) (recognizing difficulty of establishing scienter of parent company for conduct occurring at subsidiary).

Finally, the court notes the lack of suspicious stock sales attributed to the individual Defendants. Plaintiff contends that the lack of suspicious stock sales is not dispositive to the question of whether, considering all of the other allegations, there is a strong inference of scienter. Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 20–21. By contrast, Defendants argue that the lack of stock sales cannot be ignored and makes the heightened burden borne by Plaintiff even more difficult to meet. Defendants' Reply [# 41] at 7–8.

Both arguments contain an element of persuasion. While the lack of stock sales during the class period is not dispositive, as other courts have noted, the lack of these allegations requires that the strength of pro-scienter allegations be "correspondingly greater." ECA, 553 F.3d at 198–99 (citation omitted). In other words, where there are no suspicious stock sales, the more plausible inference from that fact is "that there was no insider information from which to benefit." Metzler, 540 F.3d at 1067. Here, "[t]he lack of any tangible, personal benefit [from suspicious stock sales] ... weighs against the Officer Defendants having scienter." In re Wet Seal, Inc. Sec. Litig., 518 F.Supp.2d 1148, 1178 (C.D.Cal.2007).

The court is mindful of the presence of compelling case law, much of which rejects a finding of scienter involving similar, but no less voluminous, allegations. The court is also mindful of the fact that the alleged fraud at issue here is said to have occurred at a second-level subsidiary. Lastly, the absence of an identifiable motive by the individual Defendants is also noteworthy. As such, Plaintiff must provide information that not only persuades the court that scienter should be inferred, but also which results in a strong inference of scienter in comparison to the significant precedent, facts, and inferences to the contrary.

B. Executive meetings

Plaintiff contends that new information from an additional confidential witnesses provides the missing detail about the substance of information covered at executive *228 meetings. Plaintiff also proffers allegations about Defendant Graham's attendance at meetings where Kaplan's compensation practices were discussed. Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 14–15. Defendants counter that the allegations, old and new, suffer from the same shortcomings as recognized in the court's prior Order. Defendants' Motion [# 37] at 10–11.

As a preliminary matter, the court previously considered the allegations regarding Defendant Graham's attendance at meetings addressing compensation issues. Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 298–99. The court held that absent allegations that the compensation issues related to the alleged fraud, the allegations were not enough. Id.

Further, as before, see id. at 297–99, allegations that the individual Defendants attended meetings where alleged wrongful practices may have been discussed do not sufficiently raise an inference that these men were tipped off to the fraud alleged here. See In re Fed. Nat'l Mortg. Ass'n Sec., Deriv. & ERISA Litig., 503 F.Supp.2d 25, 40–41 (D.D.C.2007) (requiring the witness to clearly articulate what defendant was told, by whom, and how he responded to it). This is especially true absent an allegation that the fraud was actually discussed and understood as such by the individual Defendants. For example, although Confidential Witness # 23 contends that the individual Defendants attended meetings "where 'concerns' about Kaplan's extreme growth, hiring, and acquisition practices were discussed," Amended Complaint [# 35] at 81, this generalized statement does not indicate that financial aid abuses and illegal recruiting and compensation practices were indicated to be the cause for concern. It is simply insufficient to provide general, nonspecific allegations regarding what the individual Defendants were told and how they interpreted it.[2] See Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 298–99 (citation omitted); see also In re Apollo Group, 2012 WL 2376378, at *6–7 (rejecting that similar generalized statements said to be the topic at executive meetings raised an inference of scienter).

To be clear, the statements of the twenty-four confidential witnesses contained in the Amended Complaint provide information which, if true, evidences the existence of abusive or unethical admissions and financial aid practices. However, the witness 229 statements speak only to an alleged predatory scheme known to or encouraged by KHE and Kaplan. Apart from innuendo and conjecture, the Amended Complaint fails to provide significant allegations attributing these questionable practices to WPO or the individual Defendants. Even if the information provided in relation to executive meetings and witness statements raises some inference of scienter, these allegations are not enough to convince the court that the comparative balance of inferences "give[s] rise to a strong inference of scienter." Tellabs, 551 U.S. at 323, 127 S.Ct. 2499 (emphasis added).

C. Data Monitoring

Plaintiff contends that data systems maintained at the WPO level tracked enrollment and financial aid payments. Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 17. Plaintiff also contends that on an intra-company website, employees repeatedly questioned whether KHE's enrollment practices were legal. Id. at 15. Defendants note that this information does not differ or expand upon allegations contained in the prior complaint. Defendants' Reply [# 41] at 12.

Evidence that WPO regularly received detailed KHE financial reports and anonymous complaints neither suggests that the individual Defendants received them nor that they comprehended any fraud as their foundation. Metzler, 540 F.3d at 1068 (finding that "corporate management's general awareness of the day-to-day workings of the company's business does not establish scienter—at least absent some additional allegation of specific information conveyed to management and related to the fraud."); see also Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 299–300 (rejecting similar allegations relating to data monitoring at the parent generally which did not speak to the individual Defendants' access to the data specifically). Simply, "there is a big difference between knowing about the reports from [a subsidiary] and knowing the reports are false" or indicative of fraud. Pugh, 521 F.3d at 694 (alteration in original) (citation omitted); DeVry, 2012 WL 1030474, at *11 (rejecting that frequent monitoring of the admissions process could be said to have alerted corporate designees of alleged fraud). As in Metzler, the "more 'cogent' " inference is that the company "maintained its information tracking system for the necessary and legitimate purpose of running its business." Metzler, 540 F.3d at 1068.

D. Public Statements

Plaintiff contends that the individual Defendants were the WPO designees to speak to the market. Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 15–16. By extension, Plaintiff essentially argues that the public statements attributed to these executives signifies their knowledge with the underlying interworkings at Kaplan and KHE, which would include the alleged fraud being committed there. Defendants contend that these allegations were raised and rejected in relation to the prior complaint. Defendants' Reply [# 41] at 15.

Indeed, the court previously noted that the individual Defendants' statements regarding students' difficulty in repaying loans and the concern this implicated did not raise a strong inference that Defendants were aware of the predatory practices that allegedly attributed to this situation. Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 301. Essentially, Plaintiff asks the court to infer scienter based on assertions of what the individual Defendants should have known. This is simply inadequate. Dolphin, 512 F.3d at 639; Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 295–96 (rejecting assertion that an individual's significance to the company supplies an inference of scienter); see also 230 In re Advanta Corp. Sec. Litig., 180 F.3d 525, 539 (3d Cir.1999) ("[A]llegations that a securities fraud defendant, because of his position within the company, 'must have known' a statement was false or misleading are 'precisely the types of inferences which [courts], on numerous occasions, have determined to be inadequate ....' " (citation omitted)).

In regard to the present allegations (which do not deviate significantly from those already rejected), while Defendant Graham's statement to stockholders that he was concerned about low repayment rates of financial aid in the for-profit college industry continues to be one of Plaintiff's more compelling allegations of scienter, "[v]iewing the [Complaint] in its totality, ... this statement does not raise a 'strong inference' of scienter." Metzler, 540 F.3d at 1069 (recognizing that heightened PSLRA standard cannot be met by one statement that is "not so indicative of fraudulent intent that it carries the weight of the entire 181–page complaint for purposes of establishing a 'strong inference' of scienter"). Moreover, the court rejects Plaintiff's contention that because the individual Defendants spoke "thoroughly and intelligently" about KHE to the market, Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 15, this leads to the strong inference that they must have known more than they let on. In re Apollo Group, 2012 WL 2376378, at *7. "[T]hese allegations are generally conclusory in that they rely on the assertion of what Defendants 'must have known.' This is not enough to establish a strong inference of scienter or to link such an inference to Defendants' knowledge at the time the allegedly false or misleading statements were made." Id.

E. Core business

Plaintiff explains that during the Class Period, large sums of money were transferred between KHE/Kaplan and WPO. Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 17, 19. Plaintiff contends, in part, that WPO transferred money to Kaplan when there were shortfalls of mandatory cash on hand as required by federal regulations. Id. Finally, Plaintiff provides allegations related to Defendant Jones' prior employment by Kaplan as evidence that he must have been aware of the money transferring between KHE/Kaplan and WPO and the fraudulent purposes it served. Id. at 14. Defendants counter that Plaintiff's allegations do not evidence fraud but, rather, innocuous business practices. Defendants' Reply [# 41] at 13. Moreover, there is no evidence that the individual Defendants were aware of such practices or that they, or anyone else at WPO, viewed it as fraudulent. Defendants' Motion [# 37] at 14.

As a preliminary matter, the court categorizes the above allegations as a variation of the core business theory raised in Plaintiff's prior complaint because the allegations seek to show that the businesses of KHE/Kaplan and WPO were so intermingled that the individual Defendants were unquestionably aware of the fraud occurring at KHE. In this regard, evidence regarding the employment status of Defendant Jones, none of which pertains to employment at KHE, does not raise any inference that he had knowledge during the Class Period of alleged wrongdoing at KHE. See Metzler, 540 F.3d at 1067–69 (rejecting more compelling allegations where individuals alleged to have scienter were direct employees of the company actually alleged to have participated in the wrongful conduct). Likewise, allegations that because of Defendant Jones' previous employment by Kaplan and other non-KHE Kaplan subsidiaries prior to the class period he "undoubtedly became aware of, supervised, and/or facilitated" in fraud related to KHE, without any supporting factual averments or attribution, Amended Complaint [# 35] at 9–10, 72–73, 138, are simply inadequate.

231 Moreover, allegations that WPO or Kaplan operated as a repository for KHE funds, including Title IV funds, do not sufficiently raise an inference of scienter. Rather, these allegations (assuming they speak to company-wide fraud)[3] attempt to impose liability against WPO based on a complicated and confusing monetary scheme where there is no evidence that the individual Defendants knew about the scheme or that it was improper. This is insufficient. For example, allegations that employees at Kaplan were involved in attempts to hide cash shortages at KHE in violation of federal regulations by securing the money from WPO are insufficient because the individual Defendants are not alleged to have any knowledge of such practices. See, e.g., Amended Complaint [# 35] at 71–74. Likewise, an allegation that an improper accounting practice "was well known amongst Kaplan executives," id. at 65, 71–72, does not raise a sufficient inference that such practices were well known to significant individuals at WPO "absent some additional allegation of specific information conveyed to management and related to the fraud." Metzler, 540 F.3d at 1068. Simply, given what has been pled in the Amended Complaint, conclusory allegations that "WPO's management knew that Kaplan was not in material compliance with existing regulations," do nothing to advance an inference that the individual Defendants were aware of any fraud and misled the market.[4] Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 19; cf. Amended Complaint [# 35] at 74 (describing one WPO employee's involvement in the transfers and failing to supply sufficient information to equate that involvement to WPO's knowledge of any fraud).

To the extent that Plaintiff attempts to rehabilitate these allegations with evidence that KHE was a core business of WPO, it is insufficient. See generally Stevens v. InPhonic, 662 F.Supp.2d 105, 121 n. 8 (D.D.C.2009) (rejecting applicability of a core business inference). As before, the court continues to find that despite the *232 specificity and detail of these allegations, they are insufficient to raise an inference of scienter on behalf of WPO or the individual Defendants, either in isolation or in consideration of other allegations. See Order [# 29], 831 F.Supp.2d at 302 (holding that "where, as here, Plaintiff's allegations rest on convincing the court that WPO executives were aware of [alleged fraud] occurring on the ground at a subsidiary of a subsidiary, it is not enough to contend that those executives should have known what was happening based merely on the value of KHE to Kaplan and, in turn, Kaplan to the ultimate parent" (citation omitted)).

F. Lobbying efforts

Plaintiff contends that Defendant Graham's increased lobbying efforts during the Class Period convey knowledge of his familiarity with Kaplan's operations and, thus, the alleged fraud committed by individuals at KHE. Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 14, 16. Specifically, Plaintiff contends that lobbying efforts aimed at staving off changes that would make it less profitable to operate for-profit colleges evidence WPO's knowledge of the underlying fraudulent practices at KHE. Id. at 19. By contrast, Defendants argue that Mr. Graham's lobbying efforts indicate only "that he knew—as the market knew—that KHE operated in a highly regulated sector, and that changes to regulations could potentially impact its business." Defendants' Motion [# 37] at 17.

Evidence of Defendant Graham's lobbying efforts on behalf of KHE sheds no light on whether Mr. Graham was aware of any alleged fraud and made public statements to hide it. Arguably, the more plausible inference emanating from this activity is that, if improper conduct was occurring, Mr. Graham was unaware of it. As noted by Defendants, "Plaintiff's attempt to infer scienter from Mr. Graham's conversations with lawmakers is like its attempt to infer scienter from the fact that he spoke to the market about the company." Id. What remains lacking is "any corroborating details to indicate that [either activity] revealed company wide fraud, or that Defendants were aware of the fraud during the Class Period." Metzler, 540 F.3d at 1068 n. 12. Moreover, given that Mr. Graham's lobbying efforts came during a time when government regulators were publicly considering additional constraints on the business of for-profit colleges, the court infers nothing illicit from his attempt to ensure that KHE had a voice in the discussion.

G. Whistleblower lawsuits

In the Amended Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that federal whistleblower actions regarding misconduct at Kaplan alerted the individual Defendants to the fraud at issue here. Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 14. Defendants do not directly address the whistleblower lawsuits in their pleadings.

The suits alleged that fraudulent admissions and compensation practices were being employed by advisors at KHE and named KHE or Kaplan as defendants. Amended Complaint [# 35] at 75–76. Neither WPO nor the individual Defendants appear to be named as parties, nor is it alleged that they are pled as instigators or accessories in the alleged fraudulent conduct. See id. However, the court notes that the suits were listed in WPO's 2009 10–K, which also indicated that WPO would be defending its subsidiaries. Id. Even assuming that the individual Defendants were apprised of the details of these complaints, the mere fact of their existence does not supply a strong inference of scienter, absent other persuasive allegations. See generally Zaluski v. United Am. Healthcare Corp., 527 F.3d 564, 576–577 (6th Cir.2008) (refusing to equate knowledge of fraud to corporation based, *233 in part, on a whistleblower's suit). Moreover, the fact that WPO chose to defend against such lawsuits suggests that the more plausible inference is that neither WPO nor the individual Defendants believed that the lawsuits had substance.

IV. Conclusion

Considering the allegations collectively, and the increased burden on Plaintiff at the outset, the court finds that any inference of scienter fails when compared with opposing inferences. See Tellabs, 551 U.S. at 325, 127 S.Ct. 2499. Despite Plaintiff's attempts to distinguish compelling decisions reached by other courts who have addressed scienter in relation to alleged securities fraud in the for-profit education industry, the court is not persuaded that these facts warrant different treatment. Read in its totality, the Amended Complaint does not sufficiently allege that the individual Defendants knowingly or recklessly misled the market. Therefore, the court concludes that Plaintiff has failed to allege sufficient facts to hold Defendants culpable. Because the court finds that the lack of a strong inference of scienter is dispositive, the court need not consider Defendants' remaining bases for dismissal. See In re XM Satellite Radio Holdings Sec. Litig., 479 F.Supp.2d 165, 178 n. 10 (D.D.C.2007). Therefore, Plaintiff's securities fraud claim must be dismissed. See, e.g., id. at 187.

Moreover, this holding necessarily means that Plaintiff's control-person claim against the individual Defendants likewise fails. See SEC v. First Jersey Sec., Inc., 101 F.3d 1450, 1472 (2d Cir.1996); Shapiro v. UJB Fin. Corp., 964 F.2d 272, 279 (3d Cir.1992); see also Fannie Mae II, 503 F.Supp.2d at 43–46 (noting that to state a control-person claim "plaintiffs must adequately plead 'culpable participation,' " i.e., that the individual defendants acted with a sufficient state of mind). Accordingly,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED as follows:

(1) Defendants' Motion to Dismiss [# 37] is GRANTED and the case is DISMISSED with prejudice; [5]

(2) Defendants' Motion to Take Judicial Notice [# 38] is DENIED as moot; and

(3) Plaintiff's Motion to Take Judicial Notice [# 44] is DENIED as moot.

All Citations

930 F.Supp.2d 222, Fed. Sec. L. Rep. P 97,333

Footnotes

1 Both parties move for the court to take judicial notice of certain information and documents. Defendants' Motion to Take Judicial Notice [Docket No. 38; Filed May 11, 2012]; Plaintiff's Motion to Take Judicial Notice [Docket No. 44; Filed August 28, 2012]. These motions are opposed at least in part. See Plaintiff's Opposition [Docket No. 40]; Defendants' Opposition [Docket No. 45]. To the extent that disputes exist regarding the type of information the court may consider, while the court may technically take judicial notice of some of the materials put forth by the parties, the court finds it unnecessary to consider the areas of contention. None of the material advances the allegations contained in the Amended Complaint in any appreciable way as they relate to the issue of scienter. For example, Plaintiff asks the court to take judicial notice of a United States Senate staff committee report. Plaintiff's Motion [# 44] at 3. However, this report speaks only to what may have been known by individuals at KHE, and does not supply a sufficient link to individuals at WPO. Accordingly, the Motions are denied as moot.

2 In addition to Confidential Witness # 23, the Amended Complaint provides information from a 24th confidential witness. Although Defendants invite the court to consider information about the credibility of the witness statements, the court makes it clear that it has not done so. Consideration of this information in relation to a motion to dismiss is improper. See Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 572, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007) (noting that court must accept allegations of complaint as true in resolution of a motion to dismiss). Regardless, the court remains unpersuaded that the new witnesses offer the type of information sufficient to raise a strong inference of scienter. For example, Confidential Witness # 24 worked for KHE and Kaplan in a treasury function and cannot speak to the knowledge of the individual Defendants in relation to any alleged fraudulent financial scheme. See Amended Complaint [# 35] at 23–24. As was also a shortcoming of the prior 22 confidential witnesses, neither witness is alleged to report directly to the individual Defendants. Malin v. XL Capital Ltd., 499 F.Supp.2d 117, 141–42 (D.Conn.2007) (recognizing difficulty of finding scienter when no witness can attest to defendants actual knowledge). Furthermore, neither witness directly attributes knowledge of the alleged fraud to them. In re Apollo Group, Inc. Sec. Litig., No. CV10–1735, 2011 WL 5101787, at *15 (D.Ariz. Oct. 27, 2011) (holding that where "[n]one of [the] witnesses actually indicate scienter on Defendants' part," despite the volume of their statements, scienter is not shown). Assuming the witness statements are true, they are insufficient either alone, or in combination with other allegations, to raise a strong inference of scienter.

3 Defendants contend that the allegations about money transfers do not raise an inference of scienter because they do not relate to any fraudulent activity. They cite, in part, the holding of another court which reviewed similar allegations and found that they did not sufficiently explain that such actions were in violation of federal regulations. See United States ex rel. Diaz v. Kaplan Univ., No. 09–20756–CIV, 2011 WL 3627285, at *6 (S.D.Fla. Aug. 17, 2011). Although this case and Defendants' other arguments arguably impact the plausibility of the allegations and, consequently, the court's requirement to assume that they are true, Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009); see also In re Gilead Scis. Sec. Litig., 536 F.3d 1049, 1055 (9th Cir.2008); Aldana v. Del Monte Fresh Produce, N.A., Inc., 416 F.3d 1242, 1246–48 (11th Cir.2005), the court need not reach this issue because the allegations are insufficient to raise an inference of scienter.

4 Plaintiff's attempt to show scienter on behalf of WPO based on knowledge of individuals other than the individual Defendants does not sufficiently persuade the court that lower-level employees' knowledge of discrete activities should be attributed to WPO or that these individuals understood that such actions were fraudulent. See Plaintiff's Opposition [# 39] at 18. In this Circuit, the court primarily looks "to the state of mind of the individual corporate officers and employees who made, ordered, or approved the [market] statement[s]" at issue. Philip Morris, 566 F.3d at 1118. While a corporation could be found to possess its own scienter absent a finding of scienter of the individuals who spoke to the market, this occurs in rare situations where the underlying evidence of corporate-wide knowledge is so dramatic that collective knowledge may be inferred. See, e.g., Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd. v. Tellabs, Inc., 513 F.3d 702, 710 (7th Cir.2008); cf. Philip Morris, 566 F.3d at 1122 (citation omitted) (noting that "the legal soundness of the 'collective intent' theory" is "dubious"). Such allegations are not present here.

5 Given that this is Plaintiff's second unsuccessful attempt to survive a motion to dismiss, the court finds that dismissal with prejudice is appropriate. "[D]ismissal with prejudice is warranted only when a trial court determines that the allegation of other facts consistent with the challenged pleading could not possibly cure the deficiency.' " Belizan v. Hershon, 434 F.3d 579, 583 (D.C.Cir.2006) (quoting Firestone v. Firestone, 76 F.3d 1205, 1209 (D.C.Cir.1996)). Here, the court notes that the Amended Complaint at issue is Plaintiff's third pleading and is comprised of 150 pages and more than 375 paragraphs, much of which was derived from the testimony of at least 24 witnesses. Given the shortcomings of this voluminous and detailed pleading, the court is convinced that Plaintiff "could not possibly cure the deficiency" as it relates to scienter. Firestone, 76 F.3d at 1209; see also Fannon v. Guidant Corp., 583 F.3d 995, 1002 (7th Cir.2009) ("The district court was entitled to view this case as one in which the plaintiffs had, as a practical matter, a number of opportunities to craft a complaint within the standards of the PSLRA. It was therefore entitled to bring this litigation to a close with a dismissal with prejudice.").

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

2013 WL 5206216
United States District Court,
S.D. California.

In re BRIDGEPOINT EDUCATION, INC. SECURITIES LITIGATION.

No. 3:12–CV–1737 JM (WMC).
|
Sept. 13, 2013.

ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS

JEFFREY T. MILLER, District Judge.

1 On July 17, 2013, plaintiff Donald K. Franke filed a class action lawsuit against Bridgepoint Education Inc. ("Bridgepoint"). Several related class action lawsuits followed. The court later granted a motion consolidating Sacharczyk v. Bridgepoint Education, Inc. et al., No. 3:12–CV–01759–JM (WMC) (filed July 17, 2012), and Stein v. Bridgepoint Education, Inc., No. 3:12–CV–01841–JM (WMC) (filed July 26, 2012) with this matter. The court also granted a motion by the City of Atlanta General Employees Pension Fund ("Plaintiff") to be appointed lead plaintiff. On December 21, 2012, Plaintiff filed a consolidated complaint. On February 19, 2013, Bridgepoint filed this motion to dismiss. Following extensive briefing, this matter was taken under submission on July 16, 2013. For the following reasons, the court grants in part and denies in part Bridgepoint's motion to dismiss with leave to amend.

I. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

This Court has federal question jurisdiction of this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331, and venue exists under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(a), (b), and (d).

II. BACKGROUND

A. Parties

Bridgepoint is a for-profit, post-secondary education services provider with academic institutions online and at least two physical locations, including Ashford University ("Ashford") in Clinton, Iowa, and University of the Rockies located in Colorado Springs, Colorado. Consolidated Complaint ("CC") at ¶ 19.

Andrew S. Clark co-founded Bridgepoint and, at all relevant times, was the Chief Executive Officer ("CEO"), President, and a director at Bridgepoint. CC at ¶ 20. He was responsible for directing Bridgepoint's business. CC at ¶ 20. Prior to Bridgepoint, Clark consulted with several private equity firms examining the post-secondary education sector and worked almost a decade for Apollo Group, Inc., the company behind the University of Phoenix. CC at ¶ 20. During the proposed Class Period, Clark sold 725,525 shares of his Bridgepoint stock for more than $17 million. CC at ¶ 20.

Daniel J. Devine, at all relevant times, was Chief Financial Officer ("CFO") and Executive Vice President of Bridgepoint. CC at ¶ 21. He is a Certified Public Accountant and has served as a CFO at many other companies during the last 20 years. CC at ¶ 21. During the proposed Class Period, Devine sold 299,100 shares of his Bridgepoint stock for almost $7 million. CC at ¶ 21.

Jane McAuliffe, at all relevant times, was Chief Academic Officer ("CAO") and Executive Vice President of Bridgepoint. CC at ¶ 22. She was responsible for monitoring and reporting Bridgepoint's academics-related business affairs. CC at ¶ 22. During the Class Period, McAuliffe sold 300,000 shares of her Bridgepoint stock for proceeds of almost $6.5 million. CC at ¶ 22. Throughout the remainder of this order, Bridgepoint, Clerk, Devine, and McAuliffe will be collectively referred to as "Defendants."

B. Ashford's Accreditation

2 Bridgepoint derives a substantial amount of its revenue from various federal student financial assistant programs under Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (e.g. Pell Grants, Stafford Loans, etc.). Higher education institutions must be accredited by a Department of Education approved accreditor to enable students to access these Title IV financial assistance programs. Conversely, students at unaccredited higher education institutions cannot obtain federal student financial assistance. An overwhelming majority of students who enroll in for-profit colleges, such as and including Ashford, take out loans. [1] CC at ¶ 33. Accreditation is therefore allegedly vital to Bridgepoint's financial health. CC at ¶ 41.

Higher education institutions may obtain their accreditation from national or regional accreditors. CC at ¶ 32. Six regional accreditors currently operate in the United States. CC at ¶ 32. Each accreditor has its own accreditation requirements.

In 2005, Bridgepoint obtained accreditation for its university by purchasing The Franciscan University of Prairies ("Franciscan University"), a small, regionally accredited, non-profit school in Clinton, Iowa. CC at ¶ 37. Franciscan University's regional accreditor was the Higher Learning Commission ("HLC"), which has jurisdiction in the 19–state north central region. CC at ¶ 4. It had been accredited for decades prior to its acquisition. MTD at 3. When Bridgepoint purchased Franciscan University in 2005, HLC performed a "change of control" review and affirmed accreditation. MTD at 3. HLC again reviewed and affirmed Ashford's accreditation in 2006. MTD at 3. HLC performed another "change of control" review soon after Bridgepoint's 2009 initial public offering. MTD at 3.

Soon after the acquisition, Bridgepoint changed Franciscan University's name to Ashford University and began an aggressive marketing campaign to increase enrollment, which eventually swelled its enrollment numbers to 84,713 students. These students were increasingly located in San Diego, California, which was outside HLC's jurisdiction and endangered Ashford's accreditation. CC at ¶¶ 37, 43. Ashford's growing number of students located outside of HLC's region became a problem when HLC adopted a policy requiring institutions to demonstrate a "substantial presence" in the HLC's region in 2010. CC at ¶ 43.

Thus, in August 2010, Bridgepoint sought to obtain accreditation from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges ("WASC"). CC at ¶ 44. As applicants are strongly encouraged to consult with WASC and attend a WASC-sponsored workshop describing the level of readiness expected of an institution at each step in accreditation, Bridgepoint met with WASC and HLC accreditation officials in April 2011. CC at ¶ 45. Bridgepoint informed its investors of these meetings on May 3, 2011. CC at ¶ 45. At the WASC meeting, WASC informed Bridgepoint that it had approved Ashford's application for eligibility, which meant that Ashford met the basic criteria necessary to be considered for accreditation. CC at ¶ 46.

*3 Thereafter, Bridgepoint initiated its formal pursuit of WASC accreditation through "Pathway B," which is the WASC accreditation process for established institutions that are already accredited by another DOE-recognized accrediting agency. CC at ¶ 46. Pathway B first requires institutions to engage in a self-study by responding to each applicable "Criteria for Review" ("CFRs") and provide supporting documentation. CC at ¶ 47. This is followed by one or more site visits by the WASC visiting team. For Ashford's accreditation, WASC decided that only one comprehensive visit was necessary. CC at ¶ 47. Irrespective of the accreditation process, the requirements that Bridgepoint needed to meet to obtain WASC accreditation were still the same as for any other applicant. CC at ¶ 48.

Prior to and during the pendency of Ashford's WASC accreditation application, Bridgepoint leadership and Ashford department managers attended monthly Quality Review Meetings ("QRMs"). CC at ¶ 195. At QRMs, Bridgepoint leadership and Ashford department managers allegedly discussed trends, statistics, and profiles to promote discussion on solutions to problems identified. CC at ¶ 195. Plaintiff alleges that they would therefore have discussed areas that needed more attention to receive accreditation. CC at ¶ 195.

On May 23 and June 3, 2011, WASC provided Bridgepoint with areas of focus that Bridgepoint needed to address to obtain WASC accreditation. CC at ¶ 49. WASC purportedly wanted Bridgepoint to address (a) inadequate student retention and completion, (b) insufficient student progress tracking, (c) an insufficient core of full-time faculty members, and (d) lack of an empowered and independent governing board. CC at ¶ 49. Despite these warnings, Bridgepoint allegedly continued to portray the company positively, including Ashford's accreditation, in various press releases, conferences, and other communications with the public from May 2011 to May 2012.

Ashford submitted its self-study in December 2011. CC at ¶ 50. WASC's Pathway B Visiting Team reviewed this self-study and its supporting documents prior to its onsite visit. It found that this self-study > was more descriptive of current initiatives underway at the University rather than self-reflective of strategic issues faced by the institution [and] lack [ing] in-depth or sophisticated understanding of the assets and vulnerabilities of the institution. The report represented more compliance-driven responses rather than analysis of longitudinal findings and areas needing development at the institution.

CC at ¶ 50. After its visit, the WASC Pathway B Visiting Team recommended denying accreditation. CC at ¶ 52. Although the WASC commission still had the option of delaying accreditation to provide Ashford with more time to meet CFRs, it declined to do so, purportedly because the areas in which substantial compliance were not demonstrated spanned several key aspects of the Standards. CC at ¶ 54.

4 In a July 3, 2012 "Action Letter" to Ashford's President and CEO, Elizabeth Tice, WASC's president Ralph A. Wolff informed Ashford that it had failed to demonstrate substantial compliance in multiple areas and WASC would be denying Ashford's initial accreditation as a result. CC at ¶ 55. Specifically, the letter cited Ashford's failure: (1) to implement plans, procedures, and practices to sufficiently assist students in staying with the programs they enrolled in and complete courses; (2) to align resources with educational requirements such that students were not benefitting from the resources available and were therefore not progressing to an acceptable level; (3) to maintain a sufficient core faculty and programs to develop faculty, leading to poor teaching and completion rates by students as well as a less rigorous curriculum; (4) to provide an effective review program for assessing and monitoring student learning; (5) to provide an effective system of program review; (6) to implement adequate review procedures that prevented shortfalls from being quickly identified and remedied; and (7) to maintain an empowered and independent governing board. CC at ¶ 57. The Action Letter provided extensive details regarding each of these failures and noted that Ashford had been aware of these issues, which had been addressed in the WASC's May 23, 2011 and June 3, 2011 letters. Specifically, the Action letter stated:

> Notably, Ashford was notified about WASC concerns in each of these areas by WASC and its Eligibility Review Committee in letters to Ashford dated May 23 and June 3, 2011, providing Ashford with early notice about these concerns. Given that there were multiple areas in which substantial compliance could not be demonstrated and that these areas fell into several aspects of the Standards of Accreditation, the Commission determined that a denial of initial accreditation of Ashford was the appropriate action.

CC at ¶ 55.

Bridgepoint disclosed Ashford's lack of accreditation to investors in a Form 8–K dated July 9, 2012, which stated

> Item 8.01 Other Information.
>
> Denial of Initial Accreditation for Ashford University
>
> On July 5, 2012, Ashford University received official notice from the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges ("WASC") that WASC has acted (1) to deny initial accreditation to the institution and (2) to permit the institution to reapply for accreditation with a single special visit to occur as early as spring 2013. This reapplication process would allow WASC to act in June 2013 and does not require Ashford University to undertake another full self-study.
>
> * * *
>
> Ashford University remains regionally accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools ("Higher Learning Commission"), with the next comprehensive evaluation scheduled for 2014–15. Ashford University intends to work collaboratively with both WASC and the Hi her Learning Commission to ensure it continues to satis y the Higher Learning Commission's accreditation requirements while it seeks accreditation with WASC.

ED-17-0431-A-004858

5 CC at ¶ 76. That same day, Bridgepoint issued a press release indicating that Ashford University would both appeal the decision and reapply for WASC accreditation. CC at ¶ 77. Following these disclosures, Bridgepoint's shares fell $7.25 per share to close at $14.25, or an approximately 34 percent drop. CC at ¶ 78.

On July 12, 2012, Bridgepoint received a letter indicating that HLC, then Ashford's only accreditor, had placed Ashford on "special monitoring status" because of WASC's denial of accreditation and other allegedly significant deficiencies. CC at ¶ 81. In the letter, HLC requested that Ashford demonstrate its compliance with HLC's accreditation standards by providing:

> (I) evidence that Ashford University meets the HLC Criteria for Accreditation relating to the role and autonomy of the University's governing board and its relationship with Bridgepoint Education, including the role of faculty in overseeing academic policies and the integrity and continuity of academic programs, (ii) evidence that Ashford University's resource allocations are sufficiently aligned with educational purposes and objectives in the areas of student completion and retention, the sufficiency of full-time faculty and model for faculty development, and plans for increasing enrollments, and (iii) evidence demonstrating that Ashford University has an effective system for assessing and monitoring student learning and assuring academic vigor.

CC at ¶ 81. The letter went on to warn Bridgepoint that, based on the HLC President's presentation of Ashford's response, the HLC board would decide whether to continue accreditation, with or without further monitoring, continue accreditation under sanction or "Show Cause" order, or withdraw accreditation. CC at ¶ 81. On July 13, 2012, the day that Bridgepoint revealed the concerns in HLC's letter in another Form 8–K, Bridgepoint stock plummeted another $3.20 per share to close at $9.77, a decline of nearly 25 percent on high volume of 6.7 million shares. CC at ¶¶ 81, 82.

C. Alleged Misrepresentations

1. May 3, 2011 Press Release & Associated Conference Call

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants began making numerous misrepresentations regarding Ashford's accreditation status shortly after Ashford sought accreditation from WASC. Plaintiff first points to a May 3, 2011 press release regarding its first quarter earning results in which Bridgepoint reported its net income and its projected revenue and net income for the upcoming year. CC at ¶ 84. In this May 3, 2011 press release, it announced that its "year over year student persistence" had increased for the fourth quarter, indicating that its student support initiatives were having a positive impact. CC at ¶ 84. In addition to the press release, Defendants Clark, Devine, and McAuliffe hosted a conference call. McAuliffe allegedly stated that:

> WASC has reviewed the application and determined that Ashford University is eligible to proceed with an application for candidacy for accreditation. This is a preliminary finding that indicates that the University can proceed to the next step, which includes writing a self-study in preparation for a site visit. The team is very excited to be moving forward in the process. Ashford University continues to keep HLC well-informed each step of the way, and our liaison is very cooperative and supportive.

6 CC at ¶ 87.

Later during the same call, Clark answered an analyst's question concerning the status of Ashford's WASC application by stating that "we are very pleased with our progress so far" and "as we have in the past, we will be very transparent with everybody." CC at ¶ 87. Clark also re-emphasized the positive changes coming from Ashford's initiatives, stating that "everything that we implemented last year has really done what we thought it would do, which is improve our persistence." CC at ¶

89. He further stated that "right now we are very focused on our initiatives for 2011 on student persistence, student graduation—anything we can do to improve the student experience in the classroom or administratively." CC at ¶ 92. That day, Bridgepoint stock closed up $1.48 per share to close at $19.87 per share on May 3, 2011. CC at ¶ 93.

At least two analysts' reports, one from J.P. Morgan and another from William Blair & Company ("William Blair"), commented that these student support initiatives were important for Bridgepoint's future success. CC at ¶ 85. The William Blair report stated that "in [its] view a successful switch from HLC to WASC may be the only thing that finally lays some major fears to rest." CC at ¶ 86. Analysts at RBC Capital Markets made similar statements in a May 4, 2011 report. CC at ¶ 94. However, in denying accreditation later in July 2012, "WASC [allegedly] found these initiatives were either nonexistent or had no measurable impact." CC at ¶ 90.

2. August 2, 2011 Press Release & Associated Conference Call

On August 2, 2011, Bridgepoint issued a press release containing its second quarter 2011 ("2Q11") earnings results and projections through 2011. CC at ¶ 102. The release contained a statement by Clark that "[d]uring the first half of 2011, our institutions continued to make progress on key initiatives to improve the academic readiness of students and to provide students with an innovative, high quality learning experience...." CC at ¶ 102. That same day, Bridgepoint also hosted a conference call in which Clark, Devine, and McAuliffe participated. During the call, Clark asserted that Bridgepoint

> We continue to believe that maintaining a high level —high level of persistence level is an important goal for both of our institutions and demonstrates that our institutions are successfully engaging—students and delivering a quali education experience that enhances student's lives. We will continue to focus on improving persistence ....
>
> * * *
>
> We are pleased with our rogress in the first half of 2011. We have achieved significant key initiatives, strengthened our support for students and faculty through developing new technologies and enhanced transparency for prospective students.

CC at ¶ 104.

In addition, McAuliffe explained that Ashford had been approved for WASC's Pathway B application, that Ashford would be required to submit a self-study in December 2011, and that the WASC's onsite visit for its accreditation would happen in March 2012. McAuliffe voiced her optimism that Ashford would receive accreditation, stating that "[t]he University faculty and staff are hard at work preparing a self-study that portrays the institution's strengths and achievements, as well as reflecting on what can further be developed in order to advance the institution." CC at ¶ 105.

*7 On August 2, 2011, Bridgepoint also filed its 2Q11 Form 10–Q with the SEC, which was approved and signed by Clark and Devine and reviewed and approved by McAuliffe. CC at ¶ 106. It contained the following statement regarding Ashford's WASC accreditation application:

> WASC determination of eligibility for Ashford University. In September 2010, Ashford University applied for eligibility from the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges ("WASC"). On May 12, 2011, Ashford University received a letter from WASC stating that the WASC Eligibility Review Committee has reviewed the application and determined that the university meets all of the WASC eligibility criteria and may proceed with an application for initial accreditation. Additionally, the letter confirmed that Ashford University is authorized to pursue WASC accreditation under Pathway B, the process for institutions that currently hold accreditation with an institutional accreditor recognized by the Department. A determination of eligibility is not a formal status with WASC, nor does it ensure eventual accreditation; it is a preliminary finding that Ashford

ED-17-0431-A-004860

> University is potentially accreditable and can proceed within four years of its eligibility determination to be reviewed for initial accreditation status with WASC.

CC at ¶ 106.

Plaintiff notes that Bridgepoint had already received at least two letters that highlighted certain problem areas that it needed to address prior to receiving accreditation. Plaintiff claims that these letters prove that Bridgepoint's optimistic projections regarding its accreditation from the WASC were misleading. CC at ¶ 113.

Plaintiff alleges that analysts continued to view WASC accreditation with minimal or no risk due to Bridgepoint's purportedly misleading earnings release, corresponding conference call on August 2, 2011, and 2Q11 Form 10–Q. CC at ¶ 107. The analysts with sanguine views in light of these allegedly misleading disclosures included William Blair, BMO Capital Markets ("BMO"), Credit Suisse, and Wunderlich Securities ("Wunderlich"). CC at ¶¶ 103, 107–12. Many of these analysts also emphasized the importance of Ashford obtaining accreditation. CC at ¶¶ 107–12.

3. September 15, 2011 BMO Capital Markets Back to School Education Conference

On September 15, 2011, Clark and Devine appeared at the BMO Capital Markets Back to School Education Conference for analysts, media representatives, and investors. CC at ¶ 118. During that call, Clark made several positive remarks about Ashford's student-centered learning models that aligned outcomes with assessments. CC at ¶ 118. In addition, Clark stated that

> In terms of the WASC migration, which I mentioned earlier where Ashford University is going through the process to become WASC accredited, we have met all the eligibility criteria. We are submitting our self-study in the fourth quarter of this year. And we will have our visit by WASC in March of next year.

8 CC at ¶ 119. Based on these statements, BMO Capital, J.P. Morgan, and Wunderlich reported that Bridgepoint's accreditation switch was progressing well and was likely to occur. CC at ¶¶ 121–23. However, Plaintiff claims that "[D]efendants' statements concerning Ashford's pursuit of WASC accreditation omitted that defendants knew or recklessly disregarded the fact that Ashford could not demonstrate substantial compliance with multiple aspects of the WASC Standards." CC at ¶ 120.

4. November 1, 2011 Earnings Release & Associated Conference Call

On November 1, 2011, Bridgepoint issued an earnings release containing its third quarter 2011 ("3Q11") earnings results and full-year projections for 2011, which were above previously issued projections. CC at ¶ 126. On the same day that it issued its earnings release, Bridgepoint also held a conference call in which Clark, Devine, and McAuliffe actively participated. CC at ¶ 128.

During the conference call, Clark purportedly touted recent technology initiatives implemented at Ashford. CC at ¶ 128. Clark also summarized Ashford's progress with the following statement

> Taking a broader viewer of our accomplishments to date in 2011, our institutions have successfully managed through a major transition in how our industry operates. We have made significant progress on key initiatives. We have strengthened our support for students and faculty through innovative technologies. And we have enhanced transparency for prospective students. We are pleased with this progress, and we believe we are increasingly well positioned to meet the educational needs of students.

CC at ¶ 129.

In addition, McAuliffe made the following comments about Ashford's accreditation application:

> I want to provide you an update on accreditation for Ashford University. Having already established > eligibility to move forward with an application for initial accreditation with the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, Ashford University continues its focused preparations for the submission of the WASC self-study in December 2011.

>
> The self-study effort has brought university faculty, staff, and administrators together in positive, well-coordinated, and collaborative discussions to develop appropriate documentation on how the University demonstrates compliance with the current WASC standards for accreditation. This self-study process is a worthy process, as it allows University faculty and leadership to reflect on current practices and build towards the future.
>
> As we have reported previously, Ashford University plans to host a visiting team from WASC in March 2012. Ashford's materials and the report of the visiting team will be considered by the WASC commission at a meeting following the on-site team visit and completion of the team's reports. A decision relative to Ashford's application for accreditation is expected to be made at that time.
>
> The University leadership values its collegial relationship with the WASC staff as we work through each stage of this process. The President of the University also continues to keep the Higher Learning Commission informed of progress, in [sic] the University continues to be accredited by the Higher Learning Commission.
>
> 9 I am very pleased with how the University leadership has continued to move forward and commend them on their focus and dedication to this project.

CC at ¶ 132. When asked directly for additional detail on what constituted good persistence or retention, McAuliffe responded that Bridgepoint was:

> starting to see the effects of all the work that we are doing upfront. If you think about the quality initiatives we put into place with the orientation; with required attendance in the beginning courses; how we walk our students to class and make sure they are prepared and are comfortable in that learning environment. So by the time they get there, all that upfrontpreparation has really given them a sense of confidence that they can succeed and they can achieve and they know what to expect. So we think that is having a good impact for us.

CC at ¶ 133. McAuliffe also acknowledged that the "predictive analytics" was new and that Bridgepoint was looking forward to begin using the data. CC at ¶ 134. Clark echoed McAuliffe's comment, adding that it was "very exciting for us as an organization and for our institutions to be able to have that predictive capability and to proactively reach a student before they start having some significant type of issues that might lead them to dropping out of the institution." CC at ¶ 134.

Based on these statements, William Blair, BMO Capital, Craig–Hallum Capital Group LLC, and Wunderlich commented on Bridgepoint's improving retention and the perceived high likelihood that Bridgepoint would be accredited. CC at ¶¶ 137–41. But Plaintiff claims that these statements surrounding the 3Q11 earnings release and conference call "falsely represented and omitted the fact that Bridgepoint's initiatives to improve retention, persistence, and completion were not yet meaningful even as late as July 2012, months after their statements." CC at ¶ 135. As a result, Plaintiff contends that Bridgepoint continued to trade at artificially inflated levels. CC at ¶ 145.

5. November 15, 2011 Citi U.S. Small & Mid Cap Conference

On November 15, 2011, Clark, Devine, and McAuliffe appeared at the Citi U.S. Small & Mid Cap Conference for analysts and investors. CC at ¶ 146. McAuliffe made several representations regarding Ashford's use of data to enhance the quality of education provided. Specifically, McAuliffe stated

> We look at—as soon as a student enters our university as a prospective student we look at sort of the quality aspects coming in and then follow that all the way through to the time they graduate with us. From an admissions standpoint we are looking at our student data as they come in the door.

* * *

From a courserspective we have quality assessments checkpoints throughout the course. [Defendant Clark] mentioned our Waypoint assessment that we use.

* * *

Always looking at our data, because we can from a technology standpoint. And truly focused on the student learning, so we have assessment teams in place that work with our faculty and our administration at both institutions to really understand how our students are learning....

10 Our learning model is very rigorous.

CC at ¶ 147.

However, Plaintiff claims that the WASC Visit Team Report found that Ashford had yet to set up the necessary processes for analyzing data and making meaningful data-informed decisions and lacked a robust assessment tool to measure student learning. CC at ¶ 148. In addition, WASC had serious concerns regarding the rigor of Ashford's course work. CC at ¶ 148. Again, Plaintiff maintains that these misrepresentations resulted in Bridgepoint's stock being overvalued. CC at ¶ 150.

6. December 7, 2011 William Blair & Company, LLC Global Services Growth Stock Conference

On December 7, 2011, Clark and Devine discussed Ashford's possible accreditation at the William Blair Global Services Growth Stock Conference. CC at ¶ 151. Clark touted Ashford's 2010 and 2011 initiatives for student preparedness. CC at ¶ 152. In response to a question asked about Ashford's attempt to obtain accreditation from WASC, Clark made the following statements:

Yes, I mean, it's a very straightforward process. We submit our self-study in December. The visit is in March. We expect a decision kind of midyear next year. You know, it not—you're not isolated in the process. It's not likeou submit the self-study and walk away. There is a lot of dialogue back and forth, back when we put our application in, throughout the entire process, and so that's very positive. We have a dee deep bench academically. Dr. McAuliffe, who is our Slef Academic Officer, has been tremendously successful at changes of ownership, reaccreditation, receiving the full ten years allowed. Doctor Tice is the President of Ashford. I mean we have a lot of confidence in the academic team there.

WASC has been delightful to work with. They're very focused on assessment, which is great from our standpoint. Some investors in this room might not know this, but we own a software company at Bridgepoint that's called Waypoint Outcomes. Waypoint Outcomes allows for about 40 other institutions, including Ashford and the Rockies to aggregate learning outcome data by electronically via Web interface and be able to provide direct feedback to students on written assignments but then aggregate that data and demonstrate those outcomes.

So some just fascinating stats on that. We—Ashford for example processes about 20,000 documents in a week through Waypoint. I think when WASC comes in and sees, they don't have that experience going to most universities. They don't come in and they don't have an institution and say, hey, here's the outcomes and the objectives and then here actually is a data that supports that the students are achieving those objectives. Most traditional institutions just simply don't have that because the professor corrects the paper and hands it back to the students and the student walks off with it and they're not able to provide anything. So I'm, as you can probably tell, I feel very good about where we are at.

11 CC at ¶ 153. In addition, Clark claimed that Ashford continued to focus on adding full-time faculty and striking the right balance with adjunct faculty. CC at ¶ 154. Plaintiff claims that, when these statements were made, Defendants had almost concluded Ashford's self-study, were likely preparing for the WASC site visit in March 2012, and thus had knowledge of, or recklessly disregarded, the many areas in which Ashford did not comply with WASC accreditation standards. CC at ¶ 155. Plaintiff claims that, as a result of these alleged misrepresentations, Bridgepoint's securities continued to trade at artificially inflated levels. CC at ¶ 157.

7. March 6, 2012 Earnings Release and Conference Call and Bridgepoint's 2011 Annual Report

On March 6, 2012, Bridgepoint issued an earnings release containing its fourth quarter 2011 ("4Q11") earnings results and full-year projections for 2012. CC at ¶ 161. The 4Q11 earnings release also contained the following statement by Clark:

> In 2011, I am very pleased to report that both our institutions improved the quality of the student learning experience through the increased use of innovative technologies. To this end, we have made and will continue to make investments designed to improve our students' learning outcomes and their educational experience at our institutions. In 2011, we believe these investments in the student learning experience were responsible for improved student persistence and graduation rates, and we expect that our focus on these investments will continue to produce similar results in the future.

CC at ¶ 161. A conference call was also held to discuss the 4Q11 earnings release. During the call, Clark affirmed Bridgepoint's commitment to investments that would improve persistence and graduation rates. CC at ¶ 162. Clark and McAuliffe added that Bridgepoint would be investing more in identifying prospective students. CC at ¶¶ 163–64. Finally, McAuliffe made the following statements regarding Ashford's accreditation:

> No[w] I would like to give you an update on Ashford University's WASC migration process. The leadership is pleased with its interactions with the WASC team. The faculty and staff submitted the self-stud and all required documentation in a timely fashion. Ashford University is ready to welcome the WASC visiting team members later this month. Once complete, the visiting team will prepare a report to the WASC Board.
>
> We continue to expect a decision on Ashford University's application to WASC in mid–2012. We believe this move will enhance the institution's ability to succeed in its mission of providing accessible, affordable, innovative, and high quality learning opportunities and degree programs that meet the diverse needs of our students.
>
> Ashford University emains in good standing with our current [accreditorJ and we are keeping them well informed of our work to date with WASC. We will keep you updated on the process.

12 CC at ¶ 165.

The following day, Bridgepoint filed its 2011 Form 10–K with the SEC. Bridgepoint's 2011 Form 10–K had been approved and signed by Clark and Devine, and reviewed and approved by McAuliffe. It discussed the WASC procedure for accreditation. Additionally, it contained the following risk factors related to Bridgepoint's attempt to obtain WASC accreditation for Ashford.

> Risks Related to the Extensive Regulation of Our Business
>
> * * *
>
> Our institutions' failure to maintain accreditation would result in a loss of eligibility to participate in Title IV programs.
>
> An institution must be accredited by an accreditin agency recognized by the Department to participate in itle IV programs. Each of our institutions is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, which is recognized by the Department as a reliable authority regarding the quality of education and training provided by the institutions it accredits. Ashford University was reaccredited by the Higher Learning Commission in 2006 for a term of ten years, and the University of the Rockies was reaccredited by the Higher Learning Commission in 2008 for a term of seven years. To remain accredited, our institutions must continuously meet accreditation standards relating to among other things, performance, governance, institutional integrity, educational quality, faculty, administrative capability, resources and financial stability. If either of our institutions fails to satisfy any of the Higher Learning Commission's standards, it could lose its accreditation. Loss of accreditation would denigrate the value of our institutions' educational programs and would cause them to lose their eligibility to participate in Title IV programs, which would have a material adverse effect on our enrollment, revenues and results of operations.

* * *

Ashford University could experience difficulties or delays in changing its primary accreditor.

> In September 2010, we announced that Ashford University has initiated the process of seeking regional accreditation from the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges ("WASC"). Ashford University is currently accredited by, and in good standing with, the Higher Learning Commission.
>
> Although Ashford University is working collaboratively with both WASC and the Higher Learning Commission to facilitate the migration of accreditation, it could experience difficulties or delays in receiving initial accreditation from WASC. If Ashford University is unable to obtain initial accreditation from WASC, the institution's academic reputation and ability to grow enrollments could be negatively affected. Additionally, if Ashford University does not receive WASC accreditation and loses accreditation from the Higher Learning Commission (e.g., due to the Higher Learning Commission's proposed new jurisdictional requirements requiring a "substantial presence" in the 19–state north central region, which will become effective on July 1, 2012), the institution would no longer be accredited by an accrediting body recognized by the Department and would be ineligible to participate in Title IV programs until it obtained accreditation by another accrediting body recognized by the Department, at which time it would need to file an application with the Department for reinstatement. If Ashford University becomes ineligible to participate in Title IV programs, it will have a material adverse effect on our enrollments, revenue and results of operations.

13 CC at ¶ 166.

Prior to Bridgepoint's 4Q11 earnings release, 4Q11 conference call, and 2011 Form 10–K, analysts had discussed Bridgepoint's attempts to remedy historical problems, including student retention and full-time faculty retention. CC at ¶ 158. Wunderlich, J.P. Morgan, and William Blair all emphasized the importance of Ashford's accreditation to Bridgepoint's financial health. CC at ¶¶ 158–60. Wunderlich even stated that it believed that the risk that Ashford would not obtain WASC accreditation was low. CC at ¶ 158. Of these analysts, Wunderlich and William Blair expressed their confidence that Ashford would obtain WASC accreditation. CC at ¶¶ 167–68.

Plaintiff insists that Defendants' comments regarding Ashford's student persistence programs and student identification programs were misleading, especially as Bridgepoint has not yet developed methods of processing the student data that they had collected. These alleged failures to put in place such programs likely has a material impact on Ashford's ability to obtain WASC accreditation. Accordingly, Plaintiff again insists that "[a]s a result of defendants' false and misleading statements in the March 6–7, 2011 Form 10–K, press release, and conference call, Bridgepoint's securities continued to trade at artificially inflated levels." CC at ¶ 172.

8. March 13, 2012 Credit Suisse Global Services Conference

On March 13, 2012, Clark and Devine spoke at the Credit Suisse Global Services Conference. Clark stated that Bridgepoint would continue to invest more in full-time faculty and more terminally degreed faculty. CC at ¶ 173. In addition, Plaintiff suggests but does not provide more specific details of statements by Clark and Devine regarding the WASC accreditation at this conference. After the conference, analysts William Blair and Piper Jaffray expressed confidence about Ashford obtaining WASC accreditation that summer. CC at ¶¶ 174–75. Plaintiff asserts that Defendants' statements at the Credit Suisse Global Services Conference were materially misleading because Ashford had failed to address the concerns WASC expressed in their spring 2011 letters to Bridgepoint, including the retention of full-time staff, student perseverance, improving educational quality. CC at ¶ 176.

9. May 1, 2012 Earnings Release and Conference Call

On May 1, 2012, Bridgepoint issued an earnings release containing its first quarter 2012 ("1 Q 12") earnings results and updated full-year projections for 2012. CC at ¶ 178. In the earnings release, Clark is quoted as saying:

> We are pleased that our operating and financial results were in-line with our internal expectations for the quarter, and we are particularly pleased-by the strong increase in student persistence at our universities. Increasing persistence reflects our success with the student support and quality initiatives we are implementing, which help assure the academic readiness of students and help provide students with an innovative, high quality learning experience that enriches their lives.

14 CC at ¶ 178. However, Plaintiff notes that WASC found that Bridgepoint's efforts to address student support and retention had no measurable effect. CC at ¶ 180.

In addition, McAuliffe provided the following update on Ashford's WASC accreditation application:

> Just a brief update on Ashford University's WASC process. As previously reported, the self-study was submitted in December of 2011. Aslanned, a team visited the University in March 2011 We expect a final decision midyear and will provide an update when Ashford University is formally notified in writing.
>
> * * *
>
> A number of our faculty and administrators have recently given presentations at the 2012 Higher Learning Commission Conference and the 2012 WASC Academic Resource Conference....
>
> At the WASC Academic Resource Conference [base] members from Ashford University and Bridgepoint Education presented sessions on ensuring course quality through scalable course development model, online faculty evaluation and mentoring, the new ecology in higher education, academic program review, degree qualifications profile, leveraging institutional research offices, and curriculum mapping and calculating course credit hours. I'm pleased that so many of our colleagues are contributing to the advancement of higher education.

CC at ¶ 181. However, when a research analyst inquired about a possible exit interview after WASC's onsite visit, McAuliffe refused to provide specifics, stating only, "I don't think we're going to comment on the informal processes along the way. I think our intent really is to wait until we're through the whole process and then we'll be sure to give you an update at that time." CC at ¶ 182. When asked to identify recently implemented initiatives at Ashford which allegedly contributed to persistence, McAuliffe limited her response, stating it was Bridgepoint's "focus on quality ... [and] increasing the value of that student experience...." CC at ¶ 183.

Deutsche Bank and Credit Suisse analysts immediately noted Defendants' evasive comments about Ashford's WASC accreditation application. CC at ¶ 185. However, even then, some analysts, including analysts at Deutsche Bank and Piper Jaffray, continued to expect that the WASC would accredit Ashford. CC at ¶ 186.

Here, too, Plaintiff insists that Defendants' comments regarding Ashford's WASC accreditation application were misleading due to Bridgepoint's failure to implement programs to improve student persistence, education, and full-time faculty retention. Accordingly, Ashford was less likely to obtain WASC accreditation. Thus, Plaintiff alleges that, "[a]s a result of defendants' false and misleading statements in the March 6–7, 2011 Form 10–K, press release, and conference call, Bridgepoint's securities continued to trade at artificially inflated levels." CC at ¶ 188.

D. Bridgepoint Stock Sales by Clark, Devine, and McAuliffe

Plaintiff alleges that "Clark, Devine, and McAuliffe suspiciously sold their personally-held Bridgepoint common stock for gross proceeds of over $30 million." CC at ¶ 197. Plaintiff summarizes all trades made by Clark, Devine, and McAuliffe during the Class Period. CC at ¶ 197.

15 Plaintiff alleges that Clark's trades are suspicious because Clark sold a large number of Bridgepoint shares (188,878 total) during July 2011 with some 67,466 shares sold around Bridgepoint's peak stock price on July 21 and 22, 2011. CC at ¶ 199. Plaintiff further contends that Clark's trades are more suspicious because he "did not trade a single share of Bridgepoint stock on the 21 st or 22nd of any other month during the Class Period or in the year prior to the beginning of the Class Period." CC at ¶ 199.

Plaintiff contends that Devine's insider sales are similarly unusual and suspicious because he sold 299,100 Bridgepoint shares for a total of $6.7 million during the Class Period, while he had only sold 170,853 shares for a total of $2.8 million the year prior to the commencement of the Class Period. CC at ¶ 200. Additionally, Plaintiff finds the timing of Devine's trades suspicious because Devine sold a total of 40,100 shares of Bridgepoint stock during July 2011. CC at ¶ 201. Of the 40,100 Bridgepoint shares sold in July 2011, 21,600 shares were sold on Bridgepoint's July 21, 2011 peak day, for $1 million in total proceeds. CC at ¶ 201.

Finally, McAuliffe sold a total of 300,000 shares of Bridgepoint stock for proceeds of nearly $6.5 million during the Class Period. The year prior to the Class Period, she sold only 210,000 shares for nearly $3.5 million in proceeds.

E. Procedural Background

The first complaint in this matter was filed on July 13, 2012. It defined the relevant class as "all persons who purchased or otherwise acquired the common stock of Bridgepoint ... between May 3, 2011 and July 6, 2012, inclusive (the "Class Period"), against Bridgepoint and certain of its officers and/or directors for violations of the [Exchange Act]." Dkt. 1, Compl. at 1. Two related actions were later filed asserting similar factual allegations: Sacharczyk v. Bridgepoint Education, Inc. et al., No. 3:12–CV–01759–JM (WMC) (filed July 17, 2012), and Stein v. Bridgepoint Education, Inc., No. 3:12–CV–01841–JM (WMC) (filed July 26, 2012). These related actions were later consolidated with this action. The consolidated complaint alleges violations of §§ 10(b) and 20(a) of the Exchange Act.

III. LEGAL STANDARD

A Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss challenges the legal sufficiency of the pleadings. De La Cruz v. Tormey, 582 F.2d 45, 48 (9th Cir.1978). In evaluating the motion, the court must construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, accepting as true all material allegations in the complaint and any reasonable inferences drawn therefrom. See, e.g., Broam v. Bogan, 320 F.3d 1023, 1028 (9th Cir.2003). While a Rule 12(b) (6) dismissal is proper only in "extraordinary" cases, United States v. Redwood City, 640 F.2d 963, 966 (9th Cir.1981), the complaint's "[f]actual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level." Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007). The court should grant 12(b) (6) relief only if the complaint lacks either a "cognizable legal theory" or facts sufficient to support a cognizable legal theory. Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dep't, 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th Cir.1990).

16 In addition, Rule 9(b) requires that the complaint "state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud." The Ninth Circuit has explained that "[a]verments of fraud must be accompanied by 'the who, what, when, where, and how' of the misconduct charged." Vess v. Ciba–Geigy Corp. USA, 317 F.3d 1097, 1106 (9th Cir.2003) (quoting Cooper v. Pickett, 137 F.3d 616, 627 (9th Cir.1997)).

IV. DISCUSSION

A. Section 10(b) and Rule 10b–5 Claim

A private securities fraud cause of action under § 10(b) and Rule 10b–5 of the Securities Exchange Act requires six elements: "(1) a material misrepresentation (or omission); (2) scienter, i.e., a wrongful state of mind; (3) a connection with the purchase or sale of a security; (4) reliance ...; (5) economic loss; and (6) 'loss causation,' i.e., a causal connection between the material misrepresentation and the loss." Dura Pharm., Inc. v. Broudo, 544 U.S. 336, 341–42, 125 S.Ct. 1627, 161 L.Ed.2d 577 (2005) (internal citations omitted).

The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act ("PSLRA") heightened the pleading standards for private securities fraud claims to provide "a check against abusive [securities fraud] litigation by private parties." Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 313, 127 S.Ct. 2499, 168 L.Ed.2d 179 (2007). PSLRA's "[e]xacting pleading requirements .... require [ ] plaintiffs to state with particularity both the facts constituting the alleged violation and the facts evidencing scienter." Id. Where a plaintiff claims that a defendant "made an untrue statement of material fact" or "omitted to state a material fact" in connection with a purchase or sale of securities, PSLRA requires that the complaint "specify each statement alleged to have been misleading, the reason or reasons why the statement is misleading, and, if an allegation regarding the statement or omission is made on information and belief ... all facts on which that belief is formed." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(1). In addition, PSLRA states that, where liability depends upon a defendant having "acted with a particular state of mind, the complaint shall ... state with particularity facts giving rise to a strong inference that the defendant acted with the required state of mind." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(2). If a private plaintiff does not meet two PSLRA requirements, the "the court shall, on the motion of any defendant dismiss the complaint...." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(3)

Rule 9(b) similarly requires that the complaint "state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud." The Ninth Circuit has applied Rule 9(b)'s requirements to federal securities fraud claims. See Yourish v. Cal. Amplifier, 191 F.3d 983, 993 (9th Cir.1999) (citing Wool v. Tandem Computers, Inc., 818 F.2d 1433, 1439 (9th Cir.1987). Like PSLRA, Rule 9(b) requires that a plaintiff "set forth more than the neutral facts necessary to identify the transaction. The plaintiff must set forth what is false or misleading about a statement, and why it is false. In other words, the plaintiff must set forth an explanation as to why the statement or omission complained of was false or misleading." In re GlenFed Sec. Litig., 42 F.3d 1541, 1548 (9th Cir.1987).

17 Bridgepoint contends that Plaintiff has failed to allege any material misrepresentation or omission about either Ashford's WASC application or the quality of Ashford's education. In addition, Bridgepoint asserts that Plaintiff has failed to allege facts giving rise to a strong inference of scienter. Bridgepoint therefore contends that Plaintiff's § 10(b) claims should be dismissed. These arguments are discussed in turn below.

1. Material Misrepresentation or Omission

A misrepresentation or omission must create "an impression of a state of affairs that differs in a material way from the one that actually exists." Brody v. Transitional Hosps. Corp., 280 F.3d 997, 1006 (9th Cir.2002). A misleading statement is material under § 10(b) and Rule 1 0b–5 if there is "a substantial likelihood that the disclosure of the omitted fact would have been viewed by the reasonable investor as having significantly altered the 'total mix' of information made available." Basic Inc. v. Levinson, 485 U.S. 224, 231–32, 108 S.Ct. 978, 99 L.Ed.2d 194 (1988) (quoting TSC Indus., Inc. v. Northway, Inc., 426 U.S. 438, 449, 96 S.Ct. 2126, 48 L.Ed.2d 757 (1976)).

Accordingly, "a company cannot be held liable for failing to educate the public about publicly known facts." Wenger v. Lumisys, Inc., 2 F.Supp.2d 123, 1245 (citing Howard Gunty Profit Sharing v. Quantum Corp., 1997 WL 514993, *4 (N.D.Cal. Aug.14, 1997)). A company may also not be held liable for vague statements that are not sufficiently specific to perpetuate a fraud. See id. at 1246.

However, general statements of optimism amount to nothing more than non-actionable puffery. In re Surebeam Corp. Sec. Litig., 2004 U.S. Dist. Lexis 26951 at *54 (S.D.Cal.2004) (citing Southland Sec. Corp. v. Inspire Ins. Solutions, Inc., 365 F.3d 353, 372 (5th Cir.2004)). When determining whether statements amounted only to puffery, the court must analyze the context in which the statements were made. See FTC v. Trudeau, 579 F.3d 754, 766 (7th Cir.2009) ("In determining whether a statement is puffery, the context matters.") (citation omitted); Casella v. Webb, 883 F.2d 805, 808 (9th Cir.1989) ("What might be innocuous 'puffery' or mere statement of opinion standing alone may be actionable as an integral part of a representation of material fact when used to emphasize and induce reliance upon such a representation."). In addition, forward-looking statements about future earnings are analyzed differently under § 10(b) and Rule 10b–5. "[T]hat a prediction proves to be wrong in hindsight does not render the statement untrue when made." In re Syntex Corp. Sec. Litig., 95 F.3d 922, 930 (9th Cir.1996).

Plaintiff asserts that Defendants made material misrepresentations or omissions regarding (1) Ashford's student persistence initiatives, (2) Ashford's application for WASC accreditation, (3) Ashford's quality of education, and (4) Bridgepoint's financial projections. Defendants deny that they made any material misrepresentations in any of these categories. Each is discussed in turn.

a. Ashford's Student Persistence Initiatives

18 The WASC's May 23 and June 3, 2011 letters allegedly highlighted certain areas of focus that Bridgepoint needed to address to obtain WASC accreditation, including inadequate student retention and completion and insufficient student progress tracking. CC at ¶ 49. Bridgepoint claims that it implemented persistence programs at Ashford to remedy these problems starting as early as 2010. Throughout the Class Period, Bridgepoint emphasized that student persistence programs were improving student retention. See, e.g., CC at ¶¶ 84 ("[S]tudent support initiatives we made in 2010 to enhance student persistence are working as we planned."), 152 ("We did a lot back in 2010 and through 2011 around quality initiatives for our students.... That has impacted our persistence in a very positive way."), 178 ("We are pleased that our operating and financial results were in-line with our internal expectations for the quarter, and we are particularly pleased by the strong increase in student persistence at our universities"). Plaintiff alleges that these statements concerning Ashford's student persistence initiatives, specifically statements made in Bridgepoint's 1Q11, 2Q11, 3Q11, and 4Q11 earnings statements and during related press conferences as well as during conferences such as the William Blair Global Services Conference in December 2011, were false and misleading.

As proof that these statements were misleading, Plaintiff relies on the WASC's criticisms in their March 2012 report and their July 2012 letter. The March 2012 report, which was based on WASC's onsite visit to Ashford, the WASC's visiting team found that Ashford's level of attrition was still "unacceptable." CC at ¶ 59. WASC explained that its team had difficulty "with understanding how data about retention, persistence and completion were constructed and reported by Ashford University. The team repeatedly found the various data sets to be confusing. It also had concerns that Ashford's awareness and ownership of the fundamental challenges of retention, graduation and attrition were "not sufficiently developed...."

In addition, the WASC's March 2012 report noted that, while Ashford had put several programs into place, those programs had only been launched within the last six to eight months and that Ashford lacked the "organizational maturity and capacity" to take the institution to the next level. See MTD, Ex. 20 at 21. The July 2012 letter to Bridgepoint was equally critical, noting that Ashford had "not yet developed a method to collect and display data on retention, persistence, and completion in a manner that can be easily understood, that lends itself to analysis, and that accounts for each student who is recruited and enrolled in a degree program." See MTD, Ex. 21 at 4.

Defendants contend that student persistence has improved year-over-year since the 2007–2008 school year. See MTD at 13. Defendants explain that their comments regarding student persistence programs were regarding programs that they launched in 2010, while WASC's comments were geared at programs launched in 2011. Finally, Defendants argue that their positive comments were "soft," non-actionable statements. See, e.g., Allison v. Brooktree Corp., 999 F.Supp. 1342, 1348 (S.D.Cal.1998) (finding that "vague statements of optimism" were not actionable); In re Cutera Sec. Litig., 610 F.3d 1103, 1111 (9th Cir.2010) (finding that investors do not rely on vague statements of optimism like "good," "well-regarded," or other feel-good monikers).

19 The court finds Defendants' arguments regarding persistence unpersuasive. Even if WASC's comments primarily concerned newer 2011 initiatives, WASC's conclusions concerned Ashford's student persistence generally. The WASC found that a "concerted and systematic approach to improve retention, persistence, and completion, with evidence-based plans, targets, and time lines, [were] not in place and the impact of recent changes cannot yet be measured." See MTD, Ex. 21 at 5 (emphasis added). This comment suggests that Defendants could not have concluded that student persistence was improving. Unlike soft statements, which are subjective, Defendants' statements were arguably objective and quantifiable. WASC, a third party, confirmed that Defendants' statements regarding persistence were unsubstantiated. Moreover, Defendants' comments could have led an investor to assume that Bridgepoint was analyzing Ashford's student persistence and finding that the numbers had actually improved.

The cases cited by Defendants are to no avail as they concerned qualitative statements about a project that was being developed, not alleged progress that could have been monitored as was the case here. In addition, the facts pled by Plaintiff indicate that acceptable levels of persistence were crucial to obtaining accreditation, thereby rendering any statements about persistence potentially material. The court therefore concludes that Plaintiff has stated a § 10(b) claim with respect to Defendants' statements regarding Ashford's student persistence.

b. Ashford's Quality of Education

Plaintiff further claims that Bridgepoint's positive statements regarding its course quality and rigor were deceptive. See, e.g., CC at ¶¶ 89 ("We pride ourselves on our broad selection of rigorous, innovative, and practical courses...."); 128 ("These new innovations [Constellation and Waypoint Technology] expand and enhance our efforts to offer students a broad selection of rigorous, engaging and practical courses."); 179 ("[O]ur efforts to instill quality in all that we do are producing .... outcomes that prove we are serving the academic needs of our students...."). Plaintiff also asserted that Defendants' representations regarding the number of faculty on staff at Ashford were similarly misleading. See, e.g., CC at ¶¶ 153 ("We have a deep, deep bench academically."); 154 ("[W]e continue to focus on full-time faculty and adding full-time faculty."); 173 ("[W]e have invested last year and we will continue to invest this year in more full-time faculty more terminally degreed faculty."). Plaintiff cites statements regarding the quality of staffing, alleging that Defendants failed to reveal that they only employed 50 full-time faculty members, 14 writing specialists, and 38 instructional specialists for a faculty of 2,600 and a student body of 90,000. See Opp. MTD at 11 (citing CC ¶¶ 62, 65).

Defendants counter that "[c]ourts have repeatedly held that vague and subjective statements regarding the quality of a company's educational offerings are not actionable as a matter of law." See, e.g., In re ITT Educ. Svcs., Inc. Sec. & S'holder Deriv. Litig., 859 F.Supp.2d. 572, 580 (S.D.N.Y.2012) (finding that statements regarding the quality of education provided to students "amount[ed] to typical corporate puffery, and as such, ... [were] not actionable under the securities laws"); Okla. Firefighters Pension & Ret. Sys. v. Capella Educ. Co., 873 F.Supp.2d 1070. 1081 (D.Minn.2012) (finding that statements about student placement rates and focus on student outcomes were only tenuously connected to Capella's financial success and could not form the basis for a securities fraud action).

20 Defendants further argue that Plaintiff has not and cannot show that the aforementioned statements about educational quality were false when made. To support this argument, Defendants cite the WASC's report on its visit to Ashford, which found that "Ashford is committed to providing quality courses to its student" and commented approvingly of Ashford's use of an external peer-review agency. See MTD, Decl. Ostler, Exh. 20 at 14.

Plaintiff counters that Bridgepoint "falsely highlighted its ability to analyze data and to meaningfully assess student learning." CC ¶ 147. Plaintiff points to the WASC's findings that Defendants had "yet to set up the necessary processes for analyzing data and making meaningful data-informed decisions." See MTD, Decl. Ostler, Exh. 20 at 15. WASC also expressed concern in its action letter, stating that "[s]erious concerns also exist about the rigor of the coursework, which varied from course to course and was not always at the appropriate level for the course." CC ¶ 71. The WASC Action Letter further noted that Ashford had only recently adopted and implemented program review, and only reviewed "six out of approximately 80 programs." CC ¶ 68.

The court concludes that Defendants' vague, but rosy statements amount to nothing more than puffery. Defendants' statements expressing their opinion about the quality of education offered are not false merely because they had not established a process to assess the "quality" of education. The word "quality" and its synonyms, without more, are subjective, not objective words. Had Defendants made misleading objective statements about the quality of education provided at Ashford, such as specifically misrepresenting the number of full-time faculty or alleging that they had taken certain steps to assess the quality of education at Ashford when they had not in fact taken those steps, Plaintiff might have a valid claim. However, Defendants appear to have been careful about making only vague statements concerning quality without providing specific details about what "quality" meant. These statements about educational quality alone are insufficient to serve as the basis for a securities fraud action.

c. Ashford's Application for WASC Accreditation

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants' accreditation updates misrepresented their alleged actions to remedy WASC's concerns regarding Ashford's persistence rate, the number of full-time faculty, and other areas. These misrepresentations led investors to believe that the accreditation process was progressing well and that accreditation was likely. Plaintiff notes that these deficiencies were so significant that WASC did not give Defendants a deferral to cure them. Relying on WASC's March and June 2011 letters to Bridgepoint, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants knew, but failed to disclose, that WASC would not accredit Ashford. As previously explained, failure to obtain accreditation from WASC would have had and did have a strong negative financial impact on Bridgepoint.

*21 Defendants counter that Plaintiff has not and cannot "identify a single instance in which any defendant assured investors that WASC would grant accreditation to Ashford." MTD at 7. Defendants further note that its official disclosures in its SEC filings warned that WASC accreditation was not assured and that the inability to obtain accreditation could negatively affect the companies' growth. See MTD at 7 (citing Ex. 7, March 2012 10–K, at 27; Ex. 3, March 2011 10–K. At 47; Ex. 5, March 2011 8–K, at 2). Defendants assert that their optimistic statements were, as previously discussed, nothing more than puffery or feel-good monikers that cannot form the basis of a fraud claim. See In re Cutera Sec. Litig., 610 F.3d 1103, 1111 (9th Cir.2010) (finding that "investors do not rely on vague statements of optimism like 'good,' 'well-regarded,' or other feel good monikers").

Defendants also argue that Plaintiff is mischaracterizing the nature of the March and June 2011 letters, which simply outlined WASC's concerns regarding certain areas. See MTD at 9. Defendants note that these same letters also informed them of WASC's approval of Ashford's application for eligibility. See id.

Finally, Defendants argue that they had "no duty to provide continuing updates on interim communications with WASC. Defendants rely on Fanni v. Northrop Grumman Corp., 2000 WL 35905106 (C.D.Cal.2000), aff'd, 23 F. App'x 782 (9th Cir.2011). In Northrop, the plaintiffs alleged that top insiders at Northrop allegedly knew that the Department of Justice's Antitrust Division would not approve a merger of Northrop and Lockheed Martin and would likely take legal action to block the merger. See id. at *9–10. The plaintiffs pointed to the Department of Justice's statements to top insiders expressing serious concerns about the merger. The district court, however, dismissed the plaintiffs' claims as Northrop had no duty to provide continuing updates on the specifics of its conversations with the Department of Justice during its inquiry. The court relied on Epstein v. Washington Energy, 83 F.3d 1136 (9th Cir.1996), which held that "a utility that has announced it has submitted an application for a rate increase normally has no duty to inform the public of any facts or circumstances in addition to those set forth in the application." See id. 1141–42.

Plaintiff, however, claims that the WASC's May and June 2011 letters constituted early notice regarding inadequate student retention, completion, methods of tracking students, and student support. See Opp. MTD at 6. Plaintiff explains that Defendants' failure to remedy these identified deficiencies would result in denial of Ashford's accreditation. See id. at 7. By failing to take the steps necessary to address the deficiencies identified by the WASC while making statements that Bridgepoint would be transparent about the approval process and that Bridgepoint was very pleased with how the accreditation process was going, Plaintiff contends that Defendants made material misrepresentations about the accreditation process.

*22 Once Defendants made statements concerning Ashford's accreditation application, Plaintiff claims that they had a duty to speak completely and truthfully so as not "to omit to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading." Opp. MTD at 8–9 (citing 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5(b); see also Berzon v. Applied Signal Tech. Inc., 527 F.3d 982, 987 (9th Cir.2008) ("But once defendants chose to tout the company's backlog, they were bound to do so in a manner that wouldn't mislead investors as to what that backlog consisted of."). Plaintiff cites the May and June 2011 letters and Defendants' failure to implement systems, programs, or processes necessary to remedy the deficiencies as evidence that Defendants knew that Ashford would not be accredited. See id. at 9.

The court finds that Defendants' statements appear to constitute optimistic puffery. The May and June 2011 letters, which have not been produced, appear to have merely informed Bridgepoint of concerns that it needed to address. Plaintiff's current allegations do not support its claim that Defendants could not have remedied the deficiencies in time and misrepresented their ability to do so. But the court notes that Plaintiff may eventually be able to demonstrate that Defendants were aware that WASC would not accredit Ashford well before the WASC denied accreditation in July 2012. If discovery reveals that Defendants knew that denial of accreditation would be denied, then Plaintiff may be permitted to amend its complaint to reassert this claim based on prior misleading statements made during conference calls or other disclosures to investors.

d. Bridgepoint's Financial Projections

Plaintiff alleges that "Defendants made fiscal year ("FY") 2011 and FY 2012 financial projections with actual knowledge that the statements were false or misleading." Opp. MTD at (citing 15 U .S.C. § 78u–5(c)(1)(B)). Defendants counter first that Bridgepoint exceeded its financial forecasts for revenue and net income in 2011.[2] See MTD at 15. Defendants also argue that Plaintiff has no basis for asserting that Bridgepoint's 2012 financial projections were false because Bridgepoint has not yet released its final 2012 revenue and net income. See id. Defendants further observe that Plaintiff has not pled any facts indicating actual knowledge of falsity, which is especially untrue as Bridgepoint met its 2011 financial forecasts. See id. at 16.

Finally, Defendants argue that Bridgepoint's financial forecasts were "protected by the Reform Act's safe harbor for forward-looking statements, which protects forecasts accompanied by meaningful cautionary language or made without actual knowledge of its falsity." Id. at 15 (citing 15 U.S.C. § 78u–5(c)(1)). Defendants note that "[e]ach of the challenged forecasts [were] accompanied by specific, detailed risk disclosures." MTD at 15 (citing Ex. 3, March 2011 10–K, at 22, 24, 46, and 47; Ex. 7, March 2012 10–K, at 1, 12, 14, 26, and 27).

23 Plaintiff counters that Bridgepoint was able to meet its FY 2011 projections because they concealed the truth, "e.g., that over 90% of Bridgepoint revenues were in serious jeopardy, such that Defendants' misleading projections would surely go unmet upon revelation of the truth." Opp. MTD at 12–13. Plaintiff further notes that Bridgepoint released its 2012 earnings on March 12, 2013. For 2012, Bridgepoint's revenue was $968.2 million and its net income was $172.8 million. See Opp. MTD at 13 n. 6 (citing a News Release issued by Bridgepoint, http://www.sec.gov/Archives/ edgar/data/1305323/000130532313000014/ex–991q42012earningsreleas.htm). Defendants concede that these numbers are accurate, but notes that Bridgepoint only missed its revenue and net income for FY 2012 by 4.1 percent and 2.7 percent respectively.

The court finds that Plaintiff has not sufficiently pled Defendants' alleged misrepresentations relating to Bridgepoint's financial projections. Plaintiff only provides conclusory statements about Defendants' alleged knowledge that Ashford would not be accredited and claims that Bridgepoint's financial projections should have reflected this knowledge. In addition, Plaintiff argues that the cautionary statements were misleading. But conclusory statements are insufficient to meet the PSLRA's heightened pleading requirements.

2. Scienter

To recover damages, a plaintiff must prove that a defendant "made a material misstatement with an intent to deceive—not merely innocently or negligently." Tellabs, 551 U.S. at 319; Ernst & Ernst v. Hochfelder, 425 U.S. 185, 193 n. 12, 96 S.Ct. 1375, 47 L.Ed.2d 668 (1976) (defining scienter as "a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud"). Reckless conduct may suffice to meet the scienter requirement if it leads to > a highly unreasonable omission involving not merely simple, or even inexcusable negligence, but an extreme departure from the standards of ordinary care, and which presents a danger of misleading buyers or sellers that is either known to the defendant or is so obvious that the actor must have been aware of it.

Hollinger v. Titan Capital Corp., 914 F.2d 1564, 1569 (9th Cir.1990) (adopting Sundstrand Corp. v. Sun Chem. Corp., 553 F.2d 1033, 1045 (7th Cir.1977)) (internal quotations omitted).

PSLRA's heightened pleading requirement provides that complaints must "state with particularity facts giving rise to a strong inference that the defendant acted with the required state of mind." 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4(b)(2). "Vague or ambiguous allegations are now properly considered as a part of a holistic review when considering whether the complaint raises a strong inference of scienter." South Ferry LP v. Killinger, 542 F.3d 776, 784 (9th Cir.2008) (citing Tellabs, 551 U.S. at 325). Allegations that analysts "were issuing recommendations that were contrary to their true evaluations of the relevant securities or were other tainted by conflicts of interest [are] strong circumstantial evidence of conscious misbehavior." Fogarazzo v. Lehman Bros., Inc., 341 F.Supp.2d 274, 293 (S.D.N.Y.2004).

24 Defendants contend that Plaintiff has failed to plead adequately because: (1) WASC's May and June 2011 letters are not indicative of scienter; (2) Plaintiff's "boilerplate allegations" about meetings and involvement in accreditation standards do not demonstrate scienter; (3) the core operations doctrine is inapplicable; (4) Defendants' stock transactions do not support an inference of scienter; and (5) Defendants' repeated warnings negate scienter. Each of these arguments is addressed separately below.

a. WASC's May and June 2011 Letters

Defendants dispute Plaintiff's claim that the WASC's May and June 2011 letters informed Bridgepoint that Ashford fell "woefully short" of WASC's accreditation standards. First, Defendants note that Plaintiff has never even asserted that it has read those letters. Second, Defendants contend that this theory is contradicted by WASC permitting Ashford to proceed with its application, which Defendants claim WASC would not have done had there been no reasonable basis for believing that accreditation could not have been achieved within four years.

Finally, Defendants argue that the areas of concern described in the letters from regulators do not raise an inference of scienter and cites numerous cases supporting this argument. See MTD at 17 (citing In re Medimmune, Inc. Sec. Litig., 873 F.Supp. 953, 966 (D.Md.1995) (finding that constant disclosures during the drug approval process could mislead investors and cause undue price volatility); Sarafin v. BioMimetic Therapeutics, Inc., 2013 WL 139521 (M.D.Tenn. Jan.10, 2013) ("The fact that the FDA told BMTI to give 'serious consideration' to certain matters and said several things that should be done, does not mean that the approved protocol was somehow rejected."); Noble Asset Mgmt. v. Allos Therapeutics, Inc., 2005 WL 4161977, at *7 (D.Colo.2005) ("The fact that the FDA staff members raised questions did not impose a duty upon the defendants to revise their opinions about the drug's efficacy or to report to the public the substance of their conversations with the FDA."); and Fanni, 2000 WL 35905106, at *11 ("[A]nticipating a final decision of an administrative regulatory agency, once initially disclosed, does not constitute an actionable misleading statement or omission.").

Defendants further note that Plaintiff has "alleged no facts even suggesting the Defendants believed Ashford would not successfully address those concerns by the time the accreditation review was complete more than one year later." MTD at 18 (citing In re Genzyme Corp., 2012 WL 1076124 (D.Mass.2012) ("They point to the fact that the FDA later concluded Genzyme did not adequately implement its corrective plans. However, the fact that the FDA later made such a conclusion does not make earlier statements about the Lumizyme approval process false or misleading.")).

Plaintiff counters that the May and June 2011 letters constituted "early notice" that WASC would not accredit Ashford because Defendants knew that the issues cited in those letters could not be addressed in time. Plaintiff counters that "Defendants' own statements describing the initiatives and improvements taken to achieve accreditation-including answers to pointed questions from analysts-show Defendants' knowledge and involvement in the accreditation process and further demonstrate that they knew or were consciously reckless of the facts demonstrating Ashford would not achieve accreditation." Opp. MTD at 17 (citing In re Countrywide Financial Corp. Securities Litigation, 588 F.Supp.2d 1132, 1190 (C.D.Cal.2008) (finding that each Officer Defendant's publicly professed knowledge of the subject of the fraud favored a finding of scienter); Institutional Investors Group v. Avaya, Inc., 564 F.3d 242, 270 (3d. Cir.2009) (finding that the specificity and repetition of defendants' questions concerning the fraud at issue created a strong inference of recklessness)). For example, Plaintiff notes that Defendants implemented several initiatives to address issues cited by WASC, assured investors that Ashford had the necessary leadership and faculty to ensure student progress and development, described data tracking student learning, and discussed Ashford's academic rigor. See Opp. MTD at 17. Plaintiff also notes that Defendants attended QRMs with Bridgepoint and Ashford management, which would have alerted Defendants to Ashford's inability to address WASC's concerns. Plaintiff then alleges that "WASC found that these initiatives and improvements did not meaningfully exist." Opp. MTD at 17 (citing CC ¶¶ 72, 89, 128, 147, and 153). Even if they did exist, Plaintiff notes that WASC found that these programs were only implemented "recently," although it is unclear what the precise meaning of "recently" is. See id.

25 Plaintiff also attempts to distinguish each of the cases cited by Defendant. Plaintiff claims that in Sarafin, the regulator's concerns were not mandatory, whereas Defendants were required to address the concerns in the May and June 2011 letters. See Sarafin, 2013 WL 139521, at *11. In Genzyme, the defendants received the letters from the regulators one and a half years into the class period, while the WASC expressed its concerns at the beginning of the accreditation process. See In re Genzyme Corp., 2012 WL 1076124, at *10. Similarly, in Fanni, the letter at issue was a second request from the Department of Justice. See Fanni, 2000 WL 35905106, at *10. And, finally, Plaintiff distinguishes Noble Asset and Medimmune from the matter at hand because, unlike here, defendants allegedly did not know their products could not meet the concerns of the regulatory agency. See In re Medimmune, 873 F.Supp. at 966; Noble Asset Mgmt., 2005 WL 4161977, at *13.

The court agrees that the WASC's May and June 2011 letters are not themselves indicative of scienter. At best, they indicate that Defendants should have been aware of what issues needed to be addressed to obtain accreditation by the WASC, and, by extension, what areas of improvement might interest investors. Plaintiff has pled no facts indicating that Defendants knew that Ashford could not meet WASC's accreditation standards.

But Defendants' statements relating to persistence are different. The May and June 2011 letters appear to have emphasized the importance of improving persistence to obtain accreditation. By extension, Defendants therefore may or should have known that persistence rates would be important to investors. With this in mind, Defendants claimed that student persistence had been improving during conference calls. See CC ¶¶ 84, 89, 92, 104, 133, and 161. But the WASC found that persistence could not yet be measured and that a systematic approach to managing persistence was not yet in place. See supra at 27. If Defendants were aware that persistence could not be adequately measured and yet made representations indicating that persistence was improving, then scienter could be reasonably inferred. The heightened pleading standard therefore has been met for statements relating to persistence.

b. Meetings and Involvement in Accreditation Standards

Defendants next contend that their attendance at QRMs and WASC accreditation meetings are insufficient to indicate scienter because the timing of those meetings, the participants who attended, or topics discussed were not specified in the complaint. See MTD at 19. Plaintiff responds only by reiterating Defendants' attendance at these meetings and noting that the WASC similarly found that Defendants had attended these meetings to discuss all areas about Ashford.

The court notes that the Ninth Circuit has previously found that "[i]n the securities fraud context, general allegations of defendants' 'hands-on' management style, their interaction with other officers and employees, their attendance at meetings, and their receipt of unspecified weekly or monthly reports are insufficient to create a strong inference of scienter. However, specific admissions from top executives that they are involved in every detail of the company and that they monitored portions of the company's database are factors in favor of inferring scienter." Glazer Capital Mgmt., LP v. Magistri, 549 F.3d 736, 746 (9th Cir.2009); see also Wozniak v. Align Tech., 850 F.Supp.2d 1029, 1043 (N.D.Cal.2012) (finding that sales conference calls, sales meetings, financial reviews, manufacturing meetings, and executive management meetings were insufficient to establish a strong inference of scienter because plaintiff did not allege that specific information about new revenues orders was discussed). Given the Ninth Circuit's holding in Glazer, the court finds that Plaintiff has not shown that Defendants' attendance at QRMs and WASC accreditation meetings are indicative of scienter. No minute meetings, reports, or other evidence suggest that the Defendants were aware that Ashford would be unable to meet WASC's accreditation standards.

c. Core Operations Doctrine

26 Under the "core operations" doctrine, a plaintiff may rely on circumstantial evidence if it creates a "strong inference" of fraud. See In re Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d 970, 986 (9th Cir.1999). Specifically, upon the laying of a proper factual foundation that information was known within a corporation, it may be inferred that "facts critical to a business's core operations or an important transaction are known to a company's key officers." See In re NorthPoint Comm. Grp. Sec. Litig., 184 F.Supp.2d 991, 998 (N.D.Cal.2001).

Defendants contend that Plaintiff is asking the court to infer scienter based on knowledge of a future event —i.e. how the WASC members would vote a year later- rather than facts, and that the core operations doctrine therefore does not apply. See MTD at 20. To support this contention, Defendants rely on Berson v. Applied Signal Technology Inc., 527 F.3d 982 (9th Cir.2008), in which the Ninth Circuit explained that the "core operations" doctrine does not apply to predictions of future events. See id. at 989 ("Where defendants make cheerful predictions that do not come to pass, plaintiffs may not argue, based only on defendants' prominent positions in the company, that they ought to have known better."). Defendants note that WASC's accreditation standards are subjective and are "necessarily a matter of judgment." MTD at 21; MTD, Exh. 22 at 12 ("Each standard is set forth in broad holistic terms that are applicable to all institutions."). Defendants also cite the WASC's observation that Ashford had made efforts to address areas identified for improvement, even though it also noted that the impact of these efforts could not yet be measured. See MTD, Ex. 21, at 2–3.

Plaintiff, however, asserts that WASC's standards were objective and not met by Ashford. See Opp. MTD at 20. Plaintiff provides some examples of standards that were clearly objective, such as having an independent governing board, and some areas that it describes as slightly less objective, such as reviewing and tracking graduation rates. See id. at 20. In fact, Plaintiff claims that "Ashford was so far from achieving accreditation that no level of discretion exercised by WASC relieves Defendants' knowledge that Ashford did not meet accreditation standards." Id.

The court finds Defendants' argument persuasive. Plaintiff is asking the court to find that Defendants should have known that WASC would decline to accredit Ashford. Although Defendants were aware of the areas that needed attention, on these allegations and the current record, it does not appear that denial was a foregone conclusion.

d. Defendants' Stock Transactions

Defendants argue that the stock sales of the individual Defendants are not unusual, suspicious, or dramatically out of line with prior trading practices at a time calculated to maximize personal benefit and therefore scienter cannot be inferred from said stock sales. See Metzler Inv. GMBH v. Corinthian Colleges, Inc., 540 F.3d 1049, 1066–67 (9th Cir.2008) (quoting In re Silicon Graphics, 183 F.3d at 986) ("While 'suspicious' stock sales by corporate insiders may constitute circumstantial evidence of scienter, such sales only give rise to an inference of scienter when they are dramatically out of line with prior trading practices at times calculated to maximize the personal benefit from undisclosed inside information.") (internal quotations removed). Defendants claim that "[h]ere, without exception, Defendants' sales were made pursuant to established Rule 10b5–1 trading plans entered on August 11, 2010." MTD, Exh.1 (disclosing that Defendants Clark and Devine had entered into a trading plan with a broker to sell a certain number of shares per month depending on certain factors).[3] As Defendants could not have predicted that WASC would not accredit Ashford nearly two years prior to WASC's denial of accreditation, Defendants assert that no inference of scienter could arise from their trading activities. See, e.g., Constr. Laborers Pension Trust of Greater St. Louis v. Neurocine Biosciences, Inc., 2008 WL 2053733 (S.D.Cal.2008) ("Where an insider's trading is scheduled under a Rule 10b–5 trading plan in place before the alleged inside information is received, no inference of scienter arises."). Defendants add that their consistent trading patterns also undermines any inference of scienter. See MTD at 22.

27 Plaintiff maintains that Defendants' sales were inconsistent with prior trading history because Clark, Devine, and McAuliffe had all sold significantly fewer shares during the year prior to the commencement of the Class Period. See CC ¶¶ 197–201.[4] Plaintiff further notes that Defendants retained "little if any Bridgepoint stock after their sales." Opp. MTD at 21–22. Finally, Plaintiff argues that Defendants improperly rely on their 10b5–1 trading plan at the pleading stage. See, e.g., In re Infosonics Corp. Derivative Litig., 2007 WL 2572276, at *9 ("[W]hether these trading plans were legitimately adopted or were put in place after learning of material, nonpublic information that could affect the price of stock, can not be resolved at the pleading stage."); In re UTStarcom, Inc. Sec. Litig., 617 F.Supp.2d 964, 976 (N.D.Cal.2009) ("The Court finds that, although evidence of the nondiscretionary nature of Defendants' sales may ultimately provide the basis of an affirmative defense at a later stage of the litigation, it suffices that, at the pleading stage, Plaintiffs have alleged significant and suspiciously timed securities sales.").

"To evaluate suspiciousness of stock sales, [a court considers] three factors: (1) the amount and percentage of shares sold; (2) timing of the sales; and (3) consistency with prior trading history." Nursing Home Pension Fund, Local 144 v. Oracle Corp., 380 F.3d 1226, 1232 (9th Cir.2004). Problematically, the court notes that Plaintiff has not set forth allegations regarding the amount of stock that Defendants held prior to the commencement of the Class Period, the percentage of shares sold prior to the Class Period, or the amount of stock that Defendants received as compensation prior to and during the Class Period. This backdrop would be highly relevant in establishing whether Defendants' sales were truly inconsistent with past trading activity. Without this backdrop, the court has little context to analyze allegations regarding Defendants' trading activity. However, the court notes that, if Plaintiff is able to allege that Defendants' trading activity was suspicious in context, Defendants may not use trading plans at the pleading stage to defeat an inference of scienter.

e. Repeated Warnings

Defendants argue that their repeated cautionary language warning investors that Ashford's accreditation was not ensured negates an inference of intent to defraud. See MTD at 24 (citing In re Worlds of Wonder Sec. Litig., 35 F.3d 1407, 1425 (9th Cir.1994) (finding that detailed risk disclosure in a prospectus negated an inference of scienter); In re Wet Seal, Inc. Sec. Litig., 518 F.Supp.2d 1148 (C.D.Cal.2007) (finding the repeated disclosures that hoped-for turnaround would never materialize negated an inference of scienter)). Defendants note that the cautionary language specifically addressed the risk that WASC would not accredit. See MTD at 24–25.

28 Plaintiff, however, argues that the cautionary language cited by Defendants consisted of nothing more than boilerplate risk disclosures that accreditation was not assured. See Opp. MTD at 24. Plaintiff argues that these disclosures failed to reveal known specific shortcomings. See id. (citing Berson, 527 F.3d at 987 (finding that defendant misled investors when it disclosed that stop work orders might be placed when they had in fact been placed)). Plaintiff, however, does not specify the specific shortcomings, other than Ashford's failure to obtain WASC accreditation.

"A motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim will succeed only when the documents containing the defendants' challenged statements include 'enough cautionary language or risk disclosure,' that 'reasonable minds' could not disagree that the challenged statements were not misleading." Fecht v. Price Co., 70 F.3d 1078, 1082 (9th Cir.1995) (quoting In re Worlds of Wonder Sec. Litig., 35 F.3d at 1413). Here, the court concludes that the cautionary language created a negative inference of intent regarding the WASC's possible accreditation of Ashford. As previously discussed, Plaintiff has provided no evidence that Defendants conclusively knew that Ashford would not be accredited. The cautionary language therefore negates an inference of scienter with respect to accreditation only.

C. Section 20(A) and 20A Claim

Section 20(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") provides:

> [e]very person who, directly or indirectly, controls any person liable under any provision of this chapter or of any rule or regulation thereunder shall also be liable jointly and severally with and to the same extent as such controlled person ... is liable unless the controlling person acted in good faith and did not directly or indirectly induce the act or acts constituting the violation or cause of action.

15 U.S.C. § 78t(a). In contrast, Section 20A of the Exchange Act creates liability for "[a]ny person who violates any provision of this chapter or the rules or regulations thereunder by purchasing or selling a security while in possession of material, nonpublic information." 15 U.S.C. § 78t–1.

To prove a prima facie case under Section 20(a), a plaintiff must prove that there was a primary violation of federal securities law and that the defendant exercised actual power or control over the primary violator. See Howard v. Everex Systems, Inc., 228 F.3d 1057, 1065 (9th Cir.2000); In re Surebeam Corp. Sec. Litig., 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26951, at *71 (S.D.Cal.2004). Similarly, an insider may be liable under Section 20A only upon proof of an independent violation of the securities laws. See Lipton v. PathoGenesis Corp., 284 F.3d 1027, 1035 n. 15 (9th Cir.2002); In re VeriFone Sec. Litig., 11 F.3d 865, 872 (9th Cir.1993).

Defendants argue that Plaintiff's claims under the Sections 20(a) and 20A of the Exchange Act should be dismissed because Plaintiff does not adequately allege an underlying primary violation. See MTD at 25. The court agrees that Plaintiff has not asserted a valid claim under Section 20A of the Exchange Act as the court has dismissed Plaintiff's insider trading claims against individual Defendants. However, the court concludes that a claim may exist under Section 20(a) as a Section 10(b) claim survives.

V. CONCLUSION

29 This court hereby GRANTS Defendants' motion to dismiss with leave to amend for the alleged misrepresentations relating to Ashford's quality of education, the WASC accreditation process, and Bridgepoint's financial forecasts. The court DENIES Defendants' motion to dismiss for the alleged misrepresentations concerning Ashford's persistence rates. In addition, the court dismisses Plaintiff's Section 20A claim, but not Plaintiff's Section 20(a) claim. Plaintiff must file any amended complaint on or before October 31, 2013.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

All Citations

Not Reported in F.Supp.2d, 2013 WL 5206216, Fed. Sec. L. Rep. P 97,641

Footnotes

1 In 2009, 2010, and 2011, Ashford received 85.5%, 85.0%, and 86.8%, respectively, of revenues from Title IV funds. However, with DOD federal funds included, Bridgepoint received 93.7% of revenue in 2010 from the federal government.

2 For 2011, Bridgepoint's financial projections were between $920 and $926 million for revenue and $168.5 and $170.3 million for net income. In 2011, Bridgepoint's revenue was $933.3 million and its net income was $172.8 million. See MTD at 15.

3 Notably, Defendants have not submitted any evidence of a trading plan for Defendant McAuliffe.

4 Clark sold 725,525 shares for proceeds over $17 million during the Class Period, or 167,935 fewer shares than the year prior. Devine sold 299,100 shares for proceeds of over $6.7 million during the Class Period, though he had sold half the number of shares for less than half the proceeds the year prior. McAuliffe sold 300,000 shares for nearly $6.5 million, which was considerably higher than the 90,000 shares she had sold the year prior to the commencement of the Class Period.

End of Document © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

871 F.Supp.2d 433
United States District Court,
W.D. Pennsylvania.

UNITED STATES of America, and the States of California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, and Tennessee, and the District of Columbia, each ex rel. Lynntoya Washington and Michael T. Mahoney, Plaintiffs,
v.
EDUCATION MANAGEMENT CORPORATION; Education Management Holdings LLC; Education Management LLC; the Art Institute of California—Hollywood; the Art Institute of California—Inland Empire; the Art Institute of California—Los Angeles; the Art Institute of California—Orange County; the Art Institute of California—Sacramento; the Art Institute of California—San Diego; the Art Institute of California—San Francisco; the Art Institute of California—Sunnyvale; Argosy University, Inland Empire; Argosy University, Orange County; Argosy University, San Diego; Argosy University, San Francisco; Argosy University, Santa Monica; Western State University College of Law; the Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale; the Art Institute of Jacksonville; the Art Institute of Tampa; Miami International University of Art & Design; Argosy University, Sarasota; Argosy University, Tampa; South University/West Palm Beach; South University/Tampa; Brown Mackie College—Miami; the Illinois Institute of Art—Chicago; the Illinois Institute of Art—Schaumberg; Argosy University, Chicago; Argosy University, Schaumburg; Brown Mackie College—Moline; the Art Institute of Indianapolis; Brown Mackie College—Merrillville; Brown Mackie College—Michigan City; Brown Mackie College—Fort Wayne; Brown Mackie College—South Bend; Brown Mackie College—Indianapolis; the Art Institutes International Minnesota; Argosy University, Twin Cities; Brown Mackie College—Albuquerque; the Art Institute of New York City; the Art Institute of Tennessee—Nashville; Argosy University, Nashville; the Art Institute of Atlanta; the Art Institute of Atlanta—Decatur; the Art Institute of Austin; the Art Institute of Charleston; the Art Institute of Charlotte; the Art Institute of Colorado; the Art Institute of Dallas; the Art Institute of Fort Worth; the Art Institute of Houston; the Art Institute of Houston—North; the Art Institute of Las Vegas; the Art Institute of Michigan; the Art Institute of Ohio—Cincinnati; the Art Institute of Philadelphia; the Art Institute of Phoenix; the Art Institute of Pittsburgh; the Art Institute of Portland; the Art Institute of Raleigh—Durham; the Art Institute of San Antonio; the Art Institute of Salt Lake City; the Art Institute of Seattle; the Art Institute of Tucson; the Art Institute of Vancouver; the Art Institute of Virginia Beach; the Art Institute of Washington; the Art Institute of Washington—Northern Virginia; the Art Institute of Wisconsin; the Art Institute of York—Pennsylvania; the Art Institutes International—Kansas City; the New England Institute of Art; Argosy University, Atlanta; Argosy University, Dallas; Argosy University, Denver; Argosy University, Honolulu; Argosy University, Phoenix; Argosy University, Salt Lake City; Argosy University, Washington D.C.; South University/Savannah; South University/Montgomery; South University/Columbia; South University/Richmond; South University/Novi; South University/Virginia Beach; Brown Mackie College—Akron; Brown Mackie College—Cincinnati; Brown Mackie College—Findlay; Brown Mackie College—Northern Kentucky; Brown Mackie College—North Canton; Brown Mackie College—Atlanta; Brown Mackie College—Kansas City; Brown Mackie College—Salina; Brown Mackie College—Louisville; Brown Mackie College—Hopkinsville; Brown Mackie College—Tucson; Brown Mackie College—Boise; Brown Mackie College—Tulsa; Brown Mackie College—Phoenix; Brown Mackie College—Greenville; Brown Mackie College—St. Louis; Brown Mackie College—San Antonio, Defendants.

Civil Action No. 07–CV–461.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

May 11, 2012.

Synopsis

Background: Relator brought action against operator of private post-secondary schools and its schools, alleging violations of Higher Education Act (HEA) and federal and state False Claims Acts, and common law claims. Federal government, District of Columbia, and various states filed complaints in intervention. Defendants moved to dismiss, and, in the alternative, moved to strike complaint, and moved to dismiss District of Columbia's complaint in intervention.

Holdings: The District Court, Terrence F. McVerry, J., held that:

[1] operator's written compensation plan for recruiter employees did not violate HEA ban on incentive compensation;

[2] relator stated claim under False Claims Act based on alleged violation of HEA ban on incentive compensation;

[3] federal government's common law claims were not preempted by False Claims Act; and [4] District of Columbia's untimely claims did not relate back to relators' timely complaint.

Motion to dismiss granted in part and denied in part, and motion to dismiss intervenor complaint granted.

West Headnotes (19)

[1] Federal Civil Procedure
Fraud, mistake and condition of mind

The more-rigorous pleading standard for fraud claims also applies to the False Claims Act claims because they allege fraud. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3730(b)(1); Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Federal Civil Procedure
Fraud, mistake and condition of mind

Plaintiffs alleging claims under the False Claims Act must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3730(b)(1); Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Federal Civil Procedure
Fraud, mistake and condition of mind

The imposition of a heightened pleading requirement in fraud actions serves important objectives: the heightened pleading standard gives defendants notice of the claims against them, provides an increased measure of protection for their reputations, and reduces the number of frivolous suits brought solely to extract settlements. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Federal Civil Procedure
Fraud, mistake and condition of mind

A plaintiff alleging fraud must state the circumstances of the alleged fraud with sufficient particularity to place the defendant on notice of the precise misconduct with which it is charged; to satisfy this standard, the plaintiff must plead or allege the date, time and place of the alleged fraud or otherwise inject precision or some measure of substantiation into a fraud allegation. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 9(b), 28 U.S.C.A.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] United States
False Claims

False Claims Act enables the government to recover losses it has incurred as a result of fraud. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729(a).

5 Cases that cite this headnote

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

[6] United States
United States as plaintiff or intervenor
United States
Plaintiff's right to share of award

False Claims Act provides a qui tam enforcement mechanism, which allows a private party, i.e., a relator, to bring a lawsuit on behalf of the government and against an entity to recover money the government paid as a result of fraudulent claims; as an incentive, relators are entitled to keep a percentage of the proceeds from any judgment or settlement in their cases, but on the other hand, the statute contains mechanisms to minimize baseless suits brought by opportunistic relators, and the United States is entitled to intervene to prosecute the claims on its own behalf. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3730(d)(1, 2).

7 Cases that cite this headnote

[7] United States
Elements

The elements of a prima facie case under the federal False Claims Act are: (1) the defendant presented a false or fraudulent claim against the United States; (2) the claim was presented to an agency or contractor of the United States; and (3) the defendant knew the claim was false or fraudulent. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729(a)(1).

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Education
Federally guaranteed loans

Safe Harbor regulation for the Higher Education Act (HEA) was developed pursuant to notice and comment rulemaking and the Department of Education has broad authority to enforce and interpret the HEA, such that a district court is constrained to give deference to the agency's interpretation. Higher Education Act of 1965, § 487(a)(20), 20 U.S.C.A. § 1094(a)(20); 34 C.F.R. § 668.14 (2010).

Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Education
Federally guaranteed loans

Salaries for employees of operator of private post-secondary schools who recruited new students to attend affiliated schools were fixed under written compensation plan, and thus compensation plan did not violate Higher Education Act's (HEA) incentive compensation ban; according to terms of plan, each bi-weekly payment to be received by an employee during six-month period until next salary adjustment was for same amount, salary adjustments were not made more than twice during any 12 month period, matrix used to determine and adjust compensation was not based solely on quantity of students recruited, and at no time did plan, as written, pay employees commission based solely on enrollments. Higher Education Act of 1965, § 400 et seq., 20 U.S.C.A. § 1070 et seq.; 34 C.F.R. § 668.14(b)(22)(ii)(A) (2010).

Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Education
Federally guaranteed loans
United States
Intent

Relator, former employee of operator of private post-secondary schools, and state intervenors failed to allege that operator had scienter required to violate Higher Education Act's (HEA) incentive compensation ban in written compensation plan for employees who recruited new students, as required to state claim against operator based on compensation plan for false representation of its eligibility to receive federal student aid funds in violation of False Claims Act; operator was adhering to federal regulation defining contours of permissible compensation under incentive compensation ban, and Department of Education advised schools that paying travel and related expenses to employees who recruited students to attend sales meetings would not violate incentive compensation ban. Higher Education Act of 1965, § 487(a)(20), 20 U.S.C.A. § 1094(a)(20); 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729(a)(1); 34 C.F.R. § 668.14(b)(22)(ii)(A) (2010).

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] United States
False claim

A claim is "factually false" under the False Claims Act when the claimant misrepresents the goods or services that it provided to the Government. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729 et seq.

Cases that cite this headnote

[12] United States
Intent

United States
False certification

A claim is "legally false" under the False Claims Act when the claimant knowingly falsely certifies that it has complied with a statute or regulation, the compliance with which is a condition of Government payment. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729 et seq.

Cases that cite this headnote

[13] United States
False certification

There are two types of legally false claims under the False Claims Act (FCA): Under the express false certification theory, an entity is liable under the FCA for falsely certifying that it is in compliance with regulations which are prerequisites to Government payment in connection with the claim for payment of federal funds, and under the broader implied false certification theory, liability attaches when a claimant seeks and makes a claim for payment from the Government without disclosing that it has violated regulations that affect its eligibility for payment. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729 et seq.

6 Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Education
Federally guaranteed loans

United States
Pleading;complaint filed under seal

Relator, former employee of operator of private post-secondary schools, alleged false statement or course of conduct, under False Claims Act, based on claims that operator violated Higher Education Act's (HEA) incentive compensation ban, where complaint alleged that, even if operator's compensation plan for employee's who recruited students complied with HEA safe harbor provision on its face, that employees were terminated from their employment or placed on performance improvement plans solely due to enrollment numbers, and that written compensation policy's matrix, which combined student enrollment numbers with variety of quality factors, had no real impact on manner in which compensation system was implemented, and was merely proxy for recruiting success. Higher Education Act of 1965, § 487(a)(20), 20 U.S.C.A. § 1094(a)(20); 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729 et seq.; 34 C.F.R. § 668.14(b)(22)(ii)(A) (2010).

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[15] United States
Intent

Relator, former employee of operator of private post-secondary schools, alleged false statement or course of conduct made knowingly and intentionally, as required to state claim under False Claims Act, where complaint made allegations, including that operator's corporate headquarters signed and submitted program participation agreements on behalf of all of its related educational institutions, that compensation plan for employees who recruited students was developed by company-wide task force, and that its implementation violated Higher Education Act's incentive compensation ban.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Higher Education Act of 1965, § 487(a)(20), 20 U.S.C.A. § 1094(a)(20); 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729(b)(1).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[16] United States
Elements

Causation is not an explicit element of a False Claims Act prima facie case. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729(a)(1).

Cases that cite this headnote

[17] United States
Injury or financial loss

United States
Pleading;complaint filed under seal

Relator, former employee of operator of private post-secondary schools, alleged that violation of Higher Education Act's (HEA) incentive compensation ban by operator of private post-secondary schools caused economic loss to federal and state governments, as required to state claim under False Claims Act, where complaint alleged that operator's alleged misrepresentations enabled it to receive billions of dollars of student aid funds. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729(a)(1).

Cases that cite this headnote

[18] Implied and Constructive Contracts
Unjust enrichment

States
Particular cases, preemption or supersession

Federal government's claims under federal common law against operator of private post-secondary schools for unjust enrichment and mistake of fact were not preempted by False Claims Act. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729 et seq.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[19] Limitation of Actions
Intervention or bringing in new parties

District of Columbia's untimely claims against operator of private post-secondary schools under False Claims Act and common law did not relate back to timely complaint by relators; District was tardy plaintiff which sought to benefit from diligence of others, District's claims were not embraced by relators' earlier complaints because District was attempting to recover for alleged misrepresentations made to District, not to other plaintiffs, operator did not receive notice of District's claims within limitations period and there was no indication that failure to name District earlier was due to mistake concerning its identity, and even though there had been no showing of specific prejudice, operator would still have been deprived of its interest in repose. 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729 et seq.; Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 15(c), 28 U.S.C.A.

Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

*437 Christy C. Wiegand, Paul E. Skirtich, Michael A. Comber, United States Attorney's Office, Harry P. Litman, Litman Law Firm, Thomas J. Farrell, Valerie M. Antonette, Reich, Alexander, Reisinger & Farrell, LLC, Trent A. Echard, H. Yale Gutnick, Strassburger McKenna Gutnick & Gefsky, Pittsburgh, PA, Elizabeth C. Nelson, Kate E. Pomper, Jennifer M. Zlotow, Office of the Illinois Attorney General, Courtney R. Baron, David J. Chizewer, William C. Meyers, Goldberg Kohn Ltd., *438 Chicago, IL, Rene D. Harrod, Office of the Attorney General, Ft. Lauderdale, FL, Stuart W. Cobb, Office of the Attorney General of Kentucky, Frankfort, KY, Kenny V. Nguyen, California Attorney General's Office, Sacramento, CA, Patricia O. Erdmann, Corinne W. Gilchrist, State of Indiana Office of the Attorney General, Indianapolis, IN, George S. Bell, Tennessee Attorney General's Office, Nashville, TN, Jane Drummey, Office of Attorney General of the District Of Columbia, Washington, DC, for Plaintiffs.

Charles H. Moellenberg, Jr., Laura E. Ellsworth, Scott W. Brady, Thomas S. Jones, Amy K. Pohl, Daniel E. Reidy, Jones Day, Pittsburgh, PA, Nikesh Jindal, Timothy J.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Hatch, Gibson Dunn & Crutcher, Washington, DC, for Defendants.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER OF COURT

TERRENCE F. McVERRY, District Judge.

Pending before the Court are DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS PURSUANT TO FEDERAL RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE 12(b)(1) AND 12(b)(6), AND, IN THE ALTERNATIVE, MOTION TO STRIKE UNDER FEDERAL RULE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE 12(f) (Document No. 145) and DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS COMPLAINT IN INTERVENTION BY THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA (Document No. 165). Defendants (collectively "EDMC") filed briefs in support of each motion. The United States, Intervenor States and Relators, and the District of Columbia filed briefs in opposition; EDMC filed a consolidated reply brief; Plaintiffs filed a joint sur-reply brief; and EDMC filed a sur-sur-reply brief. Plaintiffs also filed a notice of supplemental authority, to which EDMC responded. Needless to say, the motions are now ripe for disposition. The Court commends counsel for the high quality of their written advocacy.

Factual Background

EDMC is one of the largest providers of post-high school education in America and operates over one hundred schools. Plaintiffs allege that EDMC paid incentive compensation to the employees who recruit new students to attend their numerous affiliated schools, referred to as Associate or Assistant Directors of Admissions ("ADAs"), in violation of Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 ("HEA"), 20 U.S.C. § 1070 et seq., and EDMC's Program Participation Agreements ("PPA"). As a result of EDMC's alleged violation of the "Incentive Compensation Ban," Plaintiffs contend that EDMC falsely represented its eligibility to receive federal student aid funds. Plaintiffs aver that since July 1, 2003, EDMC and/or students enrolled in EDMC schools have wrongfully obtained over eleven billion dollars ($11,000,000,000) in federal student aid funds and millions more in state funds. Plaintiffs seek treble damages under the federal and state False Claims Acts and have also asserted a number of common law claims.

Governmental financial support of students, beginning with the GI Bill,[1] has been widely viewed as an enlightened social policy and investment in the nation's future. As explained in In re Brunner, 46 B.R. 752, 756 (S.D.N.Y.1985): "[T]hose whose past work or credit record might foreclose them from the commercial loan market are able to obtain credit at subsidized rates to advance their education. Those who might obtain loans only at exorbitant 439 rates are similarly able to obtain low cost, deferred loans .... it is undeniable that guaranteed student loans have extended higher education to thousands who would otherwise have been forced to forego college or vocational training." The government "offers loans at a fixed rate of interest, and it does so almost without regard for creditworthiness. Indeed, because it bases its loan decisions in part on student need, it arguably offers loans selectively to the worst credit risks." Id. EDMC represents that its students come from traditionally underserved groups, and about half are minorities.

In Association of Accredited Cosmetology Schools v. Alexander, 979 F.2d 859 (D.C.Cir.1992), the Court provided a succinct summary of how the student loan program is structured:

> Under Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965, students may obtain "Guaranteed Student Loans" ("GSLs") to pay their post-secondary tuition and expenses. Schools wishing to participate in the GSL program must apply to the Department of Education ("Department") for certification as "eligible institutions" under the HEA. As one might expect, such certification depends on the schools' satisfaction of several statutory and regulatory requirements. If a school's application is approved, the school must sign a contract with the Department called a "Program Participation Agreement." In signing the Agreement, the school agrees, inter alia, "to comply with all the relevant program statutes and regulations governing the operation of each Title IV, HEA Program in which it participates." Program Participation Agreement, at 2. The school also agrees that the Agreement "automatically terminates ... [o]n the date the institution no longer qualifies as an eligible institution." Id. at 6. Once both parties have signed the Program Participation Agreement, participating lenders are authorized to make GSLs to the school's students. State or non-profit agencies guarantee the > repayment of the GSLs. The Department, in turn, "reinsures" the guarantee agencies, meaning that it will pay off a defaulted loan with federal funds after specified collection efforts have proven futile.

Id. at 860 (citations omitted). The risk of defaults on student loans is borne not by the educational institution but by the students and taxpayers, who absorb the cost of any defaults. Id.

Because the schools receive payment in full, there is little economic incentive for them to limit student enrollments. This has led to perceived abuses of government funding by some schools. See generally "Abuses in Federal Student Aid Programs," Sen. Rep. No. 102–58 (May 17, 1991) ("Senate Report") (unscrupulous elements have exploited "both the ready availability of billions of dollars of guaranteed student loans and the weak and inattentive system responsible for them, leaving hundreds of thousands of students with little or no training, no jobs, and significant debts that they cannot possibly repay. While those responsible have reaped huge profits, the American taxpayer has been left to pick up the tab for the billions of dollars in attendant losses."); See also Adam J. Williams, Note, "Fixing the "Undue Hardship" Hardship: Solutions for the Problem of Discharging Educational Loans Through Bankruptcy," 70 U. Pitt. L.Rev. 217, 231–32 (2006) ("Currently, over 3,000 schools are considered 'qualified lenders' under federal loan programs with little consideration given to the qualifications for eligibility to the programs. This has created the somewhat undesirable situation in which schools can loan money to students and be guaranteed repayment by the government, allowing them to increase tuition at a more rapid pace. They receive the benefit of full payment while the rest 440 of the population pays the costs of default. For schools, therefore, there is no real risk of default."). Accord United States v. ITT Educational Services, Inc., 2012 WL 266943 at *2 (S.D.Ind. January 30, 2012) (For-profit schools "possess unique characteristics that arguably divorce their productivity from their incentives, potentially encouraging behavior that runs afoul of the HEA.").

The Incentive Compensation Ban was originally enacted by Congress in 1992, shortly after the Senate Report, and remains in place. Specifically, 20 U.S.C. § 1094(a)(20) states: "The institution will not provide any commission, bonus, or other incentive payment based directly or indirectly on success in securing enrollments or financial aid to any persons or entities engaged in any student recruiting or admission activities or in making decisions regarding the award of student financial assistance ...." The Incentive Compensation Ban was intended to curb the risk that recruiters will "sign up poorly qualified students who will derive little benefit from the subsidy and may be unable or unwilling to repay federally guaranteed loans." United States ex rel. Main v. Oakland City Univ., 426 F.3d 914, 916 (7th Cir.2005). In United States ex rel. Lopez v. Strayer Educ., Inc., 698 F.Supp.2d 633, 635 (E.D.Va.2010), the Court commented:

> The underlying concern here is that institutions, motivated by profit rather than a legitimate educational purpose, will recruit unqualified students who will then find themselves unable to repay these loans, causing a significant loss to the U.S. government which: 1) pays the funds directly to the schools on behalf of the students; or 2) guarantees other loans and thus is liable in the event of default. Thus, the ban on incentive payments and commissions is meant to curb eligible schools from recruiting unqualified students simply to fill quotas and turn a profit, which ultimately works to the detriment of the U.S. government.

Plaintiffs contend that EDMC has pursued such an enrollment-maximization strategy, and had a goal to dramatically increase student enrollment (from 4,500 in 2006 to 50,000 in 2011, Intervenor Complaint ¶ 128(a)). Plaintiffs aver that EDMC accepted all potential students who completed an application, regardless of their high school grades or the quality of their written essay. Intervenor Complaint ¶ 106. As pled, the annual federal student aid funds received by EDMC increased rapidly, from $656 million in 2003–2004 to $2.578 billion in 2010–2011. Intervenor Complaint ¶ 73, 80.

Although Congress enacted the Incentive Compensation Ban to combat perceived abuses of federal student aid funding, it did not completely outlaw the recruiting of students. Indeed, schools have a legitimate need to employ persons to recruit students. As the Strayer Educ. Court noted: "clearly not all compensation violates the Incentive Compensation Ban." 698 F.Supp.2d at 635. Moreover, it should be non-controversial to recognize that an employer is entitled to compensate a productive employee more favorably than a lesser performer. A school may consider a recruiter's success at recruiting students and adjust his/her salary based in part on that success. See 67 Fed.Reg. at 67,053 (HEA not intended to prevent schools from basing salary on "merit"); Accord United States v. Corinthian Colleges, 655 F.3d 984, 992 (9th Cir.2011) ("Even as broadly construed, the HEA does not prohibit any and all employment-related decisions on the basis of recruitment numbers; it prohibits only a particular type of incentive compensation.")

Moreover, the Department of Education has clarified that certain compensation 441 practices do not violate the Incentive Compensation Ban. In 2002, in response to questions and concerns from institutions, the Department of Education promulgated a regulation to create "Safe Harbors." The Department explained that the Safe Harbors were based on a "purposive reading" of the HEA, 20 U.S.C. § 1094(a)(20), i.e., that it was enacted "with the purpose of preventing an institution from providing incentives to its staff to enroll unqualified students." See 67 Fed.Reg. 67048–01, 67053–54 (November 1, 2002). The Department further explained that various payments to ADAs "constituted legitimate business practices that did not support the enrollment of unqualified students" and, thus, did not violate the Ban. The Department rejected the contention that the Safe Harbors would allow unscrupulous institutions to engage in the kinds of improper recruiting activities that originally gave rise to the Incentive Compensation Ban. Id.

The "Safe Harbor" regulation[2], 34 C.F.R. § 668.14, provided in relevant part as follows:

> (b) By entering into a program participation agreement, an institution agrees that—
>
> (1) It will comply with all statutory provisions of or applicable to Title IV of the HEA, all applicable regulatory provisions prescribed under that statutory authority, and all applicable special arrangements, agreements, and limitations entered into under the authority of statutes applicable to Title IV of the HEA, including the requirement that the institution will use funds it receives under any Title IV, HEA program and any interest or other earnings thereon, solely for the purposes specified in and in accordance with that program;
>
> * * *
>
> (22)(i) It will not provide any commission, bonus, or other incentive payment based directly or indirectly upon success in securing enrollments or financial aid to any person or entity engaged in any student recruiting or admission activities or in making decisions regarding the awarding of title IV, HEA program funds, except that this limitation does not apply to the recruitment of foreign students residing in foreign countries who are not eligible to receive title IV, HEA program funds.
>
> (ii) Activities and arrangements that an institution may carry out without violating the provisions of paragraph (b)(22)(i) of this section include, but are not limited to:
>
> (A) The payment of fixed compensation, such as a fixed annual salary or a fixed hourly wage, as long as that compensation is not adjusted up or down more than twice during any twelve month period, and any adjustment is not based solely on the number of students recruited, admitted, enrolled, or awarded financial aid. For this purpose, an increase in fixed compensation resulting from a cost of living increase that is paid to all or substantially all full-time employees is not considered an adjustment.

In response to the Incentive Compensation Ban and Safe Harbor, EDMC developed a corporate policy for ADA compensation, 442 called the Admissions Performance Plan (the "Plan"). EDMC provided guidelines and training on the Plan to ADAs and managers (Intervenor Complaint Exh. 4–6, 8). According to its terms, the Plan calculates ADA salaries based on a number of quantitative and qualitative factors, including the manager's evaluation of defined "quality factors" such as job knowledge, business practices and ethics, professionalism, customer service and initiative; the types and quantity of new students recruited over the previous year ("new student points"); an adjustment to reflect differences in labor costs in various markets; an increase for supervising people or projects; and years of service. The "quality points" and "new student points" are placed into a chart, known as the "matrix," that sets annualized baseline salary ranges for ADAs. There are separate provisions for compensation of new ADAs before they qualify to "go on the matrix."

All Plaintiffs assert that the Plan was a sham used to cover up for improper compensation practices. They contend that, as implemented, EDMC's "quality factors are nothing more than window-dressing, used to camouflage a compensation system that, in reality, is driven entirely by student enrollment numbers." The Relators and Intervenor States also allege that the Plan, as written, violates the Incentive Compensation Ban. The United States does not join the "as written" theory of liability.

Procedural Background

This case was originally filed in 2007 by Relator Lynntoya Washington, a former ADA at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh Online Division, pursuant to the federal False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3730(b)(1), and various state-equivalent false claims acts. The case remained under seal for over four years, while the United States evaluated whether or not to intervene. On April 29, 2011, after numerous extensions of time, the United States filed a Notice of its Election to Intervene in this case. California, Florida, Illinois and Indiana also filed notices of intervention as of right, pursuant to their respective state-equivalent false claims acts. On May 2, 2011, Ms. Washington, joined by another relator-plaintiff, Michael Mahoney, a former Director of Training for EDMC (collectively, the "Relators"), filed a redacted version of their Second Amended Complaint (Document No. 84) (the "Relator Complaint"). [3] The Relator Complaint remains the operative pleading as to claims on behalf of the non-intervening states of Massachusetts, Montana, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York and Tennessee.

On August 8, 2011 the United States, California, Florida, Illinois and Indiana (the "Intervenors"), filed a 16–count Joint Complaint in Intervention (Document No. 128) (the "Intervenor Complaint"). [4] In addition to claims under the federal and state false claims acts, the Intervenors assert 443 common law claims for mistake of fact, unjust enrichment, and fraud. On September 22, 2011, the State of Minnesota intervened pursuant to its state-equivalent false claims act and filed a separate Complaint (Document No. 141) (the "Minnesota Complaint"). [5] On October 27, 2011, the District of Columbia ("D.C.") intervened pursuant to its false claims act and filed a separate Complaint (Document No. 155) (the "D.C. Complaint"). [6] The Court denied a motion for permissive intervention filed by the Commonwealth of Kentucky. On October 5, 2011, the parties entered a Stipulation (Document No. 143) which deferred EDMC's response to Counts 6 and 8–14 of the Relator Complaint. Subject to that Stipulation, Defendants seek dismissal of all four pending complaints.

Standard of Review

A motion to dismiss pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) is a challenge to the legal sufficiency of the complaint filed by Plaintiff. The United States Supreme Court has held that "[a] plaintiff's obligation to provide the 'grounds' of his 'entitle[ment] to relief' requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do." Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007) (citing Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S. 265, 286, 106 S.Ct. 2932, 92 L.Ed.2d 209 (1986)) (alterations in original).

The Court must accept as true all well-pleaded facts and allegations, and must draw all reasonable inferences therefrom in favor of the plaintiff. However, as the Supreme Court made clear in Twombly, the "factual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level." Id. The Supreme Court has subsequently broadened the scope of this requirement, stating that "only a complaint that states a plausible claim for relief survives a motion to dismiss." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 1950, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009).

However, nothing in Twombly or Iqbal has changed the other pleading standards for a motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6). That is, the Supreme Court did not impose a new, heightened pleading requirement, but reaffirmed that Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8 requires only a short, plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief, not "detailed factual allegations." See Phillips v. County of Allegheny, 515 F.3d 224, 231 (3d Cir.2008) (citing Twombly, 550 U.S. at 552–53, 127 S.Ct. 1955). Additionally, the Supreme Court did not abolish the Rule 12(b)(6) requirement that "the facts alleged must be taken as true and a complaint may not be dismissed merely because it appears unlikely that the plaintiff can prove those facts or will ultimately prevail on the merits." Id. (citing Twombly, 550 U.S. at 553, 127 S.Ct. 1955). As described in Fowler v. UPMC Shadyside, 578 F.3d 203, 206 (3d Cir.2009), the Court must first distinguish between factual allegations and legal conclusions in the complaint and then determine whether the well-pleaded factual allegations and favorable inferences drawn therefrom show an entitlement to relief.

[1] [2] [3] The more-rigorous pleading standard in Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b) also applies to the False Claims Act claims because they allege fraud. United States ex rel. Wilkins v. United Health Group, 659 F.3d 295, 301 n. 9 (3d Cir.2011); see also United States ex rel. Pilecki–Simko v. Chubb Institute, 444 443 Fed.Appx. 754, 759 (3d Cir.2011) (unpublished) (both Rule 8 and Rule 9 apply). Accordingly, plaintiffs "must state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake." Id. The imposition of a heightened pleading requirement in fraud actions serves important objectives: "Rule 9(b)'s heightened pleading standard gives defendants notice of the claims against them, provides an increased measure of protection for their reputations, and reduces the number of frivolous suits brought solely to extract settlements." In re Burlington Coat Factory Securities Litigation, 114 F.3d 1410, 1418 (3d Cir.1997). See also Illinois Nat. Ins. Co. v. Wyndham Worldwide Operations, Inc., 653 F.3d 225, 232–33 (3d Cir.2011) ("Rule 9(b) exists to insure adequate notice so that defendants can intelligently respond.").

[4] A plaintiff alleging fraud must state the circumstances of the alleged fraud with sufficient particularity to place the defendant on notice of the "precise misconduct with which [it is] charged." Lum v. Bank of America, 361 F.3d 217, 223–224 (3d Cir.2004) (abrogated on other grounds by Twombly). To satisfy this standard, the plaintiff must plead or allege the date, time and place of the alleged fraud or otherwise inject precision or some measure of substantiation into a fraud allegation. See id. at 224; Frederico v. Home Depot, 507 F.3d 188, 200 (3d Cir.2007) (same); In re Advanta Corp. Sec. Litig., 180 F.3d 525, 534 (3d Cir.1999) (noting that plaintiffs averring securities fraud claims must specify "the who, what, when, where, and how: the first paragraph of any newspaper story.").

"Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b). The Supreme Court has explained that "generally" is a relative term: "In the context of Rule 9, it is to be compared to the particularity requirement applicable to fraud or mistake. Rule 9 merely excuses a party from pleading discriminatory intent under an elevated pleading standard. It does not give him license to evade the less rigid-though still operative—strictures of Rule 8." Iqbal, 129 S.Ct. at 1954; But see Morganroth & Morganroth v. Norris, McLaughlin & Marcus, P.C., 331 F.3d 406, 414 n. 2 (3d Cir.2003) ("The purpose of Rule 9(b) is to provide notice, not to test the factual allegations of the claim.")

Moreover, in Craftmatic Securities Litigation v. Kraftsow, 890 F.2d 628 (3d Cir.1989), the Court of Appeals explained that Rule 9 must be applied flexibly to alleged corporate fraud:

> Courts must be sensitive to the fact that application of Rule 9(b) prior to discovery "may permit sophisticated defrauders to successfully conceal the details of their fraud." Particularly in cases of corporate fraud, plaintiffs cannot be expected to have personal knowledge of the details of corporate internal affairs. Thus, courts have relaxed the rule when factual information is peculiarly within the defendant's knowledge or control. We agree that rigid enforcement in such circumstances could permit "sophisticated defrauders" to avoid liability. Nonetheless, even under a non-restrictive application of the rule, pleaders must allege that the necessary information lies within defendants' control, and their allegations must be accompanied by a statement of the facts upon which the allegations are based.

Id. at 645 (citations omitted).

Legal Analysis

Except for the claims subject to the parties' stipulation, EDMC moves for complete dismissal of all of the Complaints filed in this case pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(6) and moves to strike certain averments 445 pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(f).[7] EDMC advances the following primary arguments: (1) the Compensation Plan, as written, complies with the Safe Harbor; (2) Plaintiffs failed to adequately plead the details of the alleged fraud to satisfy all the elements a prima facie case under the False Claims Act in support of the "as implemented" theory; (3) the Incentive Compensation Ban was a condition of participation, rather than a condition of payment, and therefore, the appropriate avenue for relief is regulatory enforcement and not the False Claims Act; (4) federal common-law claims are displaced by the complex regulatory regime created by Congress and the Department of Education to enforce the HEA; (5) the governments have received the benefit of their bargain, i.e., the education of students; (6) the state law pleadings fail for similar reasons; and (7) Mahoney's claims should be dismissed because he is a "second filed" relator. In a separate motion and brief, EDMC contends that the Complaint filed by D.C. is untimely. These contentions will be addressed seriatim.

I. Federal False Claims Act Theories

[5] [6] The False Claims Act enables the government to recover losses it has incurred as a result of fraud. ITT Educational, 2012 WL 266943 at *1. Its roots can be traced to the Civil War, when it was enacted in response to contractors who sold faulty weaponry, rancid food and unseaworthy ships to the government. Id. Because it would be difficult for the government to discover and prosecute all potential violations, the False Claims Act "provides a qui tam enforcement mechanism, which allows a private party (i.e., a relator) to bring a lawsuit on behalf of the government and against an entity to recover money the government paid as a result of fraudulent claims." Id. As an incentive, relators are entitled to keep a percentage of the proceeds from any judgment or settlement in their cases. See 31 U.S.C. § 3730(d)(1) and (2). On the other hand, the statute contains mechanisms to minimize baseless suits brought by opportunistic relators. Id. The United States is entitled to intervene to prosecute the claim(s) on its own behalf, as has occurred in this case. The state law False Claims Acts are similarly structured.

[7] Count I of the Relator Complaint asserts a claim under the federal False Claims Act. Count I of the Intervenor Complaint is based on a violation of the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1), which was in effect from July 1, 2003 to May 20, 2009.[8] Counts II and III are based on the False Claims Act, as amended by the Fraud Enforcement and Recovery Act of 2009 ("FERA"), enacted at 31 U.S.C. §§ 3729(a)(1)(A) and (a)(1)(B), respectively.[9] The parties have not pointed 446 to substantive differences between the versions of the statute.[10] Under each version, the elements of a prima facie case under the federal False Claims Act are: (1) the defendant presented a false or fraudulent claim against the United States; (2) the claim was presented to an agency or contractor of the United States; and (3) the defendant knew the claim was false or fraudulent. See Wilkins, 659 F.3d at 305; United States v. Thayer, 201 F.3d 214, 222–23 (3d Cir.1999).

Although it is not apparent from the claims asserted in the Complaints, the Relators and Intervening States pursue two distinct theories of fraud under the False Claims Act: (1) that EDMC's written ADA compensation plan violates the Incentive Compensation Ban "as designed"; and (2) that EDMC has used the written compensation plan as a "sham" or coverup for its actual implementation of a compensation system based solely on quantitative factors, thereby violating the Incentive Compensation Ban. The United States joins only in the "as implemented" theory.

A. EDMC's Compensation Plan "As Written"

The Relators and Intervenor States contend that the EDMC Compensation Plan, as written, violates the Incentive Compensation Ban for the following reasons: (1) the essence of EDMC's plan does not provide "fixed compensation" because ADA compensation varies with the number of students recruited and ADAs are not paid a "fixed compensation," "fixed annual salary" or "fixed hourly wage" as defined in the Safe Harbor; (2) the Plan violates the adjustment clause of the Safe Harbor regulation because it provides for payments which are revised every six months to reflect accumulated incentive payments; (3) any adjustments to ADA compensation are based "solely" on the number of students recruited; and (4) initial eligibility to go "on the matrix" is based solely on enrollment numbers. More broadly, the Relators and Intervenor States point to the HEA statutory language, which provides that institutions will not provide incentive payments based "directly or indirectly on success in securing enrollments." 20 U.S.C. § 1094(a)(20) (emphasis added), and reason that the Safe Harbor regulation must be interpreted consistent with this statutory command. Plaintiffs theorize that even though ADA pay is labeled as "salary," in actuality the EDMC Plan indirectly pays commissions which are doled out in equal increments over the following six months to make them appear to be salary.

EDMC contends that the Plan, on its face, falls squarely within the regulatory Safe Harbor. EDMC argues that the Plan provides for a "fixed annual salary" for ADAs; that ADA compensation is adjusted no more than twice per year; and that adjustments cannot be based "solely" on the number of students enrolled because they are determined pursuant to a matrix which also contains qualitative factors. EDMC refers to the Plan's discussion of various "quality factors," such as job knowledge, business practices and ethics, professionalism, customer service and initiative. By virtue of the matrix structure, EDMC contends that it is impossible to determine an ADAs salary without considering these quality factors. EDMC points out that an ADA's initial salary, by definition, cannot be based on enrollment figures. In addition, EDMC maintains that its compliance with the Safe Harbor negates 447 the scienter required to make out a prima facie case under the False Claims Act.

[8] As an initial matter, the Court is not convinced by the Relators and Intervenor States' broad theory that the Safe Harbor regulation violates the HEA by permitting "indirect" incentive payments. The Department of Education, in promulgating the regulation, specifically explained that the Safe Harbors create "conditions under which an institution may make an incentive payment to an individual or entity that could be construed as based upon securing enrollments." 67 Fed.Reg. at 67054. Thus, the Department of Education has clearly determined that some incentive payments, i.e., those not based solely on enrollment numbers, are consistent with the statutory language of the HEA. The Safe Harbor regulation was developed pursuant to "notice and comment" rulemaking and the Department has broad authority to enforce and interpret the HEA, such that the Court is constrained to give deference to the agency's interpretation. Compare De La Mota v. Department of Education, 412 F.3d 71 (2d Cir.2005).

[9] Moreover, the actual text of the Safe Harbor regulation favors EDMC. ADA salaries were "fixed" under the Plan, as defined in 34 C.F.R. § 668.14(b)(22)(ii)(A), as each bi-weekly payment to be received by an ADA during the six-month period until the next adjustment was for the same amount. The Court cannot accept Plaintiffs' effort to interpret the term "fixed" to mean only an "hourly" wage based upon "actual time worked." To the contrary, the regulation distinguishes a "fixed annual salary" from a "fixed hourly wage" and deems both to be permissible. A salary decoupled from hours worked—even if calculated partially on past Student Start points—is "fixed" compensation. See, e.g., Merriam–Webster.com (defining "salary" as "fixed compensation paid regularly for services").

Plaintiffs attempt to conflate the terms "salary" and "sales commission." The terms are not synonymous. Under a "sales commission" plan, an employee would not be paid anything unless he/she completed a sale. See Parker v. NutriSystem, Inc., 620 F.3d 274, 281, 284 (3d Cir.2010). A "sales commission," applied to the circumstances of this case, would pay ADAs only if/when they recruited students. Under the Plan as written, ADAs are paid a "fixed salary," not a "commission."

It is undisputed that "adjustments" were not made more than twice during any twelve month period. Moreover, by its very nature, the matrix used to determine and adjust compensation cannot be based "solely" on quantity. Instead, the compensation generated by the matrix can only be derived by combining the quantitative factor on one axis with the "quality factors" on the other axis. In other words, the use of the matrix, by definition, could not have adjusted compensation solely on recruitment numbers.

Plaintiffs also challenge the initial eligibility to go "on the matrix" because it is triggered by recruiting numbers. According to the written Plan, however, New Hire Starting Salaries for ADAs are based on "their relevant experience and education." Indeed, at that point no students have yet been recruited. The First Evaluation, after six months, is based on quality factors. The Second Evaluation awards ADAs the higher salary as determined under the matrix or under quality factors alone. At the Third Evaluation, all ADAs are reviewed under the matrix. Thus, at no time does the Plan, as written, pay ADAs a commission based solely on enrollments.

448 [10] Moreover, even assuming arguendo that the Plan "as written" violates the Incentive Compensation Ban, scienter has not been adequately pled to support a False Claims Act theory. In United States v. Chubb Institute, 2010 WL 1076228 (D.N.J.2010) ("Chubb I"), the Court explained: "Although the language of the safe harbor provision appears at odds with the Incentive Compensation Ban, it stands to reason that an institution adhering to a federal regulation defining the contours of permissible compensation under the Incentive Compensation Ban cannot have the requisite scienter to violate the ban." Id. at *10 (citations omitted). This reasoning is persuasive. Similarly, because the Department of Education advised schools in 1995 that paying travel and related expenses for ADAs to attend sales meetings would not violate the Incentive Compensation Ban, see EDMC Exh. 11, Plaintiffs have failed to establish the scienter element as to EDMC's use of prizes and trips such as the President's Club.

In addition, the Complaints fail to meet the Rule 9(b) pleading standard for the "as written" theory, as there are no particularized allegations as to who, what, where, when, why and how the Plan was designed.

In summary, Plaintiffs have failed to plead a plausible False Claims Act cause of action based on the Compensation Plan "as written." As noted above, however, because the "as written" theory is not asserted as a separate cause of action, this conclusion does not result in dismissal of any of the separate counts asserted in the Complaints.

B. EDMC's Compensation Plan "As Implemented"

Plaintiffs' primary contention is that EDMC failed to implement its Plan in accordance with the HEA. As an initial matter, it is important to recognize the stark differences between the "as written" and "as implemented" theories. Under the "as implemented" theory, Plaintiffs do not allege an honest misinterpretation of the governing statute and regulations. Rather, Plaintiffs allege a knowing decision by EDMC executives to perpetuate a company-wide "sham" Plan to cover up for prohibited compensation practices. To put it starkly, Plaintiffs allege a coordinated, multi-billion dollar corporate-wide fraud.

More specifically, Plaintiffs allege that EDMC has violated the Incentive Compensation Ban from July 1, 2003 through the present because: (1) ADA compensation and advancement is exclusively focused on the number of new students an ADA is able to recruit; (2) EDMC has created a culture that has made recruiting and enrolling new students the sole focus of its compensation system; and (3) EDMC's practices result in payment of commissions, bonuses and other incentive payments such as "President's Club" trips and "Circle of Achievement" awards, which are based solely on the number of students being enrolled. Plaintiffs allege that the metrics used to measure an ADA's performance, such as the Student Start Plan, "Plan to Make Plan" and other tracking documents, focus solely on the number of students enrolled. Plaintiffs also allege that ADAs are terminated from their employment or placed on "performance improvement plans" solely due to enrollment numbers. Plaintiffs recognize that EDMC's written compensation policy contains a "matrix" which combines student enrollment numbers with a variety of "quality factors." However, they argue that the "quality factors" have no real impact on the manner in which EDMC's compensation system is actually implemented.

EDMC argues that Plaintiffs' claims are precluded as a matter of law based on the exhibits attached to the Complaint and/or 449 because the conduct in question was based on a reasonable interpretation of the Safe Harbor. See, e.g., Sur–Sur–Reply at 9. This argument fundamentally contradicts Plaintiffs' "as implemented" theory of the case, which is that even if the paperwork looked correct on its face, such paperwork was only a pretext or cover-up and did not reflect EDMC's real compensation practices.

Whether EDMC actually implemented the Plan in accordance with the Safe Harbor cannot be resolved based on the status of the current record. As explained in Corinthian Colleges, 655 F.3d at 993–94 (reversing district court's decision to dismiss case on the ground that similar recruiter compensation program fell within Safe Harbor):

> The mere inclusion of this performance rating in Corinthian's Compensation Program, however, does not allow us to conclusively determine whether its method of awarding salary increases falls within the Safe Harbor Provision. At this stage, we have no information as to the basis on which a "Good" versus "Excellent" performance rating is assigned to a Corinthian recruiter. Without an understanding what an employee must do to achieve a rating of "Good," we cannot determine whether the rating is based upon substantive requirements that are separate and distinct from recruitment numbers.

Indeed, the Corinthian Court expressly stated that relators might be able to state a valid claim based on "Corinthian's implementation of its policy, rather than the written policy itself." Id. at 996. The same analysis applies in this case. Even though the Plan, on its face, appears to comply with the Safe Harbor, at this stage of the case the Court cannot determine whether or not, in actuality, the "quality factors" were used merely as a proxy for recruiting success.

Two other United States Courts of Appeals have held that similar "as implemented" claims for alleged violations of the Incentive Compensation Ban are cognizable. In Main, 426 F.3d at 914 (reversing district court's grant of motion to dismiss), the Seventh Circuit explained that at the pleading stage, courts were required to accept allegations in the Complaint that the school knew of the Incentive Compensation Ban; lied to the Department of Education about its compliance to obtain eligibility; and that all subsequent disbursements depended on that eligibility. Similarly, in United States ex rel. Hendow v. University of Phoenix, 461 F.3d 1166 (9th Cir.2006) (reversing grant of motion to dismiss), the Ninth Circuit stated that an alleged violation of the Incentive Compensation Ban created an "axiomatic fit" with the False Claims Act statute. In short, on three recent occasions the Courts of Appeals have reversed the granting of motions to dismiss and have recognized False Claims Act claims for very similar alleged violations of the Incentive Compensation Ban "as implemented."

EDMC acknowledges Plaintiffs' theory that the written Compensation Plan constitutes only a window-dressing or camouflage. Nevertheless, EDMC argues that Plaintiffs have failed to plead fraud with the particularity required by Fed.R.Civ.P. 9. Specifically, EDMC argues that Plaintiffs have not pled sufficient facts to show how it based ADA compensation solely on enrollments; how it presented false claims; how its representations were false, i.e., how the matrix was disregarded or details supporting the theory that quality factors were merely a sham. EDMC points to Lynntoya Washington's own Performance Review (Exh. 22), which appears to show that the quality factors were taken into account. EDMC further notes that the Relators have limited knowledge. For example, there are no allegations regarding 450 conduct prior to June 2004 or after June 2007. In addition, neither Washington nor Mahoney had responsibility for evaluating ADAs or making compensation decisions or had access to the factors actually used to pay ADAs. EDMC points out that the Relators did not work at each individual school named as a Defendant nor did they participate in the certifications made to the governments. EDMC also contends that Plaintiffs have failed to identify the conduct of each separately named Defendant.[11] Moreover, EDMC argues that the Complaints fail to adequately plead the scienter element in that the Complaint fails to allege facts regarding EDMC's knowledge at the time the Plan was drafted and implemented and does not link the persons who signed the PPA's and/or certifications to the alleged compensation violations. In particular, EDMC points out that Plaintiffs cannot rely on the knowledge possessed by former University of Phoenix executives who later went to work for EDMC because they did not join EDMC until 2007 (four years after the alleged fraud began). Plaintiffs recognize that the more rigorous Rule 9 standard of pleading applies to the False Claims Act claims and contend that they have nonetheless stated valid claims.

EDMC also raises several legal and analytical challenges. Inter alia, EDMC suggests that the government knew of its Plan and took no enforcement action for four years, such that it is unable to prove that EDMC's actions have caused any injury. EDMC also contends that compliance with the Incentive Compensation Ban is a condition of participation, rather than a condition of payment. In essence, EDMC analogizes the Incentive Compensation Ban to Medicare regulatory fineprint, the non-compliance with which may warrant a slap on the wrist from the Department of Education but cannot justify massive liability under the False Claims Act. The Court turns now to these contentions.

1. Falsity

[11] [12] [13] Plaintiffs contend that the falsity element of the prima facie case is established under several different theories. In Wilkins, the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit held that a False Claims Act cause of action may be based on actions that are: (1) "factually false"; or (2) "legally false." 659 F.3d at 305. A claim is "factually false" when the claimant misrepresents the goods or services that it provided to the Government. Id. A claim is "legally false" when the claimant knowingly falsely certifies that it has complied with a statute or regulation, the compliance with which is a condition of Government payment. Id. There are two types of "legally false" claims. Under the "express false certification" theory, an entity is liable under the FCA for falsely certifying that it is in compliance with regulations which are prerequisites to Government payment in connection with the claim for payment of federal funds. Id. Under the broader "implied false certification" theory adopted in Wilkins, liability attaches when a claimant seeks and makes a claim for payment from the Government without disclosing that it has violated regulations that affect its eligibility for payment. Id. As the Wilkins Court explained: "Thus, an implied false certification theory of liability is premised on the notion that the act of submitting a claim for reimbursement itself implies compliance with governing federal rules that are a precondition to payment." Id. (citation omitted). Several courts have also recognized False Claims Act liability for violations of the Incentive 451 Compensation Ban under a fourth theory, namely fraudulent inducement. See Hendow, 461 F.3d at 1173–74.

ED-17-0431-A-004891

Plaintiffs contend that they have satisfied each theory. As to "factual falsity," they argue that the service to be provided was education of students by an institution that complied with the Incentive Compensation Ban. As to "express false certification," Plaintiffs point to EDMC's statements in the PPA and periodic audits regarding its compliance with the Incentive Compensation Ban. Under the "implied false certification" theory, Plaintiffs point to each and every request for payment by EDMC, made while knowing that the "quality factor" ratings were a sham. Finally, under the fraudulent inducement theory, Plaintiffs reason that EDMC's promise that it would comply with the Incentive Compensation Ban induced the government to grant EDMC eligibility to participate in the program. The Complaint adequately avers the representations, express and implied, which were involved in the obtaining of student aid funding from the governments by EDMC.

[14] In support of the "falsity" element, Plaintiffs have alleged that "quality factors" were nothing more than "window dressing" and were not actually used to determine ADA compensation. The Complaint provides some specific factual details in support of the allegation. For example, the Complaint alleges that EDMC did not measure, encourage or incentivize ADAs with respect to quality factors. ¶ 120–126. This is in stark contrast to EDMC's detailed tracking of ADA student enrollment numbers. Relator Mahoney, whose duties included training of ADAs, averred that he never provided training on the Incentive Compensation Ban. Similarly, the Complaint avers "Mahoney never gave any training whatsoever regarding the 'quality factors' " or even heard anyone discuss them. ¶ 136. EDMC contends that Mahoney had limited knowledge of actual ADA compensation practices. Nevertheless, viewing the allegation in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs, it supports their contention that "quality factors" were ignored, in actuality. Plaintiffs also aver that Jan Anton, a Vice President of the Art Institute of Chicago and a member of the committee that designed the Plan, told an ADA that "quality factors were insignificant relative to ADA payments and were created for the purpose of getting around the Incentive Compensation Ban." ¶ 389. As another example, Plaintiffs aver that Stephen Weiss, then President of Online Higher Education, told relator Washington that "because she had met her student enrollment numbers, her 'quality factor' rating would have no effect whatsoever on her compensation." ¶ 138. EDMC contends that the context of this statement reveals that Washington's quality rating had changed by only one point. However, the Court must read this allegation in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs. In Washington's experience, the only significant change in her "quality factor" rating corresponded to a significant increase in her student starts. Thus, the allegations regarding Washington support the inference that quality factors were not independent, but were used merely as a proxy for recruiting success. See generally ¶ 154 (describing how the quality factors were ignored in practice).

These allegations are more than sufficient to make it plausible that EDMC's ADA compensation, as implemented, was violative of the Incentive Compensation Ban. Plaintiffs are attempting to "prove a negative"—i.e., that the quality factors were not used. It is difficult to plead such a theory with a great degree of particularity, but Plaintiffs have provided a sufficient level of detail. In sum, the Court concludes that the "falsity" element of a False Claims Act prima facie case has been met.

452 2. Scienter

EDMC contends that Plaintiffs have failed to adequately plead scienter, for several reasons. First, EDMC contends that Plaintiffs must establish the wrongful scienter of a particular employee as opposed to the "collective knowledge" of the entire corporation. Second, EDMC contends that scienter must be pled with specificity as to every school named as a Defendant. EDMC also contends that its liability cannot be based on the 2004 Department of Education enforcement proceeding against the University of Phoenix for an alleged violation of the Incentive Compensation Ban. EDMC suggests that the government's knowledge and acquiescence to its Plan—as evidenced by continued student aid payments—negates EDMC's scienter.

Plaintiffs have responded to each of these arguments. They point out that scienter may be alleged generally, and need not meet the particularity standard in Rule 9(b). Plaintiffs note that the "single actor" theory of corporate liability has been rejected. Plaintiffs argue that there is no need to detail the conduct of each school because Defendants are related corporate entities and implementation of the alleged fraudulent ADA compensation plan was done top-down, company-wide. As to the University of Phoenix, Plaintiffs contend not only that the former executives' knowledge is attributable to EDMC after they were hired by EDMC, but also that the Department of Education's position was known by EDMC in 2004. Plaintiffs argue that EDMC's arguments regarding the government's knowledge and acquiescense are premature because they depend on facts outside of the pleadings. Plaintiffs dispute that EDMC implemented its Plan reasonably and deny that the government was aware of the alleged fraud.

[15] The False Claims Act requires a defendant to have acted "knowing" or "knowingly." It defines these terms to mean: (A) [ ] that a person, with respect to information —(i) has actual knowledge of the information; (ii) acts in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information; or (iii) acts in reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information; and (B) require no proof of specific intent to defraud. 31 U.S.C. § 3729(b)(1). The Court concludes that this element has been adequately pled.

As an initial matter, the Court is not persuaded by EDMC's arguments with respect to the standards governing corporate scienter. The Court does agree with EDMC that scienter may not be based on a "collective knowledge" theory "by piecing together scraps of 'innocent' knowledge held by various corporate officials, even if those officials never had contact with each other or knew what others were doing in connection with a claim seeking government funds." United States v. Science Applications Intl. Corp., 626 F.3d 1257, 1275 (D.C.Cir.2010). However, the Complaints in this case do not attempt to establish scienter based on collective, innocent knowledge. Moreover, the Science Applications Court recognized that the definition of "knowingly" in the False Claims Act was intended "to capture the ostrich-like conduct which can occur in large corporations where corporate officers insulate themselves from knowledge of false claims submitted by lower-level subordinates." Id. at 1274 (citation and punctuation omitted).

EDMC's reliance on Zavolta v. Lord, Abbett & Co. LLC, 2010 WL 686546 (D.N.J.2010), for the proposition that the individual corporate officer making the statement must have the requisite scienter is misplaced. Zavolta involved a claim brought under the Public Securities Litigation Reform Act, 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4 et seq., which "changed [the] standard in regard 453 to inferences involving factual allegations relating to scienter in securities law cases." Id. at *6. Indeed, in United States ex rel. Harrison v. Westinghouse Savannah River Co., 352 F.3d 908, 919 (4th Cir.2003), the Court rejected a "single actor" theory similar to that proposed by EDMC in the False Claims Act context. EDMC's reliance on Long v. Tommy Hilfiger, 671 F.3d 371 (3d Cir.2012), and United States ex rel. Hefner v. Hackensack University Medical Center, 495 F.3d 103, 109 (3d Cir.2007), is also misplaced. Long is legally distinguishable because it involved a different statute, the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act ("FACTA"), which imposed a threshold scienter requirement of "willfulness" which required a plaintiff to plead "objective unreasonableness." 671 F.3d at 375–76. No such requirement exists in the False Claims Act. Moreover, even though the scienter issue was resolved at the motion to dismiss stage in Long based on a reasonable interpretation of the statute, such resolution is not possible here as Plaintiffs allege that EDMC knowingly schemed to evade the Safe Harbor. Hackensack University is factually distinguishable because it involved a billing error that had "slipped through the cracks," an employee caught the error and notified staff, and they "rectified the problem." 495 F.3d at 103. That is far different than the widespread, long-lasting corporate practice alleged in this case.

Plaintiffs allege that EDMC corporate headquarters signed and submitted the PPA's on behalf of all of its related educational institutions. In December 2006, John R. McKernan, Jr., then Chairman and CEO of EDMC, signed all PPA's for EDMC schools. Beginning in 2009, the Presidents of Brown Mackie, Argosy University, South University and the regional clusters of Art Institutes signed the PPAs. Complaint ¶¶ 65, 66. In addition, Plaintiffs aver that the compensation plan was developed by an EDMC-wide task force. ¶ 370. Because government funding represented such a significant source of EDMC's revenues, it is plausible that any conduct which would have imperiled those revenues, such as the alleged violations of the Incentive Compensation Ban, would have required approval from the highest levels of EDMC management. In sum, Plaintiffs have pled the involvement and knowledge of senior EDMC executives. Because Plaintiffs' theory is that there was one, EDMC-wide scheme controlled by top-level executives, it is not necessary to allege separate conduct by each of the affiliated schools named as Defendants.

Pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b), scienter may be pled "generally." In numerous paragraphs, Plaintiffs have alleged that EDMC acted "knowingly." The Complaint also contains specific examples that make the allegation plausible. For example, in ¶ 147 Plaintiffs allege that EDMC offices usually display posters and charts which graph ADA performance on quantitative factors. However, if an audit or accreditation is scheduled such materials are removed from view—to be put back up after the auditors or accreditors had departed. One plausible inference is that EDMC knew that such materials (and the compensation practices they represented) were improper. As another example, a member of the team that developed the Plan allegedly advised an ADA "that quality factors were insignificant relative to ADA payments and were created for the purpose of getting around the Incentive Compensation Ban." ¶¶ 370, 389. This allegation supports not only the "falsity" element, but also that EDMC acted with scienter. In addition, a scienter element is implicit in the allegations that the "quality factors" were a sham or a cover up.

EDMC relies extensively on Chubb I, 2010 WL 1076228 (D.N.J. Mar. 22, 2010), 454 aff'd, 443 Fed.Appx. 754 (3d Cir.2011) ("Chubb II"), for the proposition that Plaintiffs have failed to adequately plead scienter because "[n]owhere do Plaintiffs allege how EDMC documented or openly bragged about its fraud; was informed that managers were calculating recruiters' salaries based solely on enrollments; or maintained an established infrastructure to defraud the government." Defendants' Reply Br. at 33. In Chubb, the plaintiffs supported their alleged violation of the Incentive Compensation Ban only by attaching Chubb's compensation plan "as written." 2010 WL 1076228 at *9. The Court commented: "Conspicuously absent from the SAC is any indication, other than Relators' ipse dixit, that TCI had notice that its submissions contained erroneous data, let alone that they intended to use erroneous data for the purpose of defrauding the Government." 2010 WL 1076228 at *8. Because the Court found that the written plan complied with the Safe Harbor, it dismissed the claim. Id. at *10. Indeed, the plan at issue in Chubb contained concrete, merit-based metrics to measure qualitative factors such as student retention, records-keeping and professionalism. By contrast, Plaintiffs allege that EDMC used no such metrics for quality factors.

In dismissing the claim, the Chubb Court explained that Plaintiffs could have prevailed by pleading "examples of other prohibited compensation practices not covered by the safe harbor" or "circumstantial facts enabling the inference that [defendant] acted with scienter by falsely certifying compliance with Title IV's incentive compensation ban." Id. In denying the plaintiffs' motion for reconsideration, the Court further elaborated on the sort of "red flags" that could have established a cognizable claim. 2010 WL 3463307 at *3–6. In an unpublished opinion, the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit affirmed. It compared the absence of allegations regarding Chubb's scienter with the claim in Hendow, in which the relators "allege[d] that University staff openly bragged about perpetrating a fraud, that the University had an established infrastructure to deceive the government, and that the University repeatedly changed its policies to hide its fraud." See Chubb II, 443 Fed.Appx. at 760 n. 18 (citing Hendow, 461 F.3d at 1175). In this case, Plaintiffs have alleged numerous "red flags" of the sort envisioned by the court in Chubb. To be sure, these allegations are not as strong as those in Hendow. On the other hand, the allegations in this case are more substantial than those at issue in Chubb.

Defendants rely on Gaer v. Education Management Corporation, 2011 WL 7277578 (W.D.Pa. Sept. 29, 2011) for the proposition that the "as implemented" claims must be dismissed due to the relators' limited knowledge of the relevant details of EDMC's compensation practices and their failure to sufficiently establish their credibility. Gaer v. Education Management Corp., 2011 WL 7277447 (W.D.Pa. Aug. 30, 2011) is distinguishable because it involved claims of stock price manipulation under the securities laws.[12] Moreover, because the allegations that EDMC's Plan was a sham were made only by a confidential witness (CW1), the Court applied a heightened pleading standard, which "requires confidential witnesses to provide some indicia of their reliability." Id. at *25–26 (citing California Public Employees' Retirement Sys. v. Chubb, 394 F.3d 126, 146–47 (3d Cir.2004)). No heightened standard applies to the relators' statements 455 in this case, as their identities are not confidential.

Nor do EDMC's arguments regarding the University of Phoenix warrant dismissal. The Complaint alleges that in a February 5, 2004 Program Review Report, the Department of Education found that the University of Phoenix compensation system "was an illegal attempt to circumvent Title IV of the HEA's prohibition on incentive compensation." Complaint ¶ 159. The Court recognizes that the former University of Phoenix executives did not become employees of EDMC until 2007 and their knowledge cannot be imputed to EDMC prior to their employment. However, the Complaint further alleges that the Department of Education's enforcement actions against the University of Phoenix were well-known in 2004 throughout the for-profit higher education industry.[13] Complaint ¶ 160. Construed in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs, the allegations support the inference that EDMC knew that its Plan was similar to that used by University of Phoenix, and therefore was improper. Accordingly, one may infer that EDMC's alleged continued implementation of a similar compensation system was done knowingly.

EDMC's remaining scienter arguments require only cursory discussion. The Court has explained above why EDMC's alleged "reasonable" interpretation of the Safe Harbor does not merit dismissal of the "as implemented" theory at this juncture. To the extent that EDMC is contending that the government waived its right to enforce the HEA and/or acquiesced to EDMC's alleged violation of the Incentive Compensation Ban, such contentions would be affirmative defenses on which EDMC bears the burden of proof. See, e.g. United States ex rel. Monahan v. Robert Wood Johnson University Hosp. at Hamilton, 2009 WL 4576097 at *7 (D.N.J.2009). Moreover, the governments deny knowing that EDMC implemented the Plan in violation of the Incentive Compensation Ban. At this stage, the Court must resolve the dispute in favor of Plaintiffs.

In sum, the Court concludes that the scienter allegations satisfy the applicable pleading standard. It will be incumbent upon Plaintiffs to prove that EDMC acted with the requisite scienter, but dismissal is not warranted at this stage of the case.

3. Causation of Economic Loss

EDMC argues that the Complaint fails to allege that its ADA compensation practices caused an economic injury to the government. Citing United States v. Hibbs, 568 F.2d 347, 349 (3d Cir.1977), EDMC argues that a causal connection must be shown between the loss and fraudulent conduct, i.e., that the falsity caused a loss that the government would not have otherwise incurred. EDMC points out that Plaintiffs have continued to pay EDMC for at least four years after knowing of the alleged violation. In addition, EDMC points to other gaps in the Complaint: no identification of ADAs who recruited unqualified students as a result of incentive compensation; no identification of students who would otherwise not have enrolled (and received financial aid) at other schools; and no identification of students who have defaulted on improperly obtained loans. In essence, EDMC reasons that the government received the benefit of its bargain because the students received an education. EDMC cites to a Department of Education memo dated October 30, 2002 (Defendants Exhibit 8), 456 which stated that a violation of the Incentive Compensation Ban does not result in a monetary loss to the Department or prevent the student from receiving student aid funds.

Plaintiffs contend that they need not allege a specific injury or trace a particular loss in order to recover under the False Claims Act. Rather, their theory is that the loss stems from the fact that the government funded billions of dollars in student aid payments to EDMC which it was not entitled to receive. Plaintiffs further note that in Main, the Court held that the 2002 Department of Education memo cited by EDMC has "no legal effect." 426 F.3d at 917.

[16] [17] As an initial matter, the Court does not agree that a plaintiff must demonstrate that the falsity caused an actual loss to the government. Causation is not an explicit element of a False Claims Act prima facie case, as currently formulated. See Wilkins, 659 F.3d at 305. EDMC's reliance on Hibbs is misplaced because Hibbs was based on the pre–1982 version of the False Claims Act, which limited the government to recovery of damages "sustained by reason of the doing or committing" false claims. The False Claims Act has since been amended.[14]

In United States v. Merck–Medco Managed Care, L.L.C., 336 F.Supp.2d 430, 441–42 (E.D.Pa.2004), the Court clarified:

> The FCA is a statute designed to protect the Government's coffers from fraud and from attempted fraud. Thus, a causal link between a false claim and economic harm must be possible, plausible, and pleaded, even though the claim need not actually be paid for liability to attach under specific provisions of the FCA (i.e. 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)). Rather, to avoid dismissal a complaint must allege that, at the very least, the Government could have been harmed. Medco is, in this respect, quite incorrect in its statement that "damages and loss causation are preconditions of FCA liability." Medco Reply at 5. Medco has craftily blurred the distinction between different provisions of the FCA-specifically, between § 3729(a)(1) and (2). Although every FCA claim does not hinge upon the Government suffering monetary damages, liability attaches if a demand for money has been made on the government, the government "has been billed for nonexistent or worthless goods, [or] charged exorbitant prices, or the fraud might cause the government to suffer economic loss." United States ex rel. Watson v. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co., 87 Fed.Appx. 257, 260 (3d Cir.2004) (emphasis added). The law in the Third Circuit is settled that a claim brought under 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1) need not actually be paid to be actionable. Because a claim need not be paid to be actionable, a plaintiff does not, as a concrete rule, need to plead damages and causation to proceed in every case.
>
> In any event, Plaintiffs have adequately pled an economic loss, in that EDMC's alleged misrepresentations enabled it to receive billions of dollars of student aid funds. In Hendow, the Court rejected a similar argument and observed that participation and eligibility to receive federal funds are "explicitly conditioned" on compliance with the Incentive Compensation Ban. 461 F.3d at 1175 (emphasis in original). This reasoning is persuasive at this stage of the case. Plaintiffs have adequately pled that the alleged violation of the Incentive Compensation Ban caused economic loss to the governments.

457 4. Condition of Participation or Payment?

EDMC argues that even assuming arguendo that it paid ADAs improperly, the False Claims Act claims must be dismissed because compliance with the Incentive Compensation Ban was a "condition of participation" rather than a "condition of payment." In other words, EDMC might face a loss of eligibility to participate in student aid, but payments EDMC has already received would not be implicated. In essence, EDMC contends that ADA compensation is not a core programmatic concern such that compliance with the Incentive Compensation Ban should be enforced administratively by the Department of Education rather than through the drastic penalties available under the False Claims Act.

EDMC relies heavily upon Wilkins, 659 F.3d at 295, a qui tam False Claims Act case in which the relators alleged that their employer had knowingly violated several Medicare marketing regulations. Id. at 300. The Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit cautioned: "the implied certification theory of liability should not be applied expansively, particularly when advanced on the basis of FCA allegations arising from the Government's payment of claims under federally funded health care programs." Id. at 307. The Court further explained that the False Claims Act "was not designed for use as a blunt instrument to enforce compliance with all medical regulations—but rather only those regulations that are a precondition to payment." Id. (citation omitted). A violation concerns a "condition of payment" if such violation "might cause [the government] to actually refuse payment." Id. (citing United States ex rel. Conner v. Salina Regional Health Center, Inc., 543 F.3d 1211, 1220 (10th Cir.2008)). In Wilkins, the Court held that the alleged violations of Medicare marketing regulations were not conditions of payment and noted that the relators had failed to cite examples, in case law or otherwise, of the government seeking recovery of Medicare payments for services that a provider had actually performed due to non-compliance with marketing regulations. [15] Id. at 310.

This case is distinguishable from Wilkins because the Incentive Compensation Ban is simply not analogous to Medicare marketing regulations. In Hendow, 461 F.3d at 1175, the Court distinguished the Medicare context and rejected the argument that "the Incentive Compensation Ban [was] nothing more than one of hundreds of boilerplate requirements." 461 F.3d at 1175. The Court further reasoned that in the absence of False Claims Act liability, "the University would be virtually unfettered in its ability to receive funds from the government while flouting the law." Id. at 1176. Accord Main, 426 F.3d at 914 ("if the University knew about the rule and told the Department that it would comply, while planning to do otherwise, it is exposed to penalties under the False Claims Act"). In Conner, 543 F.3d at 1222, the Court explicitly stated that the Incentive Compensation Ban at issue in Hendow provided a "telling contrast" to an alleged violation of Medicare regulations. Wilkins cited Conner with approval and did not disavow or disagree with Hendow or Main.[16] In sum, Wilkins does not mandate dismissal as a matter of law.

458 In summary, the Court will deny the motion to dismiss the False Claims Act challenges to the Plan "as implemented." This theory is inherently difficult to resolve at the motion to dismiss stage. The Complaint provides adequate notice of Plaintiff's theory, such that EDMC is able to prepare a responsive pleading. It will be incumbent upon Plaintiffs to develop admissible evidence to support the theory, but they have adequately pled a cognizable claim.

II. State False Claims Act Claims

The parties' arguments regarding the state law False Claims Act claims essentially mirror their positions as to the federal claims. The parties recognize that the state False Claims Act statutes are interpreted consistent with the federal statute in all material respects. Accordingly, the claims based on the Plan "as written" suffer from the same flaws identified above and the claims based on the Plan "as implemented" appear to be cognizable.

However, EDMC argues that compliance with the federal Incentive Compensation Ban is not a requirement for state funding. In addition, EDMC makes several targeted arguments as to individual states: (1) that Indiana had no False Claims Act prior to 2005 and Minnesota had no False Claims Act until 2010; (2) that Minnesota did not condition state funding on participation in the federal program, pursuant to Minn.Stat. § 136A.103(b)(3)(i); (3) that California authorized incentive compensation pay to ADAs per Cal. Ed.Code § 94832(e); (4) that Florida repealed its Incentive Compensation Ban in 2003 pursuant to Fla. Stat. Ann. § 246.081(4); and (5) that California's Institutional Participation Agreement ("IPA") bars it from recovering treble damages.

Plaintiffs contend that compliance with the federal Incentive Compensation Ban was, in fact, a material requirement for state funding. Plaintiffs further contend that all the elements of their False Claims Act statutes have been satisfied. Indiana and Minnesota represent that they are not seeking retroactive application of their respective False Claims Acts. The states contend that Minn.Stat. § 136A.103(b)(3)(i) does not apply to EDMC because it had already been participating in the Pell Grant program; that California does not permit the type of incentive compensation to ADAs alleged in this case[17] and that the provision cited by EDMC was repealed in 2007; that the repeal of Florida's Incentive Compensation Ban is irrelevant because its claim is based on the false certification of compliance with the federal ban; and that California is entitled to seek treble damages, as the provision cited by EDMC does not apply to statutory violations and cannot limit the state's police power.

Plaintiffs specifically allege, numerous times, that state funding was conditioned on compliance with the federal Incentive Compensation Ban. See, e.g., Intervenor Complaint ¶¶ 174, 176, 198, 303, 318, 330; Minnesota Complaint ¶ 25, 26. The states also contend that their various False Claims Acts remain applicable to EDMC's conduct. Resolution of these issues would benefit from a more fully developed evidentiary record. The Complaints aver that EDMC obtained funds from the states; that EDMC's representations of compliance with the Incentive Compensation Ban were false; and that EDMC acted knowingly. Thus, Plaintiffs have pled all of the elements of a prima facie case 459 under the state False Claims Acts for the Plan, as implemented.

III. Federal and State Common Law Claims

EDMC contends that the United States' claims for unjust enrichment and mistake of fact should be dismissed as a matter of law. EDMC argues that: (1) they are preempted by the regulatory scheme created by Congress to enforce the HEA; (2) the claims are really for breach of contract (the PPA); and (3) the United States would receive a double recovery because the students who received government funding were educated. EDMC asserts similar reasons for dismissal of the state common law claims. Plaintiffs contend that their claims are not preempted; are not based on EDMC's alleged contractual breaches of the PPA, but on the false statements contained therein; and that they did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

[18] The Court concludes that the common law claims are not subject to dismissal at this stage of the case. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(d)(3) authorizes pursuit of inconsistent claims or defenses. In United States v. Silliman, 167 F.2d 607, 611 (3d Cir.1948), the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit held that the False Claims Act does not preempt federal common law remedies. This analysis also applies to the common law claims asserted by the states to recover the separate state funds each provided to EDMC and/or its students. See Green v. Fund Asset Mgmt., L.P., 245 F.3d 214, 222 n. 7, 223–24 (3d Cir.2001) (rejecting contention that state claims were preempted). Moreover, the parties' relationship is not purely contractual, because the PPA was executed within the context of the broader federal and state student aid statutory and regulatory framework. See Hendow, 461 F.3d at 1168 (noting the "panoply of statutory, regulatory, and contractual requirements"). The mere fact that students received an education does not entirely mitigate the governments' damages. Id. at 1176 (rejecting idea that schools could be unfettered in their ability to receive government funds while flouting the Incentive Compensation Ban). In sum, the Court concludes that the common law claims will not be dismissed.

IV. Status of Relator Mahoney

EDMC argues that the Court lacks jurisdiction over Michael Mahoney's claims, pursuant to the "first filed" bar in 31 U.S.C. § 3730(b)(5). That provision states: "When a person brings an action under this subsection, no person other than the Government may intervene or bring a related action based on the facts underlying the pending action." (Emphasis added). EDMC cites United States ex rel. St. John LaCorte v. SmithKline Beecham Clinical Labs., Inc., 149 F.3d 227, 232–34 (3d Cir.1998), for the proposition that § 3730 bars any new claims arising from events that are already the subject of existing actions. Plaintiffs contend that this provision is not implicated because Mahoney did not "intervene" or "bring a related action." Rather, Mahoney and Washington entered into a private arrangement to name Mahoney as an additional relator in an amended complaint in this same case.

Although there is some authority on each side of this issue, the Court agrees with Plaintiffs.[18] The plain text of § 3730(b)(5) does not apply to the unique procedural status of this case because Mahoney is not "intervening" or bringing a "related action." See United States ex rel. 460 Precision Co. v. Koch Industries, Inc., 31 F.3d 1015, 1017 (10th Cir.1994); Accord United States ex rel. Howard v. Lockheed Martin Corp., 2011 WL 4348104 (S.D.Ohio 2011) (noting split authority but permitting amendment to add additional relator on statutory interpretation and policy grounds). St. John LaCorte is distinguishable, as that case did not involve an additional plaintiff added to the same lawsuit. Indeed, in St. John LaCorte, the Court noted—without disapproval—that in one of the underlying qui tam cases, a relator (Grossenbacher) was "later joined by" another relator (Robinson). 149 F.3d at 230. In sum, the Court will not dismiss Mahoney as a relator.

V. Motion to Strike

EDMC contends that allegations regarding its "perfectly legal conduct" should be stricken from the Complaint pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(f). For example, EDMC asks the Court to strike averments which set forth EDMC's emphasis on tracking ADA enrollment and recruiting performance data; termination of ADAs who failed to meet performance targets; and references to the President's Club and other prizes. The court may strike from a pleading "an insufficient defense or any redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter." Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(f). As this Court recently explained in Simmons v. Nationwide Mut. Fire Ins. Co.:

> A decision to grant or deny a motion to strike a pleading is vested in the trial court's discretion. "The purpose of a motion to strike is to clean up the pleadings, streamline litigation, and avoid unnecessary forays into immaterial matters." Motions to strike are decided on the pleadings alone. Because a motion to strike is not favored, a court will generally not grant such a motion unless the material to be stricken bears no possible relationship to the controversy and may cause prejudice to one of the parties.

788 F.Supp.2d 404, 407 (W.D.Pa.2011) (citations omitted). The averments challenged by EDMC are not redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous and they are related to the matters at issue. Accordingly, the motion to strike will be DENIED.

VI. District of Columbia Complaint

EDMC filed a separate motion to dismiss the complaint filed by the District of Columbia in November 2011, after briefing had already commenced. The District asserts two claims under its False Claims Act and one claim for unjust enrichment. D.C. incorporates by reference many of the factual allegations in the Intervenor Complaint and the parties' respective arguments also largely mirror those discussed above.

However, EDMC also argues that D.C.'s claims are barred by the applicable statutes of limitations. EDMC points out that D.C. was first named as a party in the Relators' Second Amended Complaint, which was filed on May 2, 2011. D.C. contends that its claims are timely and properly pled. The Court will not address the parties' substantive arguments because it agrees with EDMC that D.C.'s claims are untimely.

D.C. pleads in Complaint ¶ 24 that it seeks to recover grant awards made "between 2003 and 2005." D.C.'s False Claims Act has a six-year statute of limitations. D.C.Code § 2–381.05. The unjust enrichment claim is subject to a three-year statute of limitations. D.C.Code § 12–301(8). D.C. does not contest that these claims would otherwise be time-barred. However, it argues that they should "relate back" to the filing of the Relators' initial Complaint pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 15(c).

461 In Nelson v. County of Allegheny, 60 F.3d 1010, 1014–15 (3d Cir.1995), the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit explained that where the effort to amend and "relate back" is to add new plaintiffs, the Court must inquire whether the defendants received such notice that they will not be prejudiced. The Court explained:

> Statutes of limitations ensure that defendants are "protected against the prejudice of having to defend against stale claims, as well as the notion that, at some point, claims should be laid to rest so that security and stability can be restored to human affairs." Cunningham [v. Insurance Co. of North America, 515 Pa. 486], 530 A.2d [407] at 409 [(1987)] (citations omitted). In order to preserve this protection, the relation-back rule requires plaintiffs to show that the already commenced action sufficiently embraces the amended claims so that defendants are not unfairly prejudiced by these late-coming plaintiffs and that plaintiffs have not slept on their rights.

Id. The Court then cited Leachman v. Beech Aircraft Corp., 694 F.2d 1301, 1309 (D.C.Cir.1982), for the proposition that a failure to limit the "relation back" doctrine:

> would allow the tardy plaintiffs to benefit from the diligence of the other victims and, more importantly, could cause defendants' liability to increase geometrically and their defensive strategy to become far more complex long after the statute of limitations had run. Even if, as here, there were no showing of specific prejudice in the sense of lost or destroyed evidence, defendants would still be deprived of their interest in repose. At some point, defendants should have notice of who their adversaries are.

Id. See also Asher v. Unarco Material Handling, Inc., 596 F.3d 313, 318 (6th Cir.2010) (citations omitted) (amendment which adds new Plaintiff does not relate back and cannot be maintained when the statute of limitations has run).

[19] The Court concludes that the requirements for the "relation back" doctrine have not been met in this case. D.C. is a tardy Plaintiff which seeks to benefit from the diligence of others. D.C.'s claims were not embraced by the Relators' earlier Complaints because D.C. is attempting to recover for alleged misrepresentations made to the District, not to the other Plaintiffs. EDMC did not receive notice of D.C.'s claims within the limitations period and there is no indication that the failure to name D.C. earlier was due to a mistake concerning its identity. Even though there has been no showing of specific prejudice, EDMC "would still be deprived of [its] interest in repose."

Accordingly DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS COMPLAINT IN INTERVENTION BY THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA (Document No. 165) will be GRANTED.

Conclusion

This is a massive and complex case. It is certainly possible that EDMC has properly compensated its ADAs in compliance with all government requirements. Indeed, the Court has concluded that claims based on EDMC's Compensation Plan "as written" must be dismissed. However, the Court concludes that the claims based on the Plan "as implemented" will not be dismissed. At this stage of the proceedings, the Court merely concludes that Plaintiffs' allegations of a company-wide fraud, viewed in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs and assumed to be true, are cognizable. Plaintiffs are entitled to take discovery in an effort to prove these allegations.

An appropriate Order follows.

ORDER OF COURT

AND NOW, this 11th day of May, 2012, in accordance with the foregoing Memorandum 462 Opinion, it is hereby ORDERED, ADJUDGED, and DECREED that DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS PURSUANT TO FEDERAL RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE 12(b)(1) AND 12(b)(6), AND, IN THE ALTERNATIVE, MOTION TO STRIKE UNDER FEDERAL RULE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE 12(f) (Document No. 145) is GRANTED IN PART AND DENIED IN PART as follows:

(1) the motion to dismiss claims based on the EDMC Compensation Plan "as written" is GRANTED;

(2) Count III of the Intervenor Complaint is limited to claims pending on or after June 7, 2008;

(3) the Indiana and Minnesota False Claims Act claims are limited to conduct since the enactment of those statutes in 2005 and 2010, respectively;

(4) the motion to dismiss relator Mahoney is DENIED;

(5) the motion to strike averments pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(f) is DENIED; and

(6) in all other respects, the motion is DENIED.

DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS COMPLAINT IN INTERVENTION BY THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA (Document No. 165) is GRANTED. The District of Columbia is dismissed as a party and the caption shall be so amended.

EDMC shall file an Answer as to the remaining Complaints on or before June 11, 2012. EDMC shall also file a response as to Counts 6 and 8–14 of the Relator Complaint on or before June 11, 2012.

For the convenience of all concerned, the Court and parties shall utilize the following "short form" of the caption for future filings in this case:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, et al.	)
Plaintiffs,	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 07–461
EDUCATION MANAGEMENT CORPORATION,	)
et al.,	)
Defendants.	)

All Citations

871 F.Supp.2d 433, 286 Ed. Law Rep. 396

Footnotes

1 There are numerous federal financial assistance programs under the HEA at issue in this case, including Pell Grants, the Family Education Loan Program, Stafford Loans, Direct Student Loans, Perkins Loans, the Work Study Program and the Supplemental Education Opportunity Grant Program.

2 Regulation 668.14 was amended in 2008, 2009 and 2010. The parties have not raised any material distinctions between the versions, as applied to this case. In 2011, the Department of Education again amended § 668.14 to eliminate the "Safe Harbor" effective July 1, 2011.

3 The Relator Complaint asserts the following counts: (1) federal False Claims Act; (2) California False Claims Act; (3) Florida False Claims Act; (4) Illinois False Claims Act; (5) Indiana False Claims Act; (6) Massachusetts False Claims Act; (7)Minnesota False Claims Act; (8) Montana False Claims Act; (9) New Jersey False Claims Act; (10) New Mexico Fraud Against Taxpayers Act; (11) New York False Claims Act; (12) Tennessee False Claims Act; (13) District of Columbia False Claims Act; and (14) Title VII race discrimination by Washington.

4 The Intervenor Complaint asserts the following counts: (1–3) Federal False Claims Act; (4) federal Payment by Mistake of Fact; (5) federal unjust enrichment; (6–7) California False Claims Act; (8) California unjust enrichment; (9–10) Florida False Claims Act; (11) Illinois False Claims Act; (12) Illinois Payment by Mistake of Fact; (13) Illinois unjust enrichment; (14) Indiana False Claims Act; (15) Indiana Fraud; and (16) Indiana unjust enrichment.

5 The Minnesota Complaint asserts the following counts: (1) Minnesota False Claims Act; and (2) unjust enrichment.

6 D.C. Complaint asserts the following counts: (1–2) D.C. False Claims Act; and (3) unjust enrichment.

7 EDMC also cited Rule 12(b)(1) but has not pursued a jurisdictional challenge, except tangentially as to the claims of Relator Mahoney based on the "first filed" bar. The Court is satisfied that it may exercise subject-matter jurisdiction over this case pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1345, as it involves a federal statute and the United States is a party.

8 The 2003–2009 version of the False Claims Act provided, in relevant part: "(a) Liability for certain acts.—Any person who —(1) knowingly presents, or causes to be presented, to an officer or employee of the United States Government or a member of the Armed Forces of the United States a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval;"

9 The 2009 amendment to § 3729 provides, in relevant part:

> "(a) Liability for certain acts.—(1) In general.—Subject to paragraph (2), any person who—(A) knowingly presents, or causes to be presented, a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; [or] (B) knowingly makes, uses, or causes to be made or used, a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim;"

10 Notably, however, FERA contains a limited retroactivity provision, which provides that § 3729(a)(1)(B) took effect as if enacted on June 7, 2008 and is applicable to all claims pending on or after that date. Wilkins, 659 F.3d at 303–04. Thus, Count 3 must be limited to claims pending on or after June 7, 2008.

11 For example, EDMC alleges that at least fifteen schools did not exist or were not part of EDMC during the 2003–2009 timeframe.

12 Although Plaintiffs are correct that Gaer applied the more rigorous scienter requirement of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 ("PSLRA"), it did not do so in the portion of the opinion which discussed the Incentive Compensation Ban.

13 As explained in Southern Track & Pump, Inc. v. Terex Corp., 722 F.Supp.2d 509, 519 (D.Del.2010), the particularity required with respect to "time" is flexible because the purpose of Rule 9(b) is to provide notice of the claims to defendants. Plaintiffs have sufficiently provided EDMC with the dates of the alleged fraud at this stage of the case.

14 Section 3729 now provides for a civil penalty "plus 3 times the amount of damages which the Government sustains because of the act of that person."

15 The Court reversed, in part, on the ground that alleged violations of the Anti–Kickback statute did constitute a "condition of payment." Id. at 313–14.

16 The Court is not convinced that the requests for payment submitted by EDMC were "factually false" as defined in Wilkins. However, because the "as implemented" claims survive under the "legally false" and "fraudulent inducement" rationales, the Court need not finally resolve this issue at this stage of the proceedings.

17 California contends that § 94832(e)(2)(B) conditioned compensation on "satisfactory academic progress" while EDMC's Plan awarded credit immediately upon enrollment. Intervenor Complaint ¶ 114.

18 As a practical matter, the addition of Mahoney as a relator may be of limited impact because the United States has intervened and is vigorously pursuing this case.

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

KeyCite Yellow Flag - Negative Treatment
Distinguished by Rutledge v. Aveda, N.D.Ala., May 12, 2015

2013 WL 2404082
Only the Westlaw citation is currently available.

United States District Court,
W.D. Pennsylvania.

UNITED STATES of America ex rel. Jason SOBEK, Plaintiff,
v.
EDUCATION MANAGEMENT, LLC South University, LLC, doing business as South University Online Argosy Education Group, Inc., doing business as Argosy University Online, the Art Institutes International, LLC doing business as the Art Institutes Online and Education Management Corporation, Defendants.

Civil Action No. 10–131.
|
May 31, 2013.

Attorneys and Law Firms

Paul E. Skirtich, U.S. Attorney's Office, Pittsburgh, PA, Christopher Casper, Sean P. Keefe, James, Hoyer, Newcomer & Smiljanich, P.A., Tampa, FL, Jessica L. Hoyer, Tampa, FL, Andrew M. Stone, Stone & Stone, Pittsburgh, PA, for Plaintiff.

Laura E. Ellsworth, Anderson T. Bailey, Charles H. Moellenberg, Jr., Thomas S. Jones, Jones Day, Pittsburgh, PA, for Defendants.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER OF COURT

McVERRY, District Judge.

1 Now pending before the Court are DEFENDANTS' OBJECTIONS TO THE OCTOBER 22, 2012 REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION ("R & R") (ECF No. 89). Defendants (collectively "EDMC") filed a brief in support, Plaintiff filed a response in opposition, and Defendants filed a reply brief. The Court heard oral argument on May 13, 2013 and the motion is ripe for disposition.

Factual and Procedural History

This qui tam False Claims Act ("FCA") case is related to United States ex rel Washington v. EDMC, Civil Action No. 07–461 ("Washington"), although the United States has decided to not intervene in this case. Plaintiff–Relator Jason Sobek was employed by EDMC from June 2008 through November 2010 as a Project Associate Director of Admissions ("ADA"). He alleges that EDMC made false certifications of compliance regarding its eligibility to receive federal student loan funding. Sobek has filed a 43–page, six-count Second Amended Complaint which alleges that EDMC made false statements in order to participate in federal student financial assistance programs as to:

Count I: Accreditation of nursing programs;

Count II: Job Placement statistics;

Count III: Costs of educational programs;

Count IV: Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) statistics;

Count V: Incentive Compensation ban; and Count VI: Reverse False Claims Act—failing to report students who should have been dropped from school rolls.

EDMC filed a motion to dismiss the entire case with prejudice (ECF No. 48). On October 22, 2012 Magistrate Judge Cynthia Eddy issued a 39–page R & R which recommended that: the motion to dismiss be DENIED as to Counts I, II and IV; and the motion to dismiss be GRANTED as to Counts III, V and VI. The parties agree that Count V should be dismissed under the "first-filed rule" due to the Washington case, Civil Action No. 07–461. Sobek concedes that Counts III, V and VI should be dismissed. Accordingly, the Court will address Counts I, II and IV.

Discussion

EDMC presents several overarching lines of reasoning in support of dismissal: (1) that the job placement and SAP regulations [1] are analogous to the Medicare marketing regulations at issue in United States ex rel Wilkins v. United Health Group, 659 F.3d 295, 301 n. 9 (3d Cir.2011) ("Wilkins"), which the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit held cannot support an FCA claim; (2) Plaintiff fails to allege fraud with the specificity required by Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b); and (3) that the regulations at issue do not provide a sufficiently specific and objective standard, such that an alleged failure to comply cannot constitute fraud. EDMC also argues that this Court lacks subject-matter jurisdiction pursuant the "public disclosure" bar. In response, Plaintiff contends that: (1) the violations by EDMC alleged in this case are not analogous to the Medicare marketing regulations at issue in Wilkins; (2) the complaint pleads fraud with sufficient specificity; and (3) the regulations impose standards which Plaintiff has alleged that EDMC has knowingly violated, such that dismissal at this stage is not appropriate. More generally, Plaintiff contends that the R & R was correctly decided and should be adopted as the opinion of the Court. The Court will briefly address these contentions seriatim.

The Applicability of Wilkins

2 Both sides agree that Wilkins is the most important case law authority interpreting the FCA. The elements of a prima facie case under the FCA are: (1) the defendant presented a false or fraudulent claim against the United States; (2) the claim was presented to an agency or contractor of the United States; and (3) the defendant knew the claim was false or fraudulent. See Wilkins, 659 F.3d at 305. Sobek alleges in the complaint that EDMC presented numerous claims for student aid funding directly to the Department of Education and caused its students to present such claims. Plaintiff contends that those claims were false and fraudulent because EDMC knew that it was not in compliance with applicable regulations and its Program Participant Agreement ("PPA"), and thus, was not eligible to receive student aid funding. Therefore, Plaintiff contends that he has pled a valid FCA claim.

In essence, EDMC argues that the allegations in this case involve improper marketing of educational services, which are analogous to the allegations of improper marketing of medical services which the Court held would not support an FCA claim in Wilkins. EDMC points to the discussion in Wilkins in which the Court explained that the False Claims Act "was not designed for use as a blunt instrument to enforce compliance with all ... regulations rather than only those regulations that are a precondition to payment." Id. at 307 (citation omitted). EDMC argues that the job placement and SAP regulations are analogous in a multitude of ways to Medicare marketing regulations and cannot support an FCA claim. EDMC argues, inter alia, that the regulations in each instance involve violations which can be corrected; rely on administrative enforcement discretion; provide a variety of potential sanctions; do not have specific standards; and do not require the government to withhold payment. In sum, EDMC reads Wilkins as requiring detailed scrutiny of the underlying regulations at the pleading stage.

The Court does not agree that Wilkins requires dismissal under the facts and circumstances of this case. In Wilkins, the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit held that an FCA claim may be based on actions that are: (1) "factually false," i.e., when the claimant misrepresents the goods or services that it provided to the Government; or (2) "legally false" under an "express false certification" theory or a broader "implied false certification" theory. As recognized in Wilkins, liability may attach when a claimant makes a claim for payment from the Government without disclosing that it has violated regulations that affect its eligibility for payment. Id. As the Wilkins Court explained: "Thus, an implied false certification theory of liability is premised on the notion that the act of submitting a claim for reimbursement itself implies compliance with governing federal rules that are a precondition to payment." Id. (citation omitted).

3 The test for a claim based on a false certification theory is whether an alleged violation concerns a "condition of payment," i.e., whether such violation "might cause [the government] to actually refuse payment." 659 F.3d at 309 (citing United States ex rel Conner v. Salina Regional Health Center, Inc., 543 F.3d 1211, 1220 (10th Cir.2008)).[2] The Court explained that "a plaintiff must show that if the Government had been aware of the defendant's violations of the Medicare laws and regulations that are the bases of a plaintiff's FCA claims, it would not have paid the defendant's claims." Id. at 307.

In applying this test, the Wilkins Court held that the alleged violations of Medicare marketing regulations were not conditions of payment but held that alleged violations of the Anti–Kickback statute ("AKS") would support an FCA claim. The Court explained that an AKS claim would survive a motion to dismiss:

> [A]ppellants alleged that compliance with the AKS was an express condition of payment to which appellees agreed when they entered into an agreement with CMS. See app. at 31–32; 37–38 (stating that "Compliance with CMS MA Guidelines ... are express conditions of payment" and stating that the AKS is part of the MA Guidelines). We conclude that appellants, in stating a plausible claim for relief at this stage of the proceedings for their complaint to survive a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, need not allege a relationship between the alleged AKS violations and the claims appellees submitted to the Government. Rather, the complaint is sufficient to survive a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss because appellants have pleaded that appellees knowingly violated the AKS while submitting claims for payment to the Government under the federal health insurance program.

The Court then rejected the argument, similar to that articulated by EDMC in this case, that its interpretation would transform the FCA into a strict liability statute which would expose all Medicare participants to massive liability. Id. at 314.

The student education funding context is significantly distinct from the Medicare marketing regulations in Wilkins and more similar to the AKS claims. In other cases involving PPA's and regulations in the education context, courts have held that alleged violations of the Incentive Compensation Ban and the regulations governing job placement statistics were "material." See, e.g., United States ex rel Hen dow v. Univ. of Phoenix, 461 F.3d 1166, 1175 (9th Cir.2006); United States ex rel Capriola v. Brightstar Education Group, Inc., 2013 WL 1499319 at * 7 (E.D.Cal. April 11, 2013). See also U.S. ex rel. Miller v. Weston Educational, Inc., 2012 WL 6190307 (W.D. Mo. Dec 12, 2012) (rejecting "condition of payment/participation" argument similar to that presented by EDMC). At this stage of the case, the "condition of payment" standard is met through the language of the PPA, which expressly conditions federal student assistance funding upon initial and continued compliance with the applicable regulations. See R & R at 28–29 (quoting PPA); Hen dow, 461 F.3d at 1176–77 (explaining that in the educational context, the conditions of participation and conditions of payment are co-extensive). The language in the PPA satisfies the Wilkins test by indicating that a violation "might cause [the government] to actually refuse payment."[3]

The Court is unable to accept, at the pleading stage, EDMC's contention that the alleged accreditation, job placement and SAP misrepresentations are somehow less "core" or "material" than the Incentive Compensation Ban. For example, it is certainly plausible that the government would refuse to provide funding for a student to attend a non-accredited nursing program. The Court acknowledges EDMC's extensive efforts to draw parallels between the education regulations and the medical marketing regulations at issue in Wilkins. EDMC may be able to avoid liability by showing that the United States would not have refused payment even if it had known of EDMC's alleged violations of the regulations at issue. However, such a defense is fact-intensive and would not justify dismissal at the pleading stage.

Heightened Pleading Standard

4 The R & R thoroughly articulated and analyzed the pleading standards and requirements of Fed.R.Civ.P. 8 and 9(b) for an FCA claim, in accordance with the discussion by this member of the Court in Washington. It is evident that Magistrate Judge Eddy conscientiously applied the pleading standards to the allegations in the Second Amended Complaint because she concluded that Counts I, II and IV pled cognizable claims, but recommended dismissal of Count III because the supporting allegations were too non-specific and vague to meet the standard. R & R at 33.

EDMC relies heavily on United States v. Chubb Institute ("Chubb I"), 2010 WL 1076228 (D.N.J. Mar.22, 2010), aff'd, 2011 WL 3890975 (3d Cir. Sept.6, 2011) ("Chubb II"); United States ex rel Gatsipoulous v. Kaplan Career Inst., 2010 WL 5392668 (S.D.Fla.2010) (job placement allegations too conclusory) and United States ex rel Diaz v. Kaplan Univ., 2011 WL 3627285 *4 (S.D.Fla.2011) (no facts pled as to SAP claim), for the proposition that courts have dismissed similar FCA claims against educational institutions for lack of specificity. However, those cases are non-binding and distinguishable. The Chubb I Court explained that Plaintiffs had access to numerous documents courtesy of a government subpoena and could have prevailed by pleading more detailed facts. 2010 WL 1076228 * 8–9 (job placement and SAP claims). Magistrate Judge Eddy correctly concluded that Counts I, II and IV of the Second Amended Complaint in this case contain plausible and particularized factual allegations of the alleged fraudulent scheme and scienter.

ED-17-0431-A-004904

Deference to Agency Enforcement of Vague Regulations

EDMC argues, in essence, that because the regulations governing job placement and SAP reporting contain somewhat vague and flexible standards, they must be enforced administratively by the Department of Education and cannot serve as the predicate for an FCA claim in federal court. EDMC points to 34 C.F.R. § 668.75, which provides a mechanism for the Department to determine the seriousness of an allegation and an opportunity for an institution to make an informal, voluntary correction of a "minor" misrepresentation. EDMC also cites to 34 C.F.R. § 668.14, which lacks a mandatory formula for computing job placement statistics; and 34 C.F.R. § 668.16(e), which requires an institution to establish "reasonable" standards for measuring SAP.

The existence of an administrative enforcement mechanism does not preclude the possibility of an FCA claim. United States ex rel Onnen v. Sioux Falls Indep. Sch. Dist. No. 49–5, 688 F.3d 410, 414–15 (8th Cir.2012) (government may select from a variety of remedies to combat fraud). Moreover, the contention that EDMC complied with and/or did not knowingly violate the standard set forth in the regulations because it implemented "reasonable" job placement and SAP policies is a fact-intensive defense. Id. ("The scope of regulatory requirements and sanctions may affect the fact-intensive issue of whether a specific type of regulatory non-compliance resulted in a materially false claim for a specific government payment.") (citing Wilkins). Thus, EDMC's contention does not justify dismissal at the pleading stage.

Jurisdictional Defense—Public Disclosure Bar

5 Courts do not have jurisdiction over False Claims Act claims that are based upon publically disclosed information, unless the person bringing the action is an original source of the information. 31 U.S.C. § 3730(e)(4)(A)). EDMC argues that it has made a jurisdictional challenge to Count II, which must be resolved at the earliest possible stage and contends that Sobek has failed to meet his burden to prove jurisdiction. In response, Sobek contends: (1) that there was not a sufficient public disclosure by EDMC to put the government on notice of fraud; and (2) that his inside knowledge makes him an original source, such that he falls within the statutory exception to the "public disclosure" bar. The R & R concluded that this defense was somewhat vague and premature.

It is readily apparent that there are unresolved factual questions regarding the applicability of the public disclosure bar, which at least partially overlap with the merits of the claim. Thus, the Court agrees with Magistrate Judge Eddy that a final determination is premature at this time. On the other hand, the Court agrees with EDMC that the defense is "jurisdictional." See Rockwell Intl. Corp. v. United States, 549 U.S. 457, 467–68, 127 S.Ct. 1397, 167 L.Ed.2d 190 (2007) (the reference to "jurisdiction" in § 3730 is, in fact, jurisdictional rather than defining the elements of the cause of action). Accordingly, the Court will be receptive to case management proposals which expedite jurisdictional discovery and resolution of this issue.

Conclusion

Pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 72 and 28 U.S.C. § 636, the Court has conducted a de novo review of the pleadings, the R & R of Magistrate Judge Eddy, and the objections thereto. In accordance with the foregoing, DEFENDANTS' OBJECTIONS TO THE OCTOBER 22, 2012 REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION ("R & R") (ECF No. 89) will be OVERRULED and the October 22, 2012 Report and Recommendation will be adopted as the opinion of the Court. DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS PURSUANT TO FED. R. CIV. P. 12(b)(1) AND 12(b)(6) (ECF No. 48) will be GRANTED IN PART as to Counts III, V and VI and DENIED IN PART as to Counts I, II and IV. Defendants shall file an Answer as to Counts I, II and IV on or before June 14, 2013.

An appropriate Order follows.

ORDER OF COURT

AND NOW this 31st day of May, 2013, in accordance with the foregoing Memorandum Opinion, it is hereby ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that DEFENDANTS' OBJECTIONS TO THE OCTOBER 22, 2012 REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION ("R & R") (ECF No. 89) are OVERRULED and the October 22, 2012 Report and Recommendation is hereby adopted as the opinion of the Court. DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS PURSUANT TO FED. R. CIV. P. 12(b)

(1) AND 12(b)(6) (ECF No. 48) is GRANTED IN PART as to Counts III, V and VI and DENIED IN PART as to Counts I, II and IV.

Defendants shall file an Answer as to Counts I, II and IV on or before June 14, 2013.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

CYNTHIA REED EDDY, United States Magistrate Judge.

I. RECOMMENDATION

6 In this qui tam action filed pursuant to the False Claims Act ("FCA"), 31 U.S.C. §§ 3729–3733, Relator Jason Sobek alleges that Education Management Corporation and its affiliates, in order to immerse themselves in various Higher Education Act financial aid funding streams, provided through Title IV of the Act, falsely and knowingly certified to the Department and Secretary of Education that each defendant educational institution was in compliance and intended to remain in compliance with conditions of eligibility, embodied in statute, regulation and Program Participation Agreements ("PPAs"), which conditions are prerequisites to each institution's participation in those financial aid programs.

Essentially, Relator alleges a multi-faceted, corporate-wide scheme to enroll as many students as possible, and to keep them on the rolls for as long as possible, without regard to the students' qualifications or their likelihood of graduation or career placement, in order to maximize financial aid from the United States Department of Education ("DOE"), which assumes the risk of delinquent student loans. In so doing, Relator claims, Defendants knowingly, routinely and falsely certified to DOE, in violation of section 3729(a) of the FCA, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), that they were in compliance with all conditions of eligibility to participate in the federal loan/grant funding streams to which they had agreed to be bound when they executed the PPAs with the Secretary of Education. The prerequisite conditions of eligibility include that Defendants maintain an incentive compensation ban and fulfill their obligations to present honest, accurate information to prospective and enrolled students with regard to the cost of educational programs and degrees, job placement statistics and accreditation.

For the reasons set forth herein, it is respectfully recommended that Defendants' Motion to Dismiss Second Amended Qui Tarn Complaint Pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) (ECF No. 48) be GRANTED in part and DENIED in part. Specifically, it is recommended that the motion to dismiss be granted as to Counts III, V and VI, with prejudice, and denied with respect to Counts I, II and IV, as to which Relator has offered sufficient facts to meet his burden of pleading the elements of his section 3729(a) claims and sufficient facts to plausibly support said claims and provide adequate notice to Defendants of the claims made against them.

II. REPORT

A. Procedural History

On January 28, 2010, Jason Sobek filed his initial qui tam complaint against Defendants, Education Management Corporation, Education Management, LLC (collectively, "EDMC"), South University, LLC d/b/a South University Online, Argosy Education Group, Inc., d/b/a Argosy University Online, and The Art Institutes International, LLC, d/b/a The Art Institutes Online (collectively, "Defendants"), as Relator on behalf of the United States of America, pursuant to the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. §§ 3729–3733. Complaint, (ECF No. 2). Pursuant to FCA procedures, the Complaint was filed under seal with notification only to the United States of America, which began its investigation of the matters alleged to determine whether it would exercise its right to intervene in the case. 31 U.S.C. § 3730. As further provided by the FCA, 31 U.S.C. § 3730(b)(3), the government filed eight motions to extend the seal period for good cause, all of which were granted. See (ECF Nos. 3–4, 5–6, 10–11, 12–13, 14–15, 16–17, 18–19, 20–21).

7 By Order dated October 13, 2011, the last of these extended the seal period until January 10, 2012. The case was reassigned to this Court on October 27, 2011.

On January 11, 2012, the government filed another motion to extend the seal period to allow additional time to complete its investigation, which this Court granted until February 9, 2012. See text order of January 12, 2012.[1] Thereafter, this Court granted Relator permission to file a Second Amended Qui Tam Complaint, which he did on February 10, 2012. Second Amended Qui Tam Complaint ("SAC"), (ECF No. 27). This amended complaint was not filed under seal as, by then, the government had decided not to intervene.

On May 29, 2012, Defendants filed their Motion to Dismiss pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6), (ECF No. 48), with brief in support. Relator's Memorandum of Law in Opposition to Defendants' Motion to Dismiss the Second Amended Qui Tam Complaint (ECF No. 61) set off an initial skirmish (i.e., motions to amend seal orders and responses thereto by the parties and the government) by references to the still-sealed Notice Of The United States That It Is Not Intervening At This Time (ECF No. 24), and argument against dismissal because the United States and the DOE "have been actively investigating Relator's claims since January 2010," and "could have dismissed this case if it thought that [the case] was spurious or without merit." Id. at 3, 19.

On September 6, 2012, this Court ruled on the motion and amended motion to amend seal order, (ECF No. 86), and directed the United States to deliver to EDMC copies of all extension motions and related orders of court. See note 1. The motion to dismiss is now ripe for resolution.

On October 2, 2012, the Clerk of Court reassigned this action to the Honorable Terrence F. McVerry, who is presiding over a related pending case at Civil Action No. 07–0461, United States ex rel. Washington v. Education Management Corporation, et al. See United States ex rel. Washington v. Education Management Corporation, 2012 WL 1658482 (W.D.Pa., May 11, 2012).[2] (hereafter, "Education Management Corp.").

B. Second Amended Qui Tam Complaint ("SAC")

In its introductory paragraphs, the SAC states that through "a carefully-crafted and wide-spread for-profit education scheme, Defendants ... have defrauded the United States and its taxpayers out of millions of dollars in the form of federally-backed student loans and grants, and further:

> 2. Educational entities such as Defendants are motivated by profit rather than student success or rankings, and therefore have every incentive to maximize enrollment by recruiting unqualified students who will not be able to repay their loans ....[,]. taking zero risk in signing up students for federally-guaranteed loans.... [A]lthough students at for-profits represent only 11 percent of all higher-education students, they represent 26 percent of loan borrowers and 43 percent of loan defaulters [and] ... more than 25 percent of for-profits derive 80 percent of their revenues from taxpayer-funded federal financial aid.
>
> *8 * * *
>
> 4. The FCA provides that any person who submits, or causes to be submitted, a false claim to the government is liable for a civil penalty of between $5,500 and $11,000 for each such claim, and three times the amount of the damages sustained by the government. The Act permits persons having information regarding a false or fraudulent claim against the government to bring an action on behalf of the government and to share in any recovery....
>
> 5. Pursuant to the FCA, Relator seeks to recover on behalf of the United States damages and civil penalties arising from Defendants* knowingly false and/or fraudulent certifications of eligibility to the Department of Education ("DOE") for its Title IV, HEA programs. From at least 2004 and, upon information and belief, continuing through the present, Defendants knowingly submitted and caused to be submitted false claims for payment to the DOE based upon their false certifications.

SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 2, 4–5.

More particularly, the SAC sets forth the following narrative. Relator Sobek was a Project Associate Director of Admissions for EDMC Online Higher Education's South University brand in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania from June 2008 until November 2010. In that role, he recruited students for South University Online ("SUO"), and was "responsible for ensuring his admissions team enrolled, confirmed, and secured financial aid funds for predetermined numbers of students, as mandated" by EDMC's corporate start plans. Moreover, "Relator was also required to meet or exceed his own predetermined weekly applications averages, start plans, and start rates," was "responsible for ensuring that federal financial aid was completed" for each student, and "frequently attended management, strategy, planning and training meetings on behalf of his direct supervisor.... Relator's role allowed him wide access to enrollment data, reports, training materials, and memoranda detailing the policies related to EDMC ...." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 9.

Defendant EMC is a publically-traded corporation headquartered in Pittsburgh, and Defendant Education Management, LLC is > among the largest providers of post-secondary education in North America based on student enrollment and revenue, with 106 locations in 32 U.S. states and Canada. Defendant EDMC is headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Over 151,000 students were enrolled at EDMC's institutions as of October 2011. EMC offers a broad range of academic programs concentrated in the creative and applied arts, behavioral sciences, education, health sciences, and business fields. EDMC awards associate, bachelor, master and doctoral degrees, and also has non-degree programs. EDMC is second only to the University of Phoenix in amount of federal financial aid collected each year.

SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 10–11. Education Management, LLC, South University, LLC d/b/a South University Online, Argosy Education Group, Inc., d/b/a Argosy University Online, and The Art Institutes International, LLC, d/b/a The Art Institutes Online are wholly owned subsidiaries of EMC, SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 10, 12–15.

9 Relator states that the DOE regulates educational institutions that participate in "any student financial assistance programs authorized by Title IV of the Higher Education Act," which includes the Pell Grant program, Federal Stafford Loans, and Federal Perkins Loans, and that, in order for a student to receive federal grants or federally-backed loans, "the student must attend a school that is eligible to participate in the Title IV, HEA programs." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 16–17.

In order for a school to be eligible to participate in Title IV, HEA financial aid programs, each school must enter into a Program Participation Agreement with the Secretary of Education. The PPA is a contract in which the school agrees that its participation "is subject to the terms and conditions set forth" therein. Additionally, each participating school agrees to "comply with the programs' statutes and implementing regulations for institutional eligibility as set forth in 34 C.F.R. Part 600 and for each Title IV, HEA program in which it participates, as well as ... the Student Assistance General Provisions regulations set forth in 34 C.F.R, Part 668." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 18–19. Defendants are alleged to have "signed numerous PPAs with the DOE from at least 2004 through the present, and promised in each PPA to comply with all program statutes and regulations." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 20.

Relator describes a scheme to defraud the DOE in the following general terms:

> 21. All of Defendants' schools ... abide by a simple formula: recruit as many students as possible with the greatest financial needs possible and enroll them in high-cost programs to maximize the amount of federal funding received. Defendants had a corps of recruiters, all well-trained in sales and closing techniques, who perfected the art of preying on the hopes and dreams of vulnerable students desperately seeking better lives....
>
> 22. Defendants have built their business on a predatory scheme that affects every aspect of a student's experience. From aggressive and misleading marketing practices designed to target vulnerable students, to their admissions representatives' compensation structure, which was based on per-head recruiting quotas, to their failure to adequately track students' progress and attendance, Defendants made it abundantly clear that they viewed students as dollar signs, and did not care about whether the students they enrolled were ready for college, much less whether they succeeded once they enrolled.
>
> 23. From at least 2004, and upon information and belief, continuing through the present, Defendants refused to abide by federal regulations put in place to protect students, and instead focused on maximizing the "for-profit" title they richly deserved. Each time Defendants made certifications to the DOE, Defendants were aware they were not in compliance with mandatory regulations, and that they had no intention of complying if it meant sacrificing profit margins.

> *10 24. Defendants' nationwide false claims and certifications have caused, and continue to cause, financial harm to the United States and its taxpayers.

SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 21–25.

Defendants aggressively solicited potential students, from a variety of lead sources, from 2004 through the present, using high pressure sales tactics and misrepresentations about the total price tag that comes along with courses of study and degrees, job placement statistics, and program accreditation, among other things. A "boiler-room atmosphere" existed for recruiters, whose "livelihoods were dependent on such [misleading] statements because bonuses and job retention were based on meeting and exceeding per-head recruiting quotas." Defendants targeted "the poor, the undereducated, the homeless, those who were the first in their families to attempt higher education, those with criminal records, those who were mentally and emotionally challenged, single mothers on welfare, and those living in shelters and halfway houses." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 25–26.

Relator further asserts that Defendants "encouraged their admissions representatives to mislead incoming students," resulting in "the United States ... footing the bill for students who should not have enrolled in Defendants' schools, and who would not have enrolled but for Defendants' blatant misrepresentations [and] ... marketing practices ... designed to prey on individuals' weaknesses and vulnerabilities in order to get them to enroll in classes and sign up for federal loans and grants." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 28. The SAC elaborates in some detail the allegedly misleading and aggressive EDMC designed sales techniques and "boiler-room" atmosphere of the telephone solicitation rooms. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 29–38.

The SAC places the various alleged misrepresentations and false certifications of eligibility into the five categories set forth below.

Misrepresentations as to Program Accreditation—SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 42–47

Relator avers that Defendants consistently and routinely made false, erroneous or misleading statements concerning, inter alia, the particular types, specific sources, nature and extent of its "institutional, programmatic, or specialized accreditation"; whether a student "may transfer course credits earned at the institution to any other institution"; and whether successful completion of a course of instruction qualifies a student "to receive, to apply to take or to take the examination required to receive, a local, State, or Federal license, or a nongovernmental certification required as a precondition for employment," or to "meet additional conditions that the institution knows or reasonably should know are generally needed to secure employment in a recognized occupation for which the program is represented to prepare students," in violation of 34 C.F.R. § 668.72. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 42. As an example of this alleged pattern of misrepresentations, Relator avers that in 2009, Defendant South University asserted on campus tours that its MSN Nurse Practitioner and Accelerated RN to MSN nursing programs were CCNE-accredited, as did the school's website and lead sources, but they were not. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 43. "Students who relied on these false statements and attended Defendant's nursing programs often found themselves unable to practice in the nursing field after graduation or transfer their credits to a properly-accredited program, as CCNE-accreditation is required in several states." Id. Also, on January 26, 2010, a nursing student identified as Student 1 in the SAC, emailed South University, asserted that its website was misleading and confusing, demanded to know if the Nurse Practitioner program was accredited, and asked if she would be able to take her nursing board exams upon completion of the program. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 45. Continuing at least until March, 2011, there were students complaining about "being pushed into enrolling into South University's nursing programs without being told the programs were not CCNE-accredited at the time of their enrollment." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 46.

Misrepresentations as to Job Placement—SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 48–54

*11 Relator avers that Defendants consistently and routinely made false, erroneous or misleading statements concerning, inter alia, "data concerning employment statistics, graduation statistics, and any other information necessary to substantiate the truthfulness of the advertisements," in violation of 34 C.F.R. § 668.14(b)(10) which operates where an educational institution advertises job placement rates as a means of attracting students to enroll in the institution. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 48. The SAC alleges that Defendants' Recruiters "relied on internal documents for job placement statistics and, in 2009, told students that 87 percent of The Art Institutes graduates and 92 percent of South University graduates were employed in a field related to their studies ... [, and that] graduate statistics listed the average salary for South University graduates at $51,000, and the average salary for The Art Institutes graduates at $31,455," but that "Defendants' recruiters' sales pitches failed to inform students that Defendants kept two sets of job placement statistics: one set was kept for accrediting agencies, the other set was kept for prospective students, employers, and the 'investment community.' The differences between these two reports hinged on which graduates were counted in the statistics. Placement rates quoted to potential students eliminated graduates who were single, stay-at-home parents, as well as graduates with jobs outside their fields of study. These reductions artificially inflated the job placement rates." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 49–50. The SAC identifies additional misrepresentations regarding job placement statistics. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 51–53. For instance, Relator alleges that recruiters did not tell prospective students that graduates who only worked for one day, graduates whose jobs were only tangentially related to their program's core competencies, and graduates who were self-employed were included in the "for students" job placement statistics. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 51–53. [3]

Misrepresentations as to Cost—SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 55–60

Defendants' PPAs and 34 C.F.R. §§ 668.43 and 668.73 require that institutions "certify [that] their schools exhibited complete candor and honesty while informing students about the costs of attending their institutions, as well as the amounts borrowed on the students' behalves to finance their educations." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 55, 60. Paragraphs 56–59 offer some examples of how this obligation was allegedly skirted and how recruiters mislead prospective students about the costs of their programs. For instance, Relator asserts that drop-out students frequently complained about misleading information about total costs, Defendants trained recruiters to avoid speaking about the costs of a degree unless a prospective student repeatedly asked, and if a student asked, to give cost per credit hour of the course, not the total price of a program; recruiters also were trained not to discuss the number of credits the student would need to take and to be evasive in responding to cost questions. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 56–59.

Inadequate Tracking of Student Progress—SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 61–72

12 Relator further alleges that in "order for a school to participate in any federal grant or loan program," a student must maintain satisfactory progress in his or her course of study according to the educational institution's published standards of satisfactory progress," 34 C.F.R. § 668.32, and that the school "is required to establish, publish and apply reasonable standards for measuring whether an otherwise eligible student is maintaining satisfactory academic progress in his or her educational program. 34 C.F.R. § 668.16. Under 34 C.F.R. § 668.16(e)(3), an institution's policy is considered reasonable if it is applied consistently to all students, e.g., full-time, part-time, undergraduate and graduate." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 61–62. "The Satisfactory Academic Progress ('SAP') rules are meant to keep students from staying in school forever, as well as to keep colleges that receive federal funding for their students from milking the proverbial 'cash cow' forever." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 63.

Relator avers several ways and offers some examples in which Defendants' SAP rules were inconsistently applied, and the "satisfactory progress" requirements ignored or circumvented in order to maintain unqualified students on their rolls. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 64–72. For example, South University Online routinely failed to have any plan in place to calculate SAP for several hundred of its students each year, and despite its published policy, students at South University were frequently granted repeated appeals even after academic termination, and students were pressured to re-enroll by Defendants' admissions representatives, SAC (ECF No. 27), 65, 68. Moreover, EDMC did not have an attendance policy, and did not withdraw students who did not attend classes. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 71. Rather, EDMC implemented a policy that gave students who did not attend classes a grade of "F", allowing the student to stay on the rolls and EDMC to continue to receive federal aid for the non-attending student. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 71.

Incentive Compensation for Recruiters—SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 73–93

The Higher Education Act prohibits colleges and universities from providing "any commission, bonus, or other incentive payment ..." to recruiters based on recruiting activities. 20 U.S.C. § 1094(a)(2). DOE regulations and the PPAs also require educational institutions to abide by the incentive compensation ban. This is by far, the most detailed and substantial portion of the SAC, describing the mechanics and operation of Defendants' alleged incentive compensation program, which Relator claims, was in flagrant and knowing violation of the incentive compensation ban as set forth in statute, regulation and PPAs. This portion of the SAC also offers specifics about how Defendants allegedly accomplished circumvention of the incentive compensation ban. SAC (ECF No. 27), 75–93.

The Court will not get into those specifics, however, because any FCA claims regarding the incentive compensation ban are barred by the "first filed rule," as will be discussed infra.

13 For each of the above categories, Relator alleges that Defendants' PPAs required them to certify that they complied with all federal statutes and regulations governing Title IV, HEA programs, including the particular regulations identified for each category, and that every federal student aid application submitted from one of Defendants' schools that purposefully misled students or was made with knowledge that the school was not in compliance with the applicable regulation, was a false claim for payment.

In summary, Relator alleges that by Defendants' numerous false certifications to the government, Defendants "intentionally misled the United States to believe they were eligible to participate in Title IV, HEA programs when, in fact, they were not," that Defendants receive federal funds from several different Title IV, HEA programs in the form of grants and loans," and that because of Defendants' "false certifications as to eligibility to participate in Title IV, HEA programs, Defendants were able to receive federal funds in the form of Pell grants and federally guaranteed student loans that the United States, in many instances, ultimately will be forced to repay because of student defaults. Each of Defendants' requests for federal grants or guaranteed student loan money to which they were not entitled constituted a false claim to the United States." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 94–98.

False Claims Act Claims and Counts

Based on the foregoing averments of fact, Relator's Second Amended Complaint states the following six Counts:

- Count I—Violations of the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), prior to and after the amendments enacted on May 20, 2009. Misrepresentations As To Accreditation. "Through the knowing and intentional misrepresentations as to the accreditation of their MSN Nurse Practitioner and Accelerated RN to MSN nursing programs, Defendants and their agents and/or employees knowingly made false certifications and caused to be presented false and/or fraudulent claims, records and statements in order to obtain federal loans and grants for students enrolled at their campuses." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 99–105.

- Count II—Violations of the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), prior to and after the amendments enacted on May 20, 2009. Misrepresentations As To Job Placement. "Through the knowing and intentional misrepresentations as to their job placement statistics, Defendants and their agents and/or employees knowingly made false certifications and caused to be presented false and/or fraudulent claims, records and statements in order to obtain federal loans and grants for students enrolled at their campuses." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 106–112.

- Count III—Violations of the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), prior to and after the amendments enacted on May 20, 2009. Misrepresentations As To Cost. "Through the intentional and systemic misrepresentations as to the costs of Defendants' educational programs, Defendants and their agents and/or employees knowingly made false certifications and caused to be presented false and/or fraudulent claims, records and statements in order to obtain federal loans and grants for students enrolled at their campuses." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 113–119.

14 - Count IV—Violations of the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), prior to and after the amendments enacted on May 20, 2009. Failure To Adequately Track Student Progress. "Through the knowing and intentional failure to adequately track student progress at their institutions as required by federal regulations, Defendants and their agents and/or employees knowingly made false certifications and caused to be presented false and/or fraudulent claims, records and statements in order to obtain federal loans and grants for students enrolled at their campuses." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 120–126.

Count V—Violations of the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), prior to and after the amendments enacted on May 20, 2009. Violations Of The Incentive Compensation Ban. "Through the knowing and intentional violations of the Higher Education Act's Incentive Compensation Ban, Defendants and their agents and/or employees knowingly made false certifications and caused to be presented false and/or fraudulent claims, records and statements in order to obtain federal loans and grants for students enrolled at their campuses." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 127–133.

- Count VI—Violation of the Reverse False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), prior to and after the amendments enacted on May 20, 2009. "Through the acts described above, Defendants and their agents and employees intentionally and knowingly failed to report students who should have been dropped from Defendants' schools due to attendance violations and/or enrollment into programs falsely certified by Defendants in order to "conceal, avoid, or decrease" an obligation by Defendants to return federal funding in the form of Pell grants and federally guaranteed loans to the government." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 134–139.

For each of Counts I through V, Relator asserts:

> Under the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), in effect prior to May 20, 2009, Defendants have violated:
>
> (a) 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1) by knowingly presenting, or causing to be presented, to an officer or employee of the United States Government or a member of the Armed Forces of the United States a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; and/or
>
> (b) 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(2) by knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used a false record or statement to get a false or fraudulent claim paid or approved by the Government.
>
> Under the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1), as amended on May 20, 2009, Defendants have violated:
>
> (a) 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(A) by knowingly presenting, or causing to be presented, a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval; and/or
>
> (b) 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(B) by knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim.

SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 102–103, 109–110, 116–117, 123–124, and 130–131.

As to Count VI, Reverse False Claims, Relator alleges that under the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a) in effect prior to May 20, 2009, "Defendants have violated 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(7) by knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used, a false record or statement to conceal, avoid, or decrease an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the government," and under the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1) as amended on May 20, 2009, Defendants have violated 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(G) by knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used, a false record or statement material to an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the Government, or knowingly concealing or knowingly and improperly avoiding or decreasing an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the Government." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 137–38.

15 Relator demands a jury trial, and seeks injunctive and monetary relief, including: that Defendants cease and desist; that Defendants pay an amount equal to three times the amount of damages the United States has sustained because of Defendants' actions, that Defendants pay maximum civil penalties allowed for each false or fraudulent claim presented to the United States, and that he be awarded the maximum amount allowable to a relator pursuant to the Federal False Claims Act; costs, attorneys' fees and other just relief.

C. EDMC's Motion to Dismiss

EDMC filed a motion to dismiss and brief in support vigorously challenging jurisdiction to entertain most of Relator's claims, and the adequacy and sufficiency of Relator's FCA claims for a variety of reasons.

EDMC's motion to dismiss raises the following challenges to the SAC: (1) the compensation claim in Count V is jurisdictionally barred by the FCA's "first filed" provision, 31 U.S.C. § 3730(b) (5); (2) the misrepresentation claims in Counts I, II, and III, and the SAP allegations in Count IV do not satisfy Fed.R.Civ.P. 8 and 9(b), because (a) Mr. Sobek cannot plausibly allege that any fraud occurred over an eight-year period or at Argosy University and the Art Institutes, when he only worked for EDMC for a "sliver" of time and had nothing to do with Argosy or the Art Institutes, (b) the complaint does not plead plausible or particularized factual allegations to support the misrepresentation claims, and (c) the SAP allegations in Count IV are insufficiently pled; (3) Relator fails to allege essential elements under the FCA, including scienter, failure to allege any regulatory violations with regard to Counts II–IV, and failure to allege violation of any condition of payment, as opposed to a condition of participation in the financial aid programs; (4) "other jurisdictional flaws" undermine the SAC, namely the job placement misrepresentation claim is precluded by the public disclosure bar of the FCA, 31 U.S.C. § 3730(e)(4)(a), and the doctrine of primary jurisdiction demands judicial deference to DOE enforcement procedures with respect to Counts II–IV; and (5) that Count VI of the SAC fails to state a claim for reverse false certification. (In Education Management Corp., EDMC raised a number of similar issues.[4])

D. Legal Analysis

1. Pleading Standards Under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure

a. Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(6)

In light of the Supreme Court's decision in Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007), a complaint may be dismissed pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) if it does not allege "enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Phillips v. Co. of Allegheny, 515 F.3d 224, 234 (3d Cir.2008) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570). While Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41, 4546, 78 S.Ct. 99, 2 L.Ed.2d 80 (1957) allowed dismissal of a claim only if "no set of facts" could support it, under Twombly, and Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009), a claim for relief under Rule 12(b) (6) now "requires more than labels and conclusions" or "a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555; Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678.

16 In Iqbal, the Supreme Court held that a claim is facially plausible when its factual content "allows the court to draw a reasonable inference" that the defendants are liable for the misconduct alleged. Fowler v. UPMC Shadyside, 578 F.3d 203 (3d Cir.2009) (quoting Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 679). The plausibility standard in Iqbal "asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 670. While well-pleaded factual content is accepted as true for purposes of whether the complaint states a plausible claim for relief, legal conclusions couched as factual allegations or "[t]hreadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements," are not entitled to an assumption of truth. Id. at 678. "Where the well-pleaded facts do not permit the court to infer more than a mere possibility of misconduct, the complaint has alleged—but it has not 'show[n]'—'that the pleader is entitled to relief.' " Id. at 679 (quoting Fed. R. Civ, P. 8(a)(2)). In order to satisfy the requirement of Fed.R.Civ.P. 8(a)(2) that a plaintiff include a "short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief," a plaintiff must aver sufficient factual allegations which "nudge" its claims "across the line from conceivable to plausible." Id.

As the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit explained in Fowler, 578 F.3d at 210–11:

> The Supreme Court's opinion in Iqbal extends the reach of Twombly, instructing that all civil complaints must contain "more than an unadorned, the-defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation." Iqbal, 129 S.Ct. at 1949.
>
> Therefore, after Iqbal, when presented with a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, district courts should conduct a two-part analysis. First, the factual and legal elements of a claim should be separated. The District Court must accept all of the complaint's well-pleaded facts as true, but may disregard any legal conclusions. Id. Second, a District Court must then determine whether the facts alleged in the complaint are sufficient to show that the plaintiff has a "plausible claim for relief." Id. at 1950, In other words, a complaint must do more than allege the plaintiffs entitlement to relief. A complaint has to "show" such an entitlement with its facts. See Phillips, 515 F.3d at 234–35. As the Supreme Court instructed in Iqbal, ... [the] "plausibility" determination will be "a context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial experience and common sense." Id.

See also Santiago v. Warminster Twp., 629 F.3d 121, 130 (3d Cir.2010) (quoting Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 679). To determine the sufficiency of a complaint under Twombly and Iqbal, the court must take note of the "elements a plaintiff must plead to state a claim," identify allegations that, "because they are no more than conclusions, are not entitled to the assumption of truth," and finally, "where there are well-pleaded factual allegations, a court should assume their veracity and then determine whether they plausibly give rise to an entitlement for relief." Santiago, 629 F.3d at 130 (quoting Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 674, 679, internal quotation marks omitted).

17 In considering a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, a court accepts all of the plaintiff's allegations as true and construes all inferences in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Umland v. Planco Fin. Servs., 542 F.3d 59, 64 (3d Cir.2008) (citing Buck v. Hampton Twp. Sch. Dist., 452 F.3d 256, 260 (3d Cir., 2006)). However, a court will not accept bald assertions, unwarranted inferences, or sweeping legal conclusions cast in the form of factual allegations. See In re Rockefeller Ctr. Props., Inc. Sec. Litig., 311 F.3d 198, 215 (3d Cir.2002); Morse v. Lower Merion Sch. Dist., 132 F.3d 902, 906 n. 8 (3d Cir.1997). A court is not required to consider legal conclusions; rather, it should determine whether the plaintiff should be permitted to offer evidence in support of the allegations. Maio v. Aetna, 221 F.3d 472, 482 (3d Cir.2000).

Therefore, a plaintiff must put forth sufficient facts that, when taken as true, suggest the required elements of a particular legal theory. See Wilkerson v. New Media Tech. Charter Sch., Inc., 522 F.3d 315 (3d Cir.2008) (citing Phillips, 515 F.3d at 224). However, this standard does not impose a heightened burden on the claimant above that already required by Rule 8, but instead calls for fair notice of the factual basis of a claim while raising a "reasonable expectation that discovery will reveal evidence of the necessary element." Weaver v. UPMC, Civil Action No. 08–411, 2008 WL 2942139, *3 (W.D.Pa., July 30, 2008) (citing Phillips, 515 F.3d at 234; and Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555).

b. Fed.R.Civ.P. 8

Twombly and Iqbal have not changed the other pleading standards for a motion to dismiss pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b) (6), and the requirements of Fed.R.Civ.P. 8 must still be met. See Burtch, 662 F.3d at 220. Rule 8 requires a showing, rather than a blanket assertion, of entitlement to relief, and "contemplates the statement of circumstances, occurrences, and events in support of the claim presented and does not authorize a pleader's bare averment that he wants relief and is entitled to it." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555 n. 3 (internal alterations, citations, and quotations omitted). The Supreme Court has explained that a complaint need not be "a model of the careful drafter's art" or "pin plaintiffs' claim for relief to a precise legal theory" so long as it states "a plausible 'short and plain' statement of the plaintiffs' claim." Skinner v. Switzer, — U.S. ——, 131 S.Ct. 1289, 1296, 179 L.Ed.2d 233 (2011); see also Matrixx Initiatives, Inc. v. Siracusano, — U.S. ——, 131 S.Ct. 1309, 1322 n. 12, 179 L.Ed.2d 398 (2011) (emphasizing that "to survive a motion to dismiss, respondents need only allege 'enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face' ") (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570)).

As United States District Judge Terrance McVerry further explained recently:

> [N]othing in Twombly or Iqbal has changed the other pleading standards for a motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b) (6). That is, the Supreme Court did not impose a new, heightened pleading requirement, but reaffirmed that Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8 requires only a short, plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief, not "detailed factual allegations." ... Additionally, the Supreme Court did not abolish the Rule 12(b)(6) requirement that "the facts alleged must be taken as true and a complaint may not be dismissed merely because it appears unlikely that the plaintiff can prove those facts or will ultimately prevail on the merits."

18 Education Management Corp., 2012 WL 1658482, at *6 (citations omitted).

c. Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b)

In Education Management Corp., Judge McVerry thoroughly discussed the "more-rigorous pleading standard in Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b)," as follows:

> The imposition of a heightened pleading requirement in fraud actions serves important objectives: "Rule 9(b)'s heightened pleading standard gives defendants notice of the claims against them, provides an increased measure of protection for their reputations, and reduces the number of frivolous suits brought solely to extract settlements." In re Burlington Coat Factory Securities Litigation, 114 F.3d 1410, 1418 (3d Cir.1997). See also Illinois Nat. Ins. Co. v. Wyndham Worldwide Operations, Inc., 653 F.3d 225, 232–33 (3d Cir.2011) ("Rule 9(b) exists to insure adequate notice so that defendants can intelligently respond.").

A plaintiff alleging fraud must state the circumstances of the alleged fraud with sufficient particularity to place the defendant on notice of the "precise misconduct with which [it is] charged." hum v. Bank of America, 361 F.3d 217, 223–224 (3d Cir.2004) (abrogated on other grounds by Twombly). To satisfy this standard, the plaintiff must plead or allege the date, time and place of the alleged fraud or otherwise inject precision or some measure of substantiation into a fraud allegation. See id. at 224; Frederico v. Home Depot, 507 F.3d 188, 200 (3d Cir.2007) (same); In re Advanta Corp. Sec. Litig., 180 F.3d 525, 534 (3d Cir.1999) (noting that plaintiffs averring securities fraud claims must specify "the who, what, when, where, and how: the first paragraph of any newspaper story.").

"Malice, intent, knowledge, and other conditions of a person's mind may be alleged generally." Fed.R.Civ.P. 9(b). The Supreme Court has explained that "generally" is a relative term: "In the context of Rule 9, it is to be compared to the particularity requirement applicable to fraud or mistake. Rule 9 merely excuses a party from pleading discriminatory intent under an elevated pleading standard. It does not give him license to evade the less rigid-though still operative—strictures of Rule 8." Iqbal, 129 S.Ct. at 1954; But see Morganroth & Morganroth v. Norris, McLaughlin & Marcus, P.C., 331 F.3d 406, 414 n. 2 (3d Cir.2003) ("The purpose of Rule 9(b) is to provide notice, not to test the factual allegations of the claim.")

Moreover, in Craftmatic Securities Litigation v. Kraftsow, 890 F.2d 628 (3d Cir.1989), the Court of Appeals explained that Rule 9 must be applied flexibly to alleged corporate fraud:

> Courts must be sensitive to the fact that application of Rule 9(b) prior to discovery "may permit sophisticated defrauders to successfully conceal the details of their fraud*."* Particularly in cases of corporate fraud, plaintiffs cannot be expected to have personal knowledge of the details of corporate internal affairs. Thus, courts have relaxed the rule when factual information is peculiarly within the defendant's knowledge or control. We agree that rigid enforcement in such circumstances could permit "sophisticated defrauders" to avoid liability. Nonetheless, even under a non-restrictive application of the rule, pleaders must allege that the necessary information lies within defendants' control, and their allegations must be accompanied by a statement of the facts upon which the allegations are based. Id. at 645 (citations omitted).

19 2012 WL 1658482 at *6–*7 (emphasis added).

The Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit has stated that the "time, place, contents, and identity" standard is not a straitjacket [but rather], ... the rule is context specific and flexible and must remain so to achieve the remedial purpose of the False Claim Act." United States ex rel. Grubbs v. Kanneganti, 565 F.3d 180, 190 (5th Cir.2009) (relied upon and quoted in United States v. Albinson, Civil Action No. 09–1791, 2010 WL 3258266, *16 (D.N.J. August 16, 2010)). Attempting to "effectuate[ ] Rule 9(b) without stymieing legitimate efforts to expose fraud," the Kanneganti Court held that "to plead with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud for a False Claims Act § 3729(a) (1) claim, a relator's complaint, if it cannot allege the details of an actually submitted false claim, may nevertheless survive by alleging particular details of a scheme to submit false claims paired with reliable indicia that lead to a strong inference that claims were actually submitted." 565 F.3d at 190–91. "Other courts have also recognized that Rule 9(b) in the context of the FCA does not provide courts with a mandatory checklist of what must be included in the complaint." Albinson, 2012 WL 3258266 at *16 (quoting United States ex rel. Karvelas v. Melrose–Wakefield Hosp., 360 F.3d 220, 232 (1st Cir.2004)).

2. FCA Law

a. Introduction

"The primary purpose of the FCA 'is to indemnify the government—through its restitutionary penalty provisions—against losses caused by a defendant's fraud.' " United States ex rel. Wilkins v. United Health Grp., 659 F.3d 295, 305 (3d Cir.2011) (quoting Mikes v. Straus, 274 F.3d 687, 696 (2d Cir.2001)). Congress intended the FCA "to reach all types of fraud, without qualification, that might result in financial loss to the government ." United States v. Neifert–White Co., 390 U.S. 228, 232, 88 S.Ct. 959, 19 L.Ed.2d 1061 (1968).

The battleground of FCA litigation over alleged false claims, and in particular, over alleged false certifications of eligibility for Title IV, HEA financial aid programs by institutes of higher learning, has been charted many times and need not be meticulously re-charted in this case, although the broadside fired by EDMC at Relator's FCA claims can be previewed and understood by referencing a few of these cases, starting with Education Management Corp., and several incentive compensation ban, circuit court of appeals decisions relied upon therein: United States ex rel. Lee v. Corinthian Coll., 655 F.3d 984 (9th Cir., 2011); United States ex rel. Hen dow v. Univ. of Phoenix, 461 F.3d 1166 (9th Cir.2006); and United States ex rel. Main v. Oakland City Univ., 426 F.3d 914 (7th Cir.2005). See also ex rel. Onnen v. Sioux Falls Ind. Sch., 688 F.3d 410 (8th Cir.2012). Those cases render a comprehensive picture of the process of applying for eligibility and receiving financial aid, either directly or indirectly to students, pursuant to Title IV and the Higher Education Act, and the concerns perceived by many educators, legislators and courts since for-profit schools have gotten involved with Title IV, HEA funding streams in a big way.

20 Without delving into too much detail, the Hen dow Court stated the following background;

> When an educational institution wishes to receive federal subsidies under Title IV and the Higher Education Act, it must enter into a Program Participation Agreement with the Department of Education (DOE), in which it agrees to abide by a panoply of statutory, regulatory, and contractual requirements. One of these requirements is a ban on incentive compensation: a ban on the institution's paying recruiters on a per-student basis. The ban prohibits schools from "provid[ing] any commission, bonus, or other incentive payment based directly or indirectly on success in securing enrollments or financial aid to any persons or entities engaged in any student recruiting or admission activities or in making decisions regarding the award of student financial assistance ." 20 U.S.C. § 1094(a)(20). This requirement is meant to curb the risk that recruiters will "sign up poorly qualified students who will derive little benefit from the subsidy and may be unable or unwilling to repay federally guaranteed loans." United States ex rel. Main v. Oakland City Univ., 426 F.3d 914, 916 (7th Cir.2005), cert. denied, 547 U.S. 1071, 126 S.Ct. 1786, 164 L.Ed.2d 519 (2006). The ban was enacted based on evidence of serious program abuses. See S.Rep. No. 102–58, at 8 (1991) ("Abuses in Federal Student Aid Programs") (noting testimony "that contests were held whereby sales representatives earned incentive awards for enrolling the highest number of student[s] for a given period"); H.R.Rep. No. 102–447, at 10, reprinted in 1992 U.S.C.C.A.N. 334, 343 (noting that the "new provisions include prohibiting the use of commissioned sales persons and recruiters").
>
> This case involves allegations under the False Claims Act that the University of Phoenix (the University) knowingly made false promises to comply with the incentive compensation ban in order to become eligible to receive Title IV funds.

461 F.3d at 1168–1169 (emphasis added). See also Education Management Corp., 2012 WL 1658482, *1–*2 (denying EDMC's motion to dismiss where Plaintiffs alleged EDMC paid incentive compensation to recruiters to attend their numerous affiliated schools, in violation of Title IV of HEA, 20 U.S.C. § 1070 et seq., and EDMC's PPAs, and that, therefore, EDMC falsely represented its eligibility to receive federal student aid funds) (quoting Assoc. of Accredited Cosmetology Sch. v. Alexander, 979 F.2d 859, 860 (D.C.Cir.1992) for succinct summary of how student financial aid programs are structured); United States v. ITT Educ. Serv., Inc., Civil Action No. 07–0867, 2012 WL 266943 (S.D.Ind., January 30, 2012); United States ex rel. Lopez v. Strayer Educ., Inc., 698 F.Supp.2d 633, 635 (E.D.Va.2010); United States ex rel. Torres v. Kaplan Higher Educ. Corp., Civil Action No. 09–21773, 2011 WL 3704707 (S.D.Fla., August 23, 2011).

b. False Certification Theory

21 Education Management Corp., provides the template for this Court's decision. Education Management Corp., held, inter alia, that the Relators' and Intervenors' complaint adequately pled that the Defendants violated the incentive compensation ban set forth in statute, regulations and the PPAs, and so, stated a viable FCA claim under the "false certification theory" adopted by the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit in United States ex rel. Wilkins v. United Health Grp., 659 F.3d 295 (3d Cir.2011). In Wilkins, the Court of Appeals considered and adopted the "false certification" theory in the health care arena, stating:

> A plaintiff, in order to establish a prima facie FCA violation under section 3729(a)(1), must prove that "(1) the defendant presented or caused to be presented to an agent of the United States a claim for payment; (2) the claim was false or fraudulent; and (3) the defendant knew the claim was false or fraudulent." U.S. ex rel. Schmidt v. Zimmer, Inc., 386 F.3d 235, 242 (3d Cir.2004) (internal quotation marks omitted); Hutchins v. Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, 253 F.3d 176, 182 (3d Cir.2001)....
>
> There are two categories of false claims under the FCA: a factually false claim and a legally false claim. U.S. ex rel. Conner v. Salina Reg'l Health Ctr., Inc., 543 F.3d 1211, 1217 (10th Cir.2008). A claim is factually false when the claimant misrepresents what goods or services that it provided to the Government and a claim is legally false when the claimant knowingly falsely certifies that it has complied with a statute or regulation the compliance with which is a condition for Government payment. Id. A legally false FCA claim is based on a "false certification" theory of liability. See Rodriguez v. Our Lady of Lourdes Med. Ctr., 552 F.3d 297, 303 (3d Cir.2008), overruled in part on other grounds by U.S. ex rel. Eisenstein v. City of New York, 556 U.S. 928, 129 S.Ct. 2230, 173 L.Ed.2d 1255 (2009). On this appeal, we are concerned only with allegedly legally false claims related to appellees' eligibility to receive payment, as appellants do not contend that appellees did not deliver the services for which they sought payment.
>
> There is a further division of categories of claims as the courts have recognized that there are two types of false certifications, express and implied. See, e.g., Conner, 543 F.3d at 1217.

Wilkins, 659 F.3d at 304–05 (emphasis added).

Judge McVerry in turn applied the false certification theory in Education Management Corp. in the Title IV, HEA incentive compensation ban context, to analyze whether Relators had stated a prima facie case under the FCA:

> Count I of the Relator Complaint asserts a claim under the federal False Claims Act. Count I of the Intervenor Complaint is based on a violation of the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a) (1), which was in effect from July 1, 2003 to May 20, 2009. Counts II and III are based on the False Claims Act, as amended by the Fraud Enforcement and Recovery Act of 2009 ("FERA"), enacted at 31 U.S.C. §§ 3729(a)(1)(A) and (a)(1)(B), respectively. The parties have not pointed to substantive differences between the versions of the statute. Under each version, the elements of a prima facie case under the federal False Claims Act are: (1) the defendant presented a false or fraudulent claim against the United States; (2) the claim was presented to an agency or contractor of the United States; and (3) the defendant knew the claim was false or fraudulent. See Wilkins, 659 F.3d at 305; United States v. Thayer, 201 F.3d 214, 222–23 (3d Cir.1999). [5]

22 * * *

> Plaintiffs contend that the falsity element of the prima facie case is established under several different theories. In Wilkins, the Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit held that a False Claims Act cause of action may be based on actions that are: (1) "factually false"; or (2) "legally false." 659 F.3d at 305. A claim is "factually false" when the claimant misrepresents the goods or services that it provided to the Government. Id. A claim is "legally false" when the claimant knowingly falsely certifies that it has complied with a statute or regulation, the compliance with which is a condition of Government payment. Id. There are two types of "legally false" claims. Under the "express false certification" theory, an entity is liable under the FCA for falsely certifying that it is in compliance with regulations which are prerequisites to Government payment in connection with the claim for payment of federal funds. Id. Under the broader "implied false certification" theory adopted in Wilkins, liability attaches when a claimant seeks and makes a claim for payment from the Government without disclosing that it has violated regulations that affect its eligibility for payment. Id. As the Wilkins Court explained: "Thus, an implied false certification theory of liability is premised on the notion that the act of submitting a claim for reimbursement itself implies compliance with governing federal rules that are a precondition to payment." Id. (citation omitted). Several courts have also recognized False Claims Act liability for violations of the Incentive Compensation Ban under a fourth theory, namely fraudulent inducement. See Hen dow, 461 F.3d at 1173–74.

2012 WL 1658482, *8, *13 (footnotes omitted; emphasis added).

While most if not all of these theories are arguably applicable to the allegations set forth herein, suffice it to treat Relator's FCA claims in Counts I through V as stating an "express false certification" theory, since these claims are predicated on Defendants' false certification of compliance with conditions of eligibility for payment under Title IV, HEA, DOE regulations, and the PPAs; without certifying their compliance, Defendants would not be eligible and could not participate in the Title IV financial aid funding streams.

The Court will review EDMC's challenges to the SAC within this framework, after setting forth the most pertinent provisions of the PPA attached as Exhibit 2 to EDMC's brief in support of its motion to dismiss. [6] (ECF No. 49–3)

c. Program Participation Agreement

The exemplar PPA, entitled "Federal Student Aid School Eligibility Channel," states on its cover page: "The execution of this Agreement by the Institution and the Secretary is a prerequisite to the Institution's initial or continued participation in any Title IV, HEA Program." (ECF No. 49–3 at 2) (emphasis added). The Preamble and Scope of Coverage sections provide that the Institution, here EDMC, and the Secretary of Education "agree that the Institution may participate in those student financial assistance programs authorized by Title IV of the [HEA] ... and further agrees that such participation is subject to the terms and conditions set forth in this Agreement.... This Agreement covers the Institution's eligibility to participate" in the following enumerated Title IV, HEA programs: the Federal Pell Grant Program, Federal Family Education Loan Program, Federal Direct Student Loan Program, Federal Perkins Loan Program, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Program, and the Federal Work–Study Program. Exhibit 2, (ECF No. 49–3 at 3) (statutory and regulatory citations omitted; emphasis added).

23 In its General Terms and Conditions, the PPA states that the "Institution understands and agrees that it is subject to and will comply with the program statutes and implementing regulations for institutional eligibility as set forth in 34 CFR Part 600 and for each Title IV, HEA program in which it participates, as well as the general provisions set forth in Part F and Part G of Title IV of the HEA, and the Student Assistance General Provisions regulations set forth in 34 CFR Part 668." Exhibit 2, (ECF No. 49–3 at 3–4) (emphasis added). The PPA then lists certain selected provisions from General Provisions, 34 C.F.R. Part 668 with which EDMC has agreed to comply as conditions of eligibility for the financial aid programs, including the following:

> (4) It will establish and maintain such administrative and fiscal procedures and records as may be necessary to ensure proper and efficient administration of funds received from the Secretary or from students under the Title IV, HEA programs, together with assurances that the institution will provide, upon request and in a timely manner, information relating to the administrative capability and financial responsibility of the institution ... [to various state and federal and local entities];
>
> * * *
>
> (6) It will comply with the provisions of § 668.16 relating to standards of administrative capability;
>
> * * *
>
> (9) It will comply with the requirements of Subpart D of 34 CFR part §§ 668 concerning institutional and financial assistance information for students and prospective students;
>
> (10) In the case of an institution that advertises job placement rates as a means of attracting students to enroll in the institution, it will make available to prospective students, at or before the time that those students apply for enrollment—(i) The most recent available data concerning employment statistics, graduation statistics, and any other information necessary to substantiate the truthfulness of the advertisements; and (ii) Relevant State licensing requirements of the State in which the institution is located for any job for which an educational program offered by the institution is designed to prepare those prospective students;
>
> * * *
>
> (22) It will not provide, nor contract with any entity that provides, any commission, bonus, or other incentive payment based directly or indirectly on > success in securing enrollments or financial aid to any persons or entities engaged in any student recruiting or admission activities or in making decisions regarding the awarding of student financial assistance, except that this requirement shall not apply to the recruitment of foreign students residing in foreign countries who are not eligible to receive Federal Student Assistance....

Exhibit 2, (ECF No. 49–3 at 5–9) (emphasis added).

The PPA attached as Exhibit 2 was executed in December 2006 on EDMC's behalf by John R. McKernan, Jr., Chairman and CEO of EDMC, Exhibit 2, (ECF No. 49–3 at 20), who apparently signed and submitted the PPAs on behalf of all EDMC institutions from December 2006 through 2008. See Education Management Corp., 2012 WL 1658482, *16.

24 Similarly, the HEA provides: "(a) Required for programs of assistance ... In order to be an eligible institution ..., an institution must be an institution of higher education ... and shall ... enter into a program participation agreement with the Secretary. The agreement shall condition the initial and continuing eligibility of an institution to participate in a program upon compliance with" a number of requirements reflected in DOE regulations and the PPAs. 20 U.S.C. § 1094(a) (emphasis added).

3. EDMC'S Motion to Dismiss

In light of the pleading and substantive standards set forth above, the Court will review Defendants' challenges to Relator's SAC, not necessarily in the order raised.

a. The incentive compensation ban claim at Count V is precluded by the "first filed" rule.

Relator concedes that the false certification claims filed against EDMC in United States ex rel. Washington v. Education Management Corporation based on Defendants' violation of the incentive compensation ban and knowingly false certifications of compliance, which survived Defendants' motion to dismiss, preclude him from raising the same claims in this case. See United States ex rel. LaCorte v. Smithkline Beecham Clinical Lab., Inc., 149 F.3d 227, 229 (3d Cir.1998) ("no qui tarn plaintiff may recover for a false claim or share in a government settlement if his or her allegations repeat claims in a previously filed action"). Count V must, therefore, be dismissed with prejudice.

b. The misrepresentation claims in Counts I, II, and III, and the SAP allegations in Count IV satisfy Fed.R.Civ.P. 8 and 9(b).

EDMC argues that Relator cannot plausibly allege that any fraud occurred over an eight-year period or at Argosy University and the Art Institutes, when he only worked for EDMC—South University Online, for a "sliver" of time and had nothing to do with Argosy or the Art Institutes. EDMC made similar arguments on the motion to dismiss in Education Management Corp., without success.

As Judge McVerry stated in that related case:

> Plaintiffs allege that EDMC corporate headquarters signed and submitted the PPA's on behalf of all of its related educational institutions.... In addition, Plaintiffs aver that the compensation plan was developed by an EDMC-wide task force.... Because government funding represented such a significant source of EDMC's revenues, it is plausible that any conduct which would have imperiled those revenues, such as the alleged violations of the Incentive Compensation Ban, would have required approval from the highest levels of EDMC management. In sum, Plaintiffs have pled the involvement and knowledge of senior EDMC executives. Because Plaintiffs' theory is that there was one, EDMC-wide scheme controlled by top-level executives, it is not necessary to allege separate conduct by each of the affiliated schools named as Defendants.

Education Management Corp., 2012 WL 1658482, at *16 (emphasis added).

25 Relator Sobek was a Project Associate Director of Admissions ("ADA") for EDMC Online Higher Education's South University brand in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania from June 2008 until November 2010; Relator Washington in the related Education Management Corp. was also an ADA for EDMC who did not work at each affiliate school nor did she work for the entire time period of the fraud claimed. As an ADA, it is plausible that Sobek acquired knowledge of EDMC system-wide corporate policies designed and utilized in service of the overarching, system-wide false certification financial aid scheme alleged, and spanning a longer period of time than his actual employment period of almost two and one-half years. ("Relator's role allowed him wide access to enrollment data, reports, training materials, and memoranda detailing the policies related to EDMC...." SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 9).

For the reasons set forth in Education Management Corp., this Court finds that Relator Sobek's FCA claims survive despite his limited time (two and one-half years cannot reasonably be considered a "sliver" of time) and the fact he did not work directly at Argosy or the Art Institutes. 2012 WL 1658482, at *12–*18.

c. The SAC adequately avers the elements of the FCA claims, and the facts in support of the misrepresentation claims in Counts I, II and SAP allegations in Count IV are sufficiently pled.

After careful consideration of the averments of fact supporting Counts I, II, IV and V, which are assumed to be true at this stage of proceedings, the Court finds that Relator has stated sufficient facts which plausibly state the elements of FCA claims under 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a), based upon misrepresentations as to accreditation (Count I), job placement (Count II), tracking student progress (Count IV), and the incentive compensation ban (Count V), although Count V should be dismissed pursuant to the first filed rule.

Relator has made plausible and particularized factual allegations in Counts I, II, IV and V of his SAC, read in its entirety and assuming the truth of the factual allegations. In fact, the SAC is quite detailed with regard to the nature of the alleged fraudulent scheme and those counts, SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 48–93, and provides adequate notice to Defendants of the conduct Relator asserts constitutes FCA fraud under 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a). Counts I through V identify five ways in which Defendants' certifications of compliance are allegedly false; all of them arise from the same source of conditions for eligibility for the financial aid funding streams the HEA, DOE regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 668, and the PPAs. Defendants' obligations to present honest, accurate information to prospective and enrolled students with regard to the cost of educational programs and degrees, job placement statistics and accreditation, are all prerequisites to eligibility to participate in the federal financial aid programs, just as much as the obligation to honor the incentive compensation ban.

26 Certifications of compliance made despite knowing violations of the incentive compensation ban expose educational institutions to liability under the FCA. Because the other prerequisites of eligibility arise from the same statutory, regulatory and contractual sources and serve the same purpose of protecting the federal fisc and prospective and enrolled students, knowingly false certifications of compliance with these other prerequisites similarly expose educational institutions to liability under the FCA. Count V is precluded by the first filed rule, but Counts I, II and IV should remain in the case.

As to Count III, however, the Court finds that Relator has failed to allege sufficient facts to sustain his claim that Defendants executed false certifications of compliance with regard to their obligation to give accurate information about the cost of the educational programs to students. The averments made regarding the alleged misrepresentations underlying Count III are non-specific and vague, (e.g., "students frequently [complained] that they were misled about costs," SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 56), and unlike recitations of the facts supporting the other Counts, include no examples of the complained of misrepresentations, and do not otherwise "inject precision or some measure of substantiation" into this fraud allegation. The Court recommends that Count III be dismissed with prejudice, because Relator has had two opportunities to flesh out this claim and apparently is unable to do so.

As to the scienter element, the FCA requires a defendant to have acted "knowing" or "knowingly," and defines these terms to mean: (A) that a person, with respect to information-(i) has actual knowledge of the information; (ii) acts in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information; or (iii) acts in reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information; and (B) requires no proof of specific intent to defraud. 31 U.S.C. § 3729(b)(1). As Judge McVerry held in Education Management Corp., scienter can be pled generally under Rule 9(b), but the complaint still must state with some particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake.

Reviewing the complaint in its entirety in Education Management Corp., Judge McVerry had little difficulty finding that "the scienter allegations satisfy the applicable pleading standard. It will be incumbent upon Plaintiffs to prove that EDMC acted with the requisite scienter, but dismissal is not warranted at this stage of the case." 2012 WL 1658482, at *18. So too herein, averments supporting the requisite scienter are set forth throughout the SAC with more than adequate particularity. See e.g., SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶¶ 2, 21–23, 25–26, 28, 94–98.

d. Relator adequately alleges violation of prerequisite conditions of eligibility, and not mere regulatory infractions regarding "conditions of participation," and the doctrine of primary jurisdiction does not demand judicial deference to DOE regulatory enforcement procedures in lieu of FCA claims.

27 Defendants argue that if any instance of alleged regulatory noncompliance were enough to state an FCA claim, then "every entity that does business with the government and promises not to violate the law could face litigation seeking to compel the return ... of all federal monies it received based on the slightest allegation of illegality .... [and the FCA] would become exactly the kind of 'blunt instrument to enforce compliance with all ... regulations' that the Third Circuit and other courts of appeals prohibit." Brief for Defendants at 26, (ECF No. 49 at 33). "Were he able to state an FCA claim," the argument continues, "Mr. Sobek would effectively convert federal courts into super-agencies with first-line responsibility for interpreting, enforcing, and sometimes creating new administrative obligations." Id. at 29, (ECF No. 49 at 36). Relying largely on Wilkins, EDMC argues that in "other words, federal regulations that do not 'require perfect compliance as an absolute condition for receiving' payment, but rely on an 'administrative mechanism for managing and correcting [regulatory] violations which includes remedies for violations other than the withholding of payment otherwise due' cannot give rise to FCA claims." Id. at 26–27, (ECF No. 49 at 33–34).

In a related jurisdictional argument, EDMC contends that the "administrative discretion built into DOE's misrepresentation and SAP regulations prevent Mr. Sobek from pursuing Counts I, II, III, and IV for another reason besides the condition-of-payment requirement. Where 'enforcement of [a] claim requires the resolution of issues which, under a regulatory scheme, have been placed within the special competence of an administrative body,' ... deference to that agency under the doctrine of primary jurisdiction" is required. Id. at 32, (ECF No. 49 at 39).

These variations on a theme need not long detain us. In Education Management Corp., the Court stated:

> EDMC argues that even assuming arguendo that it paid ADAs improperly, the False Claims Act claims must be dismissed because compliance with the Incentive Compensation Ban was a "condition of participation" rather than a "condition of payment." In other words, EDMC might face a loss of eligibility to participate in student aid, but payments EDMC has already received would not be implicated. In essence, EDMC contends that ADA compensation is not a core programmatic concern such that compliance with the Incentive Compensation Ban should be enforced administratively by the Department of Education rather than through the drastic penalties available under the False Claims Act.
>
> * * *
>
> [Wilkins] explained that the False Claims Act "was not designed for use as a blunt instrument to enforce compliance with all medical regulations—but rather only those regulations that are a precondition to payment." Id. (citation omitted). A violation concerns a "condition of payment" if such violation "might cause [the government] to actually refuse payment." Id. (citing United States ex rel. Conner v. Salina Regional Health Center, Inc., 543 F.3d 1211, 1220 (10th Cir.2008)).....

28 This case is distinguishable from Wilkins because the Incentive Compensation Ban is simply not analogous to Medicare marketing regulations. In Hen dow, 461 F.3d at 1175, the Court distinguished the Medicare context and rejected the argument that "the Incentive Compensation Ban [was] nothing more than one of hundreds of boilerplate requirements." 461 F.3d at 1175. The Court further reasoned that in the absence of False Claims Act liability, "the University would be virtually unfettered in its ability to receive funds from the government while flouting the law." Id. at 1176. Accord Main, 426 F.3d at 914 ("if the University knew about the rule and told the Department that it would comply, while planning to do otherwise, it is exposed to penalties under the False Claims Act"). In Conner, 543 F.3d at 1222, the Court explicitly stated that the Incentive Compensation Ban at issue in Hendow provided a "telling contrast" to an alleged violation of Medicare regulations. Wilkins cited Conner with approval and did not disavow or disagree with Hendow or Main. In sum, Wilkins does not mandate dismissal as a matter of law.

In summary, the Court will deny the motion to dismiss the False Claims Act challenges to the Plan "as implemented." This theory is inherently difficult to resolve at the motion to dismiss stage. The Complaint provides adequate notice of Plaintiffs' theory, such that EDMC is able to prepare a responsive pleading. It will be incumbent upon Plaintiffs to develop admissible evidence to support the theory, but they have adequately pled a cognizable claim.

2012 WL 1658482, *19–*20. See also Sioux Falls Ind. Sch., 688 F.3d at 414–415 ("The scope of regulatory requirements and sanctions may affect the fact-intensive issue of whether a specific type of regulatory non-compliance resulted in a materially false claim for a specific government payment. The issue is often complex and may require inquiry into whether a regulatory requirement was a precondition to the government payment or merely a condition of continuing participation in a government program.... [Cases collected, none of which] has held that a complex regime of regulatory sanctions precludes the Attorney General from suing under the FCA when the government has been damaged by a materially false or fraudulent claim for payment or by use of a record or statement in a materially false claim.... Congress intended to allow the government to choose among a variety of remedies, both statutory and administrative, to combat fraud.") (numerous citations and internal quotation marks omitted); Hendow, 461 F.3d at 1176 ("promises to comply with the Program Participation Agreement, are conditions of payment. These conditions are also 'prerequisites,' and 'the sine qua non' of federal funding, for one basic reason: if the University had not agreed to comply with them, it would not have gotten paid."); Main, 426 F.3d at 917 ("University protests that this approach would treat any violation of federal regulations in a funding program as actionable fraud, but that's wrong. A university that accepts federal funds that are contingent on following a regulation, which it then violates, has broken a contract.... But fraud requires more than breach of promise: fraud entails making a false representation, such as a statement that the speaker will do something it plans not to do. Tripping up on a regulatory complexity does not entail a knowingly false representation.").

29 For the above reasons, Defendants' "conditions of participation" and "primary jurisdiction" arguments are not persuasive, although Relator eventually will have to demonstrate that the conditions of eligibility to which Defendants agreed to comply in their PPAs were in fact "prerequisites" for eligibility for payment and participation in the federal financial aid funding streams. [7]

c. The public disclosure defense is premature.

31 U.S.C. § 3730(e)(4)(a) provides that an action based upon public disclosures from certain listed sources bar an FCA action based upon the subject of the public disclosures, unless the person bringing the action is an "original source" of the information. EDMC's public disclosure argument is rather vague as to the source of the alleged public disclosures, and conclusory in declaring that Relator is not the sort of original source contemplated in the exception. At best, this defense is premature.

f. Count VI of the SAC fails to state a claim for reverse false certification.

The Court agrees with Defendants that Count VI fails to state a claim. Most FCA claims typically allege the use of false statements to obtain payment from the government, but "reverse" FCA claims under 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(7) are "centered around an alleged fraudulent effort to reduce a liability owed to the government." United States ex rel. Atkinson v. Pa. Shipbuilding Co., 473 F.3d 506, 513 n. 12 (3d Cir.2007). Further, such claims may not be redundant of FCA claims asserted under other provisions of section 3729. United States ex rel. Thomas v. Siemens AG, 708 F.Supp.2d 505, 514–15 (E.D.Pa.2010).

Relator fails to identify the statute, regulation or provision of the PPAs that obligates Defendants to repay monies improperly obtained because of false certification, and Count VI appears to be simply a redundant "flip-side" of the claims made in the preceding counts.

III. Conclusion

For all of the foregoing reasons, the Court finds Relator has met his burden of pleading sufficient facts to plausibly support all of the elements of his FCA claims at Counts I, II and IV of the Second Amended Complaint, and the motion to dismiss should be DENIED as to those counts.

Although Relator has met his burden of pleading sufficient facts to plausibly support all of the elements of his FCA claim at Count V regarding the incentive compensation ban, he is precluded from pursuing that claim by the first filed rule, and the motion to dismiss should be GRANTED as to Count V and the claim dismissed with prejudice.

Relator has not met his burden of pleading sufficient facts to plausibly support all of the elements of his FCA claims at Counts III and VI, and the motion to dismiss should be GRANTED as to Counts III and VI and the claims dismissed with prejudice.

In accordance with the Magistrate Judges Act, 28 U.S.C. § 636(b) (1)(B) and (C), and Rule 72(D)(2) of the Local Rules for Magistrates Judges, Plaintiff is allowed until November 9, 2012 to file objections to this report and recommendation. Failure to file objections will waive the right to appeal. Brightwell v. Lehman, 637 F.3d 187, 193 n. 7 (3d Cir.2011). [8]

All Citations

Not Reported in F.Supp.2d, 2013 WL 2404082

Footnotes

1 EDMC's oral argument focused on Counts II and IV, and did not directly address Count I (accreditation).

2 The Ninth Circuit uses different verbiage—a "materiality" standard—to assess the parallel question of whether an alleged false certification was relevant to the government's decision to confer a benefit.

3 The Court is confident that the rather rigorous scienter requirement for an FCA claim will prevent every conversation between a recruiter and prospective student from forming the basis of a million or billion dollar fraud case. See Wilkins, 659 F.3d at 314.

1 Although the motions to extend the time period and orders granting same remain under seal, Defendants now have received copies of the motions and orders.

2 Former presiding District Judge Cercone found this ease to be related to Civil Action No. 07–461, and directed the Clerk of Court to reassign it to District Judge McVerry. Order of October 1, 2012, (ECF No. 87).

3 For example, Relator alleges a graduate with an accounting diploma was counted as "working in his field" for statistical purposes as a cashier at McDonalds. SAC (ECF No. 27), ¶ 52.

4 EDMC advances the following primary arguments: (1) the Compensation Plan, as written, complies with the Safe Harbor; (2) Plaintiffs failed to adequately plead the details of the alleged fraud to satisfy all the elements of a prima facie case under the False Claims Act in support of the "as implemented" theory; (3) the Incentive Compensation Ban was a condition of participation, rather than a condition of payment, and therefore, the appropriate avenue for relief is regulatory enforcement and not the False Claims Act; (4) federal common-law claims are displaced by the complex regulatory regime created by Congress and the Department of Education to enforce the HEA; (5) the governments have received the benefit of their bargain, i.e., the education of students; (6) the state law pleadings fail for similar reasons; and (7) Mahoney's claims should be dismissed because he is a "second filed" relator.

Education Management Corp., 2012 WL 1658482, at *7.

5 It would appear that there is an additional element—materiality—with respect to the pre 2009 section 3729(a) (2) ("knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used a false record or statement to get a false or fraudulent claim paid or approved by the Government"), and current version section 3729(a)(1)(B) ("knowingly makes, uses, or causes to be made or used, a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim"). See United States ex rel. Loughren v. Unum Grp., 613 F.3d 300 (1st Cir.2010) ("We have long held that the FCA is subject to a judicially-imposed requirement that the allegedly false claim or statement be material.... We reach the same conclusion regarding Congress's 2009 amendment to the former section 3729(a)(2), incorporating an explicit materiality requirement in place of the "to get" language that the Supreme Court relied upon in its decision limiting liability in Allison Engine [Co., Inc. v. United States ex rel. Sanders, 553 U.S. 662, 128 S.Ct. 2123, 170 L.Ed.2d 1030 (2008)]; United States ex rel. Hill v. Univ. of Med. & Dent., 448 Fed.Appx, 314, n. 4 (3d Cir.2011) ("Although the parties and the District Court discuss the materiality of the data to the claim, we need not address the issue. At the time of this dispute, we had not recognized an implicit materiality element.... Congress has since amended the FCA in the Fraud Enforcement and Recovery Act of 2009, Public Law 11121, and explicitly imposed a materiality element on claims. Because we find this claim fails for other reasons, we need not address whether the judicially-created materiality element is applicable....”). See also United States ex rel. Pilecki–Simko v. Chubb Inst., 443 Fed.Appx, 754,761 n. 18 (3d Cir.2011) (“Ninth Circuit's decision in Hendow, ... articulated the essential elements of a FCA claim under a false certification theory slightly differently than we have—(1) a false statement or fraudulent course of conduct, (2) made with scienter, (3) that was material, causing (4) the government to pay out money or forfeit moneys due ....”).

6 The Court agrees with Defendants that this representative PPA may be considered without converting the motion to dismiss to a motion for summary judgment pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(d), because Relator references the PPAs extensively throughout the complaint. See Stockport Mtn. Corp. LLC v. Norcross Wildlife Found., Inc., Civil Action No. 11–0514, 2012 WL 719345 at *4–*5 (M.D.Pa. March 1, 2012); Claret Capital Nominees v. Benett, Civil Action No. 09–3532, 2009 WL 4362821 at *2–*3 (E.D.Pa. November 30, 2009).

7 Numerous courts have observed that certification analysis is essentially a way to determine whether compliance was material to the government's decision to pay. See, e.g., Hendow, 461 F.3d at 1173 (explaining false certification in terms of materiality); United States ex rel. Landers v. Baptist Mem'l Health Care Corp., 525 F.Supp.2d 972, 979 (W.D.Tenn.2007); United States ex rel. Pogue v. Diabetes Treatment Ctrs. of Am., Inc., 238 F.Supp .2d 258, 264 (D.D.C.2002) (“implied certification theory essentially requires a materiality analysis.”).

8 Defendants also argue, in a footnote, that “No EDMC-affiliated entity does business as ‘The Art Institutes Online,’ and ‘The Art Institutes International LLC is a parent company of various ground schools, none of which are named in the Complaint.” Brief in Support of Motion to Dismiss, (ECF No. 49, at 1, n. 1), Defendants assert that “[t]hese entities should be dismissed at the outset.” Id. The Court declines to address this factual issue raised in the footnote. Defendants may file a separate motion to dismiss or, if Relator concedes the point, a stipulation, if they wish to pursue the matter.

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

2011 WL 3245119

CHECK OHIO SUPREME COURT RULES FOR REPORTING OF OPINIONS AND WEIGHT OF LEGAL AUTHORITY.

Court of Appeals of Ohio,
Second District, Montgomery County.

Charles IHENACHO, Plaintiff–Appellant
v.
OHIO INSTITUTE OF PHOTOGRAPHY AND TECHNOLOGY, Defendant–Appellee.

No. 24191.
|
Decided July 29, 2011.

Synopsis

Background: Former student brought action against college alleging breach of contract, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, conversion, fraud, negligence, discrimination, and punitive damages. The Common Pleas Court, Montgomoery County, granted college's motion for default. Former student appealed.

Holdings: The Court of Appeals, Donovan, J., held that:

[1] allegations failed to establish that student's failure to file timely answer was caused by excusable neglect;

[2] allegation by student that he was misled by college failed to specifically plead any operative facts constituting an alleged fraud;

[3] allegation was insufficient to constitute a valid claim for racial discrimination;

[4] evidence failed to establish that college breached its installment contract and enrollment agreement with student; and [5] evidence failed to establish that college was negligent.

Affirmed.

West Headnotes (7)

[1] Judgment
Mistake, surprise, or excusable neglect in general

Allegation that pro se plaintiff had to travel for a two day period to retrieve his vehicle approximately three-weeks after responsive pleadings had been due failed to establish that his failure to file a timely answer was caused by excusable neglect, in pro se action by former student against college alleging breach of contract, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, conversion, fraud, negligence, discrimination, and punitive damages. Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 12(A)(1), 6(B).

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Conversion and Civil Theft
Title and Right to Possession of Plaintiff

College's refusal to send former student's transcripts to another college due to unpaid tuition owed by student was insufficient to support student's conversion claim against college; student failed to provide court with any legal authority that he was the rightful owner of the transcripts at the time the college refused to release the documents.

Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Fraud
Statements, acts, or conduct constituting fraud

Pleading
Certainty, definiteness, and particularity

Allegation by former student that he was misled by college into thinking that he would be allowed to attend classes even if he had an unpaid, outstanding tuition balance failed to specifically plead any operative facts constituting an alleged fraud and, therefore, college was entitled to judgment on the pleadings on former student's fraud claim in action brought by former student, absent specific allegations of when college or anyone acting on its behalf informed former student that he would not be responsible for tuition if he did not have financial aid.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Civil Rights
Pleading

Allegation by former student that college "might be playing racial/minorities discrimination" was insufficient to constitute a valid claim for racial discrimination and, therefore, college was entitled to judgment on the pleadings on discrimination claim in action brought by former student. R.C. § 4112.02.

Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Education
Grounds

Evidence that student's federal financial aid award was rescinded when he failed to provide required proof of Selective Service enrollment or that he was exempt, and that college terminated his enrollment when he did not pay his tuition, failed to establish that college breached its installment contract and enrollment agreement with student; installment contract clearly required student to pay balance of tuition if financial aid did not supply payment in full, and provided that college had right to cancel student's enrollment for failure to meet its financial obligations to college.

Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Education
Student Financial Aid

Evidence that student's federal financial aid was cancelled when he failed to provide required proof of Selective Service enrollment, or that he was exempt, failed to establish that college was negligent for failing to ensure that student was eligible for financial aid and, therefore, college was entitled to judgment on the pleadings on negligence claim in action brought by former student; student, rather than college, had duty to ensure that student fulfilled all of Department of Education's statutory requirements to prove eligibility for federal financial aid.

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Judgment
Personal knowledge or belief of affiant

Summary judgment affidavit of regional financial aid director for college averring to contents of students financial aid file was admissible in action brought by student alleging breach of contract, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, conversion, fraud, negligence, discrimination, and punitive damages, where affidavit stated that director had the requisite personal knowledge of student's financial aid file in order to testify as to its contents.

Cases that cite this headnote

Civil appeal from Common Pleas Court.

Attorneys and Law Firms

Kendall D. Isaac, Columbus, OH, for Plaintiff–Appellant.

Charles Ihenacho, Clayton, OH, Plaintiff–Appellant.

Richard A. Talda, Sasha Alexa M. Vandegrift, Dayton, OH, for Defendant–Appellee.

Opinion

DONOVAN, J.

*1 {¶ 1} Plaintiff-appellant Charles Ihenacho appeals multiple decisions of the Montgomery County Court of Common Pleas, General Division, to wit: the decision granting defendant-appellee Ohio Institute of Photography and Technology's (hereinafter "OIPT") motion for default judgment regarding its counterclaims against Ihenacho; the decision granting OIPT's motion for judgment on the pleadings regarding Ihenacho's claims for conversion, fraud, discrimination, and emotional distress; the decision granting OIPT's motion for summary judgment regarding Ihenacho's claims for breach of contract and negligence; and the decision overruling Ihenacho's motion to strike the testimony of OIPT witness Patricia Shoope regarding Ihenacho's financial aid status while enrolled at OIPT. The trial court issued a Civ. R. 58(B) notice of a final appealable order in the instant case on August 3, 2010. Ihenacho filed a timely notice of appeal with this Court on August 6, 2010.

I

{¶ 2} Ihenacho applied for admission into OIPT's criminal justice associate degree program in January of 2005. Ihenacho's expected graduation date was in August of 2006. In order to finance his education at OIPT, Ihenacho applied for federal student financial aid in the form of grants and loans by submitting a Free Application for Financial Student Assitance ("FAFSA") to the United States Department of Education. Ihenacho's eligibility for the 2004–2005 award year determined his financial aid eligibility from February of 2005 to June of 2005. Ihenacho indicated on his FAFSA that he was not a U.S. citizen, but rather an eligible non-citizen. Ihenacho also indicated that he had not registered with Selective Service. Ihenacho listed his address on the FAFSA as 5941 Culzean Drive, Apt. 1018, Trotwood, OH 45426. Ihenacho also listed the Culzean Drive address as his home address on his OIPT enrollment application.

{¶ 3} After submitting his FAFSA for review, Ihenacho received his first Financial Aid Award Letter from OIPT on January 13, 2005. The first award letter estimated Ihenacho's financial aid award with the Federal Pell Grant, Ohio Institutional Grant, and Federal Stafford Loans to be $22,451.00. Ihenacho received a second award letter on February 1, 2005, which estimated his financial aid award to be $25,385.00, which was the total cost of the criminal justice program. Thus, Ihenacho had no out-of-pocket expenses.

{¶ 4} Ihenacho was admitted as a student, and OIPT sent him an acceptance letter on January 24, 2005. On February 2, 2005, the Department of Education sent Ihenacho an Institutional Student Informational Report ("February ISIR") which indicated two problems with his eligibility for federal financial aid, namely that Ihenacho had not provided proof of his citizenship status, nor had he complied with the Selective Service requirement. The February ISIR indicated that it was sent to the Culzean Drive address provided by Ihenacho on his FAFSA. Despite these problems, OIPT ostensibly received a financial aid check from the Department of Education, and Ihenacho began classes on February 16,2005.

*2 {¶ 5} Approximately eight months later, the Department of Education sent Ihenacho a second ISIR on September 19, 2005, to the Culzean Drive address. The September ISIR stated that Ihenacho had still not complied with the Selective Service requirement. There is no evidence in the record which establishes that Ihenacho responded to the Department of Education or attempted to provide the information requested in either ISIR.

{¶ 6} According to OIPT, in early January of 2006, Ihenacho was contacted by school officials who informed him that he needed to resolve his financial aid issues by providing proof of his Selctive Service exemption. Ihenacho failed to provide the requested information. As a result, Ihenacho failed to establish that he was eligible for certain types of financial aid, and OIPT was required to refund his financial aid to the Department of Education. Thus, Ihenacho owed a tuition balance to OIPT. Nevertheless, Ihenacho continued to attend classes at OIPT.

{¶ 7} In February of 2006, Ihenacho provided OIPT with a copy of his Permanent Resident Card and Visa which indicated his entry date into the United States. In so doing, Ihenacho satisfied the Selective Service requirement, thereby prospectively assuring his eligibility for federal financial aid. However, Ihenacho's satisfaction of the Selective Service requirement was not retroactive. Since the 2004–2005 award year was over, Ihenacho was not entitled to financial aid during that time, and OIPT could not credit him for the financial aid award that it was required to refund to the Department of Education.

{¶ 8} OIPT asserted that it unsuccessfully attempted multiple times to contact Ihenacho in order to address his unpaid tuition balance, but he failed to make any payments or obtain alternative funding for his educational expenses for the award year of 2004–2005. In late May or early June of 2006, OIPT cancelled Ihenacho's enrollment in light of the unpaid tuition balance. According to OIPT, Ihenacho was informed that he owed approximately $16,194.00 in unpaid tuition. As a result, Ihenacho was not permitted to take his final examinations and complete the degree program.

{¶ 9} Ihenacho subsequently attempted to enroll at Southwestern College and Urbana University. OIPT, however, refused to forward his transcript, and Ihenacho was denied admittance to both schools.

{¶ 10} Ihenacho filed a complaint against OIPT on April 23, 2009. On May 21, 2009, OIPT filed a motion for a more definitive statement, which the trial court granted on August 6, 2009. In response, Ihenacho filed his "Reply Memorandum" on August 11, 2009, which the trial court accepted as his amended complaint, in which he alleged that OIPT breached its enrollment agreement when it terminated him as a student. The trial court noted that Ihenacho "asserted claims against [OIPT] for what presumably are breach of contract, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, conversion, fraud, negligence, discrimination, and punitive damages." On September 14, 2009, OIPT filed an answer, as well as several counterclaims against Ihenacho, alleging action on account, breach of contract, and unjust enrichment. Essentially, OIPT argued that Ihenacho was in breach for failure to pay the tuition balance on his account left due when OIPT was forced to return his financial aid to the Department of Education in light of his failure to satisfy the Selective Service requirement.

*3 {¶ 11} Ihenacho failed to file an answer or other responsive pleading to OIPT's counterclaims, and on November 3, 2009, OIPT filed a motion for default judgment on its counterclaims and a motion for judgment on the pleadings. On November 13, 2009, Ihenacho filed his answer and a motion to dismiss OIPT's motion for default judgment. OIPT filed a motion to strike all of Ihenacho's responsive pleadings, including his answer, on December 4, 2009. On January 10, 2010, the trial court granted OIPT's motion to strike. On January 29, 2010, the court granted OIPT's motion for default judgment on its counterclaims, finding that Ihenacho's reasons for failing to timely file his answer did not constitute excusable neglect. The trial court also granted OIPT's motion for judgment on the pleadings in part, thereby dismissing Ihenacho's claims for conversion, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, fraud, discrimination, and punitive damages. The trial court denied OIPT's motion for judgment on the pleadings regarding Ihenacho's claims for negligence and breach of contract.

{¶ 12} On June 18, 2010, OIPT filed a motion for summary judgment with respect to Ihenacho's remaining claims for negligence and breach of contract. The trial court sustained OIPT's motion for summary judgment in its entirety in a decision issued on August 3, 2010. In the same decision, the trial court overruled Ihenacho's motion to strike the affidavit testimony of Patricia Shoope, attached in support of OIPT's motion for summary judgment.

{¶ 13} Ihenacho's appeal is now properly before this Court.

II

{¶ 14} Initially, we note that Ihenacho has failed to comply with the requirements of Rule 16 of the Ohio Rules of Appellate Procedure. Pursuant to App. R. 16(A)(3) & (4), an appellate brief must contain a statement of the assignments of error presented for review, with reference to the place in the record where each error is reflected, as well as a statement of the issues presented for review. Ihenacho's brief does contain a section where he lists his "Arguments (A)" and "(B)." In section (A), Ihenacho specifically states that the trial court erred when it granted OIPT's motion for default judgment, motion for judgment on the pleadings, and motion for summary judgment. In section (B), Ihenacho argues that the trial court erred when it overruled his motion to strike the affidavit of Patricia Shoope. Ihenacho's brief, however, fails to provide any supporting legal or factual citations as required by App. R. 16(A)(7) regarding his assertions that the court erred when it granted OIPT's motion for judgment on the pleadings and motion for summary judgment.

{¶ 15} Under App. R. 12(A)(2), an appellate court may refuse to consider Ihenacho's assigned errors. The rules are applicable to all parties whether or not they proceed on a pro se basis. While we are mindful that such omissions authorize this court to either strike the offending portions of Ihenacho's brief or sua sponte dismiss his appeal for failure to comply with App. R. 16, in the interests of justice, we will review the merits of Ihenacho's claims.

III

*4 {¶ 16} Ihenacho's assignments in "Arguments: (A)" are as follows:

The trial court erred when it granted OIPT's motion for default judgment.

{¶ 17} In his first argument, Ihenacho contends that the trial court erred when it granted OIPT's motion for default judgment because he provided sufficient evidence of excusable neglect.

{¶ 18} "Civ.R. 12(A)(1) provides that a defendant shall serve his answer within twenty-eight days after service of the complaint. Pursuant to Civ.R. 6(B), upon motion made after the expiration of the specified period, the trial court may permit a defendant to file an answer if his failure to do so was the result of excusable neglect. Although Civ.R. 6(B) grants broad discretion to the trial court, its discretion is not unlimited. Miller v. Lint (1980), 62 Ohio St.2d 209, 214 * * *. Generally, some showing of excusable neglect is a necessary prelude to the filing of an untimely answer." Alldred v. Alldred (Nov. 6, 1998), Montgomery App. No. 17043.

{¶ 19} "Neglect under Civ.R. 6(B)(2) has been described as conduct that falls substantially below what is reasonable under the circumstances." Davis v. Immediate Medical Services, Inc., 80 Ohio St.3d 10, 14, 684 N.E.2d 292, 1997–Ohio–363. "The determination of whether neglect is excusable or inexcusable must take into consideration all the surrounding facts and circumstances, and courts must be mindful of the admonition that cases should be decided on their merits, where possible, rather than procedural grounds." State ex rel. Lindenschmidt v. Butler Cty. Bd. of Commrs., 72 Ohio St.3d 464, 466, 650 N.E.2d 1343, 1995–Ohio–49, citing Marion Production Credit Assn. v. Cochran (1988), 40 Ohio St.3d 265, 271, 533 N.E.2d 325. "Although excusable neglect cannot be defined in the abstract, the test for excusable neglect under Civ.R. 6(B)(2) is less stringent than that applied under Civ.R. 60(B)." Id.

{¶ 20} Ihenacho filed his amended complaint on August 11, 2009. On August 28, 2009, OIPT was granted an extension of time by the trial court in which to file its answer to Ihenacho's amended complaint. OIPT filed its answer, as well as its counterclaims for action on account, breach of contract, and unjust enrichment, on September 14, 2009. Ihenacho did not file an answer or other responsive pleading within the twenty-eight day window provided by Civ.R. 12(A)(1), that date being October 13, 2009. On November 3, 2009, approximately three weeks after the twenty-eight day deadline, OIPT filed a motion for default judgment and a motion for judgment on the pleadings.

{¶ 21} Ihenacho did not file a motion to dismiss OIPT's motion for default judgment until November 13, 2009. In his motion to dismiss, Ihenacho argued that he had to travel out of state to Maryland to retrieve an automobile. Ihenacho stated that he left on November 5, 2009, and returned to Ohio on November 6, 2009. Ihenacho attached copies of hotel and gas station receipts in support of his assertion. Ihenacho also argued that he was acting as a pro se litigant and should be afforded lenient treatment by the trial court.

*5 [1] {¶ 22} Upon review, we conclude that the trial court did not abuse its discretion when it granted OIPT's motion for default judgment finding that Ihenacho had failed to establish that his failure to file a timely answer was caused by excusable neglect. Ihenacho stated that he was out of town on November 5 & 6, 2009, a two-day period falling approximately three weeks after his answer was due. More importantly, Ihenacho provided no explanation regarding why he failed to file his answer between September 14, 2009, and October 13, 2009.

{¶ 23} We also note that Ihenacho's pleas for leniency are not well taken. "Litigants who choose to proceed pro se are presumed to know the law and correct procedure, and are held to the same standard as other litigants." Yocum v. Means, Darke App. No. 1576, 2002–Ohio–3803. A litigant proceeding pro se "cannot expect or demand special treatment from the judge, who is to sit as an impartial arbiter." Id. (Internal citations omitted). Thus, the trial court did not err when it granted OIPT's motion for default judgment regarding its counterclaims.

(2) The trial court erred when it granted OIPT's motion for judgment on the pleadings regarding Ihenacho's claims for conversion, fraud, discrimination, and emotional distress.

{¶ 24} In his second argument, Ihenacho asserts that the trial erred when it granted OIPT's motion for judgment on the pleadings regarding Ihenacho's claims for conversion, fraud, discrimination, and emotional distress.

{¶ 25} Civ. R. 12(C) provides: "After the pleadings are closed but within such time as not to delay the trial, any party may move for judgment on the pleadings." "A copy of any written instrument attached to a pleading is a part of the pleading for all purposes." Civ.R. 10(C). "A motion for judgment on the pleadings pursuant to Civ.R. 12(C) presents only questions of law," and the standard of review is de novo. Dearth v. Stanley, Montgomery App. No. 22180, 2008–Ohio–487. "Determination of a motion for judgment on the pleadings is restricted solely to the allegations in the pleadings and any writings attached to the complaint. Peterson v. Teodosio (1973), 34 Ohio St.2d 161, 165, 297 N.E.2d 113. Dismissal is appropriate under Civ.R. 12(C) when, after construing all material allegations in the complaint, along with all reasonable inferences drawn therefrom in favor of the nonmoving party, the court finds that the plaintiff can prove no set of facts in support of its claim that would entitle it to relief. State ex rel. Midwest Pride IV, Inc. v. Pontius (1996), 75 Ohio St.3d 565, 570, 664 N.E.2d 931." Id.

Conversion

{¶ 26} Conversion is an exercise of dominion or control wrongfully exerted over property in denial of or under a claim inconsistent with the rights of another. Joyce v. Gen. Motors Corp. (1990), 49 Ohio St.3d 93, 96, 551 N.E.2d 172; Union Savings Bank v. The White Family Cos., Inc., 167 Ohio App.3d 51, 853 N.E.2d 1182, 2006–Ohio–2629. Typically, "[t]he elements of a conversion cause of action are: (1) plaintiff's ownership or right to possession of the property at the time of the conversion; (2) defendant's conversion by a wrongful act or disposition of plaintiff's property rights; and (3) damages." Haul Transport of VA, Inc. v. Morgan (June 2, 1995), Montgomery App. No. 14859; see Knoop v. Knoop, Montgomery App. No. 22037, 2007–Ohio–5178, ¶ 20. Where conversion is premised on the unlawful retention of property, the plaintiff must establish: "(1) he or she demanded the return of the property from the possessor after the possessor exerted dominion or control over the property, and (2) that the possessor refused to deliver the property to its rightful owner." Barnes v. First American Title Ins. Co. (N.D.Ohio, Aug. 8, 2006), Case No. 1:06CV574, citing Tabar v. Charlies's Towing Serv., Inc. (1994), 97 Ohio App.3d 423, 427–28, 646 N.E.2d 1132. Where an action for conversion is based on the conversion of cash, the action will lie "only if 'identification is possible and there is an obligation to deliver the specific money in question .' " Haul, Montgomery App. No. 14859.

*6 [2] {¶ 27} Ihenacho argues that OIPT is liable for conversion based on its refusal to send his transcripts to Southwestern College and Urbana University, thereby depriving him of his property rights. Other than his bare assertion that his rights were violated when OIPT withheld his transcripts, Ihenacho fails to provide us with any legal authority that he was the rightful owner of the transcripts at the time OIPT refused to release the documents. " * * * A university may withhold a transcript if arrangements to repay the loan or discharge the debt are lacking." Juras v. Aman Collection Serv. (C.A.9, 1987), 829 F.2d 739, 743; citing Johnson v. Edinboro State College (C.A.3, 1984), 728 F.2d 163. OIPT was within its rights to withhold the transcripts until it received payment from Ihenacho on the unpaid tuition balance. Thus, the trial court did not err when it dismissed Ihenacho's claim for conversion.

(b) Fraud

{¶ 28} Under Civ. R. 8(A), a complaint or other pleading, such as a counterclaim, that sets forth a claim for relief "shall contain a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the party is entitled to relief." However, where a pleading sets forth a claim of fraud or mistake, Civ.R. 9(B) requires that "the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake shall be stated with particularity." Sutton Funding, L.L.C. v. Herres, 188 Ohio App.3d 686, 697, 936 N.E.2d 574, 2010–Ohio–3645.

{¶ 29} A claim for common law fraud requires proof of the following elements: (1) a representation or, where there is a duty to disclose, concealment of a fact, (2) which is material to the transaction at hand, (3) made falsely, with knowledge of its falsity, or with such utter disregard and recklessness as to whether it is true or false that knowledge may be inferred, (4) with the intent of misleading another into relying upon it, (5) justifiable reliance upon the representation or concealment, and (6) a resulting injury proximately caused by the reliance. Cohen v. Lamko, Inc. (1984), 10 Ohio St.3d 167, 169, 462 N.E.2d 407; Collins v. National City Bank, Montgomery App. No. 19884, 2003–Ohio–6893, ¶ 39.

{¶ 30} "Failure to specifically plead the operative facts constituting an alleged fraud presents a defective claim that may be dismissed. Universal Coach, Inc. v. New York Transit Authority, Inc. (1993), 90 Ohio App.3d 284, 629 N.E.2d 28. The 'particularity' requirement of Civ.R. 9(B) means that the pleading must contain allegations of fact which tend to show each and every element of a cause of action for fraud." Rieger v. Podeweltz, Montgomery App. No. 23520, 2010–Ohio–2509, ¶ 9.

[3] {¶ 31} Ihenacho argued in his complaint that he was somehow misled by OIPT into thinking that he would be allowed to attend classes even if he had an unpaid, outstanding tuition balance. Ihenacho, however, fails to specify when OIPT or anyone acting on its behalf informed him that he would not be responsible for tuition if he did not have financial aid. Additionally, Ihenacho specifically stated that he was informed by school officials that he would not be allowed to attend classes if he failed to pay his outstanding tuition balance. Upon review, we find that Ihenacho has failed to specifically plead any operative facts constituting an alleged fraud. Thus, the trial court did not err when it dismissed his claim for fraud.

(c) Discrimination

7 {¶ 32} In his complaint, Ihenacho supports his claim for discrimination by simply stating that "the school might be playing racial/minorities discrimination."

{¶ 33} R.C. 4112.02 provides that it is an unlawful discriminatory practice:

{¶ 34} "(A) For any employer, because of the race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age, or ancestry of any person, to discharge without just cause, to refuse to hire, or otherwise to discriminate against that person with respect to hire, tenure, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, or any matter directly or indirectly related to employment."

{¶ 35} A claim of discrimination may be proven by either direct or circumstantial evidence. Byrnes v. LCI Communication Holdings Co., 77 Ohio St.3d 125, 128, 672 N.E.2d 145, 1996–Ohio–307. To establish a discrimination claim based upon circumstantial evidence, a plaintiff must initially demonstrate a prima facie case of discrimination. Id. at 128, 672 N.E.2d 145, citing Barker v. Scovill, Inc. (1983), 6 Ohio St.3d 146, 451 N.E.2d 807 (adopting the guidelines set forth in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green (1973), 411 U.S. 792, 93 S.Ct. 1817, 36 L.Ed.2d 668); Coryell v. Bank One Trust Co. N.A., 101 Ohio St.3d 175, 803 N.E.2d 781, 2004–Ohio–723.

[4] {¶ 36} Other than his bare assertion in that regard, Ihenacho provided no factual basis for his claim that there "might" be some racial discrimination. Without any additional facts to support his claim, Ihenacho has not demonstrated a prima facie case of discrimination. Accordingly, Ihenacho's statement regarding OIPT's alleged discriminatory behavior is insufficient to constitute a valid claim for racial discrimination, and the trial court did not err when it dismissed his claim.

(d) Negligent and/or Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress

{¶ 37} In order to be actionable on a claim of intentional infliction of emotional distress, an actor's conduct must be extreme and outrageous. Hanley v. Riverside Methodist Hospital (1991), 78 Ohio App.3d 73, 603 N.E.2d 1126. To satisfy that standard, the acts concerned must by their nature go beyond all possible bounds of decency so as to be considered utterly intolerable in a civilized community. Pyle v. Pyle (1983), 11 Ohio App.3d 31, 463 N.E.2d 98. Liability for intentional infliction of emotional distress "does not extend to mere insults, indignities, threats, annoyances, petty oppressions, or other trivialities." Yeager v. Local Union 20 (1983), 6 Ohio St.3d 369, 375, 453 N.E.2d 666.

{¶ 38} Upon review, we conclude that Ihenacho failed to make sufficient factual allegations in order to constitute a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Ihenacho has failed to allege facts that OIPT possessed the requisite intent to cause him severe emotional distress, or that OIPT's actions were so outrageous as to go beyond all possible bounds of decency. Additionally, we have recently noted that under Ohio law, plaintiffs cannot recover damages for emotional distress from a breach of contract. Hacker v. Natl. College of Business and Technology, 186 Ohio App.3d 203, 927 N.E.2d 38, 2010–Ohio–380. Accordingly, Ihencaho has failed to plead sufficient facts to support a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress.

8 {¶ 39} In Potter v. RETS Tech Center Co., Inc., Montgomery App. No. 22012, 22014, 2008–Ohio–993, we stated the following:

{¶ 40} "The availability of a claim for relief for negligent infliction of emotional distress was first recognized in Ohio in Paugh v. Hanks (1983), 6 Ohio St.3d 72, 451 N.E.2d 759. In that case, serious emotional distress was allegedly suffered by a parent who feared her children were in peril when automobiles accidentally left the road and collided into her home. The issue was whether the emotional distress the parent allegedly suffered was reasonably foreseeable to the drivers, when the parent suffered no physical harm.

{¶ 41} "Cases in which claims for relief for negligent infliction of emotional distress have been held to lie have, like Paugh v. Hanks, involved distress suffered by a bystander who witnessed a sudden and shocking event, such as an auto accident, that did or reasonably could result in injury to other persons. We have held that one who witnesses the negligent damaging of his property over a period of time arising out of the ongoing negligence of the defendant may not recover for emotional distress experienced as a result. Reeser v. Weaver Brothers (1989), 54 Ohio App.3d 46, 560 N.E.2d 819. Further, when the distress which is suffered is a part of the harm directly and proximately resulting from underlying event, a separate claim for relief for the distress allegedly suffered will not lie."

{¶ 42} In Potter, we held that a claim for negligent infliction of emotional distress does not lie on account of an individual's termination as a student by a school or learning institution. Thus, the trial court did not err when it dismissed Ihenacho's claim for negligent infliction of emotional distress.

(3) The trial court erred when it granted OIPT's motion for summary regarding Ihenacho's claims for breach of contract and negligence.

{¶ 43} In his third argument, Ihenacho contends that the trial court erred when it granted OIPT's motion for summary judgment regarding his remaining claims for breach of contract and negligence.

{¶ 44} An appellate court reviews an award of summary judgment de novo. Grafton v. Ohio Edison Co. (1996), 77 Ohio St.3d 102, 105, 671 N.E.2d 241. We apply the same standard as the trial court, viewing the facts in the case in a light most favorable to the non-moving party and resolving any doubt in favor of the non-moving party. Viock v. Stowe–Woodward Co. (1983), 13 Ohio App.3d 7, 12, 467 N.E.2d 1378.

{¶ 45} Pursuant to Civil Rule 56(C), summary judgment is proper if:

{¶ 46} "(1) No genuine issue as to any material fact remains to be litigated; (2) the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law; and (3) it appears from the evidence that reasonable minds can come to but one conclusion, and viewing such evidence most strongly in favor of the party against whom the motion for summary judgment is made, that conclusion is adverse to that party." Temple v. Wean United, Inc. (1977), 50 Ohio St.2d 317, 327, 364 N.E.2d 267. To prevail on a motion for summary judgment, the party moving for summary judgment must be able to point to evidentiary materials that show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Dresher v. Burt (1996), 75 Ohio St.3d 280, 293, 662 N.E.2d 264. The non-moving party must then present evidence that some issue of material fact remains for the trial court to resolve. Id.

Breach of Contract

9 {¶ 47} Ihenacho argues that OIPT had a contractual obligation to ensure that his tuition was completely covered by financial aid. Further, Ihenacho asserts that OIPT breached its enrollment contract with him when it terminated him as a student after he failed to pay off the outstanding balance on his tuition bill.

{¶ 48} "The essential elements of a cause of action for breach of contract are the existence of a contract, performance by the plaintiff, breach by the defendant and resulting damage to the plaintiff." Flaim v. Med. College of Ohio, Franklin App. No. 04AP–1131, 2005–Ohio–1515, at ¶ 12.

{¶ 49} The construction of written contracts is a matter of law, Alexander v. Buckeye Pipe Line Co. (1978), 53 Ohio St.2d 241, 374 N.E.2d 146, paragraph one of the syllabus, and a trial court's construction of a contract is reviewed de novo. Nationwide Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Guman Bros. Farm, 73 Ohio St.3d 107, 108, 652 N.E.2d 684, 1995–Ohio–214. The purpose of contract construction is to discover and effectuate the intent of the parties, and the intent of the parties is presumed to reside in the language they chose to use in the agreement. Graham v. Drydock Coal Co., 76 Ohio St.3d 311, 313, 667 N.E.2d 949, 1996–Ohio–393. When terms of a contract are unambiguous, courts look to the plain language of the document. Latina v. Woodpath

Dev. Co. (1991), 57 Ohio St.3d 212, 214, 567 N.E.2d 262. The contract must also be interpreted as a whole, with the intent of each part gathered from a consideration of the whole. Saunders v. Mortensen, 101 Ohio St.3d 86, 801 N.E.2d 452, 2004–Ohio–24, at ¶ 16.

{¶ 50} "An agreement altering the rights of the parties under a written contract must be based on sufficient consideration. Likewise, an agreement to modify a contract requires consideration. Thus, an oral agreement to modify a prior written agreement must be founded on a new consideration that is distinct from the consideration supporting the prior agreement; it cannot be supported on the supposition that it is founded on the continuation or extension of the consideration of the prior written contract that is complete in itself." 17 Ohio Jurisprudence 3d (2008) 390, Contracts, Section 41 (citations omitted).

{¶ 51} Neither party disputes that the Educational Installment Contract and the Enrollment Agreement govern the parties' contractual relationship. OIPT's Educational Installment Contract, signed by Ihenacho on February 1, 2005, provided that grants in the amount of $14,276.00 and loans in the amount of $11,109.00 would pay Ihenacho's total program fees at the school. The Contract also provided as follows:

{¶ 52} "PROMISE TO PAY: You promise to pay us the Amount Financed together with finance charges at the Annual Percentage Rate disclosed in the Truth in Lending Disclosure Statement. Your finance charges begin to accrue 30 days prior to the date of your first payment.

{¶ 53} "FINANCIAL AID PAYMENTS: If the amount of your financial aid changes or is not made as scheduled, then you agree to pay us upon our request the CASH PRICE that the financial aid would have paid."

10 [5] {¶ 54} The Installment Contract clearly required Ihenacho to pay the balance on his tuition bill, even if his financial aid did not supply payment in full. OIPT's Enrollment Agreement, signed by Ihenacho, specifically provided that the school had the right to cancel Ihenacho's enrollment for "failure to meet financial obligations to [OIPT]." Upon Ihenacho's prolonged failure to pay his outstanding tuition balance, OIPT had the right to cancel his enrollment. Although Ihenacho asserts that OIPT had a contractual obligation to ensure that his tuition was completely covered by financial aid, there is no evidence in the record that OIPT had such a duty under either the Installment Contract or the Enrollment Agreement. Rather, Ihenacho's obligation to pay his tuition was in no way contingent upon his receipt of financial aid. Ihenacho argues that the two Financial Aid Estimate Letters he received prior to his enrollment gave him the impression that he was not required to pay any amount of his tuition "out of pocket." The Estimate Letters, however, specifically state that they are only estimates. More importantly, the Estimate Letters in no way modify or negate Ihenacho's duty to pay his tuition to the school, as evidenced by the express requirements set out in the Installment Contract and the Enrollment Agreement.

{¶ 55} Under the express and unambiguous terms of the Installment Contract, Ihenacho was obligated to pay his tuition regardless of any financial award. We also note that Ihenacho failed to submit any evidence evidencing an intent on the part of OIPT to modify any of the express language in either the Installment Contract or the Enrollment Agreement. Viewed in a light most favorable to Ihenacho, we conclude that he has failed to establish that a genuine issue exists regarding his breach of contract claim.

(b) Negligence

{¶ 56} Ihenacho contends that the trial court erred when it held that no genuine issue existed regarding his claim for negligence against OIPT. Specifically, Ihehacho asserts that OIPT was negligent for failing to ensure that he was eligible for financial aid. In the alternative, Ihenacho argues that OIPT breached its duty to him when it returned the financial aid that was distributed to Ihenacho, but for which he had failed to demonstrate his eligibility to receive.

{¶ 57} The Military Selective Service Act (MSSA) provides that a person who is required to register with the Selective Service but fails to do so "shall be ineligible for any form of assistance or benefit provided under Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965." 50 U.S.C. § 462(f)(1); Maxwell v. NYU (C.O.A.2, December 8, 2010), 407 Appx. 524. § 462(f)(2) of the MSSA further requires applicants for Title IV assistance to file a statement with their school attesting to their compliance with the registration requirements. Martin v. Moran (W.D.Mich.1990), U.S. Dist. Case No. 1:89–CV–827. "If the student does not file the Statement, the school 'may not' provide aid." Id.; citing 34 C.F.R. § 668.33(a)(1).

11 {¶ 58} In the instant case, Ihenacho was notified in two separate ISIRs that his failure to register with Selective Service jeopardized his financial aid eligibility. Both ISIRs were sent to the address Ihenacho provided on his FAFSA and his Enrollment Agreement with OIPT. Pursuant to statutory mandate, Ihenacho had a duty to ensure that he satisfied the Department of Education's financial aid eligibility requirements by providing a Statement of Registration status that he either registered with Selective Service, or that he was exempt for a specific reason, in order to receive federal student financial assistance. Because Ihenacho failed to satisfy the eligibility requirements, OIPT had no other choice but to refund his financial aid back to the Department of Education.

[6] {¶ 59} There is no evidence in the record that Ihenacho complied with the Selective Service requirement until February of 2006, well after OIPT was forced to refund his financial aid due to his failure to prove his statutory eligibility. OIPT presented undisputed evidence that Ihenacho, for unknown reasons, failed to register with Selective Service for the award year of 2004–2005 until it was too late to cure. OIPT also presented evidence that it was Ihenacho's duty, not OIPT's, to ensure that he fulfilled all of the Department of Education's statutory requirements to prove his eligibility for federal financial aid. In light of the foregoing, Ihenacho had failed to establish that a genuine issue exists regarding his claim against OIPT for negligence, and the trial court did not err when it granted OIPT's motion for summary judgment on his claims for breach of contract and negligence.

IV

{¶ 60} Ihenacho's assignments in "Arguments: (B)" are as follows:

> The trial court erred by allowing Patricia Shoope to testify at the damages hearing held April 22, 2010, since she did not have personal knowledge of Ihenacho's tuition account with OIPT.

{¶ 61} Initially, we note that Ihenacho has failed to file a written transcript of the damages hearing. Thus, we are unable to review Shoope's testimony regarding the status of Ihenacho's tuition account at OIPT.

{¶ 62} In reviewing an assigned error on appeal, pursuant to App. R. 12(A)(1)(b), we are confined to the record that was before the trial court as defined in App. R. 9(A). See Lamar v. Marbury (1982), 69 Ohio St.2d 274, 277, 431 N.E.2d 1028. App. R. 9(A) identifies the record on appeal as consisting of "the original papers and exhibits thereto filed in the trial court, the transcript of the proceedings, if any, including exhibits, and a certified copy of the docket and journal entries prepared by the clerk of the trial court * * *."

{¶ 63} App. R. 9(A) provides if the transcript of the proceedings is in the video tape medium, counsel for appellant shall print or type those portions of the transcript necessary for the court to determine the questions presented, shall certify their accuracy, and append such copy of the portions of the transcript to the brief. Additionally, App. R. 9(B) imposes the duty on an appellant to file a transcript of the proceedings underlying the final order or judgment from which the appeal is taken and concerning which the appellant seeks appellate review. State ex rel. Montgomery v. R & D Chem. Co. (1995), 72 Ohio St.3d 202, 648 N.E.2d 821, 1995–Ohio–21. If the transcript is not included in the record, the court of appeals must presume the validity of the trial court's proceedings unless error of law is demonstrated. Knapp v. Edwards Laboratories (1980), 61 Ohio St.2d 197, 199, 400 N.E.2d 384.

12 {¶ 64} "A party challenging a trial court's judgment has the duty under App.R. 9(B) and 10(A) to properly file a record of the proceedings with the reviewing court to demonstrate its claims of error. Rose Chevrolet, Inc. V. Adams (1988), 36 Ohio St.3d 17, 19 * * *. 'When portions of the transcript necessary for resolution of assigned errors are omitted from the record, the reviewing court has nothing to pass upon and thus, as to those assigned errors, the court has no choice but to presume the validity of the lower court's proceedings, and affirm.' Knapp v. Edwards Laboratories (1980), 61 Ohio St.2d 197, 200 * * *." Chester v. Commsys, Inc. (April 7, 2000), Montgomery App. No. 17793.

{¶ 65} Ihenacho's brief does not comply with the appellate rules, and given the absence of a written transcript of the record of the damages hearing, we must presume the validity of the trial court's proceedings, in particular the court's decision to allow Shoope to testify regarding her knowledge of Ihenacho's tuition account at OIPT.

(2) The trial court erred when it considered the affidavit of Patricia Shoope that was attached in support of OIPT's motion for summary judgment.

{¶ 66} In his final assignment, Ihenacho contends that the trial court abused its discretion by considering the averments in Shoope's affidavit attached to OIPT's motion for summary judgment. Specifically, Ihenacho argues that Shoope did not have sufficient personal knowledge to testify regarding the contents of his financial aid file.

{¶ 67} Civ.R. 56(E) states that "supporting and opposing affidavits shall be made on personal knowledge, and shall set forth such facts as would be admissible in evidence, and show affirmatively that the affiant is competent to testify to the matters stated therein ..." " 'Personal knowledge' is defined as, 'knowledge of the truth in regard to a particular fact or allegation, which is original, and does not depend on information or hearsay. Personal knowledge of an allegation in an answer is personal knowledge of its truth or falsity; and if the allegation is a negative one, this necessarily includes a knowledge of the truth or falsity of the allegation denied.' Black's Law Dictionary (6 Ed.1990) 873, citing Hidalgo v. General Fire & Cas. Co. (La.App.1971), 254 So.2d 493, 496." Haack v. Bank One, Dayton, N .A. (April 11, 1997), Montgomery App. No. 16131.

{¶ 68} In her affidavit, Shoope stated that as Regional Director of Financial Aid for Kaplan Higher Education, the parent company of OIPT, she had access to all former and present OIPT students' financial aid files, including Ihenacho's file. Shoope specifically stated that she had personal knowledge of the contents of Ihenacho's financial aid file.

[7] {¶ 69} Ihenacho argues that Shoope did not personally prepare the financial aid documents about which she was testifying, but that argument is without merit. An individual with personal knowledge of a set of documents need not have created said documents in order to testify as to the their authenticity. Great Seneca Fin. v. Felty, 170 Ohio App.3d 737, 869 N.E.2d 30, 2006-Ohio-6618. In the instant case, it was unimportant that Shoope did not personally create Ihenacho's financial aid records. Shoope never claimed that she had any personal interaction with Ihenacho. As Regional Director of Financial Aid for Kaplan, however, Shoope stated that she had the requisite personal knowledge of Ihenacho's financial aid file in order to testify as to its contents. Other than his bare assertion that Shoope had no personal knowledge regarding his financial aid file, Ihenacho presented the trial court with no evidence upon which to challenge the statements made in her affidavit. Accordingly, the trial court did not err when it considered Shoope's affidavit in conjunction with OIPT's motion for summary judgment.

13 {¶ 70} Lastly, Ihenacho asserts on appeal that Shoope's affidavit testimony is hearsay and should not have been considered by the trial court as evidence for summary judgment. Ihenacho, however, did not raise this issue before the trial court in his motion to strike Shoope's affidavit. It is axiomatic that a party cannot raise new arguments for the first time on appeal. State ex rel. Gutierrez v. Trumbull Cty. Bd. Of Elections (1992), 65 Ohio St.3d 175, 177, 602 N.E.2d 622; Miller v. Wikel Mfg. Co., Inc. (1989), 46 Ohio St.3d 76, 78, 545 N.E.2d 76. Thus, we need not address the merits of Ihenacho's argument in this regard.

V

{¶ 71} All of Ihenacho's assignment having been overruled, the judgment of the trial court is affirmed.

FROELICH, J. and HALL, J., concur.

All Citations

Not Reported in N.E.2d, 2011 WL 3245119, 2011 -Ohio-3730

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

428 N.J.Super. 10
Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

Shatina D. SUAREZ, Plaintiff– Appellant/Cross–Respondent,
v.
EASTERN INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE,
f/k/a Microtech Training Center, Inc.,
Defendant–Respondent/Cross–Appellant.

Argued Nov. 29, 2011.
|
Decided Aug. 23, 2012.

Synopsis

Background: Graduate brought action against for-profit technical school alleging violations of Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) and common law fraud on basis that she was falsely told that she would be able to perform ultrasounds and earn $65,000 per year as a sonographer. The Superior Court, Law Division, Hudson County, entered summary judgment in favor of school. Graduate appealed and school cross-appealed.

Holdings: The Superior Court, Appellate Division, Espinosa, J.A.D., held that:

[1] there was no evidence that technical school's admissions representative knew statements she made at initial interview were false, as required for common law fraud;

[2] statements were not of present or previously existing facts and, therefore, could not provide basis for claim based on common law fraud;

[3] statements were material in action for violation of the CFA; and [4] learned professional exception to CFA did not apply to technical school.

Affirmed in part and reversed in part.

West Headnotes (31)

[1] Appeal and Error
Judgment

In reviewing grant of summary judgment in favor of defendant, appellate court gives benefit of all favorable inferences in support of plaintiff's claims. R. 4:46–2(c).

Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Judgment
Weight and sufficiency

In considering merits of a summary judgment motion, it is not court's function to weigh evidence and determine outcome, but only to decide if a material dispute of fact exists.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Judgment
Absence of issue of fact

If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a genuine issue of material fact for purposes of summary judgment. R. 4:46–2(c).

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Judgment
Existence or non-existence of fact issue
Trial
Credibility of Witnesses

When there are conflicting versions of facts that would permit a rational jury to choose either version, resolution of conflict requires a determination of which version is more credible; such a factual dispute should be decided by a jury, not a court considering a motion for summary judgment. R. 4:46–2(c).

Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Judgment

Hearing and determination

It is improper for judge considering a motion for summary judgment to abrogate jury's exclusive role as factfinder. R. 4:46–2(c).

4 Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Appeal and Error
Extent of Review Dependent on Nature of Decision Appealed from

In review of summary judgment ruling, appellate court first determines whether moving party has demonstrated that there are no genuine disputes as to material facts, and then decides whether motion judge's application of law was correct. R. 4:46–2(c).

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Appeal and Error
Findings of fact and conclusions of law
Appeal and Error
Cases Triable in Appellate Court

Appellate court reviews issues of law de novo and accords no deference to motion judge's conclusions on issues of law.

Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Fraud
Elements of Actual Fraud

A misrepresentation amounting to actual legal fraud consists of a material representation of a presently existing or past fact, made with knowledge of its falsity and with intention that other party rely thereon, resulting in reliance by that party to his detriment.

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Fraud
Elements of Actual Fraud

Five essential elements to a claim of common law fraud are: (1) a material misrepresentation of a presently existing or past fact, (2) knowledge or belief by defendant of its falsity, (3) an intention that other person rely on it, (4) reasonable reliance thereon by other person, and (5) resulting damages.

6 Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Fraud
Knowledge of defendant
Fraud
Fraudulent Concealment

There was no evidence that for-profit technical college's admissions representative knew that any statement he made at initial interview, that graduate of technical college would be able to perform ultrasounds and earn $65,000 per year was false, or that he was aware of their materiality and knowingly omitted fact that graduate would not be eligible to take examination that was required for diagnostic sonographers, as required for action against school for common law fraud.

Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Fraud
Existing facts or expectations or promises

Statements at initial interview by admissions representative of for-profit technical college, that graduate would be able to perform ultrasounds and earn $65,000 per year, were not statements of present or previously existing facts and, therefore, could not provide basis for a claim based on common law fraud.

Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Fraud
Matters of Fact or of Opinion
Fraud
Existing facts or expectations or promises

As to claims of affirmative misrepresentation, plaintiff alleging common law fraud must show misrepresentation of a fact that exists at or before time representation is made; hence, neither expressions of opinion nor puffery will satisfy this element of fraud.

4 Cases that cite this headnote

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

[13] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Nature and Elements

To recover under Consumer Fraud Act (CFA), plaintiff must prove that a person has committed an unlawful practice, she suffered an ascertainable loss, and there was a causal relationship between the unlawful conduct and the ascertainable loss. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Fraud;deceit;knowledge and intent

A violation of Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) based on an affirmative act listed in definition of unlawful practices does not require proof that defendant intended to commit an unlawful act or intended to deceive plaintiff. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[15] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Representations, assertions, and descriptions in general

An affirmative misrepresentation in action for violation of Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) is one which is material to transaction and which is a statement of fact, found to be false, made to induce buyer to make purchase. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[16] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Representations, assertions, and descriptions in general

Under Consumer Fraud Act (CFA), a person who makes an affirmative misrepresentation is liable even in the absence of knowledge of falsity of misrepresentation, negligence, or intent to deceive. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[17] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Fraud;deceit;knowledge and intent

A plaintiff who alleges consumer fraud under Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) based upon a defendant's omission must show that defendant acted with knowledge; and intent is an essential element of the fraud. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[18] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Purpose and construction in general

Goal of Consumer Fraud Act (CFA), which is remedial legislation, is to establish a broad business ethic, promoting a standard of conduct that contemplates good faith, honesty in fact, and observance of fair dealing. N.J.S.A. 56:8–1 et seq.

Cases that cite this headnote

[19] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Purpose and construction in general

Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) is intended to protect consumers from deception and fraud, even when committed in good faith. N.J.S.A. 56:8–1 et seq.

Cases that cite this headnote

[20] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Fraud;deceit;knowledge and intent

Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Representations, assertions, and descriptions in general

Not just any erroneous statement will constitute a misrepresentation prohibited by Consumer Fraud Act (CFA); however, a practice may be unlawful whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged thereby. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[21] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Fraud;deceit;knowledge and intent

It is capacity to mislead that is prime ingredient of all types of consumer fraud

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

under Consumer Fraud Act (CFA). N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[22] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Purpose and construction in general
Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Representations, assertions, and descriptions in general

Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) and attendant regulations are designed to promote disclosure of relevant information to enable consumer to make intelligent decisions in selection of products and services; therefore, the CFA may be violated by an affirmative misrepresentation so misleading as to a fact material to consumer's decision that consumer is effectively deprived of ability to make an intelligent decision. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[23] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Other particular subjects and regulations

Statements by admissions representative of for-profit technical school during initial interview, that graduate would be able to perform ultrasounds and earn $65,000 per year, were material in action against school for violation of Consumer Fraud Act (CFA), where evidence would have permitted a jury to conclude that information regarding employability upon completion of program, apparent necessity of certification for graduate to be able to perform diagnostic sonograms, and additional requirements before a graduate could be eligible to take certification test were all facts to which a reasonable person would attach importance in selecting a school. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2; Restatement (Second) of Torts § 538(2).

Cases that cite this headnote

[24] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Questions of law or fact

Question of whether certification was required for graduate of for-profit technical school to obtain entry-level sonographer position was for the jury as factfinder in action by graduate against college for Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) violations. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[25] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Other particular subjects and regulations

Graduate of for-profit technical school was not required to prove that admissions representative intended to deceive her during admissions interview in action for violation of the Consumer Fraud Act (CFA); graduate merely had to present evidence that school made a representation regarding a fact material to the transaction, which proved to be false, and which was made to induce her to enroll. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[26] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Professionals

"Learned professional exception" is a judicially crafted rule that excludes certain transactions from the purview of the Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) because they involve services provided by learned professionals in their professional capacity; the reasoning for this exception is that such professionals are subject to regulation specifically applicable to their profession, which might conflict with the regulation of activities under the CFA. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[27] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Presumptions, inferences, and burden of proof

In order to overcome the presumption that the Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) applies to a covered activity so that learned professional exception applies, a court must be satisfied that a direct and unavoidable conflict exists between application of the CFA and application of the other regulatory scheme or schemes. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[28] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Presumptions, inferences, and burden of proof

In order to overcome the presumption that the Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) applies to a covered activity so that learned professional exception applies, a court must be convinced that the other source or sources of regulation deal specifically, concretely, and pervasively with the particular activity, implying a legislative intent not to subject parties to multiple regulations that, as applied, will work at cross-purposes. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[29] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Professionals

For the learned professional exception to the Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) to apply, the conflict between application of the CFA and application of another regulatory scheme or schemes must be patent and sharp, and must not simply constitute a mere possibility of incompatibility. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[30] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Professionals

Plainly, there is no patent and sharp conflict between application of the Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) and application of another regulatory scheme or schemes as required for the learned professional exception to apply when the professional is not subject to such regulation and therefore, the rationale for the exception no longer applies. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[31] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Professionals

Learned professional exception to Consumer Fraud Act (CFA) did not apply to for-profit technical school; there was no regulatory body that defined uniform standards for the services it provided or its activities as a for-profit training school, let alone regulation that would present a patent and sharp conflict with the application of the CFA. N.J.S.A. 56:8–2.

Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

79 Jeffrey W. Herrmann argued the cause for appellant/cross-respondent (Cohn Lifland Pearlman Herrmann & Knopf LLP, attorneys; Mr. Herrmann, of counsel and on the brief; Alex A. Pisarevsky, Saddle Brook, on the brief).

Joseph A. Defuria argued the cause for respondent/cross-appellant (Gaccione Pomaco, P.C., attorneys; Mr. Defuria, of counsel and on the brief; Anthony G. Del Guercio, Belleville, on the brief).

Before Judges MESSANO, ESPINOSA and KENNEDY.

Opinion

The opinion of the court was delivered by

ESPINOSA, J.A.D.

*18 Defendant, Eastern International College, was formerly known as Micro Tech Training Center (Micro Tech), a for-profit technical school. Plaintiff Shanita D. Suarez enrolled in its diagnostic medical ultrasound technician (DMUT) program after an admissions representative told her that upon graduation, she would be able to perform ultrasounds on patients in hospitals and clinics and earn $65,000 per year. In this lawsuit, alleging violations of the Consumer Fraud Act (CFA), N.J.S.A. 56:8–1 to –195, and common law fraud, she contends that these representations were false. She alleges that, to obtain employment in this field, it was necessary to obtain ARDMS[1] certification. Because Micro Tech lacked necessary accreditation, she was not eligible upon graduation to take the examination administered by ARDMS to obtain the certification required by potential employers. She contends that, as a practical matter, she cannot either attain the credentials necessary to be eligible to take the ARDMS examination or obtain employment as an entry level sonographer.

Plaintiff now appeals from an order that granted summary judgment to defendant, dismissing her complaint. Defendant cross-appeals, arguing that plaintiff's CFA claim should have been dismissed as barred under a "learned professional" exemption. For the reasons that follow, we affirm the dismissal of plaintiff's common law fraud claim, reverse the dismissal of her CFA claim, and reject defendant's argument that the "learned professional" exemption applies.

I

[1] Consistent with the standard applicable to summary judgment motions and our review, we summarize the facts in the light most favorable to plaintiff, giving her the benefit of all favorable inferences in support of her claims. R. 4:46–2(c); Parks v. 19 Rogers, 176 N.J. 491, 494–95, 825 *A.*2d 1128 (2003); Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. *80 Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540, 666 *A.*2d 146 (1995).

Plaintiff left school after tenth grade and got her GED in 1995 when she was seventeen. A lack of daycare for her son thwarted her subsequent effort to obtain training in nursing. She also had to leave a computer training course two months short of completion because she could not afford the financial aid payments. At the time of her deposition, she had five children, ages sixteen, thirteen, ten, and six years old and eight months old, and was earning fifteen dollars per hour as a temporary billing clerk at a hospital.

Plaintiff learned of Micro Tech from an advertisement in the New York Post in May 2005. She contacted the school and met with a Mr. Brown, the admissions representative, and Patricia Washington, whom she believed was the dean of the school. She described her first meeting with Brown:

> Mr. Brown, he explained to me how the—what the program that I would be graduating, and I would be performing ultrasound after graduation on patients in the hospital and in the clinic. And he told me I needed to take a pre-entrance exam to get into the school. And he told me that once I graduate that I would be making good money and it would make my life different from what it is already before I came in there. And that I would be earning close to 65,000 a year, more than what nurses earn. Because I told him I had previously tried to become a nurse and he said, You would make more money as an ultrasound technologist than a nurse would.

Brown told her the program would last thirty-six months in the evening and twenty-four months in the day. Brown did not tell her about any certification requirements upon graduation or make any representations about obtaining certification. He did not state that Micro Tech guaranteed employment but said there was job placement available.

Plaintiff took the pre-entrance exam that day. She understood the results would dictate whether she could attend the school but was told "not to worry about it if [she] didn't do well." Although plaintiff's math results were "a little underscore," Washington told plaintiff not to worry about it.

20 Plaintiff decided to attend Micro Tech. She applied for financial aid and received a $5,000 grant and $17,000 in loans. Since graduation, she has received deferment of her obligation to repay the loans from Sallie Mae because of her low income.

Plaintiff received a catalog from Micro Tech when she started school. The catalog stated that, upon completion of the program, a student can obtain employment within a hospital or clinical setting as an ultrasound technologist and that the program would emphasize the requirements to obtain ARDMS certification. She asked the dean about ARDMS and was told she did not need to worry about it until after she graduated.

Plaintiff was one of approximately eight students in Micro Tech's inaugural DMUT class. She attended evening classes, meeting Monday through Thursday from 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., from May 2005 through January 2008. Plaintiff also completed six hundred hours of clinical work, performing ultrasound studies on patients in a lab setting. She received a diploma certificate in June 2008, that stated,

Shatina D. Suarez
Has successfully completed
2535 hours of
Diagnostic Medical Ultrasound Technician
At
81 Micro Tech Training Center, Inc.
Jersey City, New Jersey
On
June 18, 2008

Plaintiff then started "vigorously" looking for employment. At the end of September 2008, the placement representative at Micro Tech sent her to interview with a woman named Anna at On–Site Imaging (On–Site) in southern New Jersey. Anna told her that as a new graduate, she would have to prove herself by scanning patients and that if she did so satisfactorily until November, she would be hired as a full-time employee and would be scanning various patients near her area as opposed to where she was being sent. Plaintiff did approximately thirty ultrasound scans for On–Site *21 from September to mid-October 2008. Anna paid her twenty-five to thirty dollars for each test, and ten dollars per hour for travel time from On–Site to the patient.

In the beginning, plaintiff was told the scans she did were fine. After a few weeks, Anna told her there had been complaints about the way she filled out the forms that were turned in to the radiologist. Plaintiff knew one ultrasound was re-done.

According to plaintiff, Anna told her in mid-October that she did not have any patients for her. At the beginning of November, Anna told plaintiff she had a patient for her to scan that weekend and then, at the last minute, Anna contacted plaintiff and told her she could not send her out on any more patients until plaintiff met with her senior technologist. Plaintiff called him several times but the technologist never returned her calls. Plaintiff contacted Anna to ask if she could meet with someone else. Anna replied that she would get back to her but did not do so. Plaintiff kept calling, and finally, someone from On–Site told her to return the GPS given to her. At the end of January 2009, Anna called plaintiff and told her she could not be responsible for her driving so far from her residence to the locations she sent her to see patients; and that she could not provide plaintiff any more work unless she moved closer to the area.

In plaintiff's view, she was never employed by On–Site. She explained, "I didn't have employment. I never filled out a W–2. It was just promised to me that if I completed X, Y and Z, I would have employment in the future."

Every effort plaintiff made to secure employment thereafter failed because, she was told, she needed ARDMS certification to work as an ultrasound technician. However, to be eligible to take the examination for ARDMS certification, one had to satisfy pre-requisites that varied depending upon educational background. A student who graduates from a program accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP) *22 [2] is eligible to take the examination without any additional clinical ultrasound experience.

Micro Tech was not accredited by CAAHEP. As a result, its graduates were not eligible to take the ARDMS certification unless they also completed twelve months of full-time clinical ultrasound/vascular experience. However, without an ARDMS certification, no one was willing to provide plaintiff with the required twelve months of experience. [3]

82 In his letter report, plaintiff's expert, Fitzgerald Silvera, RT, MS, CRA, provided an explanation for this:

> CareCore National, a benefit management company hired by most of the major insurance companies (Aetna, BCBS, Healthnet, United [H]ealth, Oxford and GHI) to either pay for imaging services, pre-authorize examinations or both, [has] unequivocally stated that, "CareCore standards state that all non-certified U/S technologist and non-board certified radiologist, may no longer render services to patients whose health plans are clients of Care Core National."

According to Silvera, an ultrasound services provider that used an uncertified technologist also ran the risk of being barred from the payer network. In addition, the provider could be subject to fines that "can be severe and may be calculated retroactively at the payer's discretion." Silvera noted that "[m]ost reputable employers will not take that risk."

Over the three years she was at Micro Tech, no one told plaintiff about ARDMS requirements or that she would have to obtain twelve months of experience in order to be eligible for the examination. Plaintiff did not know of anyone who went to Micro Tech with her who obtained ARDMS certification.

23 Plaintiff denied that she was an "entry level sonographer," stating, "There's no facility to hire me as an entry level sonographer. I don't have experience. Entry level would be at least getting you into the door." She explained her reason for contacting a lawyer:

> I felt like I was sold goods that were no good, that I could do nothing with. I paid for something that I couldn't do anything with.
>
> ....
>
> I can't do anything with the certificate without ARDMS. And I can't get an ARDMS license without working for 12 months, and I've just been going in one big circle.

Plaintiff did not review Micro Tech's website until after she enrolled and did not read the website entry about the DMUT program until after she graduated. She does not contend that she relied upon the website in deciding to enroll at Micro Tech. However, because the contents of the website are included in the record and were relied upon by the motion judge, we include a pertinent section of them here:

> Objectives: The Diagnostic Medical Ultrasound Technician Program is designed to help students work effectively in a health-care environment. They will learn to perform ultrasound examinations coupled with a basic understanding of patient care in relation to performing their duties as entry-level sonographers.
>
> ....
>
> Emphasis will be placed on information and techniques necessary for ARDMS (American Registry of Diagnostic and Medical Sonography).
>
> There will be a clinical externship where the student spends 600 hours in a clinical ultrasound department or hospital ultrasound department, applying knowledge gained in the didactic section of the program. At the conclusion of the clinical externship, students will receive a diploma in Diagnostic Medical Ultrasound Technician.
>
> Graduates will be ready to enter the health-care field as professionals, responsible *83 for gathering information to aid with patient diagnosis.
>
> The students graduating from this program will be prepared to work in a variety of imaging laboratories, hospital and clinics as entry-level sonographers.
>
> ....
>
> Micro Tech Training Center is committed to the educational and professional enrichment of each student. The curriculum and environment provide an atmosphere in which students can excel and develop competence in their chosen field.
>
> The school takes pride in preparing individuals for the workplace. With a hands-on approach to training, students acquire practical, marketable skills.
>
> 24 [(Emphasis added.)]

The website lists the following "Accreditations & Licenses":

> Accredited by ACCSCT. [4]
>
> Licensed by New Jersey Dept. of Education.
>
> Approved for "Title IV" [5] by U.S. Dept. of Education

II

In this lawsuit, plaintiff alleges that defendant knowingly omitted material facts, i.e., (1) defendant's graduates were not eligible to sit for the examination required to obtain ARDMS certification without twelve months of additional full-time experience, (2) graduates of programs accredited by an agency recognized by ARDMS are eligible to sit for the examinations required to receive ARDMS certification, and (3) because they were not eligible for ARDMS certification, graduates of defendant's DMUT Program would, by and large, not be able to obtain work in their field.

Plaintiff also alleges that defendant made an affirmative misrepresentation, that upon graduation, she would have the qualifications needed to obtain a job as a sonographer in hospitals and clinics.

Defendant filed a motion for summary judgment, arguing that the complaint should be dismissed because, as a "learned professional," it fell outside the scope of the CFA. The trial court rejected defendant's "learned professional" argument on procedural grounds because it had not been pleaded as an affirmative 25 defense and defendant had not sought to amend its answer on a timely basis to include that defense.

Defendant also argued that the alleged misrepresentations were merely hopes and aspirations regarding its curriculum and that plaintiff's reliance upon them was not reasonable. In support of its motion, defendant cited the deposition testimony of its president, Bashir Mohsen, which it described as follows: "to the best of his knowledge, ARDMS certification is not required to obtain employment as an ultrasound technician; nor is ARDMS certification required for a medical provider to obtain insurance payments for ultrasounds."

*84 The court granted summary judgment to defendant, finding there was no genuine issue of fact that defendant had made any actionable misrepresentation. In doing so, the trial court reviewed the contents of defendant's website, which plaintiff did not rely upon, elected to rely upon statements made by defendant's president that conflicted with evidence presented by plaintiff and accepted defendant's characterization of plaintiff's association with On–Site as proof of her employability despite plaintiff's assertions to the contrary.

The court reviewed the contents of defendant's website and concluded, "there seems to be no dispute that the program enabled Ms. Suarez to obtain employment as a sonographer after her graduation from the program and in that regard, it lived up to its representations." The court found no affirmative misrepresentation that plaintiff would obtain any certification or qualification that the school could not provide. Rather, the court found, "defendant never claimed to be certified, they seem to only advise that it sought to teach the students the skills necessary for ARDMS testing and entry level sonography positions." Therefore, the court reasoned, plaintiff "got the benefit of her bargain[.]" The court also found no issue of fact as to whether defendant intended to deceive plaintiff.

The judge noted the president of the school had "[testified] that ARDMS certification isn't required to get employment as an entry 26 level sonographer." The judge discounted the opinion of plaintiff's expert to the contrary. She described his conclusion "that an individual in the plaintiff's position faces difficult job prospects" as insufficient to create an issue of fact. Despite plaintiff's insistence that she was not employed by On–Site and was unable to obtain employment because she lacked an ARDMS certification, the court found she "was employed as a sonographer and could continue to seek work as such." The judge found further that "the possibility exists for those in Ms. Suarez's position to eventually achieve the accreditation" by completing twelve months of clinical experience.

The court granted summary judgment, dismissing the CFA claim. The court also concluded that dismissal of plaintiff's common law fraud claim was appropriate, concluding that neither the statements on the website nor the statements made by Brown were false or misleading and, further, that she had not relied upon the statements made on the website.

In this appeal, plaintiff argues that the trial court erred in dismissing her CFA claim because defendant knowingly omitted material facts and made affirmative misrepresentations to her. She also contends that the trial court erred in holding defendant had not committed common law fraud. Defendant cross-appeals, arguing that the trial court erred in not barring plaintiff's claims pursuant to the "learned professional" exemption to the CFA.

III

In our review of the order granting summary judgment, we apply the same standard as the trial court. Spinks v. Twp. of Clinton, 402 N.J.Super. 465, 473, 955 *A.*2d 304 (App.Div.2008), certif. denied, 197 N.J. 476, 963 *A.*2d 845 (2009). Summary judgment is appropriate if the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, "show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law." R. 4:46–2(c); see also Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540, 666 *A.*2d 146.

"An issue of fact is *27 genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted 85 by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact." R. 4:46–2(c).

[2] [3] [4] [5] In considering the merits of a summary judgment motion, it is "not the court's function to weigh the evidence and determine the outcome but only to decide if a material dispute of fact exist[s]." Gilhooley v. Cnty. of Union, 164 N.J. 533, 545, 753 *A.*2d 1137 (2000) (citing Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540, 666 *A.*2d 146). "If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a 'genuine' issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46–2." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540, 666 *A.*2d 146; Mandel v. UBS/PaineWebber, Inc., 373 N.J.Super. 55, 71, 860 *A.*2d 945 (App.Div.2004), certif. denied, 183 N.J. 213, 871 *A.*2d 91 (2005). However, when there are conflicting versions of the facts that would permit a rational jury to choose either version, the resolution of that conflict requires a determination of which version is more credible. Such a factual dispute should be decided by a jury, not a court, Rowe v. Mazel Thirty, LLC, 209 N.J. 35, 50, 34 *A.*3d 1248 (2012); and it is improper for the motion judge to "abrogate[ ] the jury's exclusive role as the factfinder." Conrad v. Michelle & John, Inc., 394 N.J.Super. 1, 13, 925 *A.*2d 54 (App.Div.2007); see also Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540, 666 *A.*2d 146; Singer v. Beach Trading Co., 379 N.J.Super. 63, 73, 876 *A.*2d 885 (App.Div.2005); Davin, L.L.C. v. Daham, 329 N.J.Super. 54, 71, 746 *A.*2d 1034 (App.Div.2000) (conflicting certifications of experts presented a genuine issue of material fact, "precluding an award of summary judgment and requiring submission of the issue to the ultimate finder of fact").

[6] [7] In our review, we first determine whether the moving party has demonstrated that there are no genuine disputes as to material facts, and then we decide whether the motion judge's application of the law was correct. Atl. Mut. Ins. Co. v. Hillside *28 Bottling Co., 387 N.J.Super. 224, 230–31, 903 *A.*2d 513, (App.Div.), certif. denied, 189 N.J. 104, 912 *A.*2d 1264 (2006). We review issues of law de novo and accord no deference to the motion judge's conclusions on issues of law. Zabilowicz v. Kelsey, 200 N.J. 507, 512–13, 984 *A.*2d 872 (2009). Here, we are satisfied that there were genuine issues of fact as to plaintiff's CFA claim that precluded summary judgment.

IV

We briefly address the dismissal of plaintiff's common law fraud claim.

[8] [9] "A misrepresentation amounting to actual legal fraud consists of a material representation of a presently existing or past fact, made with knowledge of its falsity and with the intention that the other party rely thereon, resulting in reliance by that party to his detriment." Jewish Ctr. of Sussex Cnty. v. Whale, 86 N.J. 619, 624, 432 *A.*2d 521 (1981). Thus, the five essential elements to a claim of common law fraud are: "(1) a material misrepresentation of a presently existing or past fact; (2) knowledge or belief by the defendant of its falsity; (3) an intention that the other person rely on it; (4) reasonable reliance thereon by the other person; and (5) resulting damages." Gennari v. Weichert Co. Realtors, 148 N.J. 582, 610, 691 *A.*2d 350 (1997); Walid v. Yolanda for Irene Couture, Inc., 425 N.J.Super. 171, 180, 40 *A.*3d 85 (App.Div.2012).

Since reasonable reliance is a critical element of plaintiff's fraud claim, we narrow our focus to the statement relied upon by plaintiff, Brown's representations at the initial interview. She asserts that Brown 86 knowingly omitted material facts, i.e., that Micro Tech graduates would not be eligible to take the ARDMS examination and that without ARDMS certification, they would be largely unemployable as diagnostic sonographers. She also contends that he made an affirmative misrepresentation—that upon graduation, she would be performing ultrasounds on patients and making close to $65,000 per year.

*29 [10] Plaintiff has identified no evidence in the record to establish that Brown knew any statement he made was false. Even assuming he had a duty to disclose the facts regarding ARDMS eligibility and certification, see United Jersey Bank v. Kensey, 306 N.J.Super. 540, 558, 704 *A.*2d 38 (App.Div.1997), certif. denied, 153 N.J. 402, 709 *A.*2d 795 (1998), there is no evidence he was aware of their materiality and knowingly omitted those facts from his representations.

[11] [12] As to the claims of affirmative misrepresentation, plaintiff must show the misrepresentation of a fact that exists at or before the time the representation is made. See Mango v. Pierce–Coombs, 370 N.J.Super. 239, 253, 851 *A.*2d 62 (App.Div.2004). Hence, neither expressions of opinion, see, e.g., Daibo v. Kirsch, 316 N.J.Super. 580, 589, 720 *A.*2d 994 (App.Div.1998) (seller's representation as to value of property is a "matter of opinion" and "not usually a basis for a claim of fraud" (internal citation and quotation marks omitted)), nor "puffery," see, e.g., Trs. of Columbia Univ. v. Jacobsen, 53 N.J.Super. 574, 148 *A.*2d 63 (App.Div.) (university's expressions of goal of teaching wisdom to students was not a statement of fact), appeal dismissed, 31 N.J. 221, 156 *A.*2d 251 (1959), cert. denied, 363 U.S. 808, 80 S.Ct. 1243, 4 *L.Ed.*2d 1150 (1960), will satisfy this element of fraud. Brown's statements regarding plaintiff's potential employment and earning capacity were not statements of present or previously existing facts and therefore cannot provide the basis for a claim based on common law fraud.

We are satisfied that, on this record, the dismissal of plaintiff's common law fraud claim was appropriate.

V

[13] We next consider whether a genuine issue of fact existed as to plaintiff's CFA claim. To recover under the CFA, plaintiff must prove that a person has committed an unlawful practice; that she suffered an "ascertainable loss[;]" and that there was a causal relationship between the unlawful conduct and the ascertainable 30 loss. Gonzalez v. Wilshire Credit Corp., 207 N.J. 557, 576 (2011).

In pertinent part, N.J.S.A. 56:8–2 defines an unlawful practice under the CFA as follows:

> The act, use or employment by any person of any unconscionable commercial practice, deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or the knowing, concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale[6] or advertisement of any merchandise[7] or real estate, or with the subsequent performance of such person as aforesaid, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby, is declared to be an unlawful practice[.]

*87 Thus, the statute identifies two categories of unlawful practices,[8] affirmative acts of deception and knowing omissions of material fact. The criteria for satisfying the elements for each of these categories differ.

[14] [15] [16] A violation based on one of the affirmative acts does not require proof that the defendant intended to commit an unlawful act or intended to deceive the plaintiff. Cox v. Sears Roebuck & Co., 138 N.J. 2, 17–18, 647 *A.*2d 454 (1994); see also Thiedemann v. Mercedes–Benz USA, LLC, 183 N.J. 234, 245, 872 *A.*2d 783 (2005); Vagias v. Woodmont Properties, L.L.C., 384 N.J.Super. 129, 133, 894 *A.*2d 68 (App.Div.2006). An affirmative misrepresentation, the affirmative act alleged by plaintiff here, is "one which is material to the transaction and which is a statement of fact, found to be false, made to induce the buyer to make the purchase." Gennari v. Weichert Co. Realtors, 288 N.J.Super. 504, 535, 672 *A.*2d 1190 (App.Div.1996), aff'd, 148 N.J. 582, 691 *A.*2d 350 (1997); 31 Ji v. Palmer, 333 N.J.Super. 451, 462, 755 *A.*2d 1221 (App.Div.2000). As is the case with all affirmative acts, a person who makes an affirmative misrepresentation "is liable even in the absence of knowledge of the falsity of the misrepresentation, negligence, or the intent to deceive." Gennari, supra, 148 N.J. at 605, 691 *A.*2d 350.

[17] However, a plaintiff who alleges consumer fraud based upon a defendant's omission "must show that the defendant acted with knowledge, and intent is an essential element of the fraud." Bosland v. Warnock Dodge, Inc., 197 N.J. 543, 556, 964 *A.*2d 741 (2009) (quoting Cox, supra, 138 N.J. at 18, 647 *A.*2d 454) (internal quotation marks omitted).

[18] [19] Although initially designed to combat "sharp practices and dealings" that victimized consumers by luring them into purchases through fraudulent or deceptive means, the CFA is no longer aimed solely at "shifty, fast-talking and deceptive merchant[s]." Cox, supra, 138 N.J. at 16, 647 *A.*2d 454 (quoting D'Ercole Sales, Inc. v. Fruehauf Corp., 206 N.J.Super. 11, 23, 501 *A.*2d 990 (App.Div.1985)) (internal quotation marks omitted). The goal of this remedial legislation is to establish "a broad business ethic," promoting a standard of conduct that contemplates "good faith, honesty in fact and observance of fair dealing.' " Meshinsky v. Nichols Yacht Sales, Inc., 110 N.J. 464, 472, 541 *A.*2d 1063 (1988) (quoting Kugler v. Romain, 58 N.J. 522, 544, 279 *A.*2d 640 (1971)) (internal quotation marks omitted). Therefore, the CFA is "intended to protect consumers from deception and fraud, 'even when committed in good faith.' " Ji, supra, 333 N.J.Super. at 461, 755 *A.*2d 1221 (quoting Gennari, supra, 148 N.J. at 604, 691 *A.*2d 350).

[20] [21] [22] "[N]ot just any erroneous statement will constitute a misrepresentation prohibited by" the CFA. Gennari, supra, 148 N.J. at 607, 691 *A.*2d 350 (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). However, a practice may be unlawful "whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby[.]" N.J.S.A. 56:8–2; 32 Gonzalez, supra, 207 N.J. at 576–77, 25 *A.*3d 1103; see also Cox, supra, 138 N.J. at 17–19, 647 *A.*2d 454; Branigan v. Level on the Level, Inc., 326 N.J.Super. 24, 31, 740 *A.*2d 643 (App.Div.1999). It is the capacity to mislead that is the "prime ingredient of all types of consumer fraud" under the CFA. *88 Cox, supra, 138 N.J. at 17, 647 *A.*2d 454; Quigley v. Esquire Deposition Servs., LLC, 409 N.J.Super. 69, 78, 975 *A.*2d 1042 (App.Div.2009), certif. denied, 201 N.J. 154, 988 *A.*2d 1177 (2010), cert. denied, — U.S. —, 130 S.Ct. 3473, 177 *L.Ed.*2d 1057 (2010). Consistent with that goal, the CFA and attendant regulations are "also designed to promote the disclosure of relevant information to enable the consumer to make intelligent decisions in the selection of products and services." Div. of Consumer Affairs v. Gen. Elec. Co., 244 N.J.Super. 349, 353, 582 *A.*2d 831 (App.Div.1990). Therefore, the CFA may be violated by an affirmative misrepresentation so misleading as to a fact material to the consumer's decision that the consumer is effectively deprived of the ability to make an intelligent decision.

In Vagias, supra, the plaintiffs told their realtor they wanted to buy a house in the "Montville" section of Montville Township, as opposed to two other sections of town. 384 N.J.Super. at 131, 894 *A.*2d 68. After the builder represented—falsely—that the house was in the Montville section, the realtor referred to the house as being in "Montville." Id. at 131–32, 894 *A.*2d 68. The plaintiffs acknowledged that the realtor did not knowingly misrepresent the location of the house but contended that her conduct violated the CFA "because she made an affirmative false statement which concerned a matter of considerable consequence in the transaction and on which they relied to their detriment." Id. at 132, 894 *A.*2d 68. The trial court granted summary judgment to the realtor. The court reasoned that since the misstatement was made by omitting the word "Township" when she described the house as being in "Montville," the realtor's error was an omission, which required knowledge, rather than an affirmative misrepresentation. Id. at 133, 894 *A.*2d 68. In addition, the motion judge concluded that the statement was "puffery" rather than actionable conduct under the Act. Ibid.

33 In reversing, we viewed the failure to advise the plaintiffs of the true location of the house as an affirmative misrepresentation, stating:

> If [the realtor] provided plaintiffs with affirmative misinformation on what she knew was a critical issue in their decision to purchase the house, she violated the [CFA]. Further, she was not an innocent bystander making a casual comment. She was assisting plaintiffs in choosing a house to buy, and she received a commission on the sale.
>
> [Id. at 134–35, 894 *A.*2d 68 (emphasis added) (internal citations omitted).]

The realtor's statement that the house was in "Montville" was literally true but, because it failed to give accurate information about a fact that was material to the buyer's decision, it had the capacity to mislead them. As a result, the omission of accurate information about that material fact rendered the statement an affirmative misrepresentation actionable under the CFA.[9] See Smajlaj v. Campbell Soup Co., 782 *F.Supp.*2d 84, 98 (D.N.J.2011) (a literally true statement can still have the capacity to mislead the average consumer and therefore, fall within the purview of the CFA); cf. In re Shack, 177 N.J.Super. 358, 363, 426 *A.*2d 1031 (App.Div.1981) (stating that "a half-truth can be as deceptive as a positive misrepresentation" (internal citation and quotation marks omitted)), *89 certif. denied, 87 N.J. 352, 434 *A.*2d 95 (1981).

[23] A statement or matter is material if:

> (a) a reasonable man would attach importance to its existence in determining his choice of action ...; or (b)

> the maker of the representation knows or has reason to know that its recipient regards or is likely to regard the matter as important in determining his choice of action, although a reasonable man would not so regard it.
>
> [Restatement (Second) of Torts § 538(2) (1977).]

The statements regarding plaintiff's ability to be employed as an entry level sonographer are material under either of the Restatement's tests.

34 Our consideration of the materiality of this statement to the "reasonable" person is informed by federal regulations in the area. The United States Department of Education established regulations pursuant to 20 U.S.C. § 1094 to prohibit institutions eligible to participate in federal loan and grant programs from making certain misrepresentations to prospective students. 34 C.F.R. 668.71(b) states, in pertinent part,

> An eligible institution is deemed to have engaged in substantial misrepresentation when the institution itself, [or] one of its representatives, ... makes a substantial misrepresentation regarding the eligible institution, including about the nature of its educational program, its financial charges, or the employability of its graduates.
>
> [(Emphasis added.)]

34 C.F.R. § 668.72 defines misrepresentations as to the nature of the institution's program as including > false, erroneous or misleading statements concerning ... [w]hether successful completion of a course of instruction qualifies a student ... [t]o take the examination ... required as a precondition for employment, ... or to meet additional conditions that the institution knows or reasonably should know are generally needed to secure employment in a recognized occupation for which the program is represented to prepare students.

>
> [34 C.F.R. § 668.72(c)(2) (emphasis added).]

Misrepresentations regarding the employability of an eligible institution's graduates are also specifically addressed in 34 C.F.R. § 668.74, which prohibits "false, erroneous or misleading statements," including statements concerning the "institution's knowledge about the current or likely future conditions, compensation, or employment opportunities in the industry or occupation for which the students are being prepared[,]" 34 C.F.R. § 668.74(c), and "[o]ther requirements that are generally needed to be employed in the fields for which the training is provided[.]" 34 C.F.R. § 668.74(f).

The regulation of specific categories of prohibited misrepresentations clearly reflects an awareness that issues such as employability and what credentials are "generally needed" to be employed are important to the prospective student in selecting an institution 35 for post-secondary training.[10] The evidence here would permit a jury to conclude that information *90 regarding employability upon completion of the Micro Tech DMUT program, the apparent necessity of ARDMS certification and the additional requirements before a Micro Tech graduate could be eligible to take the ARDMS certification were all facts to which "a reasonable person would attach importance" in selecting a school.

The affirmative misrepresentations alleged here also satisfy the criteria for materiality in subsection (b) of the Restatement definition. Plaintiff's unrefuted description of her interview with Brown provided ample basis for a jury to find that he knew her ability to be employed as an entry-level sonographer was a critical issue in her decision to enroll.

Both defendant and the trial court cited Jacobsen, supra, 53 N.J.Super. at 574, 148 *A.*2d 63, as support for the proposition that the statements made to plaintiff regarding her ability to work as an entry-level sonographer referred to defendant's own hopes and aspirations for its program rather than any actionable misrepresentation. Their reliance is misplaced.

In response to Columbia's suit to seek the balance of his tuition, Jacobsen filed a counterclaim, alleging fraud. Id. at 575–76, 148 *A.*2d 63. He cobbled together fifty mottos, inscriptions on buildings, quotations from brochures and the like, which, he alleged, falsely represented that Columbia would teach him wisdom, character and similar virtues and qualities. Id. at 576, 148 *A.*2d 63.

We agreed with the trial court that "wisdom is not a subject which can be taught and that no rational person would accept such a claim made by any man or institution." Id. at 579, 148 *A.*2d 63. We described the compendium of statements Jacobsen relied upon 36 as "nothing more than a fairly complete exposition of Columbia's objectives, desires and hopes[.]" Ibid. Because Jacobsen failed to establish an element of his claim, i.e., a false representation, we affirmed the trial court's order that granted summary judgment, dismissing the counterclaim.

Although Jacobsen's claim was based on fraud, we agree that Columbia's expression of lofty aspirational goals would also not be actionable under the CFA. Our recognition that "no rational person would accept" a claim that wisdom and character could be taught comports with the reasoning in cases that declined to find actionable statements that amounted to mere puffery. See, e.g., Rodio v. Smith, 123 N.J. 345, 352, 587 *A.*2d 621 (1991) (holding that insurer's slogan, "You're in good hands with Allstate" was not "a deception, false promise, misrepresentation, or any other unlawful practice" under the CFA but only "puffery"); N.J. Citizen Action v. Schering–Plough Corp., 367 N.J.Super. 8, 13–14, 842 *A.*2d 174 (App.Div.) (finding that phrases in advertisements for allergy products such as "you ... can lead a normal nearly symptom-free life again" were not statements of fact but "merely expressions in the nature of puffery," not actionable under the CFA), certif. denied, 178 N.J. 249, 837 *A.*2d 1092 (2003). The difference between such expressions and statements that may be actionable under the CFA is that they did not thwart the reasonable expectations of the consumer and did not present information in a manner that deprived the consumer of material facts necessary to make an intelligent decision in selecting a product or service to purchase. See Turf Lawnmower Repair, Inc. v. Bergen Record Corp., 139 N.J. 392, 416, 655 *A.*2d 417 (1995), cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1066, 116 S.Ct. 752, 133 *L.Ed.*2d 700 (1996) (holding that to constitute consumer fraud, "the business practice in question must be 'misleading' and stand outside the norm of reasonable business practice in that it will victimize the average consumer").

*91 Plaintiff alleged that defendant made an affirmative misrepresentation in telling her that upon graduation, she would have the qualifications needed to obtain a job as a sonographer in hospitals 37 and clinics. She asserted that she was virtually unemployable as an entry-level sonographer because she could not, as a practical matter, attain eligibility for the ARDMS examination to obtain the certification required by employers. Her expert supported her version of the facts by explaining that major insurance companies would not reimburse a provider for any service performed by an ultrasound technician not certified by ARDMS. The inability to obtain reimbursement and the risk of sanctions provided ample reason for employers to decline to employ any ultrasound technologist who was not certified by ARDMS.

[24] Defendant's president presented a contrary view, stating that an ARDMS certification was not required and that plaintiff was indeed employable as an entry-level sonographer.[11] This conflict required a determination of which was the more credible version, a matter which lies within the jury's exclusive role as the factfinder. Rowe, supra, 209 N.J. at 50, 34 *A.*3d 1248; see also Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540, 666 *A.*2d 146; Conrad, supra, 394 N.J.Super. at 13, 925 *A.*2d 54. The motion judge therefore erred in weighing the two versions of the facts and finding the facts to be as stated by defendant, denying plaintiff the legitimate inferences to be drawn from the evidence she produced.

[25] Further, although the judge found no issue of fact as to whether defendant intended to deceive plaintiff, plaintiff was not required to show such intent to support her claim of an affirmative misrepresentation in violation of the CFA. As we have noted, a person who makes an affirmative misrepresentation "is liable even in the absence of knowledge of the falsity of the misrepresentation, negligence, or the intent to deceive." Gennari, supra, 148 38 N.J. at 605, 691 *A.*2d 350. To support her contention, plaintiff had to present evidence that defendant made a representation regarding a fact material to the transaction, that proved to be false, and was made to induce her to enroll in Micro Tech. See Gennari, supra, 288 N.J.Super. at 535, 672 *A.*2d 1190. If a jury accepted plaintiff's proofs, it could find the statement that plaintiff would be employable as an entry-level sonographer following completion of the Micro Tech DMUT program was a statement of fact, material to her decision to enroll and made to induce her to do so. The jury could also find, based upon the evidence, that this statement was false.

In light of the record and applicable legal principles, we are satisfied that the motion judge erred in granting summary judgment to defendant, dismissing plaintiff's CFA claim.

VI

In its cross-appeal, defendant argues that the trial court erred in failing to afford it the benefit of the "learned professional" exception to the CFA. We disagree, and although the trial court rejected this 92 argument on procedural grounds, we address its merits.

[26] [27] [28] [29] That "judicially crafted rule" excludes certain transactions from the purview of the CFA "because they involve services provided by learned professionals in their professional capacity." Lee v. First Union Nat'l Bank, 199 N.J. 251, 263, 971 *A.*2d 1054 (2009). The reasoning for this exception is that such professionals are subject to regulation specifically applicable to their profession, which might conflict with the regulation of activities under the CFA. Id. at 264, 971 *A.*2d 1054; Macedo v. Dello Russo, 178 N.J. 340, 344–45, 840 *A.*2d 238 (2004); see, e.g., Hampton Hosp. v. Bresan, 288 N.J.Super. 372, 672 *A.*2d 725 (App.Div.), certif. denied, 144 N.J. 588, 677 *A.*2d 760 (1996). The fact that the activity is subject to regulation will not, alone, render the CFA inapplicable.

> *39 In order to overcome the presumption that the CFA applies to a covered activity, a court must be satisfied ... that a direct and unavoidable conflict exists between application of the CFA and application of the other regulatory scheme or schemes. It must be convinced that the other source or sources of regulation deal specifically, concretely, and pervasively with the particular activity, implying a legislative intent not to subject parties to multiple regulations that, as applied, will work at cross-purposes. We stress that the conflict must be patent and sharp, and must not simply constitute a mere possibility of incompatibility.
>
> [Lemelledo v. Beneficial Mgmt. Corp. of Am., 150 N.J. 255, 270, 696 *A.*2d 546 (1997).]

[30] Plainly, there is no "patent and sharp" conflict when the "professional" is not subject to such regulation and therefore, the rationale for the exception no longer applies. In Finderne Mgmt. Co., Inc. v. Barrett, 402 N.J.Super. 546, 955 *A.*2d 940 (App.Div.2008), we found the "learned professional" exception inapplicable to financial planners, observing that "no regulatory body defines uniform education, testing, or standards governing financial planners or the products they promote." Id. at 568–69, 955 *A.*2d 940 (citing N.J.S.A. 45:1–1 to –32 (Professions and Occupations Subject To State Boards Of Registration And Examination)). We found that, in the absence of governmental board or agency regulation, the fact that "competing voluntary associations issue designations to those who seek to be called 'financial planners,' " was insufficient to establish them as "learned professionals." Id. at 569, 955 *A.*2d 940. We therefore concluded, "the lack of uniform regulation of an occupational group defeats its recognition as 'learned professionals' " and exemption from the CFA. Ibid.

[31] Defendant contends that it is entitled to the "learned professional" exception because it provides post-high school educational and vocational training. It has identified no regulatory body that defines uniform standards for the services it provides or its activities as a for-profit training school, let alone regulation that would present a "patent and sharp" conflict with the application of the CFA. Certainly, the federal regulations we have reviewed do not present such a conflict. Accordingly, the learned professional exemption is not applicable to defendant.

*40 We are satisfied that any issues not specifically addressed lack sufficient merit to warrant discussion in a written opinion. R. 2:11–3(e)(1)(E). The order granting summary judgment, dismissing the common law fraud claim, is affirmed. The order granting summary judgment, dismissing the CFA claim, is reversed. As to 93 the cross-appeal, we affirm the trial court's ruling that the "learned professional" exemption may not be relied upon by the defendant. We do not retain jurisdiction.

All Citations

428 N.J.Super. 10, 50 A.3d 75

Footnotes

1 American Registry for Diagnostic Medical Sonography.

2 Programs at Bergen Community College, Gloucester County College, Muhlenberg Regional Medical Center, Sanford Brown Institute and the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey are accredited by CAAHEP.

3 Plaintiff testified that the work she did for On–Site could not be applied to the twelve-month requirement because ARDMS also required "that you have to be employed for a facility and a certain amount of time and a physician has to sign off on the test that you do" by completing a form from ARDMS.

4 The Accrediting Commission of Career Schools and Colleges of Technology (ACCSCT) is a private accrediting agency and its accreditation is not recognized in determining a graduate's eligibility to take the ARDMS examination without the additional twelve months full-time experience.

5 Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965, Pub.L. No. 89–329, 79 Stat. 1219 (codified as amended 20 U.S.C. § 1070 et seq.); 42 U.S.C. 2751 et seq. We note that 34 C.F.R. § 668.75 specifically prohibits any institution eligible for participation in Title IV programs from describing its participation "in a manner that suggests approval or endorsement by the U.S. Department of Education of the quality of its educational programs."

6 "Sale" includes "any sale, ... offer for sale, ... or attempt directly or indirectly to sell[.]" N.J.S.A. 56:8–1(e).

7 "Merchandise" includes "any ... services or anything offered, directly or indirectly to the public for sale." N.J.S.A. 56:8–1(c).

8 A third category of "unlawful practice," not applicable here, concerns the violation of regulations enacted under N.J.S.A. 56:8–4.

9 In our view, the specific allegations of "knowing omissions" alleged by plaintiff are essentially subsumed in the allegation of the affirmative misrepresentation that, following completion of the Micro Tech DMUT program, she would be able to be employed as an entry level sonographer and do not require further analysis.

10 The use of deceptive recruiting practices by for-profit educational institutions has been the subject of an investigation by the Government Accountability Office, see U.S. Gov't Accountability Office, GAO–10–948T, For–Profit Colleges (2010), and a topic of public comment, see "Peter S. Goodman, In Hard Times, Lured Into Trade School and Debt," N.Y. Times, March 4, 2010, at A1.

11 Although Mohsen denied that an ARDMS license was required for insurance reimbursement, he admitted he did not know what insurance company policy was with regard to reimbursement for sonograms. As for the need to have ARDMS certification to obtain employment, he testified, "As far as I know, if you want a job in ultrasound, working as a technician, you can get a job." He did admit that it was "[p]ossible in some cases" that a licensed person has an advantage in getting employment as opposed to someone who is not licensed.

End of Document © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

2011 WL 6989888
Only the Westlaw citation is currently available.

UNPUBLISHED OPINION. CHECK COURT RULES BEFORE CITING.

Superior Court of Connecticut, Judicial District of Stamford–Norwalk.

Synthia BROOKS
v.
SALLE MAE, INC.

No. FSTCV096002530S.
|
Dec. 20, 2011.

ALFRED J. JENNINGS, JR., Judge Trial Referee.

Procedural/Factual Background

1 The plaintiff, Synthia Brooks, a resident of Greenwich, on dates prior to 2003 obtained student loans administered under the Federal Family Education Loan Program. All her student loans were consolidated and are administered through the defendant Sallie Mae, Inc., which is now the holder of those loans. After obtaining a doctorate in psychology and becoming a neuropsychologist, plaintiff alleges that she found her income to be insufficient to make the monthly payments on her student loans. She applied to Sallie Mae for a period of forbearance which was granted for a period of five years which expired on or about December, 21, 2007 when the defendant began contacting the plaintiff about late student loan payments. Plaintiff advised a Sallie Mae representative that her income was insufficient to permit her to make the payments. Plaintiff's Amended Complaint of March 5, 2010, which is the operative complaint, alleges that a Sallie Mae representative by the name of Joan Banks then advised the plaintiff to apply for an Economic Hardship Deferment, and that the plaintiff sent a signed Economic Hardship Deferment Request form ("EHDR") to Sallie Mae on December 20, 2007 along with a copy of her most recently filed federal income tax return for the year 2006, which she claims was in accordance with the instructions given to her by Ms. Banks and with the written instructions on the EHDR form. Plaintiff alleges that despite the fact that she had submitted the EHDR form, the defendant sent account statements to the plaintiff showing that she failed to make any payments on her student loans during January, February and March 2008. Moreover, in late March 2008, Banks contacted the plaintiff and requested that she complete a new form because her previous one had failed to include a social security number. The plaintiff then faxed another completed form and a copy of her 2006 federal tax return to the defendant on April 7, 2008. On April 15, 2008, Banks again contacted the plaintiff and told her that the defendant would only accept either a 2007 federal tax return or pay stubs as proof of the plaintiff's income. The plaintiff informed Banks that she had yet to file a 2007 federal tax return and that she did not have any pay stubs because she was self-employed. Banks told the plaintiff that a tax return or pay stubs were the only documents that the defendant could accept in order to verify her income. The plaintiff was subsequently told by another representative of the defendant, Lisa, that the defendant would also accept quarterly tax statements, quarterly withholding statements or recent pay stubs. Nevertheless, the plaintiff also did not have any of these documents. Furthermore, the plaintiff was told that the defendant could not process her deferment request until after the plaintiff paid the balance and late fees owed on her loans.

The plaintiff further alleges that pursuant to 34 C.F.R. § 682.210(s)(6)(ix), the defendant could have accepted other documentation to substantiate her income, but the defendant chose not to do so because it wanted to delay purposefully the processing of her deferment request in order to drive up late fees. As a result of the defendant's alleged mishandling of the plaintiff's request for an economic hardship deferment, the plaintiff alleges that, inter alia, she suffered damages because her loans entered into default and she incurred late fees, accrual of interest and collection fees. Consequently, the plaintiff's one-count amended complaint alleges a cause of action against the defendant for violations of the Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act, General Statutes § 42–110a et seq. (CUTPA).

2 On August 13, 2010, the defendant filed an answer along with three special defenses in response to the plaintiff's amended complaint. On January 4, 2011, pursuant to the plaintiff's substitute motion to strike, this court (Adams, J.) struck the first two special defenses. In its only surviving special defense, the defendant alleges that the plaintiff's CUTPA claim is preempted by the federal Higher Education Act of 1965, 20 U.S.C. §§ 1001–115 ("HEA").

On July 1, 2011, the plaintiff filed a motion for summary judgment on the ground that there is no genuine issue of material fact as to the defendant's conduct, which she alleges was in violation of CUTPA. On July 27, 2011, the defendant filed a cross motion for summary judgment on the grounds that the plaintiff has failed to produce any evidence satisfying the "cigarette rule" so as to substantiate her CUTPA claim and that the plaintiff's CUTPA claim is preempted by the HEA. The plaintiff filed a supplemental memorandum of law in support of its motion for summary judgment on August 3, 2011, to which the plaintiff attached her own affidavit of August 2, 2011 as an exhibit. On August 16, 2011, the defendant moved to strike this affidavit on the ground that it is unreliable in that it contains statements that contradict the plaintiff's deposition testimony and that it is filled with inadmissible hearsay. The matter was heard at the short calendar on August 22, 2011, at which the plaintiff's counsel withdrew its supplemental pleadings that were the subject of the defendant's motion to strike on the ground that the contents of the affidavit was already contained in the plaintiff's memorandum of law in opposition to the defendant's motion for summary judgment. Accordingly, the court marked off the defendant's motion to strike as moot.

In support of her motion, the plaintiff submits the following evidence: (1) a copy of the plaintiff's economic hardship deferment request form; (2) a copy of an invoice sent by the defendant on April 15, 2008; (3) a copy of the plaintiff's filed 2006 federal income tax return; and (4) copies of the plaintiff's deferment requests on December 15, 2007 and March 31, 2008. The defendant submits the following evidence in support of its cross motion: (1) the signed and sworn affidavit of James Austin, a Customer Advocate of the defendant; (2) copies of the defendant's communications with the plaintiff from August 16, 2007 through September 18, 2008; and (3) the deposition testimony of the plaintiff.

Discussion

"Practice Book § 17–49 provides that summary judgment shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, affidavits and any other proof submitted show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. In deciding a motion for summary judgment, the trial court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Sherman v. Ronco, 294 Conn. 548 (2010). "The party moving for summary judgment has the burden of showing the absence of any genuine issue of material fact and that the party is, therefore, entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Viola v. O'Dell, 108 Conn.App. 760, 763–64 (2008). "In ruling on a motion for summary judgment, the court's function is not to decide issues of material fact, but rather to determine whether any such issues exist." Nolan v. Borkowski, 206 Conn. 495, 500 (1988). "The test is whether a party would be entitled to a directed verdict on the same facts ... A motion for summary judgment is properly granted if it raises at least one legally sufficient defense that would bar the plaintiff's claim and involves no triable issue of fact." (Emphasis in original; internal quotation marks omitted.) Byrne v. Burke, 112 Conn.App. 262, 268 (2009).

3 The plaintiff makes the following arguments. First, regarding the defendant's preemption claim, CUTPA is not preempted by the HEA. There is no conflict preemption, as CUTPA is not an obstacle to the HEA; CUTPA is invoked only when there is non-compliance with the HEA. Moreover, the court held in College Loan Corp. v. SLM Corp., 396 F.3d 588 (4th Cir.2005), that a defendant cannot rely upon an HEA preemption defense on the ground that may be enforced only by the Department of Education. The United States Supreme Court has recognized that the availability of a state law claim is even more important in an area, such as here, where no federal private right of action exists. Second, the plaintiff supplied the required information to the defendant for her deferment request and qualified for deferment, but the defendant refused to approve the request. Although the federal regulations provide that the documentation provided must be "satisfactory to the lender," there is no room for interpretation and no reason for the defendant to argue that a borrower's most recently filed federal income tax return is not satisfactory documentation to qualify a borrower for a given category. Finally, the plaintiff argues that a failure to comply with the HEA is a violation of CUTPA. Specifically, because the defendant's non-compliance with the federal regulations is an internal policy, the violation was not mere negligence, but rather intentional. Moreover, the plaintiff suffered substantial injury as her loans entered into default, including capitalized interest added to the plaintiff's balance and the assessment of a debt collection fee. The plaintiff did not benefit from her loan entering into default, and there was no way for the plaintiff to avoid the injury. The plaintiff's only options were deferment, forbearance or payment. The plaintiff could not afford to pay, and only the defendant was in a position to offer forbearance if deferment was not possible, as the plaintiff was not in a position to demand forbearance.

The defendant argues the following. First, the defendant did not violate CUTPA, as it processed the plaintiff's deferment request promptly, just days after the receipt of the request. Moreover, negligent acts are not sufficient to form the basis of a CUTPA claim, and the plaintiff is essentially alleging that the defendant was negligent in both its communication about the requirements for deferment and in its processing of the plaintiff's request; and a misrepresentation or failure to exercise diligence does not give rise to a CUTPA claim. Furthermore, the regulations issued by the Department of Education govern the processing of deferment requests and under those regulations, the plaintiff was required to submit not only documentation satisfactory to the lender, but also evidence showing the amount of her monthly income because this was an initial deferment request. The plaintiff did not satisfy this requirement. Also, not only has the plaintiff failed to prove a causal link between the defendant's alleged unfair acts and her alleged injury, she has not provided evidence to satisfy the substantial injury prong of her CUTPA claim. The plaintiff had ample time and opportunity to prevent her alleged damages, as her loan defaulted as a result of the plaintiff's own inaction. Regarding preemption, the defendant argues that numerous courts have ruled that state law claims of misrepresentation and unfair and deceptive acts and practices are preempted by the HEA. For instance, in Chae v. SLM Corp., 593 F.3d 936 (9th Cir.2010), cert. denied, 131 S.Ct. 458, 178 L.Ed.2d 287 (2010), the court held that the borrowers' state law claims, including those for unfair trade practices and for misrepresentation, were preempted by the HEA under express and conflict preemption. A dispute concerning the application and eligibility for a deferment falls within the comprehensive framework of the HEA.

4 Since summary judgment for a defendant is properly granted if it raises at least one valid defense which does not involve a triable issue of fact, Byrne, supra, the court will address initially the defendant's special defense of preemption by the HEA. Before getting into the preemption issues it is necessary to review the background of that federal statute and its Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP).

1. Background on HEA and FFELP

"Congress enacted the Higher Education Act of 1965 ... [t]o strengthen the educational resources of our colleges and universities and to provide financial assistance for students in postsecondary and higher education ... The attempted accomplishment of these purposes has resulted in a complicated set of statutes and regulations." (Citation omitted; internal quotation marks omitted.) McNamee, Lochner, Titus & Williams, P.C. v. Higher Education Assistance Foundation, 50 F.3d 120, 121 (2d Cir.1995). "Title IV of the Higher Education Act governs federally-funded student financial aid programs for college and post-secondary vocational training. 20 U.S.C. § (s)1070 et seq." Coalition of New York State Career Schools, Inc. v. Riley, 129 F.3d 276, 277 (2d Cir.1997). "Title IV provides the statutory scheme for Federal Family Education Loan programs ... by which eligible students may receive financial assistance for higher education ... FFEL programs include, among other things, the Federal Stafford Loan program and the Federal Supplemental Loans for Students program ... The purpose of these programs is to make available and subsidize student loans from private lenders with repayment insured by the government." (Citations omitted.) Chauffeur's Training School, Inc. v. Spellings, 478 F.3d 117, 120 (2d Cir.2007). The Secretary of the Department of Education is authorized to prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes" of the Federal Family Education Loan Programs. 20 U.S.C. § 1082(a)(1); see also Chae v. SLM Corp., supra, 593 F.3d at 939. "Under that authority, the [Department of Education] has promulgated detailed regulations. See 34 C.F.R. §§ 682.100–682.800." Chae v. SLM Corp., supra, 593 F.3d at 939.

Among those regulations is § 682.210(s)(6), which governs economic hardship deferments under the HEA. "An eligible borrower is entitled to an economic hardship deferment for periods of up to one year at a time that, collectively, do not exceed 3 years ... if the borrower provides documentation satisfactory to the lender showing that the borrower is within any of the categories described in paragraphs (s)(6)(i) through (s)(6)(vi) of this section." 34 C.F.R. § 682.210(s)(6). One of those categories involves students who are working full-time and who have a "monthly income that does not exceed the greater of (as calculated on a monthly basis)—(A) The minimum wage rate ... or (B) An amount equal to 150 percent of the poverty guideline applicable to the borrower's family size ..." 34 C.F.R. § 682.210(s)(6)(iii).

2. Preemption

5 Under the supremacy clause of the United States Constitution, "state laws that conflict with federal law are without effect." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Altria Group, Inc. v. Good, 555 U.S. 70, 76, 129 S.Ct. 538, 172 L.Ed.2d 398 (2008). "[S]tate law is pre-empted under the [s]upremacy [c]lause ... in three circumstances. First, Congress can define explicitly the extent to which its enactments pre-empt state law ... Preemption fundamentally is a question of congressional intent ... and when Congress has made its intent known through explicit statutory language, the courts' task is an easy one. Second, in the absence of explicit statutory language, state law is pre-empted where it regulates conduct in a field that Congress intended the [f]ederal [g]overnment to occupy exclusively. Such an intent may be inferred from a scheme of federal regulation ... so pervasive as to make reasonable the inference that Congress left no room for the [s]tates to supplement it, or where an [a]ct of Congress touch[es] a field in which the federal interest is so dominant that the federal system will be assumed to preclude enforcement of state laws on the same subject ... Where ... the field which Congress is said to have pre-empted includes areas that have been traditionally occupied by the [s]tates, congressional intent to supersede state laws must be clear and manifest ... Finally, state law is pre-empted to the extent that it actually conflicts with federal law. Thus, the [c]ourt has found pre-emption where it is impossible for a private party to comply with both state and federal requirements ... or where state law stands as an obstacle to the accomplishment and execution of the full purposes and objectives of Congress." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Rodriguez v. Testa, 296 Conn. 1, 8–9 (2010). An "inquiry into the scope of a statute's pre-emptive effect is guided by the rule that [t]he purpose of Congress is the ultimate touchstone in every pre-emption case ... Congress may indicate pre-emptive intent through a statute's express language or through its structure and purpose." (Citation omitted; internal quotation marks omitted.) Altria Group, Inc. v. Good, supra, 555 U.S. at 76.

In this case, the defendant alleges that the plaintiff's CUTPA claim is preempted by the HEA and its regulations.[1] To support this claim, the defendant must prove that: (1) the HEA explicitly preempts CUTPA; (2) Congress legislated so comprehensively in the area of student financial lending that the HEA occupies an entire field of regulation and leaves no room for state law; or (3) CUTPA conflicts with the HEA such that it is impossible for a party to comply with both, or CUTPA is an obstacle to the achievement of the objectives of the HEA.

a. Express Preemption

The following provisions of the HEA include express preemption language: 20 U.S.C. § 1091a(a)(2) (state statutes of limitations); id. at § 1078(d) (state usury laws); id. at § 1091a(b) (state law infancy defense); and id. at § 1098g. The only preemption provision implicated by the plaintiff's pleadings is § 1098g, which provides in relevant part: "Loans made, insured, or guaranteed pursuant to a program authorized by title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 ... shall not be subject to any disclosure requirements of any State law." (Citation omitted.) Thus, to the extent that a plaintiff brings suit alleging that a student loan provider violated state disclosure requirements, § 1098g expressly preempts that law. See Chae v. SLM Corp., supra, 593 F.3d at 942–43. Here, the plaintiff alleges that the defendant "failed to inform [the plaintiff] of her other options if she was unable to comply with [economic deferment] requirements as [the defendant] had represented them" and refused to inform the plaintiff of "what other information she could submit as proof of her recent income which would allow [the defendant] to determine her eligibility for [economic deferment]." The plaintiff makes these allegations as part of her CUTPA claim. To the extent that CUTPA requires the defendant to disclose the information that the plaintiff sought, there is no genuine issue of material fact but that § 1098g[2] preempts those factual allegations.

6 The plaintiff further alleges that the defendant "misrepresented the documentation requirements to determine eligibility" for economic deferment and "misrepresented that [the plaintiff] had to pay all late fees" before she could enter economic deferment. There is authority for ruling that misrepresentation claims are, in fact, improper disclosure claims. See Chae v. SLM Corp., supra, 593 F.3d at 942–43. In Chae, students brought suit against Sallie Mae, alleging that Sallie Mae's method of calculating interest, practice of assessing late fees and method of setting the first repayment date on a Consolidation or PLUS loan violate California business, contract and consumer-protection law. The plaintiffs further alleged breach of contract, unjust enrichment, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing and the use of fraudulent and deceptive practices apart from the billing statements. The federal government intervened as a plaintiff, seeking a declaratory judgment that the plaintiffs' state law claims were preempted by the HEA. The court held that the HEA preempted the plaintiffs' state law claims under express and conflict preemption. Regarding express preemption, the court held that § 1098g applies to, and thus precludes, the plaintiffs' first three state law claims. Id., at 942. The court reasoned that the plaintiffs' misrepresentation claims are, in essence, improper-disclosure claims and, therefore, are subject to express preemption under § 1098g. Id., at 942–43. "At bottom, the plaintiffs' misrepresentation claims are improper-disclosure claims. The plaintiffs do not contend that California law prevents Sallie Mae from employing any of the three loan-servicing practices at issue. We consider these allegations in substance to be a challenge to the allegedly misleading method Sallie Mae used to communicate with the plaintiffs about its practices. In this context, the state-law prohibition on misrepresenting a business practice is merely the converse of a state law requirement that alternate disclosures be made." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Id. The court added that "[u]nder the very terms of the FFELP, a 'misleading' disclosure would be improper ... A properly-disclosed FFELP practice cannot simultaneously be misleading under state law, for state disclosure law is preempted by the federal statutory and regulatory scheme." (Citations omitted.) Id., at 943. The court thus concluded that the plaintiffs' misrepresentation claims were "restyled improper-disclosure claims" and, therefore, were expressly preempted under § 1098g. Id. Nevertheless, the court held that the plaintiffs' claim of breach of contract, unjust enrichment, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing and the use of fraudulent deceptive practices apart from the billing statements "are not impacted by any of the FFELP's express preemption provisions." Id.

In the present case, the plaintiff's misrepresentation allegations are not unlike those in Chae. The plaintiff's allegations that the defendant misrepresented the documentation requirements to determine eligibility for economic deferment and misrepresented that the plaintiff had to pay all late fees before she could enter economic deferment are no different than a claim that the defendant failed to make proper disclosures to the plaintiff regarding its policies for economic deferment. If properly disclosed, the information that the plaintiff sought could not simultaneously be misleading. See id. Accordingly, these aspects of the plaintiff's CUTPA claim are also subject to express preemption under § 1098g. Nevertheless, the plaintiff further alleges that the defendant "purposefully delayed the processing of her December 2007 [economic deferment request] in order to drive up late fees" and "refused to accept income information supplied by [the plaintiff]" that complied with § 682.210(s)(6)(vi). These allegations are not improper-disclosure claims and, therefore, are not expressly preempted by § 1098g, nor by any of the other preemption provisions of § 682.210.

7 Given that specific factual allegations of the plaintiff's CUTPA claim are expressly preempted by § 1098g while other parts of the claim are not, the issue arises as to whether summary judgment still can be granted for the defendant on parts of the plaintiff's CUTPA claim. "Connecticut does not have a procedure for rendering judgment for a defendant on part of a count unless it disposes of all the issues in a count." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Salyer v. Carey, Superior Court, judicial district of Stamford–Norwalk at Stamford, Docket No. X08 CV 04 4003396 (April 18, 2007, Jennings, J.). "There is no appellate authority as to whether a court can permit summary judgment against a party relative to individual allegations within a single count of a complaint. At the trial court level there is a split of authority on the issue. A review of the decisions finds that the majority of the cases do not allow a party to eliminate some, but not all, of the allegations of a single count through a motion for summary judgment. Nevertheless, some courts have found that the language of Practice Book § 17–51 ... authorizes the entry of summary judgment on part of a claim within a single count provided final judgment can be entered with respect to that part of the claim and it can be severed from the remainder of the claim ... The Connecticut Supreme Court recently noted, but did not resolve, this split of authority. Liberty Mutual Ins.

Co. v. Lone Star Industries, Inc., 290 Conn. 767, 809 n. 41 (2009). "This court has previously determined that a party cannot isolate a single issue ... and resolve it on a motion for summary judgment ... Consequently, in the absence of appellate authority to the contrary, this court will adhere to its past rulings and determine that it cannot grant summary judgment as to the allegations within a count." (Citations omitted; internal quotation marks omitted.) Estrada v. Stamford Board of Education, Superior Court, judicial district of Stamford–Norwalk at Stamford, Docket No. CV 06 5002313 (November 19, 2010, Tobin, J.). Accordingly, because factual allegations at issue within the plaintiff's CUTPA claim are not expressly preempted, this court cannot grant summary judgment as to the plaintiff's single count on the ground of express preemption.

b. Field Preemption

The questions remain as to whether the plaintiff's CUTPA claim is subject to field preemption or conflict preemption. Although Congress gave the Secretary of the Department of Education extensive authority to promulgate regulations to enforce the HEA; see § 1082(a)(1); that delegation of power does not mean that Congress intended to occupy the entire regulatory field and to leave no room for state law. "The fact that the Secretary has promulgated extensive regulations pursuant to the HEA does not, standing alone, persuade us to the contrary. The existence of comprehensive federal regulations that fail to occupy the regulatory field do not, by their mere existence, preempt non-conflicting state law." College Loan Corp. v. SLM Corp., supra, 396 F.3d at 598. Furthermore, the fact that the HEA contains provisions that expressly preempt state law, as mentioned above, precludes a finding that the HEA occupies the regulatory field and leaves no room for state law. See Cliff v. Payco General American Credits, Inc., 363 F.3d 1113, 1126 (11th Cir.2004). "When Congress has considered the issue of pre-emption and has included in the enacted legislation a provision explicitly addressing that issue, and when that provision provides a reliable indicium of congressional intent with respect to state authority ... there is no need to infer congressional intent to pre-empt state laws from the substantive provisions of the legislation ... Such reasoning is a variant of the familiar principle of expressio unius est exclusio alterius: Congress' enactment of a provision defining the preemptive reach of a statute implies that matters beyond that reach are not pre-empted." (Quoting Cipollone v. Liggett Group, Inc., 505 U.S. 504, 517, 112 S.Ct. 2608, 120 L.Ed.2d 407 (1992); internal quotation marks omitted.) Id. Finally, "consumer protection is a field traditionally regulated by the states ... and the Supreme Court has ... reaffirmed that there is a presumption against finding implied preemption of state law in these fields. (Citation omitted.) Id., at 1125. Accordingly, the defendant is not entitled to summary judgment on the ground of field preemption of the plaintiff's CUTPA claim.

c. Conflict Preemption

8 Under the final preemption analysis, involving conflict preemption, it is necessary to look at the statutory purposes underlying the two causes of action that the defendant alleges conflict with each other: CUTPA and the HEA. CUTPA is a statutory cause of action under General Statutes § 42–110b(a), which provides: "No person shall engage in unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." "CUTPA provides a private cause of action to [a]ny person who suffers any ascertainable loss of money or property, real or personal, as a result of the use or employment of a [prohibited] method, act or practice ..." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Harris v. Bradley Memorial Hospital and Health Center, 296 Conn. 315, 351, (2010). Therefore, a CUTPA claim challenges the way that a person or entity conducts specific practices. CUTPA also relies on federal rulings and cases to govern what specific conduct is prohibited under the statute. "CUTPA was enacted to provide a cause of action for plaintiffs harmed by acts of unfair or deceptive business practices or acts, or unfair competition ... The CUTPA statute[3] requires the court to look to the Federal Trade Commission for guidance in construing the intent of the state legislature in determining what conduct is prohibited ... Federal Trade Commission ... rulings and cases under the Federal Trade Commission Act ... serve as a lodestar for interpretation of the open-ended language of CUTPA." (Citation omitted; internal quotation marks omitted.) Fisher v. Yale University, Superior Court, judicial district of New Haven, Docket No. CV 044003207 (April 3, 2006, Munro, J.) (41 Conn. L. Rptr. 137, 140). Therefore, federal law plays a role in the interpretation of CUTPA.

The statutory purposes of FFELP are delineated in 20 U.S.C. § 1071(a)(1) and include "encouraging states and non-profit organizations to make loans to students for post-secondary education, providing loans to those students who might not otherwise have access to funds, paying a portion of the interest accruing on student loans, and guaranteeing lenders against losses." College Loan Corp. v. SLM Corp., supra, 396 F.3d at 597. Nevertheless, the federal circuits are not in complete agreement over the intent of Congress behind the HEA. For instance, in Chae, the court held that the plaintiff's state law claims were subject to conflict preemption by the HEA. The court reasoned that "Congress intended to subject FFELP participants to uniform federal law and regulations"; Chae v. SLM Corp., supra, 593 F.3d at 947; and that "subjecting the federal regulatory standards to the potentially conflicting standards of fifty states on contract and consumer protection principles would stand as a severe obstacle to the effective promotion of the funding of student loans." Id., at 950. Conversely, in College Loan, the court was "unable to confirm that the creation of 'uniformity,' ... was actually an important goal of the HEA." College Loan Corp. v. SLM Corp., supra, 396 F.3d at 597. The court added that "neither the district court nor the parties have explained how these statutory purposes [of FFELP] would be compromised by a lender ... pursuing breach of contract or tort claims against other lenders or servicers." Id.

9 This court takes the position of College Loan and concludes that enforcement of CUTPA is not an obstacle to the achievement of the objectives of the HEA. If Congress intended that uniformity be a goal of the HEA, and FFELP in particular, then it easily could have stated that objective in § 1071(a)(1). Furthermore, parties should be able to comply with both CUTPA and the HEA since each statute serves different purposes and has different objectives, as discussed above. Moreover, given the fact that CUTPA is based on federal law through the Federal Trade Commission Act, it is unlikely that a party would be unable to comply simultaneously with the HEA and CUTPA, two products of federal law. See English v. General Electric Co., 496 U.S. 72, 90, 110 S.Ct. 2270, 110 L.Ed.2d 65 (1990) ("[P]re-emption is ordinarily not to be implied absent an actual conflict ... The teaching of this Court's decisions ... enjoin[s] seeking out conflicts between state and federal regulation where none clearly exists") (citation omitted; internal quotation marks omitted). In short, because uniformity is not mentioned as a goal of the HEA in § 1071(a)(1), because CUTPA and the HEA serve different objectives and because CUTPA and the HEA are both derived from federal law, CUTPA is not an obstacle to the achievement of the objectives of the HEA and parties should be able to comply with both statutes. Accordingly, the defendant is not entitled to summary judgment on the ground of conflict preemption of the plaintiff's CUTPA claim.

3. CUTPA Claim

Having established that the plaintiff's CUTPA claim is not entirely preempted by the HEA, the court can now turn to the merits of the plaintiff's CUTPA claim. In determining whether a practice is unfair within the meaning of § 42–110b(a), courts look to the criteria set out in the cigarette rule by the federal trade commission:

> "(1) [W]hether the practice, without necessarily having been previously considered unlawful, offends public policy as it has been established by statutes, the common law, or otherwise—in other words, it is within at least the penumbra of some common law, statutory, or other established concept of unfairness; (2) whether it is immoral, unethical, oppressive, or unscrupulous; (3) whether it causes substantial injury to consumers, [competitors or other business persons] ... All three criteria do not need to be satisfied to support a finding of unfairness. A practice may be unfair because of the degree to which it meets one of the criteria or because to a lesser extent it meets all three." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Harris v. Bradley Memorial Hospital and Health Center, supra, 296 Conn. at 350–51.

Although plaintiff has argued in her briefing and at oral argument that Sallie Mae's responses to her EHDR application were not in accordance with Department of Education regulations, plaintiff did not allege the first prong of the cigarette rule (offense against public policy as established by a federal regulation) in her complaint and expressly disclaimed any reliance on the first prong at oral argument. Plaintiff's case then is based only on allegations of unfairness under the second prong (a practice which is immoral, unethical, oppressive, or unscrupulous) and the third prong (a practice causing substantial injury to consumers). Plaintiff has not met her initial burden of showing the absence of any issue of material fact such that she is entitled to judgment as a matter of law as to her non-preempted claims that defendant purposefully delayed the processing of her December 2007 economic deferment request in order to drive up late fees and "refused to accept income information supplied by [the plaintiff]" that complied with § 682.210(s)(6)(vi)." To satisfy the initial burden the movant must make a showing that it is quite clear what the truth is, and that excludes any real doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact. As the burden of proof is on the movant, the evidence must be viewed in the light most favorable to the opponent. Ramirez v. Health Net of the Northeast, Inc., 285 Conn. 1, (2008).

10 The plaintiff argues that she suffered substantial injury from the defendant's acts in that she supplied all of the required information to the defendant for her deferment request and that the defendant refused to accept that information, causing her student loans to be defaulted. The defendant responds that the plaintiff's consolidation loan already had been granted five years of forbearance, that the loan had been in repayment status as of January 21, 2008 and the plaintiff had received warnings for months from the defendant regarding the impending default of her loan before the loan actually defaulted, and that the plaintiff continuously failed to provide the defendant with fully completed deferment request forms or the evidence that is required by federal law, satisfactory to the defendant, of her monthly income. At its core, the parties' arguments and their evidence centers on whether the plaintiff's deferment requests were complete and whether the defendant improperly denied these requests.

It is undisputed that plaintiff's EHDR application was her request for an initial period of economic deferment, as contrasted with a request for a subsequent period of deferment. Dept. Of Education Regulation, 34 C.F.R. § 682.210(s)(6) spells out six categories of hardship or other entitlement to an economic hardship deferment, "if the borrower provides documentation satisfactory to the lender showing that the borrower is within any of [those six] categories ..." The regulations then go on to require the lender to require the borrower to submit certain evidence with the EHDR request. Section 682.210(s)(6)(viii) provides that "[f]or an initial period of deferment ... the lender must require the borrower to submit evidence showing the amount of borrower's monthly income." Section 682.210(s)(6)(ix) provides that for a subsequent period of deferment "the lender must require the borrower to submit evidence showing the amount of the borrower's monthly income or a copy of the borrower's most recently filed Federal income tax return . (Emphasis added.) This would seem to imply that a lender could refuse to accept an application for an initial period of deferment which is accompanied only by a copy of the applicant's most recently filed tax return, because the tax return option is only mentioned in the section regarding subsequent periods of deferment. But that implication fades away when one goes on to § 682.210(s)(6)(x) which says: "For purposes of paragraph (s)(6) of this section [which presumably would include both subsection (s)(6)(viii) and (s)(6)(ix)], a borrower's monthly income is the gross amount of income received by the borrower from employment and from other sources, or one-twelfth of the borrower's adjusted gross income as recorded on the borrower's most recently filed Federal Income tax return." Stringing subsections (viii) and (x) together plaintiff makes a plausible argument that the submission of her 2006 tax return to Sallie Mae in seeking an initial period of deferment in the period December 2007 through April 2008, she was in compliance with the Department of Education regulations and defendant wrongfully insisted on other verification of her monthly income. But the problem with that argument is that those subsections go to the nature of the evidence that Sallie Mae must require the applicant to submit. Section 682.210(s)(6) still permits Sallie Mae to grant a deferment only if the evidence submitted is satisfactory to show that the borrower is within one of the six categories of entitlement. The plaintiff in her EHDR forms checked the box for category (s)(6)(iv) which compares a full-time worker-applicant's monthly income to her Federal education debt burden, the minimum wage rate of the Fair Labor Standards Act, and the poverty line determined in accordance with the Community Service Block Grant Act. Those criteria are expressed in the present tense ("Is working full time ..."; "has a Federal education debt burden that equals or exceeds ..."; is less than 220% ..." etc.). The clear implication is that, if Sallie Mae finds the required evidence less than satisfactory, it can withhold judgment on the application pending receipt of other evidence which is more timely or more relevant than the initially required evidence of monthly income.

11 Plaintiff has withdrawn her Supplemental Memorandum which included her own affidavit of August 2, 2011. She has submitted her motion for summary judgment strictly on the wording of the three evidentiary subsections of the federal regulations, copies of her EHDR requests, and the undisputed fact that defendant received with her applications a copy of her 2006 tax return, a copy of which is submitted. From this evidence she claims that Sallie Mae wrongfully asked for a more recent tax return to see if plaintiff fit into her claimed category of entitlement at the time of application. Plaintiff has submitted absolutely nothing of the "satisfactory proof" aspect of her application. Particularly in a case such as this where plaintiff is not claiming the first prong of the cigarette rule for a violation of or offense to the public policy established by a regulation or even the "penumbra" of a regulation [4] the scope of plaintiff's submission is too narrow and limited to entitle her to judgment under CUTPA as a matter of law. Even if she has shown a technical violation of subsection (viii) as read in conjunction with "subsection (x), it would be a triable issue of fact for the court or jury at a full trial on the merits, considering the broader scope of the application process, to determine if the defendant's conduct was immoral, unethical, oppressive, or unscrupulous or a practice that caused the plaintiff substantial consumer injury which is not outweighed by any countervailing benefits to consumers which the consumers could not have reasonably avoided. [5] The plaintiff virtually concedes the existence of a CUTPA issue for the finder of fact, saying in her memorandum in support of this motion, at p. 12: "The question before this court is whether or not Sallie Mae's conduct of failing to enroll Dr. Brooks in to EHD when it was in possession of all information to verify that she qualified under 34 C.F.R. 682.210(s)(6)(iv) was immoral, unethical, oppressive, or unscrupulous. There seems to be no bright line test. If the violation was intentional, the act may very well meet this prong. If mere negligence, it may not." The plaintiff therefore has failed to meet the initial burden of a party' moving for summary judgment.

In this case, the defendant Sallie Mae has also moved for summary judgment. In support of that motion it submits the signed and sworn affidavit of James Austin, who attests that the "[p]laintiff's 2006 Federal income tax return was unsatisfactory to Sallie Mae, and was insufficient evidence of Plaintiff's monthly income in late 2007 and early 2008." Under the regulations, the defendant was mandated to require the plaintiff to submit her most recently filed tax return (for the year 2006) but not required to accept that tax return as the sole evidence of plaintiff's monthly income in support of her economic deferment request under one of the six categories of entitlement. Just as the plaintiff focused entirely on the evidentiary aspects of the application process without consideration of the "satisfactory documentation" requirement, defendant has focused almost entirely on the "satisfactory documentation" aspect with only scant reference to the evidentiary rules. In fact defendant totally ignores and makes no mention of § 682.210(s)(6)(x) which makes the most recently filed tax return option available for any EHDR application, whether initial or subsequent. On the facts submitted by defendant, plaintiff's CUTPA claim does not fail as a matter of law. Simply because the defendant exercised its discretion under § 682.210(s)(6) in refusing to accept the plaintiff's 2006 federal income tax return as sole evidence does not eliminate all genuine issues of material fact as to a second and/or third prong CUTPA violation on the part of the defendant. Construing the evidence most favorably to the plaintiff, as previously mentioned, a fact finder might find that defendant's conduct was in violation of subsection (viii) of the regulation read in conjunction with subsection (x), or, even if there was not an actual violation of the regulation, that the conduct of the defendant was under the circumstances immoral, unethical, oppressive, or unscrupulous or caused a substantial consumer injury which could not reasonably have been avoided by the consumer. Furthermore the defendant's refusal to accept the plaintiff's 2006 federal income tax return is only one of several factual allegations that the plaintiff pleads as part of her CUTPA claim. [6] The plaintiff further alleges that the defendant "purposefully delayed the processing of her December 2007 [economic deferment request] in order to drive up late fees." This factual allegation creates a genuine issue of material fact remains as to whether the defendant's conduct was unfair, immoral, unethical, oppressive and unscrupulous or caused substantial injury to the plaintiff.

12 The defendant argues that negligent acts are not sufficient to form the basis of a CUTPA claim and that its actions, as alleged by the plaintiff, amount to no more than negligence. Nevertheless, the court has held that acts of negligence can be the basis of a CUTPA claim so long as those negligent acts satisfy the cigarette rule. Briere v. Waters, Superior Court, judicial district of Windham, Docket No. CV 95 0052402 (March 21, 1996, Sferrazza, J.) (18 Conn. L. Rptr. 631, 632) ("While acts of negligence can be the basis of a legitimate CUTPA claim, those negligent acts must still satisfy the criteria set forth in the "cigarette rule." A–G Foods, Inc v. Pepperidge Farms, Inc., 216 Conn. 200, 215 (1990)). See also Ulbrich v. Groth, Superior Court, judicial district of Waterbury, Docket No. CV X06 08 4016022 (May 19, 2010, Stevens, J.) ("[A] CUTPA violation need not involve fraud on the part of the violator ... Even an innocent misrepresentation may underlie a CUTPA claim") (citations omitted; internal quotation marks omitted). "[T]he first prong, by itself, is insufficient to support a CUTPA violation, at least when the underlying claim is grounded solely in negligence." Wilkinson v. Alco Investments VII, LLC, Superior Court, judicial district of Middlesex, Docket No. CV 03 0102226 (May 26, 2005, Aurigemma, J.). Therefore, the plaintiff's CUTPA claim is not necessarily barred even if her allegations amount to no more than mere negligence. Accordingly, the plaintiff's CUTPA claim should be decided by a trier of fact to determine whether the plaintiff's allegations satisfy the cigarette rule.

The defendant, like the plaintiff, has failed to meet the initial burden of a moving party to demonstrate the absence of any issue of material fact such that the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law, and to make a showing that it is quite clear what the truth is, and that excludes any real doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact.

Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the plaintiff's motion for summary judgment, and the defendant's cross-motion should deny the plaintiff's motion for summary judgment and the defendant's motion for summary judgment are each denied.

All Citations

Not Reported in A.3d, 2011 WL 6989888, 53 Conn. L. Rptr. 274

Footnotes

1 Connecticut has not addressed the issue of whether the HEA preempts CUTPA claims. See Brooks v. Sallie Mae, Inc., supra, Superior Court, Docket No. CV 09 6002530 (January 4, 2011, Adams, J.) (in striking two of the defendant's three special defenses, stressing that the court "has not made a legal finding that the plaintiff's CUTPA cause of action is preempted by the Higher Education Act").

2 Section 1098(g) of HEA is entitled "Exemption from State disclosure requirements" and provides: "Loans made, insured, or guaranteed pursuant to a program authorized by Title IV of the Higher Education Act ... shall not be subject to any disclosure requirements of Any State law."

3 CUTPA (Conn.Gen.Stat. § 42–110b(b)) provides: "It is the intent of the legislature that, in construing subsection (a) of this section, the commissioner and the courts of this state shall be guided by interpretations given by the Federal Trade Commission and the federal courts ... as from time to time amended."

4 See Cheshire Mortgage Service, Inc. v. Montes, 223 Conn. 80, 105–06 (1992), where the Supreme Court stated the first prong of the cigarette rule: "whether the practice, without necessarily having been previously considered unlawful, offends public policy as it has been established by statutes, the common law or otherwise—whether, in other words, it is within at least the penumbra of some common law, statutory or other established concept of unfairness."

5 Williams Ford, Inc. v. Hartford Courant Co., 232 Conn. 559, 592 (1995). With respect to the "reasonable avoidance" part of the third prong, the plaintiff here has submitted nothing about why she would not have completed, filed, and produced a copy of her 2007 tax return which fell due on April 15, 2008 during the period that the parties were in communication regarding plaintiff's EHDR application.

6 As discussed above, however, some of these factual allegations are expressly preempted by the HEA.

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

212 Cal.App.4th 404
Court of Appeal,
Fourth District, Division 3, California.

The PEOPLE, Plaintiff and Respondent,
v.
Jeffrey Gordon BUTLER, Defendant and Appellant.

G043100
|
Filed December 21, 2012
|
Review Denied April 17, 2013

Synopsis

Background: Defendant was convicted in the Superior Court, Orange County, No. 06NF0425, James A. Stotler, J., of 288 counts of fraud in the offer or sale of a security, 240 counts of offering an unqualified security, four counts of engaging in fraudulent securities schemes, 147 counts of theft from an elder, three counts of filing a false tax return, and one count of aiding in the preparation of a false tax return, and was sentenced to over 90 years in prison. Defendant appealed.

Holdings: The Court of Appeal, Ikola, J., held that:

[1] proving a defendant knew he was selling a security is not an element of the crime of offering an unqualified security;

[2] misleading promises to repay principal and interest on promissory notes violated fraud in the sale of a securities statute;

[3] evidence was sufficient to support convictions for securities fraud, sale of unqualified security, and theft from an elder;

[4] any error in jury instruction which did not explicitly require the jury to find that defendant knew his statements/omissions were "material" was harmless error;

[5] unanimity jury instruction was not required with regard to convictions for fraud in the offer or sale of a security;

[6] alleged character evidence was admissible; and [7] multiple renewals of promissory notes pertaining to money invested by a single victim constituted multiple offenses.

Affirmed.

West Headnotes (28)

[1] Securities Regulation
Securities requiring registration or qualification in general

The legislature intended that the statutory term "security" have a broad scope to protect the public against spurious schemes, however ingeniously devised, to attract risk capital. Cal. Corp. Code § 25019.

Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Securities Regulation
Bills, notes, or evidence of indebtedness

Not every document labeled as a promissory note is actually a "security." Cal. Corp. Code § 25019.

Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Securities Regulation
Bills, notes, or evidence of indebtedness

Unsecured promissory notes are "securities" if the investor relies on the skill, services, solvency, success, and services of the issuer to ensure payment. Cal. Corp. Code § 25019.

Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Securities Regulation
Trial and relief

Whether an investment constitutes a "security" is a question for the finder of fact. Cal. Corp. Code § 25019.

Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Criminal Law
Failure to instruct in general

Appellate court would review defendant's claim that the court committed error by failing to instruct the jury that it was required to find defendant knew or should have known the notes were securities as an element of the crime of selling unqualified securities, despite the lack of objection, as the alleged error would affect defendant's substantial rights. Cal. Corp. Code § 25401.

Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Criminal Law
Objections in General

The appellate court may review any jury instruction given, even though no objection was made thereto in the lower court, if the substantial rights of the defendant were affected thereby.

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Criminal Law
Necessity in General

In criminal cases, even in the absence of a request, a trial court must instruct on general principles of law relevant to the issues raised by the evidence and necessary for the jury's understanding of the case.

Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Criminal Law
Special issues and defenses

The court's duty to instruct sua sponte extends to defenses supported by substantial evidence.

Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Securities Regulation
Unauthorized issuance, sale, or offer

Proving a defendant knew he was selling a security is not an element of the crime of offering an unqualified security or any other securities offense; the most that can be said is that lack of knowledge that one is dealing in a security is an affirmative defense. Cal. Corp. Code § 25110.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Criminal Law
Nature of Decision Appealed from as Affecting Scope of Review

Court of Appeal reviewing the trial court's denial of securities fraud defendant's motion to dismiss following the prosecutor's case-in-chief could not consider defendant's testimony, as review was conducted under the substantial evidence standard as applied to the state of the evidence at the time of the motion. Cal. Corp. Code § 25401; Cal. Penal Code § 1118.1

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Securities Regulation
Fraudulent or other prohibited practices

Fraud in the offer or sale of a security statute prohibiting an untrue statement of material fact, or an omission which makes the statements made not misleading, does not apply to simple nondisclosure. Cal. Corp. Code § 25401

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Securities Regulation
Materiality

Securities Regulation
Materiality of violation

Securities Regulation
Fraudulent or other prohibited practices

Under both state and federal securities law, a fact is "material" if there is a substantial likelihood that, under all the circumstances, a reasonable investor would consider it important in reaching an investment decision. Cal. Corp. Code § 25401.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

[13] Securities Regulation
Fraudulent or other prohibited practices

Defendant's promises to repay principal and interest on promissory notes, which were misleading in the absence of disclosures about the nature of his business enterprises and his prior history of fleecing elderly investors, violated fraud in the sale of a securities statute prohibiting the omission of a material fact in order to make the statements made not misleading. Cal. Corp. Code § 25401

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Securities Regulation
Weight and sufficiency of evidence

Evidence that defendant sold notes to victims, based on the introduction of the notes themselves and other evidence in the record from other victims and witnesses suggesting that defendant actually was selling unqualified, misleading securities in exchange for money, was sufficient to support convictions for securities fraud, sale of unqualified security, and theft from an elder. Cal. Corp. Code §§ 25110, 25401, 25541; Cal. Penal Code § 368(d).

Cases that cite this headnote

[15] Criminal Law
Elements and incidents of offense; definitions

Any error in jury instruction on fraud in the offer or sale of a security which required the jury to find defendant had knowledge of the falsity of his statements or misleading nature of his omissions, but did not explicitly require the jury to find that defendant knew his statements/omissions were "material," was harmless, as it was impossible to believe that the jury would have found defendant did not know his omissions were material at the same time it found beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant knew he made misleading omissions in light of overwhelming evidence establishing that the supposed safe investments marketed by defendant to elderly, unsophisticated investors were extremely risky at best, and were Ponzi schemes at worst. Cal. Corp. Code § 25401

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[16] Securities Regulation
Trial, judgment, and review

Unanimity jury instruction was not required with regard to defendant's 288 convictions for fraud in the offer or sale of a security, as each count alleged defendant sold one security on a specific date to a single victim. Cal. Corp. Code § 25401; CALCRIM No. 3500.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[17] Criminal Law
Assent of required number of jurors

It is fundamental that a criminal conviction requires a unanimous jury verdict; what is required is that the jurors unanimously agree defendant is criminally responsible for one discrete criminal event.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[18] Criminal Law
Right to compel election

Criminal Law
Unanimity as to facts, conduct, methods, or theories

When the accusatory pleading charges a single criminal act and the evidence shows more than one such unlawful act, either the prosecution must select the specific act relied upon to prove the charge or the jury must be instructed that it must unanimously agree beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant committed the same specific criminal act. CALCRIM No. 3500.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[19] Criminal Law
Verdict

Trial courts have a sua sponte duty to provide a unanimity jury instruction when appropriate.

Cases that cite this headnote

[20] Criminal Law
Assent of required number of jurors

When the evidence shows only a single discrete crime but leaves room for disagreement as to exactly how that crime was committed or what the defendant's precise role was, the jury need not unanimously agree on the basis or theory whereby the defendant is guilty.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[21] Criminal Law
False pretenses and fraud

Criminal Law
False pretenses and fraud

Evidence of funds set aside to bribe foreign officials, that defendant's prior business ventures ended in bankruptcy, and of the revocation of defendant's insurance license was relevant and admissible at trial on numerous securities fraud charges; evidence suggesting defendant bribed officials and deducted the money as a business expense supported charged allegation that defendant filed a false tax return, evidence suggesting defendant lost investor money in a prior investment scheme was necessary to allow the prosecutor to argue defendant should have disclosed this prior failure to his investors, proof that defendant's insurance license was revoked because defendant did not disclose the fees he was receiving in connection with the sales of annuities was necessary to allow the prosecutor to argue defendant should have disclosed this fact to his investors, and both of those incidents provided evidence of defendant's intent to defraud his investors, in that they show he should have been aware of his need to be honest with investors about the risks of his offered investments and the monetary enrichment defendant himself was obtaining from such investments. Cal. Corp. Code §§ 25401, 25110, 25541; Cal. Rev. & Tax. Code § 19705(a); Cal. Evid. Code §§ 350, 352, 1101.

Cases that cite this headnote

[22] Criminal Law
Showing bad character or criminal propensity in general

Despite its relevance, evidence of character in the form of specific instances of uncharged misconduct, to prove the conduct of that person on a specified occasion, is inadmissible.

Cases that cite this headnote

[23] Criminal Law
Particular evidence or cases

Newly discovered evidence that the federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) had filed a complaint against company which had engaged defendant as a "finder" did not warrant new trial on securities fraud charges against defendant, despite defendant's claim that prosecution had faulted defendant for moving his investors out of that company's investments and into a separate company which arguably operated as a Ponzi scheme, as it was not probable that a different result would occur at trial based on the new evidence that defendant previously had directed his investors to an investment scheme which turned out to be fraudulent before directing them to his own fraudulent company.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[24] Constitutional Law
Use of Perjured or Falsified Evidence

Criminal Law
Use of False or Perjured Testimony

Allegedly false testimony by executives of company which had engaged securities fraud defendant as a "finder" did not violate defendant's right to due process absent evidence that prosecution knew about federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) investigation into company or about any alleged falsity of the testimony. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 14.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Cases that cite this headnote

[25] Constitutional Law
Use of Perjured or Falsified Evidence
Constitutional Law
Failure to correct false testimony

Under well-established principles of due process, the prosecution cannot present evidence it knows is false and must correct any falsity of which it is aware in the evidence it presents, even if the false evidence was not intentionally submitted. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 14.

Cases that cite this headnote

[26] Criminal Law
Misconduct of or Affecting Jurors

Juror's alleged misconduct in failing to disclose her knowledge of securities fraud and false tax return case against defendants, based on her presence at church trips and hair salon appointments during times in which defendants' friends talked about the case, did not require a new trial absent any showing that defendants did not know about the alleged misconduct prior to the rendering of the jury verdict; it was plausible defendants knew of the alleged link between the juror and their own friends and withheld the information in hopes that juror would be sympathetic to them based on mutual social acquaintances.

Cases that cite this headnote

[27] Criminal Law
Misconduct of jurors, in general

Even where affidavits can properly be received to impeach the verdict of a jury, they must be accompanied by an affirmative showing that neither the moving party nor his counsel had knowledge of the misconduct relied on prior to the rendition of the verdict; the absence of such a showing in support of the motion for new trial is fatal.

Cases that cite this headnote

[28] Criminal Law
Larceny offenses

Defendant's multiple renewals of promissory notes pertaining to money invested by a single victim in fraudulent scheme constituted multiple offenses, such that defendant could be charged with multiple acts of theft from an elder; while no new money was handed over, defendant took a new commission each time he renewed the notes, thereby enriching himself. Cal. Penal Code § 368(d).

Cases that cite this headnote

*356 Appeal from a judgment of the Superior Court of Orange County, James A. Stotler, Judge. Affirmed. (Super.Ct. No. 06NF0425)

Attorneys and Law Firms

Boyce & Schaefer and Laura Schaefer, San Diego, for Defendant and Appellant.

Kamala D. Harris, Attorney General, Dane R. Gillette, Chief Assistant Attorney General, Julie L. Garland, Assistant Attorney General, Barry Carlton and Teresa Torreblanca, Deputy Attorneys General, for Plaintiff and Respondent.

OPINION

IKOLA, J.

407 A jury was asked to decide whether defendant Jeffrey Gordon Butler was guilty of securities fraud and related offenses or, conversely, if he 408 was merely a failed businessman who did nothing meriting criminal punishment. Believing the former to be true beyond a reasonable doubt as to the majority of counts alleged, the jury convicted defendant of 288 counts of fraud in the offer or sale of a security (Corp.Code, § 25401),[1] 240 counts of offering an unqualified security (§ 25110), four counts of engaging in fraudulent securities schemes (§ 25541), 147 counts of theft from an elder (Pen.Code, § 368, subd. (d)), three counts of filing a false tax return (Rev. & Tax.Code, § 19705, subd. (a)(1)), and one count of aiding in the preparation of a false tax return (Rev. & Tax.Code, § 19705, subd. (a)). Among other enhancement findings, the jury found true allegations that defendant intentionally took property valued in excess of $2.5 million. (Pen.Code, § 12022.6, subd. (a).) The court sentenced defendant to 90 years eight months in prison. Defendant raises numerous issues on appeal, but we affirm the judgment in all respects.

FACTS

Defendant's Background

Defendant graduated from high school in Clovis, New Mexico and attended one year of college at Manhattan Christian College in Manhattan, Kansas. After leaving college, he owned and operated a car *357 detail business in Colorado for one year and a half.

Defendant obtained real estate licenses in Colorado and New Mexico, and unsuccessfully worked in the real estate business in the early 1980s. Defendant then obtained employment at Sandia Savings and Loan for "a couple years," where he "basically handled mortgages and ... new deposits. I would visit people ... that had high deposits with the savings and loan and basically customer service them."

Defendant next worked for "over two years" as a deputy treasurer for San Juan County, New Mexico. His duties entailed assisting the treasurer in the collection and investment of property taxes. At the same time, defendant partnered with others to buy rental properties as investments. After moving to Amarillo, Texas, defendant purchased a hair salon, which he expanded to three more locations. Defendant formed a company called "The Butler Group" and expanded into other businesses, including a laundry facility.

In the mid-1980s, defendant's banker introduced defendant to a man who owned four Arby's restaurants in Texas but was facing $300,000 in tax payments to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). The IRS accepted defendant's offer of $80,000 to take over the restaurants. Defendant needed cash to 409 pay off disgruntled suppliers and other bills, so he solicited investments from family members and "ran an ad in the newspaper offering ... 12-percent interest on notes. And we had people respond to that."

One of these people was Oliver Ottensmeyer. After responding to Butler's newspaper ad, Butler promised Ottensmeyer a high rate of interest (10 or 12 percent) paid monthly. Ottensmeyer invested about $70,000 in an unspecified business venture. He received one or two interest payments. Ottensmeyer invested an additional $131,000 when told about the Arby's restaurant opportunity. Ottensmeyer did not receive any payments from the Arby's investment. Ottensmeyer unsuccessfully tried to contact Butler, but the next communication he received from Butler was a notice of bankruptcy proceedings. Despite filing proofs of claim, Ottensmeyer received nothing from the bankruptcy, which concluded in January 1989. Similarly, Sanford Evans invested $10,000 with defendant in exchange for a 12 percent note. Evans received interest payments for about a year and a half, but did not receive any of his principal back. All in all, defendant brought in approximately $400,000 in investor money using 12 percent promissory notes. Defendant did not "give [the investors] anything but the promissory note." The debts were discharged in bankruptcy.

Defendant moved back to New Mexico and worked in sales for a water filtration system company. Defendant was a top salesman; he would meet with customers in their homes and demonstrate the system. At the same time, defendant obtained an insurance license in New Mexico and started selling a variety of insurance policies.

Defendant subsequently accepted a job with Globe Life and Accident Insurance Company in Riverside, California, in 1992. Defendant obtained a license to sell insurance in California at that time. When this job failed to provide adequate income, defendant pursued a new business in which he sold (as an independent contractor) "gap filler" insurance policies to cover home care for seniors. In 1995, the Department of Insurance closed down the insurance firm that was issuing the policies and put defendant on probation, revoking his license and issuing a restricted license. Defendant had offered and sold home health care services to senior citizens without the required regulatory *358 approval of these products, and had collected large fees in doing so. Defendant paid a fine of $23,000.

Formation and Operation of Senior-oriented Financial Services Firms

Undaunted by his bankruptcy, the suspension of his insurance license, and his apparent lack of any particular education or expertise in the complex fields of finance and investment, defendant set his sights on marketing living trusts, wills, annuities, and reverse mortgages to senior citizens.

410 At some point in the 1990s, defendant formed Senior Information Services (SIS), through which defendant marketed and sold living trusts and wills to senior citizens. SIS used telemarketers and print advertisements to develop leads. Defendant and his sales representatives would then use their knowledge of clients' assets to offer annuity investments.

Defendant also formed a company known as Patriot, which sold reverse mortgages—often to the same SIS clients that defendant solicited to buy annuities (i.e., clients could use the proceeds of the reverse mortgage to buy annuities). Defendant's insurance license was permanently revoked in 2001 based on defendant's sale of reverse mortgages to senior citizens in 1996 and 1997. The Department of Insurance's revocation order stated that eight of defendant's customers were "not informed of the dollar amount of the service fee charged by [defendant] until the loan was complete and payment of the service fee was demanded. Said service fees ranged from $3,400 to $7,705. Each of said eight individuals would not have purchased the reverse mortgages if they had been informed of the dollar amount of the service fee charged by [defendant]. By failing to disclose the amount of the service fee, [defendant] misrepresented a material item or material term of the broker's agreement mentioned here and above."

Transfer of Investor Funds to Medical Factoring Company Investments

During the same time period, defendant (and his agents) began working on commission as an independent "finder" for a medical bill factoring company, Medical Capital Corporation (MCC). Defendant also worked as a "finder" for Dawson Group, Inc. (DGI), a firm similarly engaged in medical bill factoring. The factoring firms' business plan was to pay health care providers discounted cash payments for receivables. Both firms (MCC and DGI) offered promissory notes to investors paying 12 percent interest. Both firms rewarded "finders" (like defendant) with 10 percent commissions on the money invested, plus an additional 10 percent commission each year the promissory note was renewed.

Defendant steered his SIS clients into the MCC and DGI investments, sometimes just months after convincing his clients to invest in annuities. By 1998, defendant had approximately 23 clients who collectively invested more than $1 million in DGI. At the peak of "finding" investors for MCC, defendant's investors loaned $8 to $9 million to MCC. Defendant was not charged with crimes as a result of selling MCC and DGI investments.

In 1998, DGI was insolvent. DGI's assets included $332,000 in cash and $1.3 million in uncollected receivables; DGI's liabilities included $2.7 million owed to note investors. DGI's owner told defendant he was going to 411 notify the investors of the firm's impending bankruptcy. Rather than allowing DGI to declare bankruptcy, defendant agreed to take over DGI, transferring its assets and liabilities to a new business entity. The investors would have received only 10 to 15 percent *359 of their notes' principal values if the remaining money was returned to them. Only $225,000 of the receivables were ultimately collected. In the interim, however, investors continued to receive 12 percent interest payments. Defendant was using money from Patriot and his own compensation to make interest payments to investors.

Defendant was charged with crimes in connection with his transfer of DGI investors into new investments. The first new entity, Medifund, issued new one-year notes to the DGI investors. Defendant changed the name of Medifund to Genessee Capital, Inc. (Genessee), in 2000 and issued new Genessee notes in January 2001. Defendant did not tell DGI investors transferred to Medifund notes about the financial situation of DGI, the intention of DGI's owner to declare bankruptcy, the viable business plan (or lack thereof) of Medifund to recover losses, or defendant's history of failed business ventures. When issuing Genessee notes, defendant made no disclosures about the financial situation of Medifund/Genessee or the business plan (or lack thereof) of Genessee. Defendant also brought new investors into Medifund/Genessee without any of these disclosures.

At some point during this process, Butler consulted an attorney with regard to the issuance of Genessee notes. According to the attorney's testimony, he told Butler the "issuance of promissory notes in California ... would be deemed an issuance of securities, that the issuance would have to either be qualified or exempt from qualification under either the Commissioner's rules or some provision of California law." Another attorney, who actually prepared the Genessee notes, testified that defendant did not provide her with most of the pertinent information about the investors and the history of the DGI/Medifund investments. The final interest payments to Genessee noteholders occurred in December 2002. Defendant finally told remaining investors that Medifund/Genessee was defunct and their investments were lost. But at the same time, defendant told these investors their money could be recovered from his new venture, Global Network Providers (GNP).

Investments in Grenada Telecommunications

Starting in 2000, defendant became involved in yet another line of business, a telecommunications startup company known as GNP, which was located in, of all places, Grenada. GNP had one asset: a license to compete with the existing telecommunications monopoly in Grenada. But GNP did not have any capital or equipment. In need of capital, GNP's promoters, Antonio Bailey and Keith Friday, offered defendant the following terms: (1) his usual 412 10 percent commission on all promissory notes sold; (2) a 25 percent ownership share of GNP; (3) a position with GNP as chief financial officer; and (4) a salary of $3,000 per month. Defendant was charged with numerous crimes arising out of investments he sold in GNP.

Defendant talked to an attorney about GNP; the attorney advised defendant that the proposed notes were governed by federal and state securities laws. The attorney noted in an e-mail that defendant had an obligation "to disclose all material facts regarding the investment" to his investors. The attorney prepared a summary offering memorandum, which included an explanation of the reasons investment in GNP would be highly risky (e.g., lack of capital, lack of operations, unsecured nature of notes, location in a foreign country, speculative possibility of note repayment). Defendant told this attorney that defendant was familiar with securities law. But defendant *360 never took steps to satisfy securities law requirements such as qualification of the notes or making detailed disclosures.

In response to Bailey suggesting a $6,000 slush fund be set up to make payments to people in Grenada, the GNP attorney told defendant this would violate the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977 (Pub.L. No. 95-213 (Dec. 19, 1977) 91 Stat. 1494) and that money used for bribes would have to be reported as income because bribes cannot be deducted as a business expense. Nonetheless, defendant wrote a note to his wife which stated: " 'Peggy deduct $6,000 from Nevada account. Cash I'm sending for minister. Spread money among different expenses.' "

Defendant began funneling MCC investors into GNP notes. Defendant told at least some investors that GNP was a telecommunications firm in Grenada. Some investors recall being told GNP was a safe investment. But defendant did not provide an offering memorandum to GNP investors or provide any other disclosures about GNP. Defendant did not disclose he would take 10 percent off the top of any investment, as well as an upfront salary, all from a speculative startup company without equity capital in a foreign country. Defendant did not disclose anything about his past that would be material to an investor (e.g., personal bankruptcy, revocation of insurance license, defendant's maneuvering with regard to DGI/Medifund). Defendant did not disclose that he would pay interest to investors with other investments rather than revenues from business operations (i.e., arguably operate a Ponzi scheme). The victims would not have invested had they known these facts.

From 2000 to 2004, defendant raised $8,331,399.05 by selling notes payable by GNP. Defendant also raised $425,306.67 selling " 'assignments of GNP stock.' " There are some indications GNP made efforts toward its professed goal of competing in the telecommunications market in Grenada. 413 GNP negotiated with AT&T and other potential corporate partners about joint venture arrangements. GNP also spent money on equipment and facilities. But GNP was never operational and never generated revenues. Thus, GNP paid commissions and salaries to its principals (including defendant) and made interest payments to investors with "diverted" investor money, not revenues. According to an expert witness, GNP was a Ponzi scheme because investors were misled into thinking GNP was achieving a legitimate return on investment by the payment of interest on the notes.

From December 2003 to January 2005, defendant stalled investors with letters describing purported problems in Grenada. But the investors did not receive any additional interest payment or repayments of principal.

Criminal Charges Brought Against Defendant

The operative information, which named more than 100 victims, charged defendant with 874 counts, consisting of 309 counts of fraud in the sale of a security (§ 25401), 309 counts of selling an unqualified security (§ 25110), four counts of using a scheme to defraud (§ 25541), 247 counts of theft from an elder (Pen.Code, § 368, subd. (d)), and five counts of filing false tax returns (Rev. & Tax.Code, § 19705, subd. (a)). The jury convicted defendant of 683 counts, as detailed above in the introduction to this opinion. The remainder of the counts did not result in convictions, either because they were dismissed by the court for insufficient evidence after the close of the prosecutor's case or because the jury acquitted defendant or could not agree on a verdict.

*361 DISCUSSION

Most of defendant's contentions on appeal pertain to his convictions under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 (§ 25000 et seq.), "a comprehensive reform of California's security laws" whose "primary objective ... was the 'creation of a balanced regulatory scheme to cope with the problems of modern securities markets in California.' " (People v. Cole (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 452, 472, 67 Cal.Rptr.3d 526 (Cole).) This law provides for civil, administrative, and (as here) criminal enforcement. (See People ex rel. DuFauchard v. O'Neal (2009) 179 Cal.App.4th 1494, 1501, 102 Cal.Rptr.3d 573; § 25540 ["any person who willfully violates any provision of this division, or who willfully violates any rule or order under this division, shall upon conviction" be subject to criminal punishment].) Before delving into the particular issues raised by defendant, we pause to provide an overview of the form and function of California securities law and to explain how this regulatory structure applies to the allegations leveled against defendant, who sold unsecured promissory notes to investors.

[1] [2] [3] [4] 414 First things first: what is a security? (See Reiswig v. Department of Corporations (2006) 144 Cal.App.4th 327, 333–335, 50 Cal.Rptr.3d 386.) Section 25019 defines a " 'security' " by listing numerous forms of transactions and instruments deemed to be securities, including "any note; stock; ... bond; debenture; evidence of indebtedness; ... or participation in any profit-sharing agreement... ." "[I]t is clear the Legislature intended that the term have a broad scope 'to protect the public against spurious schemes, however ingeniously devised, to attract risk capital.' " (People v. Graham (1985) 163 Cal.App.3d 1159, 1164, 210 Cal.Rptr. 318.) Despite this broad purpose and the inclusion of "any note" in the statutory definition of " 'security,' " not every document labeled as a promissory note is actually a security. (People v. Figueroa (1986) 41 Cal.3d 714, 735–736, 224 Cal.Rptr. 719, 715 P.2d 680 (Figueroa).) "Unsecured promissory notes are securities if the investor relies on the skill, services, solvency, success, and services of the issuer to ensure payment." (People v. Simon (1995) 9 Cal.4th 493, 497, fn. 4, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271 (Simon).) Whether an investment constitutes a security is a question for the finder of fact. (Figueroa, supra, 41 Cal.3d at p. 734, 224 Cal.Rptr. 719, 715 P.2d 680; People v. Frederick (2006) 142 Cal.App.4th 400, 413, 48 Cal.Rptr.3d 585 (Frederick).) Here, the jury found the notes peddled by defendant were securities and this finding is not challenged on appeal.

There are a variety of ways one might violate California securities law, including: (1) failing to obtain licensing as a "broker-dealer" of securities (§ 25210; Cole, supra, 156 Cal.App.4th at pp. 472–485, 67 Cal.Rptr.3d 526); (2) failing to comply with registration requirements, such as qualifying nonexempt securities (§§ 25110, 25130)[2] or filing proposed advertising for a security (§ 25300) with the Department of Corporations; (3) failing to comply with conditions or orders of the Department of *362 Corporations relating to the securities/advertisements at issue (People v. Keating (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 145, 152, 25 Cal.Rptr.2d 810; § 25302); or (4) using deceptive or otherwise prohibited practices in connection with the offer or sale of securities in California, regardless of whether qualification is required (§§ 25400–25404, 25541; People v. Smith (1989) 215 Cal.App.3d 230, 236–237, 263 Cal.Rptr. 684).

Defendant was convicted of 240 counts of offering or selling an unqualified security under section 25110, which provides in relevant part: "It is 415 unlawful for any person to offer or sell in this state any security in an issuer transaction ... unless such sale has been qualified under [the Corporations Code] or unless such security or transaction is exempted or not subject to qualification [under the Corporations Code]." It is undisputed defendant did not seek or obtain permission from the Department of Corporations to sell the securities at issue by any of the means by which securities may be qualified for sale in California. (See §§ 25111–25113.) Defendant does not contend on appeal that the securities or transactions at issue were exempt from qualification requirements. (See §§ 25100–25105.) The only claim raised by defendant with regard to his section 25110 convictions is that the jury was improperly instructed with regard to the mens rea requirement of this crime. Defendant asserts the jury was required to find as an element of the offense that defendant knew (or should have known) the promissory notes at issue were securities.

Defendant was convicted of 288 counts of fraud in the offer or sale of a security. (§ 25401 ["It is unlawful for any person to offer or sell a security in this state ... by means of any written or oral communication which includes an untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading"].) Defendant asserts a variety of instructional errors occurred in connection with these convictions, and advances a sufficiency of the evidence challenge to many of these convictions.

Defendant was also convicted of four counts of engaging in a fraudulent securities scheme. (§ 25541 ["Any person who willfully employs, directly or indirectly, any device, scheme, or artifice to defraud in connection with the offer, purchase, or sale of any security or willfully engages, directly or indirectly, in any act, practice, or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon any person in connection with the offer, purchase, or sale of any security shall upon conviction" be fined or imprisoned].) Defendant does not contend any specific error occurred with regard to his section 25541 convictions. Nor does defendant assign error with regard to his false tax return convictions. We now turn to defendant's specific contentions.

Instruction with Regard to Defendant's Knowledge That Notes Were Securities

[5] [6] [7] [8] Defendant claims the court committed error by failing to instruct the jury that it was required to find defendant knew or should have known the notes were securities as an element of the crime of selling unqualified 416 securities (§ 25110). [3] Defendant did not object to the pertinent instructions at trial or propose an instruction like that argued for on appeal. But *363 "[t]he appellate court may ... review any instruction given ... even though no objection was made thereto in the lower court, if the substantial rights of the defendant were affected thereby." (Pen.Code, § 1259.) " 'In criminal cases, even in the absence of a request, a trial court must instruct on general principles of law relevant to the issues raised by the evidence and necessary for the jury's understanding of the case.' " (People v. Anderson (2011) 51 Cal.4th 989, 996, 125 Cal.Rptr.3d 408, 252 P.3d 968.) The court's duty extends to defenses supported by substantial evidence (id. at p. 996, 125 Cal.Rptr.3d 408, 252 P.3d 968), a principle which is pertinent here because the Attorney General contends defendant's alleged lack of knowledge that the notes were securities is at most an affirmative defense, not an element of the crime.

The court instructed the jury that the elements of the crime were: "1. That a security was offered or sold in this state in an issuer transaction; [¶] 2. That such conduct was willful; and [¶] 3. That at the time the security was offered or sold, such offer or sale had not been qualified with the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California." The jury was also instructed: "In the crime of offering or selling a security that has not been qualified or exempted in violation of ... section 25110, only a general intent need be shown. When a person intentionally does that which the law declares to be a crime, he is acting with general criminal intent even though he may not know that his or her act or conduct is unlawful. The People do not have to prove that the defendant knew that the investment offered was a security."

In People v. Salas (2006) 37 Cal.4th 967, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40 (Salas), our Supreme Court held "that a seller who believes reasonably and in good faith that a security is exempt is not guilty of the crime of unlawful sale of an unregistered security." (Id. at p. 971, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40.) Salas rejected the notion that section 25110 is a strict liability offense. (Id. at p. 975, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40.) Section 25540, subdivision (a), authorizes criminal liability for violations of section 25110 only when such violations are committed " 'willfully.' " (Salas, supra, 37 Cal.4th at p. 975, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40.) Following precedent (Simon, supra, 9 Cal.4th 493, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271), the Salas court reemphasized that " 'willful[ness]' " in the criminal securities case context consists of "guilty knowledge," not just intent to do the proscribed act. (Salas, supra, 37 Cal.4th at pp. 975–981, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40.)

The Salas court also held "a defendant's reasonable good faith belief that a security is exempt from registration is an affirmative defense on which the defense bears the initial burden of proof." (417 Salas, supra, 37 Cal.4th at p. 971, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40.) The court reasoned that the underlying burden of proving an exemption " 'is upon the person claiming it' " and that evidence of a defendant's good faith belief of exemption was peculiarly within the defendant's control. (Id. at pp. 981–982, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40.) Thus, disproving a defendant's reasonable good faith belief in an exemption is not an element of the crime. But the defendant's burden is only to raise a reasonable doubt of his guilt, not to prove the affirmative defense by a preponderance of the evidence. (Ibid.) It was error for the trial court in Salas to instruct the jury that " 'evidence that a defendant ... acted in good faith is not a defense.' " (Id. at pp. 974, 983, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40.)[4]

*364 The Salas court noted it was not presented with the issue raised by defendant in the instant case: "The mental aspect of a violation of section 25110 could refer to whether a defendant knew the thing sold was a security, whether he knew it was unregistered, or whether he knew it was not exempt from registration. Only the third aspect is at issue here." (Salas, supra, 37 Cal.4th at p. 971, fn. 2, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40.) Was Salas merely demarcating the reach of its holding, or did it implicitly signal in this footnote that a defendant must have guilty knowledge that the financial product at issue is a security? If the latter, would defendant have an affirmative defense or would defendant's knowledge be an element of the offense, as (unlike exemptions to qualification) it is the prosecutor's burden to prove that a security was offered? (Cf. Simon, supra, 9 Cal.4th at p. 522, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271 [knowledge that statements are false or that omissions are material is element of § 25401 offense].) And going deeper down the rabbit hole, does it then follow that every alleged criminal securities offense requires the prosecutor to prove as an element of the offense that the defendant knew or should have known that the product offered or sold was a security?

Two subsequent appellate cases declined to hold that a defendant's knowledge of whether an investment contract is a security is an element of a securities offense. In the context of a section 25110 claim, an appellate court held that "a reasonable good faith belief that [defendants] were not selling securities" can be an affirmative defense in the same manner as a reasonable good faith belief that "securities were exempt from qualification." (Frederick, supra, 142 Cal.App.4th at pp. 416–417, 48 Cal.Rptr.3d 585.) But knowledge is not an element of the offense because "knowledge or lack of knowledge ... is peculiarly within [defendants'] personal knowledge." (Id. at p. 417, 48 Cal.Rptr.3d 585.) The Frederick trial court did not commit instructional error by not providing for such a defense 418 because the defendants had not met their evidentiary burden to introduce substantial evidence that they had a good faith, reasonable belief they were not selling securities. (Ibid.)

A court came to a similar result in a case involving section 25210, which prohibits broker-dealers from selling securities in California without a license. (People v. Cole, supra, 156 Cal.App.4th at pp. 478–479, 67 Cal.Rptr.3d 526.) Applying Salas, Cole held that a nonlicensed broker-dealer can present an affirmative defense that he or she had "a reasonable and good faith belief that he or she is exempt from the licensing requirement of section 25210, and/or a reasonable and good faith belief that he or she is excluded from the statutory definition of broker-dealer." (Cole, supra, 156 Cal.App.4th at p. 477, 67 Cal.Rptr.3d 526.) Cole also held: "section 25210 is a general intent crime. Knowledge that an investment is a security (and therefore requires a broker-dealer license) is not an element of criminal violations of section 25210." (Cole, supra, 156 Cal.App.4th at p. 478, 67 Cal.Rptr.3d 526.) Cole does not explicitly answer whether a reasonable, good faith belief that an investment *365 contract is not a security is an affirmative defense.

[9] In view of these subsequent cases and our reading of Salas, supra, 37 Cal.4th 967, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40, we conclude that proving defendant knew he was selling a security is not an element of section 25110 or any other securities offense. The most that can be said is that lack of knowledge that one is dealing in a security is an affirmative defense to section 25110. (Frederick, supra, 142 Cal.App.4th at p. 417, 48 Cal.Rptr.3d 585.) We therefore reject defendant's contention on appeal.[5]

Although not made an issue by defendant in this appeal (perhaps because defendant was repeatedly told by attorneys that the notes were securities), we note that it is debatable whether Salas, supra, 37 Cal.4th 967, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40, intended to allow defendants to pursue an affirmative defense to section 25110 charges by claiming they did not know they were selling securities. A reasonable distinction might be posited between not knowing a security is at issue and not knowing an exemption does not apply. The affirmative defense recognized in Salas, supra, 37 Cal.4th 967, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40, is a defense available only upon presentation of evidence suggesting a good faith error made by a reasonable person (perhaps in consultation with counsel) about whether the factual circumstances were such as to allow an exemption. (Id. at pp. 982–984, 38 Cal.Rptr.3d 624, 127 P.3d 40 [instruction should not be provided if there is no evidence those asserting exemption actually investigated law and facts in good faith, and error is 419 harmless if evidence is clear there was no good faith misunderstanding].) The Salas defense is not based on actual or feigned ignorance of the law. (Stark v. Superior Court (2011) 52 Cal.4th 368, 396–397, 128 Cal.Rptr.3d 611, 257 P.3d 41 ["A defendant may not escape criminal liability by asserting that he did not know the criminal law"].) A defendant who claims not to know his investment contracts were securities is usually testifying to his own ignorance of the law (e.g., "I don't know what a security is!"), rather than a reasonable, good faith mistake at odds with the jury's factual finding that the product offered was a security. This is because the definition of a security is broad and flexible, suggesting that a good faith, reasonable appraisal of an investment product will err on the side of classifying such products as securities. In sum, even if an affirmative defense is theoretically available to defendants on this point, it will be the rare case in which it is appropriate to provide such instruction.

Sufficiency of Evidence with Regard to Section 25401 Misleading Omissions to Investors

Defendant asserts many of his convictions (mostly under section 25401) are not supported by substantial evidence. It is undisputed that each section 25401 conviction at issue is supported by evidence of a separate note promising the payment of interest and the return of principal. Defendant claims there is insufficient evidence to support findings of guilt with regard to misrepresentations or omissions made to many of the victims. The parties' *366 briefs carefully analyze the state of the evidence with regard to communications made to each of the victims. The bottom line is that some of the elderly victims were either dead at the time of trial or could not remember what, if anything, was communicated to them about the promissory notes they received in exchange for their money. Other victims testified to varying degrees that they were told about the promised return of 12 percent and were not told any of the negative facts about defendant and his business operations or provided any written information about the risks of the investments and defendant's past. And still other victims remember being told their investments were safe, but not being told any of the negative information about defendant or the investments. In some of the transactions, new notes were substituted for old notes without any additional communication by defendant or his agents. Defendant is challenging convictions based mostly on the existence of the notes, without evidence from the corresponding victim that specific misrepresentations of existing fact or omissions were made in connection with the existence of the note.

[10] Defendant himself testified about some of the things he did not tell investors (e.g., defendant was taking a 10 percent commission off the top, investors were sometimes paid interest payments out of other investments 420 rather than out of business revenues, defendant had been involved in prior failed ventures that used the same promissory note financing model, defendant had previously declared bankruptcy, defendant's insurance license was revoked, defendant was not licensed as a broker-dealer or investment adviser). But this is an appeal of the court's denial of his motion to dismiss pursuant to Penal Code section 1118.1 (after the prosecutor's case-in-chief), in which defendant argued that with regard to charges on which no evidence was offered pertaining to representations made or not made in connection with the sale of the promissory notes, there was insufficient evidence to sustain a conviction. Thus, as we are independently reviewing the court's denial of defendant's motion under the substantial evidence standard as applied to the state of the evidence at the time of the motion, we may not consider defendant's testimony. (See People v. Cole (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1158, 1212–1213, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 532, 95 P.3d 811.)

There are actually two questions presented. One is the substantial evidence question: is there enough evidence that material misleading omissions were made to each victim to sustain each of defendant's convictions? But there is an antecedent question of statutory interpretation: when are material omissions cognizable under section 25401?

[11] As to this question of statutory interpretation, defendant points to the text of the statute. "Section 25401 only applies to an 'untrue statement of material fact' or an omission to state a 'material fact in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading.' (Italics added.) Section 25401 does not apply to simple nondisclosure." (Bowden v. Robinson (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 705, 717, 136 Cal.Rptr. 871; see also Tse v. Ventana Medical Systems, Inc. (3d Cir.2002) 297 F.3d 210, 225.) Defendant argues he is being punished for "simple nondisclosure" for any count in which the state of the evidence is that he did not make any communications to the alleged victims other than the promises contained in the securities (i.e., the promise to pay 12 percent interest and return principal at the end of one year). According to defendant, he made no statement of material fact. *367 Therefore, additional disclosures were not needed. [6]

[12] 421 The Attorney General, on the other hand, posits defendant omitted "material" facts about his history and the financial precariousness of the businesses in which defendant was offering investments, and that this is sufficient to satisfy section 25401. Under both state and federal securities law, " '[a] fact is material if there is a substantial likelihood that, under all the circumstances, a reasonable investor would consider it important in reaching an investment decision.' " (Insurance Underwriters Clearing House, Inc. v. Natomas Co. (1986) 184 Cal.App.3d 1520, 1526, 228 Cal.Rptr. 449 (Natomas).) Clearly, applying this test, the jury was entitled to conclude the information not disclosed by defendant was material.

But the question the parties dance around in their briefs is whether a false promise to repay an investor in the future can be "an untrue statement of a material fact " (or a "misleading" statement of fact) under section 25401. [7] (Italics added.) It is implicit in the Attorney General's view that a schemer should not be able to avoid criminal liability under section 25401 by providing no information other than a promise to provide fantastic returns. By making his promises of 12 percent interest and return of principal, was defendant making either false statements or, under the circumstances, misleading statements? Conversely, is a "Ponzi schemer" innocent of violating section 25401 if he does not make any representations of past or existing fact in extracting "investments"?

Careful parsing of the statutory language supports defendant's argument to some extent. As noted, section 25401 refers to "untrue statement[s] of a material fact" or omissions necessary to make "statements made ... not misleading." Section 25541 is broader than section 25401, as it deems to be criminal any willful "device, scheme, or artifice to defraud" or any "act, practice, or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon any person in connection with the offer, purchase, or sale of any security ... ." (§ 25541, subd. (a); see also § 25006 [" 'Fraud,' 'Deceit,' and 'defraud' are not limited to common law fraud or deceit"].) Pursuant to the Civil Code, false representations of fact and false promises are different theories of fraud. Actionable fraud or "deceit" includes both "[t]he suggestion, as a fact, of that which is not true, by one who does not believe it to be true" and "[a] promise, made without any intention of performing it." (Civ.Code, § 1710, subds.(1), (4).) If these statutes are read in pari materia, *368 one might conclude a distinction should be maintained between statements of past or existing fact and promises about the future when interpreting 422 section 25401. If this distinction is maintained, section 25401 would not apply to false or misleading promises whereas section 25541 would apply to false or misleading promises. [8]

Case law, though, hints at a different rule. In People v. Johnson (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 1369, 262 Cal.Rptr. 366 (Johnson), the appellate court held a defendant need not have knowledge his statements of material fact are false under section 25401. (Johnson, at pp. 1375–1376, 262 Cal.Rptr. 366.) The Johnson defendant's statements were false statements "about conduct in the future," to wit, representations he "would not commingle funds from the various partnerships." (Id. at p. 1375, 262 Cal.Rptr. 366.) Although not squarely addressed, the implication from Johnson is that false promises are actionable under section 25401.

Our Supreme Court subsequently disapproved of Johnson, holding there was a knowledge requirement with regard to representations made under section 25401. (Simon, supra, 9 Cal.4th at p. 522, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271 ["We conclude therefore that knowledge of the falsity or misleading nature of a statement or of the materiality of an omission, or criminal negligence in failing to investigate and discover them, are elements of the criminal offense described in section 25401" fn. omitted].) The Simon court, however, did not reject the notion of using false promises as "untrue statement[s] of a material fact" under section 25401. In finding instructional error in the case before it, the court observed: "The court also erred in instructing that if a defendant makes a material representation about conduct in the future, he must act in accordance with that representation irrespective of what his intent or knowledge was at the time the representation was made." (Simon, at p. 523, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271.) This instruction was in error because "[t]he truth or falsity of a representation and the materiality of an omission must be determined on the basis of what the seller knew or should have known at the time of sale." (Ibid.)

Neither Johnson nor Simon directly took on the question of whether a false or misleading promise is a legitimate basis for a section 25401 conviction. But it seems sensible, notwithstanding the Civil Code distinction between representations of fact and promises, that section 25401 applies to a stark case in which a seller of securities has either no intention or no ability to ever fulfill the promises made in the security to the investor. Defendant's reply brief misleadingly cites Natomas, supra, 184 Cal.App.3d at page 1526, 228 Cal.Rptr. 449, for the proposition that a misleading statement under section 25401 must be of " 'a past or existing material fact.' " In using the "past or existing material 423 fact" language, the Natomas case was referring to "a common law cause of action for negligent misrepresentation," not a section 25401 action. (Natomas, supra, 184 Cal.App.3d at p. 1526, 228 Cal.Rptr. 449.)[9]

*369 Some federal cases, applying the federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) rule 10b–5 (17 C.F.R. § 240.10b–5),[10] suggest it is a misrepresentation (as well as a fraudulent scheme) to promise outsized investment returns when the actual financial situation makes it clear the investor will never receive his or her principal back, let alone handsome returns. (See, e.g., Webster v. Omnitrition Intern., Inc. (9th Cir.1996) 79 F.3d 776, 785–786 [statements of opinion about returns on pyramid scheme can be misrepresentations and also operate as a " 'fraud or deceit' " upon the investor under rule 10b–5]; SEC v. Better Life Club of America, Inc. (D.D.C.1998) 995 F.Supp. 167, 176–177 ["promise of doubled money was a misrepresentation" because enterprise was "a grand pyramid scheme ... teetering on the verge of collapse"].)

The case before us is arguably more complicated than a pyramid scheme or pure Ponzi scheme (without any underlying business efforts). The prosecutor did not necessarily pursue a theory that defendant's promises were false, i.e., he (and the entities through which defendant acted) never had any intention of repaying his investors. This theory of the case conflicts with the messiness of defendant's story, in which attempts to run businesses and thereby repay investors were made. Defendant may well have believed his business ventures would somehow succeed despite all odds and thereafter he would be able to repay all the investors. Rather, the theory of the prosecution's case was defendant's promises to pay his investors were misleading in light of material omissions by defendant pertaining to the likelihood of repayment. Defendant's subjective belief about whether he could repay his investors was 424 irrelevant under the prosecution's theory. Defendant's violation of section 25401 was providing outrageously unrealistic promises to unsophisticated investors without providing the investors with the material facts necessary for them to understand defendant's promises could not realistically be fulfilled.

[13] We agree with the Attorney General's interpretation of section 25401. In cases involving pyramid schemes or Ponzi schemes in which unsophisticated investors' money is being used to pay off interest owed to other investors and money is being siphoned off to enrich principals before the underlying business is profitable, promises to investors to pay interest and return principal are inherently either false or misleading. Here, defendant's promises to repay principal and interest on promissory notes were misleading in the *370 absence of disclosures about the nature of his business enterprises and his prior history of fleecing elderly investors.

There is certainly substantial evidence, as evidenced by the promissory notes admitted into evidence, that defendant promised to pay investors 12 percent interest and return their principal. Even assuming the evidence is insufficient for the jury to conclude that these were "false promises," a point that is debatable, there is substantial evidence in the prosecution's case-in-chief that defendant did not make sufficient disclosures to the victims to make his statements not misleading. The testimony of victims who recall the communications (and lack thereof) that were received from defendant and his colleagues, along with the consistent absence of any written disclosures in the files of defendant or any of the victims, is substantial evidence that defendant consistently omitted material facts to all victims, not just those fortunate enough to have survived to testify against defendant.

[14] With regard to several of the victims, defendant contends there was no evidence that any crime occurred (securities fraud, sale of unqualified security, or theft from an elder). Based on our analysis above, however, we reject this argument. Substantial evidence was presented that defendant sold notes to these victims based on the introduction of the notes themselves and all the other evidence in the record from other victims and witnesses suggesting that defendant actually was selling these unqualified, misleading securities in exchange for money.

Lack of Instruction That Section 25401 Offenses Required Knowledge of Materiality

[15] Next, defendant asserts the court erred with regard to its failure to instruct the jury that it needed to find defendant knew his omissions were material. The "knowledge of the falsity or misleading nature of a statement or of the materiality of an omission, or criminal negligence in failing to investigate and 425 discover them, are elements of the criminal offense described in section 25401." (Simon, supra, 9 Cal.4th at p. 522, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271.) While the pertinent instruction required the jury to find defendant had knowledge of the falsity of his statements or misleading nature of his omissions, the instruction did not explicitly require the jury to find that defendant knew his statements/omissions were "material."

Defendant did not object to this instruction at trial, but contends the error affected his substantial rights. The Attorney General concedes instructional error occurred, but contends the error was harmless. We agree any error was harmless under any standard of review. (See People v. Sengpadychith (2001) 26 Cal.4th 316, 320, 109 Cal.Rptr.2d 851, 27 P.3d 739; Simon, supra, 9 Cal.4th at p. 523, 37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271.) It is impossible to believe that the jury would have found defendant did not know his omissions were material at the same time it found beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant knew he made misleading omissions. There is overwhelming evidence establishing that the supposed safe investments marketed by defendant to elderly, unsophisticated investors were extremely risky at best (and Ponzi schemes at worst). Defendant withheld obviously material information that would have allowed his investors to see they should not trust defendant by placing their assets at risk.

Lack of Unanimity Instruction for Section 25401 Offenses

[16] Defendant also contends the court erred by not (sua sponte) providing a unanimity instruction with regard to his *371 section 25401 offenses. Defendant reasons that the prosecutor highlighted a large number of omissions made by defendant. Potentially, the jury could have convicted defendant without coming to an agreement as to which omissions were material.

[17] [18] [19] " 'It is fundamental that a criminal conviction requires a unanimous jury verdict [citations.].' [Citation.] What is required is that the jurors unanimously agree defendant is criminally responsible for 'one discrete criminal event.' [Citation.] '[W]hen the accusatory pleading charges a single criminal act and the evidence shows more than one such unlawful act, either the prosecution must select the specific act relied upon to prove the charge or the jury must be instructed in the words of [CALCRIM No. 3500] or their equivalent that it must unanimously agree beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant committed the same specific criminal act.' " (People v. Thompson (1995) 36 Cal.App.4th 843, 850, 42 Cal.Rptr.2d 798.) Trial courts have a sua sponte duty to provide a unanimity instruction when appropriate. (People v. Crawford (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 591, 596, 182 Cal.Rptr. 536.)

[20] In People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641 (Russo), our Supreme Court held that jury unanimity is not required on the 426 specific theory of guilt or particular method of commission of the crime. "The key to deciding whether to give the unanimity instruction lies in considering its purpose. The jury must agree on a 'particular crime' [citation]; it would be unacceptable if some jurors believed the defendant guilty of one crime and other jurors believed her guilty of another. But unanimity as to exactly how the crime was committed is not required. ... In deciding whether to give the [unanimity] instruction, the trial court must ask whether (1) there is a risk the jury may divide on two discrete crimes and not agree on any particular crime, or (2) the evidence merely presents the possibility the jury may divide, or be uncertain, as to the exact way the defendant is guilty of a single discrete crime. In the first situation, but not the second, it should give the unanimity instruction." (Id. at pp. 1134–1135, 108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641.) When the evidence "shows only a single discrete crime but leaves room for disagreement as to exactly how that crime was committed or what the defendant's precise role was, the jury need not unanimously agree on the basis or, as the cases often put it, the 'theory' whereby the defendant is guilty." (Id. at p. 1132, 108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641.)

Here, the court did not err in failing to provide a unanimity instruction. Each of the section 25401 counts at issue on appeal alleged defendant sold one security on a specific date to a single victim. The jurors were not required to agree on the particular misrepresentations or omissions they relied on for the convictions because that finding merely relates to the manner of committing the crime.

Admission of Prejudicial Evidence

[21] Defendant also claims the court committed prejudicial error by admitting evidence at trial addressing (1) funds set aside to bribe officials in Grenada; (2) defendant's prior business ventures ending in bankruptcy; and (3) the revocation of defendant's insurance license. Defendant claims this evidence was either irrelevant under Evidence Code section 350, unduly prejudicial under Evidence Code section 352, or inadmissible character evidence pursuant to Evidence Code section 1101. Defendant preserved his objections to these categories of evidence at trial.

We review evidentiary rulings for an abuse of discretion. (372 People v. Foster (2010) 50 Cal.4th 1301, 1328, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 658, 242 P.3d 105.) " ' "[A] trial court's ruling will not be disturbed, and reversal ... is not required, unless the trial court exercised its discretion in an arbitrary, capricious, or patently absurd manner that resulted in a manifest miscarriage of justice." ' " (Id. at pp. 1328–1329, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 658, 242 P.3d 105.)

" 'Relevant evidence' means evidence, including evidence relevant to the credibility of a witness or hearsay declarant, having any tendency in *427 reason to prove or disprove any disputed fact that is of consequence to the determination of the action." (Evid.Code, § 210.) "No evidence is admissible except relevant evidence." (Evid.Code, § 350.) "Except as otherwise provided by statute, all relevant evidence is admissible." (Evid.Code, § 351.) "The court in its discretion may exclude evidence if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the probability that its admission will (a) necessitate undue consumption of time or (b) create substantial danger of undue prejudice, of confusing the issues, or of misleading the jury." (Evid.Code, § 352.) In cases involving uncharged misconduct, "[t]he probative value of the uncharged offense evidence must be substantial... ." (People v. Kipp (1998) 18 Cal.4th 349, 371, 75 Cal.Rptr.2d 716, 956 P.2d 1169.)

[22] Despite its relevance, "evidence of character in the form of specific instances of uncharged misconduct, to prove the conduct of that person on a specified occasion[,]" is inadmissible. (People v. Ewoldt (1994) 7 Cal.4th 380, 393, 27 Cal.Rptr.2d 646, 867 P.2d 757 (Ewoldt), superseded on other grounds by Evid.Code, § 1108; see Evid.Code, § 1101, subd. (a).) But "[n]othing ... prohibits the admission of evidence that a person committed a crime, civil wrong, or other act when relevant to prove some fact (such as motive, opportunity, intent, preparation, plan, knowledge, identity, absence of mistake or accident ...) other than his or her disposition to commit such an act." (Evid.Code, § 1101, subd. (b).)

The court did not abuse its discretion in admitting any of this evidence. Evidence suggesting defendant bribed Grenadian officials and deducted the $6,000 as a business expense, if believed by the jury, supported the allegation that defendant filed a false tax return, a charged offense. Evidence suggesting defendant lost investor money in a prior investment scheme was necessary to allow the prosecutor to argue defendant should have disclosed this prior failure to his investors. Similarly, proof that defendant's insurance license was revoked because defendant did not disclose the fees he was receiving in connection with the sales of annuities was necessary to allow the prosecutor to argue defendant should have disclosed this fact to his investors. And the latter two categories of evidence also provide evidence of defendant's intent to defraud his investors, in that they show he should have been aware of his need to be honest with investors about the risks of his offered investments and the monetary enrichment defendant himself was obtaining from such investments. (See State v. Brewer (1996) 932 S.W.2d 1, 22–25 [no error to admit evidence of prior fraudulent schemes, bankruptcies, and civil injunctions in criminal securities case].)

Denial of New Trial Based on Newly Discovered Evidence

[23] After the conclusion of the trial, defendant discovered the SEC had filed a complaint against MCC and its principals. Defendant moved for a new trial 428 based on the argument that the prosecution had faulted defendant for moving his investors out of MCC investments and into GNP. MCC was allegedly "operating a classic *373 Ponzi-like scheme" by using a variety of entities to purchase receivables from other related entities, thereby providing cash to pay off previous investors.

The court did not abuse its discretion. (People v. Delgado (1993) 5 Cal.4th 312, 328, 19 Cal.Rptr.2d 529, 851 P.2d 811.) It is not probable a different result would occur on retrial. Indeed, it is preposterous to think the jury would somehow find defendant's behavior not criminal because it turned out that yet another business to which he directed investors was allegedly conducting a Ponzi scheme.

Admission of False Testimony

[24] [25] Relatedly, defendant contends the testimony of MCC executives at trial was false and defendant's right to due process was violated thereby. " 'Under well-established principles of due process, the prosecution cannot present evidence it knows is false and must correct any falsity of which it is aware in the evidence it presents, even if the false evidence was not intentionally submitted.' " (People v. Avila (2009) 46 Cal.4th 680, 711, 94 Cal.Rptr.3d 699, 208 P.3d 634.) But there is no evidence in the record that the prosecutor knew about the SEC investigation or about any alleged falsity of the testimony of the MCC executives. There was no violation of defendant's due process.

Alleged Juror Misconduct

[26] Defendant's wife, Peggy Butler, was tried alongside defendant for filing false tax returns. The jury trial lasted almost eight months. After the jury returned its verdict, Peggy moved for a new trial based on alleged juror misconduct; defendant joined in the motion. According to evidence presented in the new trial motion, the jury foreperson was present at two 2007 church trips to Mexico and certain hair salon appointments during times in which friends of the Butlers talked about the case against defendant and Peggy (e.g., requests to pray for the Butlers, sympathy expressed for the Butlers' legal situation). The motion alleged the juror committed misconduct by not disclosing her alleged knowledge of the case and her alleged familiarity from the church trip with one potential witness in the case who was listed with 273 other witnesses.

[27] The court denied the motion, in part because there was no showing Peggy and defendant did not know about this alleged misconduct prior to the rendering of the jury verdict. In response to the court's question to defense 429 counsel about such knowledge, defense counsel refused to answer the court's question on the grounds of the attorney-client privilege. " 'It is ... the controlling law of this state that even where affidavits can properly be received to impeach the verdict of a jury they must be accompanied by an affirmative showing that neither the moving party nor his counsel had knowledge of the misconduct relied on prior to the rendition of the verdict. The absence of such a showing in support of the motion for new trial is fatal.' " (People v. Black (1963) 216 Cal.App.2d 103, 115, 30 Cal.Rptr. 798; see People v. Sanchez (1965) 232 Cal.App.2d 812, 819, 43 Cal.Rptr. 131.) This rule is particularly sensible under the facts of this case. If the allegations in the motion for new trial are accurate, it is plausible Peggy and defendant knew about the juror's alleged link to their friends and withheld this information in the hope the juror would be sympathetic to them based on mutual social acquaintances. The court properly denied the new trial motion on this basis.

Alleged Error Pertaining to Multiple Counts of Theft from an Elder for Same Victims

[28] Finally, defendant claims the court erred under *374 People v. Bailey (1961) 55 Cal.2d 514, 11 Cal.Rptr. 543, 360 P.2d 39 (Bailey), a case describing how it should be decided whether a defendant has committed one theft or multiple acts of theft with regard to a single victim. "Whether a series of wrongful acts constitutes a single offense or multiple offenses depends upon the facts of each case, and a defendant may be properly convicted upon separate counts charging grand theft from the same person if the evidence shows that the offenses are separate and distinct and were not committed pursuant to one intention, one general impulse, and one plan." (Id. at p. 519, 11 Cal.Rptr. 543, 360 P.2d 39.) Defendant argues the evidence supports only one count of theft from an elder (Pen.Code, § 368, subd. (d)) per single investment of money by a victim, and that 68 of his convictions of theft from an elder should therefore be reversed because they were based on mere renewal of a promissory note without new money invested.

We review the judgment under the deferential substantial evidence standard: "The Bailey doctrine applies as a matter of law only in the absence of any evidence from which the jury could have reasonably inferred that the defendant acted pursuant to more than one intention, one general impulse, or one plan." (People v. Jaska (2011) 194 Cal.App.4th 971, 984, 123 Cal.Rptr.3d 760.) Given this deferential standard of review, we affirm the judgment. Although no new investment money was handed over by the victims in each 430 of the counts identified by defendant as deficient, defendant took a new commission each time he renewed the notes, thereby enriching himself. [11]

DISPOSITION

The judgment is affirmed.

WE CONCUR:

RYLAARSDAM, ACTING P.J.

BEDSWORTH, J.

All Citations

212 Cal.App.4th 404, 151 Cal.Rptr.3d 352, Bankr. L. Rep. P 75,019, 12 Cal. Daily Op. Serv. 14,088, 2012 Daily Journal D.A.R. 17,181

Footnotes

1 All undesignated statutory references are to the Corporations Code.

2 " 'Qualification' is the process by which an issuer seeks authority to sell and issue its securities in California. The procedure is roughly similar to the registration procedure under the federal securities law... . But the concept is different in that the federal registration requirements are designed simply to compel disclosure of all material facts. Qualification, on the other hand, is more paternalistic. It requires obtaining authority from a state officer (Corporations Commissioner) for the securities transaction based on standards of fairness—i.e., a review on the merits." (Friedman et al., Cal. Practice Guide: Corporations (The Rutter Group 2012) ¶ 5:196, p. 5-92 (rev. # 1, 2012).)

3 As noted above, defendant implicitly concedes for purposes of appeal that the notes at issue were nonexempt securities that were required to be qualified with the Department of Corporations.

4 Following Salas, the court in this case instructed the jury as follows: "A defendant is not guilty of the crime of selling an unqualified security ... unless the defendant knew the security was not exempt or was criminally negligent in failing to know the security was not exempt. [¶] In raising this defense, the defendant bears the burden of offering substantial evidence that, if believed by the jury, would raise a reasonable doubt as to the defendant's knowledge or criminal negligence."

5 Other jurisdictions are in accord. (See, e.g., United States v. Brown (9th Cir.1978) 578 F.2d 1280, 1283 ["The government need only prove that the object sold or offered is, in fact, a security; it need not be proved that the defendant had specific knowledge that the object sold or offered was a security"]; People v. Pahl (Colo.App.2006) 169 P.3d 169, 185 ["Requiring proof of a defendant's awareness that an instrument is a security would undermine the statute's purpose, because the definition of security is intended to be flexible"].)

6 To be sure, had defendant actually sought to qualify his securities with the Department of Corporations, he would have been required to disclose most if not all of the information alleged by the prosecutor in this case to have been misleadingly omitted. (See § 25113, subd. (b)(1); Cal.Code Regs., tit. 10, §§ 260.110, 260.112 [requires description of business, proposed use for proceeds of securities, remuneration of directors and officers, calculation of proof of ability to meet proposed dividend payments], 260.113.) And it seems likely that defendant never could have qualified the securities had he attempted to do so. (Cal.Code Regs., tit. 10, § 260.140.05, subd. (a) ["An application for an open qualification normally will not be approved if the business ... is not reasonably anticipated to produce profits within a reasonable period of time"].) But defendant's argument is not that he did nothing wrong, it is that he did not violate section 25401.

7 Put another way, is theft by false pretenses (Pen.Code, §§ 487, 532), when the pretense used is a false promise of future conduct rather than a misstatement of existing fact (People v. Ashley (1954) 42 Cal.2d 246, 265, 267 P.2d 271), also a violation of section 25401 when the theft involves the sale of a security?

8 But bear in mind, California's long-held theory of promissory fraud is based on the premise that "[a] promise to do something necessarily implies the intention to perform, and where that intention is absent, there is an implied misrepresentation of fact," namely, "an existing state of mind." (5 Witkin, Summary of Cal. Law (10th ed. 2005) Torts, § 781, p. 1131, italics added.)

9 In People v. Smith (1989) 215 Cal.App.3d 230, 263 Cal.Rptr. 684, a jury convicted defendant Smith of multiple counts of theft and securities fraud as a result of a real estate scheme perpetrated upon a small number of investors. One question raised on appeal was whether the trial court had correctly dismissed two counts of securities fraud (§ 25401) that were based on the defendant's failure to disclose the allegedly " 'material fact' " that he had previously been convicted of grand theft in 1973. (Smith, at p. 238, 263 Cal.Rptr. 684.) The appellate court affirmed, finding merit in the argument that Smith's prior conviction had been reduced to a misdemeanor at sentencing and had subsequently been dismissed under Penal Code section 1203.4 after Smith completed his probation. (Id. at pp. 238–239, 263 Cal.Rptr. 684 ["Smith cannot be prosecuted for failing to voluntarily disclose this misdemeanor conviction"].) This case is of limited value to our analysis because of the unique factual context. The Smith court avoided the broader issue of how section 25401 should be interpreted with regard to material omissions and instead focused on Penal Code provisions relating to the legal effect of prior convictions.

10 Section 25401 "is essentially identical to clause (b) of rule 10b–5... ." (Lynch v. Cook (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 1072, 1087, 196 Cal.Rptr. 544, disapproved on other grounds in In re Marriage of Arceneaux (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1130, 1137–1138, 275 Cal.Rptr. 797, 800 P.2d 1227.)

11 As execution of sentence was stayed pursuant to Penal Code section 654 as to every count of elder abuse, there is no practical effect on defendant's sentence regardless of the outcome of this issue.

End of Document © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

KeyCite Yellow Flag - Negative Treatment
Declined to Extend by In re Vargas, N.Y.A.D. 2 Dept., June 3, 2015

58 Cal.4th 440
Supreme Court of California

In re Sergio C. GARCIA on Admission.

No. S202512.
|
Jan. 2, 2014.

Synopsis
Background: Committee of Bar Examiners moved to admit an applicant to the State Bar, and the Supreme Court issued an order to show cause (OSC).

Holdings: The Supreme Court, Cantil–Sakauye, C.J., held that:

[1] Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act does not preclude admitting undocumented immigrants to State Bar;

[2] state law and state public policy do not preclude admitting undocumented immigrants to State Bar; and [3] applicant met his burden of establishing good moral character.

Motion granted.

Chin, J., filed concurring opinion.

West Headnotes (11)

[1] Attorney and Client
Jurisdiction to admit

Although both the Legislature and the Supreme Court possess the authority to establish rules regulating admission to the State Bar, under the California Constitution the Supreme Court bears the ultimate responsibility and authority for determining the issue of admission. West's Ann.Cal.Bus. & Prof.Code § 6060; Cal.Rules of Court, Rule 9.30; State Bar Procedure Rules, Standard 4.1 et seq.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Attorney and Client
Determination of right to admission

The Committee of Bar Examiners makes recommendations to the Supreme Court regarding the admission of individual applicants to the State Bar, but the Supreme Court makes the ultimate decision on admission pursuant to the court's constitutional authority over the practice of law in California. West's Ann.Cal.Bus. & Prof.Code § 6046.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] States
Federal Supremacy;Preemption

Under the Supremacy Clause state law must give way to lawfully adopted federal statutes as well as to provisions of the federal Constitution. U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 6, cl. 2.

Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Aliens, Immigration, and Citizenship
Power to regulate in general

Aliens, Immigration, and Citizenship
Preemption

States
International relations;aliens

The federal government generally has plenary authority over matters relating to immigration, including limitations on the conduct or activities of non-United States citizens who are present in this country without legal authorization or documentation, and provisions of federal law relating to immigration prevail over any conflicting state law.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

[5] Aliens, Immigration, and Citizenship
Preemption
States
Professions

Even with respect to matters that ordinarily and historically are an appropriate subject of state regulation, such as a state's granting or denial of a license to practice law in the state, when the federal government has enacted a law restricting the right of a non-United States citizen to obtain such a professional license, under the Supremacy Clause the applicable federal statute will necessarily take precedence and prevail over any conflicting state law. U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 6, cl. 2.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Aliens, Immigration, and Citizenship
Preemption
Attorney and Client
Capacity and qualifications
States
Professions

Even assuming that admission to the State Bar is a "State or local public benefit" generally denied to undocumented immigrants by the federal Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act, the state law providing that "an applicant who is not lawfully present in the United States" may be admitted to the State Bar is a law that "affirmatively provides for such eligibility" within the meaning of an exception to the federal Act, and thus the federal Act does not apply to State Bar admission, even though the state statute does not explicitly reference the federal Act. Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, § 411(d), 8 U.S.C.A. § 1621(d); West's Ann.Cal.Bus. & Prof.Code § 6046.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Attorney and Client
Capacity and qualifications

There is no state law or state public policy that would justify precluding undocumented immigrants, as a class, from obtaining a law license in California, notwithstanding the restrictions on employment imposed by federal law. Immigration and Nationality Act, § 274A, 8 U.S.C.A. § 1324a; West's Ann.Cal.Bus. & Prof.Code § 6046.

Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Aliens, Immigration, and Citizenship
Undocumented aliens
Attorney and Client
Capacity and qualifications

The fact that an undocumented immigrant is present in the United States without lawful authorization does not itself involve moral turpitude or demonstrate moral unfitness so as to justify exclusion of the immigrant from the State Bar, or prevent the immigrant from taking the oath of office required of every attorney promising faithfully to discharge the duty to support the Constitution and laws of the United States and California. Immigration and Nationality Act, §§ 212, 237, 8 U.S.C.A. §§ 1182, 1227; West's Ann.Cal.Bus. & Prof.Code §§ 6067, 6068.

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Attorney and Client
Determination of right to admission

The Committee of Bar Examiners makes an initial determination, on a case-by-case basis, whether an applicant for bar admission has met his or her burden of establishing good moral character, but the Supreme Court retains the authority to independently review and weigh the evidence of moral fitness and to make the ultimate determination whether the applicant has satisfied this requirement. West's Ann.Cal.Bus. & Prof.Code §§ 6060(b), 6068(a)(2).

Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Attorney and Client

Capacity and qualifications

The fundamental question in determining whether an applicant for bar admission has met his or her burden of establishing good moral character is whether the applicant is fit to practice law, taking into account whether the applicant has engaged in conduct that reflects moral turpitude or has committed misconduct that bears particularly upon the applicant's fitness to practice law. West's Ann.Cal.Bus. & Prof.Code §§ 6060(b), 6068(a)(2); State Bar Procedure Rules, Standard 4.40(A).

Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Attorney and Client

Capacity and qualifications

An applicant for admission to State Bar who was an undocumented immigrant met his burden of establishing good moral character, even though applicant had falsely attested on a job application at age 17 that he was a lawful permanent resident and applicant was once cited for driving without a license or insurance, where applicant had been a diligent and trusted worker, had made significant contributions to his community, and had never been convicted of a criminal offense. West's Ann.Cal.Bus. & Prof.Code §§ 6060(b), 6068(a)(2); State Bar Procedure Rules, Standard 4.40(A).

See 1 Witkin, Cal. Procedure (5th ed. 2008) Attorneys, § 358.

Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

857 Fishkin & Slatter, Walnut Creek, Jerome Fishkin, Lindsay K. Slatter, Samuel C. Bellicini; Wilson, Elser, Moskowitz, Edelman & Dicker, Los Angeles, and Robert Cooper for Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Kamala D. Harris, Attorney General, Manuel M. Medeiros, Sate Solicitor General, Kathleen A. Kenealy, Chief Assistant Attorney General, Jonathan Wolff, Acting Chief Assistant Attorney General, Douglas J. Woods, Assistant Attorney General, Rochelle C. East, Tamar Pachter, Daniel J. Powell and Ross C. Moody, Deputy Attorneys General, for California Attorney General as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Irell & Manella, Carlos R. Moreno, Eric A. Webber and BJ Ard for Los Angeles County Bar Association, Alameda County Bar Association, Asian American Bar Association of the Greater Bay Area, Asian Pacific American Bar Association of Silicon Valley, Bar Association of San Francisco, Beverly Hills Bar Association, Kern County Bar Association, Marin County Bar Association, Mexican American Bar Association, Multicultural Bar Alliance of Southern California, Riverside County Bar Association, Sacramento County Bar Association, San Bernardino County Bar Association, San Diego County Bar Association, Santa Clara County Bar Association and South Asian Bar Association of Northern California as Amici Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Anthony P. Marquez; Law Office of Denis White and Joshua Kaizuka, Sacramento, for La Raza Lawyers Association of Sacramento and Asian/Pacific Bar Association of Sacramento as Amici Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Community Legal Services in East Palo Alto, Ilyce Shugall; Dolores Street Community Services, Francisco M. Ugarte and Jaclyn Shull Gonzalez as Amici Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Rigoberto J. Arrechiga, Elizabeth P. Uribe, South Pasadena, and Juan A. Ramos for the Mexican American Bar Association of Los Angeles County as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Morrison & Foerster, San Francisco, Arturo J. Gonzáles, Claudia M. Vetesi, Alexandria A. Amezcua, Javier Serrano; Girardi Keese, Los Angeles, Howard B. Miller; Bacon Immigration Law & Policy Program and Nina A. Rabin, Oakland, for California Latino Legislative Caucus as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

858 Sharon P. Minter, Christopher F. Stoll and Angela K. Perona for National Center for Lesbian Rights and Lambda Defense and Educational Fund, Inc., as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Reed Smith, San Francisco, Raymond A. Cardozo, David J. de Jesus, Rachel M. Golick and Delaney M. Andersen for Michael A. Olivas, Holly S. Cooper, Karen Musalo, Hiroshi Motomura, Cruz Reynoso, and other immigration law professors as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Jennifer Chang Newell, Michael Tan; Lee Gelernt; Tanya Broder; and Bernard P. Wolfsdorf, Santa Monica, for the American Civil Liberties Union, American Immigration Lawyers Association, American Civil Liberties Union of Northern California, American Civil Liberties Union of San Diego and Imperial Counties, American Civil Liberties Union of Southern California, Asian Law Caucus, Legal Aid Society–Employment Law Center, National Asian Pacific American Bar Association and National Immigration Law Center as Amici Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Arnold & Porter, Jerome B. Falk, Jr., Lisa Hill Fenning, Los Angeles, John Throckmorton, San Francisco; Akins Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld, William A. Norris, L. Rachel Lerman, Los Angeles, and Amit Kurlekar, San Francisco, for law school deans Sandra L. Brooks, Erwin Chemerinsky, Christopher Edley, Jr., Victor Gold, Rachel Moran, Drucilla S. Ramey, and Frank H. Wu as Amici Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Brigit G. Alvarez, South Pasadena, for Joseph A. Vail Center for Immigrant Rights as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

UCLA Downtown Labor Center and Tia Koonse for Dream Team Los Angeles, Orange County Dream Team, California Dream Network, San Fernando Valley Dream Team and United We Dream Network as Amici Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Orrick, Herrington & Sutcliffe, Cynthia J. Larsen, Sacramento, Sarah C. Marriott, Alexis Yee–Garcia, San Francisco, Judy Kwan, Los Angeles; Latino Justice PRLDEF and Jose Perez for Cesar Vargas as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Nicholás Espíritu for Dream Bar Association, Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Asian Pacific American Legal Center, Asian Law Alliance, National Association of Latino Elected and Appointed Officials Educational Fund and National Council of La Raza as Amici Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Nicholas Kierniesky, in pro. per., as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Petitioner Sergio C. Garcia.

Starr Babcock, Lawrence C. Yee, Richard J. Zanassi, San Francisco, Rachel S. Grunberg; Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, Irvine, Robert E. Palmer, Joshua A. Jessen, Drew A. Harbur; Mark A. Perry; Minami Tamaki, San Francisco, Donald K. Tamaki, Minette A. Kwok, Phillip M. Zackler; Kevin R. Johnson; Bill Onh Hing; Bryan Springmeyer; Kerr & Wagstaffe, San Francisco, and James N. Wagstaffe for Respondent Committee of Bar Examiners of State Bar of California.

Larry DeSha, in pro. per., as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Respondent Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California.

Stuart F. Delery Acting Assistant Attorney General (United States), Beth S. Brinkmann, Deputy Assistant Attorney 859 General, Mark B. Stern, Michael P. Abate and Daniel Tenny for the United States of America as Amicus Curiae on behalf of Respondent Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California.

Opinion

CANTIL–SAKAUYE, C.J.

446 120 The Committee of Bar Examiners (Committee)—the entity within the State Bar of California (State Bar) that administers the California bar examination, investigates the qualifications of bar applicants, and certifies to this court candidates it finds qualified for admission to the State Bar—has submitted the name of Sergio C. Garcia (hereafter Garcia or applicant) for admission to the State Bar. In conjunction with its certification, the Committee has brought to the court's attention the fact that Garcia's current immigration status is that of an undocumented immigrant,[1] and has noted that the question 121 whether an undocumented immigrant may be admitted to the State Bar is an issue that has not previously been addressed or decided by this court. We issued an order to show cause in this matter to address the question.

Our order to show cause requested briefing on a number of issues raised by the Committee's motion to admit Garcia to the State Bar, including the *447 proper interpretation of a federal statute—section 1621 of title 8 of the United States Code (hereafter section 1621)—that generally restricts an undocumented immigrant's eligibility to obtain a professional license but that also contains a subsection expressly authorizing a state to render an undocumented immigrant eligible to obtain such a professional license through the enactment of a state law meeting specified requirements. Very shortly after we held oral argument in this matter, the California Legislature enacted a statute that was intended to satisfy this aspect of section 1621 and the Governor signed that legislation into law. (Bus. & Prof.Code, § 6064, subd. (b); Stats.2013, ch. 573, § 1, enacting Assem. Bill No. 1024 (2013–2014 Reg. Sess.) as amended Sept. 6, 2013.) The new legislation became effective on January 1, 2014.

In light of the recently enacted state legislation, we conclude that the Committee's motion to admit Garcia to the State Bar should be granted. The new legislation removes any potential statutory obstacle to Garcia's admission posed by section 1621, and there is no other federal statute that purports to preclude a state from granting a license to practice law to an undocumented immigrant. The new statute also reflects that the Legislature and 860 the Governor have concluded that the admission of an undocumented immigrant who has met all the qualifications for admission to the State Bar is fully consistent with this state's public policy, and, as this opinion explains, we find no basis to disagree with that conclusion. Finally, we agree with the Committee's determination that Garcia possesses the requisite good moral character to warrant admission to the State Bar and, pursuant to our constitutional authority, grant the Committee's motion to admit Garcia to the State Bar.

I. Summary of Facts and State Bar Proceedings

The record before us indicates that applicant Garcia was born in Villa Jimenez, Mexico, on March 1, 1977. When he was 17 months old, his parents brought him to California, without inspection or documentation by immigration officials. He lived in California until 1986 (when he was nine years old) and then he and his parents moved back to Mexico. In 1994, when Garcia was 17 years old, he and his parents returned to California; again Garcia entered the country without documentation. At that time, Garcia's father had obtained lawful permanent resident status in the United States pursuant to federal immigration law, and on November 18, 1994, his father filed an immigration visa petition (form I–130 [petition for alien relative]) on Garcia's behalf.[2] The petition was accepted by federal immigration officials on January 31, 1995. Under federal immigration law, the visa petition provides 448 Garcia with a basis to apply for adjustment of his immigration status to that of a lawful permanent resident when an immigrant visa number becomes available. Under current provisions of federal immigration law, however, the number of available immigrant visas that may be issued each year is limited and is based upon an applicant's country of origin. Because the current backlog of persons of Mexican origin who are seeking immigrant visas is so large, as of the date of this opinion—more than 19 years after Garcia's visa petition was filed—a visa number still *122 has not become available for Garcia.[3]

Garcia has resided in California without interruption since 1994. During this period of time, he graduated from high school, *861 attended Butte College, California State University at Chico, and Cal Northern School of Law. He received his law degree from Cal Northern School of Law in May 2009, and took and passed the July 2009 California bar examination.

In response to questions on the State Bar's application for determination of moral character, Garcia indicated that he is not a United States citizen and that his immigration status is "Pending."[4] The Committee conducted an extensive investigation of Garcia's background, employment history, and past activities, received numerous reference letters supporting Garcia's application and attesting to his outstanding moral character and significant contributions 449 to the community, and ultimately determined that Garcia possessed the requisite good moral character to qualify for admission to the State Bar.[5]

*862 *123 Thereafter, in connection with its motion submitting Garcia's name to this court for admission to the State Bar, the Committee brought to this court's attention the fact that Garcia "does not have legal immigration status in the United States" and noted that, to its knowledge, " this is a case of first impression, as we are not aware of any other jurisdiction that has ever knowingly admitted an undocumented alien to the practice of law." The 450 Committee also pointed out "that there are additional applicants currently working their way through the admissions process with similar immigration issues."[6]

ED-17-0431-A-004985

In response to the Committee's motion, we issued an order directing the Committee "to show cause before this court why its motion for admission of Sergio C. Garcia to the State Bar of California should be granted." Our order set forth a number of issues to be addressed, including several related to the relevance, interpretation, and significance of the federal statute noted earlier, namely section 1621.[7] In addition, our order invited the filing of applications for permission to file an amicus curiae brief, either in support of or opposition to the motion, and, in particular, invited such applications from the State of California Department of Justice, Office of the Attorney General and the United States Department of Justice, Office of the Attorney General.

In response to our order, the Committee and Garcia filed separate briefs in support of the motion for admission of Garcia to the State Bar. In addition, the California Attorney General as well as a large number of organizations and individuals filed amicus curiae briefs supporting the motion for Garcia's admission.[8] The United States Department of Justice and two individuals filed amicus curiae briefs in opposition to the motion. The Committee and Garcia then filed separate replies to the amicus curiae briefs opposing the motion.

451 We held oral argument in this matter on September 4, 2013. On September 6, 863 2013, a pending bill —Assembly Bill No. 1024 (2013–2014 Reg. Sess.)—was amended in its entirety and its contents were replaced by a new *124 provision adding Business and Professions Code section 6064, subdivision (b) (hereafter section 6064(b)), authorizing this court to admit as an attorney at law "an applicant who is not lawfully present in the United States [who] has fulfilled the requirements for admission to practice law...."[9] Assembly Bill No. 1024, as amended on September 6, 2013, was quickly passed by overwhelming majorities in both the state Senate and state Assembly,[10] and was enrolled and presented to the Governor on September 26, 2013. The Governor signed the bill into law on October 5, 2013. Pursuant to article IV, section 8, subdivision (c) of the California Constitution, the new statute—section 6064(b)—became effective on January 1, 2014.

After the legislation enacting section 6064(b) was signed into law, we vacated submission in this matter and indicated that the matter would be resubmitted on January 2, 2014, after the new statute took effect. At our request, the parties and amici curiae have filed supplemental briefs addressing the effect of the new statute on the matter before us.

II. State and Federal Authority Regarding Eligibility of Undocumented Immigrants to Obtain a License to Practice Law in California

[1] [2] As a general matter, the question whether an applicant should be admitted to the State Bar and thereby obtain a license to practice law in California is governed by state law. In California, the general requirements and standards for admission to the State Bar are set forth both in statutory provisions enacted by the Legislature (Bus. & Prof.Code, § 6060 et seq.) and in court rules that are promulgated by this court (see, e.g., Cal. Rules of Court, rule 9.30 [Rules on Law Practice, Attorneys, and Judges]; see also Rules of State Bar, rules 4.1 to 4.269 [Admissions and Educational Standards]). Although both the Legislature and this court possess the authority to establish rules regulating admission to the State Bar, under the California Constitution this court bears the ultimate responsibility and authority for determining the issue of admission. (See, e.g., 452 Hustedt v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd. (1981) 30 Cal.3d 329, 336–337, 178 Cal.Rptr. 801, 636 P.2d 1139 ["In California, the power to regulate the practice of law, including the power to admit and to discipline attorneys, has long been recognized to be among the inherent powers of the article VI courts. Indeed, every state in the United States recognizes that the power to admit and to discipline attorneys rests in the judiciary." (fn. omitted)]; In re Lavine (1935) 2 Cal.2d 324, 328, 41 P.2d 161 ["[N]otwithstanding the inherent power of the courts to admit applicants for licenses to practice law it is generally conceded that the legislature may prescribe reasonable rules and regulations for admission to the bar which will be followed by the courts. The regulations so prescribed must ... be reasonable and shall 864 not deprive the judicial branch of its power to prescribe additional conditions under which applicants shall be admitted, nor take from the courts the right and duty of actually making orders admitting them."].)[11]

Although the determination whether an applicant will be admitted to the State Bar is generally governed by state law, there are circumstances in which the issue of bar admission is controlled by federal law. Perhaps the most obvious circumstance arises when a state law relating to bar admission contravenes a provision of the United States Constitution. Thus, for example, in 125 Raffaelli v. Committee of Bar Examiners (1972) 7 Cal.3d 288, 101 Cal.Rptr. 896, 496 P.2d 1264, we held that a California statutory provision that limited admission to the State Bar only to applicants who were United States citizens (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 6060, former subd. (a), as amended by Stats.1972, ch. 1285, § 4.3, p. 2559) could not be applied because it violated the equal protection clause of the United States Constitution. (Raffaelli, supra, at pp. 294–304, 101 Cal.Rptr. 896, 496 P.2d 1264; see In re Griffiths (1973) 413 U.S. 717, 93 S.Ct. 2851, 37 L.Ed.2d 910 [reaching same conclusion as Raffaelli].)

[3] Under the supremacy clause of the federal Constitution, however, state law must give way to lawfully adopted federal statutes as well as to provisions of the federal Constitution. (U.S. Const., art. VI, cl. 2 ["This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof ... shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, any thing in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding" (italics added)].) Thus, when a federal statute has been adopted pursuant to authority granted to Congress under the federal Constitution, the federal statute preempts any conflicting state law.

[4] [5] As relevant to the issue presented by this case, past decisions of the United States Supreme Court clearly establish that the federal government *453 generally has "plenary authority" over matters relating to immigration (including limitations on the conduct or activities of non-United States citizens who are present in this country without legal authorization or documentation) and that provisions of federal law relating to immigration prevail over any conflicting state law. (See, e.g., Arizona v. United States (2012) 567 U.S. ——, ——, 132 S.Ct. 2492, 2498–2502, 183 L.Ed.2d 351, 366–369; Takahashi v. Fish Comm'n (1948) 334 U.S. 410, 419, 68 S.Ct. 1138, 92 L.Ed. 1478; Hines v. Davidowitz (1941) 312 U.S. 52, 62–74, 61 S.Ct. 399, 85 L.Ed. 581.) Accordingly, even with respect to matters that ordinarily and historically are an appropriate subject of state regulation—such as a state's granting or denial of a license to practice law in the state—when the federal government has enacted a law restricting the right of a non-United States citizen to obtain such a professional license, under the supremacy clause the applicable federal statute will necessarily take precedence and prevail over any conflicting state law. (Arizona v. United States, supra, at p. ——, 132 S.Ct. at pp. 2500–2501, 183 L.Ed.2d at p. 368; Hines v. Davidowitz, supra, at pp. 62–63, 61 S.Ct. 399 ["[w]hen the national government by treaty or statute has established rules and regulations touching the rights, privileges, obligations or burdens of aliens 865 as such, the treaty or statute is the supreme law of the land. No state can add to or take from the force and effect of such treaty or statute...."]; accord, Ellen S. v. Florida Bd. of Bar Examiners (S.D.Fla.1994) 859 F.Supp. 1489 [holding that federal Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq.) applies to a state's bar admission process].)

For this reason, in analyzing the legal issues presented by Garcia's application, we turn first to the potential restriction imposed by federal law with regard to Garcia's application, before addressing any state law issues that are implicated by the Committee's motion.

III. Does the Federal Statute That Limits an Undocumented Immigrant's Eligibility to Obtain a State-provided Professional License—Section 1621—Restrict Garcia's Eligibility to Obtain a License to Practice Law in California?

Section 1621 was enacted by Congress in 1996 as part of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (Pub.L. No. 104–193 (Aug. 22, 1996) 110 Stat. 2105) (hereafter 1996 Act), a lengthy legislative measure—combining and revising provisions contained in numerous bills that had been introduced and considered in prior congressional sessions—that was primarily concerned with comprehensive welfare reform. The 1996 Act imposed additional work requirements on recipients of federal welfare benefits and made other very significant changes to a wide range of federal programs dealing with, for example, Supplemental Security Income, food stamps, child support payments, childcare, child nutrition, and job *454 training. The 1996 Act includes over 900 sections and, as published in the United 126 States Statutes at Large, runs more than 250 pages. (110 Stat. 2105–2355.) Section 1621, the statutory provision at issue here, is contained in title IV of the 1996 Act, a part of the act entitled "Restricting Welfare and Public Benefits for Aliens."

A. Overview of the language of section 1621

1. Section 1621(a)

Section 1621(a) provides: "Notwithstanding any other provision of law and except as provided in subsections (b) and (d) of this section, an alien who is not—[¶] (1) a qualified alien (as defined in section 1641 of this title), [12] [¶] (2) a nonimmigrant under the Immigration and Nationality Act [8 U.S.C. 1101 et seq.], or [¶] (3) an alien who is paroled into the United States under section 212(d)(5) of such Act [8 U.S.C. 1182(d)(5)] for less than one year, [¶] is not eligible for any State or local public benefit (as defined in subsection (c) of this section)."

There is no dispute that an undocumented immigrant, like Garcia, does not fall within any of the three exempt categories 866 listed in section 1621(a), and thus, under section 1621(a), an undocumented immigrant is not eligible for "any State or local public benefit" as defined in section 1621(c), subject to the exceptions set forth in section 1621(b) and 1621(d).

2. Section 1621(c)

Section 1621(c), in turn, provides: "(1) Except as provided in paragraphs (2) and (3), for purposes of this subchapter the term 'State or local public benefit' means—[¶] (A) any grant, contract, loan, professional license, or commercial license provided by an agency of a State or local government or by appropriated funds of a State or local government; and [¶] (B) any retirement, welfare, health, disability, public or assisted housing, postsecondary education, food assistance, unemployment benefit, or any other similar *455 benefit for which payments or assistance are provided to an individual, household, or family eligibility unit by an agency of a State or local government or by appropriated funds of a State or local government. [¶] (2) Such term shall not apply—[¶] (A) to any contract, professional license, or commercial license for a nonimmigrant whose visa for entry is related to such employment in the United States, or to a citizen of a freely associated state, if section 141 of the applicable compact of free association approved in Public Law 99–239 or 99–658 (or a successor provision) is in effect; [¶] (B) with respect to benefits for an alien who as a work authorized nonimmigrant or as an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence under the Immigration and Nationality Act ... qualified for such benefits and for whom the United States under reciprocal treaty agreements is required to pay benefits, as determined by the Secretary of State, after consultation with the Attorney General; or [¶] (C) to the issuance of a professional license to, or the renewal of a professional license by, a foreign national not physically present in the United States. [¶] (3) Such term does not include any Federal public benefit under section 1611(c) of this title." (8 U.S.C. § 1621(c), citation omitted.)

The initial round of briefing in this matter, filed prior to the enactment of the new state legislation, focused primarily upon the proper interpretation of the portion of section 1621(c)(1)(A) that defines "State or local public benefit" for purposes of this statute to include "any grant, contract, loan, professional license, or commercial license provided by an agency of a State or local government or by appropriated funds of a State or local government." (Italics added.) The Committee and Garcia asserted that the italicized language does not encompass a law license that is issued by this court.

127 3. Section 1621(b) and 1621(d)

As noted, section 1621(b) and 1621(d) set forth exceptions to the general restrictions imposed by section 1621(a). Section 1621(b) lists a number of specific types of benefits to which section 1621 does not apply, but none of those benefits are relevant to the issue before us in this matter. [13]

867 *456 [6] The exception embodied in section 1621(d), on the other hand, is directly relevant to the issue before us. Section 1621(d) provides in full: "A State may provide that an alien who is not lawfully present in the United States is eligible for any State or local public benefit for which such alien would otherwise be ineligible under subsection (a) of this section only through the enactment of a State law after August 22, 1996, which affirmatively provides for such eligibility."

The Committee and Garcia maintain that the recent legislation passed by the California Legislature and signed by the Governor enacting section 6064(b) satisfies the federal requirements set forth in section 1621(d) and thus removes any obstacle this federal statute would otherwise pose to this court's admission of Garcia to the State Bar. As discussed below, we agree with this contention.

B. Has California enacted a law affirmatively providing that undocumented immigrants are eligible to obtain a professional license to practice law in California so as to satisfy the requirements of section 1621(d)?

As noted above, in the initial round of briefing the Committee and Garcia maintained that, in light of the specific language in section 1621(c)(1)(A) defining the term "State or local public benefit" to mean "any ... professional license ... provided by an agency of a State or local government or by appropriated funds of a State or local government " (italics added), that section should not be interpreted to render an undocumented immigrant ineligible to obtain a license to practice law in California. The Committee and Garcia argued that the first clause of section 1621(c)(1)(A)—referring to any professional license "provided by an agency of a State or local government"—applies only to a professional license that is issued by a state or local administrative agency and does not apply to a law license that is issued by this court. The Committee and Garcia asserted that the second clause of section 1621(c)(1)(A)—referring to public benefits provided by "appropriated funds of a State ... government"—is inapplicable to this court's issuance of a law license either because the amount of funds expended by this court in the bar admission process should be considered "de minimis" or because the clause should be interpreted to refer only to public benefits that involve the payment of money or funds to undocumented immigrants and not to the issuance of a license to practice law.

In light of the recent enactment of California's section 6064(b), we need not determine the validity of the parties' contentions with regard to the 457 proper interpretation of section 1621(c)(1)(A). Under section 1621(d), the restrictions imposed upon undocumented immigrants by section 1621(a) and 1621(c)(1)(A) are inapplicable if a state enacts a law that *128 (1) renders undocumented immigrants eligible for a public benefit that undocumented immigrants would otherwise be ineligible to obtain under section 1621(a) and section 1621(c) and (2) otherwise satisfies the requirements of section 1621(d). Accordingly, we turn to the question whether the enactment of section 6064(b) 868 satisfies the requirements of section 1621(d).

As noted, section 1621(d) reads in full: "A State may provide that an alien who is not lawfully present in the United States is eligible for any State or local public benefit for which such alien would otherwise be ineligible under subsection (a) of this section only through the enactment of a State law after August 22, 1996 [(the date section 1621(d) was enacted)], which affirmatively provides for such eligibility."

Section 1621(d) grants a state the authority to make undocumented immigrants eligible for the types of public benefits for which such persons would otherwise be ineligible under section 1621(a) and 1621(c). But under section 1621(d), a state may make undocumented immigrants eligible for such benefits only through the enactment of a law, adopted subsequent to the date section 1621(d) was enacted, that "affirmatively provides" that undocumented immigrants are eligible for such benefits.

This court had occasion to address the provisions of section 1621(d) in Martinez v. Regents of University of California (2010) 50 Cal.4th 1277, 1294–1296, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855 (Martinez). In Martinez, we found that section 68130.5 of the Education Code—a statute enacted in 2001 that explicitly exempted "a person without lawful immigration status" from paying nonresidential tuition at the California State University and California community colleges—satisfied the provisions of section 1621(d) and thus rendered undocumented immigrants eligible to obtain such a public benefit. (Martinez, supra, at p. 1295, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855.)

In reaching this conclusion in Martinez, our opinion held that (1) the wording of Education Code section 68130.5, subdivision (a)(4) itself (which provided that the statute applied "[i]n the case of a person without lawful immigration status"), and (2) the wording of the uncodified portion of the legislation (which stated that "[t]his act ... allows all persons, including undocumented immigrant students who meet [prescribed] requirements ..., to be exempt from nonresident tuition in California's colleges and universities" [Stats.2001, ch. 814, § 1, subd. (a)(4), pp. 6652–6653]) was sufficient to demonstrate that this statutory provision "affirmatively provides" that qualifying undocumented immigrants are eligible for the nonresident tuition exemption so as to satisfy the requirements of section 1621(d). 458 See Martinez, supra, 50 Cal.4th at p. 1295, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855.) We rejected the contention that in order to satisfy section 1621(d) a state law was required to explicitly refer to section 1621(d) itself and to indicate that it was enacted pursuant to that federal statute, concluding instead that in order to satisfy the " 'affirmatively provides' requirement" it was sufficient that the state law in question " 'expressly state that it applies to undocumented aliens, rather than conferring a benefit generally without specifying that its beneficiaries may include undocumented aliens.' " (Martinez, supra, at p. 1296, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855.) [14]

*129 In light of our interpretation of section 1621(d) in Martinez, supra, 50 Cal.4th 1277, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855, it is clear that the enactment of 869 section 6064(b) satisfies the requirements of this federal statute. First, section 6064(b) was enacted after August 22, 1996. Second, by explicitly authorizing a bar applicant "who is not lawfully present in the United States" to obtain a law license, the statute expressly states that it applies to undocumented immigrants—rather than conferring a benefit generally without specifying that its beneficiaries may include undocumented immigrants—and thus "affirmatively provides" that undocumented immigrants may obtain such a professional license so as to satisfy the requirements of section 1621(d). (Martinez, supra, 50 Cal.4th at p. 1295, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855.) Accordingly, once section 6064(b) took effect on January 1, 2014, this enactment removed any obstacle to Garcia's admission to the State Bar that was posed by section 1621(a) and 1621(c)(1)(A).

The parties and amici curiae have not cited, and we are unaware of, any other federal statute that would render an undocumented immigrant ineligible to obtain a license to practice law in California.

459 IV. Are There Reasons, Under State Law, That the Committee's Motion to Admit Garcia to the State Bar Should Be Denied?

Section 6064(b)'s removal of any federal statutory barrier to Garcia's admission to the State Bar posed by section 1621 does not fully resolve the legal issues presented by the Committee's motion to admit Garcia to the State Bar. We must still determine (1) whether there is any reason as a matter of state law why undocumented immigrants, in general, should not be admitted to the State Bar, and (2) whether there is any reason, specific to Garcia himself, that he should not be admitted to the State Bar.

A. Is there any reason, under state law, that undocumented immigrants, as a class or group, should not be admitted to the State Bar?

[7] Section 6064(b) reflects that the Legislature and the Governor have concluded that there is no state law or state public policy that would justify denying qualified undocumented immigrants, as a class, the opportunity to obtain admission to the State Bar. As discussed earlier in this opinion, however, prior decisions of this court make clear that this court, rather than the Legislature or Governor, possesses the ultimate authority, and bears the ultimate responsibility, to resolve questions of general policy relating to admission to the State Bar. (See, e.g., 870 Hustedt v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd., supra, 30 Cal.3d 329, 336–337, 178 Cal.Rptr. 801, 636 P.2d 1139; In re Lavine, supra, 2 Cal.2d 324, 327–333, 41 P.2d 161; Brydonjack v. State Bar, supra, 208 Cal. 439, 442–446, 281 P. 1018.) Nonetheless, in evaluating the relevant considerations of state public policy in this setting, we believe it is appropriate to give due respect to the judgment of the Legislature and the Governor as reflected in the recent enactment of section 6064(b). (See, e.g., Hustedt v. Workers' Comp. Appeals Bd., at pp. 337–338, 178 Cal.Rptr. 801, 636 P.2d 1139; In re Attorney Discipline System (1998) 19 Cal.4th 582, 602–603, 79 Cal.Rptr.2d 836, 967 P.2d 49.)

One of the amicus curiae briefs filed in opposition to Garcia's admission to the State Bar advances a number of policy objections that potentially would apply to the admission of any undocumented immigrant to the State Bar. [15] The objections relate to two circumstances: *130 (1) the fact that, under federal law, undocumented immigrants are not lawfully authorized to be present in this country, and (2) the restrictions that federal law imposes upon the employment of undocumented immigrants in the United States. We discuss each of these subjects in turn.

460 1. *Unlawful presence

Amicus curiae contends that because an undocumented immigrant is in violation of federal immigration law simply by being present in this country without authorization (8 U.S.C. §§ 1182, 1227), an undocumented immigrant cannot properly take the oath of office required of every attorney, which requires the individual to promise to " 'faithfully ... discharge [the] duties of any attorney at law' " (quoting Bus. & Prof.Code, § 6067), including the duty " '[t]o support the Constitution and laws of the United States and of this state.' " (Quoting Bus. & Prof.Code, § 6068, italics added by amicus curiae.) Amicus curiae reasons that an undocumented immigrant cannot properly take the oath of office "since he will be in violation of federal law while he takes the oath and at all times later until he either becomes legal or leaves the United States."

Past California cases, however, do not support the proposition, implicit in amicus curiae's contention, that the fact that a bar applicant's past or present conduct may violate some law invariably renders the applicant unqualified to be admitted to the bar or to take the required oath of office. In Hallinan v. Committee of Bar Examiners (1966) 65 Cal.2d 447, 459, 55 Cal.Rptr. 228, 421 P.2d 76, this court explained that "every intentional violation of the law is not, ipso facto, grounds for excluding an individual from membership in the legal profession. [Citations.] 'There is certain conduct involving fraud, perjury, theft, embezzlement, and bribery where there is no question but that moral turpitude is involved. On the other hand, because the law does not always coincide exactly with principles of morality there are cases that are crimes that would not necessarily involve moral turpitude.' [Citation.] In such cases, investigation into the circumstances surrounding the commission of the act must reveal some independent act beyond the bare fact of a criminal conviction to show that the act demonstrates moral unfitness and justifies exclusion or other disciplinary action by the bar."

[8] We conclude the fact that an undocumented immigrant is present in the 871 United States without lawful authorization does not itself involve moral turpitude or demonstrate moral unfitness so as to justify exclusion from the State Bar, or prevent the individual from taking an oath promising faithfully to discharge the duty to support the Constitution and laws of the United States and California. Although an undocumented immigrant's presence in this country is unlawful and can result in a variety of civil sanctions under federal immigration law (such as removal from the country or denial of a desired adjustment in immigration status) (8 U.S.C. §§ 1227(a)(1)(B), 1255(i)), an undocumented immigrant's unauthorized presence does not constitute a criminal offense under federal law and thus is not subject to criminal sanctions. Moreover, federal law grants federal immigration officials 461 broad discretion in determining under what circumstances to seek to impose civil sanctions upon an undocumented immigrant and in determining what sanctions to pursue. (See, e.g., Arizona v. United States, supra, 567 U.S. ——, ——, 132 S.Ct. at pp. 2498–2499, 183 L.Ed.2d 351, 366–367.) Under current federal immigration policy it is extremely unlikely that immigration officials would pursue sanctions against an undocumented immigrant who has been living in this country for a substantial period of time, who has been educated here, and whose only unlawful conduct is unlawful presence in this country.[16] Under these circumstances, *131 we conclude that the fact that an undocumented immigrant's presence in this country violates federal statutes is not itself a sufficient or persuasive basis for denying undocumented immigrants, as a class, admission to the State Bar.[17]

2. Employment restrictions

Amicus curiae further contends that it would be improper to grant a law license to an undocumented immigrant in light of the restrictions federal law places on the lawful employment of undocumented immigrants in the United States.

In response to questions posed in our order to show cause in this matter (see, ante, 165 Cal.Rptr.3d at p. 862, fn. 7, 315 P.3d at p. 123, fn. 7), in the initial round of briefing the Committee, Garcia, and many amici curiae, including the United States Department of Justice and the California 872 Attorney General, discussed the restrictions that federal law imposes upon the employment of undocumented immigrants. All of the briefs agree that even if an undocumented immigrant is granted a license to practice law, federal law would prohibit an undocumented 462 immigrant who lacks work authorization from practicing law as an "employee" of a law firm, corporation, or governmental entity. (See 8 U.S.C. § 1324a(a)(1)(A).) There is also general agreement that a licensed undocumented immigrant would not violate federal law if he or she provided legal services on a pro bono basis or outside the United States. The briefs disagree, however, regarding whether under current federal law a licensed undocumented immigrant without work authorization could lawfully practice law in this country as an "independent contractor," for example, as a sole practitioner. The briefs filed by the Committee and Garcia maintain that federal law would not bar a licensed undocumented immigrant from representing clients as a sole practitioner, but the amicus curiae brief filed by the United States Department of Justice states that federal law prohibits an undocumented immigrant who lacks work authorization from engaging in the practice of law for compensation in this country in any capacity, including as an independent contractor or sole practitioner. Amicus curiae DeSha agrees with the United States Department of Justice's interpretation of the applicable federal statute and maintains that this court should not grant a law license to undocumented immigrants when federal law prohibits such individuals from actually practicing law in California for compensation.

The bill analysis of the recently enacted section 6064(b) that was prepared for the Senate Judiciary Committee when it considered the bill at a hearing on September 11, 2013, explicitly addressed the employability issue. Under the heading "Ability to Represent California Clients," the bill analysis states: "Individuals not lawfully present in the United States who are admitted to the California State Bar may be automatically disqualified from representing certain clients and taking on some types of cases because of their immigration status. For example, federal law may preclude attorneys not lawfully present in the U.S. from representing others in matters before the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services agency. [Citation.] These attorneys may also be precluded from working for a law firm, corporation, or public agency by operation of federal law. (See 132 8 U.S.C. Sec. 1324a (prohibiting the employment of an alien in the United States knowing the alien lacks work authorization).) [¶] However, the inability to represent California residents in some legal matters does not necessarily preclude all possible uses of a law license. Each person admitted to practice law in California, irrespective of immigration status, is obligated to 'faithfully ... discharge the duties of any attorney at law to the best of his [or her] knowledge and ability.' (Bus. & Prof.Code, Sec. 6067.) California attorneys have an obligation to decline representation in matters where they cannot competently represent the interests of their client, whether due to lack of skill or experience, or because of an ethical or legal restriction. (See California Rules of Professional Conduct, Rule 3–110 (Failing to Act Competently).) This bill would not alter this existing standard, and attorneys not lawfully present in the United States *463 would, like every other California attorney, be duty bound to practice law competently and in a manner commensurate with their legal and ethical obligations." (Sen. Com. on Judiciary, Analysis of Assem. Bill No. 1024 (2013–2014 Reg. Sess.) as amended Sept. 6, 2013, pp. 5–6 [for hearing on Sept. 11, 2013].)

873 As this bill analysis accurately recognizes, this court's granting of a law license to undocumented immigrants would not override or otherwise affect the federal limitations upon the employment of undocumented immigrants. Nonetheless, for a number of reasons we conclude that existing federal limitations on the employment of undocumented immigrants do not justify excluding undocumented immigrants from admission to the State Bar.

First, as discussed above, the most directly applicable federal statute—section 1621—expressly authorizes a state, through a sufficiently explicit statute, to permit undocumented immigrants to obtain a professional license, notwithstanding the limitations on employment imposed by other federal statutes. No federal statute precludes a state from issuing a law license to an undocumented immigrant. Further, although the amicus curiae brief filed by the United States Department of Justice disagrees with the interpretation of federal immigration law relating to employment advanced by the Committee and Garcia, the brief at the same time emphasizes that "[t]he enforcement of the federal provisions governing employment by aliens is a responsibility of the federal government, and is not the proper subject of state-court proceedings, particularly in the context of state licensing" and urges this court not to "attempt to resolve any question about the types of legal services that Mr. Garcia may provide if granted a license."

Second, federal law restrictions on employment are subject to change, and under current federal immigration policy many undocumented immigrants are now eligible to obtain work authorization. Under the "deferred action for childhood arrivals" policy promulgated by the Secretary of the United States Department of Homeland Security (Secretary of Homeland Security) in June 2012, many undocumented immigrants who came to this country as children and were under the age of 30 when the new policy was adopted are eligible to obtain work authorization that is subject to renewal every two years. [18]

874 *464 133 Third, as the bill analysis quoted above suggests, even with regard to an undocumented immigrant who lacks work authorization and faces significant federal law restrictions on his or her legal employment, we believe it would be inappropriate to deny a law license to such an individual on the basis of an assumption that he or she will not comply with the existing restrictions on employment imposed by federal law. Consistent with the provisions of Business and Professions Code section 6060.6,[19] foreign law students who have passed the California bar examination and have been certified to this court by the Committee have been admitted to the State Bar, even though such individuals may lack authorization to work in the United States. Although it may be reasonable to assume that most foreign law students, when licensed, will return to their home countries to practice law, we rely upon these licensed attorneys to comply with their ethical obligations to act in accordance with all applicable legal constraints and do not condition or limit their law licenses. We conclude it is appropriate to treat qualified undocumented immigrants in the same manner. To the extent federal immigration law limitations on employment are ambiguous or in dispute, as in other contexts in which the governing legal constraints upon an attorney's conduct may be uncertain, we assume that a licensed undocumented immigrant will make all necessary inquiries and take appropriate steps to comply *465 with applicable legal restrictions and will advise potential clients of any possible adverse or limiting effect the attorney's immigration status may pose.

For all of the foregoing reasons, we conclude there is no state law or state public policy that would justify precluding undocumented immigrants, as a class, from obtaining law licenses in California.

B. Are there reasons, specific to applicant Garcia, that the Committee's motion should be denied?

Finally, we must determine whether there are reasons, specific to Garcia himself, that should lead this court to deny the Committee's motion to admit Garcia to the State Bar.

[9] To qualify for consideration for admission to the State Bar, an applicant must, among other things, demonstrate that he or she possesses "good moral character." (Rules of State Bar, rule 4.40(A); see Bus. & Prof.Code, §§ 6060, subd. (b), 6068, subd. (a)(2).) The Committee makes an initial determination, on a case-by-case basis, whether an applicant has met his or her burden of establishing good moral character, but this court retains the authority 875 to independently review and weigh the evidence of moral fitness and to make the ultimate determination whether the applicant has satisfied this requirement. (See, e.g., Hightower v. State Bar (1983) 34 Cal.3d 150, 155–156, 193 Cal.Rptr. 153, 666 P.2d 10; Pacheco v. State Bar (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1041, 1047, 239 Cal.Rptr. 897, 741 P.2d 1138.)

134 [10] As we explained in In re Menna (1995) 11 Cal.4th 975, 983, 47 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 905 P.2d 944: " 'Good moral character' has traditionally been defined as the absence of conduct imbued with elements of 'moral turpitude.' [Citations.] It includes 'qualities of honesty, fairness, candor, trustworthiness, observance of fiduciary responsibility, respect for and obedience to the laws of the state and the nation and respect for the rights of others and for the judicial process.' [Citations.]" The fundamental question is whether the applicant is fit to practice law, taking into account whether the applicant has engaged in conduct that reflects moral turpitude or has committed misconduct that bears particularly upon the applicant's fitness to practice law. (Kwasnik v. State Bar (1990) 50 Cal.3d 1061, 1068, 269 Cal.Rptr. 749, 791 P.2d 319; In re Lesansky (2001) 25 Cal.4th 11, 14, 104 Cal.Rptr.2d 409, 17 P.3d 764; Hallinan v. Committee of Bar Examiners, supra, 65 Cal.2d 447, 452, 55 Cal.Rptr. 228, 421 P.2d 76.)[20]

*466 [11] As set forth earlier in the statement of facts, applicant Garcia initially was brought to California by his parents as a very young child, lived here until he was nine years old, moved back to Mexico for several years, and then returned to California with his parents when he was 17 years old. He has resided in California continually since that time—for more than 19 years—and has gone to college, completed law school, and has successfully passed the bar examination in California. He has been a diligent and trusted worker and has made significant contributions to his community. He has never been convicted of a criminal offense.

The record of the Committee's moral character investigation discloses that no individual raised any concern with respect to Garcia's moral fitness. Numerous individuals who worked with, taught, and participated in community activities with Garcia over many years had nothing but the highest praise for the applicant.

For example, an attorney for whom Garcia worked as an unpaid intern during law school stated that "I know with absolute certainty that Mr. Garcia [is] among the most honest, forthright, and moral individuals that I have ever met." A law school professor described him as "an exemplary student" who "was always prepared and always conducted himself with the utmost integrity.... I know I speak for the faculty and administration when I say it has been our honor to play a small part in his education." And an administrative law judge, who became acquainted with Garcia in connection with Garcia's volunteer activities in Chico, stated that Garcia "has selflessly and effectively worked in a broad range of projects which address the needs of those included within diverse ethnic, social, cultural, and language groups," and 876 further declared that he "is both honest and reliable," "circumspect in his judgment and conduct," and "a credit to his family and community. If allowed, he will be a credit to the State Bar. He carries my highest recommendation."

Although, as noted earlier, the Committee's investigation of Garcia disclosed one or two problematical incidents in his past (see, ante, 165 Cal.Rptr.3d at pp. 861–862, fn. 5, 315 P.3d at pp. 122–123, fn. 5), the Committee investigated the applicant's entire background very thoroughly and concluded that, taking into account his entire life history and conduct, Garcia met his burden of demonstrating that he possesses the requisite good moral character to qualify for a law license. From our review of the record, we agree with that determination.

467 V. Conclusion

The Committee's motion to admit Garcia to the State Bar is granted.

WE CONCUR: BAXTER, WERDEGAR, CHIN, CORRIGAN, and LIU, JJ.

Concurring Opinion by CHIN, J.

*135 The majority opinion does not acknowledge it, but just over three years ago, in Martinez v. Regents of University of California (2010) 50 Cal.4th 1277, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855, this court specifically considered how to designate persons in Garcia's position, and we unanimously rejected the term the majority uses, "undocumented immigrant," in favor of a term we believed was more accurate, "unlawful alien."

This is what we said: "Before we turn to the issues, we must comment on terminology. Defendants and supporting amici curiae generally refer to a person not lawfully in this country by a term such as 'undocumented immigrant.' Plaintiffs and supporting amici curiae generally use the term 'illegal alien,' as did the Court of Appeal. The term 'undocumented immigrant' is vague and is not used in the relevant statutes. It is also euphemistic, because it is unlawful to be in this country and to be undocumented in the sense in which defendants use the term. On the other hand, some view the term 'illegal alien' as pejorative. Wishing to be as neutral, yet as accurate, as possible in our terminology, we turn to the most relevant statutes for assistance. [Education Code, s]ection 68130.5, subdivision (a)(4), uses the phrase 'a person without lawful immigration status.' The federal provisions, sections 1621(d) and 1623(a) [tit. 8 U.S.C.], use the phrase 'an alien who is not lawfully present in the United States.' Both of these phrases are too bulky to be used continually. We believe it best to shorten these phrases to the two-word term 'unlawful alien.' Accordingly, we will use that term in this opinion." (Martinez v. Regents of University of California, supra, 50 Cal.4th at p. 1288, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855.)

The statutes at the heart of this case use the terms "an alien who is not lawfully present in the United States" (8 U.S.C. § 1621(d)) and "an applicant who is not lawfully present in the United States" (Bus. & Prof.Code, § 6064, subd. (b)), both of which are closer to the shorthand term used in Martinez than to the one used in the majority opinion.

468 Nevertheless, I consider the question of which term to use to come within the discretion of the opinion's author. Accordingly, I have signed the majority opinion.

All Citations

58 Cal.4th 440, 315 P.3d 117, 165 Cal.Rptr.3d 855, 14 Cal. Daily Op. Serv. 62, 2014 Daily Journal D.A.R. 66

Footnotes

1 In this opinion, we use the term "undocumented immigrant" to refer to a non-United States citizen who is in the United States but who lacks the immigration status required by federal law to be lawfully present in this country and who has not been admitted on a temporary basis as a nonimmigrant. This category of persons has sometimes been referred to by other terms, such as unlawful, unauthorized, or illegal aliens or immigrants. Although no shorthand term may be perfect, the United States Supreme Court and the California Legislature have at times used the term "undocumented immigrants" to refer to this category of persons (see Mohawk Industries v. Carpenter (2009) 558 U.S. 100, 103, 130 S.Ct. 599, 175 L.Ed.2d 458 ["undocumented immigrants"]; Stats.2001, ch. 814, § 1, subd. (a)(4), pp. 6652–6653 ["undocumented immigrant students"]; Stats.2002, ch. 19, § 1, subd. (a)(4), p. 199 [same]), and this terminology avoids the potential problematical connotations of alternative terms. (See generally Legomsky, Immigration and Refugee Law and Policy (4th ed.2005) pp. 9–11, 1192–1193.) Current federal immigration statutes generally use the term "nonimmigrant" to refer to a person who "enter[s] the U.S. for a temporary period and [is] restricted to activities consistent with [his or her] visa." (Kurzban, Immigration Law Sourcebook (13th ed.2012) p. 759; see 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(A)-(V) [listing numerous categories of "nonimmigrant aliens"].)

2 Garcia's father became a United States citizen on August 11, 1999, after Garcia had turned 18 years old.

3 The current United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Web site explains: "USCIS processes Form I–130, Petition for Alien Relative, as a visa number becomes available. Filing and approval of an I–130 is only the first step in helping a relative immigrate to the United States. Eligible family members must wait until there is a visa number available before they can apply for an immigrant visa or adjustment of status to a lawful permanent resident." (<http://www.uscis.gov/i–130> [as of Jan. 2, 2014] [explaining purpose of form].) Another page on the Web site states: "For alien relatives in preference categories, a limited number of immigrant visas are issued each year. The visas are processed in the order in which the petitions are properly filed and accepted by USCIS." (Instructions for Form I–130, Petition for Alien Relative (Dec. 18, 2012) p. 6 [OMB No. 1615–0012] http://www.uscis. gov/sites/default/files/files/form/i-130instr.pdf [as of Jan. 2, 2014].)

When visited on December 31, 2013, a visa bulletin Web page (<http://www. travel.state.gov/visa/bulletin/bulletin—6211.html>) indicated that as of December 2013 the cutoff date for Mexico family preference (F–1) visas was September 22, 1993, meaning that persons in Garcia's category (Mexican family members with first preference) were eligible to be scheduled for a visa interview if their priority date was earlier than September 22, 1993. Based upon the date his visa petition was filed, Garcia's priority date is November 18, 1994. If the progression of available visa numbers over the past few years is a reliable guide, Garcia's priority date may not be reached for at least two and perhaps many more years and only then could he be scheduled for a visa interview.

4 Although the Committee's briefs do not disclose when it began asking bar applicants about their immigration status, an amicus curiae brief filed by numerous local bar associations states that the State Bar began requesting such information from new applicants in 2008.

5 The Committee's investigation establishes that Garcia is a well-respected, hard-working, tax-paying individual who has assisted many others and whose application is supported by many members of the community, by past teachers, and by those for whom he has worked, but the record also reveals that Garcia's conduct has not been entirely flawless.

Shortly after returning to this country at age 17, Garcia obtained a nonpaying position in a grocery store as part of a school work training program. After several months, the store manager asked Garcia if he would like to continue working at the store in a paid position. As part of the hiring process, having initially provided his school identification card and Social Security number, Garcia was asked several days later to fill out an additional employment form; on that form Garcia provided a false "alien registration number" and falsely attested that he was a lawful permanent resident. Although he did not remember the contents of the form when first asked about his grocery store employment during the Committee's moral character investigation, Garcia thereafter went to the grocery store staff, discovered the document in question, and immediately gave it to his attorney who was representing him on a pro bono basis. On his attorney's advice Garcia did not immediately provide the document to the Committee (on the theory that disclosure was not necessary because it did not refresh Garcia's recollection); thereafter the attorney provided the document to the Committee, explicitly acknowledged that she had been wrong in advising Garcia that disclosure was not necessary and requested that the Committee not hold against Garcia the fact that he had followed counsel's advice. When questioned by the Committee concerning his provision of a false alien registration number and false attestation on the employment form, Garcia acknowledged the wrongfulness of his conduct, but explained that at the time he signed the document he was young, had an imperfect comprehension of English, and had "panicked" when asked to complete the form. He emphasized that he had never subsequently signed a similar document and would not sign a similar document at present. The Committee believed that Garcia was sincerely remorseful for his past misconduct and that his delay in disclosing the document was a product of his reliance upon the erroneous advice of counsel, and concluded that under the circumstances the conduct did not reflect moral turpitude.

The record also reveals that Garcia was once cited for driving without a license or insurance (an infraction), paid the fine, stopped driving, and thereafter sought and ultimately obtained a driver's license in Oregon. At the time, Oregon did not require proof of lawful residency, but did require a six-month residency period; Garcia lived with relatives in Oregon for some period of time, but it is not entirely clear from the record whether he actually resided in Oregon for a full six months before obtaining the license. The Committee found that Garcia obtained the Oregon driver's license in good faith, having a subjective belief that he met the Oregon residency requirements.

As explained, the Committee investigated these matters at length. It determined that none of these incidents impugns Garcia's good moral character, and that the record as a whole establishes that Garcia possesses the requisite good moral character to warrant admission to the State Bar.

6 While this matter was pending before our court, the Committee submitted the names of two other undocumented immigrant applicants for admission to the State Bar. (See In re De la Torre Arambula on Admission (S208655); In re Espino–Padron on Admission (S208656).) The former matter has been held in abeyance pending the resolution of the current matter. In the latter matter, upon notification that the applicant was granted asylum by federal immigration authorities while the matter was pending in this court, we granted the Committee's motion to admit the applicant to practice law in California. (See 8 U.S.C. §§ 1621(a)(1), 1641(b)(1) [excepting individuals who have been granted asylum from the restrictions imposed by § 1621].)

7 The order stated in this regard: "The following are among the issues that should be briefed:

"1. Does 8 U.S.C. section [1621(c)] apply and preclude this court's admission of an undocumented immigrant to the State Bar of California? Does any other statute, regulation, or authority preclude the admission?

"2. Is there any state legislation that provides—as specifically authorized by 8 U.S.C. section [1621(d)]—that undocumented immigrants are eligible for professional licenses in fields such as law, medicine, or other professions, and, if not, what significance, if any, should be given to the absence of such legislation?

"3. Does the issuance of a license to practice law impliedly represent that the licensee may be legally employed as an attorney?

"4. If licensed, what are the legal and public policy limitations, if any, on an undocumented immigrant's ability to practice law?

"5. What, if any, other public policy concerns arise with a grant of this application?"

8 In addition to the amicus curiae brief filed by the California Attorney General, 13 amicus curiae briefs were filed in support of the motion.

9 Section 6064(b) provides in full: "Upon certification by the examining committee that an applicant who is not lawfully present in the United States has fulfilled the requirements for admission to practice law, the Supreme Court may admit that applicant as an attorney at law in all the courts of this state and may direct an order to be entered upon its records to that effect. A certificate of admission thereupon shall be given to the applicant by the clerk of the court."

10 The bill was approved in the Senate by a 29–to–five vote and in the Assembly by a 62–to–four vote.

11 The Committee makes recommendations to this court regarding the admission of individual applicants (Bus. & Prof.Code, § 6046), but this court makes the ultimate decision on admission pursuant to the court's constitutional authority over the practice of law in California. (See, e.g., Brydonjack v. State Bar (1929) 208 Cal. 439, 445–446, 281 P. 1018.)

12 Title 8 United States Code section 1641 defines the term "qualified alien" to mean "(1) an alien who is lawfully admitted for permanent residence under the Immigration and Nationality Act [8 U.S.C. 1101 et seq.], [¶] (2) an alien who is granted asylum under section 208 of such Act [8 U.S.C. 1158], [¶] (3) a refugee who is admitted to the United States under section 207 of such Act [8 U.S.C. 1157], [¶] (4) an alien who is paroled into the United States under section 212(d)(5) of such Act [8 U.S.C. 1182(d)(5)] for a period of at least 1 year, [¶] (5) an alien whose deportation is being withheld under section 243(h) of such Act [8 U.S.C. 1253(h)] ... or section 241(b)(3) of such Act [8 U.S.C. 1251(b)(3)] ..., [¶] (6) an alien who is granted conditional entry pursuant to section 203(a)(7) of such Act [8 U.S.C. 1153(a)(7)] as in effect prior to April 1, 1980; or [¶] (7) an alien who is a Cuban [or] Haitian entrant (as defined in section 501(e) of the Refugee Education Assistance Act of 1980)." (Fn. omitted.)

13 Section 1621(b) provides that the restrictions on eligibility set forth in section 1621(a) shall not apply to the following state or local public benefits: "(1) Assistance for health care items and services that are necessary for the treatment of an emergency medical condition (as defined in section 1396b(v)(3) of title 42) of the alien involved and are not related to an organ transplant procedure. [¶] (2) Short-term, non-cash, in-kind emergency disaster relief. [¶] (3) Public health assistance for immunizations with respect to immunizable diseases and for testing and treatment of symptoms of communicable diseases whether or not such symptoms are caused by a communicable disease. [¶] (4) Programs, services, or assistance (such as soup kitchens, crisis counseling and intervention, and short-term shelter) specified by the Attorney General, in the Attorney General's sole and unreviewable discretion after consultation with appropriate Federal agencies and departments, which (A) deliver in-kind services at the community level, including through public or private nonprofit agencies; (B) do not condition the provision of assistance, the amount of assistance provided, or the cost of assistance provided on the individual recipient's income or resources; and (C) are necessary for the protection of life or safety." (8 U.S.C. § 1621(b).)

14 In reaching the contrary conclusion that a specific reference, within the state statute, to section 1621(d) itself was required to satisfy the federal provision, the Court of Appeal opinion in Martinez had relied upon a statement contained in a portion of the conference committee report on the 1996 Act that discussed this particular subsection. The conference committee report stated in this regard: "Only the affirmative enactment of a law by a State legislature and signed by the Governor after the date of enactment of this Act, that references this provision, will meet the requirements of this section." (H.R.Rep. No. 104–725, 2d Sess., p. 383 (1996), italics added.)

In rejecting the Court of Appeal's conclusion, our opinion in Martinez explained that because a requirement that the state law explicitly refer to section 1621(d) was not contained in the language of section 1621(d) itself, such a requirement could not properly be read into the statute. Noting that "[b]oth this court and the high court have cautioned against reading into a statute language it does not contain or elements that do not appear on its face" (Martinez, supra, 50 Cal.4th at p. 1295, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855), the court in Martinez went on to observe that "[t]he general rule that a court should not add an element not appearing on the face of a statute has particular force here. The Legislature could easily have referenced section 1621 in section 68130.5, and no doubt it would have done so if section 1621 had so required. It is unreasonable to conclude that Congress intended to require the states to comply with section 1621's express requirements and to scour committee reports for other possible requirements not visible in the statutory language. The committee report may not create a requirement not found in section 1621 itself." (Id. at p. 1296, 117 Cal.Rptr.3d 359, 241 P.3d 855.)

15 In his amicus curiae brief, Attorney Larry DeSha describes himself as "a retired former prosecutor for the State Bar of California" who "has more than 12 years experience in protecting the public from attorney misconduct ... [and] was the initial or final evaluator for more than 10,000 formal complaints of attorney misconduct to the State Bar."

16 See generally United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Exercising Prosecutorial Discretion Consistent with the Civil Immigration Enforcement Priorities of the Agency for the Apprehension, Detention, and Removal of Aliens, June 17, 2011, page 4 (listing 19 nonexclusive factors to be considered when exercising prosecutorial discretion, including lengthy residence in this country and successful pursuit of a college or advanced degree at a legitimate institution of higher education in the U.S.) <http://www.ice.gov/doclib /secure-communities/pdf/prosecutorial-discretion-memo.pdf> [as of Jan. 2, 2014].

17 Amicus curiae also advances a related argument, contending that because federal law permits immigration officials to remove an undocumented immigrant from this country on the basis of his or her unauthorized presence, the possibility that an undocumented immigrant may be removed from the country and leave his or her clients without representation is another reason that justifies the exclusion of all undocumented immigrants from the State Bar. A similar argument was advanced in Raffaelli v. Committee of Bar Examiners, supra, 7 Cal.3d 288, 101 Cal.Rptr. 896, 496 P.2d 1264, as one justification for excluding non-United States citizens from admission to the State Bar, but this court rejected the contention, pointing out that the risk of such removal was no greater than "the possibility that a lawyer, even though a citizen, may be involuntarily removed from his practice by death, by serious illness or accident, by disciplinary suspension or disbarment or by conscription. In any of the latter circumstances the client will undergo the same inconvenience of having to obtain substitute counsel." (Raffaelli, supra, at p. 299, 101 Cal.Rptr. 896, 496 P.2d 1264.)

18 On June 15, 2012, the Secretary of Homeland Security issued a policy statement with regard to the exercise of prosecutorial discretion to "defer [ ] action" with regard to the removal and deportation of undocumented immigrants who came to this country as children. The policy statement sets forth a set of criteria to be considered by immigration officials in exercising such discretion—including whether the person came to the United States under the age of 16, has continually resided in the United States for at least five years, is currently in school or has graduated from high school, and was not above the age of 30 when the policy was adopted—and directs that any individual who is found to be a good candidate for the exercise of prosecutorial discretion in light of these criteria be issued a designation deferring action on any removal proceedings for two years, subject to repeated renewal on a two-year basis. The policy also directs immigration officials to determine whether any individual who obtains deferred action under this policy should also be granted work authorization during his or her period of deferred action. (U.S. Dept. of Homeland Security, Exercising Prosecutorial Discretion with Respect to Individuals Who Came to the United States as Children (June 15, 2012) <http://www.dhs. gov/xlibrary/assets/s1–exercising–prosecutorial discretion–individuals–who–came–to–us–as–children.pdf> [as of Jan. 2, 2014].)

In September 2013, the Department of Homeland Security reported that from August 2012 to August 2013 over 455,000 applications for deferred action for childhood arrivals had been approved nationally and that over 130,000 of the approved applications were from California. (USCIS Off. of Performance and Quality, Data on Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (Sept. 11, 2013) <http://www.uscis.gov/tools/reports-studies/immigration-forms-data/individual-applications-and-petitions/data-individual-applications-and-petitions> [as of Jan. 2, 2014].)

Garcia is not eligible for the deferred action program because he was over the age of 30 when the policy was promulgated.

19 Business and Professions Code section 6060.6 provides: "Notwithstanding Section 30 of this code and Section 17520 of the Family Code, the Committee of Bar Examiners may accept for registration, and the State Bar may process for an original or renewed license to practice law, an application from an individual containing a federal tax identification number, or other appropriate identification number as determined by the State Bar, in lieu of a social security number, if the individual is not eligible for a social security account number at the time of application and is not in noncompliance with a judgment or order for support pursuant to Section 17520 of the Family Code." The legislative history of this provision indicates that it was adopted to permit foreign law students attending California law schools to take the California bar examination and seek admission to the State Bar. (Sen. Rules Com., Off. of Sen. Floor Analyses, 3d reading analysis of Assem. Bill No. 664 (2005–2006 Reg. Sess.) as amended Aug. 31, 2005, p. 3.)

20 As we explained in Baker v. State Bar (1989) 49 Cal.3d 804, 815, footnote 3, 263 Cal.Rptr. 798, 781 P.2d 1344: "Because the right to practice a profession is sufficiently important to warrant legal and constitutional protection, the term ['moral turpitude'] must be given a meaning and content relevant to the attorney's fitness to practice." (See Morrison v. State Board of Education (1969) 1 Cal.3d 214, 227, 82 Cal.Rptr. 175, 461 P.2d 375 [when a statute authorizes the imposition of professional discipline for conduct demonstrating moral turpitude, "the meaning of ... 'moral turpitude' must depend upon, and thus relate to, the occupation involved...."].)

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

477 S.W.3d 460
Court of Appeals of Texas,
Houston (1st Dist.).

Manfred Fink, Appellant
v.
Joann D. Anderson, Betty Bailey, Doug Bird, Ann Brown, Brad Bullock, M.D., Jim Byron, Mike Clann, Claire Crowder, Evan Quiros, Paul Fulmer, M.D., Eric Geibel, Mark Griffin, Steve Gerguis, Stacey Harvey, Bill Henderson, Allen Holt, Linda Hudson, Cullen Kappler, Ralph Kirkland, Sam Lo, M.D., Thomas Lu, M.D., Gailer Miller Hold, Mary Quiros, Larry Sams, Bob Solberg, Lynn Whitt, and Clarissa Willis, M.D., Appellees

NO. 01–14–00990–CV
|
Opinion issued September 24, 2015

Synopsis
Background: Investors filed a complaint against inventor alleging causes of action for common-law fraud and securities fraud. The 152nd District Court, Harris County, denied inventor's motion for dismissal. Inventor appealed.

Holdings: The Court of Appeals, Harvey Brown, J., held that:

[1] allegation that inventor engaged in an intentional tort did not foreclose the possibility that inventor was acting within the scope of his employment with university, and

[2] inventor's conduct in speaking at a business meeting about technology he co-discovered and a device he co-invented was within the general scope of his employment with state university.

Reversed and rendered.

West Headnotes (16)

[1] Appeal and Error
Dismissal or nonsuit before trial

Generally, the Court of Appeals reviews a trial court's order on a motion to dismiss under an abuse of discretion standard.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Appeal and Error
Power of appellate court in general

The proper standard of review is not necessarily determined by the caption of the motion to which the order relates, rather it is determined by the substance of the issue to be reviewed.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Municipal Corporations Actions

If governmental immunity applies, the trial court lacks subject-matter jurisdiction over the case.

4 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Appeal and Error
Cases Triable in Appellate Court

Subject-matter jurisdiction is a question of law which the Court of Appeals reviews de novo; likewise, matters of statutory construction are reviewed under a de novo standard.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Appeal and Error
Jurisdiction
Courts
Allegations, pleadings, and affidavits

The Court of Appeals may not presume the existence of subject-matter jurisdiction; the burden is on the plaintiffs to allege facts affirmatively demonstrating the trial court's subject-matter jurisdiction over the case.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Labor and Employment

Scope of Employment

When an employee engages in conduct for the sole purpose of furthering someone else's interests and not his employer's, the conduct is outside the employee's scope of employment.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Labor and Employment

Furtherance of Employer's Business

Conduct that serves any purpose of the employer is within the scope of employment even if the conduct escalates beyond that assigned or permitted.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Labor and Employment

Assault and Battery

If the employer places his employee in a position that involves the use of force, so that the act of using force is in the furtherance of the employer's business, the employer can be found liable, even if the employee uses greater force than is necessary.

Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Labor and Employment

Departures in general

Conduct that is better viewed as a deviation from an assigned task instead of an escalation beyond what was authorized is not within the employee's scope of employment.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Education

Duties and Liabilities

Public Employment

State, local, and other non-federal personnel in general

Public Employment

Particular torts

The allegation that inventor engaged in an intentional tort did not foreclose the possibility that inventor was acting within the scope of his employment with university, for the purpose of determining whether inventor, a state university employee, qualified for governmental immunity in lawsuit filed by investors alleging common-law fraud and securities fraud; if the government employee engaged in conduct that was within the scope of his employment and the conduct was done in furtherance of an interest of employer, and the tortious act was an escalation of, rather than a deviation from, the employee's job duties, the intentional tort could be held to be within the scope of authority granted to employee by government employer. Tex. Civ. Prac. & Rem. Code Ann. § 101.106(f).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Labor and Employment

Assault and Battery

An employer will be held liable for its employee's assault on a third party only if that assault stems directly from the employee's exercise, however inappropriate or excessive, of a delegated right or duty.

Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Education

Duties and Liabilities

Public Employment

State, local, and other non-federal personnel in general

Public Employment

Particular torts

Inventor's conduct in speaking at a business meeting about technology he co-discovered and a device he co-invented was within the general scope of his employment with state university, which held the patent for the technology, for the purpose of determining whether inventor, a state university employee, qualified for governmental immunity in lawsuit filed by investors alleging common-law fraud and securities fraud; inventor's actions served the purpose of his employer because university held an equity interest in business, which had been granted a license to develop and market university's patented technology. Tex. Civ. Prac. & Rem. Code Ann. § 101.106(f).

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Cases that cite this headnote

[13] Labor and Employment
Dual purpose

An activity may serve the employer's purposes while simultaneously benefiting the employee or even a third party and still qualify as conduct within the scope of employment.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Education
Duties and Liabilities
Public Employment
State, local, and other non-federal personnel in general
Public Employment
Particular torts

Investors' allegation that inventor violated the Securities Act by making material misrepresentations about technology he co-discovered sounded in tort, and was, therefore, considered a tort claim, for purposes of determining whether inventor was entitled to governmental immunity, even though the allegation was pleaded as a statutory violation. Tex. Civ. Prac. & Rem. Code Ann. § 101.106(f).

Cases that cite this headnote

[15] States
Mode and Sufficiency of Consent

Legislative consent to sue the State must be expressed in clear and unambiguous language.

Cases that cite this headnote

[16] States
Mode and Sufficiency of Consent

Four considerations inform an analysis of whether the Legislature has clearly and unambiguously waived immunity in the absence of a succinct statement affirmatively stating so: (1) an indication that the Legislature requires that the State be joined in a lawsuit for which immunity would otherwise attach indicates a waiver of immunity; (2) the Legislature often enacts measures that provide an objective limitation on the State's potential liability when waiving immunity; (3) waiver must be beyond doubt even if it is not a model of perfect clarity; and (4) ambiguities are resolved to retain immunity.

Cases that cite this headnote

*462 On Appeal from the 152nd District Court, Harris County, Texas, Trial Court Case No. 2014–22740.

Attorneys and Law Firms

Ken Paxto, Attorney General of Texas, Charles E. Roy, First Assistant Attorney General, James E. Davis, Deputy Attorney General, Robert O'Keefe, Division Chief, H. Melissa Mather, Assistant Attorney General, Austin, TX, for Appellant.

Wade T. Howard, Michael P. Cash, Alma F. Gomez, Liskow & Lewis, Houston, TX, for Appellee.

Panel consists of Justices Jennings, Brown, and Lloyd.

OPINION

Harvey Brown, Justice

Manfred Fink is a physics professor at The University of Texas at Austin. He invented a technology that UT patented and licensed to a private entity, IsoSpec, for development and marketing. UT obtained an equity interest in IsoSpec.

Some of the IsoSpec investors sued Fink, alleging common-law fraud and securities fraud, for statements he allegedly made regarding the efficacy of an instrument he and his co-inventors created that utilized their newly discovered technology. Fink moved for dismissal under the election-of-remedies provision of the Texas Tort Claims Act. His motion was denied.

Fink asserts that the trial court erred by denying his motion because (1) he established that he was within the scope of his employment when he spoke at IsoSpec meetings about his invention and (2) the claims asserted against him could have been brought under the Texas Tort Claims Act and, therefore, are subject to dismissal under Section 101.106(f) of that statute.

We reverse the trial court's order denying Fink's motion to dismiss and render judgment in his favor.

Background

Manfred Fink has been a physics professor at The University of Texas at Austin for more than 40 years. One of his assigned duties is to conduct research. Along with fellow UT professor, Philip Varghese, and Michigan professor, Jacek Borysow, Fink utilized the concepts underlying Raman Spectroscopy technology to invent a new technology he termed ANDRaS. According to an affidavit filed by Fink, the professors created prototype machines that utilizes ANDRaS technology.

The patent for the technology is not held by the individual professors, but by their institutional employers. As Professor Varghese explained: "Pursuant to UT policy, I conveyed my rights as an employee of the University to our invention and allowed UT to file patent applications for the technology on behalf of the University." See Regents' Rules and Regulations, Rule 90102, sec. 2 (providing that intellectual property developed by UT System employee within course and scope of employment is owned by UT). Though the university owned the patent rights, its rules gave Fink a right to provide input regarding his invention's commercialization. See id., Rule 90101, sec. 7 (stating that creator of intellectual property "may give reasonable input on commercialization of inventions" but that UT has final decision authority "concerning whether and how to develop and commercialize an invention"). [1]

463 UT licensed the technology to a private company for development. The Patent License Agreement is between UT and InnoSpec Technologies, LP. It states that UT, as licensor, "owns or controls the entire right, title, and interest in and to the Patent Rights," and InnoSpec, as licensee, "desires to secure the right and license to use, develop, manufacture, market, and commercialize the Patent Rights." The agreement lists Fink, Varghese, and Borysow as the "inventors." The inventors are not parties to the agreement. The Agreement grants UT a 5% equity interest in the venture. No equity interest is extended to any of the inventors.

IsoSpec later became the designated licensee of the ANDRaS technology in place of InnoSpec. IsoSpec issued a Private Placement Memorandum (PPM) that sought $1,000,000 in investments in exchange for limited partnership interest in the company. The PPM named Fink as a member of its "Technology and Business Advisory Group" and listed his relationship to IsoSpec as "Co–Inventor and Scientific Developer of the Technologies." Fink did not receive any compensation from Isospec. He averred that he refused Isospec's offer of a written consultation agreement. IsoSpec's PPM disclosed, under the heading "Risk Factors," the following:

> IsoSpec is dependent on key relationships.
>
> IsoSpec intends to look to the Technology Advisors as a source of counsel and development of new technologies. The Technology Advisors have been developed as a result of personal and business relationships with the General Partners, the inventors of the technologies licensed by IsoSpec, and the Research Institutions. IsoSpec is dependent upon the involvement and contribution of the inventing scientists. The loss of these relationships could have a materially adverse impact upon IsoSpec.

The PPM informed potential investors that "ANDRaS is rugged, inexpensive, small and portable providing onsite analytical capabilities." Further, "[t]wo operating prototype instruments have proven the accuracy and operating capabilities of ANDRaS."

IsoSpec held various meeting with potential investors, including at least some of the plaintiffs. Fink attended at least one of these meetings. Professor Varghese also attended at least one meeting along with Fink and established, through documentation attached to his affidavit, that UT reimbursed some of his travel expenses to meet with IsoSpec. The UT travel voucher form states that Professor Varghese was being reimbursed for travel to IsoSpec in Houston to discuss "commercializing their technology." The UT travel addendum states that he "is driving to Houston, TX to meet with [IsoSpec] to discuss their collaboration on the commercialization of their technology" and to "[h]elp accomplish research objectives."

The role Fink played at the meetings he attended is contested. He averred that "the purpose of the meeting was only to answer technical questions about ANDRaS technology." While there, he "answered very specific scientific questions that certain individuals had about Raman Spectroscopy and ANDRaS technology." Professor Varghese described his role similarly, stating that he attended the meeting to answer technical questions about the technology they developed as UT employees.

Fink averred that he did not participate in drafting the PPM or other marketing materials or receive any compensation 464 from Iso Spec. Additionally, he stated that all of his involvement with IsoSpec was "a result of the work [he was] doing as a professor of physics at UT and UT's licensing of [his] technology to IsoSpec." Accordingly, when he attended the IsoSpec meetings, he "thought it was in the scope and course of [his] responsibilities as a UT professor." Professor Varghese stated the same belief in his affidavit.

The investors describe Fink's role and relationship differently. In their unverified response to Fink's motion to dismiss, they allege that Fink was involved in the development and issuance of the PPM, Fink intentionally engaged in conduct "designed to obtain investments for IsoSpec, a private company," and such actions were not in the scope of his employment at the university. They argue that Fink's involvement at the IsoSpec meeting was not on UT's behalf and did not further any interest of the university. The investors contend that Fink's role was, instead, to solicit investors for the benefit of IsoSpec and his son, Dr. Rainer Fink, who was IsoSpec's Chief Technology Officer.

The investors asserted that Fink must have realized the actual nature of his role:

> It is inconceivable to me that Dr. Manfred Fink would not have known the purpose of the meeting was to obtain investors in IsoSpec specifically based upon what was said at the meeting by IsoSpec representatives, the marketing materials distributed at the meeting, the fact that Dr. Manfred Fink's son was part of the management team of IsoSpec and Dr. Manfred Fink's own detailed discussion of the potential uses of the ANDRaS prototype, if commercialized by IsoSpec.

The investors further claimed that Fink made specific representations to them at IsoSpec meetings, indicating that an ANDRaS prototype had already been created, was fully functional, and had multiple commercial applications. While Fink has confirmed by affidavit that he and his co-inventors created functional prototypes, the investors allege in their unverified response that his assertions are untrue.

After investing in IsoSpec and becoming dissatisfied with the company's performance, the investors sued Fink and his son. They asserted several causes of action: violation of the Texas Securities Act, fraud, misrepresentation, conspiracy, and aiding and abetting securities fraud and common-law fraud.

Fink moved for dismissal under the election-of-remedies provision of the Texas Tort Claims Act, alleging that dismissal was mandatory because he was a governmental employee, he was acting in the scope of his employment at the relevant time, and suit could have been brought under the Act against his employer instead. See TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM.CODE ANN. § 101.106(f) (West 2011). The trial court denied the motion, and Fink has appealed that order. [2]

The University of Texas has filed an amicus brief to support Fink's contention that he was acting in the scope of his employment when he discussed ANDRaS technology at the IsoSpec meetings. However, to the extent the brief relies on an affidavit submitted after the trial court ruled on Fink's motion, we do not consider it. See TVMAX Holdings, Inc. v. Spring Indep. Sch. Dist., No. 01–14–00304–CV, 2015 WL 1967596, at *4 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] Apr. 30, 2015, no pet.) (mem. op.) (affidavit submitted to appellate court after trial court ruled held to not be part 465 of appellate record and, therefore, was not considered on appeal).

Standard of Review

[1] [2] [3] [4] Generally, we review a trial court's order on a motion to dismiss under an abuse of discretion standard. Am. Transitional Care Ctrs. of Tex., Inc. v. Palacios, 46 S.W.3d 873, 878 (Tex.2001). However, the proper standard of review is not necessarily determined by the caption of the motion to which the order relates, rather it is determined by the substance of the issue to be reviewed. Singleton v. Casteel, 267 S.W.3d 547, 550 (Tex.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2008, pet. denied). Here, the motions to dismiss raised the issue of immunity. See id.; see also Franka v. Velasquez, 332 S.W.3d 367, 371 n. 9 (Tex.2011) (stating that Section 101.106 confers immunity in some instances to employees of governmental units). If immunity applies, the trial court lacks subject-matter jurisdiction over the case. See Tex. Dep't of Parks & Wildlife v. Miranda, 133 S.W.3d 217, 224 (Tex.2004); see also Univ. of Tex. Health Sci. Ctr. at San Antonio v. Webber–Eells, 327 S.W.3d 233, 240 (Tex.App.—San Antonio 2010, no pet.). Subject-matter jurisdiction is a question of law which we review de novo. Miranda, 133 S.W.3d at 226. Likewise, matters of statutory construction are reviewed under a de novo standard. Entergy Gulf States, Inc. v. Summers, 282 S.W.3d 433, 437 (Tex.2009); City of San Antonio v. City of Boerne, 111 S.W.3d 22, 25 (Tex.2003).

[5] We may not presume the existence of subject-matter jurisdiction; the burden is on the plaintiffs to allege facts affirmatively demonstrating the trial court's subject-matter jurisdiction over the case. Tex. Ass'n of Bus. v. Tex. Air Control Bd., 852 S.W.2d 440, 443–44, 446 (Tex.1993); Anderson v. Bessman, 365 S.W.3d 119, 123–24 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2011, no pet.). In deciding whether the court has subject-matter jurisdiction, we consider the plaintiffs' pleadings and the evidence pertinent to the jurisdictional inquiry, without regard to the case's merits. Cnty. of Cameron v. Brown, 80 S.W.3d 549, 555 (Tex.2002); Anderson, 365 S.W.3d at 124.

Sovereign Immunity and Section 101.106(f) Dismissal

The investors have alleged various tort-based claims against Fink. First, they alleged that Fink violated the Texas Securities Act because he "engaged in fraud by intentionally failing to disclose material facts related to the operation and performance of ANDRaS and the future development of it into a commercial product," and also by "misrepresent[ing] one or more material facts ... in connection with the offer for sale and sale of limited partnership interests" in IsoSpec. Second, they asserted common-law fraud claims for the same failures to disclose and misrepresentations. Third, they alleged that Fink conspired with the IsoSpec founders "to create IsoSpec and engage in securities fraud and common-law fraud by developing and issuing the PPM and making numerous other verbal misrepresentations in an effort to unlawfully appropriate financial contributions from investors in exchange for limited partnership interests." And fourth, they alleged that Fink aided and abetted the IsoSpec founders "to commit securities fraud and common law fraud."

In reviewing the trial court's order denying Fink's motion to dismiss under the election-of-remedies provision of the Tort Claims Act, we consider whether he conclusively proved that he met all three of the statute's requirements: (1) he was a governmental unit employee at the relevant time; (2) the complained-of conduct was within the general scope of his employment 466 with a governmental unit; and (3) the plaintiffs' suit could have been brought under the Tort Claims Act against Fink's governmental employer. TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM.CODE ANN. § 101.106(f); Franka, 332 S.W.3d at 369; Anderson, 365 S.W.3d at 124; Mauk v. Pipe Creek Water Well, LLC, No. 04–14–00906–CV, 2015 WL 2405338, at *2 (Tex.App.—San Antonio May 20, 2015, no pet.) (mem. op.). It is undisputed that the University of Texas is a governmental unit and that it was Fink's employer at the relevant time. Accordingly, we turn to whether Fink has established the two remaining statutory requirements for dismissal under Section 101.106(f).

A. General scope of employment

The Tort Claims Act defines "[s]cope of employment" as "the performance for a governmental unit of the duties of an employee's office or employment and includes being in or about the performance of a task lawfully assigned to an employee by competent authority." TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM.CODE ANN. § 101.001(5) (West Supp.2014); City of Lancaster v. Chambers, 883 S.W.2d 650, 658 (Tex.1994) ("An official acts within the scope of her authority if she is discharging the duties generally assigned to her.").

1. Conduct may serve any purpose of employer

The Texas Supreme Court has looked to the Restatement for "additional clarity" on the term "scope of employment." See Alexander v. Walker, 435 S.W.3d 789, 792 (Tex.2014) (referring to Restatement (Third) of Agency § 7.07(2) (2006)); Franka, 332 S.W.3d at 381 n. 63 (citing same). The Restatement provides a negative definition: "An employee's act is not within the scope of employment when it occurs within an independent course of conduct not intended by the employee to serve any purpose of the employer." RESTATEMENT (THIRD) OF AGENCY § 7.07(2).

[6] Thus, when an employee engages in conduct "for the sole purpose" of furthering someone else's interests and not his employer's, the conduct is outside the employee's scope of employment. See id. cmt. b; see also Arbelaez v. Just Brakes Corp., 149 S.W.3d 717, 722–23 (Tex.App.—Austin 2004, no pet.) (holding that employer failed to prove as matter of law that employee's "breakfast run" was for purely personal purposes and not meant to further the employer's interest to any appreciable extent).

2. Conduct may escalate but not deviate

[7] Conduct that serves any purpose of the employer is within the scope of employment even if the conduct escalates beyond that assigned or permitted. See RESTATEMENT (THIRD) OF AGENCY § 7.07(2), cmt. b. So, for example, when an employee's job duties include making statements to prospective customers to induce them to buy from the employer, intentional misrepresentations may be within the scope of employment. Id.; cf. Celtic Life Ins. Co. v. Coats, 885 S.W.2d 96, 99 (Tex.1994) (noting that insurance agent had authority to make representations about insurance policies and misrepresentations did not take conduct outside scope of authority).

[8] Similarly, "if the employer places his employee in a position that involves the use of force, so that the act of using force is in the furtherance of the employer's business, the employer can be found liable ... even if the employee uses greater force than is necessary." Knight v. City Sts., L.L.C., 167 S.W.3d 580, 583–84 (Tex.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2005, no pet.) (concluding that plaintiff failed to raise fact issue on whether employees were authorized to use force); see 467 ANA, Inc. v. Lowry, 31 S.W.3d 765, 770 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2000, no pet.) (stating that "an employer will be held liable for its employee's assault on a third party only if that assault stems directly from the employee's exercise (however inappropriate or excessive) of a delegated right or duty.").

[9] But conduct that is better viewed as a deviation from an assigned task instead of an escalation beyond what was authorized is not within the employee's scope of employment. See Zarzana v. Ashley, 218 S.W.3d 152, 159–60 (Tex.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2007, pet. struck) (automotive service station employee who sold counterfeit inspection sticker held not within scope of employment because service station did not conduct inspections and act of selling counterfeit stickers was not "of the same general nature as [the conduct] authorized or incidental to the conduct authorized" by the employer).

3. Intentional torts can fall within scope of employment

[10] As an initial matter, the investors argue that a fraud claim should not be subject to Section 101.106(f) dismissal because intentionally tortious conduct is "almost never" held to be within the scope of authority granted an agent by his principal. At oral argument, through hypotheticals, they gave two examples of intentional torts they assert would not be subject to immunity: assault and theft. Yet both of those intentional torts have been held to involve conduct within a governmental employee's scope of employment when they take place while the employee is engaged in conduct to further an interest of his employer and the tortious act is more of an escalation of—rather than a deviation from—his job duties.

a. Intentional tort of assault

[11] In Alexander v. Walker, police officers were sued for assault, conspiracy, slander, false arrest, false imprisonment, and malicious prosecution. 435 S.W.3d at 790. The claims arose from the officers' conduct while arresting the plaintiff on two separate occasions. Id. The Texas Supreme Court reversed the denial of the police officers' Section 101.106(f) motion to dismiss, holding that engaging in an arrest is conduct that is generally within an officer's scope of employment; it is not an independent course of conduct that fails to serve any purpose of the employer. See id. at 792. Accordingly, the Court rendered judgment in the officers' favor on the assault and other tort claims. See id. [3]

*468 b. Intentional tort of theft

Employees alleged to have committed theft have also been held to be acting within scope of employment. In Lopez v. Serna, 414 S.W.3d 890, 894–95 (Tex.App.—San Antonio 2013, no pet.), the appellate court held that jail officials acted within their scope of employment because they were performing duties generally assigned to them when they confiscated an inmate's property. Whether they intentionally and unlawfully appropriated the property did not change the conclusion that the general nature of their duties included confiscating inmate property. See id.

c. Intentional tort of fraud

In addition to these cases involving dismissal of theft and assault claims, this Court has held that fraud claims brought against university administrators were subject to Section 101.106(f) dismissal as well. In Anderson v. Bessman, UTMB medical school faculty members who had been fired following post-hurricane budget cuts brought suit against various school officials, alleging tortious interference with their employment relationships, negligent misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, and civil conspiracy. 365 S.W.3d at 123. They alleged that the school officials did not make the firing decision based on applicable rules and regulations but, instead, on "financial incentives and personal animosities" and in bad faith. See id. The school officials sought dismissal under Section 101.106(f), but their motions were denied. See id. at 126. We reversed because it was within the school officials' generally assigned duties to evaluate faculty members' performance and the school officials had been specifically asked to make recommendations regarding which faculty should be fired as part of the post-hurricane budget-cut process. See id. at 125. Thus, the fraud claim was subject to Section 101.106(f) dismissal because the actions taken by the governmental employees—even though pleaded as an intentional tort—were within their scope of employment. See id.

d. Other intentional torts

This Court, likewise, has held that a mayor accused of slander and malicious prosecution—two other intentional torts—acted within his scope of employment when he made negative comments about a city employee's job performance to another mayor because it was undisputed that responding to employment verification requests was a task generally assigned to the mayor. Hopkins v. Strickland, No. 01–12–00315–CV, 2013 WL 1183302, at *3 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] Mar. 21, 2013, no pet.) (mem. op.) (stating that "an act may still be within the scope of the employee's duties even if the specific act *469 that forms the basis of the civil suit was wrongly or negligently performed, so long as the action was one related to the performance of his job." (citing Chambers, 883 S.W.2d at 658)).

Most telling, the Texas Supreme Court has rendered judgment for a governmental employee after concluding that claims against him for intentional infliction of emotional distress and conspiracy to intentionally inflict emotional distress were subject to dismissal under Section 101.106(f). Newman v. Obersteller, 960 S.W.2d 621, 622–23 (Tex.1997); see also Mission Consol. Indep. Sch. Dist. v. Garcia, 253 S.W.3d 653, 659 (Tex.2008) (stating that "all tort theories," including these intentional torts, "are assumed to be 'under [the Tort Claims Act]' for purposes of Section 101.106." (brackets in original)).

Thus, we reject the investors' argument that an allegation of an intentional tort forecloses the possibility that Fink was acting within his scope of employment, for purposes of Section 101.106(f) dismissal analysis. We next consider whether Fink's alleged conduct fell within his scope of employment.

4. What conduct is being evaluated

In arguing that Fink acted outside his scope of employment, the investors describe his conduct as "soliciting investments for a private company and committing fraud in the course of such solicitations...." The investors rely on older cases for the proposition that "unlawful or unauthorized actions" cannot be within the scope of a governmental employee's official duties. These cases, including Bagg v. University of Texas Medical Branch, 726 S.W.2d 582, 585 (Tex.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 1987, writ ref'd n.r.e.), predate the Texas Supreme Court's Alexander opinion and our Anderson and Hopkins opinions.

Fink described his conduct quite differently. He contended that, "[a]s the inventor of the ANDRaS prototypes, [he] from time to time assisted IsoSpec in answering certain questions that they had about the technology and [his] research." These were "very specific scientific questions that certain individuals had about Raman Spectroscopy and ANDRaS technology." He averred that "the purpose of the meeting was only to answer technical questions" about his invention. Professor Varghese averred similarly. He stated that he attended IsoSpec meetings, at least partially at UT's expense, "to assist IsoSpec, the University's licensee, in answering very specific scientific questions related to our invention."

Thus, we are presented with two very different characterizations of Fink's involvement: answering specific scientific questions about a technology developed as a UT research professor versus intentional, fraudulent solicitation of investments for the benefit of a private company where a close family member worked.

The Texas Supreme Court has noted the difficulty in analyzing immunity when the challenged conduct is phrased in terms tied to the specific wrong alleged. See Chambers, 883 S.W.2d at 653–54. In that case, the plaintiffs' son was severely injured during a high-speed police chase, and the parents sued the police officers for negligence. Id. at 652. The officers moved for summary judgment based on an assertion of official immunity. Id. The court of appeals held that the officers did not have discretion "to drive without due regard for the safety of all persons using the highway." Chambers v. City of Lancaster, 843 S.W.2d 143, 149 (Tex.App.—Dallas 1992), rev'd, 883 S.W.2d 650 (Tex.1994). The Texas Supreme Court disagreed with the appellate court's analysis and held that the focus should have been 470 on whether the police officers were performing a discretionary function (when they allegedly acted wrongfully), not on whether they had discretion to do an allegedly wrongful act while discharging that function. Chambers, 883 S.W.2d at 653.

The Texas Supreme Court described the officer's conduct broadly. Instead of asking whether the officers had discretion to driving unsafely, as the appellate court had done, the Court considered whether "engaging in a high-speed chase" was a discretionary act and held that it was. See id. at 653–55. The Court explained that the appellate court's use of a more specific description linked to the alleged wrong "frustrates official immunity's very function" because it "inexorably leads to the [at times incorrect] conclusion that an officer is not entitled to immunity if the officer is negligent." Id. at 655.

More recent cases likewise have broadened the focus to ask whether the general conduct was within the scope of employment instead of whether the specific act was somehow wrongful. We have already discussed several of these cases while analyzing whether intentional tort claims can fall within the scope of employment. See Alexander, 435 S.W.3d at 790, 792 (in evaluating whether officers sued for assault were acting within scope of employment, generally considering act of securing an arrest instead of tort-based act of assaulting arrestee); Anderson, 365 S.W.3d at 125–26 (in evaluating whether school officials were acting within general scope of employment, considering their act to be general act of evaluating faculty performance instead of tort-specific act of fraudulently removing faculty); Lopez, 414 S.W.3d at 894–95 (concluding that jail officials acted within scope of employment when they confiscated inmate's property because confiscation was within general nature of duties even if they intentionally and unlawfully appropriated this particular property); cf. Cantey Hanger, LLP v. Byrd, No. 13–0861, 467 S.W.3d 477, 484–487, 2015 WL 3976267, at *6–7 (Tex. June 26, 2015) (rejecting argument that intentional misrepresentations are outside retained attorney's scope of employment and holding that general type of conduct engaged in was within scope even if defendant performed in wrongful manner); Lenoir v. Marino, No. 01–13–01034–CV, 469 S.W.3d 669, 684–686, 2015 WL 4043248, at *12–13 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] July 2, 2015, no pet. h.) (holding that physician overseeing medical care provided by resident was within general scope of employment although alleged to have committed Medicaid fraud related to that care).

Here the pertinent question is not, as the investors state, whether fraudulent solicitation was within Fink's scope of employment. Rather, it is whether his general conduct —speaking about his invention at the IsoSpec meeting —was conduct that served any purpose of his employer. See Alexander, 435 S.W.3d at 792 (analyzing whether government employee was engaged in conduct intended "to serve any purpose of" his employer to determine whether such conduct was within scope of employment); cf. Chambers, 883 S.W.2d at 658 ("An official acts within the scope of her authority if she is discharging the duties generally assigned to her.").

5. Fink established that conduct was within general scope of employment

[12] Fink spoke at a business meeting about a technology he co-discovered and a device he co-invented. The investors argue that speaking at investor meetings is not within the range of a university professor's duties, but their assertion is not verified or supported by evidence. Fink's unrebutted evidence demonstrated that his job duties included research, creating new 471 intellectual property, and assisting in the commercialization of such UT-owned technology. The alleged fraud occurred while he was discussing the invention he co-created as a UT professor at meetings held by a company of which his employer, UT, held partial equity ownership. Fink was not paid by IsoSpec to participate in the meetings or to perform any services for it. Fink's co-inventor, another UT professor, also attended a meeting. Both answered technical questions about their invention. And the colleague's travel expenses were reimbursed by UT with this stated justification: "Help accomplish research objectives."

We conclude that speaking at such a meeting was conduct within the general scope of Fink's employment. Commenting on the efficacy of a UT-patented device was not "an independent course of conduct" that failed to "serve any purpose of [his] employer." See Alexander, 435 S.W.3d at 792; see also RESTATEMENT (THIRD) OF AGENCY § 7.07(2). Rather, Fink's actions served a purpose of his employer because UT held an equity interest in IsoSpec, which was developing and marketing UT's patented technology.

Next, the investors contend that it is "inconceivable" that Fink would not have realized that the true purpose of speaking at the meeting was to obtain investors, not to provide scientific insight. Even assuming Fink spoke at the meeting with the intent to assist IsoSpec in garnering investments, given UT's partial ownership of IsoSpec, it remained within his employer's interest that he speak at the meetings. See Morrow v. Daniel, 367 S.W.2d 715, 718 (Tex.Civ.App.—Dallas 1963, no writ) (fraudulent misrepresentations made by promoter of corporate stock to induce others to purchase shares were made within scope of employment); Alexander, 435 S.W.3d at 792.

[13] Finally, the investors contend that Fink acted outside of the scope of his employment because his efforts to solicit investors were in furtherance of his personal goals and those of his son, an IsoSpec officer. But co-existing motivations do not remove an employee's actions from the scope of his employment so long as the conduct also serves a purpose of the employer. See Anderson, 365 S.W.3d at 125–26. An activity may serve the employer's purposes while simultaneously benefitting the employee or even a third party and still qualify as conduct within the scope of employment. See id.; Arbelaez, 149 S.W.3d at 722 (employee sent on errand by employer to buy breakfast for himself and co-workers held within scope of employment); Dictaphone Corp. v. Torrealba, 520 S.W.2d 869, 872 (Tex.Civ.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 1975, writ ref'd n.r.e.) ("Conduct may be within the scope of employment, although done in part to serve the purposes of the servant or of a third person." (citing RESTATEMENT (SECOND) OF AGENCY § 236 (1958))); Gi lgon, Inc. v. Hart, 893 S.W.2d 562, 568 (Tex.App.—Corpus Christi 1994, writ denied) (stating that employee's actions may be within scope of employment even if private matters are mixed with business errand); Josey–Miller Co. v. Sheppard, 357 S.W.2d 488, 489 (Tex.Civ.App.—Beaumont 1962, no writ) (stating that employee may be within scope of employment even when "there is a mingling of the master's business with the servant's business").

In conclusion, the evidence establishes that both UT professors who created the patented technology attended IsoSpec meetings. UT was a part-owner of IsoSpec. Fink's discussions of the efficacy of his invention at the IsoSpec meetings served a purpose of his equity-interest employer, even if they also served his interests or those of his son. See Anderson, 365 S.W.3d at 125. 472 Accordingly, we hold that Fink has established that he acted within the general scope of his employment. We turn next to the third requirement for Section 101.106(f) dismissal—that the action could have been brought against Fink's employer under the Tort Claims Act.

B. Claims could have been brought under Tort Claims Act

The investors brought common law tort claims against Fink, as well as a claim under the Texas Securities Act. While apparently conceding that the common-law tort claims are claims that "could have been brought under the [Tort Claims] Act," the investors present two arguments why their Securities Act claim is different. First, they contend that Section 101.106(f) refers only to common-law tort actions, not statutory claims like violations of the Texas Securities Act. Second, they argue that the Securities Act independently waives immunity and, as a result, a claim brought under it could not have been brought under the Tort Claims Act.

The Texas Supreme Court has held that a claim is considered one that "could have been brought" under the Tort Claims Act if it (1) "is in tort" and (2) is not brought "under another statute that independently waives immunity," even if the particular tort alleged is one for which immunity has not been waived. Franka, 332 S.W.3d at 379, 381.

1. Securities Act violation is a tort claim

The Section 101.106(f) requirement that the claim be a "tort claim" is not limited to negligence and other common law torts. See Tex. Adjutant Gen.'s Office v. Ngakoue, 408 S.W.3d 350, 356–57 (Tex.2013) (stating that claim could have been brought under Tort Claims Act if "plaintiff had a tort claim to assert against the government"); Williams v. Nealon, 394 S.W.3d 9, 11 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2012, pet. denied) (noting that "any tort action" is one that could have been brought under Tort Claims Act). As the Texas Supreme Court stated in Franka, any tort claim against the government is brought "under" the Act for purposes of Section 101.106(f), even if the Act does not waive immunity. 332 S.W.3d at 375. A "tort claim" can include intentional torts. Alexander, 435 S.W.3d at 792. A "tort claim" can also include claims that are tort based but pleaded as statutory violations. Lopez, 414 S.W.3d at 894.

The focus is on whether the claim "sounds in tort," not the mechanism for prosecuting the claim. See Rodriguez v. Christus Spohn Health Sys., 628 F.3d 731, 735–37 (5th Cir.2010) (rejecting argument that Tort Claims Act is limited to "common law torts only" and holding that various statutory claims "sound in tort" and, therefore, may be subject to Section 101.106(f) dismissal, including claims under Medical Liability Act, Sexual Exploitation by Mental Health Services Provider Act, and Patient's Bill of Rights). Thus, for example, statutory theft claims have been held to constitute claims that could have been brought under the Tort Claims Act. Lopez, 414 S.W.3d at 894 (holding that claim brought under Texas Theft Liability Act is one that could have been brought under Tort Claims Act); Mason v. Wood, No. 09–12–00246–CV, 2013 WL 1088735, at *2 (Tex.App.—Beaumont Mar. 14, 2013, no pet.) (mem. op.) (same); cf. TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM.CODE ANN. § 101.021 (West 2011) (waiving immunity for certain categories of damages proximately caused by conduct described broadly to include "wrongful act or omission").

Artful pleading will not change the tort nature of the claim. See Mason, 2013 WL 1088735, at *2 (while analyzing whether 473 theft claim was one that could have been brought under Tort Claims Act, stating that "plaintiff cannot, through artful pleading, make a common law tort claim a statutory claim under the Theft Liability Act.").

[14] The investors sued Fink for misrepresentation and fraud, which are tort theories of liability. They also sued for violation of the Securities Act based on the same misrepresentations and omissions. We conclude that the allegation that Fink violated the Securities Act by making material misrepresentations about the ANDRaS technology "sounds in tort" and is, therefore, considered a tort claim, for purposes of Section 101.106(f) dismissal analysis, even though the allegation is pleaded as a statutory violation. Cf. Navarro v. Grant Thornton, LLP, 316 S.W.3d 715, 718 (Tex.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2010, no pet.) (characterizing claims brought under Texas Securities Act as "tort claims").

2. Securities Act does not independently waive immunity

The second requirement for a Securities Act violation to be a claim that could have been brought under the Tort Claims Act is that the statute not contain an independent waiver of immunity. Alexander, 435 S.W.3d at 792; Franka, 332 S.W.3d at 381 (holding that claim brought "under another statute that independently waives immunity" is not subject to Section 101.106(f) dismissal); Kelemen v. Elliott, 260 S.W.3d 518, 522 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2008, no pet.) (holding that alleged violations of Texas Whistleblower Act and Texas Commission on Human Rights Act were not claims that could have been brought under Tort Claims Act because each contained independent waiver of immunity); Hamilton v. Pechacek, No. 02–12–00383–CV, 2014 WL 1096018, at *5 n. 7 (Tex.App.—Fort Worth Mar. 20, 2014, no pet.) (mem. op.) (stating that " 'under this chapter' language does not include claims based on alternate, independent statutes that waive sovereign or governmental immunity").

[15] The Texas Supreme Court has consistently maintained that it is within the Legislature's sole province to waive sovereign immunity. Tex. Natural Res. Conservation Comm'n v. IT–Davy, 74 S.W.3d 849, 854 (Tex.2002); Fed. Sign v. Tex. S. Univ., 951 S.W.2d 401, 409 (Tex.1997). Legislative consent to sue the State must be expressed in "clear and unambiguous language." Wichita Falls State Hosp. v. Taylor, 106 S.W.3d 692, 696 (Tex.2003); Univ. of Tex. Med. Branch at Galveston v. York, 871 S.W.2d 175, 177 (Tex.1994). This requirement is codified in Government Code Section 311.034, which provides that "a statute shall not be construed as a waiver of sovereign immunity unless the waiver is effected by clear and unambiguous language." TEX. GOV'T CODE ANN. § 311.034 (West 2013).

[16] At times the Legislature has clearly stated its intent to waive immunity. See, e.g., TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM. CODE ANN. § 110.008 (West 2011) (providing that "sovereign immunity to suit and from liability is waived...."). But "magic words" are not required. Taylor, 106 S.W.3d at 697. The Texas Supreme Court has provided four "aids" to inform our analysis of whether the Legislature has clearly and unambiguously waived immunity in the absence of a succinct statement affirmatively stating so:

1) An indication that the Legislature requires that the State be joined in a lawsuit for which immunity would otherwise attach indicates a waiver of immunity;

2) The Legislature often enacts measures that provide an objective limitation on the State's potential liability when waiving immunity;

474 3) Waiver must be "beyond doubt" even if it is not "a model of 'perfect clarity' "; and

4) Ambiguities are resolved to retain immunity.

Id. at 697–98; see Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Walker, 125 Tex. 430, 83 S.W.2d 929, 934 (1935) (stating that "ambiguity or obscurity" in a statute will operate in favor of the State).

The Securities Act does not contain a provision requiring that the State be joined in a suit brought under the Act. Neither does the statute contain a provision limiting the amount of damages that may be recovered from a governmental entity. See Taylor, 106 S.W.3d at 701–02 (noting absence of liability limits in Patient's Bill of Rights statute). The absence of a liability cap for governmental entities in the Securities Act is particularly relevant given that there is a limit on liability for a different category of potential defendant: small business issuers. See TEX. REV. CIV. STAT. ANN. art. 581–33(N).

Further, the Act provides that any rights and remedies it provides are in addition to other existing remedies, including exemplary or punitive damages. Id. art. 581–33(M). The Texas Supreme Court has expressed "skepticism that the Legislature intended to waive sovereign immunity by mere implication" when the statute being analyzed provides for exemplary damages. Taylor, 106 S.W.3d at 701–02 (analyzing Patient's Bill of Rights statute). Thus, the first two areas of analysis support the conclusion that the Securities Act does not independently waive immunity.

The two remaining factors consider whether waiver is established "beyond doubt" or, instead, if there is an ambiguity in the statute. The investors argue that the Securities Act clearly waives immunity through incorporation of a defined term. The Act provides that a "person" who sells securities can be liable for misrepresentations of material facts. TEX. REV. CIV. STAT. ANN. art. 581–33(A)(2). The Act defines "person" to include "a government, or a political subdivision or agency thereof." Id. art. 581–4(B). However, Government Code Section 311.034 strongly negates this definition's relevance by providing that inclusion of a governmental entity within a "person" definition "does not indicate legislative intent to waive sovereign immunity unless the context of the statute indicates no other reasonable construction." TEX. GOV'T CODE ANN. § 311.034 (West 2013). The Section 4 "person" definition does not establish a waiver "beyond doubt" under the third Taylor factor. At most, it creates an ambiguity and, under the final Taylor factor, counsels against a conclusion of waiver. See Taylor, 106 S.W.3d at 697, 701 (stating that ambiguity precludes finding of unmistakable legislative intent to waive sovereign immunity and requiring that waiver be unambiguous and "beyond doubt").

Because a violation of the Securities Act "sounds in tort" and the four Taylor factors do not support the conclusion that the Legislature waived immunity under the statute, we conclude that a violation of the Securities Act is a claim that "could have been brought under [the Tort Claims Act]" for purposes of analyzing a Section 101.106(f) motion to dismiss, just like the investors' other claims.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Conclusion

Having concluded that Fink established that he was within the scope of his employment and that the claims against him are ones that could have been brought under the Tort Claims Act, we sustain his first and second issues. Because the evidence established Fink's right to dismissal and the investors failed to raise a fact issue on 475 that issue, the proper rendition is to reverse the trial court's judgment and render judgment for Fink. See Lund v. Giauque, 416 S.W.3d 122, 124 (Tex.App.—Fort Worth 2013, no pet.); Leonard v. Glenn, No. 04–08–00200–CV, 2011 WL 3610420, at *1 (Tex.App.—San Antonio Aug. 17, 2011, no pet.) (mem. op.). Accordingly, we reverse the trial court's order denying Fink's motion to dismiss, dismiss the claims against him, and render judgment in his favor.

All Citations

477 S.W.3d 460, 326 Ed. Law Rep. 1082

Footnotes

1 Fink asked us to take judicial notice of these rules and regulations. The investors filed no objection and in oral argument confirmed that they had no objection.

2 Interlocutory appeal is available for the denial of a state employee's motion for summary judgment asserting immunity. TEX. C IV. PRAC. & REM.CODE ANN. § 51.014(a)(5) (West 2015).

3 In assault cases outside of the context of governmental immunity, the results have been the same. In these cases, the issue is whether the employer can escape liability under normal respondeat superior principles by arguing that intentional torts do not fall within the scope of employment. Courts have held that the employer is liable if the tortious conduct "is of the same general nature as that authorized or incidental to the conduct authorized." Durand v. Moore, 879 S.W.2d 196, 199 (Tex.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 1994, no writ) (holding that evidence supported conclusion that doorman's "overzealous enforcement" of nightclub's admittance policies, which led to assault of patron, was conduct within doorman's scope of employment); Cowboys Concert Hall–Arlington, Inc. v. Jones, No. 02–12–00518–CV, 2014 WL 1713472, at *9–10 (Tex.App.—Fort Worth May 1, 2014, pet. denied) (mem. op.) (affirming that nightclub is vicariously liable for assault by bouncer after concluding that bouncer was within scope of employment because bouncer was instructed to restrain patrons if necessary and to "handle" fights, which occurred nightly). An assault "committed in the accomplishment of a duty entrusted to the employee, rather than because of personal animosity, may render the employer liable." Wrenn v. G.A. T.X. Logistics, Inc., 73 S.W.3d 489, 494 (Tex.App.—Fort Worth 2002, no pet.)

However, an assault that is unrelated to the assigned duties of the employee is not within the scope of employment. See Ogunbanjo v. Don McGill of W. Houston, Ltd., No. 01–13–00406–CV, 2014 WL 298037, at *3–4 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] Jan. 28, 2014, no pet.) (mem. op.) (concluding that car salesman who offered to drive service-department customer back to her home was not within scope of his employment when he assaulted her in his personal vehicle); Int'l & G. N.R. Co. v. Anderson, 82 Tex. 516, 17 S.W. 1039, 1040–41 (1891) (stating that train passenger suing train company for tortious conduct of its employee who forcibly removed him from train could prevail on argument that employee was in scope of employment only if it was within employee's duties to remove passengers, but evidence presented in that particular case was that brakeman did not have that authority and, therefore, was not acting within scope of employment); Galveston H. & S.A. Ry. Co. v. McMonigal, 25 S.W. 341, 342 (Tex.Civ.App.1893).

In sum, "an employer will be held liable for its employee's assault on a third party only if that assault stems directly from the employee's exercise (however inappropriate or excessive) of a delegated right or duty." ANA, Inc. v. Lowry, 31 S.W.3d 765, 770 (Tex.App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2000, no pet.).

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

KeyCite Yellow Flag - Negative Treatment
Declined to Extend by Hellum v. Breyer, Cal.App. 1 Dist., April 29, 2011

172 Cal.App.4th 445
Court of Appeal, Fourth District, Division 1, California.

Robert Reese BAINS III et al., Plaintiffs and Appellants,
v.
John J. MOORES et al., Defendants and Respondents.

No. D052533.
|
March 20, 2009.
|
Review Denied July 8, 2009.

Synopsis

Background: Shareholders brought action against corporation's former outside directors alleging that they were induced to hold corporation's stock as a result of false, fraudulent and misleading financial reports. The Superior Court of San Diego County, No. GIC806212, Jeffrey B. Barton, J., granted directors' motions for summary judgment, and shareholders appealed.

Holdings: The Court of Appeal, Aaron, J., held that:

[1] sales of stock by outside directors were not suspicious, for purposes of determining whether there was evidence of scienter as required in order for shareholders to maintain their fraud claims;

[2] inconsistencies did not exist between information presented to corporation's board regarding concerns over revenue accounting practices and corporation's public disclosures regarding revenue, for purposes of determining whether there was evidence of scienter on the part of outside directors;

[3] board's knowledge of the risks of channel stuffing, board's knowledge that corporation was having a cash crunch despite its stated revenue, and the fact that outside auditors quickly discovered fraud that led to improper recognition of revenue, were not red flags probative of outside directors' scienter;

[4] e-mail from an employee to outside director raising concerns regarding the commercial substance of some of corporation's contracts was not probative of scienter;

[5] group published information doctrine was a pleading device in an action regarding corporate fraud that had no application in the summary judgment context; and

[6] trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying shareholders' motion to stay the proceedings until witnesses who had invoked the privilege against self-incrimination in parallel criminal proceeding became available.

Affirmed.

West Headnotes (22)

[1] Securities Regulation
In general;control persons

The group published information doctrine is a pleading doctrine that, where applicable, allows a party to attribute statements made in a corporation's public documents, such as annual reports and press releases, to individual members of the corporation's board of directors.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Fraud
Statements recklessly made;negligent misrepresentation

The elements of negligent misrepresentation are similar to intentional fraud except for the requirement of scienter; in a claim for negligent misrepresentation, the plaintiff need not allege that the defendant made an intentionally false statement, but simply one as to which he or she lacked any reasonable ground for believing the statement to be true.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Appeal and Error

Burden of showing error

On review of a summary judgment, the appellant has the burden of showing error, even if he did not bear the burden in the trial court.

21 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Appeal and Error

Cases Triable in Appellate Court

De novo review of a summary judgment does not obligate the Court of Appeal to cull the record for the benefit of the appellant in order to attempt to uncover the requisite triable issues.

31 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Appeal and Error

Form and requisites in general

Appeal and Error

References to Record

In an appeal from a summary judgment, it is the appellant's responsibility to affirmatively demonstrate error and, therefore, to point out the triable issues the appellant claims are present by citation to the record and any supporting authority; in other words, review is limited to issues which have been adequately raised and briefed.

33 Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Fraud

Elements of Actual Fraud

To establish a fraud claim, a plaintiff is required to produce evidence of: (1) a misrepresentation; (2) knowledge of falsity, or scienter; (3) intent to defraud; i.e., to induce reliance; (4) justifiable reliance; and (5) resulting damage.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Corporations and Business Organizations

Pleading

A plaintiff who seeks to prove, in a fraud action against corporate directors or officer, scienter through evidence of suspicious insider trading must specifically identify those stock sales that the plaintiff contends are suspicious.

Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Appeal and Error

Reply briefs

Court of Appeal would not consider argument by shareholders, in action alleging outside directors induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports, that all of outside directors' stock sales during a one year period were suspicious and thus constituted evidence of scienter, where shareholders raised argument for the first time in reply without having made any showing of good cause for failing to raise the argument in their opening brief.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Corporations and Business Organizations

False representations inducing purchase, retention, or sale of stock

If suspicious stock sales by corporate insiders were probative of scienter under California law in a fraud action, sales by outside directors were not suspicious, for purposes of determining whether outside directors induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports; suspicious sales allegedly occurred in month immediately after corporation's chief executive officer (CEO) and auditors conveyed to the board nonpublic information regarding restatement of revenue, but the directors sold less than 35 percent of their shares during such month, their sales were not dramatically out of line with prior trading practices, and the information, which concerned the appropriateness of existing methods to account for sales, did not indicate that fraud had occurred and was not the type of highly sensitive nonpublic information that would likely to have a material impact on corporation's share price.

See 9 Witkin, Summary of Cal. Law (10th ed. 2005) Corporations, § 128; Cal. Jur. 3d, Securities Regulations, § 97; Annot., Duty to disclose material facts to stock purchaser (1977) 80 A.L.R.3d 13; Friedman, Cal. Practice Guide: Corporations (The Rutter Group 2007) ¶ 6:371.8 (CACORPS Ch. 6-E).

Cases that cite this headnote

[10] Appeal and Error
Points and arguments

Appeal and Error
Findings of Court or Referee

It is not the Court of Appeal's place to construct theories or arguments to undermine a trial court's judgment and defeat the presumption of correctness.

4 Cases that cite this headnote

[11] Corporations and Business Organizations
False representations inducing purchase, retention, or sale of stock

Inconsistencies did not exist between information presented to corporation's board regarding concern over corporation's revenue accounting policies and corporation's public disclosures on revenue, for purposes of establishing scienter on the part of corporation's outside directors, in action brought by shareholders alleging outside directors induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports, as the expressions of concern regarding accounting procedures were not inconsistent with corporation's public reports of increased revenue, auditor did not inform the board of any actual accounting irregularities, and nothing provided to the board hinted at the employee fraud that was occurring at the corporation.

Cases that cite this headnote

[12] Corporations and Business Organizations
False representations inducing purchase, retention, or sale of stock

Board's knowledge of the risks of channel stuffing, board's knowledge that corporation was having a constant cash crunch despite publicly meeting or beating earnings expectations, and fact that outside auditors hired to investigate corporation's accounting practices quickly identified fraud that had led to improper recognition of revenue, did not constitute red flags that were probative of scienter on the part of corporation's outside directors, in action brought by shareholders alleging outside directors induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports; though such evidence demonstrated that outside directors may have been negligent in their oversight of the corporation, it was not probative of whether outside directors were actually aware of the fraud.

Cases that cite this headnote

[13] Corporations and Business Organizations
False representations inducing purchase, retention, or sale of stock

E-mail from corporation employee to outside director, raising concerns about the commercial substance of contracts on which corporation had booked revenue, was not probative of such outside director's scienter, for purposes of shareholders' action against outside director alleging outside director induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports, absent evidence that the employee who sent the e-mail was credible, or that the e-mail should have alerted outside director to the entirety of the fraud at the corporation.

Cases that cite this headnote

[14] Judgment
Banks, corporations and associations

The group published information doctrine, or group pleading doctrine, which allows a party in a fraud action to attribute statements made in a corporation's public documents to individual members of the corporation's board of directors, is a pleading device that has no application in the summary judgment context; doctrine is applicable in the pleading context because of the difficulty of obtaining information regarding the perpetrators of corporate fraud, but plaintiffs alleging corporate fraud have had the opportunity to conduct discovery prior to a motion for summary judgment.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

[15] Appeal and Error
Additional or supplemental briefs

Supplemental briefing on the group pleading doctrine was not required, in shareholders' appeal of summary judgment for outside directors in action alleging outside directors induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports, regardless of whether Court of Appeal's holding regarding the group pleading doctrine constituted an alternative ground for affirming the summary judgment, or merely different reasoning, as the parties were provided an opportunity to present their views on the issue; outside directors directly addressed the issue in their briefs, and shareholders addressed the issue in their reply brief. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. § 437c.

7 Cases that cite this headnote

[16] Appeal and Error
Pleadings and Proceedings Relating Thereto

Appeal and Error
Demurrers and rulings thereon

Shareholders failed to provide, in action alleging outside directors induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports, an adequate record to permit appellate review of shareholders' claim alleging that outside directors had control person liability for corporation's untrue statements in the purchase or sales of securities, where shareholders failed to include in the appellate record either the operative complaint or the demurrers regarding the trial court's order sustaining the demurrers to such claim. West's Ann.Cal.Corp.Code § 25504.

7 Cases that cite this headnote

[17] Appeal and Error
Cases Triable in Appellate Court

In evaluating a trial court's order sustaining a demurrer, Court of Appeal reviews the complaint de novo to determine whether it contains sufficient facts to state a cause of action.

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[18] Appeal and Error
Rulings on pleadings

In evaluating a trial court's order sustaining a demurrer, Court of Appeal reviews the trial court's result for error, and not its legal reasoning.

3 Cases that cite this headnote

[19] Appeal and Error
Grounds of Review

Appeal and Error
Burden to Show Prejudice from Error

A party challenging a judgment has the burden of showing reversible error by an adequate record.

5 Cases that cite this headnote

[20] Securities Regulation
Persons liable

Even if shareholders had provided an adequate appellate record to allow review of control person liability claim, shareholders of corporation did not purchase their shares from the corporation, as required in order to establish that outside directors had control person liability for untrue statements made by corporation in the purchase or sales of securities, in action alleging outside directors induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports. West's Ann.Cal.Corp.Code § 25504.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[21] Appeal and Error

Allowance of remedy and matters of procedure in general

Court of Appeal reviews a trial court's denial of a motion for a stay under the abuse of discretion standard of review.

6 Cases that cite this headnote

[22] Action

Nature and subject matter of actions in general

Trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying shareholders' motion to stay the proceedings and continue the hearings on outside directors' motions for summary judgment until witnesses who had invoked their privilege against self-incrimination in a parallel criminal action were available, in shareholders' action alleging outside directors induced shareholders to hold corporation's shares through fraudulent and misleading financial reports; action had been pending for four years, the outside directors had not invoked the privilege against self-incrimination and had been deposed by shareholders, and shareholders did not articulate with any particularity the inadequacy of the other discovery they obtained or the burden they would face if the action was not stayed.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

*312 Patricia A. Meyer & Associates, Patricia A. Meyer, San Diego, Trevor M. Flynn, Robert P. Ottilie, San Diego, Kiesel Boucher & Larson and Raymond P. Boucher, Beverly Hills, for Plaintiffs and Appellants.

*313 Quinn Emanuel Urquhart Oliver & Hedges, John B. Quinn, Harry A. Olivar, Jr., Los Angeles, Kirby Noonan Lance & Hope, David J. Noonan, San Diego, Niddrie Fish & Buchanan, and David A. Niddrie, San Diego, for Defendant and Respondent John J. Moores.

David A. Hahn, Gibbs & Bruns, Robin C. Gibbs, J. Christopher Reynolds, Ayesha Najam, Jeffry J. Cotner and Aundrea K. Frieden, for Defendant and Respondent Charles E. Noell III.

Bewley, Lassleben & Miller, Leighton M. Anderson and David A. Brady, Whittier, for Defendant and Respondent Christopher A. Cole.

AARON, J.

449 I.

INTRODUCTION

In February 2003, Robert Reese Bains III and a group of former Peregrine Systems, Inc. (Peregrine) shareholders (collectively plaintiffs) filed this action against former Peregrine directors John J. Moores, Charles E. Noell III, and Christopher A. Cole (collectively defendants), as well as several former Peregrine employees, Peregrine's former outside accounting firm, and two of Peregrine's former business partners. [1] In their complaint, plaintiffs alleged that they had been induced to hold Peregrine stock from May 1997 through 2002 by Peregrine's false, fraudulent and misleading financial reports. [2] Plaintiffs alleged that Peregrine engaged in various fraudulent accounting practices that led to the improper recognition of revenue in Peregrine's financial statements, for the purpose of increasing Peregrine's stock price. Plaintiffs further alleged that in May 2002, after the initial public disclosure of the improper practices, Peregrine's stock price fell dramatically, causing plaintiffs to suffer damages. Plaintiffs averred that in February 2003, Peregrine issued restated financial statements for fiscal years 2000 and 2001, and for the first three quarters of 2002, and that the financial statements reduced by $509 million previously reported revenue in the amount of $1.34 billion. Of the $509 million, $259 million was deducted for non-substantiated transactions. Plaintiffs' complaint contained various fraud and fraud related causes of action.

Defendants filed motions for summary judgment in which they contended that plaintiffs could not prevail on any of their fraud or fraud related causes of action because there was no evidence from which a reasonable trier of fact could conclude that defendants participated in, or knew about, any of the fraudulent accounting practices. [3] Plaintiffs filed a motion to stay the proceedings on the ground that they needed to obtain additional discovery from witnesses who had previously invoked their Fifth Amendment rights and refused to provide substantive testimony in this case. The trial court denied plaintiffs' motion for a stay, and granted defendants' motions for summary judgment.

[1] 450 On appeal, plaintiffs claim that the trial court erred in granting judgment for defendants as a matter of law on the fraud and fraud related causes of action. Specifically, plaintiffs claim that the trial court erred in concluding that plaintiffs *314 failed to identify evidence from which a jury could find that defendants knew that Peregrine's financial reports contained false information. Plaintiffs also contend that there are triable issues of material fact with respect to whether defendants are liable on these causes of action pursuant to the "group published information" doctrine. [4] Plaintiffs further claim that the trial court erred in sustaining Noell's and Moores's demurrers [5] to plaintiffs' claim that they were liable for various California statutory securities law violations pursuant to Corporations Code section 25504. [6] Finally, plaintiffs contend that the trial court erred in denying their motion to stay the proceedings. We reject all of plaintiffs' claims and affirm the judgment.

II.

FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

In February 2003, plaintiffs filed their original complaint in this action. In November 2004, the trial court sustained Noell's and Moores's demurrers to plaintiffs' section 25504 claim.

In December 2005, plaintiffs filed a fourth amended complaint premised on the allegations of financial accounting fraud summarized in part I., ante. Among other causes of action, plaintiffs' claims included market manipulation (§§ 25400, subd. (d), 25500) (First Cause of Action), control person liability (§ 25504) (Fourth Cause of Action), [7] fraud and deceit by active concealment (Fifth Cause of Action), fraud and deceit based on omissions 451 and misrepresentations (Sixth Cause of Action), negligent misrepresentations (Seventh Cause of Action), aiding and abetting fraud and deceit (Ninth Cause of Action), aiding and abetting breach of fiduciary duty (Tenth Cause of Action), and common law conspiracy (Twelfth Cause of Action).

In March 2006, Cole filed a motion for summary judgment. In his motion, Cole argued that the court should grant summary adjudication as to plaintiffs' fraud and fraud related causes of action because he had not been a participant in the use of improper revenue-recognition practices at Peregrine, and was not aware of such practices until the board of directors conducted an internal investigation that led to the discovery of the practices in April–May 2002. Cole further argued that any statements he made, on which plaintiffs may have relied, were based on credible assurances Cole had received from Peregrine *315 management and auditors that the matters stated were true. Finally, Cole maintained that he could not be held liable pursuant to the group published information doctrine.

In June 2007, Noell and Moores filed a joint motion for summary judgment. Noell and Moores argued that plaintiffs' fraud and fraud related causes of action failed because plaintiffs could not demonstrate either that Noell or Moores knew of the financial statement fraud at Peregrine, or that they had reason to believe that Peregrine's financial statements contained false information.

In August 2007, plaintiffs filed a combined opposition to defendants' motions for summary judgment. Plaintiffs also filed a motion to stay the proceedings and a request to continue the summary judgment hearing on the ground that they had been unable to obtain necessary discovery due to related pending or threatened criminal proceedings.

In September 2007, after hearing oral argument, the trial court denied plaintiffs' motion to stay the proceedings and their request to continue the summary judgment proceedings.

In December 2007, after hearing oral argument, the trial court entered an order granting defendants' motions for summary judgment. In its order, the court reviewed the material allegations in the fourth amended complaint, and noted that plaintiffs alleged that "defendants engaged in a fraudulent financial scheme ... to inflate Peregrine's stock price." The court continued, summarizing plaintiffs' claims as follows: "Plaintiffs contend that the heart of the fraud was the recording of hundreds of millions of dollars of revenue despite non-binding arrangements with customers, in violation of General Accepting Accounting Principles ('GAAP') and Peregrine's revenue recognition policy. 452 Moores ... Noell ... and Cole directed deceptive practices to artificially inflate Peregrine's revenue resulting in increased stock value in order to sell their own stock at overstated prices. (FAC [Fourth Amended Complaint] ¶ 15). Beginning in 1999, defendants [8] engaged in improper revenue recognition, especially in connection with software sales to resellers known as 'channel partners' and directed the employees and agents to engage in deceptive sales and accounting practices to create the illusion of growth, including secretly adding material sale contingencies and side agreements to what on their face appeared to be binding contacts. (FAC ¶¶ 16, 18.)"

In reviewing the evidence presented on these issues, the trial court concluded, "[Moores, Noell, and Cole] have met their burden of proof to show they had no actual knowledge of the financial fraud committed by the employees and officers of Peregrine. Plaintiffs have failed to raise a material fact that defendants, as outside directors, should be held liable for fraud." (Original formatting omitted.) Specifically, the trial court observed that plaintiffs' fraud and fraud related causes of action required proof that defendants had made statements that they knew to be false, or that defendants had made statements with reckless disregard for their truth or falsity. The court observed that defendants had presented direct evidence that they did not know about the fraud committed by Peregrine employees at the time they signed various financial statements. Defendants also presented evidence that they had relied on the recommendations of Peregrine's in-house counsel, outside counsel, *316 and outside accounting firm, in signing these statements. With respect to plaintiffs' evidence, the court concluded, "Plaintiffs have not raised a triable issue of fact that defendants intended to defraud or that they, as outside directors, had knowledge of the fraud [sufficient] to raise a duty to disclose the true facts to plaintiffs." [9]

The trial court subsequently entered judgment in favor of defendants. Plaintiffs timely appeal from the judgment. [10]

453 III.

DISCUSSION

A. The trial court did not err in concluding that plaintiffs failed to identify evidence from which a jury could find that defendants knew about the fraud at Peregrine

Plaintiffs claim that the trial court erred in concluding that there was no evidence from which a reasonable fact finder could find that defendants knew about the fraud committed at Peregrine. We disagree.

1. The scope of plaintiffs' claim on appeal

Plaintiffs' claim pertaining to defendants' knowledge of ongoing fraud at Peregrine is captioned, "THE TRIAL COURT ERRED AS A MATTER OF LAW IN DETERMINING WHAT CONSTITUTES EVIDENCE OF KNOWLEDGE." Plaintiffs' opening brief makes clear that this claim is intended to encompass, at a minimum, the fraud causes of action that plaintiffs allege in their fourth amended complaint, namely fraud and deceit by active concealment (Fifth Cause of Action) and fraud and deceit based on omissions and misrepresentations (Sixth Cause of Action). However, plaintiffs' opening brief is not clear as to whether this claim is also directed at their causes of action for market manipulation (§ 25400, subd. (d)) (First Cause of Action), aiding and abetting fraud and deceit (Ninth Cause of Action), aiding and abetting breach of fiduciary duty (Tenth Cause of Action), and common law conspiracy (Twelfth Cause of Action).

Cole contends that plaintiffs have forfeited all appellate contentions with respect to the First, Ninth, Tenth, and Twelfth Causes of Action by failing to address these claims in their opening brief. Noell and Moores similarly contend that plaintiffs have forfeited any claims pertaining 317 to the Ninth, Tenth, and Twelfth Cause of Action. Plaintiffs maintain in their reply brief that a "ruling by this Court that Plaintiffs put forth sufficient evidence to *454 raise an issue of fact on scienter, [11] would cause reversal of the First, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, [12] Ninth, Tenth, and Twelfth causes of action."

We conclude below (see pt. III.A.3, post) that plaintiffs have failed to identify evidence that raises a genuine issue of fact regarding defendants' knowledge of the fraud at Peregrine. Plaintiffs thus are not entitled to reversal of the trial court's grant of judgment as a matter of law on any fraud or fraud related cause of action. Accordingly, we need not consider whether plaintiffs have forfeited their appellate claims as to the First, Ninth, Tenth, and Twelfth Causes of Action.

[2] In a separate claim in their opening brief, plaintiffs contend that the trial court erred in granting judgment as a matter of law in favor of defendants on plaintiffs' negligent misrepresentation claim (Seventh Cause of Action). Plaintiffs note, " 'The elements of negligent misrepresentation are similar to intentional fraud except for the requirement of scienter; in a claim for negligent misrepresentation, the plaintiff need not allege that the defendant made an intentionally false statement, but simply one as to which he or she lacked any reasonable ground for believing the statement to be true.' [Citations.]" (Quoting Charnay v. Cobert (2006) 145 Cal.App.4th 170, 184–185, 51 Cal.Rptr.3d 471.)

Plaintiffs provide no analysis in their brief as to how the evidence in the record demonstrates the existence of a triable issue of fact on the question whether defendants made false statements without having any reasonable ground for believing the statements to be true. In light of our rejection of plaintiffs' contention with regard to the scienter element of their fraud and other fraud related causes of action (see pt. III.A.3, post), and plaintiffs' failure to provide any distinct analysis regarding the intent element of their negligent misrepresentation claim, we reject plaintiffs' claim that the trial court erred in granting summary judgment in favor of defendants on this claim.

2. Standard of review

A moving party is entitled to summary judgment when the party establishes that it is entitled to the entry of judgment as a matter of law. (*455 Code Civ. Proc., § 437c, subd. (c).) A defendant may make this showing by establishing that the plaintiff cannot establish one or more elements of all of his causes of action, or that the defendant has a complete defense to each cause of action. (Towns v. Davidson (2007) 147 Cal.App.4th 461, 466, 54 Cal.Rptr.3d 568.)

In reviewing a trial court's ruling on a motion for summary judgment, the reviewing court makes " 'an independent assessment of the correctness of the trial court's ruling, applying the same legal standard as the trial court in determining whether there are any genuine issues of material fact or whether the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. [Citations.]' " 318 (Trop v. Sony Pictures Entertainment Inc. (2005) 129 Cal.App.4th 1133, 1143, 29 Cal.Rptr.3d 144, quoting Iverson v. Muroc Unified School Dist. (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 218, 222–223, 38 Cal.Rptr.2d 35.)

[3] [4] [5] "On review of a summary judgment, the appellant has the burden of showing error, even if he did not bear the burden in the trial court. [Citation.]....'[D]e novo review does not obligate us to cull the record for the benefit of the appellant in order to attempt to uncover the requisite triable issues. As with an appeal from any judgment, it is the appellant's responsibility to affirmatively demonstrate error and, therefore, to point out the triable issues the appellant claims are present by citation to the record and any supporting authority. In other words, review is limited to issues which have been adequately raised and briefed.' [Citation.]" (Claudio v. Regents of University of California (2005) 134 Cal.App.4th 224, 230, 35 Cal.Rptr.3d 837.)

3. None of the evidence to which plaintiffs refer in the argument portion of their opening brief on appeal raises a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' knowledge of the fraud at Peregrine

[6] "To avoid summary adjudication of [their] fraud claim, [plaintiffs were] required to produce evidence of (1) a misrepresentation, (2) knowledge of falsity (or 'scienter'), (3) intent to defraud, i.e., to induce reliance; (4) justifiable reliance, and (5) resulting damage. [Citation.]" (Unterberger, supra, 162 Cal.App.4th at p. 423, 75 Cal.Rptr.3d 368, italics added.)

In the argument portion of their opening brief, plaintiffs identify four categories of evidence that they contend demonstrate a triable issue of fact with respect to defendants' knowledge of the fraud at Peregrine: (1) defendants' sales of Peregrine stock; (2) inconsistencies between information presented to Peregrine's board and Peregrine's public disclosures; (3) evidence 456 of purported red flags identified by plaintiffs' expert; and (4) Moores's receipt of an e-mail from a Peregrine employee concerning "channel stuffing." [13]

We address each category of evidence, and plaintiffs' arguments pertaining to such evidence, below. [14]

a. Defendants' sales of Peregrine stock

Plaintiffs contend that defendants' sales of Peregrine stock raise a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' knowledge of the fraud at Peregrine.

(i) Case law

In Zucco Partners, LLC v. Digimarc Corp. (9th Cir.2009) 552 F.3d 981, 1005 (Zucco Partners), the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit described how stock sales by a corporate insider may constitute evidence of the insider's scienter for purposes of establishing a violation of federal securities law:

> "As we have previously articulated, '[a]lthough "unusual" or "suspicious" stock *319 sales by corporate insiders may constitute circumstantial evidence of scienter, insider trading is suspicious only when it is "dramatically out of line with prior trading practices at times calculated to maximize the personal benefit from undisclosed inside information." ' [Citations.] Among three factors that must be considered to determine whether stock sales raise a strong inference of deliberate recklessness are: '(1) the amount and percentage of shares sold by insiders; (2) the timing of the sales; and (3) whether the sales were consistent with the insider's prior trading history.' [Citation.]"

In concluding that the district court had not erred in dismissing plaintiffs' complaint for failing to plead facts sufficient to support an inference of scienter, the Zucco Partners court stated:

> "As the district court correctly noted, the [complaint] 'fail[s] to provide any information on the trading history of [two of the company's officers] for purposes of comparison to the stock sales at issue.' [Citation.] For individual defendants' stock sales 457 to raise an inference of scienter, plaintiffs must provide a 'meaningful trading history' for purposes of comparison to the stock sales within the class period. [Citation.] Even if the defendant's trading history is simply not available, for reasons beyond a plaintiff's control, the plaintiff is not excused from pleading the relevant history. See [In re Vantive Corp. Sec. Litig. (9th Cir.2002) 283 F.3d 1079, 1095] (noting that '[b]ecause [the defendant] joined Vantive four months into the class period, he has no relevant trading history,' and thus finding that '[b]ecause [the defendant] had no trading history, we cannot conclude that his trades were out of line with his past practice'); [Ronconi v. Larkin (9th Cir.2001) 253 F.3d 423, 435–436; In re Silicon Graphics Inc. Securities Litigation (9th Cir.1999) 183 F.3d 970, 987–988] (rejecting an inference of scienter when a defendant sold over 75.3 percent of his stock holdings during the class period, because the defendant was 'legally forbidden to trade' for a long period before the class period and thus had no meaningful trading history).... Thus, since there is no allegation within the [complaint] that [the officers'] stock sales, though significant, are inconsistent with their usual trading patterns, no inference of scienter can be gleaned from Zucco's stock sale assertions." (Zucco Partners, supra, 552 F.3d at pp. 1005–1006; see also In re Daou Systems, Inc. (9th Cir.2005) 411 F.3d 1006, 1022–1023 ["At a minimum ... 'the trading must be in a context where defendants have incentives to withhold material, non-public information, and it must be unusual, well beyond the normal patterns of trading by those defendants' "].)

While the Zucco court concluded that one could not reasonably infer scienter from the defendants' stock sales in that case, plaintiffs in this case note that in Kaplan v. Rose (9th Cir.1994) 49 F.3d 1363, 1379–1380 (Kaplan), the Ninth Circuit concluded that defendants' stock sales were sufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact as to their scienter on the plaintiff's securities fraud claims. The defendants in Kaplan—the president and the CEO of a company—sold a large percentage of their stock in the company (one-fourth and two-thirds of their holdings, respectively), as soon as legally possible after the company's public offering in June 1988. (Id. at p. 1379.) In August 1989, just before the release of important clinical test results pertaining to the company's medical device product, the president sold the remainder of his stock. (Id. at pp. 1368, 1379.) The Ninth Circuit concluded that evidence of these sales was sufficient *320 to raise a genuine issue of material fact regarding defendants' scienter, noting that the sales "were not consistent with earlier [trading] patterns," and that the sales were "in large amounts and at sensitive times." (Id. at pp. 1379–1380.)

Plaintiffs also cite Provenz v. Miller (9th Cir.1996) 102 F.3d 1478 (Provenz), in which the Ninth Circuit held that the district court had erred in concluding that two corporate officers' sale of the corporation's stock did not support a finding of scienter. The Provenz court summarized the evidence on 458 this issue as follows:

> "The district court incorrectly concluded that the sales of stock by Miller and Boesenberg did not support a finding of scienter. There is evidence that Miller, [the corporation's] chairman and CEO, and Boesenberg, [the corporation's] president, traded their stock in large amounts at sensitive times. Miller sold about 20% of his stock for $1,340,000. Boesenberg sold about 90,000 shares during the class period—almost six times more stock than he had sold during the twelve months preceding the class period—for $1,479,650. Both Miller and Boesenberg sold their stock shortly after the April 25, 1991 conference call but before the $4 million loss and the restructuring charge were disclosed to the public." (Id. at p. 1491.)

(ii) Application

(a) For purposes of this decision, we assume that suspicious stock sales may raise an inference of scienter under California law

Plaintiffs have not cited, and we are not aware of, any California authority in which a court has concluded that suspicious stock sales by members of a corporation's board of directors may constitute circumstantial evidence of the directors' scienter for purposes of establishing a fraud or fraud related cause of action under California law. Nevertheless, we will assume that for purposes of proving fraud under California law, " 'unusual trading or trading at suspicious times or in suspicious amounts by corporate insiders ... [is] probative of scienter' " (In re Daou Systems, Inc., supra, 411 F.3d at p. 1022), and we will apply the factors that the federal courts have used to determine whether a defendant's stock sales may be considered suspicious for purposes of violations of federal securities law, as described in the federal authorities cited in part III.A.3.a.(i), ante. [15]

(b) Plaintiffs contend in their opening brief that defendants' February 2000 stock sales were suspicious

[7] [8] A plaintiff who seeks to prove scienter through evidence of suspicious insider trading must specifically identify those stock sales that the plaintiff contends are suspicious. In their opening brief, plaintiffs appear to contend 459 that defendants' sales of Peregrine stock in February 2000 were suspicious. For example, plaintiffs state, "Within days of meeting with the CEO and the auditor who instructed that Peregrine change its ways of recognizing revenue [in January 2000], Moores, Noell, and Cole sold an unprecedented amount of stock, in excess of $200 million. [Citation.] These facts show suspicious insider trading sufficient to create an inference of scienter." Plaintiffs similarly contend, "[D]efendants sold *321 off large sums of stock nine months into continuous bad reports," and maintain that defendants received the first such report in April 1999. [16] Plaintiffs' contention in their opening brief, that "The discovery referee also found the inside[r] trades occurring in February 2000 were suspicious," lends further support to our conclusion that plaintiffs' argument is directed at defendants' February 2000 stock sales. [17] (Italics added.) We therefore consider the evidence that plaintiffs cite in their brief in support of their contention that defendants' February 2000 stock sales were suspicious. [18]

(c) Plaintiffs have failed to demonstrate that defendants' stock sales in February 2000 were sufficiently suspicious to raise a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' scienter

[9] Plaintiffs include three bar graphs in their opening brief, one pertaining to each defendant, and contend that these graphs demonstrate that defendants' sales of Peregrine stock were suspicious. With respect to Moores, the Y-axis of the graph is labeled "No. of Shares Sold" and contains numbers ranging 460 from 500,000 through 7,000,000, in increments of 500,000. The X-axis shows the time period August 1997 through February 2001. Bars representing the number of shares sold each month during this time period appear on the graph. Between the bars are the following statements: "April 1999—Peregrine CFO tells Defendants the Company will MISS market expectations," "July 1999—Board votes to sell

Receivables," "October 1999—CEO tells the Board there are problems with revenue," "January 2000—CEO and Auditors tell the Board that there are concerns and recommend a change in revenue recognition." [19] 322 Plaintiffs constructed this graph using data obtained from forms entitled "Statement of Changes in Beneficial Ownership" that Moores filed with the SEC. [20]

The graph pertaining to Moores shows that he sold approximately 200,000 shares in October 1997. [21] In 1998, in five different months, Moores sold a total of approximately 2,500,000 shares. In 1999, Moores sold approximately 1,250,000 shares in February, 2,500,000 shares in May, and 2,225,000 shares in July. Moores sold approximately 6,500,000 shares in February 2000, and approximately 3,500,000 shares in February 2001. [22]

Applying the factors described in Zucco Partners to this data, we observe the following: The graph pertaining to Moores's sales of stock indicates that Moores sold approximately 18,675,000 shares from October 1997 through February 2001. Approximately 35 percent of these sales were made in *461 February 2000, the allegedly suspicious period. Accordingly, while plaintiffs provide no information in the graph that would allow us to determine the percentage of Moores's total holdings that these sales represented, [23] the percentage necessarily must have been lower than 35 percent. This percentage is lower than the percentage that the Ninth Circuit has held is ordinarily sufficient to support an inference of scienter. (See Metzler Inv. GMBH v. Corinthian Colleges, Inc. (9th Cir.2008) 540 F.3d 1049, 1067 ["[Defendant] sold only 37% of his total stock holdings during the Class Period. We typically require larger sales amounts ... to allow insider trading to support scienter"].)

With regard to the timing of Moores's stock sales, plaintiffs alleged in the operative complaint that the fraudulent misrepresentations began in July 1999 and continued until March 2002. Unlike the stock sales in the cases on which plaintiffs principally rely, Kaplan, supra, 49 F.3d at page 1380 and Provenz, supra, 102 F.3d at page 1491, in which the defendants sold shares at "sensitive times" (Kaplan, supra, 49 F.3d at p. 1380) after having acquired discrete pieces of nonpublic information that were likely to be material to their company's share price (Provenz, supra, 102 F.3d at pp. 1488, 1491 [sales of shares after conference call on April 25 and before July 30 public announcement of restructuring charge supported finding of scienter]), plaintiffs in this case have demonstrated, at most, that Moores and the other defendants were provided with some 323 negative information about Peregrine's economic prospects over a period of nine months (i.e., in April, July, and October 1999, and in January 2000), prior to the allegedly suspicious sales. [24]

Plaintiffs note that in January 2000, Peregrine's CEO told the board of directors the following:

> "Our channel business is now a cause for concern.... We have not been as successful, and in some cases unsuccessful, in getting the sell-through that would remove the inventory of software from the channels. Rather than a 3 to 6 month latency, the inventory is moving in closer to 9 months.... The net of this is that we are now at a level of channel inventory that makes our auditors uncomfortable. Therefore, we are going to change the way we compensate the channel sales force to place emphasis on sell-through and up-front payment. We ... will start to treat portions of contracts as unbooked for purposes of revenue recognition until either payment or sell-through has occurred. This will take us two to three quarters to work through."

*462 Plaintiffs also note that in January 2000, Peregrine's outside auditor, Richard Bigelow, [25] expressed concerns to the board's audit committee regarding the company's accounting practices pertaining to channel sales. [26] In his deposition, Bigelow testified:

> "Q: Okay. Going back to my question ... did your report to the audit committee—would it have told them or intimated to them in some way that the channel inventory situation had led you to believe that the financial statements were misstated?
>
> "[Bigelow]: My [communication] to the audit committee was that we had a buildup in channel > inventory that caused me enough concern that, one, I thought the company need[ed] to reassess its accounting for channel sales; and, two, that when you have a buildup like that, there was a risk that the company would start granting some sort of concessions, which would violate the provisions of [American Institute of Certified Public Accountants Statement of Position 97–2, 'Software Revenue Recognition'] 97–2 and bring the whole question of previous revenue recognition to the forefront."

The fact that an auditor and Peregrine's CEO expressed concerns to defendants about the appropriateness of continuing to use the existing accounting method to account for channel sales does not constitute evidence that defendants knew about the fraud at Peregrine, nor is it the type of highly sensitive nonpublic information that would be likely to have a material effect on a company's share price, as discussed in the case law that plaintiffs cite.[27] We *324 therefore conclude that the timing of Moores's stock sales in February 2000 does not support the conclusion that the sales were suspicious.[28]

[10] Although February 2000 represents the single largest volume month of shares sold by Moores, we cannot conclude that the quantity of shares that Moores sold in that month was " ' "dramatically out of line with prior trading 463 practices." ' " (Zucco Partners, supra, 552 F.3d at p. 1005; compare with Provenz, supra, 102 F.3d at p. 1491 [defendant sold "six times more stock [in class period] than he had sold during the twelve months preceding the class period]."). Further, since plaintiffs did not provide any argument in their brief concerning the price of the shares over time, they have not demonstrated that the sales were " ' "calculated to maximize the personal benefit from undisclosed inside information." ' "[29] (Zucco Partners, supra, 552 F.3d at p. 1005.)

With respect to Noell, plaintiffs include a bar graph entitled, "Noell's Suspicious Trades." The Y-axis of the graph is labeled "No. of Shares Sold" and contains numbers ranging from zero through 100,000 in increments of 10,000. The X-axis shows various months between February 1998 and December 2002. Bars representing the number of sales per month during this time period appear on the graph. Plaintiffs constructed this graph using data obtained from forms entitled "Statement of Changes in Beneficial Ownership," that Noell filed with the SEC.[30] The graph shows that Noell sold approximately 30,000 shares in October 1998, approximately 50,000 shares in February 1999, and approximately 25,000 shares in May 1999. In February 2000, Noell sold approximately 90,000 shares and in February 2001 he sold another 80,000 shares. In December 2002, Noell sold approximately 40,000 shares. Noell sold a total of approximately 315,000 shares in the time period from October 1998 through December 2002. Approximately 29 percent of the sales occurred in February 2000. Noell thus sold a smaller percentage of his total holdings (as defined in footnote 23, ante) in the allegedly suspicious period than the Ninth Circuit has held may ordinarily support an inference of scienter. (See Metzler Inv. GMBH v. Corinthian Colleges, Inc., supra, 540 F.3d at p. 1067.)

The fact that Noell sold approximately 45,000 shares in December 2002, after the fraud was publicly disclosed, further weakens any inference of scienter on his part. (See In re Worlds of Wonder Securities Litigation (9th Cir.1994) 35 F.3d 1407, 1428 [sales of stock "after the announcement of large quarterly losses" do not support inference of scienter].) The analysis provided above with respect to the lack of probative value of the timing of 464 Moores's sales applies equally to Noell. In addition, it is not clear that Noell's trades in February 2000 were unusual, *325 since he sold a total of approximately 75,000 shares in 1999, 90,000 shares in 2000, and 80,000 shares in 2001. (Compare with No. 84 Employer–Teamster Joint Council Pension Trust Fund v. America West Holding Corp. (9th Cir.2003) 320 F.3d 920, 939–940 ["massive insider trading over ... three month period of time, after an extended period of inactivity, appears unusual"].) Finally, as noted above with respect to Moores, because plaintiffs include no information in their opening brief as to the price of the shares over time, they have not demonstrated that Noell's February 2000 sales were " ' "calculated to maximize the personal benefit from undisclosed inside information." ' " (Zucco Partners, supra, 552 F.3d at p. 1005.)

With respect to Cole, plaintiffs include a bar graph entitled, "Cole's Suspicious Trades." The Y-axis of the graph is labeled "No. of Shares Sold" and contains numbers ranging from zero through 600,000 in increments of 100,000. The X-axis includes various months between February 1999 and February 2002. Bars representing the number of sales sold each month during this time period appear on the graph. Plaintiffs constructed this graph using information that Cole provided in a declaration.[31]

The graph shows that Cole sold approximately 175,000 shares in February 1999, approximately 50,000 shares in July 1999, and another 50,000 shares in August 1999. In February 2000, Cole sold approximately 275,000 shares. In both February and November 2001, he sold 75,000 shares, and in February 2002, Cole sold approximately 500,000 shares. Cole thus sold approximately 1,200,000 shares in the time period from February 1999 through February 2002. Approximately 23 percent of the sales occurred in February 2000.

As with the other defendants, Cole sold a smaller percentage of his total holdings (as defined in footnote 23, ante) in the allegedly suspicious period than the Ninth Circuit has held may ordinarily support an inference of scienter. (See Metzler Inv. GMBH v. Corinthian Colleges, Inc., supra, 540 F.3d at p. 1067.) Plaintiffs have not disputed evidence in the record that Cole retained more than 1,000,000 shares of Peregrine stock more than three times the number of shares that he sold in February 2000. This fact greatly weakens any inference of scienter. (See In re Worlds of Wonder Securities Litigation, supra, 35 F.3d at p. 1428.)

The analysis provided with respect to the other defendants as to the lack of probative value of the timing of their sales of stock applies equally to Cole. In addition, we cannot say that Cole's sale of 275,000 shares in February 465 2000 was unusual, since he also sold a large quantity of stock in February 1999 (175,000 shares) and an even larger quantity in February 2002 (500,000 shares). (Compare with No. 84 Employer–Teamster Joint Council Pension Trust Fund v. America West Holding Corp., supra, 320 F.3d at pp. 939–940.) Finally, as noted with respect to the other defendants, because plaintiffs have included no information in their opening brief as to the price of the shares over time, they have not demonstrated that Cole's stock sales were " ' "calculated to maximize the personal benefit from undisclosed inside information." ' " (Zucco Partners, supra, 552 F.3d at p. 1005.)

In sum, we conclude that plaintiffs have failed to demonstrate that defendants' stock sales in February 2000 were sufficiently *326 suspicious to raise a genuine issue of material fact as to their scienter.

b. Plaintiffs did not present evidence of inconsistencies between information presented to the Board and Peregrine's public disclosures sufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' scienter

Plaintiffs claim that the existence of inconsistencies between information presented to the Board and Peregrine's public disclosures creates a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' scienter.

(i) Plaintiffs' claim

Plaintiffs cite two types of evidence in support of this claim. First, plaintiffs cite evidence that the Board learned of potential concerns regarding Peregrine's accounting systems in the summer of 2001. Specifically, plaintiffs note that at a deposition, William Savoy, a member of Peregrine's board of directors and a member of the board's audit committee, testified as follows: "[T]he basic point of the meeting was Arthur Anderson [Peregrine's outside accounting firm] communicating their reconsideration of their opinion with regard to [a Peregrine transaction with] Critical Path, in particular, which gave rise to general concerns regarding Arthur Anderson's opinions of our revenue recognition policy and adherence to our policies previously." [32] Plaintiffs also note that a second member of the board and audit committee, Thomas Watrous, testified in his deposition that at a board meeting in July 2001, during a discussion regarding concerns over Peregrine's accounting systems, Watrous informed the board that he had had a conversation with Matt Gless, Peregrine's chief financial officer, in April or May of that year. Watrous stated, "I asked [Gless] whether, on a scale of 1 to 10, what were the 466 systems and procedures and polices like, just in terms of adequacy, et cetera. He said it would be, on a scale of 1 to 10, a 4 or 5." Plaintiffs claim that none of this information was disclosed to the public.

In support of their contention that there were inconsistencies between information provided to the board and Peregrine's public disclosures, plaintiffs also note that their expert witness, certified public accountant Paul Regan, provided a declaration in which he stated that Peregrine's earnings releases and SEC filings were inconsistent with materials and information that had been presented to the Board, and that Peregrine's "pattern of meeting earnings expectations was inconsistent with its peer groups."

(ii) None of the evidence that plaintiffs cite creates a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' scienter

[11] With respect to the auditor's and CEO's concerns regarding Peregrine's accounting procedures, plaintiffs do not identify any statements made by defendants that were inconsistent with these concerns. Rather, plaintiffs merely state in their brief that Peregrine continued to report record revenues for the subsequent quarter. Expressions of concern among members of a firm regarding the firm's accounting procedures are not inconsistent with reports of record revenue. (See Ronconi v. Larkin, supra, 253 F.3d at p. 434 ["A company could experience 'serious operational problems,' 'substantial difficult [ies],' and 'difficult problems' and still have increasing revenues"].) Further, no *327 reasonable factfinder could infer scienter based on defendants' failure to disclose such "concerns" to the public, particularly in light of the fact that there was no testimony that the auditor informed the Board of any actual accounting irregularities.

Plaintiffs do not articulate the manner by which Peregrine's earnings releases and financial statements were purportedly inconsistent with information that had been provided to the Board. Instead, plaintiffs improperly attempt to incorporate by reference their expert's testimony on this score.[33] (See Placer County Local Agency Formation Com'n v. Nevada County Local Agency Formation Com'n (2006) 135 Cal.App.4th 793, 815, 37 Cal.Rptr.3d 729 ["We need not address this unsupported and undeveloped argument, and 467 it is improper simply to incorporate by reference papers filed in the trial court"].) In any event, nothing in the cited portions of Regan's declaration suggests that the information provided to the Board hinted at the employee fraud that was occurring at Peregrine. Thus, unlike the circumstances presented in the cases that plaintiffs cite in support of this claim, defendants did not receive information regarding a particular subject and later make public pronouncements that were at odds with such information. (Compare with City of Monroe Employees Retirement System v. Bridgestone Corp. (6th Cir.2005) 399 F.3d 651, 684 [finding a " 'divergence between internal reports and external statements on the same subject,' " where company made statement that objective data "clearly reinforces our belief that these are high-quality, safe tires," while data received by the board demonstrated serious safety concerns with tires].)[34]

Accordingly, we conclude that neither type of evidence that plaintiffs cite as representing an inconsistency between information presented to the Board and Peregrine's public disclosures creates a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' scienter.

c. The trial court's conclusion that evidence of various purported red flags did not create a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' scienter was not error

[12] Plaintiffs contend that four purported red flags identified by Regan in his declaration demonstrate that a genuine issue of material fact exists with respect to defendants' knowledge of the fraud at Peregrine. Specifically, Regan testified that defendants were aware of "channel stuffing risks," and that the issue was discussed at many Board meetings. Regan also noted that in September 1999, Peregrine's senior management informed the Board that they intended to leave the company, and also informed the Board that Peregrine was having "the toughest quarter we have experienced." Plaintiffs assert that, according to Regan, the existence of Peregrine's "constant cash crunch" while the company continued to meet or beat *328 earnings expectations constituted a "red flag that something was wrong." Finally, plaintiffs contend that, according to Regan, the fact that outsider auditors were able to quickly identify the fraud at Peregrine constituted a red flag.

The first three items of evidence to which Regan refers in his declaration demonstrate that the Board was made aware of business challenges associated with Peregrine's distribution channels, top management's employment status, and financial liquidity. However, none of the evidence cited constitutes a red 468 flag as to the "fraudulent contracts," acquisitions of companies for the purpose of "hid[ing] ... fraudulent ... revenue," and "swap transaction [s]," which, according to plaintiffs, constitute the means by which Peregrine "engaged in a long term financial fraud." Thus, while Regan identifies in his declaration evidence of potentially problematic business issues of which the Board was informed, none of the evidence cited constitutes a red flag that should have alerted defendants that Peregrine employees were engaged the types of activities that ultimately led to the necessity to restate Peregrine's financial statements. (Cf. Ronconi v. Larkin, supra, 253 F.3d at p. 434 ["[p]roblems and difficulties are the daily work of business people. That they exist does not make a lie out of any alleged false statement"].) With respect to the final alleged "red flag" that plaintiffs identify, the rapidity with which accountants who were hired to investigate Peregrine's accounting were able to identify the fraud, without more, does not constitute evidence that defendants knew about the fraud.

While Regan's declaration may support the conclusion that defendants were negligent in their oversight of the company, the declaration does not create a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' knowledge of the fraud at Peregrine. With respect to problems of excessive channel inventory, Regan opined that the audit committee should have appreciated that "there was a significant degree of risk that the channel partners, like Peregrine itself, would have been unable to identify adequate end-users for resale purposes, which ultimately put the Company at risk of either having recognized revenue inappropriately or incurring losses for failure to collect the resultant receivables." With respect to the Peregrine's continual problems with financial liquidity, Regan opined, "In my opinion, the Board, and the Audit Committee in particular, should have conducted [an] inquiry with management to understand why the Company was unable to demonstrate operating cashflow." With respect to the possibility that Peregrine's top management might choose to leave Peregrine as a result of the accumulating fraud at Peregrine, Regan states, "[I]t is ... possible that ... members of Peregrine's Board understood this motivation."

We agree with the trial court's conclusion in its summary judgment order that, while "Regan's 54 page report documents his conclusions of all of the problems with Peregrine and what should have been done as responsible directors," his declaration does not demonstrate a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' scienter because Regan does "not conclude that the outside directors were fraudulent [sic] or knew of the significant problems." Accordingly, we conclude that the trial court did not err in determining that plaintiffs' evidence of various alleged red flags does not create a genuine issue of material fact as to defendants' scienter.

469 d. Moores's receipt of an e-mail from a Peregrine employee expressing concerns about channel stuffing did not create a genuine issue of material fact as to whether defendants knew about the fraud at Peregrine[35]

[13] Plaintiffs note that on October 3, 2001, Moores received an e-mail from a *329 Peregrine employee in Australia in which the employee raised concerns about certain Peregrine contracts, including the following:

> "Come on, what are Peregrine selling here, Amway? Vapourware? Where's the commercial substance to these so called contracts ... Peregrine [has] booked the revenue. What will this do to Peregrine's partner's credibility? Or Stock Value ... [T]his is a blatant example of what can be termed 'channel stuffing' in their crudest form ... This type of contract should immediately cease and 'real' revenue be recognized, i.e., where [the] PRODUCT is actually DELIVERED and payment is probable."

Plaintiffs contend that this e-mail "lays out that which the public learned in May 2002, but which Peregrine insiders were aware of much earlier." We disagree.

The e-mail indicates that a single Peregrine employee made an allegation in October 2001 that certain Australian Peregrine contracts lacked commercial substance. Plaintiffs do not cite any evidence indicating that Moores should have viewed the e-mail as coming from a credible source. Further, plaintiffs fail to present any argument in their brief as to how the e-mail should have alerted Moores to the entirety of the fraud at Peregrine. In short, the e-mail is far too insubstantial a foundation on which to base a finding that defendants knew about the extensive fraud at Peregrine. In light of our conclusion, we need not consider defendants' contention that the e-mail does not support plaintiffs' fraud claims because Moores forwarded the e-mail to Peregrine's CEO, who assured Moores that the claims would be investigated, notwithstanding that the claims were neither significant nor credible.[36]

e. Conclusion

Whether considered individually or cumulatively, none of the evidence that plaintiffs identify in their brief raises a genuine issue of material 470 fact as to defendants' knowledge of the fraud at Peregrine. Accordingly, we conclude that plaintiffs have failed to demonstrate that the trial court erred in granting judgment as a matter of law in favor of defendants on plaintiffs' fraud and fraud related claims, on this ground.

B. The group published information doctrine does not apply in the context of a motion for summary judgment

[14] Plaintiffs contend that the trial court erred in granting judgment as a matter of law in defendants' favor on plaintiffs' fraud and fraud related causes of action on the ground that the plaintiffs failed to raise triable issues of material fact with respect to whether defendants are liable on these causes of action pursuant to the group published information doctrine. As noted previously (see fn. 4 ante), the doctrine, where applicable, allows a party to attribute collective statements *330 made by a company to individual members of the company's board of directors.[37] While the trial court's summary judgment order suggests that the court concluded that plaintiffs had failed to make a sufficient evidentiary showing to rely on this doctrine in opposing defendants' motions for summary judgment, we conclude that the group published information doctrine, or group pleading doctrine, as its alternative name suggests, is a pleading device that has no application in the summary judgment context.[38]

1. Standard of review

[15] The de novo standard of review outlined in part III.A.1., ante, applies to plaintiffs' claim that the trial court erred in failing to apply the group published information doctrine in ruling on defendants' summary judgment motion. Further, " 'If summary judgment was properly granted on any ground, we must affirm regardless of whether the court's reasoning was correct.' [Citation.]" (County of Solano v. Handlery (2007) 155 Cal.App.4th 566, 572, 66 Cal.Rptr.3d 201; accord United Services Automobile Assn. v. 471 Baggett (1989) 209 Cal.App.3d 1387, 1391, 258 Cal.Rptr. 52 ["On appeal, we are concerned with the validity of the summary judgment ruling, not its reasoning."].)[39]

*331 2. Factual and procedural background

In his motion for summary judgment, Cole argued that he could not be held liable pursuant to the group published information doctrine because he had no role in the company beyond that of an outside director. Moores and Noell did not discuss the doctrine in their motion for summary judgment.

In their opposition to defendants' motion for summary judgment, plaintiffs argued that the record contained evidence that would support a finding that defendants were liable for market manipulation under section 25400, subdivision (d), pursuant to the group published information doctrine. Specifically, plaintiffs contended that they had established that defendants could be held liable pursuant to this doctrine because plaintiffs had presented sufficient evidence to raise a triable issue of material fact as to whether defendants had a "special relationship" with Peregrine. (Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 208, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127.)

472 In his reply memorandum, Cole argued that plaintiffs had failed to present sufficient evidence to hold Cole liable pursuant to the group published information doctrine as the doctrine is described by the court in Kamen. Specifically, Cole claimed that plaintiffs' evidence did not support a credible inference that Cole "participated in the day-to-day activities of Peregrine, or had the ability to control any activities of the other defendants or Peregrine." In their reply memorandum, Noell and Moores claimed that they were entitled to summary judgment on plaintiffs' fraud and market manipulation claims because plaintiffs had not presented sufficient evidence that Noell and Moores knew that the public financial statements on which plaintiffs based their claims were false. Noell and Moores did not directly discuss the group published information doctrine in their reply memorandum.

In its order granting summary judgment, the trial court considered the potential applicability of the group pleading doctrine to plaintiffs' fraud, market manipulation, and negligent misrepresentation claims, and concluded, "[T]he totality of the evidence is that defendants had a special relationship; however, plaintiffs have not shown how this special relationship, under the facts presented, shows access to fraudulent misrepresentations...." Accordingly, the trial court concluded that plaintiffs "failed to raise a triable issue of material fact that the group pleading doctrine should be invoked...."

On appeal, defendants claim that that the group pleading doctrine is merely a pleading device that, where applicable, permits a plaintiff to satisfy the requirements of pleading fraud with particularity, and that the doctrine does not excuse a plaintiff from producing evidence of fraud in opposing a motion for summary judgment. In their reply brief, plaintiffs contend that a court may apply the group pleading doctrine on summary judgment to attribute to individual members of the corporation's board of directors false statements contained in collectively published corporate documents.

3. Case law

In Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th 197, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127, the court considered whether the trial court had properly sustained *332 the demurrer of three members of a corporation's board of directors on the ground that plaintiffs had failed to adequately plead a cause of action for market manipulation under section 25500. The Kamen court noted that in order to be liable pursuant to section 25500, a defendant must have made "misleading statements for the purpose of inducing the purchase or sale of a security." (Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 201, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127.)

473 In considering whether plaintiffs had adequately alleged such a cause of action against defendants, the Kamen court considered the potential application of the group pleading doctrine. (Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at pp. 207–208, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127.) In describing the doctrine, the Kamen court observed,

> "[I]n Stack v. Lobo (N.D.Cal.1995) 903 F.Supp. 1361, the court found that the plaintiffs had not adequately pled a cause of action against certain directors of the corporation. As the court stated, 'Ordinarily, outside directors are not involved in a corporation's day-to-day affairs. Thus, the group pleading doctrine may be invoked as to outside directors only if they: 1) participated in the day-to-day management of the part of the company involved in the alleged fraud ... or 2) had a special relationship with the corporation.' " (Ibid., fn. omitted.)

In a footnote omitted from the above quotation, the Kamen court further explained,

> " 'The Ninth Circuit has developed the group published information doctrine which it has described as follows: "In cases of corporate fraud where false and misleading information is conveyed in prospectuses, registration statements, annual reports, press releases or other 'group-published information,' it is reasonable to presume that these are the collective actions of the officers. Under such circumstances, a plaintiff fulfills the particularity requirement of [Rule 9(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (28 U.S.C.)] by pleading the misrepresentations with particularity and where possible the roles of the individual defendants in the misrepresentations." [Citation.] Subsequent decisions have extended the doctrine to cover not only officers but directors as well. [Citation.] "The rationale for group pleading is that facts about fraud flowing from the internal operation of a corporation are peculiarly, and often exclusively, within the control of the corporate insiders who manage the parts of the corporation involved in the fraud." ' (In re Interactive Network, Inc. Securities Litigation (N.D.Cal.1996) 948 F.Supp. 917, 920.)" (Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 208, fn. 8, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127.)

The Kamen court concluded that the trial court in that case had properly sustained defendants' demurrer, reasoning, "In the present case, plaintiffs failed to allege that [defendants] either participated in the day-to-day management of [the corporation] or had a special relationship with the company." (Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 208, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127.)

As suggested by the federal cases that the Kamen court quoted, the group pleading doctrine had its genesis in the pleading requirements pertaining to fraud that are contained in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. (See Wool v. Tandem Computers Inc. (9th Cir.1987) 818 F.2d 1433.) The doctrine is 474 routinely described as one used to measure the sufficiency of a plaintiff's pleadings. (In re Huffy Corp. Securities Litigation (S.D.Ohio 2008) 577 F.Supp.2d 968, 984 [citing cases].) In Winer Family Trust v. Queen (3d Cir.2007) 503 F.3d 319, 335, the United States *333 Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit described the doctrine as follows:

> "The group pleading doctrine is a judicial presumption that statements in group-published documents including annual reports and press releases are attributable to officers and directors who have day-to-day control or involvement in regular company operations. Under the doctrine, where defendants are insiders with such control or involvement, their > specific connection to fraudulent statements in group-published documents is unnecessary. [Citation.] Accordingly, the group pleading doctrine allows a plaintiff to plead that defendants made a misstatement or omission of a material fact without pleading particular facts associating the defendants to the alleged fraud."

The doctrine is far from universally accepted, particularly in the wake of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, 15 U.S.C. § 78u–4 et seq. (PSLRA), in which Congress enacted heightened pleading requirements for securities class action lawsuits. (See Winer Family Trust v. Queen, supra, 503 F.3d at pp. 335–336; see also Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd. (2007) 551 U.S. 308, fn. 6, 127 S.Ct. 2499, 2511, 168 L.Ed.2d 179 (Tellabs) ["there is disagreement among the Circuits as to whether the group pleading doctrine survived the PSLRA"].)

4. Application

There are no reported California cases in which a court has applied the group pleading doctrine in the context of a motion for summary judgment. In Kamen—the only California published case to discuss the group pleading doctrine—the court applied the doctrine to determine the adequacy of the plaintiff's pleadings.[40] (Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 208, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127.) The Kamen court noted that the doctrine had evolved in response to the requirement contained in Rule 9(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (28.U.S.C.) that fraud be pleaded with particularity. (Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at pp. 207–208, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127.) Courts in numerous federal cases describe the doctrine as one that is used to measure the sufficiency of the plaintiff's pleadings. (See, e.g., Winer Family Trust v. Queen, supra, 503 F.3d at p. 335.)

The rationale for the doctrine that the Kamen court suggests, i.e., the difficulty of obtaining information regarding the perpetrators of corporate fraud, clearly applies in the pleading context. (See In re Interactive Network, 475 Inc. Securities Litigation (N.D.Cal.1996) 948 F.Supp. 917, 921 ["The doctrine was developed to relieve plaintiffs [of] the burden of pleading exactly which members of an organization were responsible for publications of the organization in those circumstances where their access to information was particularly limited"].) The rationale for invoking the doctrine is less compelling in the context of a summary judgment, in which discovery is complete. (Cf. Winer Family Trust v. Queen, supra, 503 F.3d at p. 337 ["If a private securities case proceeds past the pleadings stage against a corporation and discovery reveals individual culpability, a plaintiff may seek permission to amend the complaint to assert claims against individual defendants"].)

*334 Plaintiffs correctly note that at least one federal district court, in an unpublished decision, relied on the group published information doctrine in denying a motion for summary judgment brought by the chairman of a board of directors. (See Golden v. Terre Linda Corp. (N.D.Ill.) 1996 WL 426760, *5 (Golden).) Plaintiffs also note that a second federal district court has suggested that the doctrine applies in the summary judgment context. The court stated, "On summary judgment, a defendant may rebut the group pleading presumption by producing evidence that he had no involvement in creating the challenged document." (In re Silicon Graphics, Inc. Securities Litigation (N.D.Cal.1997) 970 F.Supp. 746, 759 (In re Silicon Graphics).)

However, neither the Golden court nor the court in In re Silicon Graphics provided any analysis of the propriety of applying the group published information doctrine in the context of a summary judgment motion. Further, the case on which the Golden court relied, Blake v. Dierdorff (9th Cir.1988) 856 F.2d 1365, 1370, applied the doctrine in considering the sufficiency of the allegations in the plaintiff's complaint. Similarly, the In re Silicon Graphics court relied on dicta from another pleadings case, In re 3Com Securities Litig. (N.D.Cal.1990) 761 F.Supp. 1411, 1414, in suggesting that the group pleading doctrine operates as an evidentiary presumption in the summary judgment context. At least one commentator has sharply criticized the reasoning of both Golden and In re Silicon Graphics. (See Fischel, Don't Call Me a Securities Law Groupie: The Rise and Possible Demise of the "Group Pleading" Protocol In 10B–5 Cases (2001) 56 Bus. Law. 991, 1028 & fns. 118, 119 ["Some decisions, however, either misunderstand the 'group pleading' concept or wrongly expand upon it, (i) by apparently transmuting it into a rule of substantive law applicable on summary judgment motions; [citing Golden, supra, 1996 WL 426760] (ii) [or] by converting this pleading presumption into a rebuttable evidentiary presumption; [citing In re Silicon Graphics, supra, 970 F.Supp. 746]"].)

476 Neither Golden nor In re Silicon Graphics constitutes binding precedent on the issue whether the group pleading doctrine applies in the summary adjudication of California state law claims. (See Johnson v. American Standard, Inc. (2008) 43 Cal.4th 56, 69, 74 Cal.Rptr.3d 108, 179 P.3d 905.) As noted above, there is no California authority applying the doctrine in the summary judgment context, and plaintiffs do not cite any federal appellate authority holding that the group pleading doctrine may serve as the basis for defeating a motion for summary judgment in cases involving federal law. In contrast, as noted above, a number of federal appellate courts have explained that the rationale for the doctrine arises only in the context of determining the sufficiency of a plaintiff's pleadings. (See, e.g., Winer Family Trust v. Queen, supra, 503 F.3d at p. 335.) Further, the debate within the federal courts surrounding the continued validity of the group pleading doctrine in the wake of changes in pleading requirements adopted by the PLSRA (Tellabs, supra, 127 S.Ct. at p. 2511, fn. 6), supports the conclusion that the doctrine is one that applies, if at all, only in determining the sufficiency of a plaintiff's pleadings.

We conclude that the group pleading doctrine does not apply in determining whether a party has presented sufficient evidence of its claims to avoid summary judgment, under California law. We therefore further conclude that the trial court properly determined that that the group pleading doctrine did not apply to *335 create a disputed issue of material fact in this case.

C. The trial court did not err in sustaining Noell's and Moores's demurrers to plaintiffs' section 25504 claim in plaintiffs' second amended complaint

[16] Plaintiffs claim that the trial court erred in sustaining Noell's and Moores's demurrers to plaintiffs' section 25504 claim. We conclude that plaintiffs have failed to provide an adequate record to permit appellate review of this claim.[41]

1. Factual and procedural background

Plaintiffs filed a first amended complaint against defendants in which plaintiffs alleged, among other causes of action, that defendants were liable pursuant to section 25504.[42] Section 25504 establishes civil liability for every 477 person who "directly or indirectly controls a person liable under Section 25501 or 25503...." Section 25501, in turn, establishes liability for persons who violate section 25401, which generally prohibits making untrue statements in the purchase or sale of securities.[43]

Defendants each filed separate demurrers to plaintiffs' first amended complaint.[44] On July 8, 2004, the trial court entered an order granting defendant Cole's demurrer with leave to amend, on the ground that the allegations of the first amended complaint were conclusory. In the same order, the court stated, "The demurrers to the fourth cause of action against the Peregrine defendants [including Moores and Noell] are overruled for violation of [section] 25504 (control person liability for Peregrine's violations of [section] 25401). Plaintiffs have alleged sufficient facts to show that these defendants had control of day-to-day activities of Peregrine."

On October 28, the trial court entered a tentative order granting defendant Moores's and Noell's motions for reconsideration. Neither the motions nor the opposition to the motions is in the record on appeal. In its tentative order, the court further stated, "The demurrers of defendants [Moores] and [Noell] to the fourth cause of action [for a violation of § 25504] are sustained, with leave to amend, only if plaintiffs can establish they purchased their stock directly from defendants." The court noted that it had inadvertently overlooked the privity requirement for a section 25504 cause of action in its in July 8, 2004 order.

On November 15, the court stated that it had considered the motions to reconsider, the opposition to the motion, and Moores's and Noell's demurrers to the second amended complaint.[45] The appellate record does not contain the briefing on the motions for reconsideration, the second amended complaint, or Moores's or Noell's demurrers thereto. In the November 15 order, the court also confirmed its tentative *336 ruling sustaining the demurrers with leave to amend.

In December 2005, plaintiffs filed a fourth amended complaint. This complaint alleges a cause of action against Cole for a violation of section 25504. The complaint states, "THE PEREGRINE DEFENDANTS were each 478 control persons of PEREGRINE and each other as defined by Corporations Code [section] 25504 and caused PEREGRINE to commit violations of Corporations Code [section] 25400 and [section] 25402, and are therefore jointly and severally liable with PEREGRINE." The claim also states, "This cause of Action is Only Pleaded Against ... Cole, Based on this Court's Order of November 15, 2004. Plaintiffs Reserve All Rights for Appeal."

On February 15, 2006, the trial court entered a dismissal, without prejudice, of the fourth cause of action alleging a violation of section 25504 against Cole, pursuant to a stipulation of the parties. The stipulation and order essentially provides that in the event of a reversal of the November 14, 2004 order[46] sustaining the demurrers of Moores and Noell to plaintiffs' section 25504 claim, the order of dismissal of the section 25504 cause of action against Cole would be vacated.

2. Standard of review

[17] [18] [19] "In evaluating a trial court's order sustaining a demurrer, we review the complaint 'de novo to determine whether it contains sufficient facts to state a cause of action.' [Citation.]" (Peterson v. Cellco Partnership (2008) 164 Cal.App.4th 1583, 1589, 80 Cal.Rptr.3d 316.) Further, "we review the trial court's result for error, and not its legal reasoning. [Citation.]" (Davies v. Sallie Mae, Inc. (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 1086, 1090, 86 Cal.Rptr.3d 136.) Finally, "It is well settled ... that a party challenging a judgment has the burden of showing reversible error by an adequate record." (Ballard v. Uribe (1986) 41 Cal.3d 564, 574, 224 Cal.Rptr. 664, 715 P.2d 624.)

3. Application

Plaintiffs seek reversal of the trial court's November 15, 2004 order sustaining Noell's and Moores's demurrers to plaintiffs' second amended complaint.[47] However, plaintiffs have failed to include in the record either the operative complaint or the demurrers, thus making it impossible for this court to review the complaint de novo to determine whether it states a cause of action. On that basis alone, we must reject plaintiffs' claim. (See Ballard v. Uribe, supra, 41 Cal.3d at p. 574, 224 Cal.Rptr. 664, 715 P.2d 624.)

479 Plaintiffs assert in their brief, consistent with the plain language of section 25504, that "To establish control person liability under [section] 25504, plaintiffs must plead that defendants were in control of a person liable under [sections] 25501, 25503."[48] (Italics added.) However, the only complaint that is in the record—the fourth amended complaint—does not allege that any defendant was in control of a *337 person liable pursuant to section 25501 or 25503.[49] Rather, plaintiffs allege in the fourth amended complaint that Cole is liable for a violation of section 25504 based on Peregrine's alleged violations of sections 25400 and 25402. Plaintiffs provide no argument or authority to the effect that a plaintiff may establish control person liability pursuant to section 25504 for a company's violations of sections 25400 or 25402. Thus, even assuming that plaintiffs' second amended complaint contained allegations as to all defendants identical to those contained in the fourth amended complaint as to Cole, plaintiffs still have failed to demonstrate that they have, or could have, stated a section 25504 claim.

[20] Finally, even assuming that plaintiffs had provided an adequate record of their claims, and assuming further that plaintiffs had alleged that one or more of the defendants were liable pursuant to section 25504 for Peregrine's violations of section 25501, plaintiffs concede that "privity is required between the buyer and seller under [section] 25501...." (In re ZZZZ Best Securities Litigation (C.D.Cal.) 1990 WL 132715, *17 ["controlled party is the one who must be in privity with the plaintiffs, not the controlling person"].) However, plaintiffs have not alleged, or demonstrated that they could allege, that they purchased stock from Peregrine. Thus, assuming that the trial court erred in suggesting in its July 8, 2004 order that plaintiffs were required to allege that they purchased securities from defendants, rather than from Peregrine, plaintiffs have not demonstrated that they could allege that they purchased securities from Peregrine.[50] Plaintiffs have thus failed to demonstrate that they could amend their complaint to allege that defendants were in control of a person liable under 25501 or 25503, as plaintiffs themselves acknowledge is required for section 25504 liability to potentially attach. (See Davies v. Sallie Mae, Inc., supra, 168 Cal.App.4th at p. 1090, 86 Cal.Rptr.3d 136 [" 'The plaintiff has the burden of 480 proving that an amendment would cure the defect' "].) We therefore affirm the trial court's November 15, 2004 order, and its related February 15, 2006 order.

D. The trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to stay the proceedings

[21] Plaintiffs claim that the trial court erred in denying their motion to stay the case. We review the trial court's denial of plaintiffs' motion for a stay under the abuse of discretion standard of review. (See Avant! Corp. v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 876, 889, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505 (Avant!) [applying abuse of discretion standard of review in determining whether trial court erred in denying party's motion to stay proceedings in light of pending related criminal proceeding].)

1. Factual and procedural background

On or about September 4, 2007, plaintiffs filed a memorandum of points and authorities in support of a request to stay *338 all proceedings in the case.[51] In their motion for a stay, plaintiffs requested that the court stay all proceedings in the case for a period of one year, or "until the primary witnesses who are unavailable due to the parallel criminal action are available." In their motion, plaintiffs noted that they had concurrently filed an affidavit seeking to continue the hearing on defendants' motions for summary judgment in order to allow plaintiffs to obtain additional evidence pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 437c, subdivision (h).[52]

The gist of both the motion to stay the proceedings and the affidavit to continue the summary judgment hearing was that plaintiffs had been unable to gather important evidence from 28 witnesses, such as "key [Peregrine] employees and outside auditors...." Plaintiffs noted that they had been unable to gather this evidence because these witnesses were exercising their privilege against self-incrimination and had refused to provide "any substantive testimony," in view of pending or potential criminal proceedings concerning the witnesses' knowledge of and/or participation in the fraud at Peregrine. Plaintiffs claimed that it would be unfair to force them to trial 481 without the unavailable witnesses' evidence, and that it would be "patently unfair" to dismiss their case for having failed to bring the case to trial within five years pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 583.310.[53]

Defendants filed a joint opposition to plaintiffs' motion to stay the proceedings.[54] In their opposition, defendants contended that plaintiffs had identified nothing in the voluminous discovery already undertaken that demonstrated that defendants had been aware of the ongoing fraud, nor had plaintiffs identified anything that suggested that they could uncover such evidence if witnesses who were asserting their Fifth Amendment rights were to provide testimony in the case. Defendants asserted that they had a strong interest in concluding the litigation, and claimed that they would be prejudiced if the court were to enter an "indefinite stay." Defendants noted that they had already produced documents and had been deposed, and that plaintiffs' request for a stay was premised on nothing more than the "hope that material allegations not otherwise supported by a large and rich record will find support if and when witnesses with non-unique perspectives cease to assert their privilege against self-incrimination."

The trial court held a hearing on plaintiffs' motion to stay the proceedings and their motion to continue the hearing on defendants' motions for summary judgment. *339 After hearing argument from all counsel, the court confirmed its tentative ruling denying both motions.[55]

In denying the motion for a stay, the trial court noted that the case had been pending since February 2003, and that the court had granted previous requests by plaintiffs to continue the summary judgment proceedings. The court also noted that it had stayed the case for "multiple-year periods of time at the request of various parties...." The trial court remarked that in delaying the proceedings on previous occasions, the court had acted with the hope that the parallel criminal proceedings would be "somewhere close to resolution," and added that "the criminal proceeding is still ongoing and when it will be completed is, I think, at best, speculative." The court further noted that some witnesses might not be available to provide substantive testimony in this case for as long as 10 years, given the applicable statutes of limitations on various potential criminal charges.

The court stated:

> 482 "I believe that we have reached the point in this case where the balance has swung in favor of moving forward with the litigation. The factors in [Pacers, Inc. v. Superior Court (1984) 162 Cal.App.3d 686, 689, 208 Cal.Rptr. 743 (Pacers)] in terms of prejudice to those who may have to choose whether to exercise a Fifth Amendment privilege at the risk of financial penalty in the civil case has been a factor that's caused me to continue this case in the past, but counter-balancing that is the concern and right of those charged with significant wrongdoing, including fraud and punitive damages allegations to have a day in court.

"All the cases recognize the court's discretion under these circumstances, and also the cases note, particularly, the [Fuller v. Superior Court (2001) 87 Cal.App.4th 299, 104 Cal.Rptr.2d 525 (Fuller)] case, the factors that are also at play in terms of the Delay Reduction Act [Gov.Code § 68600 et seq.] and moving cases forward.

"The fact [is] that over time there's loss of memory, and thus, evidence, witnesses become unavailable either personally and/or by way of loss of memory and other evidence becomes more difficult to obtain or is lost. Under the entirety of the circumstances of this case, it does not appear to me that granting a stay for an additional year would get us anywhere meaningful [sic] in this case. I think we'd be where we are now after me having granted numerous stays in the past where the criminal process will be ongoing."

In denying plaintiffs' request to continue the summary judgment proceedings, the trial court ruled that plaintiffs had failed to establish the nature of the evidence that they contended was unavailable. The court also stated that plaintiffs had failed to demonstrate that there was a reasonable likelihood that such evidence actually existed, noting that voluminous discovery had already been undertaken, unimpeded by the criminal proceedings. The court further noted that "a great deal of information" had been generated regarding all of the "key periods" in the case, and that plaintiffs had still failed to demonstrate with "any specificity as to exactly who and what would be disclosed," if the court were to continue the hearing on defendants' motion for summary judgment. [56]

340 2. The law governing the issuance of stays of civil proceedings in light of pending related criminal proceedings

In Pacers, supra, 162 Cal.App.3d at page 689, 208 Cal.Rptr. 743, defendants in a civil suit faced with a potential criminal proceeding 483 arising out of the same alleged underlying incident sought to stay the taking of their depositions for approximately two years, when the statute of limitations for potential criminal charges would have lapsed. The Pacers court concluded that the trial court erred in denying defendants' request, reasoning, "An order staying discovery until expiration of the criminal statute of limitations would allow real parties to prepare their lawsuit while alleviating petitioners' difficult choice between defending either the civil or criminal case." (Id. at p. 690, 208 Cal.Rptr. 743; see also Fuller, supra, 87 Cal.App.4th 299, 104 Cal.Rptr.2d 525 [discussing request for stay of deposition by defendant who invokes his privilege against self-incrimination during discovery in civil litigation to avoid exposure to criminal prosecution].)

In Avant!, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th 876, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505, a corporate defendant in a civil action sought a stay of proceedings during the pendency of a related criminal proceeding in which the corporation, as well as several its current or former employees, were defendants. In concluding that the trial court had not abused its discretion in denying the motion to stay, the Avant! court listed the factors that a trial court should consider in ruling on such a motion:

" 'The decision whether to stay civil proceedings in the face of a parallel criminal proceeding should be made "in light of the particular circumstances and competing interests involved in the case." [Citation.] This means the decisionmaker should consider "the extent to which the [party seeking the stay's] fifth amendment rights are implicated." [Citation.] In addition, the decisionmaker should generally consider the following factors: (1) the interest of the [party opposing the stay] in proceeding expeditiously with this litigation or any particular aspect of it, and the potential prejudice to [the party opposing the stay] of a delay; (2) the burden which any particular aspect of the proceedings may impose on [the party seeking the stay]; (3) the convenience of the court in the management of its cases, and the efficient use of judicial resources; (4) the interests of persons not parties to the civil litigation; and (5) the interest of the public in the pending civil and criminal litigation. [Citation.]' [Citation.]" (Id. at p. 885, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505.) [57]

With regard to the corporation's interests, the Avant! court noted that the corporation itself did not have any Fifth Amendment interests to protect. The court stated that the employees' interests in staying the proceedings were not to be "reviewed on Fifth Amendment grounds, but on abuse of discretion grounds even where the employees are defendants and the request for admissions and interrogatory are directed to those employees." (Avant!, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 886, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505.) The Avant! court observed that the trial court had *341 484 protected against any potential infringement on the employees' privileges against self-incrimination by limiting the scope of plaintiffs' discovery requests to non-privileged information. (Id. at pp. 886–887, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505.)

With regard to the interest of the party opposing the stay, the Avant! court stated, "[T]here is hardly a question of the interest of [the party opposing the stay] in proceeding expeditiously with this litigation or any particular aspect of it," and observed that granting a stay would " 'would increase the danger of prejudice resulting from the loss of evidence, including the inability of witnesses to recall specific facts, or the possible death of a party.' [Citation.]" (Avant!, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 887, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505.) The Avant! court continued, "Clearly, denial of the stay motion promotes the convenience of the court in the management of its cases." (Id. at p. 888, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505.) Finally, the court noted that denial of the request for a stay promoted the public's interest's in maintaining "a system that encourages individuals to come to court for the settlement of their disputes." (Id. at p. 889, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505.)

Pacers, Fuller, and Avant! each involved a defendant or defendants who were facing potential criminal prosecution and sought to stay pending parallel civil litigation. The parties have not cited, and we are not aware of, any California authority that involves a plaintiff's motion to stay litigation against a defendant in order to allow the plaintiff to attempt to obtain evidence from witnesses (or other defendants) who have invoked their privilege against self-incrimination. Plaintiffs in this case cite County of Orange v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 759, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261 (County of Orange), in which the parents of a murdered child brought an action that included claims for defamation and civil rights violations against the county and its sheriff's department arising from the criminal investigation into the murder. (Id. at p. 762, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261.) While the murder remained unsolved, the parents alleged that the sheriff's department had publicly indicated that the parents were suspects in the murder. (Ibid.) Three days after filing their complaint, the parents sought "in effect ... the entire investigative file relating to [the child's] murder." (Ibid.) The county refused to produce the file, contending that its contents were protected by the official information privilege codified in Evidence Code section 1040, subdivision (b)(2). (County of Orange, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at pp. 762–763, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261.) On the parents' motion to compel, the trial court ordered that the file be produced. (Id. at p. 763, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261.) The county sought writ relief from the Court of Appeal. (Ibid.)

In issuing a writ of mandate to prevent disclosure of the file, the County of Orange court noted that "[T]he contents of police investigative files sought in civil discovery must remain confidential so long as the need for confidentiality outweighs the benefits of disclosure in any particular case." (County of Orange, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 765, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261.) In considering whether the need 485 for confidentiality continued to exist in that case, the County of Orange court stated:

> "We conclude on the record before us that the public interest in solving [the child's] homicide and bringing the perpetrator(s) to justice outweighed the [parents'] interest in obtaining the discovery sought, at least at the time this matter was considered below. We recognize the rather arbitrary nature of this conclusion, but the order we review was made less than a year after this civil action was filed." (Id. at p. 767, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261.)

The County of Orange court also commented that rather than immediately providing *342 the parents with the contents of the file, the trial court should have stayed discovery or, if necessary, stayed the action, in order to allow the County the opportunity to investigate the murder:

> "The appropriate remedy in this case is for the trial court to stay discovery of investigative information in the civil action in order to allow the sheriff's department the necessary time to investigate. (Pacers, [supra,] 162 Cal.App.3d [at p. 690, 208 Cal.Rptr. 743].) And, should that become necessary, the trial court should stay the entire action in the interest of justice to avoid a potential statutory dismissal. [Citation.] We are cognizant of the [parents'] concern that the County not be allowed to 'immunize [itself from] any lawsuit by the [parents] forever simply by keeping the case open.' Our order is intended to preserve the confidentiality of the investigative file for some reasonable period of time, but not forever." (County of Orange, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 768, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261.)

The County of Orange court reasoned that after a reasonable period of time, "the balance will have swung in favor of giving the [parents] limited access to that information in the file which may help develop their case against the County. In other words, with the passage of time, changing circumstances will inevitably reverse the balance of competing interests under [Evidence Code] section 1040, subdivision (b)(2)." (County of Orange, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at pp. 768–769, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261, italics omitted.)

3. Application

[22] In their opening brief on appeal, plaintiffs argue in a conclusory fashion that the trial court "failed to fashion any remedy to meet the needs of the plaintiffs," by allowing defendants to "force plaintiffs to trial without the evidence from any of the key auditors or management who attended the board meetings." [58] However, plaintiffs provide no argument regarding specific evidence that they contend was unavailable to them (failing to provide in their opening brief even the names of witnesses whose testimony 486 they were unable to obtain), and do not address the likelihood that the related criminal proceedings would be resolved within a reasonable period of time so as to allow plaintiffs to obtain such evidence. Plaintiffs also do not discuss the alleged inadequacy of the other discovery they obtained in the case. [59] Plaintiffs have failed to demonstrate that evidence favorable to their position even exists. (See Birge ex rel. Mickens v. Dollar General Corp. (W.D.Tenn.) 2005 WL 3448044, *4 [denying company's motion to stay proceeding until the resolution of related criminal proceeding where "there is simply no indication whether the 'unavailable evidence,' that is, the criminal defendants' testimony ... will be favorable or unfavorable to [proponent of stay]"].)

Plaintiffs also fail to address the reasons the trial court gave for denying the motion *343 to stay (see pt. III.D.1., ante), and thus fail to demonstrate that the trial court abused its discretion. In addition, applying the Avant!, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th 876, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505 factors to this case reveals that plaintiffs have no Fifth Amendment interests to protect, defendants' interest in proceeding with the litigation had become weightier given the length of time the case had been pending, plaintiffs failed to articulate with any particularity the burden they would face if the case were not stayed, and the interests of both the general public and the trial court in expeditiously dispensing justice weighed against further delaying the proceedings. (Id. at p. 885.)

There is no California authority that even remotely suggests that the trial court abused its discretion under the circumstances of this case. The case on which plaintiffs rely most heavily, County of Orange, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th 759, 768, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 261, endorsed a temporary stay so that plaintiffs who had been named as suspects in a murder investigation would not obtain access to the contents of the prosecution's criminal investigatory file through civil discovery. Nothing in that case suggests that a plaintiff is entitled to a stay of litigation based upon the difficulty of obtaining evidence from witnesses who are invoking their Fifth Amendment rights.

We conclude that the trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying plaintiffs' motion to stay the proceedings.

487 IV.

DISPOSITION

The judgment is affirmed.

WE CONCUR: McCONNELL, P.J., and HUFFMAN, J.

All Citations

172 Cal.App.4th 445, 91 Cal.Rptr.3d 309, Blue Sky L. Rep. P 74,761, 09 Cal. Daily Op. Serv. 3564, 2009 Daily Journal D.A.R. 4259

Footnotes

1 Only plaintiffs, and Moores, Noell, and Cole, are parties to this appeal.

2 We base our introduction on the only complaint that is in the record plaintiffs' fourth amended complaint.

3 Cole filed a motion for summary judgment. Thereafter, Noell and Moores filed a joint motion for summary judgment.

4 As we explain in detail in part III.B., post, the group published information doctrine is a pleading doctrine that, where applicable, allows a party to attribute statements made in a company's public documents, such as annual reports and press releases, to individual members of the company's board of directors. (See Kamen v. Lindly (2001) 94 Cal.App.4th 197, 208, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127 & fn. 8 (Kamen).)

5 Although the demurrers are not in the record on appeal, the trial court's November 2004 order sustaining the demurrers is in the record.

6 Unless otherwise specified, all subsequent statutory references are to the Corporations Code. Section 25504 provides for a form of vicarious liability for violations of certain California statutory securities law provisions for those who "directly or indirectly control [ ] a person" liable for such violations.

7 Plaintiffs did not allege this cause of action against Moores and Noell in light of the trial court's November 2004 order sustaining their demurrers to this claim. As discussed in detail in part III.C., post, the court subsequently dismissed plaintiffs' section 25504 claim against Cole without prejudice, pursuant to a stipulation between plaintiffs and Cole whereby plaintiffs preserved their right to reinstate their claim against Cole in the event that this court reverses the trial court's November 2004 order.

8 The trial court's use of the term "defendants" included the Peregrine employees who are not parties to this appeal.

9 We discuss in part III.A.3., post, each of the types of evidence that plaintiffs contend, in their opening brief on appeal, supports reversal of the trial court's grant of summary judgment.

10 While this appeal was pending, defendants filed a motion to strike plaintiffs' reply appendix on the ground that the documents contained therein were not in the summary judgment record that was before the trial court. Defendants also requested that this court strike from plaintiffs' reply brief any references to these documents. Plaintiffs filed an opposition to the motion to strike and requested that this court take judicial notice of the documents. Defendants opposed this request. In their opposition to the motion to strike, plaintiffs claimed that the documents address "new issues and defenses raised by [defendants] in their [briefs on appeal]." The documents pertain to a federal proceeding that arose out of the accounting irregularities at Peregrine, a United States Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) filing concerning one of the companies that Peregrine acquired for the alleged purpose of hiding the improper accounting practices, some draft minutes from a meeting of the Peregrine board of directors, and an excerpt from Moores' deposition.

We conclude that neither the documents in plaintiffs' reply appendix nor the issues to which they purportedly respond are material to our disposition of this case. Accordingly, we deny plaintiffs' request for judicial notice and deny as moot defendants' motion to strike.

11 In describing the elements of common law fraud, California courts have used the term "scienter" to refer to a defendant's knowledge of the falsity of a statement. (See Unterberger v. Red Bull North America, Inc. (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 414, 423, 75 Cal.Rptr.3d 368 (Unterberger).)

12 As we explain below, plaintiffs clearly, albeit inadequately, raise a separate appellate claim regarding their cause of action for negligent misrepresentation (Seventh Cause of Action).

13 The term "channel stuffing" refers generally to the practice of " ' "oversupply[ing] ... distributors in one quarter to artificially inflate sales, which will then drop in the next quarter as the distributors no longer make orders, while they deplete their excess supply." ' " (In re Connetics Corp. Securities Litigation (N.D.Cal.2008) 542 F.Supp.2d 996, 1011.)

14 Plaintiffs' brief on appeal focuses exclusively on the knowledge of falsity element of their fraud and fraud related causes of action, on the ground that a failure of proof as to this element was the sole basis for the trial court's summary judgment order with respect to plaintiffs' First, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Ninth, Tenth, and Twelfth Causes of Action.

15 Plaintiffs do not contend that California law should differ from federal law on this issue. In their opening brief, plaintiffs acknowledge that "[t]he relevant factors to consider in determining if the trades are suspicious are: 1) the amount and percentage of shares sold by insiders; 2) the timing of sales; and 3) whether the sales were consistent with the insider's prior trading history."

16 Plaintiffs further contend that "in four consecutive board meetings starting in April 1999, Moores, Noell, and Cole were told in writing by management and by Peregrine's auditors that Peregrine was engaged in channel stuffing activities," and that "[i]n the nine months leading up to this massive stock sell-off, Moores, Noell, and Cole were repeatedly told of Peregrine's serious financial troubles and difficulties generating revenue." (Italics added.)

17 It appears that the discovery referee in fact made no such finding. In the discovery order to which plaintiffs refer in their brief, the referee considered various federal cases in determining whether evidence of Cole's use of the proceeds of his sale of Peregrine's stock was relevant to plaintiffs' claims. On the page of the record that plaintiffs cite in their brief, the discovery referee states, "Based upon the cases discussed in the previous section, it would seem that suspicious insider trading is circumstantial evidence of knowledge...." We do not read this statement as constituting a finding that the Cole's stock sales were in fact suspicious. Further, even assuming that the discovery referee had made such a finding, it would have no relevance to this appeal, in light of the applicable de novo standard of review. (See pt. III.A.2., ante.)

18 In their reply brief, plaintiffs appear to contend that all of defendants' stock sales in the period February 1999 through February 2000 were suspicious. We need not consider this argument, since plaintiffs raise it for the first time in reply without having made any showing of good cause for failing to raise the argument in their opening brief. (See Shade Foods, Inc. v. Innovative Products Sales & Marketing, Inc. (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 847, 894, fn. 10, 93 Cal.Rptr.2d 364 [" ' "points raised in the reply brief for the first time will not be considered, unless good reason is shown for failure to present them before" ' "].)

19 These statements appear on each of the three bar graphs. The statements summarize nonpublic information that plaintiffs contend led defendants to sell stock in February 2000. We need not describe in detail the evidence on which plaintiffs base these summaries, in light of our conclusion that plaintiffs have failed to identify evidence from which this court can conclude that defendants' February 2000 stock sales were sufficiently suspicious to give rise to a triable issue of fact as to defendants' scienter. However, we do discuss in the text of this opinion the evidence on which plaintiffs rely to support their assertions regarding information that defendants gained in January 2000, in light of the temporal proximity to the February 2000 sales.

20 Plaintiffs fail to cite to any SEC forms in the record evidencing Moores's sales of Peregrine stocks in the year 1998. However, the graph in plaintiffs' brief suggests that Moores sold at least 2,500,000 shares of Peregrine stock in 1998. We assume for purposes of this opinion that plaintiffs' graph is correct.

21 We emphasize that these are approximations gleaned from the graphs presented in plaintiffs' briefs on appeal.

22 In their brief, plaintiffs also cite to exhibit number 3080, entitled "Moores Group—Sale of Peregrine Stock." This exhibit summarizes in tabular form on a yearly basis: (1) the total number of Peregrine shares sold by Moores and his wife, as well as various affiliated entities or trusts, from 1999–2002; (2) the total amount of proceeds of from those sales; (3) the cost of the shares, and (4) the gain or loss from the sales. Plaintiffs make no argument with respect to the evidence presented in this exhibit in their opening brief.

23 By "total holdings" we mean the total number of shares that a defendant held over the entire time period represented in plaintiffs' graphs.

24 Plaintiffs raise no argument in their opening brief concerning the particular dates on which defendants sold stock. Plaintiffs summarize defendants' sales on a monthly basis.

25 Although not indicated on the page of the record that plaintiffs cite, we assume for purposes of this opinion that plaintiffs presented evidence demonstrating that Bigelow made these statements to the audit committee in January 2000, as plaintiffs contend in their brief.

26 Cole contends that the evidence is irrelevant as to him because he "was not a member of the Audit Committee and never heard Bigelow's remarks." In light of our conclusion that one cannot reasonably infer knowledge of fraud at Peregrine from either Bigelow's January 2000 statements and/or from defendants' sales of stock in February 2000, we need not consider Cole's contention.

27 Immediately after making this comment during his deposition, Bigelow acknowledged that his accounting firm continued to issue a "clean opinion" on Peregrine's financial statements notwithstanding these concerns.

28 The fact that the fraud at Peregrine continued for approximately two years after February 2000 further weakens any potential inference that one might draw from the timing of the February 2000 stock sales.

29 The record on appeal contains evidence related to this issue, but plaintiffs made no argument regarding the relevance of this evidence in their opening brief. "It is not [this court's] place to construct theories or arguments to undermine the judgment and defeat the presumption of correctness." (Benach v. County of Los Angeles (2007) 149 Cal.App.4th 836, 852, 57 Cal.Rptr.3d 363.)

30 As with Moores, plaintiffs fail to cite to any SEC forms in the record evidencing Noell's sales of Peregrine stocks in the year 1998. However, the graph in plaintiffs' brief, which we assume to be accurate, suggests that Noell sold approximately 30,000 shares of Peregrine stock in February 1998.

31 Although Cole does not indicate in his declaration the number of shares sold, he refers to the operative complaint, in which plaintiffs allege such information. We assume for purposes of this opinion that plaintiffs' graph is accurate.

32 Elsewhere in their brief, plaintiffs note that Peregrine's transaction with Critical Path was later determined to have had no actual economic value.

33 Plaintiffs' entire argument on this point in their opening brief consists of the following: "Plaintiffs submitted expert testimony about other inconsistencies in Peregrine's public disclosures. [Citation.] Specifically the expert testimony points out that 1) Peregrine's earnings statements were inconsistent with the Reviews and Outlooks [citation]; 2) Peregrine's SEC Filings were inconsistent with the Reviews and Outlooks (written reports to the board from the CEO) [citation]; and 3) Peregrine's pattern of meeting earnings expectations was inconsistent with its peer groups [citation]."

34 One could not reasonably draw an inference of scienter from the fact that Peregrine appeared to be performing better than most of its competitors.

35 Plaintiffs do not contend in their brief that Cole or Noell received the e-mail.

36 Plaintiffs acknowledge in their brief that Moores forwarded the e-mail to the chief executive officer, stating, "I can't figure out why the hell he is complaining...." Plaintiffs also state in their brief that a Peregrine employee named Carleen Scott sent Moores an e-mail in which she stated, "I believe there are some circumstances in this situation that you may want to be aware of." However, plaintiffs do not provide any further description of Scott's e-mail or its significance. Accordingly, we conclude that plaintiffs have failed to explain how evidence of Scott's e-mail demonstrates that a reasonable fact finder could find that defendants knew about the fraud at Peregrine.

37 It is unclear from plaintiffs' opening brief which causes of action they contend must be reinstated on the basis of the group published information doctrine. In their reply brief, plaintiffs contend that the group published information doctrine applies to their negligent misrepresentation (Seventh Cause of Action) and market manipulation (§§ 25400, subd. (d), 25500) (First Cause of Action) claims. However, we assume for purposes of this opinion plaintiffs intend that this claim apply to all of their fraud or fraud related causes of action (Fifth, Sixth, Ninth, Tenth, and Twelfth Causes of Action).

38 The group pleading doctrine is "alternatively referred to as the 'group published' doctrine...." (In re Intelligroup Securities Litigation (D.N.J.2007) 527 F.Supp.2d 262, 281, fn. 8.)

39 Code of Civil Procedure section 437c, subdivision (m)(2) provides: "Before a reviewing court affirms an order granting summary judgment or summary adjudication on a ground not relied upon by the trial court, the reviewing court shall afford the parties an opportunity to present their views on the issue by submitting supplemental briefs. The supplemental briefing may include an argument that additional evidence relating to that ground exists, but that the party has not had an adequate opportunity to present the evidence or to conduct discovery on the issue. The court may reverse or remand based upon the supplemental briefing to allow the parties to present additional evidence or to conduct discovery on the issue. If the court fails to allow supplemental briefing, a rehearing shall be ordered upon timely petition of any party."

Whether our holding in this case regarding the group pleading doctrine constitutes an alternative ground for affirming the summary judgment, or merely different reasoning is debatable. (Cf. People v. Alice (2007) 41 Cal.4th 668, 679, 61 Cal.Rptr.3d 648, 161 P.3d 163 [construing similar provision in Government Code section 68081 and concluding, "The parties need only have been given an opportunity to brief the issue decided by the court and the fact that a party does not address an issue, mode of analysis, or authority that is raised or fairly included within the issues raised does not implicate the protections of section 68081"].) In any event, assuming that one could characterize our rejection of this claim as being based on an alternative ground for affirming the trial court's summary judgment, supplemental briefing was not required in this case because the parties have already been provided "an opportunity to present their views on the issue." (Code of Civ. Proc., § 437c, subd. (m)(2).) Defendants directly addressed the issue in their briefs, and plaintiffs addressed it in their reply brief. The purpose of section 437c, subdivision (m)(2) has thus been fully met. (See Byars v. SCME Mortgage Bankers, Inc. (2003) 109 Cal.App.4th 1134, 1147, 135 Cal.Rptr.2d 796 [concluding supplemental briefing not required pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 437c, subdivision (m)(2) where issue was raised below and on appeal].) Further, the question whether the group pleading doctrine applies in the summary judgment context is purely a legal one; plaintiffs thus have not been denied the "opportunity to present [relevant] evidence or to conduct discovery on the issue." (Code of Civ. Proc., § 437c, subd. (m)(2).)

40 Although Kamen involved only a market manipulation cause of action (Kamen, supra, 94 Cal.App.4th at p. 199, 114 Cal.Rptr.2d 127), we assume for purposes of this opinion that the group pleading doctrine may also apply to negligent misrepresentation and fraud claims under California law.

41 Based on the limited record that we do have regarding this issue, the claim appears to have no merit.

42 The record on appeal does not contain the first amended complaint.

43 Section 25503, which does not appear to have any relevance to this case, establishes liability for persons who violate other sections of the Corporations Code, and specifies the damages that a plaintiff may recover for such violations.

44 Those demurrers also are not contained in the record. Cole apparently also joined in Moores's demurrer.

45 In its November 15 order, the trial court referred to a single "Motion to Reconsider." However, in its tentative order, the court indicated that Moores and Noell had each filed a motion for reconsideration.

46 The parties were referring to the court's November 15, 2004 order.

47 On November 15, 2004, the trial court granted Noell's and Moores's motions for reconsideration of its July 8, 2004 order in which it overruled Noell's and Moores's demurrers to the first amended complaint. In addition, the court sustained, with leave to amend, Noell's and Moores's demurrers to plaintiffs' second amended complaint. As noted previously, none of these demurrers or complaints are in the record.

48 As noted previously, section 25504 establishes liability for a person who "directly or indirectly controls a person liable under Section 25501 or 25503...."

49 We omit any further discussion of section 25503, since there is nothing in plaintiffs' brief that suggests that plaintiffs ever sought to predicate their section 25504 claim on liability established under section 25503. Based on the trial court's July 8, 2004 order, it appears that plaintiffs may have predicated their section 25504 claim in their first amended complaint on alleged liability under 25501 for an alleged violation of section 25401.

50 Plaintiffs do not contest Noell and Moores's assertion in their appellate brief that plaintiffs "purchased their stock on the open market, not directly from [defendants] or Peregrine."

51 The file-stamped copy of the memorandum is not in the record. Further, no motion to stay is contained in the record. We refer to the memorandum in support of the motion to stay as the motion to stay.

52 Code of Civil Procedure, section 437c, subdivision (h) provides: "If it appears from the affidavits submitted in opposition to a motion for summary judgment or summary adjudication or both that facts essential to justify opposition may exist but cannot, for reasons stated, then be presented, the court shall deny the motion, or order a continuance to permit affidavits to be obtained or discovery to be had or may make any other order as may be just. The application to continue the motion to obtain necessary discovery may also be made by ex parte motion at any time on or before the date the opposition response to the motion is due."

53 In their motion to stay, plaintiffs noted that the five-year deadline was approximately one year away and that granting their motion would toll the running of the five-year period.

54 Noell and Moores also filed a joint opposition, and Cole filed a separate opposition, to plaintiffs' affidavit in support of their request to continue the summary judgment proceedings.

55 The record on appeal does not contain the court's tentative ruling.

56 Plaintiffs have not raised any claim on appeal regarding the trial court's denial of their motion to continue the summary judgment proceeding. Plaintiffs challenge only the trial court's denial of their motion to stay the proceedings.

57 In Avant!, the defendant sought the stay and the plaintiff opposed the defendant's request. (Avant!, supra, 79 Cal.App.4th at p. 885, 94 Cal.Rptr.2d 505.) For the sake of clarity, given the procedural posture of this case, we have substituted the phrases "party seeking the stay" and "party opposing the stay" for "defendant" and "plaintiff" as appropriate within the quoted text.

58 The trial court's ruling did not have the effect of forcing plaintiffs to trial, given that the court subsequently granted defendants' motion for summary judgment. Further, plaintiffs have not appealed the trial court's denial of their request to continue the summary judgment proceedings.

59 Plaintiffs' opening brief on appeal was 13,938 words in length, just shy of the 14,000 word limitation that ordinarily applies in civil appeals. (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.204(c)(1).) However, such word limitations do not relieve a party of the requirement to adequately brief any argument that the party raises on appeal. Further, a party may file an application seeking permission to file a longer brief upon a showing of good cause. (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 8.204(c)(5).) Plaintiffs filed no such application in this case.

End of Document © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

214 So.3d 400 (Mem)

Editor's Note: Additions are indicated by Text and deletions by ~~Text~~ .

Supreme Court of Florida.

IN RE: AMENDMENTS TO FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE.

No. SC16–978
|
[March 16, 2017]

Original Proceeding—Florida Family Law Rules

Attorneys and Law Firms

Judge Laurel Moore Lee, Chair, Family Law Rules Committee, Plant City, Florida; Charles Cole Jeffries, Jr., Past Chair, Family Law Rules Committee, Tampa, Florida; and John F. Harkness, Jr., Executive Director, and Krys Godwin, Bar Staff Liaison, The Florida Bar, Tallahassee, Florida, for Petitioner

Sarah E. Kay, Co–Chair, Rules and Forms Committee, Family Law Section of The Florida Bar, Sessums Black Caballero Ficarrotta, Tampa, Florida; C. Debra Welch, Co–Chair, Rules and Forms Committee, Family Law Section of The Florida Bar, The Law Firm of C. Debra Welch PA, West Palm Beach, Florida; Laura Davis Smith, Chair, Family Law Section of The Florida Bar, Greene Smith & Associates, P.A., Coral Gables, Florida; Thomas J. Sasser, Jorge M. Cestero, Peter J. Trombadore, and Trisha P. Armstrong of Sasser, Cestero & Sasser, P.A., West Palm Beach, Florida; and Gregory Firestone, Ph.D., Sarasota, Florida, Responding with Comments

PER CURIAM.

This matter is before the Court for consideration of proposed amendments to the Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure and Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Forms. We have jurisdiction. See art. V, § 2(a), Fla. Const.

BACKGROUND

The Family Law Rules Committee (Committee) has filed an out-of-cycle report recommending the Court adopt multiple amendments to the Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure to create a stand-alone set of rules to govern family law proceedings. The Committee also proposes amendments to several family law forms and proposes several new family law forms. All of the rule and form amendments were approved by the full Committee and the Board of Governors of The Florida Bar.

The Family Law Rules were first adopted by the Court in 1995. See In re Family Law Rules of Procedure, 663 So.2d 1047 (Fla. 1995). The Committee in that case initially proposed stand-alone rules that incorporated the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure into the Family Law Rules and also included rules unique to family law proceedings. However, at that time, the Board of Governors of The Florida Bar took the position that the Family Law Rules should reference the civil rules where necessary rather than totally incorporate them with significant changes. Id. at 1048. The Court agreed with this position. Although the Court found the Committee's stand-alone approach to the new rules "well intended," it determined that putting the text of the civil rules, with stylistic and substantive changes, into the new rules "would make it difficult for general practitioners to easily discern what differences existed between the civil rules and the family law rules and what changes were in fact substantive and what changes were only stylistic." Id. at 1047. Thus, the Court modified the Committee's proposals "to require that the civil rules apply to family law matters except as set forth in the family law rules." Id. at 1048. The modified rules were adopted by the Court, 401 with some revisions after further comment, and made effective January 1, 1996. See id. at 1049.

At present, the Board of Governors has unanimously voted to approve the proposed amendments in this case, and only three comments were filed in response to the Court's publication of the proposed amendments—only one of which opposes the stand-alone concept. Further, the Committee explains in its report:

> Over the years, the whole concept of "family law" has grown from simply being "divorce court" into a now distinct court—one that has to constantly find ways to handle a growing number of issues that arise in twenty-first century families, such as paternity proceedings, disputes over time-sharing and visitation, domestic violence, and enforcement proceedings.

> The Commission of Family Courts, created in 1990, has recommended "that the Supreme Court require each judicial circuit to submit to the court for approval a local rule establishing a family division in its circuit or a means to coordinate family law matters that affect one family if the circuit or part of the circuit is of such limited size that it is unable to administratively justify such a division." In re: Report of the Commission on Family Courts, 588 So.2d 586 (Fla. 1991).
>
> As society went through radical changes, various areas of government developed to assist families, creating an evolution such that the practice of what had simply been "family law," which seemed to fit under the umbrella of the Civil Rules of Procedure, developed into the practice of marital and family law. This practice is now represented in The Florida Bar by its own section and in the Judiciary by each Circuit's Family Law Division.

The Committee also contends that a stand-alone rule set will be helpful and less confusing for pro se litigants in that for most issues they will not have to consult multiple sets of rules for guidance. Given the developments in the practice of marital and family law, the benefit to pro se litigants, and the Board's support for the proposals, we agree that consideration of a stand-alone set of rules for family law cases is warranted.

Prior to submission to the Court, the Committee published its proposals for comment in the August 1, 2015, edition of The Florida Bar News. Comments were received from several attorneys, a general magistrate, and the Family Law Section of The Florida Bar (Section). After consideration of the comments addressing specific rules, the Committee made further revisions to the proposed amendments. The rules that were amended in response to the comments received were then republished in the October 15, 2015, edition of The Florida Bar News. No additional comments were received in response to the second publication of the proposed rule amendments.

After the report was submitted to the Court, the proposals were again published for comment. Comments were received from the Section, Gregory Firestone, Ph.D., and the law firm of Sasser, Cestero & Sasser, P.A. The Committee filed a response to the comments.

Upon consideration of the report, the Committee's proposals, the comments, and the Committee's response thereto, we adopt the proposed rule amendments creating a stand-alone set of Family Law Rules of Procedure, with several modifications. Those modifications, as well as several issues and concerns raised by the 402 comments filed, are discussed below. [1]

AMENDMENTS [2]

First, the proposed amendment to Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.110 (General Rules of Pleading), in part, adds new subdivision (c) pertaining to verification of documents. As proposed, new subdivision (c)(1) would provide the statement to be included when verification is done in an individual capacity, and new subdivision (c)(2) would provide the statement to be included when verification is done in a representative capacity on behalf of a corporate entity. One of the comments filed takes issue with this proposed new provision pertaining to verification, specifically, the provision containing the oath to be given when a document is verified in a representative capacity. This provision is not contained in current Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.110, and the Committee does not explain the source of the wording it proposes. Accordingly, we decline to adopt this particular portion of the proposed amendment to this rule.

Next, the proposed amendments to Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.210 (Parties), in part, create a new subdivision (b) incorporating the provisions of Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.210 and stating that the "court shall have the discretion to appoint a guardian ad litem and/or attorney ad litem for a minor, incapacitated, or incompetent person not otherwise represented in an action or shall make such other order as it deems proper for the protection of the minor, incapacitated, or incompetent person." A comment filed pertaining to this proposal raised the concern that this language is contrary to section 61.401, Florida Statutes (2016), and case law, noting that in some circumstances, appointment of a guardian ad litem is mandatory. See Turnier v. Stockman, 139 So.3d 397, 400 n.2 (Fla. 3d DCA 2014) (setting forth circumstances in which courts may or must appoint guardian ad litem).

Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.210(b), currently applicable in family law proceedings, provides in part that the court "shall appoint a guardian ad litem for a minor or incompetent person not otherwise represented in an action or shall make such other order as it deems proper for the protection of the minor or incompetent person." Although this provision uses the term "shall," appointment of a guardian ad litem under this rule has been construed as being discretionary in nature. Tallahassee Mem'l Reg'l Med. Ctr. v. Petersen, 920 So.2d 75, 78 (Fla. 1st DCA 2006). Thus, by changing this provision from "shall appoint" to "shall have the discretion to appoint," the Committee has not changed its meaning. Further, courts applying this rule have recognized that although the rule is discretionary, other specific statutes and rules may require appointment of a guardian ad litem under certain circumstances. As pointed out by the comment, section 61.401, Florida Statutes (2016), provides:

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

> In an action for dissolution of marriage or for the creation, approval, or modification of a parenting plan, if the court finds it is in the best interest of the child, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem to act as next friend of the child, investigator or evaluator, not as attorney or advocate. The court in its 403 discretion may also appoint legal counsel for a child to act as attorney or advocate; however, the guardian and the legal counsel shall not be the same person. In such actions which involve an allegation of child abuse, abandonment, or neglect as defined in s. 39.01, which allegation is verified and determined by the court to be well-founded, the court shall appoint a guardian ad litem for the child. The guardian ad litem shall be a party to any judicial proceeding from the date of the appointment until the date of discharge.

Because the proposed amendments do not change the meaning of the rule and are not intended to supersede statutes requiring appointment of a guardian or attorney ad litem in specific circumstances, we defer to the expertise of the Committee and adopt the amendments to this rule as proposed.

Next, the proposed amendments to Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.270 (Consolidation; Separate Trials) delete the existing provision referencing Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.270 and replace it with a provision stating that "[r]elated cases and consolidation of cases are governed by Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.545." Concerns were raised in a comment to this proposal that this change would result in increased litigation and expenditure of judicial resources by calling into question the customary practice of bifurcating into separate trials the issue of the validity of a premarital or postnuptial agreement and the remaining issues in a dissolution of marriage proceeding. The comment noted that Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.545 (Case Management) does not specifically address the consolidation or bifurcation of trials and contended that deleting the reference to Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.270 could be construed as taking away the ability of family law trial judges to bifurcate family law cases on an issue by issue basis.

Although Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.545 does not specifically address consolidation or bifurcation of trials, it does address related cases. Rule 2.545(d) requires a petitioner in a family case to file a notice of related cases. The definition of "family cases" in the rule includes both "dissolution of marriage" and "declaratory judgment actions related to premarital, marital, or post marital agreements." Thus, the rule already contemplates that these types of actions are separate but possibly related "family cases"; there should be no need to bifurcate them. Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.545 also requires the trial judge to "take charge of all cases at an early stage in the litigation," "control the progress of the case," and "take specific steps to monitor and control the pace of litigation," including "developing rational and effective trial setting policies." There is nothing in these provisions that would prevent the trial court from effectively managing related dissolution of marriage and declaratory judgment actions to resolve the question of the validity of a premarital, marital, or post marital agreement at an appropriate stage of the litigation. Given these provisions, we defer to the expertise of the Committee with regard to the concerns raised in this comment, and adopt the amendments to Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.270 as proposed.

With regard to the proposed amendments to Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.285 (Mandatory

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Disclosure) and Rule 12.350 (Production of Documents and Things and Entry Upon Land for Inspection and For Other Purposes), the Family Law Section of The Florida Bar (Section) in its comment suggested several additional amendments to these rules. In its response to this comment, the Committee 404 stated that the Section's suggestions are being addressed by the Committee in its upcoming three-year-cycle report. In light of this response, we defer to the Committee and adopt the amendments to these rules as proposed.

Next, the Committee has proposed amendments to Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.340 (Interrogatories to Parties) incorporating the provisions of Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340 (Interrogatories to Parties). Part of this proposal incorporates the provisions of Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340(c) "Option to Produce Records" into Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.340. Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340(c) states:

> When the answer to an interrogatory may be derived or ascertained from the records (including electronically stored information) of the party to whom the interrogatory is directed or from an examination, audit, or inspection of the records or from a compilation, abstract, or summary based on the records and the burden of deriving or ascertaining the answer is substantially the same for the party serving the interrogatory as for the party to whom it is directed, an answer to the interrogatory specifying the records from which the answer may be derived or ascertained and offering to give the party serving the interrogatory a reasonable opportunity to examine, audit, or inspect the records and to make copies, compilations, abstracts, or summaries is a sufficient answer. An answer shall be in sufficient detail to permit the interrogating party to locate and to identify, as readily as can the party interrogated, the records from which the answer may be derived or ascertained, or shall identify a person or persons representing the interrogated party who will be available to assist the interrogating party in locating and identifying the records at the time they are produced. If the records to be produced consist of electronically stored information, the records shall be produced in a form or forms in which they are ordinarily maintained or in a reasonably usable form or forms.

One of the comments to this proposal points out that certain standard family law interrogatories contained in Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Forms 12.930(b) and (c) expressly state that the interrogated party may comply with the interrogatory by producing certain records and expresses concern that incorporating the provisions of Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340(c) would permit production of records in response to other interrogatories as well. We conclude that this is not a valid concern because under current Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.340, the provisions of Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340(c) are already applicable to family law proceedings.

However, the Committee's proposal incorporating the provisions of Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340(c) removes the following language:

> or from an examination, audit, or inspection of the records or from a compilation, abstract, or summary based on the records and the burden of deriving or ascertaining the answer is substantially the same for the party serving the interrogatory as for the party to whom it is directed, an answer to the interrogatory specifying the records from which the answer may be derived or ascertained and offering to give the party serving the interrogatory a reasonable opportunity to examine, audit, or inspect the records and to make copies, compilations, abstracts, or summaries.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

This language is replaced simply with "production of the records in lieu of a written response is a sufficient answer." *405 Thus, the requirement that the "burden of deriving or ascertaining the answer is substantially the same for the party serving the interrogatory as for the party to whom it is directed" and the requirement that the answer specify the records from which the answer may be derived or ascertained and offer to give a reasonable opportunity to examine, audit, or inspect the records and make copies, compilations, abstracts, or summaries has been deleted. We conclude that this is a substantive change in the requirements of this rule. Accordingly, we adopt a modified version of this proposal that includes the above language.

The Committee has also proposed several amendments to Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.610 (Injunctions for Protection Against Domestic, Repeat, Dating, and Sexual Violence, and Stalking). These amendments would delete the words "Repeat" and "or Sexual" from the title of subdivision (c)(1)(A)(i) so that the amended title would read "Domestic or Dating Violence." The same amendments are proposed in the body of the subdivision to remove references to "repeat" and "sexual violence." Additionally, in the first sentence, the Committee proposes replacing the phrase "immediate and present" with the term "imminent" and adding the language "becoming the victim of," such that the first sentence would read: "For the injunction for protection to be issued ex parte, it must appear to the court that an imminent danger of becoming the victim of domestic or dating violence exists." The Committee further proposes amending the second sentence to add the language "and any other matters as provided by section 90.204(4), Florida Statutes," to bring to light 2014 statutory amendments to section 90.204, Florida Statutes.

The Committee also proposes amending subdivision (c)(1)(A)(ii), creating new language specifically addressing the statutory standards for a temporary injunction for repeat or sexual violence to be issued ex parte. According to the Committee, the language of this subdivision closely mirrors the language of subdivision (c)(1)(A)(i), including containing a reference to section 90.204(4), Florida Statutes. Newly numbered subdivision (c)(1)(A)(iii) would then incorporate the language of existing subdivision (c)(1)(A)(ii), regarding stalking, with the addition of language to reference section 90.204(4), Florida Statutes, to bring to light the 2014 statutory amendments to that section.

One of the comments pertaining to this proposal contends that it is in conflict with section 784.046, Florida Statutes (2016). The plain language of this statute states:

> [w]hen it appears to the court that an immediate and present danger of violence exists, the court may grant a temporary injunction which may be granted in an ex parte hearing, pending a full hearing, and may grant such relief as the court deems proper, including an injunction enjoining the respondent from committing any acts of violence. § 784.046(6)(a), Fla. Stat. (2016).

The comment contends that without explanation, the Committee proposes replacing "immediate and present danger" with "imminent danger" and proposes the creation of a new subdivision, which addresses only temporary injunctions for repeat and sexual violence and replaces the requirement that it must appear to the court "that an immediate and present danger of violence exists" with the requirement that "repeat or sexual violence exists." The comment points out that section 784.046 does not distinguish between the different forms of injunction for repeat violence, dating violence, or sexual violence and contends that Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.610 should not either.

*406 The comment is correct that the proposed amendments to subdivision (c)(1)(A) of Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.610 that appear to change the standard for issuance of a temporary injunction for domestic and dating violence from "immediate and present danger" of domestic or dating violence to "imminent danger of becoming the victim of" domestic or dating violence, and that would separate out sexual and repeat violence from subdivision (c)(1)(A)(i) and provide yet another standard for issuance of a temporary injunction in those situations—"that repeat or sexual violence exists"—are inconsistent with statutory law. Section 741.30(5)(a), Florida Statutes (2016), addresses injunctions for domestic violence and provides that a temporary injunction may be issued when "it appears to the court that an immediate and present danger of domestic violence exists." Similarly, section 784.046, Florida Statutes (2016), addresses injunctions for repeat, dating, and sexual violence, and it provides that a temporary injunction may be issued "when an immediate and present danger of violence exists."

The Florida Supreme Court Family Law Forms for temporary injunctions against repeat, sexual, dating, and domestic violence reflect the statutory standard. Form 12.980(k), Temporary Injunction for Protection Against Repeat Violence, recites that "[t]he statements made under oath by Petitioner make it appear that Section 784.046, Florida Statutes, applies to the parties, that Petitioner is a victim of repeat violence and that an immediate and present danger of repeat violence exists to Petitioner or to a member of Petitioner's family." Form 12.980(r), Temporary Injunction for Protection Against Sexual Violence, states that "[t]he statements made under oath by Petitioner make it appear that Section 784.046, Florida Statutes, applies to the parties, that Petitioner is a victim of sexual violence by Respondent and meets the requirements for an injunction established by law," i.e., that an immediate and present danger of violence exists, under section 784.046(6)(a), Florida Statutes (2016).

The temporary injunction forms for domestic and dating violence use both the "imminent danger" language and the "immediate and present danger" language. Form 12.980(o), Temporary Injunction for Protection Against Dating Violence, states:

> The statements made under oath by Petitioner make it appear that Section 784.046, Florida Statutes, applies to the parties, that Petitioner is a victim of dating violence and/or Petitioner has reasonable cause to believe he or she is in imminent danger of becoming a victim of an act of dating violence by Respondent, and that an immediate and present danger of dating violence exists to Petitioner or to a member of Petitioner's immediate family.

Forms 12.980(c)(1), Temporary Injunction for Protection Against Domestic Violence with Minor Child(ren), and 12.980(c)(2), Temporary Injunction for Protection Against Domestic Violence without Minor Child(ren), both state:

> The statements made under oath by Petitioner make it appear that section 741.30, Florida Statutes, applies to the parties. It also appears that Petitioner is a victim of domestic violence by Respondent, and/or Petitioner has reasonable cause to believe he/she is in imminent danger of becoming a victim of domestic violence by Respondent, and that there is an immediate and present danger of domestic violence to Petitioner or persons lawfully with Petitioner.

Given the above, we decline to adopt the proposed amendments to Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.610.

*407 CONCLUSION

We would like to thank the Family Law Rules Committee for its dedication, service, and diligent work in proposing the stand-alone set of rules for family law cases that we adopt here. We also thank the Board of Governors of The Florida Bar for its participation and input, as well as the valuable input of those who filed comments in this matter.

Accordingly, the Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure and Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Forms are hereby amended as set forth in the appendix to this opinion. Language added to the rules is indicated by underscoring; deleted language is shown in struck-through type. The committee notes are offered for explanation only and are not adopted as an official part of the rules.

The amended forms are fully engrossed and ready for use. The forms may also be accessed and downloaded from the Florida State Courts' website at www.flcourts.org/resources-and-services/court-improvement/problem-solving-courts/family-courts/family-law-forms.stml. By adoption of the amended forms, we express no opinion as to their correctness or applicability.

The amended rules and forms shall become effective immediately upon release of this opinion.

It is so ordered.

LABARGA, C.J., and PARIENTE, LEWIS, QUINCE, CANADY, and POLSTON, JJ., concur.

LAWSON, J., did not participate.

APPENDIX

RULE 12.005. TRANSITION RULE

These rules ~~shall~~ apply to all family law cases ~~effective January 1, 1996~~ as of March 16, 2017. Any action taken in a family law case before ~~January 1, 1996~~ March 16, 2017, that conformed to the then-effective rules or statutes governing family law cases, will be regarded as valid during the pendency of the litigation.

Commentary

1995 Adoption. This rule provides for an effective date of January 1, 1996, for these Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure. Under this rule, any action taken in a family law matter before January 1, 1996, will be regarded as valid during the pendency of the litigation so long as that action was taken in accordance with the then-effective rules or statutes governing family law cases. Any action taken after January 1, 1996, in new or pending family law cases will be governed by these rules.

RULE 12.010. SCOPE, PURPOSE, AND TITLE

(a) Scope.

(1) These rules apply to all actions concerning family matters, including injunctions for protection against domestic, repeat, dating, and sexual violence, and stalking, except as otherwise provided by the Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure or the Florida Probate Rules. "Family matters," "family law matters," or "family law cases" as used within these rules include, but are not limited to, matters arising from dissolution of marriage, annulment, support unconnected with dissolution of marriage, paternity, child support, an action involving a parenting plan for a minor child or children (except as otherwise provided by the Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure), proceedings for temporary or concurrent custody of minor children by extended family, adoption, proceedings for emancipation of a minor, declaratory judgment actions related to premarital, marital, or postmarital agreements (except as otherwise provided, when applicable, by the Florida Probate Rules), injunctions for protection against domestic, repeat, dating, 408 and sexual violence, and stalking, and all proceedings for modification, enforcement, and civil contempt of these actions.

(2) The form, content, procedure, and time for pleading in all ~~special statutory~~ proceedings shall be as prescribed by the statutes governing the proceeding unless these rules or the Florida Rules of ~~Civil Procedure~~ Judicial Administration, where applicable, specifically provide to the contrary. All actions ~~governed by~~ under these rules shall also be governed by the Florida Evidence Code, which ~~shall govern~~ applies in cases where a conflict with these rules may occur.

(b)–(c) [no change]

RULE 12.015. FAMILY LAW FORMS

(a) Forms Adopted as Rules. The forms listed in this rule shall be adopted by the rulemaking process in ~~Fla. R. Jud. Admin.~~ Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.140. The Family Law Rules Committee of The Florida Bar ~~shall~~ may propose amendments to these forms and any associated instructions. These forms shall be designated "Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Forms." Forms coming under this provision are:

(1) 12.900(a), Disclosure From Nonlawyer;

(2) 12.900(b), Notice of Limited Appearance;

(3) 12.900(c), Consent to Limited Appearance by Attorney;

(4) 12.900(d), Termination of Limited Appearance;

(5) 12.900(e), Acknowledgment of Assistance by Attorney;

(6) 12.900(f), Signature Block for Attorney Making Limited Appearance;

(7) 12.900(g), Agreement Limiting Representation;

(8) 12.900(h), Notice of Related Cases;

(9) 12.901(a), Petition for Simplified Dissolution of Marriage;

(10) 12.902(b), Family Law Financial Affidavit (Short Form);

(11) 12.902(c), Family Law Financial Affidavit (Long Form);

(12) 12.902(e), Notice of Filing Child Support Guidelines Worksheet;

(13) 12.902(f)(3), Marital Settlement Agreement for Simplified Dissolution of Marriage;

(14) 12.910(a), Summons: Personal Service on an Individual;

(15) 12.911(a), Subpoena for Hearing or Trial (Issued by Clerk);

(16) 12.911(b), Subpoena for Hearing or Trial (Issued by Attorney);

(17) 12.911(c), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Hearing or Trial (Issued by Clerk);

(18) 12.911(d), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Hearing or Trial (Issued by Attorney);

(19) 12.911(e), Subpoena for Deposition (Issued by Clerk);

(20) 12.913(b), Affidavit of Diligent Search and Inquiry;

(~~16~~ 21) 12.913(c), Affidavit of Diligent Search;

(~~17~~ 22) 12.920(a), Motion for Referral to General Magistrate;

(~~18~~ 23) 12.920(b), Order of Referral to General Magistrate;

(~~19~~ 24) 12.920(c), Notice of Hearing Before General Magistrate;

(~~20~~ 25) 12.928, Cover Sheet for Family Court Cases;

(~~21~~ 26) 12.930(a), Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories;

(~~22~~ 27) 12.930(b), Standard Family Law Interrogatories for Original or Enforcement Proceedings;

409 (~~23~~ 28) 12.930(c), Standard Family Law Interrogatories for Modification Proceedings;

(29) 12.930(d), Notice of Service of Answers to Standard Family Law Interrogatories;

(~~24~~ 30) 12.932, Certificate of Compliance with Mandatory Disclosure;

(31) 12.975, Notice of Compliance When Constitutional Challenge is Brought;

(~~25~~ 32) 12.984(a), Order of Referral to Parenting Coordinator;

(33) 12.984(b), Response by Parenting Coordinator;

(34) 12.984(c), Parenting Coordinator Report of an Emergency;

(35) 12.984(d), Parenting Coordinator Request for Status Conference;

(~~26~~ 36) 12.990(a), Final Judgment of Simplified Dissolution of Marriage;

(~~27~~ 37) 12.996(a), Income Deduction Order (Non–Title IV–D);

(~~28~~ 38) 12.996(b), Notice to Payor;

(~~29~~ 39) 12.996(c), Notice of Filing Return Receipt; ~~and~~

(~~30~~ 40) 12.996(d), Florida Addendum to Income Withholding Order; and ~~(31) 12.998, Order of Referral to Parenting Coordinator~~ .

(41) 12.999, Final Disposition Form.

(b) [no change]

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.020. ~~APPLICABILITY OF FLORIDA RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE~~ DEFINITIONS

~~The Florida Rules of Civil Procedure are applicable in all family law matters except as otherwise provided in these rules. These rules shall govern in cases where a conflict with the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure may occur. Whenever the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure apply to family matters, the use of the words plaintiff, defendant, and complaint within the context of the civil rules shall be interchangeable, where appropriate, with the words, petitioner, respondent, and petition, respectively~~ For definitions of family law terms found in these rules, refer to the Family Law Glossary of Common Terms and Definitions contained in the General Information for Self-Represented Litigants located at www.flcourts.org.

~~Commentary~~

~~1995 Adoption.~~ ~~To avoid confusion among members of the bar who practice in both family law and civil law areas, it is intended that as much uniformity as possible be maintained between the Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure and the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure. To assist in this effort, the Florida Supreme Court determined that the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure were to apply except as set forth herein. Exceptions and additions to the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure are contained in Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure that are numbered to correspond to their civil rule counterparts. For example, exceptions to Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.080 are contained in Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.080.~~

RULE 12.030. ~~NON~~ VERIFICATION OF PLEADINGS

Except as otherwise provided in these rules, ~~V~~ verification of pleadings shall be governed by the Florida Rules of ~~Civil Procedure 1.030~~ Judicial Administration or applicable statute.

RULE 12.050. WHEN ACTION COMMENCED

~~Commencement of actions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.050~~ Every family law matter shall be 410 deemed commenced when the petition is filed, except that ancillary proceedings shall be deemed commenced when the writ is issued or the pleading setting forth the claim of the party initiating the action is filed.

RULE 12.060. TRANSFERS OF ACTIONS

~~Transfers of actions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.060.~~

(a) Transfers of Courts. If it should appear at any time that an action is pending in the wrong court of any county, it may be transferred to the proper court within the county by the same method as provided by Florida law.

(b) Wrong Venue. When any action is filed placing venue in the wrong county, the court may transfer the action in the manner provided by Florida law to the proper court in any county in which it might have been brought in accordance with the venue statutes. When the venue might have been placed in 2 or more counties, the person bringing the action may select the county to which the action is transferred. If no such selection is made, the matter shall be determined by the court.

(c) Method. The service charge of the clerk of the court to which an action is transferred under this rule must be paid by the party who commenced the action within 30 days from the date the order of transfer is entered, subject to taxation as provided by law when the action is determined. If the service charge is not paid within the 30 days, the action may be dismissed without prejudice by the court that entered the order of transfer.

RULE 12.070. PROCESS

(a) ~~Service of Initial Process.~~ ~~Upon the commencement of all family law actions, including proceedings to modify a final judgment, service of process shall be as set forth in Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.070.~~ Issuance of Summons.

(1) In General. On the commencement of the action, including proceedings to modify a final judgment, summons or other process authorized by law must be issued immediately by the clerk or judge under the clerk's or the judge's signature and the seal of the court and delivered for service.

~~(b)~~ (2) Contents of Summons. ~~The~~ All summons, ~~cross-claim summons, and third-party summons~~ in family law matters ~~shall~~ must be patterned after Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.910(a) and ~~shall~~ must specifically contain the following language:

> WARNING: Rule 12.285, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure, requires certain automatic disclosure of documents and information. Failure to comply can result in sanctions, including dismissal or striking of pleadings.

(b) Service; By Whom Made. Service of process may be made by an officer authorized by law to serve process, but the court may appoint any competent person not interested in the action to serve the process. When so appointed, the person serving process must make proof of service by affidavit promptly and in any event within the time during which the person served must respond to the process. Failure to make proof of service will not affect the validity of the service. When any process is returned not executed or returned improperly executed for any respondent, the party causing its issuance must be entitled to such additional process against the unserved party as is required to effect service.

(c) Service; Numerous Respondents. If there is more than 1 respondent, the clerk or judge must issue as many writs of process against the several respondents as 411 may be directed by the petitioner or the petitioner's attorney.

(d) Service by Publication. Service of process by publication may be made as provided by statute.

(e) Constructive Service.

(1) For constructive service of process on the legal father in any case or proceeding to establish paternity which would result in termination of the legal father's parental rights, the petitioner ~~shall~~ must file an affidavit of diligent search and inquiry that conforms with Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.913(c). If the legal father cannot be located, he ~~shall~~ must be served with process by publication in the manner provided by chapter 49, Florida Statutes. The notice ~~shall~~ must be published in the county where the legal father was last known to have resided. The clerk of the circuit court ~~shall~~ must mail a copy of the notice to the legal father at his last known address.

(2) For constructive service of process in any case or proceeding involving parental responsibility, custody, or time-sharing with a minor child, the petitioner ~~shall~~ must file an affidavit of diligent search and inquiry that conforms with Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.913(c). If the responding party cannot be located, the party ~~shall~~ must be served with process by publication in the manner provided by chapter 49, Florida Statutes. The clerk of the circuit court ~~shall~~ must mail a copy of the notice to the party's last known address.

(3) For constructive service of process in all other cases, an affidavit of diligent search and inquiry in substantial conformity with Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.913(b), must be filed.

(d f) Domestic, Repeat, Dating, and Sexual Violence, and Stalking Proceedings. This rule does not govern service of process in proceedings for injunctions for protection against domestic, repeat, dating, and sexual violence, and stalking.

(g) Copies of Initial Pleading for Persons Served. At the time of personal service of process a copy of the initial pleading must be delivered to the party on whom service is made. The date and hour of service must be endorsed on the original process and all copies of it by the person making the service. The party seeking to effect personal service must furnish the person making service with the necessary copies. When the service is made by publication, copies of the initial pleadings must be furnished to the clerk and mailed by the clerk with the notice of action to all parties whose addresses are stated in the initial pleading or sworn statement.

(h) Service of Orders. If personal service of a court order is to be made, the original order must be filed with the clerk, who must certify or verify a copy of it without charge. The person making service must use the certified copy instead of the original order in the same manner as original process in making service.

(i) Fees; Service of Pleadings. The statutory compensation for making service shall not be increased by the simultaneous delivery or mailing of the copy of the initial pleading in conformity with this rule.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(j) Pleading Basis. When service of process is to be made under statutes authorizing service on nonresidents of Florida, it is sufficient to plead the basis for service in the language of the statute without pleading the facts supporting service.

(k) Service of Process by Mail. A respondent may accept service of process by mail.

(1) Acceptance of service of a petition by mail does not waive any objection to the 412 venue or to the jurisdiction of the court over the person of the respondent.

(2) A petitioner may notify any respondent of the commencement of the action and request that the respondent waive service of a summons. The notice and request must:

(A) be in writing and be addressed directly to the respondent, if an individual, or to an officer or managing or general agent of the respondent, or other agent authorized by appointment or law to receive service of process;

(B) be dispatched by certified mail, return receipt requested;

(C) be accompanied by a copy of the petition and must identify the court in which it has been filed;

(D) inform the respondent of the consequences of compliance and of failure to comply with the request;

(E) state the date on which the request is sent;

(F) allow the respondent 20 days from the date on which the request is received to return the waiver, or, if the address of the respondent is outside of the United States, 30 days from the date on which it is received to return the waiver; and

(G) provide the respondent with an extra copy of the notice and request, including the waiver, as well as a prepaid means of compliance in writing.

(3) If a respondent fails to comply with a request for waiver within the time provided herein, the court may impose the costs subsequently incurred in effecting service on the respondent unless good cause for the failure is shown.

(4) A respondent who, before being served with process, timely returns a waiver so requested is not required to respond to the petition until 60 days after the date the respondent received the request for waiver of service. For purposes of computing any time prescribed or allowed by these rules, service of process will be deemed effected 20 days before the time required to respond to the petition.

(5) When the petitioner files a waiver of service with the court, the action must proceed, except as provided in subdivision (k)(4) above, as if a summons and petition had been served at the time of filing the waiver, and no further proof of service shall be required.

(l)* Summons; Time Limit. If service of the initial process and initial pleading is not made upon a respondent within 120 days after filing of the initial pleading directed to that respondent, the court, on its own initiative after notice or on motion, must direct that service be effected within a specified time or must dismiss the action without prejudice or drop that respondent as a party; provided that if the petitioner shows good cause or excusable neglect for the failure, the court shall extend the time for service for an appropriate period. When a motion for leave to amend with the attached proposed amended petition is filed, the 120–day period for service of amended petitions on the new party or parties must begin upon the entry of an order granting leave to amend. A dismissal under this subdivision shall not be considered a voluntary dismissal or operate as an adjudication on the merits under rule 12.420(a)(1).

RULE 12.071. CONSTITUTIONAL CHALLENGE TO STATE STATUTE OR COUNTY OR MUNICIPAL CHARTER, ORDINANCE, OR FRANCHISE; NOTICE BY PARTY

~~Constitutional challenges to a state statute or county or municipal charter, ordinance, or franchise, and the notice requirements of such challenges shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.071.~~

413 A party that files a pleading, written motion, or other document drawing into question the constitutionality of a state statute or a county or municipal charter, ordinance, or franchise must promptly

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(a) file a notice of constitutional question stating the question and identifying the document that raises it; and

(b) serve the notice and the pleading, written motion, or other document drawing into question the constitutionality of a state statute or a county or municipal charter, ordinance, or franchise on the Attorney General or the state attorney of the judicial circuit in which the action is pending, by either certified or registered mail.

Service of the notice and pleading, written motion, or other document does not require joinder of the Attorney General or the state attorney as a party to the action.

RULE 12.080. SERVICE OF PLEADINGS AND FILING OF DOCUMENTS

(a) Service.

(1) Family Law Actions Generally. Service of pleadings and documents after commencement of all family law actions, except proceedings for injunctions for protection against domestic, repeat, dating, and sexual violence, and stalking, ~~shall be~~ is as set forth in Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516, except that rule 2.516 ~~shall~~ also apply ies to service on the party during the attorney's limited appearance as provided in rule 12.040(f) and must be expanded as set forth in subdivisions (b) and (c) to include additional requirements for service of recommended orders and for service on defaulted parties.

(2) Domestic, Repeat, Dating, and Sexual Violence, and Stalking Actions. Service of pleadings and documents regarding proceedings for injunctions against domestic, repeat, dating, and sexual violence, and stalking ~~shall be~~ is governed by ~~Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure~~ rule 12.610, where it is in conflict with this rule.

(b) Service and Preparation of Orders and Judgments. A copy of all orders or judgments involving family law matters, except proceedings for injunctions for protection against domestic, repeat, dating, and sexual violence, and stalking, ~~shall~~ must be transmitted by the court or under its direction to all parties at the time of entry of the order or judgment. The court may require that recommended orders, orders, or judgments be prepared by a party. If the court requires that a party prepare the recommended order, order, or judgment, the party ~~shall~~ must furnish the court with stamped, addressed envelopes to all parties for service of the recommended order, order, or judgment. The court may also require that any proposed recommended order, order, or judgment that is prepared by a party be furnished to all parties no less than 24 hours before submission to the court of the recommended order, order, or judgment.

(c) Defaulted Parties. No service need be made on parties against whom a default has been entered, except that:

(1) Pleadings asserting new or additional claims against defaulted parties ~~shall~~ must be served in the manner provided for service of summons contained in ~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.070~~ rule 12.070.

(2) Notice of final hearings or trials and court orders ~~shall~~ must be served on defaulted parties in the manner provided for service of pleadings and documents contained in Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

(3) Final judgments ~~shall~~ must be served on defaulted parties as set forth in 414 Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516(h).

Commentary

[no change]

Committee Notes

[no change]

RULE 12.090. TIME

(a) Computation. Computation of time shall be governed by Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.514. ~~Other aspects of time shall be governed by Florida Rules of Civil Procedure 1.090(b)-(d).~~

(b) Enlargement. When an act is required or allowed to be done at or within a specified time by order of court, by these rules, or by notice given thereunder, for cause shown the court at any time in its discretion (1) with or without notice, may order the period enlarged if a request is made before the expiration of the period originally prescribed or as extended by a previous order, or (2) on motion made and notice after the expiration of the specified period, may permit the act to be done when failure to act was the result of excusable neglect. However, the court may not extend the time for making a motion for new trial, for rehearing, or to alter or amend a judgment, making a motion for relief from a judgment under rule 12.540(b), taking an appeal or filing a petition for certiorari, or making a motion for a directed verdict.

(c) For Motions. A copy of any written motion which may not be heard ex parte and a copy of the notice of the hearing on the written motion must be served a reasonable time before the time specified for the hearing.

Committee Notes

[no change]

RULE 12.100. PLEADINGS; ~~AND~~ MOTIONS; AND CAPTIONS

~~Pleadings and motions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.100, except that~~

~~(a) the party opening or reopening a case under these rules shall file with the clerk of the circuit court Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.928, Cover Sheet for Family Court Cases; and~~

~~(b) the requirement in rule 1.100(c)(3) that parties file a final disposition form with the clerk if the action is settled without a court order or judgment being entered or if the action is dismissed by the parties, shall not apply to proceedings governed by these rules.~~

(a) Pleadings. There must be a petition or, when so designated by a statute or rule, a complaint, and a response or answer to it; a response or answer to a counterclaim denominated as such; an answer to a crossclaim if the answer contains a crossclaim; a third-party petition if a person who was not an original party is summoned as a third-party respondent or defendant; and a third-party response or answer if a third-party complaint is served. If a response or answer contains an affirmative defense and the opposing party seeks to avoid it, the opposing party shall file a reply containing the avoidance. In a post-judgment case, there are a supplemental petition and a response or an answer and a counter-supplemental petition and a response or an answer to it, if applicable. In those cases in which there is a related civil action that is not otherwise specifically addressed in the Family Law Rules of Procedure, then the Rules of Civil Procedure governs those pleadings. No other pleadings are allowed unless otherwise provided by law.

*415 (b) Motions. An application to the court for an order must be by motion which must be made in writing unless made during a hearing or trial, must state with particularity the grounds therefor, and must set forth the relief or order sought. The requirement of writing is fulfilled if the motion is stated in a written notice of the hearing of the motion. All notices of hearings must specify each motion or other matter to be heard.

(c) Caption.

(1) Every pleading, motion, order, judgment, or other document must have a caption containing the name of the court, the file number, and except for in rem proceedings, the name of the first party on each side with an appropriate indication of other parties, and a designation identifying the party filing it and its nature or the nature of the order, as the case may be. In any in rem proceeding, every pleading, motion, order, judgment, or other document must have a caption containing the name of the court, the file number, the style "In re" (followed by the name or general description of the property), and a designation of the person or entity filing it and its nature or the nature of the order. All documents filed in the action must be styled in such a manner as to indicate clearly the subject matter of the document and the party requesting or obtaining relief. Specific captions for family law cases are as follows:

(A) Matters Arising From Dissolution of Marriage.

(i) Original Dissolution of Marriage: In re the Marriage of ....., Husband and ....., Wife, regardless of who files first and whether there is a counter-petition.

(ii) Modification of Final Judgment of Dissolution of Marriage: In the Former Marriage of ....., Former Husband, and ....., Former Wife, regardless of who files first and whether there is a supplemental counter-petition.

(B) Annulment.

(i) Original Annulment: In re the Marriage of ....., Husband and ....., Wife, regardless of who files first and whether a counter-petition for annulment or any other pleading in the alternative for dissolution of marriage is filed.

(ii) Supplemental or Enforcement Proceedings. The caption must remain the same, regardless of whether an annulment or a dissolution of marriage was ultimately granted in the original proceeding.

(C) Support Unconnected With Dissolution of Marriage: In re the Marriage of ....., Husband and ....., Wife, regardless of who files first and whether there is a counter-petition.

(D) Paternity.

(i) Original Paternity Proceeding when Paternity is not Admitted Before Filing: ....., Putative Father, and ....., Mother, regardless of who files first and whether there is a counter-petition.

(ii) Original Paternity Proceedings when Paternity has been Admitted Before Filing: ....., Father, and ....., Mother, regardless of who files first and whether there is a counter-petition.

(iii) Paternity Modification: ....., Father, and ....., Mother, regardless of who files the supplemental petition and whether there is a supplemental counter-petition.

(iv) Disestablishment of Paternity Proceeding: ....., Father, and ....., Mother.

*416 (E) Proceedings for Temporary or Concurrent Custody of Minor Children by Extended Family: In the interest of ....., Child(ren).

(F) Adoption.

(i) In re: Termination of Parental Rights for Proposed Adoption of ..... (name on child's birth certificate)....., Minor Child(ren).

(ii) In re: Adoption of .....(name to be given child(ren))....., Adoptee(s).

(iii) Stepparent Adoption Proceedings: In re: the Adoption of ..... (name to be given child(ren))....., Adoptee(s).

(G) Proceedings for Emancipation of a Minor: In re: Emancipation of ....., Minor.

(H) Title IV–D Cases: State, Dept. of Revenue, Child Support Program ex rel. ....., Petitioner, and ....., Respondent.

(I) In all supplemental proceedings for modification or actions to enforce, the caption must remain the same as indicated in this rule.

(2) Trial level nomenclature used in the caption should be simple, clear, constant, and, to the extent possible, unchanging, regardless of who files a petition, counter-petition, or a supplemental action. The trial level nomenclature expressed herein is intended to meaningfully identify the parties by role, such as Wife, Husband, Former Wife, Former Husband, Putative Father, Father, and Mother. Information as to who files a pleading or motion should be part of the document rather than in the caption of the case.

(3) A cover sheet for family court cases (form 12.928) must be completed and filed with the clerk at the time a complaint or petition is filed by the party initiating the action. If the cover sheet is not filed, the clerk must accept the complaint or petition for filing; but all proceedings in the action must be abated until a properly executed cover sheet is completed and filed. The clerk must complete the cover sheet for a party appearing pro se.

(4) A final disposition form (form 12.999) must be filed with the clerk at the time of the filing of the order or judgment which disposes of the action. If the action is settled without a court order or judgment being entered, or dismissed by the parties, the plaintiff or petitioner must immediately file a final disposition form with the clerk. The clerk must complete the final disposition form for a party appearing pro se, or when the action is dismissed by court order for lack of prosecution under rule 12.420(d).

(d) Notice of Related Cases. A notice of related cases, form 12.900(h), must be filed in conformity with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.545(d).

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.110. GENERAL RULES OF PLEADING

~~The general rules of pleading in Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.110 shall apply to these proceedings except that proceedings to modify a final judgment in a family law matter shall be initiated only pursuant to rule 1.110(h) and not by motion.~~

(a) Forms of Pleadings. Forms of action and technical forms for seeking relief and of pleas, pleadings, or motions are abolished.

(b) Claims for Relief. A pleading which sets forth a claim for relief, whether an original petition, counterpetition, counterclaim, crossclaim, or third-party claim, must state a cause of action and must contain

417 (1) a short and plain statement of the grounds on which the court's jurisdiction depends, unless the court already has jurisdiction and the pleading needs no new grounds of jurisdiction to support it,

(2) a short and plain statement of both the relief requested and the ultimate facts showing that the pleader is entitled to that relief, and

(3) a demand for judgment for the relief to which the pleader deems himself or herself entitled.

Relief in the alternative or of several different types may be demanded. Every petition shall be considered to pray for general relief.

(c) The Answer. In the answer a pleader must state in short and plain terms the pleader's answers to each claim asserted and must admit or deny the allegations on which the adverse party relies. If the pleader is without knowledge, he or she must so state and such statement operates as a denial. Denial must fairly meet the substance of the allegations denied. When a pleader intends in good faith to deny only a part of an allegation, the pleader must specify so much of it as is true and must deny the remainder. Unless the pleader intends in good faith to controvert all of the allegations of the preceding pleading, the pleader may make denials as specific denials of designated allegations or may generally deny all of the allegations except such designated allegations as the pleader expressly admits. However, when the pleader does so intend to controvert all of its allegations, including allegations of the grounds on which the court's jurisdiction depends, the pleader may do so by general denial.

(d) Affirmative Defenses. In the answer a party must state affirmatively any matter constituting an avoidance or affirmative defense or any other affirmative defense as allowed by law. When a party has mistakenly designated a defense as a counterclaim or a counterclaim as a defense, the court, on terms if justice so requires, must treat the pleading as if there had been a proper designation. Affirmative defenses appearing on the face of a prior pleading may be asserted as grounds for a motion or defense under rule 12.140, provided this shall not limit amendments under rule 12.190 even if such grounds are sustained.

(e) Effect of Failure to Deny. Allegations in a pleading to which a responsive pleading is required, other than those as to the relief requested, are admitted when not denied in the responsive pleading. Allegations in a pleading to which no responsive pleading is required or permitted must be taken as denied or avoided.

(f) Separate Statements. All allegations of claim or defense must be made in consecutively numbered paragraphs, the contents of each of which must be limited as far as practicable to a statement of a single set of circumstances, and a paragraph may be referred to by number in all subsequent pleadings. Each claim founded upon a separate transaction or occurrence and each defense other than denials must be stated in a separate count or response when a separation facilitates the clear presentation of the matter set forth.

(g) Joinder of Causes of Action; Consistency. A pleader may set up in the same action as many claims or causes of action or defenses in the same right as the pleader has, and claims for relief may be stated in the alternative if separate items make up the cause of action, or if 2 or more causes of action are joined. A party may also set forth 2 or more statements of a claim or defense alternatively, either in 1 count or defense or in separate counts or defenses. When 2 or more statements are 418 made in the alternative and 1 of them, if made independently, would be sufficient, the pleading is not made insufficient by the insufficiency of 1 or more of the alternative statements. A party may also state as many separate claims or defenses as that party has, regardless of consistency and whether based on legal or equitable grounds or both. All pleadings must be construed so as to do substantial justice.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(h) Subsequent Pleadings. When the nature of an action permits pleadings subsequent to final judgment and the jurisdiction of the court over the parties has not terminated, the initial pleading subsequent to final judgment must be designated a supplemental petition. The action must then proceed in the same manner and time as though the supplemental petition were the initial pleading in the action, including the issuance of any needed process. Proceedings to modify a final judgment must be initiated only under this subdivision and not by motion. This subdivision does not apply to proceedings that may be initiated by motion under these rules.

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.120. PLEADING SPECIAL MATTERS

~~Pleading of special matters shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.120.~~

(a) Capacity. Unless required by statute, it is not necessary to allege the capacity of a party to sue or be sued, the authority of a party to sue or be sued in a representative capacity, or the legal existence of an organized association of persons that is made a party, except to the extent required to show the jurisdiction of the court. The initial pleading served on behalf of a minor party must specifically allege the age of the minor party. When a party desires to raise an issue as to the legal existence of any party, the capacity of any party to sue or be sued, or the authority of a party to sue or be sued in a representative capacity, that party must do so by specific negative allegation(s) which must include such supporting particulars as are peculiarly within the pleader's knowledge.

(b) Fraud; Mistake; Condition of the Mind. In all allegations of fraud or mistake, the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake must be stated with such particularity as the circumstances may permit. Malice, intent, knowledge, mental attitude, and other condition of mind of a person may be alleged generally.

(c) Conditions Precedent. In pleading the performance or occurrence of conditions precedent, it is sufficient to allege generally that all conditions precedent have been performed or have occurred. A denial of performance or occurrence must be made specifically and with particularity.

(d) Official Document or Act. In pleading an official document or official act it is sufficient to allege that the document was issued or the act done in compliance with law.

(e) Judgment or Decree. In pleading a judgment or decree of a domestic or foreign court, a judicial or quasi-judicial tribunal, or a board or officer, it is sufficient to allege the judgment or decree without setting forth matter showing jurisdiction to render it.

(f) Time and Place. For the purpose of testing the sufficiency of a pleading, allegations of time and place are material and must be considered like all other allegations of material matter.

(g) Special Damage. When items of special damage are claimed, they must be specifically stated.

*419 RULE 12.140. ~~DEFENSES~~ RESPONSES

~~Defenses shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.140.~~

(a) When Presented.

(1) Unless a different time is prescribed in a statute of Florida, a respondent must serve a response within 20 days after service of original process and the initial pleading on the respondent, or not later than the date fixed in a notice by publication. The petitioner must serve a response to a counterpetition within 20 days after service of the counterpetition. If a reply is required, the reply must be served within 20 days after service of the response. A party served with a pleading stating a crosspetition against that party must serve a response to it within 20 days after service on that party.

(2) The service of a motion under this rule, except a motion for judgment on the pleadings or a motion to strike under subdivision (f), alters these periods of time so that if the court denies the motion or postpones its disposition until the trial on the merits, the responsive pleadings must be served within 10 days after notice of the court's action or, if the court grants a motion for a more definite statement, the responsive pleadings must be served within 10 days after service of the more definite statement unless a different time is fixed by the court in either case.

(3) If the court permits or requires an amended or responsive pleading or a more definite statement, the pleading or statement must be served within 10 days after notice of the court's action. Responses to the pleadings or statements must be served within 10 days of service of such pleadings or statements.

(b) How Presented. Every defense in law or fact to a claim for relief in a pleading must be asserted in the responsive pleading, if one is required, but the following responses may be made by motion at the option of the pleader:

(1) lack of jurisdiction over the subject matter;

(2) lack of jurisdiction over the person;

(3) improper venue;

(4) insufficiency of process;

(5) insufficiency of service of process;

(6) failure to state a cause of action; and

(7) failure to join indispensable parties.

A motion making any of these responses must be made before pleading if a further pleading is permitted. The grounds on which any of the enumerated responses are based and the substantial matters of law intended to be argued must be stated specifically and with particularity in the responsive pleading or motion. Any ground not stated must be deemed to be waived except any ground showing that the court lacks jurisdiction of the subject matter may be made at any time. No response or objection is waived by being joined with other responses or objections in a responsive pleading or motion. If a pleading sets forth a claim for relief to which the adverse party is not required to serve a responsive pleading, the adverse party may assert any defense in law or fact to that claim for relief at the trial, except that the objection of failure to state a legal defense in an answer or reply must be asserted by motion to strike the defense within 20 days after service of the answer or reply.

(c) Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings. After the pleadings are closed, but within such time as not to delay the trial, any party may move for judgment on the pleadings.

(d) Preliminary Hearings. The responses in subdivisions (b)(1)–(b)(7), 420 whether made in a pleading or by motion, and the motion for judgment in subdivision (c) must be heard and determined before trial on application of any party unless the court orders that the hearing and determination will be deferred until the trial.

(e) Motion for More Definite Statement. If a pleading to which a responsive pleading is permitted is so vague or ambiguous that a party cannot reasonably be required to frame a responsive pleading, that party may move for a more definite statement before interposing a responsive pleading. The motion must point out the defects complained of and the details desired. If the motion is granted and the order of the court is not obeyed within 10 days after notice of the order or such other time as the court may fix, the court may strike the pleading to which the motion was directed or make such order as it deems just.

(f) Motion to Strike. A party may move to strike or the court may strike redundant, immaterial, impertinent, or scandalous matter from any pleading at any time.

(g) Consolidation of Responses. A party who makes a motion under this rule may join with it the other motions herein provided for and then available to that party. If a party makes a motion under this rule but omits from it any responses or objections then available to that party that this rule permits to be raised by motion, that party shall not thereafter make a motion based on any of the responses or objections omitted, except as provided in subdivision (h)(2).

(h) Waiver of Responses.

(1) A party waives all responses and objections that the party does not present either by motion under subdivisions (b), (e), or (f) or, if the party has made no motion, in a responsive pleading except as provided in subdivision (h)(2).

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(2) The responses of failure to state a cause of action or a legal defense or to join an indispensable party may be raised by motion for judgment on the pleadings or at the trial on the merits in addition to being raised either in a motion under subdivision (b) or in the answer or reply. The defense of lack of jurisdiction of the subject matter may be raised at any time.

RULE 12.150. SHAM PLEADINGS

~~Sham pleadings shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.150.~~

(a) Motion to Strike. If a party deems any pleading or part of it filed by another party to be a sham, that party may move to strike the pleading or part of it before the cause is set for trial and the court must hear the motion, taking evidence of the respective parties, and if the motion is sustained, the pleading to which the motion is directed must be stricken. Default and summary judgment on the merits may be entered in the discretion of the court or the court may permit additional pleadings to be filed for good cause shown.

(b) Contents of Motion. The motion to strike must be verified and must set forth fully the facts on which the movant relies and may be supported by affidavit.

RULE 12.160. MOTIONS

~~Motions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.160.~~

All motions for the issuance of process and to enforce and execute judgments, for entering defaults, and for such other proceedings in the clerk's office not requiring an order of court must be deemed grantable as of course by the clerk. The clerk's action may be suspended, altered, or rescinded by the court upon good cause shown.

421 RULE 12.170. COUNTER~~CLAIMS~~ PETITIONS AND CROSSCLAIMS

~~Counterclaims and crossclaims shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.170, except that service of a crossclaim on a party who has appeared in the action, as provided in rule 1.170(g), shall be made pursuant to Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516(b).~~

(a) Compulsory Counterpetitions. A pleading must state as a counterpetition any claim which at the time of serving the pleading the pleader has against any opposing party, provided it arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the opposing party's claim and does not require for its adjudication the presence of third parties over whom the court cannot acquire jurisdiction. But the pleader need not state a claim if (1) at the time the action was commenced the claim was the subject of another pending action, or (2) the opposing party brought suit upon that party's claim by attachment or other process by which the court did not acquire jurisdiction to render a personal judgment on the claim and the pleader is not stating a counterpetition under this rule.

(b) Permissive Counterpetition. A pleading may state as a counterpetition any claim against an opposing party not arising out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the opposing party's claim.

(c) Counterclaim Exceeding Opposing Claim. A counterclaim may or may not diminish or defeat the recovery sought by the opposing party. It may claim relief exceeding in amount or different in kind from that sought in the pleading of the opposing party.

(d) Counterclaim Against the State. These rules shall not be construed to enlarge beyond the limits established by law the right to assert counterclaims or to claim credits against the state or any of its subdivisions or other governmental organizations of the state subject to suit or against a municipal corporation or against an officer, agency, or administrative board of the state.

(e) Counterclaim Maturing or Acquired after Pleading. A claim which matured or was acquired by the pleader after serving the pleading may be presented as a counterpetition by supplemental pleading with the permission of the court.

(f) Omitted Counterclaim or Crossclaim. When a pleader fails to set up a counterclaim or crossclaim through oversight, inadvertence, or excusable neglect, or when justice or equity requires, the pleader may set up the counterclaim or crossclaim by amendment with leave of the court.

(g) Crossclaim Against Co–Party. A pleading may state as a crossclaim any claim by one party against a co-party arising out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of either the original action or a counterclaim within the original action, or relating to any property that is the subject matter of the original action. The crossclaim may include a claim that the party against whom it is asserted is or may be liable to the crossclaimant for all or part of a claim asserted in the action against the crossclaimant. Service of a crossclaim on a party who has appeared in the action must be made under rule 12.080. Service of a crossclaim against a party who has not appeared in the action must be made in the manner provided for service of summons.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(h) Additional Parties May Be Brought In. When the presence of parties other than those to the original action is required to grant complete relief in the determination of a counterclaim or cross 422 claim, they must be named in the counterpetition or crossclaim and be served with process and will be parties to the action thereafter if jurisdiction of them can be obtained and their joinder will not deprive the court of jurisdiction of the action. Rules 12.250(b) and (c) apply to parties brought in under this subdivision.

(i) Separate Trials; Separate Judgment. If the court orders separate trials, a judgment on a counterclaim or crossclaim may be rendered when the court has jurisdiction to do so even if a claim of the opposing party has been dismissed or otherwise disposed of.

Committee Notes

[no change]

RULE 12.180. THIRD–PARTY PRACTICE

~~Third-party practice shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.180.~~

(a) When Available. At any time after commencement of the action a respondent may have a summons and petition served on a person not a party to the action who is or may be liable to the respondent for all or part of the petitioner's claim against the respondent, and may also assert any other claim that arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the petitioner's claim. The respondent need not obtain leave of court if the respondent files the third-party complaint not later than 20 days after the respondent serves the original answer. Otherwise, the respondent must obtain leave on motion and notice to all parties to the action. The person served with the summons and third-party complaint, the third-party respondent, must make defenses to the respondent's claim as provided in rules 12.110 and 12.140 and counterpetitions against the respondent and crossclaims against other third-party respondents as provided in rule 12.170. The third-party respondent may assert against the petitioner any defenses that the respondent has to the petitioner's claim.

(b) Additional Claims. The third-party respondent may also assert any claim against the petitioner arising out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the petitioner's claim against the respondent. The petitioner may assert any claim against the third-party respondent arising out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the petitioner's claim against the respondent, and the third-party respondent must assert a defense as provided in rules 12.110 and 12.140 and counterpetitions and crossclaims as provided in rule 12.170. Any party may move to strike the third-party claim or for its severance or separate trial. A third-party respondent may proceed under this rule against any person not a party to the action who is or may be liable to the third-party respondent for all or part of the claim made in the action against the third-party respondent.

(c) When Petitioner May Bring in Third Party. When a counterpetition is asserted against the petitioner, the petitioner may bring in a third party under circumstances which would entitle a respondent to do so under this rule.

RULE 12.190. AMENDED AND SUPPLEMENTAL PLEADINGS

~~Amended and supplemental pleadings shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.190.~~

(a) Amendments. A party may amend a pleading once as a matter of course at any time before a responsive pleading is served or, if the pleading is one to which no responsive pleading is permitted and the action has not been placed on the trial calendar, may so amend it at any time 423 within 20 days after it is served. Otherwise a party may amend a pleading only by leave of court or by written consent of the adverse party. If a party files a motion to amend a pleading, the party must attach the proposed amended pleading to the motion. Leave of court shall be given freely when justice so requires. A party must plead in response to an amended pleading within 10 days after service of the amended pleading unless the court otherwise orders.

(b) Amendments to Conform with the Evidence. When issues not raised by the pleadings are tried by express or implied consent of the parties, they will be treated in all respects as if they had been raised in the pleadings. Such amendment of the pleadings as may be necessary to cause them to conform to the evidence and to raise these issues may be made upon motion of any party at any time, even after judgment, but failure so to amend will not affect the result of the trial of these issues. If the evidence is objected to at the trial on the ground that it is not within the issues made by the pleadings, the court may allow the pleadings to be amended to conform with the evidence and must do so freely when the merits of the cause are more effectually presented thereby and the objecting party fails to satisfy the court that the admission of such evidence will prejudice the objecting party in maintaining an action or defense upon the merits.

(c) Relation Back of Amendments. When the claim or defense asserted in the amended pleading arose out of the conduct, transaction, or occurrence set forth or attempted to be set forth in the original pleading, the amendment must relate back to the date of the original pleading.

(d) Amendments Generally. At any time in furtherance of justice, upon such terms as may be just, the court may permit any process, proceeding, pleading, or record to be amended or material supplemental matter to be set forth in an amended or supplemental pleading. At every stage of the action the court must disregard any error or defect in the proceedings that does not affect the substantial rights of the parties.

~~RULE 12.201. COMPLEX LITIGATION~~

~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.201 shall not apply in proceedings governed by these rules.~~

RULE 12.210. PARTIES

~~Parties to an action filed under the Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.210, except that rule 1.210 shall not be read to require that a child is an indispensable party for a dissolution of marriage or action involving a parenting plan for a minor child or children.~~

(a) Parties Generally. Every action may be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, but a personal representative, administrator, guardian, trustee of an express trust, a party with whom or in whose name a contract has been made for the benefit of another, or a party expressly authorized by statute may sue in that person's own name without joining the party for whose benefit the action is brought. All persons having an interest in any subject of the action may be joined. Any person may at any time be made a party if that person's presence is necessary or proper for a complete determination of the cause.

(b) Minors, Incapacitated, or Incompetent Persons. When a minor, incapacitated, or incompetent person has a representative, such as a guardian or other like fiduciary, the representative may appear in the action on behalf of the minor, incapacitated, or incompetent person. A minor, 424 incapacitated, or incompetent person who does not have a duly appointed representative may appear by next friend or by a guardian ad litem. The court shall have the discretion to appoint a guardian ad litem and/or attorney ad litem for a minor, incapacitated, or incompetent person not otherwise represented in an action or shall make such other order as it deems proper for the protection of the minor, incapacitated, or incompetent person.

(c) Child as Party. This rule shall not be read to require that a child is an indispensable party for a dissolution of marriage or action involving a parenting plan.

RULE 12.230. INTERVENTIONS

~~Interventions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.230.~~

Anyone claiming an interest in pending litigation may, at any time, be permitted to assert a right by intervention, but the intervention must be in subordination to, and in recognition of, the propriety of the main proceeding, unless otherwise ordered by the court in its discretion.

RULE 12.240. INTERPLEADER

~~Interpleaders shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.240.~~

Persons having claims against the petitioner may be joined as parties and required to interplead when their claims are such that the petitioner is or may be exposed to double or multiple liability. It is not ground for objection to the joinder that the claim of the several claimants or the titles on which their claims depend do not have common origin or are not identical but are adverse to and independent of one another, or it is alleged that the petitioner is not liable in whole or in part to any or all of the claimants. A party exposed to similar liability may obtain such interpleader by way of crossclaim or counterpetition. The provisions of this rule supplement and do not in any way limit the joinder of parties otherwise permitted.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

RULE 12.250. MISJOINDER AND NONJOINDER OF PARTIES

~~Misjoinder and nonjoinder of parties shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.250.~~

(a) Misjoinder. Misjoinder of parties is not a ground for dismissal of an action. Any claim against a party may be severed and proceeded with separately.

(b) Dropping Parties. Parties may be dropped by an adverse party in the manner provided for voluntary dismissal in rule 12.420(a)(1) subject to the exception stated in that rule. If notice of lis pendens has been filed in the action against a party so dropped, the notice of dismissal must be recorded and cancels the notice of lis pendens without the necessity of a court order. Parties may be dropped by order of court on its own initiative or the motion of any party at any stage of the action on such terms as are just.

(c) Adding Parties. Parties may be added once as a matter of course within the same time that pleadings can be so amended under rule 12.190(a). If amendment by leave of court or stipulation of the parties is permitted, parties may be added in the amended pleading without further order of court. Parties may be added by order of court on its own initiative or on motion of any party at any stage of the action and on such terms as are just.

RULE 12.260. SURVIVOR; SUBSTITUTION OF PARTIES

~~Survivors and the substitution of parties shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.260.~~

(a) Death.

(1) If a party dies and the claim is not thereby extinguished, the court may order substitution of the proper parties. The mo 425 tion for substitution may be made by any party or by the successors or representatives of the deceased party and, together with the notice of hearing, must be served on all parties as provided in rule 12.080 and on persons not parties in the manner provided for the service of a summons. If a party dies while a proceeding is pending and that party's rights survive, the court may order the substitution of the proper party on its own motion or that of any interested person.

(2) In the event of the death of one or more of the petitioners or of one or more of the respondents in an action in which the right sought to be enforced survives only to the surviving petitioners or only against the surviving respondents, the action does not abate. The death shall be suggested on the record and the action proceeds in favor of or against the surviving parties.

(b) Incapacity. If a party becomes incapacitated, the court may allow the action to be continued by or against that person's representative.

(c) Transfer of Interest. In case of any transfer of interest, the action may be continued by or against the original party, unless the court upon motion directs the person to whom the interest is transferred to be substituted in the action or joined with the original party. Service of the motion must be made as provided in subdivision (a).

(d) Public Officers; Death or Separation from Office.

(1) When a public officer is a party to an action in an official capacity and during its pendency dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold office, the action does not abate and the officer's successor is automatically substituted as a party. Proceedings following the substitution must be in the name of the substituted party, but any misnomer not affecting the substantial rights of the parties must be disregarded. An order of substitution may be entered at any time, but the omission to enter such an order does not affect the substitution.

(2) When a public officer sues or is sued in an official capacity, the officer may be described as a party by the official title rather than by name but the court may require the officer's name to be added.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

RULE 12.270. RELATED CASES AND CONSOLIDATION; ~~SEPARATE TRIALS~~

~~Consolidation or separation of trials shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.270.~~

Related cases and consolidation of cases are governed by Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.545.

RULE 12.280. GENERAL PROVISIONS GOVERNING DISCOVERY

~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.280 shall govern general provisions concerning discovery in family law matters with the following exceptions:~~

(a) Discovery Methods. Parties may obtain discovery by 1 or more of the following methods: depositions upon oral examination or written questions; written interrogatories; production of documents or things or permission to enter on land or other property for inspection and other purposes; physical and mental examinations; and requests for admission. Unless the court orders otherwise and under subdivision (d), the frequency of use of these methods is not limited, except as provided in rules 12.200, 12.340, and 12.370.

(b) Redaction of Personal Information. All filings of discovery information ~~shall~~ must comply with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425. The court ~~shall have~~ has the authority to impose sanctions for violation of this rule.

*426 (c) Scope of Discovery. Unless otherwise limited by order of the court in accordance with these rules, the scope of discovery is as follows:

(1) In General. Parties may obtain discovery regarding any matter, not privileged, that is relevant to the subject matter of the pending action, whether it relates to the claim or defense of the party seeking discovery or the claim or defense of any other party, including the existence, description, nature, custody, condition, and location of any books, documents, or other tangible things and the identity and location of persons having knowledge of any discoverable matter. It is not grounds for objection that the information sought will be inadmissible at the trial if the information sought appears reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

(2) Indemnity Agreements. A party may obtain discovery of the existence and contents of any agreement under which any person may be liable to satisfy part or all of a judgment that may be entered in the action or to indemnify or to reimburse a party for payments made to satisfy the judgment.

(3) Electronically Stored Information. A party may obtain discovery of electronically stored information in accordance with these rules.

(4) Trial Preparation: Materials. Subject to the provisions of subdivision (c)(5), a party may obtain discovery of documents and tangible things otherwise discoverable under subdivision (c)(1) and prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial by or for another party or by or for that party's representative, including that party's attorney, consultant, or agent, only on a showing that the party seeking discovery has need of the materials in the preparation of the case and is unable without undue hardship to obtain the substantial equivalent of the materials by other means. In ordering discovery of the materials when the required showing has been made, the court must protect against disclosure of the mental impressions, conclusions, opinions, or legal theories of an attorney or other representative of a party concerning the litigation. Without the required showing a party may obtain a copy of a statement concerning the action or its subject matter previously made by that party. On request without the required showing a person not a party may obtain a copy of a statement concerning the action or its subject matter previously made by that person. If the request is refused, the person may move for an order to obtain a copy. The provisions of rule 12.380(a)(4) apply to the award of expenses incurred as a result of making the motion. For purposes of this subdivision, a statement previously made is a written statement signed or otherwise adopted or approved by the person making it, or a stenographic, mechanical, electrical, or other recording or transcription of it that is a substantially verbatim recital of an oral statement by the person making it and contemporaneously recorded.

(5) Trial Preparation: Experts. Discovery of facts known and opinions held by experts, otherwise discoverable under the provisions of subdivision (c)(1) and acquired or developed in anticipation of litigation or for trial, may be obtained as follows:

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(A) (i) By interrogatories a party may require any other party to identify each person whom the other party expects to call as an expert witness at trial and to state the subject matter on which the expert is expected to testify, and to state the substance of the facts and opinions to which the expert is expected to testify and 427 a summary of the grounds for each opinion.

(ii) Any person disclosed by interrogatories or otherwise as a person expected to be called as an expert witness at trial may be deposed in accordance with rule 12.390 without motion or order of court.

(iii) A party may obtain the following discovery regarding any person disclosed by interrogatories or otherwise as a person expected to be called as an expert witness at trial:

a. The scope of employment in the pending case and the compensation for such service.

b. The expert's general litigation experience, including the percentage of work performed for petitioners and respondents.

c. The identity of other cases, within a reasonable time period, in which the expert has testified by deposition or at trial.

d. An approximation of the portion of the expert's involvement as an expert witness, which may be based on the number of hours, percentage of hours, or percentage of earned income derived from serving as an expert witness; however, the expert must not be required to disclose his or her earnings as an expert witness or income derived from other services.

An expert may be required to produce financial and business records only under the most unusual or compelling circumstances and may not be compelled to compile or produce nonexistent documents. On motion, the court may order further discovery by other means, subject to such restrictions as to scope and other provisions under subdivision (c)(5)(C) concerning fees and expenses as the court may deem appropriate.

(B) A party may discover facts known or opinions held by an expert who has been retained or specially employed by another party in anticipation of litigation or preparation for trial and who is not expected to be called as a witness at trial, only as provided in rule 12.360(b) or on a showing of exceptional circumstances under which it is impracticable for the party seeking discovery to obtain facts or opinions on the same subject by other means.

(C) Unless manifest injustice would result, the court must require that the party seeking discovery pay the expert a reasonable fee for time spent in responding to discovery under subdivisions (c)(5)(A) and (c)(5)(B); and concerning discovery from an expert obtained under subdivision (c)(5)(A) the court may require, and concerning discovery obtained under subdivision (c)(5)(B) must require, the party seeking discovery to pay the other party a fair part of the fees and expenses reasonably incurred by the latter party in obtaining facts and opinions from the expert.

(D) As used in these rules an expert shall be an expert witness as defined in rule 12.390.

(6) Claims of Privilege or Protection of Trial Preparation Materials. When a party withholds information otherwise discoverable under these rules by claiming that it is privileged or subject to protection as trial preparation material, the party must make the claim expressly and must describe the nature of the documents, communications, or things not produced or disclosed in a manner that, without revealing information itself privileged or protected, will enable other parties to assess the applicability of the privilege or protection.

(d) Protective Orders. On motion by a party or by the person from whom discovery is sought, and for good cause shown, the court in which the action is pending may make any order to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense 428 that justice requires, including one or more of the following:

(1) that the discovery not be had;

(2) that the discovery may be had only on specified terms and conditions, including a designation of the time or place;

(3) that the discovery may be had only by a method of discovery other than that selected by the party seeking discovery;

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(4) that certain matters not be inquired into, or that the scope of the discovery be limited to certain matters;

(5) that the discovery be conducted with no one present except persons designated by the court;

(6) that a deposition after being sealed be opened only by order of the court;

(7) that a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information not be disclosed or be disclosed only in a designated way; and

(8) that the parties simultaneously file specified documents or information enclosed in sealed envelopes to be opened as directed by the court.

If the motion for a protective order is denied in whole or in part, the court may, on such terms and conditions as are just, order that any party or person provide or permit discovery. The provisions of rule 12.380(a)(4) apply to the award of expenses incurred in relation to the motion.

(e) Limitations on Discovery of Electronically Stored Information.

(1) A person may object to discovery of electronically stored information from sources that the person identifies as not reasonably accessible because of burden or cost. On motion to compel discovery or for a protective order, the person from whom the discovery is sought must show that the information sought or the format requested is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. If that showing is made, the court may nonetheless order the discovery from such sources or in such formats if the requesting party shows good cause. The court may specify conditions of the discovery, including ordering that some or all of the expenses incurred by the person from whom discovery is sought be paid by the party seeking discovery.

(2) In determining any motion involving discovery of electronically stored information, the court must limit the frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by these rules if it determines that

(A) the discovery sought is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative, or can be obtained from another source or in another manner that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive; or

(B) the burden or expense of the discovery outweighs its likely benefit, considering the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, the parties' resources, the importance of the issues at stake in the action, and the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues.

(f) Sequence and Timing of Discovery. Except as provided in subdivision (c)(5) or unless the court upon motion for the convenience of parties and witnesses and in the interest of justice orders otherwise, methods of discovery may be used in any sequence, and the fact that a party is conducting discovery, whether by deposition or otherwise, does not delay any other party's discovery.

(b g) Supplementing of Responses. A party is under a duty to amend a prior response or disclosure if the party:

(1) obtains information or otherwise determines that the prior response or disclosure was incorrect when made; or

(2) obtains information or otherwise determines that the prior response or dis 429 closure, although correct when made, is no longer materially true or complete.

(c h) Time for Serving Supplemental Responses. Any supplemental response served ~~pursuant to~~ under this rule ~~shall~~ must be served as soon as possible after discovery of the incorrect information or change, but in no case ~~shall~~ may the supplemental response be served later than 24 hours before any applicable hearing absent a showing of good cause.

(d i) ~~Documents Considered Confidential~~ Confidentiality of Records. A determination as to the confidentiality of a court record ~~shall~~ must be made in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.420. Records found to be confidential under Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.420 must be sealed on request of a party.

~~(e) Sealing of Records. Records found to be confidential under Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.420 shall be sealed on request of a party.~~

(j) Court Filing of Documents and Discovery. Information obtained during discovery must not be filed with the court until such time as it is filed for good cause. The requirement of good cause is satisfied only where the filing of the information is allowed or required by another applicable rule of procedure or by court order.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.281. INADVERTENT DISCLOSURE OF PRIVILEGED MATERIALS

~~Inadvertent disclosure of privileged materials shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.285.~~

(a) Assertion of Privilege as to Inadvertently Disclosed Materials. Any party, person, or entity, after inadvertent disclosure of any materials under these rules, may thereafter assert any privilege recognized by law as to those materials. This right exists without regard to whether the disclosure was made under formal demand or informal request. To assert the privilege, the party, person, or entity must, within 10 days of actually discovering the inadvertent disclosure, serve written notice of the assertion of privilege on the party to whom the materials were disclosed. The notice must specify with particularity the materials as to which the privilege is asserted, the nature of the privilege asserted, and the date on which the inadvertent disclosure was actually discovered.

(b) Duty of the Party Receiving Notice of an Assertion of Privilege. A party receiving notice of an assertion of privilege under subdivision (a) must promptly return, sequester, or destroy the materials specified in the notice, as well as any copies of the material. The party receiving the notice must also promptly notify any other party, person, or entity to whom it has disclosed the materials of the fact that the notice has been served and of the effect of this rule. That party must also take reasonable steps to retrieve the materials disclosed. Nothing herein affects any obligation under Rules Regulating the Florida Bar 4-4.4(b).

(c) Right to Challenge Assertion of Privilege. Any party receiving a notice made under subdivision (a) has the right to challenge the assertion of privilege. The grounds for the challenge may include, but are not limited to, the following:

(1) The materials in question are not privileged.

(2) The disclosing party, person, or entity lacks standing to assert the privilege.

(3) The disclosing party, person, or entity has failed to serve timely notice under this rule.

*430 (4) The circumstances surrounding the production or disclosure of the materials warrant a finding that the disclosing party, person, or entity has waived its assertion that the material is protected by a privilege.

Any party seeking to challenge the assertion of privilege must do so by serving notice of its challenge on the party, person, or entity asserting the privilege. Notice of the challenge must be served within 20 days of service of the original notice given by the disclosing party, person, or entity. The notice of the recipient's challenge must specify the grounds for the challenge. Failure to serve timely notice of challenge is a waiver of the right to challenge.

(d) Effect of Determination that Privilege Applies. When an order is entered determining that materials are privileged or that the right to challenge the privilege has been waived, the court must direct what is to be done with the materials and any copies so as to preserve all rights of appellate review. The recipient of the materials must also give prompt notice of the court's determination to any other party, person, or entity to whom it had disclosed the materials.

RULE 12.285. MANDATORY DISCLOSURE

(a) Application.

(1) Scope. This rule ~~shall apply~~ applies to all proceedings within the scope of these rules except proceedings involving adoption, simplified dissolution, enforcement, contempt, injunctions for protection against domestic, repeat, dating, or sexual violence, or stalking, and uncontested dissolutions when the respondent is served by publication and does not file an answer. Additionally, no financial affidavit or other documents shall be required under this rule from a party seeking attorneys' fees, suit money, or costs, if the basis for the request is solely under section 57.105, Florida Statutes, or any successor statute. Except for the provisions as to financial affidavits and child support guidelines worksheets, any portion of this rule may be modified by order of the court or agreement of the parties.

(2) Original and Duplicate Copies. Unless otherwise agreed by the parties or ordered by the court, copies of documents required under this rule may be produced in lieu of originals. Originals, when available, ~~shall~~ must be produced for inspection upon request. Parties shall not be required to serve duplicates of documents previously served.

(3) Documents Not to be Filed with Court; Sanctions.

(A) Except for the financial affidavit and child support guidelines worksheet, no documents produced under this rule shall be filed in the court file without first obtaining a court order.

(B) References to account numbers and personal identifying information to be filed in the court file ~~shall be~~ are governed by Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425.

(C) Sanctions ~~shall be~~ are governed by ~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.280(f)~~ rule 12.380.

(b) Time for Production of Documents.

(1) Temporary Financial Relief Hearings. Any document required under this rule in any temporary financial relief proceeding ~~shall~~ must be served on the other party for inspection and copying as follows.

(A) The party seeking relief ~~shall~~ must serve the required documents on the other party with the notice of temporary financial hearing, unless the documents have 431 been served under subdivision (b)(2) ~~of this rule~~ .

(B) The responding party ~~shall~~ must serve the required documents on the party seeking relief on or before 5:00 p.m., 2 business days before the day of the temporary financial relief hearing if served by delivery or 7 days before the day of the temporary financial relief hearing if served by mail or e-mail, unless the documents have been received previously by the party seeking relief under subdivision (b)(2) ~~of this rule~~ . A responding party ~~shall~~ must be given no less than 12 days to serve the documents required under this rule, unless otherwise ordered by the court. If the 45–day period for exchange of documents provided for in subdivision (b)(2) ~~of this rule~~ will occur before the expiration of the 12 days, the provisions of subdivision (b)(2) control.

(2) Initial and Supplemental Proceedings. Any document required under this rule for any initial or supplemental proceeding ~~shall~~ must be served on the other party for inspection and copying within 45 days of service of the initial pleading on the respondent.

(c) Exemption from Requirement to File and Serve Financial Affidavit. The parties ~~shall~~ are not ~~be~~ required to file and serve a financial affidavit under subdivisions (d) and (e) if they are seeking a simplified dissolution of marriage under rule 12.105, they have no minor children, have no support issues, and have filed a written settlement agreement disposing of all financial issues, or if the court lacks jurisdiction to determine any financial issues.

(d) Disclosure Requirements for Temporary Financial Relief. In any proceeding for temporary financial relief heard within 45 days of the service of the initial pleading or within any extension of the time for complying with mandatory disclosure granted by the court or agreed to by the parties, the following documents ~~shall~~ must be served on the other party:

(1) A financial affidavit in substantial conformity with Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b) if the party's gross annual income is less than $50,000, or Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(c) if the party's gross annual income is equal to or more than $50,000. This requirement cannot be waived by the parties. The affidavit must also be filed with the court.

(2) All federal and state income tax returns, gift tax returns, and intangible personal property tax returns filed by the party or on the party's behalf for the past year. A party may file a transcript of the tax return as provided by Internal Revenue Service Form 4506 T in lieu of his or her individual federal income tax return for purposes of a temporary hearing.

(3) IRS forms W–2, 1099, and K–1 for the past year, if the income tax return for that year has not been prepared.

(4) Pay stubs or other evidence of earned income for the 3 months ~~prior to~~ before service of the financial affidavit.

(e) Parties' Disclosure Requirements for Initial or Supplemental Proceedings. A party ~~shall~~ must serve the following documents in any proceeding for an initial or supplemental request for permanent financial relief, including, but not limited to, a request for child support, alimony, equitable distribution of assets or debts, or attorneys' fees, suit money, or costs:

(1) A financial affidavit in substantial conformity with Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b) if the party's gross annual income is less than $50,000, or Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(c) if the party's gross annual 432 income is equal to or more than $50,000, which requirement cannot be waived by the parties. The financial affidavits must also be filed with the court. A party may request, by using the Standard Family Law Interrogatories, or the court on its own motion may order, a party whose gross annual income is less than $50,000 to complete Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(c).

(2) All federal and state income tax returns, gift tax returns, and intangible personal property tax returns filed by the party or on the party's behalf for the past 3 years.

(3) IRS forms W–2, 1099, and K–1 for the past year, if the income tax return for that year has not been prepared.

(4) Pay stubs or other evidence of earned income for the 3 months ~~prior to~~ before service of the financial affidavit.

(5) A statement by the producing party identifying the amount and source of all income received from any source during the 3 months preceding the service of the financial affidavit required by this rule if not reflected on the pay stubs produced.

(6) All loan applications and financial statements prepared or used within the 12 months preceding service of that party's financial affidavit required by this rule, whether for the purpose of obtaining or attempting to obtain credit or for any other purpose.

(7) All deeds within the last 3 years, all promissory notes within the last 12 months, and all present leases, in which the party owns or owned an interest, whether held in the party's name individually, in the party's name jointly with any other person or entity, in the party's name as trustee or guardian for any other person, or in someone else's name on the party's behalf.

(8) All periodic statements from the last 3 months for all checking accounts, and from the last 12 months for all other accounts (for example, savings accounts, money market funds, certificates of deposit, etc.), regardless of whether or not the account has been closed, including those held in the party's name individually, in the party's name jointly with any other person or entity, in the party's name as trustee or guardian for any other person, or in someone else's name on the party's behalf.

(9) All brokerage account statements in which either party to this action held within the last 12 months or holds an interest including those held in the party's name individually, in the party's name jointly with any person or entity, in the party's name as trustee or guardian for any other person, or in someone else's name on the party's behalf.

(10) The most recent statement for any profit sharing, retirement, deferred compensation, or pension plan (for example, IRA, 401(k), 403(b), SEP, KEOGH, or other similar account) in which the party is a participant or alternate payee and the summary plan description for any retirement, profit sharing, or pension plan in which the party is a participant or an alternate payee. (The summary plan description must be furnished to the party on request by the plan administrator as required by 29 U.S.C. § 1024(b)(4).)

(11) The declarations page, the last periodic statement, and the certificate for all life insurance policies insuring the party's life or the life of the party's spouse, whether group insurance or otherwise, and all current health and dental insurance cards covering either of the parties and/or their dependent children.

(12) Corporate, partnership, and trust tax returns for the last 3 tax years if the party has an ownership or interest in a 433 corporation, partnership, or trust greater than or equal to 30%.

(13) All promissory notes for the last 12 months, all credit card and charge account statements and other records showing the party's indebtedness as of the date of the filing of this action and for the last 3 months, and all present lease agreements, whether owed in the party's name individually, in the party's name jointly with any other person or entity, in the party's name as trustee or guardian for any other person, or in someone else's name on the party's behalf.

(14) All written premarital or marital agreements entered into at any time between the parties to this marriage, whether before or during the marriage. Additionally, in any modification proceeding, each party ~~shall~~ must serve on the opposing party all written agreements entered into between them at any time since the order to be modified was entered.

(15) All documents and tangible evidence supporting the producing party's claim that an asset or liability is nonmarital, for enhancement or appreciation of nonmarital property, or for an unequal distribution of marital property. The documents and tangible evidence produced ~~shall~~ must be for the time period from the date of acquisition of the asset or debt to the date of production or from the date of the marriage, if based on premarital acquisition.

(16) Any court orders directing a party to pay or receive spousal or child support.

(f) Duty to Supplement Disclosure; Amended Financial Affidavit.

(1) Parties have a continuing duty to supplement documents described in this rule, including financial affidavits, whenever a material change in their financial status occurs.

(2) If an amended financial affidavit or an amendment to a financial affidavit is filed, the amending party ~~shall~~ must also serve any subsequently discovered or acquired documents supporting the amendments to the financial affidavit.

(g) [no change]

(h) Extensions of Time for Complying with Mandatory Disclosure. By agreement of the parties, the time for complying with mandatory disclosure may be extended. Either party may also file, at least 5 days before the due date, a motion to enlarge the time for complying with mandatory disclosure. The court ~~shall~~ must grant the request for good cause shown.

(i) Objections to Mandatory Automatic Disclosure. Objections to the mandatory automatic disclosure required by this rule shall be served in writing at least 5 days ~~prior to~~ before the due date for the disclosure or the objections shall be deemed waived. The filing of a timely objection, with a notice of hearing on the objection, automatically stays mandatory disclosure for those matters within the scope of the objection. For good cause shown, the court may extend the time for the filing of an objection or permit the filing of an otherwise untimely objection. The court ~~shall~~ must impose sanctions for the filing of meritless or frivolous objections.

(j) Certificate of Compliance. All parties subject to automatic mandatory disclosure ~~shall~~ must file with the court a certificate of compliance, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.932, identifying with particularity the documents which have been delivered and certifying the date of service of the financial affidavit and documents by that party. The party ~~shall~~ must swear or affirm under oath that the disclosure is complete, accurate, and in compliance with this rule, unless 434 the party indicates otherwise, with specificity, in the certificate of compliance.

(k) Child Support Guidelines Worksheet. If the case involves child support, the parties ~~shall~~ must file with the court at or ~~prior to~~ before a hearing to establish or modify child support a Child Support Guidelines Worksheet in substantial conformity with Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(e). This requirement cannot be waived by the parties.

(l) Place of Production.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed by the parties or ordered by the court, all production required by this rule ~~shall~~ takes place in the county where the action is pending and in the office of the attorney for the party receiving production. Unless otherwise agreed by the parties or ordered by the court, if a party does not have an attorney or if the attorney does not have an office in the county where the action is pending, production ~~shall~~ take s place in the county where the action is pending at a place designated in writing by the party receiving production, served at least 5 days before the due date for production.

(2) If venue is contested, on motion by a party the court ~~shall~~ must designate the place where production will occur pending determination of the venue issue.

(m) [no change]

Commentary

[no change]

Committee Notes

[no change]

RULE 12.290. DEPOSITIONS BEFORE ACTION OR PENDING APPEAL

~~Depositions before an action or pending an appeal shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.290.~~

(a) Before Action.

(1) Petition. A person who desires to perpetuate that person's own testimony or that of another person regarding any matter that may be cognizable in any court of this state may file a verified petition in the circuit court in the county of the residence of any expected adverse party. The petition must:

(A) be titled in the name of the petitioner; and

(B) show:

(i) that the petitioner expects to be a party to an action cognizable in a court of Florida, but is presently unable to bring it or cause it to be brought,

(ii) the subject matter of the expected action and the petitioner's interest in it,

(iii) the facts which the petitioner desires to establish by the proposed testimony and the petitioner's reasons for desiring to perpetuate it,

(iv) the names or a description of the persons the petitioner expects will be adverse parties and their addresses so far as known, and

(v) the names and addresses of the persons to be examined and the substance of the testimony that the petitioner expects to elicit from each; and must ask for an order authorizing the petitioner to take the deposition of the persons to be examined named in the petition for the purpose of perpetuating their testimony.

(2) Notice and Service. The petitioner must serve a notice on each person named in the petition as an expected adverse party, together with a copy of the petition, stating that the petitioner will apply to the court at a time and place named therein for an order described in the petition. At least 20 days before the date of hearing the notice must be served either within or without the county in the manner provided 435 by law for service of summons, but if such service cannot with due diligence be made on any expected adverse party named in the petition, the court may make an order for service by publication or otherwise, and must appoint an attorney for persons not served in the manner provided by law for service of summons who will represent them, and if they are not otherwise represented, will cross-examine the deponent.

(3) Order and Examination. If the court is satisfied that the perpetuation of the testimony may prevent a failure or delay of justice, it must make an order designating or describing the persons whose depositions may be taken and specifying the subject matter of the examination and whether the deposition shall be taken upon oral examination or written interrogatories. The deposition may then be taken in accordance with these rules and the court may make orders in accordance with the requirements of these rules. For the purpose of applying these rules to depositions for perpetuating testimony, each reference to the court in which the action is pending shall be deemed to refer to the court in which the petition for deposition was filed.

(4) Use of Deposition. A deposition taken under this rule may be used in any action involving the same subject matter subsequently brought in any court in accordance with rule 12.330.

(b) Pending Appeal. If an appeal has been taken from a judgment of any court or before the taking of an appeal if the time therefor has not expired, the court in which the judgment was rendered may allow the taking of the depositions of witnesses to perpetuate their testimony for use in the event of further proceedings in the court. In such case the party who desires to perpetuate the testimony may make a motion for leave to take the deposition on the same notice and service as if the action was pending in the court. The motion must show (1) the names and addresses of persons to be examined and the substance of the testimony which the movant expects to elicit from each, and (2) the reason for perpetuating their testimony. If the court finds that the perpetuation of the testimony is proper to avoid a failure or delay in justice, it may make an order allowing the deposition to be taken and may make orders of the character provided for by these rules, and thereupon the deposition may be taken and used in the same manner and under the same conditions as are prescribed in these rules for depositions taken in actions pending in the court.

(c) Perpetuation by Action. This rule does not limit the power of a court to entertain an action to perpetuate testimony.

RULE 12.300. PERSONS BEFORE WHOM DEPOSITIONS MAY BE TAKEN

~~Provisions regarding who may take depositions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.300.~~

(a) Persons Authorized. Depositions may be taken before any notary public or judicial officer or before any officer authorized by the statutes of Florida to take acknowledgments or proof of executions of deeds or by any person appointed by the court in which the action is pending.

(b) In Foreign Countries. In a foreign country, depositions may be taken (1) on notice before a person authorized to administer oaths in the place in which the examination is held, either by the law thereof or by the law of Florida or of the United States, (2) before a person commissioned by the court, and a person so commissioned shall have the power by virtue of the commission to administer any neces 436 sary oath and take testimony, or (3) pursuant to a letter of request. A commission or a letter of request must be issued on application and notice and on terms that are just and appropriate. It is not requisite to the issuance of a commission or a letter of request that the taking of the deposition in any other manner is impracticable or inconvenient, and both a commission and a letter of request may be issued in proper cases. A notice or commission may designate the person before whom the deposition is to be taken either by name or descriptive title. A letter of request may be addressed "To the Appropriate Authority in .....(name of country)....." Evidence obtained in response to a letter of request need not be excluded merely for the reason that it is not a verbatim transcript or that the testimony was not taken under oath or any similar departure from the requirements for depositions taken within Florida under these rules.

(c) Selection by Stipulation. If the parties so stipulate in writing, depositions may be taken before any person at any time or place upon any notice and in any manner and when so taken may be used like other depositions.

(d) Persons Disqualified. Unless so stipulated by the parties, no deposition may be taken before a person who is a relative, employee, attorney, or counsel of any of the parties, is a relative or employee of any of the parties' attorneys or counsel, or is financially interested in the action.

RULE 12.310. DEPOSITIONS UPON ORAL EXAMINATION

~~Depositions upon oral examination shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.310.~~

(a) When Depositions May Be Taken. After commencement of the action any party may take the testimony of any person, including a party, by deposition upon oral examination. Leave of court, granted with or without notice, must be obtained only if the petitioner seeks to take a deposition within 30 days after service of the process and initial pleading on any respondent, except that leave is not required (1) if a respondent has served a notice of taking deposition or otherwise sought discovery, or (2) if special notice is given as provided in subdivision (b)(2). The attendance of witnesses may be compelled by subpoena as provided in rule 12.410. The deposition of a person confined in prison may be taken only by leave of court on such terms as the court prescribes.

(b) Notice; Method of Taking; Production at Deposition.

(1) A party desiring to take the deposition of any person upon oral examination must give reasonable notice in writing to every other party to the action. The notice must state the time and place for taking the deposition and the name and address of each person to be examined, if known, and, if the name is not known, a general description sufficient to identify the person or the particular class or group to which the person belongs. If a subpoena duces tecum is to be served on the person to be examined, the designation of the materials to be produced under the subpoena must be attached to or included in the notice.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(2) Leave of court is not required for the taking of a deposition by petitioner if the notice states that the person to be examined is about to go out of the state and will be unavailable for examination unless a deposition is taken before expiration of the 30–day period under subdivision (a). If a party shows that when served with notice under this subdivision that party was unable through the exercise of diligence to obtain counsel to represent the party at the taking of the deposition, the 437 deposition may not be used against that party.

(3) For cause shown the court may enlarge or shorten the time for taking the deposition.

(4) Any deposition may be recorded by videotape without leave of the court or stipulation of the parties, provided the deposition is taken in accordance with this subdivision.

(A) Notice. A party intending to videotape a deposition must state in the notice that the deposition is to be videotaped and must give the name and address of the operator. Any subpoena served on the person to be examined must state the method or methods for recording the testimony.

(B) Court Reporter. Videotaped depositions must also be stenographically recorded by a certified court reporter, unless all parties agree otherwise.

(C) Procedure. At the beginning of the deposition, the officer before whom it is taken must, on camera: (i) identify the style of the action, (ii) state the date, and (iii) swear in the witness.

(D) Custody of Tape and Copies. The attorney for the party requesting the videotaping of the deposition must take custody of and be responsible for the safeguarding of the videotape, must permit the viewing of it by the opposing party, and, if requested, must provide a copy of the videotape at the expense of the party requesting the copy.

(E) Cost of Videotaped Depositions. The party requesting the videotaping bears the initial cost of videotaping.

(5) The notice to a party deponent may be accompanied by a request made in compliance with rule 12.350 for the production of documents and tangible things at the taking of the deposition. The procedure of rule 12.350 applies to the request. Rule 12.351 provides the exclusive procedure for obtaining documents or things by subpoena from nonparties without deposing the custodian or other person in possession of the documents.

(6) In the notice a party may name as the deponent a public or private corporation, a partnership or association, or a governmental agency, and designate with reasonable particularity the matters on which examination is requested. The organization so named must designate one or more officers, directors, or managing agents, or other persons who consent to do so, to testify on its behalf and may state the matters on which each person designated will testify. The persons so designated must testify about matters known or reasonably available to the organization. This subdivision does not preclude taking a deposition by any other procedure authorized in these rules.

(7) On motion the court may order that the testimony at a deposition be taken by telephone. The order may prescribe the manner in which the deposition will be taken. A party may also arrange for a stenographic transcription at that party's own initial expense.

(8) Any minor subpoenaed for testimony has the right to be accompanied by a parent, guardian, guardian ad litem, or attorney ad litem at all times during the taking of testimony notwithstanding the invocation of the rule of sequestration of section 90.616, Florida Statutes, except on a showing that the presence of a parent or guardian is likely to have a material, negative impact on the credibility or accuracy of the minor's testimony, or that the interests of the parent or guardian are in actual or potential conflict with the interests of the minor. The provisions of this subdivision do not alter the requirements of rule 12.407 that a court order must be obtained 438 before a minor child may be deposed or brought to a deposition.

(c) Examination and Cross–Examination; Record of Examination; Oath; Objections. Examination and cross-examination of witnesses may proceed as permitted at the trial. The officer before whom the deposition is to be taken must put the witness on oath and must personally, or by someone acting under the officer's direction and in the officer's presence, record the testimony of the witness, except that when a deposition is being taken by telephone, the witness must be sworn by a person present with the witness who is qualified to administer an oath in that location. The testimony must be taken stenographically or recorded by any other means ordered in accordance with subdivision (b)(4). If requested by one of the parties, the testimony must be transcribed at the initial cost of the requesting party and prompt notice of the request must be given to all other parties. All objections made at the time of the examination to the qualifications of the officer taking the deposition, the manner of taking it, the evidence presented, or the conduct of any party, and any other objection to the proceedings must be noted by the officer during the deposition. Any objection during a deposition must be stated concisely and in a nonargumentative and nonsuggestive manner. A party may instruct a deponent not to answer only when necessary to preserve a privilege, to enforce a limitation on evidence directed by the court, or to present a motion under subdivision (d). Otherwise, evidence objected to must be taken subject to the objections. Instead of participating in the oral examination, parties may serve written questions in a sealed envelope on the party taking the deposition and that party must transmit them to the officer, who must propound them to the witness and record the answers verbatim.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(d) Motion to Terminate or Limit Examination. At any time during the taking of the deposition, on motion of a party or of the deponent and on a showing that the examination is being conducted in bad faith or in such manner as unreasonably to annoy, embarrass, or oppress the deponent or party, or that objection and instruction to a deponent not to answer are being made in violation of subdivision (c), the court in which the action is pending or the circuit court where the deposition is being taken may order the officer conducting the examination to cease immediately from taking the deposition or may limit the scope and manner of the taking of the deposition under rule 12.280(d). If the order terminates the examination, it shall be resumed thereafter only on the order of the court in which the action is pending. On demand of any party or the deponent, the taking of the deposition must be suspended for the time necessary to make a motion for an order. The provisions of rule 12.380(a)(4) apply to the award of expenses incurred in relation to the motion.

(e) Witness Review. If the testimony is transcribed, the transcript must be furnished to the witness for examination and must be read to or by the witness unless the examination and reading are waived by the witness and by the parties. Any changes in form or substance that the witness wants to make must be listed in writing by the officer with a statement of the reasons given by the witness for making the changes. The changes must be attached to the transcript. It must then be signed by the witness unless the parties waived the signing or the witness is ill, cannot be found, or refuses to sign. If the transcript is not signed by the witness within a reasonable time after it is furnished to the witness, the officer signs the 439 transcript and states on the transcript the waiver, illness, absence of the witness, or refusal to sign with any reasons given. The deposition may then be used as fully as though signed unless the court holds that the reasons given for the refusal to sign require rejection of the deposition wholly or partly, on motion under rule 12.330(d)(4).

(f) Filing; Exhibits.

(1) If the deposition is transcribed, the officer must certify on each copy of the deposition that the witness was duly sworn by the officer and that the deposition is a true record of the testimony given by the witness. Documents and things produced for inspection during the examination of the witness must be marked for identification and annexed to and returned with the deposition on the request of a party, and may be inspected and copied by any party, except that the person producing the materials may substitute copies to be marked for identification if that person affords to all parties fair opportunity to verify the copies by comparison with the originals. If the person producing the materials requests their return, the officer must mark them, give each party an opportunity to inspect and copy them, and return them to the person producing them and the materials may then be used in the same manner as if annexed to and returned with the deposition.

(2) On payment of reasonable charges therefor the officer must furnish a copy of the deposition to any party or to the deponent.

(3) A copy of a deposition may be filed only under the following circumstances:

(A) It may be filed in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425 and rule 12.280(j) by a party or the witness when the contents of the deposition must be considered by the court on any matter pending before the court. Prompt notice of the filing of the deposition must be given to all parties unless notice is waived. A party filing the deposition must furnish a copy of the deposition or the part being filed to other parties unless the party already has a copy.

(B) If the court determines that a deposition previously taken is necessary for the decision of a matter pending before the court, the court may order that a copy be filed by any party at the initial cost of the party, and the filing party must comply with rules 2.425 and 12.280(j).

(g) Obtaining Copies. A party or witness who does not have a copy of the deposition may obtain it from the officer taking the deposition unless the court orders otherwise. If the deposition is obtained from a person other than the officer, the reasonable cost of reproducing the copies must be paid to the person by the requesting party or witness.

(h) Failure to Attend or to Serve Subpoena; Expenses.

(1) If the party giving the notice of the taking of a deposition fails to attend and proceed with the deposition and another party attends in person or by attorney pursuant to the notice, the court may order the party giving the notice to pay to the other 440 party the reasonable expenses incurred by the other party and the other party's attorney in attending, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

(2) If the party giving the notice of the taking of a deposition of a witness fails to serve a subpoena on the witness and the witness because of the failure does not attend and if another party attends in person or by attorney because that other party expects the deposition of that witness to be taken, the court may order the party giving the notice to pay to the other party the reasonable expenses incurred by that other party and that other party's attorney in attending, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

Committee Note

[no change]

RULE 12.320. DEPOSITIONS UPON WRITTEN QUESTIONS

~~Depositions upon written questions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.320.~~

(a) Serving Questions; Notice. After commencement of the action any party may take the testimony of any person, including a party, by deposition upon written questions. The attendance of witnesses may be compelled by the use of subpoena as provided in rule 12.410. The deposition of a person confined in prison may be taken only by leave of court on such terms as the court prescribes. A party desiring to take a deposition upon written questions must serve them with a notice stating

(1) the name and address of the person who is to answer them, if known, and, if the name is not known, a general description sufficient to identify the person or the particular class or group to which that person belongs, and

(2) the name or descriptive title and address of the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken. Within 30 days after the notice and written questions are served, a party may serve cross questions on all other parties.

Within 10 days after being served with cross questions, a party may serve redirect questions on all other parties. Within 10 days after being served with redirect questions, a party may serve recross questions on all other parties. The court may for cause shown enlarge or shorten the time.

(b) Officer to Take Responses and Prepare Record. A copy of the notice and copies of all questions served must be delivered by the party taking the depositions to the officer designated in the notice, who must proceed promptly to take the testimony of the witness in the manner provided by rules 12.310(c), (e), and (f) in response to the questions and to prepare the deposition, attaching the copy of the notice and the questions received by the officer. The questions must not be filed separately from the deposition unless a party seeks to have the court consider the questions before the questions are submitted to the witness.

RULE 12.330. USE OF DEPOSITIONS IN COURT PROCEEDINGS

~~Use of depositions in court proceedings shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.330.~~

(a) Use of Depositions. At the trial or on the hearing of a motion or an interlocutory proceeding, any part or all of a deposition may be used against any party who was present or represented at the taking of the deposition or who had reasonable notice of it so far as admissible under the rules of evidence applied as though the witness were then present and testifying in accordance with any of the following provisions:

(1) Any deposition may be used by any party for the purpose of contradicting or impeaching the testimony of the deponent as a witness or for any purpose permitted by the Florida Evidence Code.

(2) The deposition of a party may be used by an adverse party for any purpose.

(3) The deposition of a witness, whether or not a party, may be used by any party for any purpose if the court finds:

(A) that the witness is dead;

(B) that the witness is at a greater distance than 100 miles from the place of 441 trial or hearing, or is out of the state, unless it appears that the absence of the witness was procured by the party offering the deposition;

(C) that the witness is unable to attend or testify because of age, illness, infirmity, or imprisonment;

(D) that the party offering the deposition has been unable to procure the attendance of the witness by subpoena;

(E) on application and notice, that such exceptional circumstances exist as to make it desirable, in the interest of justice and with due regard to the importance of presenting the testimony of witnesses orally in open court, to allow the deposition to be used; or

(F) the witness is an expert or skilled witness.

(4) If only part of a deposition is offered in evidence by a party, an adverse party may require the party to introduce any other part that in fairness ought to be considered with the part introduced, and any party may introduce any other parts.

(b) Objections to Admissibility. Subject to the provisions of subdivision (d)(3) of this rule and of rule 12.300(b), objection may be made at the trial or hearing to receiving in evidence any deposition or part of it for any reason that would require the exclusion of the evidence if the witness were then present and testifying.

(c) Effect of Taking or Using Depositions. A party does not make a person the party's own witness for any purpose by taking the person's deposition. The introduction in evidence of the deposition or any part of it for any purpose other than that of contradicting or impeaching the deponent makes the deponent the witness of the party introducing the deposition, but this does not apply to the use by an adverse party of a deposition under subdivision (a)(2). At the trial or hearing any party may rebut any relevant evidence contained in a deposition whether introduced by that party or by any other party.

(d) Effect of Errors and Irregularities.

(1) As to Notice. All errors and irregularities in the notice for taking a deposition are waived unless written objection is promptly served on the party giving the notice.

(2) As to Disqualification of Officer. Objection to taking a deposition because of disqualification of the officer before whom it is to be taken is waived unless made before the taking of the deposition begins or as soon thereafter as the disqualification becomes known or could be discovered with reasonable diligence.

(3) As to Taking of Deposition.

(A) Objections to the competency of a witness or to the competency, relevancy, or materiality of testimony are not waived by failure to make them before or during the taking of the deposition unless the ground of the objection is one that might have been obviated or removed if presented at that time.

(B) Errors and irregularities occurring at the oral examination in the manner of taking the deposition, in the form of the questions or answers, in the oath or affirmation, or in the conduct of parties and errors of any kind that might be obviated, removed, or cured if promptly presented are waived unless timely objection to them is made at the taking of the deposition.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(C) Objections to the form of written questions submitted under rule 12.320 are waived unless served in writing on the party propounding them within the time allowed for serving the succeeding cross or other questions and within 10 days after service of the last questions authorized.

*442 (4) As to Completion and Return. Errors and irregularities in the manner in which the testimony is transcribed or the deposition is prepared, signed, certified, or otherwise dealt with by the officer under rules 12.310 and 12.320 are waived unless a motion to suppress the deposition or some part of it is made with reasonable promptness after the defect is, or with due diligence might have been, discovered.

RULE 12.340. INTERROGATORIES TO PARTIES

~~Interrogatories to parties shall be governed generally by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340, with the following exceptions.~~

(a) ~~Service of Interrogatories~~ Procedure for Use. Without leave of court, any party may serve on any other party written interrogatories to be answered by the party to whom the interrogatories are directed, or if that party is a public or private corporation or partnership or association or governmental agency, by any officer or agent, who must furnish the information available to that party. Interrogatories may be served on the petitioner after commencement of the action and on any other party with or after service of the process and initial pleading on that party. A party may serve fewer than all of the approved interrogatories within form.

(1) Initial Interrogatories. Initial interrogatories to parties in original and enforcement actions ~~shall~~ must be those set forth in Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(b). Parties governed by the mandatory disclosure requirements of rule 12.285 may serve the interrogatories set forth in Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(b) ~~as set forth in rule 1.340. A party may serve fewer than the interrogatories set forth in Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(b).~~

(2) Modification Interrogatories. Interrogatories to parties in cases involving modification of a final judgment ~~shall~~ must be those set forth in Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(c). Parties governed by the mandatory disclosure requirements of rule 12.285 may serve the interrogatories set forth in Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(c) ~~as set forth in rule 1.340. A party may serve fewer than the interrogatories set forth in Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(c).~~

(b) [no change]

(c) Service of and Objections to Interrogatories. Each interrogatory must be answered separately and fully in writing under oath unless it is objected to, in which event the grounds for objection must be stated and signed. The party to whom the interrogatories are directed must serve the answers and any objections within 30 days after the service of the interrogatories, except that a respondent may serve answers or objections within 45 days after service of the process and initial pleading on that respondent. The court may allow a shorter or longer time. The party submitting the interrogatories may move for an order under rule 12.380(a) on any objection to or other failure to answer an interrogatory.

(d) Serving of Responses. Parties ~~shall~~ must serve responses to interrogatories on the requesting party. Responses ~~shall~~ must not be filed with the court unless they are admitted into evidence by the court and are in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425. The responding party ~~shall~~ must file with the court Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(d), Notice of Service of Answers to Standard Family Law Interrogatories.

(e) Scope; Use at Trial. Interrogatories may relate to any matters that can be *443 inquired into under rule 12.280(b), and the answers may be used to the extent permitted by the rules of evidence except as otherwise provided in this subdivision. An interrogatory otherwise proper is not objectionable merely because an answer to the interrogatory involves an opinion or contention that relates to fact or calls for a conclusion or asks for information not within the personal knowledge of the party. A party must respond to such an interrogatory by giving the information the party has and the source on which the information is based. Such a qualified answer may not be used as direct evidence for or impeachment against the party giving the answer unless the court finds it otherwise admissible under the rules of evidence.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(f) Option to Produce Records. When the answer to an interrogatory may be derived or ascertained from the records (including electronically stored information) of the party to whom the interrogatory is directed or from an examination, audit, or inspection of the records or from a compilation, abstract, or summary based on the records and the burden of deriving or ascertaining the answer is substantially the same for the party serving the interrogatory as for the party to whom it is directed, an answer to the interrogatory specifying the records from which the answer may be derived or ascertained and offering to give the party serving the interrogatory a reasonable opportunity to examine, audit, or inspect the records and to make copies, compilations, abstracts, or summaries, production of the records in lieu of a written response is a sufficient answer. An answer must be in sufficient detail to permit the interrogating party to locate and to identify, as readily as can the party interrogated, the records from which the answer may be derived or ascertained, or must identify a person or persons representing the interrogated party who will be available to assist the interrogating party in locating and identifying the records at the time they are produced. If the records to be produced consist of electronically stored information, the records must be produced in a form or forms in which they are ordinarily maintained or in a reasonably usable form or forms.

(g) Effect on Other Parties. Answers made by a party are not binding on any other party.

(h) Service. Interrogatories must be arranged so that a blank space is provided after each separately numbered interrogatory. The space must be reasonably sufficient to enable the answering party to insert the answer within the space. If sufficient space is not provided, the answering party may attach additional pages with answers and refer to them in the space provided in the interrogatories. The interrogatories must be served on the party to whom the interrogatories are directed and copies must be served on all other parties. A certificate of service of the interrogatories must be filed, giving the date of service and the name of the party to whom they were directed.

Commentary

[no change]

Committee Note

[no change]

RULE 12.350. PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS AND THINGS AND ENTRY ~~UPON~~ ON LAND FOR INSPECTION AND OTHER PURPOSES

~~Production of documents and things and entry upon land for inspection and other purposes shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.350.~~

*444 (a) Request; Scope. Any party may request any other party

(1) to produce and permit the party making the request, or someone acting in the requesting party's behalf, to inspect and copy any designated documents, including electronically stored information, writings, drawings, graphs, charts, photographs, audio, visual, or digital recordings, and other data compilations from which information can be obtained, translated, if necessary, by the party to whom the request is directed through detection devices into reasonably usable form, that constitute or contain matters within the scope of rule 12.280(c) and that are in the possession, custody, or control of the party to whom the request is directed;

(2) to inspect and copy, test, or sample any tangible things that constitute or contain matters within the scope of rule 12.280(c) and that are in the possession, custody, or control of the party to whom the request is directed; or

(3) to permit entry on designated land or other property in the possession or control of the party on whom the request is served for the purpose of inspection and measuring, surveying, photographing, testing, or sampling the property or any designated object or operation on it within the scope of rule 12.280(c).

(b) Procedure. Without leave of court the request may be served on the petitioner after commencement of the action and on any other party with or after service of the process and initial pleading on that party. The request must set forth the items to be inspected, either by individual item or category, and describe each item and category with reasonable particularity. The request must specify a reasonable time, place, and manner of making the inspection or performing the related acts. The party to whom the request is directed must serve a written response within 30 days after service of the request, except that a defendant may serve a response within 45 days after service of the process and initial pleading on that defendant. The court may allow a shorter or longer time. For each item or category, the response must state that inspection and related activities will be permitted as requested unless the request is objected to, in which event the reasons for the objection must be stated. If an objection is made to part of an item or category, the part must be specified. When producing documents, the producing party must either produce them as they are kept in the usual course of business or must identify them to correspond with the categories in the request. A request for electronically stored information may specify the form or forms in which electronically stored information is to be produced. If the responding party objects to a requested form, or if no form is specified in the request, the responding party must state the form or forms it intends to use. If a request for electronically stored information does not specify the form of production, the producing party must produce the information in a form or forms in which it is ordinarily maintained or in a reasonably usable form or forms. The party submitting the request may move for an order under rule 12.380 concerning any objection, failure to respond to the request, or any part of it, or failure to permit the inspection as requested.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(c) Persons Not Parties. This rule does not preclude an independent action against a person not a party for production of documents and things and permission to enter on land.

(d) Filing of Documents. Unless required by the court, a party shall not file any of the documents or things produced with the response. Documents or things 445 may be filed in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425 and rule 12.280(j) when they should be considered by the court in determining a matter pending before the court.

RULE 12.351. PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS AND THINGS WITHOUT DEPOSITION

~~Production of documents and things without deposition shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.351, except that a party desiring production under this rule, as provided in rule 1.351(b), shall serve notice as provided in Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516 on every other party of the intent to serve a subpoena under this rule at least 10 days before the subpoena is issued if service is by delivery and 15 days before the subpoena is issued if the service is by mail or e-mail.~~

(a) Request; Scope. A party may seek inspection and copying of any documents or things within the scope of rule 12.350(a) from a person who is not a party by issuance of a subpoena directing the production of the documents or things when the requesting party does not seek to depose the custodian or other person in possession of the documents or things. This rule provides the exclusive procedure for obtaining documents or things by subpoena from nonparties without deposing the custodian or other person in possession of the documents or things under rule 12.310.

(b) Procedure. A party desiring production under this rule must serve notice as provided in Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516 on every other party of the intent to serve a subpoena under this rule at least 10 days before the subpoena is issued if service is by delivery and 15 days before the subpoena is issued if the service is by mail or e-mail. The proposed subpoena must be attached to the notice and must state the time, place, and method for production of the documents or things, and the name and address of the person who is to produce the documents or things, if known, and if not known, a general description sufficient to identify the person or the particular class or group to which the person belongs; must include a designation of the items to be produced; and must state that the person who will be asked to produce the documents or things has the right to object to the production under this rule and that the person will not be required to surrender the documents or things. A copy of the notice and proposed subpoena shall not be furnished to the person on whom the subpoena is to be served. If any party serves an objection to production under this rule within 10 days of service of the notice, the documents or things must not be produced pending resolution of the objection in accordance with subdivision (d).

(c) Subpoena. If no objection is made by a party under subdivision (b), an attorney of record in the action may issue a subpoena or the party desiring production must deliver to the clerk for issuance a subpoena together with a certificate of counsel or pro se party that no timely objection has been received from any party, and the clerk must issue the subpoena and deliver it to the party desiring production. Service within the state of Florida of a nonparty subpoena is deemed sufficient if it complies with rule 12.410(d) or if (1) service is accomplished by mail or hand delivery by a commercial delivery service, and (2) written confirmation of delivery, with the date of service and the name and signature of the person accepting the subpoena, is obtained and filed by the party seeking production. The subpoena must be identical to the copy attached to the notice and must specify that no testimony may be taken and must require only production of the documents or things specified in it. 446 The subpoena may give the recipient an option to deliver or mail legible copies of the documents or things to the party serving the subpoena. The person on whom the subpoena is served may condition the preparation of copies on the payment in advance of the reasonable costs of preparing the copies. The subpoena may require production only in the county of the residence of the custodian or other person in possession of the documents or things or in the county where the documents or things are located or where the custodian or person in possession usually conducts business. If the person on whom the subpoena is served objects at any time before the production of the documents or things, the documents or things will not be produced under this rule, and relief may be obtained under rule 12.310.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(d) Ruling on Objection. If an objection is made by a party under subdivision (b), the party desiring production may file a motion with the court seeking a ruling on the objection or may proceed under rule 12.310.

(e) Copies Furnished. If the subpoena is complied with by delivery or mailing of copies as provided in subdivision (c), the party receiving the copies may furnish a legible copy of each item furnished to any other party who requests it upon the payment of the reasonable cost of preparing the copies.

(f) Independent Action. This rule does not affect the right of any party to bring an independent action for production of documents and things or permission to enter on land.

Committee Notes

[no change]

RULE 12.360. EXAMINATION OF PERSONS

~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.360 shall govern general provisions concerning the examination of persons in family law matters, except that examinations permitted under rule 1.360(a)(1) may include, but are not limited to, examinations involving physical or mental condition, employability or vocational testing, genetic testing, or any other type of examination related to a matter in controversy.~~

(a) Request; Scope.

(1) A party may request any other party to submit to, or to produce a person in that other party's custody or legal control for, examination by a qualified expert when the condition that is the subject of the requested examination is in controversy. Examinations may include, but are not limited to, examinations involving physical or mental condition, employability or vocational testing, genetic testing, or any other type of examination related to a matter in controversy.

(A) When the physical condition of a party or other person under subdivision (a)(1) is in controversy, the request may be served on the party or other persons without leave of court after commencement of the action, and on any other person or party with or after service of the process and initial pleading. The request must specify a reasonable time, place, manner, conditions, and scope of the examination and the person or persons by whom the examination is to be made. The party to whom the request is directed must serve a response within 30 days after service of the request, except that a respondent need not serve a response until 45 days after service of the process and initial pleading on that respondent. The court may allow a shorter or longer time. The response must state that the examination will be permitted as requested unless the request is objected to, in which event the reasons for 447 the objection must be stated. If the examination is to be recorded or observed by others, the request or response must also include the number of people attending, their role, and the method or methods of recording.

(B) In cases in which the condition in controversy is not physical, a party may move for an examination by a qualified expert as in subdivision (a)(1). The order for examination may be made only after notice to the person to be examined and to all parties, and must specify the time, place, manner, conditions, and scope of the examination and the person or persons by whom it is to be made.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(C) The examination of a minor child is governed by rule 12.363.

(D) Social investigations are governed by rule 12.364.

(2) An examination under this rule is authorized only when the party submitting the request has good cause for the examination. At any hearing the party submitting the request has the burden of showing good cause.

(3) On request of either the party requesting the examination or the party or person to be examined, the court may establish protective rules governing such examination.

(b) Report of Examiner.

(1) If requested by the party to whom a request for examination or against whom an order is made under subdivision (a)(1)(A) or (a)(1)(B) or by the person examined, the party requesting the examination must deliver to the other party a copy of a detailed written report of the examiner setting out the examiner's findings, including results of all tests made, diagnosis, and conclusions, with similar reports of all earlier examinations of the same condition. After delivery of the detailed written report, the party requesting the examination is entitled, on request, to receive from the party to whom the request for examination or against whom the order is made a similar report of any examination of the same condition previously or thereafter made, unless in the case of a report of examination of a person not a party the party shows the inability to obtain it. On motion, the court may order delivery of a report on such terms as are just; and if an examiner fails or refuses to make a report, the court may exclude the examiner's testimony if offered at the trial.

(2) By requesting and obtaining a report of the examination so ordered or requested or by taking the deposition of the examiner, the party examined waives any privilege that party may have in that action or any other involving the same controversy regarding the testimony of every other person who has examined or may thereafter examine that party concerning the same condition.

(3) This subdivision applies to examinations made by agreement of the parties unless the agreement provides otherwise. This subdivision does not preclude discovery of a report of an examiner or taking the deposition of the examiner in accordance with any other rule.

(c) Examiner as Witness. The examiner may be called as a witness by any party to the action, but is not to be identified as appointed by the court.

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.365. EXPERT WITNESSES

(a) Application. The procedural requirements in this rule shall apply whenever an expert is appointed by the court or retained by a party. This rule applies to all experts including, but not limited to, medical, 448 psychological, social, financial, vocational, and economic experts. ~~Where in conflict, this rule shall supersede Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.360.~~

(b) Communication with Court by Expert. No expert may communicate with the court without prior notice to the parties and their attorneys, who ~~shall~~ must be afforded the opportunity to be present and heard during the communication between the expert and the court. A request for communication with the court may be conveyed informally by letter or telephone. Further communication with the court, which may be conducted informally, ~~shall~~ may be done only with notice to all parties.

(c) Use of Evidence. The court ~~shall~~ may not entertain any presumption in favor of a court-appointed expert's opinion. Any opinion by an expert may be entered into evidence on the court's own motion or the motion of any party in a manner consistent with the rules of evidence, subject to cross-examination by the parties.

(d) Evaluation of Minor Child. This rule ~~shall~~ does not apply to any evaluation of a minor child under rule 12.363.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Committee Note

[no change]

RULE 12.370. REQUESTS FOR ADMISSION

~~Requests for admission shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.370, except that~~

~~(a) the request and any response to it must comply with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425; and~~

~~(b) documents attached to the request for admission shall not be filed with the court and shall only be attached to the copy served on the party to whom the request for admissions is directed.~~

(a) Request for Admission.

(1) Service of Request. A party may serve on any other party a written request for the admission of the truth of any matters within the scope of rule 12.280(c), set forth in the request that relate to statements or opinions of fact or of the application of law to fact, including the genuineness of any documents described in the request. The request and any response must comply with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425. Copies of documents must be served with the request unless they have been or are otherwise furnished or made available for inspection and copying. However, documents attached to the request for admission may not be filed with the court and may only be attached to the copy served on the party to whom the request for admission is directed. Without leave of court the request may be served on the petitioner after commencement of the action and on any other party with or after service of the process and initial pleading on that party.

(2) Limit on Number of Requests. The request for admission may not exceed 30 requests, including all subparts, unless the court permits a larger number on motion and notice and for good cause, or the parties propounding and responding to the requests stipulate to a larger number. Each matter of which an admission is requested must be separately set forth.

(3) Answer or Objection to Request. The matter is admitted unless the party to whom the request is directed serves on the party requesting the admission a written answer or objection addressed to the matter within 30 days after service of the request or such shorter or longer time as the court may allow but, unless the court shortens the time, a respondent will not be required to serve answers or objections before the expiration of 45 days after service of the process and initial pleading on 449 the respondent. If objection is made, the reasons must be stated. The answer must specifically deny the matter or set forth in detail the reasons why the answering party cannot truthfully admit or deny the matter. A denial must fairly meet the substance of the requested admission, and when good faith requires that a party qualify an answer or deny only a part of the matter of which an admission is requested, the party must specify so much of it as is true and qualify or deny the remainder. An answering party may not give lack of information or knowledge as a reason for failure to admit or deny unless that party states that that party has made reasonable inquiry and that the information known or readily obtainable by that party is insufficient to enable that party to admit or deny. A party who considers that a matter of which an admission has been requested presents a genuine issue for trial may not object to the request on that ground alone; the party may deny the matter or set forth reasons why the party cannot admit or deny it, subject to rule 12.380(c).

(4) Motion to Determine Sufficiency of Answers or Objections. The party who has requested the admissions may move to determine the sufficiency of the answers or objections. Unless the court determines that an objection is justified, it must order that an answer be served. If the court determines that an answer does not comply with the requirements of this rule, it may order either that the matter is admitted or that an amended answer be served. Instead of these orders the court may determine that final disposition of the request be made at a pretrial conference or at a designated time before trial. The provisions of rule 12.380(a)(4) apply to the award of expenses incurred in relation to the motion.

(b) Effect of Admission. Any matter admitted under this rule is conclusively established unless the court on motion permits withdrawal or amendment of the admission. Subject to rule 12.200 governing amendment of a pretrial order, the court may permit withdrawal or amendment when the presentation of the merits of the action will be subserved by it and the party who obtained the admission fails to satisfy the court that withdrawal or amendment will prejudice that party in maintaining an action or defense on the merits. Any admission made by a party under this rule is for the purpose of the pending action only and is not an admission for any other purpose nor may it be used against that party in any other proceeding.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

RULE 12.380. FAILURE TO MAKE DISCOVERY; SANCTIONS

~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.380 shall govern the failure to make discovery in family law matters and related sanctions, with the following additions.~~

~~(a) A party may apply for an order compelling discovery in the manner set forth in rule 1.380 for the failure of any person to comply with any discovery request or requirement under the family law rules, including, but not limited to, the failure to comply with rule 12.285.~~

~~(b) In the case of rule 1.380(c), the court may defer ruling on the party's motion for sanctions until the conclusion of the matter in controversy.~~

(a) Motion for Order Compelling Discovery. On reasonable notice to other parties and all persons affected, a party may apply for an order compelling discovery as follows:

(1) Appropriate Court. An application for an order to a party may be made to the court in which the action is pending or in accordance with rule 12.310(d). An applica 450 tion for an order to a deponent who is not a party must be made to the circuit court where the deposition is being taken.

(2) Motion. If a deponent fails to answer a question propounded or submitted under rule 12.310 or 12.320, or a corporation or other entity fails to make a designation under rule 12.310(b)(6) or 12.320(a), or a party fails to answer an interrogatory submitted under rule 12.340, or if a party in response to a request for inspection submitted under rule 12.350 fails to respond that inspection will be permitted as requested or fails to permit inspection as requested, or if a party in response to a request for examination of a person submitted under rule 12.360(a) objects to the examination, fails to respond that the examination will be permitted as requested, or fails to submit to or to produce a person in that party's custody or legal control for examination, or if any person fails to comply with any discovery request or requirement under the Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure, including, but not limited to, the failure to comply with rule 12.285, the discovering party may move for an order compelling an answer, or a designation or an order compelling inspection, or an order compelling an examination in accordance with the request. The motion must include a certification that the movant, in good faith, has conferred or attempted to confer with the person or party failing to make the discovery in an effort to secure the information or material without court action. When taking a deposition on oral examination, the proponent of the question may complete or adjourn the examination before applying for an order. If the court denies the motion in whole or in part, it may make such protective order as it would have been empowered to make on a motion made under rule 12.280(d).

(3) Evasive or Incomplete Answer. For purposes of this subdivision an evasive or incomplete answer shall be treated as a failure to answer.

(4) Award of Expenses of Motion. If the motion is granted and after opportunity for hearing, the court must require the party or deponent whose conduct necessitated the motion or the party or counsel advising the conduct to pay to the moving party the reasonable expenses incurred in obtaining the order that may include attorneys' fees, unless the court finds that the movant failed to certify in the motion that a good faith effort was made to obtain the discovery without court action, that the opposition to the motion was substantially justified, or that other circumstances make an award of expenses unjust. If the motion is denied and after opportunity for hearing, the court must require the moving party to pay to the party or deponent who opposed the motion the reasonable expenses incurred in opposing the motion that may include attorneys' fees, unless the court finds that the making of the motion was substantially justified or that other circumstances make an award of expenses unjust. If the motion is granted in part and denied in part, the court may apportion the reasonable expenses incurred as a result of making the motion among the parties and persons.

(b) Failure to Comply with Order.

(1) If a deponent fails to be sworn or to answer a question after being directed to do so by the court, the failure may be considered a contempt of the court.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(2) If a party or an officer, director, or managing agent of a party or a person designated under rule 12.310(b)(6) or 12.320(a) to testify on behalf of a party fails to obey an order to provide or permit discovery, including an order made under subdivision (a) of this rule or rule 12.360, 451 the court in which the action is pending may make any of the following orders:

(A) An order that the matters regarding which the questions were asked or any other designated facts shall be taken to be established for the purposes of the action in accordance with the claim of the party obtaining the order.

(B) An order refusing to allow the disobedient party to support or oppose designated claims or defenses, or prohibiting that party from introducing designated matters in evidence.

(C) An order striking out pleadings or parts of them or staying further proceedings until the order is obeyed, or dismissing the action or proceeding or any part of it, or rendering a judgment by default against the disobedient party.

(D) Instead of any of the foregoing orders or in addition to them, an order treating as a contempt of court the failure to obey any orders except an order to submit to an examination made under rule 12.360(a)(1)(B) or subdivision (a)(2) of this rule.

(E) When a party has failed to comply with an order under rule 12.360(a)(1)(B) requiring that party to produce another for examination, the orders listed in subdivisions (b)(2)(A)–(b)(2)(C), unless the party failing to comply shows the inability to produce the person for examination.

Instead of any of the foregoing orders or in addition to them, the court must require the party failing to obey the order to pay the reasonable expenses caused by the failure, which may include attorneys' fees, unless the court finds that the failure was substantially justified or that other circumstances make an award of expenses unjust. Alternatively, the court may defer ruling on the party's motion for sanctions until the conclusion of the matter in controversy.

(c) Expenses on Failure to Admit. If a party fails to admit the genuineness of any document or the truth of any matter as requested under rule 12.370 and if the party requesting the admissions proves the genuineness of the document or the truth of the matter, the requesting party may file a motion for an order requiring the other party to pay the requesting party the reasonable expenses incurred in making that proof, which may include attorneys' fees. The court may issue such an order at the time a party requesting the admissions proves the genuineness of the document or the truth of the matter, upon motion by the requesting party, unless it finds that

(1) the request was held objectionable under rule 12.370(a)(3),

(2) the admission sought was of no substantial importance, or

(3) there was other good reason for the failure to admit.

(d) Failure of Party to Attend at Own Deposition or Serve Answers to Interrogatories or Respond to Request for Inspection. If a party or an officer, director, or managing agent of a party or a person designated under rule 12.310(b)(6) or 12.320(a) to testify on behalf of a party fails

(1) to appear before the officer who is to take the deposition after being served with a proper notice,

(2) to serve answers or objections to interrogatories submitted under rule 12.340 after proper service of the interrogatories, or

(3) to serve a written response to a request for inspection submitted under rule 12.350 after proper service of the request, the court in which the action is 452 pending may take any action authorized under subdivisions (b)(2)(A)–(b)(2)(C) of this rule.

Any motion specifying a failure under subdivisions (d)(2) or (d)(3) must include a certification that the movant, in good faith, has conferred or attempted to confer with the party failing to answer or respond in an effort to obtain such answer or response without court action. Instead of any order or in addition to it, the court may require the party failing to act to pay the reasonable expenses caused by the failure, which may include attorneys' fees, unless the court finds that the failure was substantially justified or that other circumstances make an award of expenses unjust. The failure to act described in this subdivision may not be excused on the ground that the discovery sought is objectionable unless the party failing to act has applied for a protective order as provided by rule 12.280(d).

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(e) Electronically Stored Information; Sanctions for Failure to Preserve. Absent exceptional circumstances, a court may not impose sanctions under these rules on a party for failing to provide electronically stored information lost as a result of the routine, good faith operation of an electronic information system.

RULE 12.390. DEPOSITIONS OF EXPERT WITNESSES

~~Depositions of expert witnesses shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.390.~~

(a) Definition. The term "expert witness" as used herein applies exclusively to a person duly and regularly engaged in the practice of a profession who holds a professional degree from a university or college and has had special professional training and experience, or one possessed of special knowledge or skill about the subject upon which called to testify.

(b) Procedure. The testimony of an expert or skilled witness may be taken at any time before the trial in accordance with the rules for taking depositions and may be used at trial, regardless of the place of residence of the witness or whether the witness is within the distance prescribed by rule 12.330(a)(3)(B). No special form of notice need be given that the deposition will be used for trial.

(c) Fee. An expert or skilled witness whose deposition is taken must be allowed a witness fee in such reasonable amount as the court may determine. The court must also determine a reasonable time within which payment must be made, if the deponent and party cannot agree. All parties and the deponent must be served with notice of any hearing to determine the fee. Any reasonable fee paid to an expert or skilled witness may be taxed as costs.

(d) Applicability. Nothing in this rule prevents the taking of any deposition as otherwise provided by law.

RULE 12.410. SUBPOENA

~~Subpoenas shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.410, except as follows:~~

(a) Subpoenas Generally. Subpoenas for testimony before the court, subpoenas for production of tangible evidence, and subpoenas for taking depositions may be issued by the clerk of court or by any attorney of record in an action. No subpoena issued under ~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.410~~ this rule, even if for the purpose of proof of service or nonservice of the subpoena, shall be filed with the court unless in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425.

(b) ~~Notice of Issuance of~~ Subpoena for Testimony Before the Court. ~~A party issuing a subpoena through an attorney of~~ *453 ~~record or clerk of the court under Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.410 shall, on the same day as the subpoena is issued, serve each party to the proceeding with a notice of issuance of subpoena and file this notice with the court. The notice of issuance of subpoena shall identify the person or entity subject to the subpoena, the date the subpoena was issued, and the date and time for appearance or production, and shall recite that all references to account numbers or personal identifying numbers are in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425.~~

(1) Every subpoena for testimony before the court must be issued by an attorney of record in an action or by the clerk under the seal of the court and must state the name of the court and the title of the action and must command each person to whom it is directed to attend and give testimony at a time and place specified in it.

(2) On oral request of an attorney or party, the clerk must issue a subpoena for testimony before the court or a subpoena for the production of documentary evidence before the court signed and sealed but otherwise in blank, both as to the title of the action and the name of the person to whom it is directed, and the subpoena must be filled in before service by the attorney or party.

(c) For Production of Documentary Evidence.

(1) Generally. A subpoena may also command the person to whom it is directed to produce the books, papers, documents (including electronically stored information), or tangible things designated therein, but the court, on motion made promptly and in any event at or before the time specified in the subpoena for compliance with it, may

(A) quash or modify the subpoena if it is unreasonable and oppressive, or

(B) condition denial of the motion upon the advancement by the person in whose behalf the subpoena is issued of the reasonable cost of producing the books, papers, documents, or tangible things.

A party seeking a production of evidence at trial which would be subject to a subpoena may compel such production by serving a notice to produce such evidence on an adverse party as provided in rule 12.080(b). Such notice shall have the same effect and be subject to the same limitations as a subpoena served on the party.

(e 2) ~~Notice to Produce~~ Compliance with Rule 2.425. Any notice to produce issued under ~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.410~~ this rule ~~shall~~ must comply with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425.

(d) ~~Production of Evidence at Trial~~ Service. ~~A party seeking production of evidence at trial, as provided in rule 1.410(c), which would be subject to a subpoena, as provided in rule 1.410(c), may compel such production by serving a notice to produce such evidence on an adverse party as provided in Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.~~

(1) Generally. A subpoena may be served by any person authorized by law to serve process or by any other person who is not a party and who is not less than 18 years of age. Service of a subpoena on a person named in it shall be made as provided by law. Proof of such service shall be made by affidavit of the person making service if not served by an officer authorized by law to do so.

(2) Notice of Subpoena to Parties. A party issuing a subpoena through an attorney of record or clerk of the court under this rule must, on the same day as the subpoena is served, serve each party to the 454 proceeding with a notice of issuance of subpoena and file this notice with the court. The notice of issuance of subpoena must identify the person or entity subject to the subpoena, the date the subpoena was issued, and the date and time for appearance or production, and must recite that all references to account numbers or personal identifying numbers are in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425. An unexecuted copy of the subpoena to be issued must be attached to the Notice of Subpoena.

(e) Subpoena for Taking Depositions.

(1) Filing a notice to take a deposition as provided in rule 12.310(b) or 12.320(a) with a certificate of service on it showing service on all parties to the action constitutes an authorization for the issuance of subpoenas for the persons named or described in the notice by the clerk of the court in which the action is pending or by an attorney of record in the action. The subpoena may command the person to whom it is directed to produce designated books, papers, documents, or tangible things that constitute or contain evidence relating to any of the matters within the scope of the examination permitted by rule 12.280(c), but in that event the subpoena will be subject to the provisions of rule 12.280(d) and subdivision (c) of this rule. Within 10 days after its service, or on or before the time specified in the subpoena for compliance if the time is less than 10 days after service, the person to whom the subpoena is directed may serve written objection to inspection or copying of any of the designated materials. If objection is made, the party serving the subpoena shall not be entitled to inspect and copy the materials except pursuant to an order of the court from which the subpoena was issued. If objection has been made, the party serving the subpoena may move for an order at any time before or during the taking of the deposition upon notice to the deponent.

(2) A person may be required to attend an examination only in the county in which the person resides or is employed or transacts business in person or at such other convenient place as may be fixed by an order of court.

(f) Contempt. Failure by any person without adequate excuse to obey a subpoena served on that person may be deemed a contempt of the court from which the subpoena issued.

(g) Depositions before Commissioners Appointed in this State by Courts of Other States; Subpoena Powers; etc. When any person authorized by the laws of Florida to administer oaths is appointed by a court of record of any other state, jurisdiction, or government as commissioner to take the testimony of any named witness within this state, that witness may be compelled to attend and testify before that commissioner by witness subpoena issued by the clerk of any circuit court at the instance of that commissioner or by other process or proceedings in the same manner as if that commissioner had been appointed by a court of this state; provided that no document or paper writing shall be compulsorily annexed as an exhibit to such deposition or otherwise permanently removed from the possession of the witness producing it, but in lieu thereof a copy may be annexed to and transmitted with such executed commission to the court of issuance.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(h) Subpoena of Minor. Any minor subpoenaed for testimony has the right to be accompanied by a parent, guardian, guardian ad litem, or attorney ad litem at all times during the taking of testimony notwithstanding the invocation of the rule of sequestration of *455 section 90.616, Florida Statutes, except on a showing that the presence of a parent or guardian is likely to have a material, negative impact on the credibility or accuracy of the minor's testimony, or that the interests of the parent or guardian are in actual or potential conflict with the interests of the minor. The provisions of this subdivision do not alter the requirements of rule 12.407 that a court order must be obtained before a minor child may be subpoenaed to appear at a hearing.

Committee Notes

[no change]

RULE 12.420. DISMISSAL OF ACTIONS

~~Dismissal of actions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.420, with the following two exceptions.~~

(a) Voluntary Dismissal. ~~Unless otherwise specified in a notice or stipulation, a voluntary dismissal shall be without prejudice and shall not operate as an adjudication on the merits.~~

(1) By Parties. An action or a claim may be dismissed

(A) before trial by serving, or during trial by stating on the record, a notice of dismissal at any time before a hearing on motion for summary judgment, or if none is served or if the motion is denied, before retirement of the jury in a case tried before a jury or before submission of a nonjury case to the court for decision; or

(B) by filing a stipulation of dismissal signed by all current parties to the action.

(2) By Order of Court; Counterpetition. Except as provided in subdivision (a)(1), an action may not be dismissed at a party's request except on order of the court and on such terms and conditions as the court deems proper. If the petitioner files a notice of dismissal of the original petition after a counterpetition is served by the respondent, the counterpetition shall not be automatically dismissed.

(3) Adjudication on the Merits. Unless otherwise specified in a notice of stipulation, a voluntary dismissal is without prejudice and does not operate as an adjudication on the merits.

(b) Involuntary Dismissal. Any party may move for dismissal of an action or of any claim against that party for failure of an adverse party to comply with these rules or any order of court. After a party seeking affirmative relief in an action has completed the presentation of evidence, any other party may move for a dismissal on the ground that on the facts and the law the party seeking affirmative relief has shown no right to relief, without waiving the right to offer evidence if the motion is not granted. Involuntary dismissal for lack of jurisdiction, improper venue, or lack of an indispensable party does not act as an adjudication on the merits. All other involuntary dismissals operate as an adjudication on the merits, unless otherwise specified by the court.

(c) Costs. Costs shall be assessed ~~as provided in rule 1.420(d)~~ , except that the court ~~shall~~ may not require the payment of costs of a previously dismissed claim, which was based ~~upon~~ on or included the same claim against the same adverse party as the current action.

(d) Failure to Prosecute. In all actions in which it appears on the face of the record that for a period of 10 months, no activity by filing of pleadings or order of court has occurred, and no order staying the action has been issued nor stipulation for stay approved by the court, any interested person, whether a party to the action or not, the court, or the clerk of the court may serve notice to all parties that no such activity has occurred. If no such record activity has occurred within the 10 months *456 immediately preceding the service of the notice, and no record activity occurs within 60 days immediately following the service of the notice, and if no stay was issued or approved before the expiration of the 60–day period, the action must be dismissed by the court on its own motion or on the motion of any interested person, whether a party to the action or not, after reasonable notice to the parties, unless a party shows good cause in writing at least 5 days before the hearing on the motion why the action should remain pending. Mere inaction for a period of less than 1 year is not sufficient cause for dismissal for failure to prosecute.

(e) Effect on Lis Pendens. If a notice of lis pendens has been filed in connection with a claim for affirmative relief that is dismissed under this rule, the notice of lis pendens connected with the dismissed claim is automatically dissolved at the same time. The notice, stipulation, or order must be recorded.

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.430. DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL; WAIVER

~~Demands for and waivers of jury trial shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.430.~~

(a) Right Preserved. The right of trial by jury as declared by the Constitution or by statute must be preserved to the parties inviolate.

(b) Demand. Any party may demand a trial by jury of any issue triable of right by a jury by serving on the other party a demand in writing at any time after commencement of the action and not later than 10 days after the service of the last pleading directed to such issue. The demand may be endorsed on a pleading of the party.

(c) Specification of Issues. In the demand, a party may specify the issues that the party would like tried; otherwise, the party is deemed to demand trial by jury for all issues so triable. If a party has demanded trial by jury for only some of the issues, any other party may serve a demand for trial by jury of any other or all of the issues triable by jury 10 days after service of the demand or such lesser time as the court may order.

(d) Waiver. A party who fails to serve a demand as required by this rule waives trial by jury. If waived, a jury trial may not be granted without the consent of the parties, but the court may allow an amendment in the proceedings to demand a trial by jury or order a trial by jury on its own motion. A demand for trial by jury may not be withdrawn without the consent of the parties.

RULE 12.431. ~~TRIAL~~ JURY TRIAL

~~Trials by jury shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.431.~~

(a) Generally. In those family law cases in which a jury trial is available, this rule governs those proceedings.

(b) Questionnaire.

(1) The circuit court may direct the authority charged by law with the selection of prospective jurors to furnish each prospective juror with a questionnaire in the form approved by the supreme court from time to time to assist the authority in selecting prospective jurors. The questionnaire must be used after the names of jurors have been selected as provided by law but before certification and the placing of the names of prospective jurors in the jury box. The questionnaire must be used to determine those who are not qualified to serve as jurors under any statutory ground of disqualification.

(2) To assist in voir dire examination at trial, any court may direct the clerk to 457 furnish prospective jurors selected for service with a questionnaire in the form approved by the supreme court from time to time. The prospective jurors shall be asked to complete and return the forms. Completed forms may be inspected in the clerk's office and copies must be available in court during the voir dire examination for use by parties and the court.

(c) Examination by Parties. The parties have the right to examine jurors orally on their voir dire. The order in which the parties may examine each juror is determined by the court. The court may ask such questions of the jurors as it deems necessary, but the right of the parties to conduct a reasonable examination of each juror orally must be preserved.

(d) Challenge for Cause.

(1) On motion of any party, the court must examine any prospective juror on oath to determine whether that person is related, within the third degree, to (A) any party,

(B) the attorney of any party, or (C) any other person or entity against whom liability or blame is alleged in the pleadings, or is related to any person alleged to have been wronged or injured by the commission of the wrong for the trial of which the juror is called, or has any interest in the action, or has formed or expressed any opinion, or is sensible of any bias or prejudice concerning it, or is an employee or has been an employee of any party or any other person or entity against whom liability or blame is alleged in the pleadings, within 30 days before the trial. A party objecting to the juror may introduce any other competent evidence to support the objection. If it appears that the juror does not stand indifferent to the action or any of the foregoing grounds of objection exists or that the juror is otherwise incompetent, another must be called in that juror's place.

(2) The fact that any person selected for jury duty from bystanders or the body of the county and not from a jury list lawfully selected has served as a juror in the court in which that person is called at any other time within 1 year is a ground of challenge for cause.

(3) When the nature of any action requires a knowledge of reading, writing, and arithmetic, or any of them, to enable a juror to understand the evidence to be offered, the fact that any prospective juror does not possess the qualifications is a ground of challenge for cause.

(e) Peremptory Challenges. Each party is entitled to 3 peremptory challenges of jurors, but when the number of parties on opposite sides is unequal, the opposing parties are entitled to the same aggregate number of peremptory challenges to be determined on the basis of 3 peremptory challenges to each party on the side with the greater number of parties. The additional peremptory challenges accruing to multiple parties on the opposing side must be divided equally among them. Any additional peremptory challenges not capable of equal division must be exercised separately or jointly as determined by the court.

(f) Exercise of Challenges. All challenges must be addressed to the court outside the hearing of the jury in a manner selected by the court so that the jury panel is not aware of the nature of the challenge, the party making the challenge, or the basis of the court's ruling on the challenge, if for cause.

(g) Swearing of Jurors. No one may be sworn as a juror until the jury has been accepted by the parties or until all challenges have been exhausted.

(h) Alternate Jurors.

(1) The court may direct that 1 or 2 jurors be impaneled to sit as alternate 458 jurors in addition to the regular panel. Alternate jurors in the order in which they are called must replace jurors who have become unable or disqualified to perform their duties before the jury retires to consider its verdict. Alternate jurors must be drawn in the same manner, have the same qualifications, be subject to the same examination, take the same oath, and have the same functions, powers, facilities, and privileges as principal jurors. An alternate juror who does not replace a principal juror must be discharged when the jury retires to consider the verdict.

(2) If alternate jurors are called, each party is entitled to 1 peremptory challenge in the selection of the alternate juror or jurors, but when the number of parties on opposite sides is unequal, the opposing parties are entitled to the same aggregate number of peremptory challenges to be determined on the basis of 1 peremptory challenge to each party on the side with the greater number of parties. The additional peremptory challenges allowed under this subdivision may be used only against the alternate jurors. The peremptory challenges allowed under subdivision (e) may not be used against the alternate jurors.

(i) Interview of a Juror. A party who believes that grounds for legal challenge to a verdict exist may move for an order permitting an interview of a juror or jurors to determine whether the verdict is subject to the challenge. The motion must be served within 10 days after rendition of the verdict unless good cause is shown for the failure to make the motion within that time. The motion must state the name and address of each juror to be interviewed and the grounds for challenge that the party believes may exist. After notice and hearing, the trial judge must enter an order denying the motion or permitting the interview. If the interview is permitted, the court may prescribe the place, manner, conditions, and scope of the interview.

(j) Communication with the Jury. This rule governs all communication between the judge or courtroom personnel and jurors.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(1) Communication to be on the Record. The court must notify the parties of any communication from the jury pertaining to the action as promptly as practicable and in any event before responding to the communication. Except as set forth below, all communications between the court or courtroom personnel and the jury must be on the record in open court or must be in writing and filed in the action. The court or courtroom personnel must note on any written communication to or from the jury the date and time it was delivered.

(2) Exception for Certain Routine Communication. The court may, by pretrial order or by statement on the record with opportunity for objection, set forth the scope of routine ex parte communication to be permitted and the limits imposed by the court with regard to such communication.

(A) Routine ex parte communication between the bailiff or other courtroom personnel and the jurors, limited to juror comfort and safety, may occur off the record.

(B) In no event shall ex parte communication between courtroom personnel and jurors extend to matters that may affect the outcome of the trial, including statements containing any fact or opinion concerning a party, attorney, or procedural matter or relating to any legal issue or lawsuit.

(3) Instructions to Jury. During voir dire, the court must instruct the jurors and 459 courtroom personnel regarding the limitations on communication between the court or courtroom personnel and jurors. Upon empanelling the jury, the court must instruct the jurors that their questions are to be submitted in writing to the court, which will review them with the parties and counsel before responding.

(4) Notification of Jury Communication. Courtroom personnel must immediately notify the court of any communication to or from a juror or among jurors in contravention of the court's orders or instructions, including all communication contrary to the requirements of this rule.

RULE 12.440. SETTING ACTION FOR TRIAL

~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.440 shall govern general provisions concerning setting an action for trial in family law matters, with the following exceptions and additions.~~

(a) When at Issue. An action is at issue after any motions directed to the last pleading served have been disposed of or, if no such motions are served, 20 days after service of the last pleading. The party entitled to serve motions directed to the last pleading may waive the right to do so by filing a notice for trial at any time after the last pleading is served. The existence of crossclaims among the parties shall not prevent the court from setting the action for trial on the issues raised by the petition, counterpetition, and answer.

(b) Notice for Trial. Any party may file and serve a notice that the action is at issue and ready to be set for trial. The notice must include an estimate of the time required and whether the trial is on the original action or a subsequent proceeding. The clerk must then submit the notice and the case file to the court. If there are any issues to be tried by jury, the notice for trial must so state.

(c) Setting for Trial. If the court finds the action ready to be set for trial, it shall enter an order setting the action for trial, fixing a date for trial, and setting a pretrial conference, if necessary. In the event a default has been entered, reasonable notice of not less than 10 days shall be given unless otherwise required by law. In actions in which the damages are not liquidated, the order setting an action for trial shall be served on parties who are in default in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516. Trial shall be set within a reasonable time from the service of the notice for trial. At the pretrial conference, the parties should be prepared, consistent with ~~Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure~~ rule 12.200, to present any matter that will prepare the parties for trial and that can expedite the resolution of the case. The trial court may also direct the parties to reciprocally exchange and file with the court all documents relative to the outcome of the case; a list of all witnesses, all issues to be tried, and all undisposed motions; an estimate of the time needed to try the case; and any other information the court deems appropriate. Any court filings shall be in conformity with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425. This information should be served and filed no later than 72 hours before the pretrial conference or 30 days before the trial.

(b d) Sanctions. The failure to comply with the requirements of the order setting the action for trial ~~shall~~ subjects the party or attorney to appropriate court sanctions.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Committee Notes

[no change]

~~RULE 12.442. PROPOSALS FOR SETTLEMENT~~

~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.442 shall not apply in proceedings governed by these rules.~~

460 RULE 12.450. EVIDENCE

~~Adverse witnesses, the record of excluded evidence, and the filing of evidence shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.450.~~

(a) Record of Excluded Evidence. If, during trial, an objection to a question propounded to a witness is sustained by the trier of fact, the examining attorney may make a specific offer of what the attorney expects to prove by the answer of the witness. The court may add such other and further statement as clearly shows the character of the evidence, the form in which it was offered, the objection made, and the ruling thereon. The court on request must take and report the evidence in full unless it clearly appears that the evidence is not admissible on any ground or is privileged. The court may require the offer to be made outside the hearing of the trier of fact.

(b) Filing. When documentary evidence is introduced in an action, the clerk or the judge must endorse an identifying number or symbol on it and when proffered or admitted in evidence, it must be filed by the clerk or judge and considered in the custody of the court and not withdrawn except with written leave of court.

RULE 12.460. CONTINUANCES

~~Continuances shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.460.~~

Continuances are governed by Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.545(e). If a continuance is sought on the ground of nonavailability of a witness, the motion must show when it is believed the witness will be available.

RULE 12.470. EXCEPTIONS ~~UNNECESSARY~~

~~Exceptions shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.470 except that no exception shall be necessary to an adverse ruling other than as provided in rules 12.490 and 12.492.~~

(a) Adverse Ruling. For appellate purposes no exception shall be necessary to any adverse ruling, order, instruction, or thing whatsoever said or done at the trial or prior to the trial or after the verdict, which was said or done after objection made and considered by the trial court and which affected the substantial rights of the party complaining and which is assigned as error, other than as provided by rules 12.490 and 12.492.

(b) Instructions to Jury. The Florida Standard Jury Instructions appearing on the court's website at www.floridasupremecourt.org/jury_ instructions.shtml must be used by the trial judges of this state in instructing the jury in civil actions to the extent that the Standard Jury Instructions are applicable, unless the trial judge determines that an applicable Standard Jury Instruction is erroneous or inadequate. If the trial judge modifies a Standard Jury Instruction or gives such other instruction as the judge determines necessary to accurately and sufficiently instruct the jury, on timely objection to the instruction, the trial judge must state on the record or in a separate order the legal basis for varying from the Standard Jury Instruction. Similarly, in all circumstances in which the notes accompanying the Florida Standard Jury Instructions contain a recommendation that a certain type of instruction not be given, the trial judge must follow the recommendation unless the judge determines that the giving of such an instruction is necessary to accurately and sufficiently instruct the jury, in which event the judge must give such instruction as the judge deems appropriate and necessary. If the trial judge does not follow such a recommendation of the Florida Standard Jury Instructions, on timely objection to 461 the instruction, the trial judge must state on the record or in a separate order the legal basis of the determination that such instruction is necessary. Not later than at the close of the evidence, the parties may file written requests that the court instruct the jury on the law set forth in such requests. The court may then require counsel to appear before it to settle the instructions to be given. At such conference, all objections must be made and ruled on and the court must inform counsel of such instructions as the court will give. No party may assign as error the giving of any instruction unless that party objects thereto at such time, or the failure to give any instruction unless that party requested the same. The court shall orally instruct the jury before or after the arguments of counsel and may provide appropriate instructions during the trial. If the instructions are given before final argument, the presiding judge must give the jury final procedural instructions after final arguments are concluded and before deliberations. The court must provide each juror with a written set of the instructions for his or her use in deliberations. The court must file a copy of such instructions.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(c) Orders on New Trial; Directed Verdicts; etc. It shall not be necessary to object or except to any order granting or denying motions for new trials, directed verdicts, or judgments notwithstanding the verdict or in arrest of judgment to entitle the party against whom such ruling is made to have the same reviewed by an appellate court.

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.480. MOTION FOR A DIRECTED VERDICT

~~Motions for directed verdict shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.480.~~

(a) Effect. A party who moves for a directed verdict at the close of the evidence offered by the adverse party may offer evidence in the event the motion is denied without having reserved the right to do so and to the same extent as if the motion had not been made. The denial of a motion for a directed verdict shall not operate to discharge the jury, if applicable. A motion for a directed verdict must state the specific grounds for it. The order directing a verdict is effective without any assent of the jury, if applicable.

(b) Reservation of Decision on Motion. When a motion for a directed verdict is denied or for any reason is not granted, the court is deemed to have submitted the action to the jury, if applicable, subject to a later determination of the legal questions raised by the motion. Within 15 days after the return of a verdict, a party who has timely moved for a directed verdict may serve a motion to set aside the verdict and any judgment entered on it and to enter judgment in accordance with the motion for a directed verdict. If a verdict was not returned, a party who has timely moved for a directed verdict may serve a motion for judgment in accordance with the motion for a directed verdict within 15 days after discharge of the jury, if applicable.

(c) Joined with Motion for New Trial or Motion for Rehearing. A motion for a new trial or motion for rehearing may be joined with a motion for directed verdict or a new trial may be requested in the alternative. If a verdict was returned, the court may allow the judgment to stand or may reopen the judgment and either order a new trial or rehearing, or direct the entry of judgment as if the requested verdict had been directed. If no verdict was returned, the court may direct the entry of judgment as if the requested verdict had been directed or may order a new trial or rehearing.

*462 ~~RULE 12.481. VERDICTS~~

~~Verdicts shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.481.~~

RULE 12.500. DEFAULTS AND FINAL JUDGMENTS THEREON

~~Defaults and final judgments thereon shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.500.~~

(a) By the Clerk. When a party against whom affirmative relief is sought has failed to file or serve any document in the action, the party seeking relief may have the clerk enter a default against the party failing to serve or file such document.

(b) By the Court. When a party against whom affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise respond as provided by these rules or any applicable statute or any order of court, the court may enter a default against such party provided that if such party has filed or served any document in the action, that party must be served with notice of the application for default.

(c) Right to Plead. A party may plead or otherwise respond at any time before default is entered. If a party in default files any document after the default is entered, the clerk must notify the party of the entry of the default. The clerk must make an entry on the docket showing the notification.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(d) Setting Aside Default. The court may set aside a default, and if a final judgment on it has been entered, the court may set it aside in accordance with rule 12.540(b).

(e) Final Judgment. Final judgments after default may be entered by the court at any time, but no judgment may be entered against a minor or incapacitated person unless represented in the action by a general guardian, guardian ad litem, attorney ad litem, committee, conservator, or other representative who has appeared in it or unless the court has made an order under rule 12.210(b) providing that no representative is necessary for the minor or incapacitated person. If it is necessary to take an account or to determine the amount of damages or to establish the truth of any allegation by evidence or to make an investigation of any other matter to enable the court to enter judgment or to effectuate it, the court may receive affidavits, make referrals, or conduct hearings as it deems necessary and must accord a right of trial by jury to the parties when required by the Constitution or any statute.

RULE 12.510. SUMMARY JUDGMENT

~~Summary judgment shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.510, except that service by the adverse party, as set forth in for rule 1.510(c), shall be on the movant in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.~~

(a) For Claimant. A party seeking to recover on a claim, counterpetition, crossclaim, or third-party claim or to obtain a declaratory judgment may move for a summary judgment in that party's favor on all or any part of it with or without supporting affidavits at any time after the expiration of 20 days from the commencement of the action or after service of a motion for summary judgment by the adverse party.

(b) For Defending Party. A party against whom a claim, counterpetition, crossclaim, or third-party claim is asserted or a declaratory judgment is sought may move for a summary judgment in that party's favor as to all or any part of it at any time with or without supporting affidavits.

*463 (c) Motion and Proceedings Thereon. The motion must state with particularity the grounds on which it is based and the substantial matters of law to be argued and must specifically identify any affidavits, answers to interrogatories, admissions, depositions, and other materials as would be admissible in evidence ("summary judgment evidence") on which the movant relies. The movant must serve the motion at least 20 days before the time fixed for the hearing, and must also serve at that time any summary judgment evidence on which the movant relies that has not already been filed with the court. The adverse party must identify, by notice served under Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516 at least 5 days prior to the day of the hearing, or delivered no later than 5:00 p.m. 2 business days prior to the day of the hearing, any summary judgment evidence on which the adverse party relies. To the extent that summary judgment evidence has not already been filed with the court, the adverse party must serve a copy on the movant under rule 2.516 at least 5 days prior to the day of the hearing, or by delivery to the movant's attorney no later than 5:00 p.m. 2 business days prior to the day of the hearing. The judgment sought must be rendered immediately if the pleadings and summary judgment evidence on file show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. A summary judgment, interlocutory in character, may be rendered on the issue of liability alone although there is a genuine issue as to the amount of damages.

(d) Case Not Fully Adjudicated on Motion. On motion under this rule if judgment is not rendered on the whole case or for all the relief asked and a trial or the taking of testimony and a final hearing is necessary, the court at the hearing of the motion, by examining the pleadings and the evidence before it and by interrogating counsel, must ascertain, if practicable, what material facts exist without substantial controversy and what material facts are actually and in good faith controverted. It must then make an order specifying the facts that appear without substantial controversy, including the extent to which the amount of damages or other relief is not in controversy, and directing such further proceedings in the action as are just. On the trial or final hearing of the action the facts so specified shall be deemed established, and the trial or final hearing shall be conducted accordingly.

(e) Form of Affidavits; Further Testimony. Supporting and opposing affidavits must be made on personal knowledge, must set forth such facts as would be admissible in evidence, and must show affirmatively that the affiant is competent to testify to the matters stated therein. Sworn or certified copies of all documents or parts thereof referred to in an affidavit must be attached to it or served with it. The court may permit affidavits to be supplemented or opposed by depositions, answers to interrogatories, or by further affidavits.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(f) When Affidavits Are Unavailable. If it appears from the affidavits of a party opposing the motion that the party cannot for reasons stated present by affidavit facts essential to justify opposition, the court may refuse the application for judgment or may order a continuance to permit affidavits to be obtained or depositions to be taken or discovery to be had or may make such other order as is just.

(g) Affidavits Made in Bad Faith. If it appears to the satisfaction of the court at any time that any of the affidavits presented under this rule are presented in bad faith or solely for the purpose of delay, 464 the court must immediately order the party employing them to pay to the other party the amount of the reasonable expenses which the filing of the affidavits caused the other party to incur, including reasonable attorneys' fees, and any offending party or attorney may be adjudged guilty of contempt.

Committee Notes

[no change]

~~RULE 12.525. MOTIONS FOR COSTS AND ATTORNEYS' FEES~~

~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.525 shall not apply in proceedings governed by these rules.~~

RULE 12.530. MOTIONS FOR NEW TRIAL AND REHEARING; AMENDMENTS OF JUDGMENTS

~~Motions for new trial and rehearing and amendments of judgments shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.530.~~

(a) Jury and Non–Jury Actions. A new trial or rehearing may be granted to all or any of the parties and on all or a part of the issues. On a motion for a rehearing of matters heard without a jury, including summary judgments, the court may open the judgment if one has been entered, take additional testimony, and enter a new judgment.

(b) Time for Motion. A motion for new trial or for rehearing must be served not later than 15 days after the return of the verdict in a jury action or the date of filing of the judgment in a non-jury action. A timely motion may be amended to state new grounds in the discretion of the court at any time before the motion is determined.

(c) Time for Serving Affidavits. When a motion for a new trial or rehearing is based on affidavits, the affidavits must be served with the motion. The opposing party has 10 days after such service within which to serve opposing affidavits, which period may be extended for an additional period not exceeding 20 days either by the court for good cause shown or by the parties by written stipulation. The court may permit reply affidavits.

(d) On Initiative of Court. Not later than 15 days after entry of judgment or within the time of ruling on a timely motion for a rehearing or a new trial made by a party, the court of its own initiative may order a rehearing or a new trial for any reason for which it might have granted a rehearing or a new trial on motion of a party.

(e) When Motion Is Unnecessary; Non–Jury Case. When an action has been tried by the court without a jury, the sufficiency of the evidence to support the judgment may be raised on appeal whether or not the party raising the question has made any objection to it in the trial court or made a motion for rehearing, for new trial, or to alter or amend the judgment.

(f) Hearing on Motion. When any motion for rehearing or new trial is filed, the court must initially make a determination if a hearing on the motion is required. If a hearing is required, the court must provide notice of the hearing on the motion for rehearing or new trial. If the court determines that a hearing is not required, then the court must enter an order granting or denying the motion in accordance with this rule.

(g) Order Granting to Specify Grounds. All orders granting a new trial or rehearing must specify the specific grounds for it. If such an order is appealed and does not state the specific grounds, the appellate court must relinquish its jurisdiction to the trial court for entry of an 465 order specifying the grounds for granting the new trial or a rehearing.

(h) Motion to Alter or Amend a Judgment. A motion to alter or amend the judgment must be served not later than 15 days after entry of the judgment, except that this rule does not affect the remedies in rule 12.540(b).

RULE 12.540. RELIEF FROM JUDGMENT, DECREES, OR ORDERS

~~Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.540 shall govern general provision concerning relief from judgment, decrees, or orders, except:~~

~~(a) there shall be no time limit for motions based on fraudulent financial affidavits in marital or paternity cases; and~~

~~(b) the motion and any attachment or exhibit to it shall be in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425.~~

(a) Clerical Mistakes. Clerical mistakes in judgments or other parts of the record and errors arising from oversight or omission may be corrected by the court at any time on its own initiative or on the motion of any party and after such notice, if any, as the court orders. During the pendency of an appeal such mistakes may be so corrected before the record on appeal is docketed in the appellate court, and thereafter while the appeal is pending may be so corrected with leave of the appellate court.

(b) Mistakes; Inadvertence; Excusable Neglect; Newly Discovered Evidence; Fraud; etc. On motion and on such terms as are just, the court may relieve a party or a party's legal representative from a final judgment, order, or proceeding for the following reasons:

(1) mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect;

(2) newly discovered evidence which by due diligence could not have been discovered in time to move for a new trial or rehearing;

(3) fraud (whether heretofore denominated intrinsic or extrinsic), misrepresentation, or other misconduct of an adverse party;

(4) that the judgment is void; or

(5) that the judgment has been satisfied, released, or discharged, or a prior judgment on which it is based has been reversed or otherwise vacated, or it is no longer equitable that the judgment should have prospective application.

The motion must be filed within a reasonable time, and for reasons (1), (2), and (3) not more than 1 year after the judgment, order, or proceeding was entered or taken; except that there will be no time limit for motions based on fraudulent financial affidavits in marital or paternity cases. The motion and any attachment or exhibit to it must be in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425. A motion under this subdivision does not affect the finality of a judgment or suspend its operation. This rule does not limit the power of a court to entertain an independent action or supplemental proceeding to relieve a party from a judgment, order, or proceeding or to set aside a judgment for fraud on the court.

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.550. EXECUTIONS AND FINAL PROCESS

~~Executions and final process shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.550.~~

(a) Issuance. Executions on judgments shall issue during the life of the judgment on the oral request of the party entitled to it or that party's attorney. No 466 execution or other final process may issue until the judgment on which it is based has been recorded nor within the time for serving a motion for new trial or rehearing, and if a motion for new trial or rehearing is timely served, until it is determined. Execution or other final process may be issued on special order of the court at any time after judgment.

(b) Stay. The court before which an execution or other process based on a final judgment is returnable may stay such execution or other process and suspend proceedings on it for good cause on motion and notice to all adverse parties.

RULE 12.570. ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS

~~Enforcement of judgments shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.570.~~

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(a) Money Judgments. Final process to enforce a judgment solely for the payment of money shall be by execution, writ of garnishment, or other appropriate process or proceedings. Money judgments, as governed by rule 1.570(a) shall include, but not be limited to, judgments for alimony, child support, equitable distribution payments, attorneys' fees, suit money, and costs, and equitable distribution.

(b) Property Recovery. Final process to enforce a judgment for the recovery of property shall be by a writ of possession for real property and by a writ of replevin, distress writ, writ of garnishment, or other appropriate process or proceedings for other property.

(c) Performance of an Act. If judgment is for the performance of a specific act or contract:

(1) the judgment must specify the time within which the act must be performed. If the act is not performed within the time specified, the party seeking enforcement of the judgment shall make an affidavit that the judgment has not been complied with within the prescribed time and the clerk shall issue a writ of attachment against the delinquent party. The delinquent party shall not be released from the writ of attachment until that party has complied with the judgment and paid all costs accruing because of the failure to perform the act. If the delinquent party cannot be found, the party seeking enforcement of the judgment shall file an affidavit to this effect and the court shall issue a writ of sequestration against the delinquent party's property. The writ of sequestration shall not be dissolved until the delinquent party complies with the judgment;

(2) the court may hold the disobedient party in contempt; or

(3) the court may appoint some person, not a party to the action, to perform the act insofar as practicable. The performance of the act by the person appointed has the same effect as if performed by the party against whom the judgment was entered.

(d) Parental Responsibility. Actions for enforcement of issues related to parental responsibility may be brought by motion.

(e) Vesting Title. If the judgment is for a conveyance, transfer, release, or acquittance of real or personal property, the judgment has the effect of a duly executed conveyance, transfer, release, or acquittance that is recorded in the county where the judgment is recorded. A judgment under this subdivision will be effective notwithstanding any disability of a party.

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.580. WRIT OF POSSESSION

~~Writs of possession shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.580.~~

*467 (a) Issuance. When a judgment or order is for the delivery of possession of real property, the judgment or order shall direct the clerk to issue a writ of possession. The clerk must issue the writ immediately and deliver it to the sheriff for execution.

(b) Third–Party Claims. If a person other than the party against whom the writ of possession is issued is in possession of the property, that person may retain possession of the property by filing with the sheriff an affidavit that the person is entitled to possession of the property, specifying the nature of the claim. The sheriff must then desist from enforcing the writ and must serve a copy of the affidavit on the party causing issuance of the writ of possession. The party causing issuance of the writ may apply to the court for an order directing the sheriff to complete execution of the writ. The court will determine the right of possession in the property and may order the sheriff to continue to execute the writ or may stay execution of the writ, if appropriate.

RULE 12.590. PROCESS IN BEHALF OF AND AGAINST PERSONS NOT PARTIES

~~Process in behalf of and against persons not parties shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.590.~~

Every person who is not a party to the action who has obtained an order, or in whose favor an order has been made, may enforce obedience to such order by the same process as if that person were a party, and every person, not a party, against whom obedience to any order may be enforced is liable to the same process for enforcing obedience to such orders as if that person were a party.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

RULE 12.600. DEPOSITS IN COURT

~~Deposits in court shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.600, with the following addition.~~ In an action in which any part of the relief sought is a judgment for a sum of money or the disposition of a sum of money or the disposition of any other thing capable of delivery, a party may deposit all or any part of such sum or thing with the court on notice to every other party and by leave of court. Money paid into court under this rule shall be deposited and withdrawn by order of court. The party depositing money or depositing the thing capable of delivery shall pay any fee imposed by the clerk of the court, unless the court orders otherwise.

Commentary

[no change]

RULE 12.605. INJUNCTIONS

(a) Temporary Injunction.

(1) This rule does not apply to relief sought under rule 12.610.

(2) A temporary injunction may be granted without written or oral notice to the adverse party only if:

(A) it appears from the specific facts shown by affidavit or verified pleading that immediate and irreparable injury, loss, or damage will result to the movant before the adverse party can be heard in opposition; and

(B) the movant or movant's attorney certifies in writing any efforts that have been made to give notice and the reasons why notice should not be required.

(3) No evidence other than the affidavit or verified pleading may be used to support the application for a temporary injunction unless the adverse party appears at the hearing or has received reasonable notice of the hearing. Every temporary injunction granted without notice must be endorsed with the date and hour of entry and must be filed immediately in the clerk's office and must define the injury, state findings by the court why the 468 injury may be irreparable, and give the reasons why the order was granted without notice if notice was not given. The temporary injunction shall remain in effect until the further order of the court.

(b) Bond. No temporary injunction may be entered unless a bond is given by the movant in an amount the court deems proper, conditioned for the payment of costs and damages sustained by the adverse party if the adverse party is wrongfully enjoined. When any injunction is issued on the pleading of a municipality or the state or any officer, agency, or political subdivision of it, the court may require or dispense with a bond, with or without surety, and conditioned in the same manner, having due regard for the public interest. No bond shall be required for issuance of a temporary injunction issued solely to prevent physical injury or abuse of a natural person.

(c) Form and Scope. Every injunction must specify the reasons for entry, must describe in reasonable detail the act or acts restrained without reference to a pleading or another document, and must be binding on the parties to the action, their officers, agents, servants, employees, and attorneys and on those persons in active concert or participation with them who receive actual notice of the injunction.

(d) Motion to Dissolve. A party against whom a temporary injunction has been granted may move to dissolve or modify it at any time. If a party moves to dissolve or modify, the motion must be heard within 5 days after the movant applies for a hearing on the motion.

Committee Note

2017 Adoption. The case law related to Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.610 shall be applicable to this rule.

RULE 12.620. RECEIVERS

~~Receivers shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.620, except that~~

(a) Notice. The notice provisions of rule 12.605 apply to applications for the appointment of receivers.

(b) Report. Every receiver must file in the clerk's office a true and complete inventory under oath of the property coming under the receiver's control or possession under the receiver's appointment within 20 days after appointment. Every 3 months unless the court otherwise orders, the receiver must file in the same office an inventory and account under oath of any additional property or effects which the receiver has discovered or which may have come to the receiver's hands since appointment, and of the amount remaining in the hands of or invested by the receiver, and of the manner in which the same is secured or invested, stating the balance due from or to the receiver at the time of rendering the last account and the receipts and expenditures since that time. When a receiver neglects to file the inventory and account, the court must enter an order requiring the receiver to file such inventory and account and to pay out of the receiver's own funds the expenses of the order and the proceedings on it within not more than 20 days after being served with a copy of such order.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

(c) Bond. The court may grant leave to put the bond of the receiver in suit against the sureties without notice to the sureties of the application for such leave.

(d) Contents of Inventory. ~~any~~ Any inventory filed with the court ~~shall~~ must be in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.425.

469 RULE 12.625. PROCEEDINGS AGAINST SURETY ON JUDICIAL BONDS

~~Proceedings against sureties on judicial bonds shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.625.~~

When any rule or statute requires or permits giving of bond by a party in a judicial proceeding, the surety on the bond submits to the jurisdiction of the court when the bond is approved. The surety must furnish the address for the service of documents affecting the surety's liability on the bond to the officer to whom the bond is given at that time. The liability of the surety may be enforced on motion without the necessity of an independent action. The motion must be served on the surety at the address furnished to the officer. The surety must serve a response to the motion within 20 days after service of the motion, asserting any defenses in law or in fact. If the surety fails to serve a response within the time allowed, a default may be taken. If the surety serves a response, the issues raised must be decided by the court on reasonable notice to the parties. The right to jury trial may not be abridged in any such proceedings.

RULE 12.630. EXTRAORDINARY REMEDIES

~~Extraordinary remedies shall be governed by Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.630, except summons in certiorari, as set forth in rule 1.630(d)(5), shall be served as provided in Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.~~

(a) Applicability. This rule applies to actions for the issuance of writs of mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto, and habeas corpus.

(b) Initial Pleading. The initial pleading must be a petition. It must contain:

(1) the facts on which the petitioner relies for relief;

(2) a request for the relief sought; and

(3) if desired, argument in support of the petition with citations of authority.

The caption must show the action filed in the name of the petitioner in all cases and not on the relation of the state. When the petition seeks a writ directed to a lower court or to a governmental or administrative agency, a copy of as much of the record as is necessary to support the petitioner's petition must be attached.

(c) Time. A petition must be filed within the time provided by law.

(d) Process. If the petition shows a prima facie case for relief, the court may issue:

(1) an order nisi in prohibition;

(2) an alternative writ in mandamus that may incorporate the petition by reference only;

(3) a writ of quo warranto; or

(4) a writ of habeas corpus.

The writ must be served in the manner prescribed by law.

(e) Response. Respondent must respond to the writ as provided in rule 12.140, but the answer in quo warranto must show better title to the office when the writ seeks an adjudication of the right to an office held by the respondent.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Committee Note

[no change]

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.910(a), SUMMONS: PERSONAL SERVICE ON AN INDIVIDUAL

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form should be used to obtain personal service on the other party when you *470 begin your lawsuit. Service is required for all documents filed in your case. Service means giving a copy of the required papers to the other party using the procedure that the law requires. Generally, there are two ways to make service: (1) personal service, or (2) service by email, mail, or hand delivery. A third method for service is called constructive service; however, the relief a court may grant may be limited in a case where constructive service has been used.

The law requires that certain documents be served by personal service if personal service is possible. Personal service means that a summons (this form) and a copy of the forms you are filing with the court that must be personally served are delivered by a deputy sheriff or private process server

a. directly to the other party, or

b. to someone over the age of fifteen with whom the other party lives.

Personal service is required for all petitions, including petitions for modification. You cannot serve these papers on the other party yourself or by mail or hand delivery. Personal service must be made by the sheriff's department in the county where the other party lives or works or by a private process server certified in the county where the other party lives or works.

In many counties, there are private process servers who, for a fee, will personally serve the summons and other documents that require personal service. You should look under process servers in the yellow pages of the telephone book for a list of private process servers in your area. You may use a private process server to serve any paper required to be personally served in a family law case except a petition for injunction for protection against domestic or repeat violence.

How do I start?

When you begin your lawsuit, you need to complete this form (summons) and a Process Service Memorandum, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.910(b). The forms should be typed or printed legibly in black ink. Next, you will need to take these forms and, if you have not already done so, file your petition with the clerk of the circuit court in the county where you live. You should keep a copy of the forms for your records. The clerk will sign the summons, and then the summons, a copy of the papers to be served, and the process service memorandum must be delivered to the appropriate sheriff's office or to a private process server for service on the other party.

IF THE OTHER PARTY LIVES IN THE COUNTY WHERE SUIT IS FILED: Ask the clerk in your county about any local procedures regarding service. Generally, if the other party lives in the county in which you are filing suit and you want the sheriff's department to serve the papers, you will file the summons along with a Process Service Memorandum, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.910(b), with the clerk and the clerk will forward those papers to the sheriff for service. Make sure that you attach a copy of the papers you want personally served to the summons. You may also need to provide the sheriff with a stamped envelope addressed to you. This will allow the sheriff to send the proof of service to you, after the sheriff serves your papers on the other party. However, in some counties the sheriff may send the proof of service directly to the clerk. If you are instructed to supply a self-addressed, stamped envelope and you receive the proof of service, you should file the proof *471 of service with the clerk after you receive it from the sheriff. Also, you will need to find out how much the sheriff charges to serve the papers. Personal checks are not accepted. You should attach to the summons a cashier's check or money order made payable to the sheriff, and either give it to the clerk for delivery to the sheriff or send all of the paperwork and the fee to the sheriff yourself. The clerk will tell you which procedure to use. The costs for service may be waived if you are indigent.

If you want a private process server to serve the other party, you should still bring the summons to the clerk's office and have the clerk sign it for you. You should deliver the summons, along with the copy of your initial petition and any other papers to be served, and a Process Service Memorandum, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.910(b), to the private process server. The private process server will charge you a fee for serving the papers. After service is complete, proof of service by the private process server must be filed with the clerk. You should discuss how this will occur with the private process server.

IF THE OTHER PARTY LIVES IN ANOTHER COUNTY: If the other party lives in another county, service needs to be made by a sheriff in the county where the other party lives or by a private process server certified in the county where the other party lives. Make sure that you attach a copy of the papers you want personally served to the summons as well as the Process Service Memorandum, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.910(b). If you want the sheriff to serve the papers, the clerk may send your papers to that sheriff's office for you, or you may have to send the papers yourself. The clerk will tell you which procedure to use. Either way, you will need to provide the sheriff with a stamped envelope addressed to you. This will allow the sheriff to send the proof of service to you, after the sheriff serves your papers on the other party. You should file the proof of service with the clerk after you receive it from the sheriff. Also, you will need to find out how much the sheriff charges to serve the papers. Personal checks are not accepted. You should attach to the summons a cashier's check or money order made payable to the sheriff, and either give it to the clerk for delivery to the sheriff or send all of the paperwork and the fee to the sheriff yourself. The clerk will tell you which procedure to use. The costs for service may be waived if you are indigent.

If you want a private process server to serve the other party, you should still bring the summons to the clerk's office where the clerk will sign it for you. You should deliver the summons, along with the copy of your initial petition and any other papers to be served, and a Process Service Memorandum, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.910(b), to the private process server. The private process server will charge you a fee for serving the papers. After service is complete, proof of service by the private process server must be filed with the clerk. You should discuss how this will occur with the private process server.

IF THE OTHER PARTY CANNOT BE LOCATED OR DOES NOT LIVE IN FLORIDA: If, after you have made a diligent effort to locate the other party, you absolutely cannot locate the other party, you may serve the other party by publication. Service by publication is also known as constructive service. You may also be able to use constructive service if the other party does not live in Florida. However, Florida courts have only limited jurisdiction over a party who is served by *472 constructive service and may have only limited jurisdiction over a party living outside of Florida regardless of whether that party is served by constructive or personal service; that is, the judge's power to order the other party to do certain things may be limited. For example, the judge may be able to grant your request for a divorce, but the judge may not be able to address issues such as child support, spousal support (alimony), or division of property or debts.

Regardless of the type of service used, if the other party once lived in Florida but is living outside of Florida now, you should include in your petition a statement regarding the length of time the party lived in Florida, if any, and when. For example: "Respondent last lived in Florida from {date} _____ to {date} _____."

This area of the law is very complex and you may need to consult with an attorney regarding the proper type of service to be used in your case if the other party does not live in Florida or cannot be located.

What happens when the papers are served on the other party?

The date and hour of service are written on the original summons and on all copies of it by the person making the service. The person who delivers the summons and copies of the petition must file a proof of service with the clerk or provide a proof of service to you for filing with the court. It is your responsibility to make sure the proof of service has been returned to the clerk and placed in your case file.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self–Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. For further information regarding service of process, see chapters 48 and 49, Florida Statutes, and Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.070, as well as the instructions for Notice of Action for Dissolution of Marriage (No Child or Financial Support), Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.913(a)(1), Notice of Action for Family Cases with Minor Child(ren), Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.913(a)(2), Affidavit of Diligent Service and Inquiry, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.913(b), and Affidavit of Diligent Search, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.913(c).

Special notes

If you have been unable to obtain proper service on the other party within 120 days after filing your lawsuit, the court will dismiss your lawsuit against the other party unless you can show the court a good reason why service was not made within 120 days. For this reason, if you had the local sheriff serve the papers, you should check with the clerk every couple of weeks after completing the service papers to see if service has been completed. You may need to supply the sheriff with a new or better address. If you had a private process server or a sheriff in another county serve the papers, you should be in contact with that person or sheriff until you receive proof of service from that person or sheriff. You should then file the proof of service with the clerk immediately.

If the other party fails to respond, i.e., fails to file a written response with the court, within 20 days after the service of the summons, you are entitled to request a default. See the instructions to Motion for Default, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.922 (a), and Default, Florida Supreme Court Approved 473 Family Law Form 12.922(b), for further information. You will need to file an Affidavit of Military Service, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.912(b), before a default may be granted.

Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

_____,
Petitioner,

and

_____,
Respondent.

SUMMONS: PERSONAL SERVICE ON AN INDIVIDUAL
ORDEN DE COMPARECENCIA: SERVICIO PERSONAL EN UN INDIVIDUO
CITATION: L'ASSIGNATION PERSONAL SUR UN INDIVIDUEL

TO/PARA/A: (enter other party's full legal name) _____ (address (including city and state)/location for service) _____

IMPORTANT

A lawsuit has been filed against you. You have 20 calendar days after this summons is served on you to file a written response to the attached complaint/petition with the clerk of this circuit court, located at: (street) (address)

A phone call will not protect you. Your written response, including the case number given above and the names of the parties, must be filed if you want the Court to hear your side of the case.

If you do not file your written response on time, you may lose the case, and your wages, money, and property may be taken thereafter without further warning from the Court. There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may call an attorney referral service or a legal aid office (listed in the phone book).
If you choose to file a written response yourself, at the same time you file your written response to the Court, you must also serve a copy of your written response on the party serving this summons at: (Name and address of party serving summons) _____

If the party serving summons has designated email address(es) for service or is represented by an attorney, you may designate email address(es) for service by or on you. Service must be in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

Copies of all court documents in this case, including orders, are available at the Clerk of the Circuit Court's office. You may review these documents, upon request.

You must keep the Clerk of the Circuit Court's office notified of your current address. (You may file
Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.910(a), Summons: Personal Service on an Individual (03/17)

474

Designation of Current Mailing and Email Address, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.915.) Future papers in this lawsuit will be mailed to the address on record at the clerk's office.
WARNING: Rule 12.285, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure, requires certain automatic disclosure of documents and information. Failure to comply can result in sanctions, including dismissal or striking of pleadings.

IMPORTANTE

Usted ha sido demandado legalmente. Tiene veinte (20) dias, contados a partir del recibo de esta notificacion, para contestar la demanda adjunta, por escrito, y presentarla ante este tribunal. Localizado en: _____. Una llamada telefonica no lo protegera. Si usted desea que el tribunal considere su defensa, debe presentar su respuesta por escrito, incluyendo el numero del caso y los nombres de las partes interesadas. Si usted no contesta la demanda a tiempo, pudiese perder el caso y podria ser despojado de sus ingresos y propiedades, o privado de sus derechos, sin previo aviso del tribunal. Existen otros requisitos legales. Si lo desea, usted puede consultar a un abogado inmediatamente. Si no conoce a un abogado, puede llamar a una de las oficinas de asistencia legal que aparecen en la guia telefonica.

Si desea responder a la demanda por su cuenta, al mismo tiempo en que presente su respuesta ante el tribunal, usted debe enviar por correo o entregar una copia de su respuesta a la persona denominada abajo.

Si usted elige presentar personalmente una respuesta por escrito, en el mismo momento que usted presente su respuesta por escrito al Tribunal, usted debe enviar por correo o llevar una copia de su respuesta por escrito a la parte entregando esta orden de comparencencia a:

Nombre y direccion de la parte que entrega la orden de comparencencia: _____

_____

Copias de todos los documentos judiciales de este caso, incluyendo las ordenes, estan disponibles en la oficina del Secretario de Juzgado del Circuito [Clerk of the Circuit Court's office]. Estos documentos pueden ser revisados a su solicitud.

Usted debe de mantener informada a la oficina del Secretario de Juzgado del Circuito de su direccion actual. (Usted puede presentar ____ el Formulario: Ley de Familia de la Florida 12.915, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.915, [Designation of Current Mailing and Email Address].) Los papeles que se presenten en el futuro en esta demanda judicial seran env ados por correo a la direccion que este registrada en la oficina del Secretario.

ADVERTENCIA: Regla 12.285 [Rule 12.285], de las Reglas de Procedimiento de Ley de Familia de la Florida [Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure], requiere cierta revelacion automatica de documentos e informacion. El incumplimient, puede resultar en sanciones, incluyendo la desestimacion o anulacion de los alegatos.

IMPORTANT

Des poursuites judiciaries ont ete entreprises contre vous. Vous avez 20 jours consecutifs a partir de la date de l'assignation de cette citation pour deposer une reponse ecrite a la plainte ci-jointe aupres de ce tribunal. Qui se trouve a: (l'Adresse) _____. Un simple coup de telephone est insuffisant pour vous proteger; vous etes obliges de deposer votre reponse ecrite, avec mention du numero de dossier ci-dessus et du nom des parties nommees ici, si vous souhaitez que le tribunal entende votre cause. Si vous ne deposez pas votre reponse ecrite dans le delai requis, vous risquez de perdre la cause ainsi que votre salaire, votre argent, et vos biens peuvent etre saisis par la suite, sans aucun preavis ulterieur du tribunal. Il y a d'autres obligations juridiques et vous pouvez requerir les services immediats d'un avocat. Si vous ne connaissez pas d'avocat, vous pourriez telephoner à un service de reference d'avocats ou a un bureau d'assistance juridique (figurant a l'annuaire de telephones).

Si vous choisissez de deposer vous-meme une reponse ecrite, il vous faudra egalement, en meme temps que cette formalite, faire parvenir ou expedier une copie au carbone ou une photocopie de votre reponse ecrite a la partie qui vous depose cette citation.

Nom et adresse de la partie qui depose cette citation: _____

_____

Les photocopies de tous les documents tribunals de cette cause, y compris des arrets, sont disponible au bureau du greffier. Vous pouvez revue ces documents, sur demande.

Il faut aviser le greffier de votre adresse actuelle. (Vous pouvez deposer Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.915, Designation of Current Mailing and Email Address.) Les documents de l'avenir de ce proces seront envoyer a l'adresse que vous donnez au bureau du greffier.

ATTENTION: La regle 12.285, des regles de procedure du droit de la famille de la Floride exige que l'on remette certains renseignements et certains documents a la partie adverse. Tout refus de les fournir pourra donner lieu a des sanctions, y compris le rejet ou la suppression d'un ou de plusieurs actes de procedure.

THE STATE OF FLORIDA
TO EACH SHERIFF OF THE STATE: You are commanded to serve this summons and a copy of the complaint in this lawsuit on the above-named person.

DATED: _____

CLERK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT
(SEAL)

By: _____
Deputy Clerk

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.910(a), Summons: Personal Service on an Individual (03/17)

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.910(a), Summons: Personal Service on an Individual (03/17)

475

*476 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.911(a), SUBPOENA FOR HEARING OR TRIAL (ISSUED BY CLERK)

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form is used to require the appearance of witnesses at a trial or a hearing and also to notify the other party(ies) of those witnesses you have subpoenaed as required by Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410. This form should be typed or printed in black ink. After you complete the form, you will need to take it to the clerk of the circuit court's office to obtain the clerk or deputy clerk's signature. The party issuing the subpoena should also sign it.

NOTE: Under Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.407, a minor child may not be brought to court to testify or appear at a hearing or be subpoenaed to appear at a hearing without prior order of the court on good cause shown unless it is an emergency situation. See Forms 12.944(a)–(b).

What should I do next?

The form must be served on the other party/parties and witness(es) in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

This form must be served on the witness(es) in accordance with Florida law and notice must also be given to the other parties in accordance with Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410 and with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self–Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. The words that are in bold underline in these instructions are defined there. For further information, see Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410.

Nonlawyer: Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of a Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

*477

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

In re: _____

_____
Petitioner,

and

_____
Respondent.

SUBPOENA FOR HEARING OR TRIAL (ISSUED BY CLERK)

THE STATE OF FLORIDA:
TO _____
YOU ARE COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable (name) _____, Judge of the Court, at the _____ County Courthouse in (city) _____, Florida, on (date) _____, at (time) _____ to testify in this action. If you fail to appear you may be held in contempt of court.

You are subpoenaed to appear by the following party, and unless you are excused from this subpoena by the party, or court, you must respond to this subpoena as directed.

DATE: _____

_____
DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp the name of the deputy clerk]
(Party): _____
(Address): _____
_____
(Telephone Number): _____
(E-mail address(es)): _____

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I certify that a copy of this document was [choose only one] ( ) mailed ( ) faxed and mailed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date) _____.

Other party or his/her attorney:

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(b), Subpoena for Hearing or Trial (Issued by Clerk) (03/17)

*478

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

I understand that I am swearing or affirming under oath to the truthfulness of the claims made in this document and that the punishment for knowingly making a false statement includes fines and/or imprisonment.

_____
Signature of Party or his/her Attorney
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

STATE OF FLORIDA
COUNTY OF _____

Sworn to or affirmed and signed before me on _____ by _____.

_____
NOTARY PUBLIC or DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp commissioned name of notary or deputy clerk.]

___ Personally known
___ Produced identification
Type of identification produced _____

If you are a person with a disability who needs any accommodation in order to participate in this proceeding, you are entitled, at no cost to you, to the provision of certain assistance. Please contact:

_____
(identify applicable court personnel by name, address, and telephone number)
at least 7 days before your scheduled court appearance, or immediately upon receiving this notification if the time before the scheduled appearance is less than 7 days; if you are hearing or voice impaired, call 711.

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW:
(fill in all blanks) This form was prepared for the: (choose only one)* ( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent
This form was prepared with the assistance of:
(name of individual) _____
(name of business) _____
(address) _____
(city) _____, (state) _____ (telephone number) _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(a), Subpoena for Hearing or Trial (Issued By Clerk) (03/17)

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(a), Subpoena for Hearing or Trial (Issued By Clerk) (03/17)

479

*480 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.911(b), SUBPOENA FOR HEARING OR TRIAL (ISSUED BY ATTORNEY)

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form is used to require the appearance of witnesses at a trial or a hearing and also to notify the other party(ies) of those witnesses you have subpoenaed as required by Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410. This form should be typed or printed in black ink. The attorney issuing the subpoena should sign it.

NOTE: Under Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.407, a minor child may not be brought to a hearing or be subpoenaed to appear at a hearing without prior order of the court on good cause shown unless it is an emergency situation. See Forms 12.944(a)–(b).

What should I do next?

The form must be served on the witness(es) in accordance with Florida law and notice must also be given to the other parties in accordance with Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410 and with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

481

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

In re: _____

_____,
Petitioner,

and

_____,
Respondent.

SUBPOENA FOR HEARING OR TRIAL

THE STATE OF FLORIDA
TO (name(s)) _____

YOU ARE COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable (name) _____, Judge of the Court, at the _____ County Courthouse in (city) _____, Florida, on (date) _____ at (time) _____ to testify in this action. If you fail to appear, you may be in contempt of court.
You are subpoenaed to appear by the following attorney, and unless excused from this subpoena by the attorney you must respond to the subpoena as directed.

DATE: _____

_____
ATTORNEY for (party)
FOR THE COURT

_____
[Print or type the name of the attorney]

(Address): _____
_____
(Telephone Number): _____
(Florida Bar No.): _____
(E-mail address(es)): _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure 12.911(b), Subpoena for Hearing or Trial (Issued by Attorney) (03/17)

482

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I certify that a copy of this document was [choose only one]: ( ) mailed ( ) faxed and mailed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date) _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure 12.911(b), Subpoena for Hearing or Trial (Issued by Attorney) (03/17)

483

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

I understand that I am swearing or affirming under oath to the truthfulness of the claims made in this document and that the punishment for knowingly making a false statement includes fines and/or imprisonment.

_____
Signature of Party or his/her Attorney
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

STATE OF FLORIDA
COUNTY OF _____

Sworn to or affirmed and signed before me on _____ by _____.

_____
NOTARY PUBLIC or DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp commissioned name of notary or deputy clerk.]

_____ Personally known
_____ Produced identification
Type of identification produced _____

If you are a person with a disability who needs any accommodation in order to participate in this proceeding, you are entitled, at no cost to you, to the provision of certain assistance. Please contact:

_____
[identify applicable court personnel by name, address, and telephone number] at least 7 days before your scheduled court appearance, or immediately upon receiving this notification if the time before the scheduled appearance is less than 7 days; if you are hearing or voice impaired, call 711.

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure 12.911(c), Subpoena for Hearing or Trial (Issued by Attorney) (03/17)

*484 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.911(c), SUBPOENA DUCES TECUM FOR HEARING OR TRIAL (ISSUED BY CLERK)

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form is used to require the appearance of witnesses at a trial or a hearing and also to notify the other party(ies) of those witnesses you have subpoenaed as required by Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410. It also requires that they bring specified items with them. This form should be typed or printed in black ink. After you complete the form, you will need to take it to the clerk of the circuit court's office to obtain the clerk or deputy clerk's signature. The party issuing the subpoena should also sign it.

NOTE: Under Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.407, a minor child may not be brought to court to testify or appear at a hearing or be subpoenaed to appear at a hearing without prior order of the court on good cause shown unless it is an emergency situation. See Forms 12.944(a)–(b).

What should I do next?

The form must be served on the other party/parties and witness(es) in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516. The form must be served on the witness(es) in accordance with Florida law and notice must also be given to the other parties in accordance with Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410 and with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self–Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. The words that are in bold underline in these instructions are defined there. For further information, see Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410.

Nonlawyer: Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of a Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

485

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

In re: _____

_____,
Petitioner,

and

_____,
Respondent.

SUBPOENA DUCES TECUM FOR HEARING OR TRIAL
(ISSUED BY CLERK)

THE STATE OF FLORIDA:
TO _____:

YOU ARE COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable (name) _____, Judge of the Court, at the _____ County Courthouse in (city) _____, Florida, on (date) _____ at (time) _____, to testify in this action and to have with you at that time and place the following: _____. If you fail to appear you may be held in contempt of court.
You are subpoenaed to appear by the Clerk of the Court on behalf of the party indicated below, and unless you are excused from this subpoena by the party indicated below, or court, you must respond to this subpoena as directed.

DATE: _____

_____
DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp the name of the deputy clerk]
(Party): _____
(Address): _____
_____
(Telephone Number): _____
(E-mail address(es)): _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(c), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Trial (Issued by Clerk) (03/17)

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I certify that a copy of this document was (choose only one) ( ) mailed ( ) faxed and mailed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date) _____.

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

I understand that I am swearing or affirming under oath to the truthfulness of the claims made in this document and that the punishment for knowingly making a false statement includes fines and/or imprisonment.

_____
Signature of Party or his/her Attorney
Printed Name: _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(c), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Trial (Issued by Clerk) (03/17)

WESTLAW © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

STATE OF FLORIDA
COUNTY OF

Sworn to or affirmed and signed before me on _____ by _____

_____
NOTARY PUBLIC or DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp commissioned name of notary or deputy clerk.]

___ Personally known
___ Produced identification
Type of identification produced _____

If you are a person with a disability who needs any accommodation in order to participate in this proceeding, you are entitled, at no cost to you, to the provision of certain assistance. Please contact:

_____
{identify applicable court personnel by name, address, and telephone number}
at least 7 days before your scheduled court appearance, or immediately upon receiving this notification if the time before the scheduled appearance is less than 7 days; if you are hearing or voice impaired, call 711.

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW.
{fill in all blanks}
This form was prepared for the {choose only one}: ( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent
This form was prepared with the assistance of:
{name of individual} _____
{name of business} _____
{address} _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(c), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Trial (Issued by Clerk) (03/17)

488

{city} _____, {state} _____, {telephone number} _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(c), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Trial (Issued by Clerk) (03/17)

*489 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.911(d), SUBPOENA DUCES TECUM FOR HEARING OR TRIAL (ISSUED BY ATTORNEY)

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form is used to require the appearance of witnesses at a trial or a hearing and also to notify the other party(ies) of those witnesses you have subpoenaed as required by Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410. It also requires that they bring specified items with them. This form should be typed or printed in black ink. The attorney party issuing the subpoena should sign it.

NOTE: Under Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.407, a minor child may not be brought to court to testify or appear at a hearing or be subpoenaed to appear at a hearing without prior order of the court on good cause shown unless it is an emergency situation.

What should I do next?

The form must be served on the witness(es) in accordance with Florida law and notice must also be given to the other parties in accordance with Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410 and with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

490

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

In re: _____

_____
Petitioner,

and

_____
Respondent.

SUBPOENA DUCES TECUM FOR HEARING OR TRIAL

THE STATE OF FLORIDA:
TO _____.

YOU ARE COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable (name) _____, Judge of the Court, at the _____ County Courthouse in (city) _____, Florida, on (date) _____, at (time) _____, to testify in this action and to have with you at that time and place the following: _____. If you fail to appear you may be held in contempt of court.
You are subpoenaed to appear by the Clerk of the Court on behalf of the party indicated below, and unless you are excused from this subpoena by the party indicated below, or court, you must respond to this subpoena as directed.

DATE: _____
(Name of Attorney) _____
FOR THE COURT

Attorney for (party) _____

(Address): _____

_____
(Telephone Number): _____
(Florida Bar No.): _____
(E-mail address(es)): _____

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I certify that a copy of this document was [choose only one] ( ) mailed ( ) faxed and mailed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date) _____.
Other party or his/her attorney:

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(d), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Trial (Issued by Attorney) (03/17)

491

Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

I understand that I am swearing or affirming under oath to the truthfulness of the claims made in this document and that the punishment for knowingly making a false statement includes fines and/or imprisonment.

_____
Signature of Party or his/her Attorney
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(d), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Trial (Issued by Attorney) (03/17)

492

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

STATE OF FLORIDA
COUNTY OF _____

Sworn to or affirmed and signed before me on _____ by _____.

_____
NOTARY PUBLIC or DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp commissioned name of notary or deputy clerk.]

_____ Personally known
_____ Produced identification
Type of identification produced _____

If you are a person with a disability who needs any accommodation in order to participate in this proceeding, you are entitled, at no cost to you, to the provision of certain assistance. Please contact:

_____
{identify applicable court personnel by name, address, and telephone number}
at least 7 days before your scheduled court appearance, or immediately upon receiving this notification if the time before the scheduled appearance is less than 7 days; if you are hearing or voice impaired, call 711.

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(e), Subpoena Duces Tecum for Trial (Issued by Attorney) (03/17)

*493 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.911(e), SUBPOENA FOR DEPOSITION (ISSUED BY CLERK)

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form is used to require the appearance of witnesses at a deposition and also to notify the other party(ies) of those witnesses you have subpoenaed as required by the Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410. This form should be typed or printed in black ink. The party issuing the subpoena should sign it and then take it to the clerk of the circuit court's office to obtain the deputy clerk's signature.

NOTE: Under Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.407, a minor child may not be brought to court to testify or appear at a hearing or be subpoenaed to appear at a hearing without prior order of the court on good cause shown unless it is an emergency situation.

What should I do next?

The form must be served on the witness(es) in accordance with Florida law and notice must also be given to the other parties in accordance with Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410 and with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self–Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. The words that are in bold underline in these instructions are defined there. For further information, see Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.410.

Nonlawyer: Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of a Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

494

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

In re: _____

_____
Petitioner,

and

_____
Respondent.

SUBPOENA FOR DEPOSITION
(ISSUED BY CLERK)

THE STATE OF FLORIDA:
TO _____.

YOU ARE COMMANDED to appear before a person authorized to take depositions at (address) _____ _____. If you fail to appear you may be held in contempt of court.

You are subpoenaed to appear by the clerk of the circuit court on behalf of the party indicated below, and unless you are excused from this subpoena by the party indicated below or the court, you must respond to this subpoena as directed.

DATE: _____

_____
DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp the name of the deputy clerk]
(Party): _____
(Address): _____
_____
(Telephone Number): _____
(E-mail address(es)): _____

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I certify that a copy of this document was [choose only one] ( ) mailed ( ) faxed and mailed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date) _____.

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

I understand that I am swearing or affirming under oath to the truthfulness of the claims made in this document and that the punishment for knowingly making a false statement includes fines and/or imprisonment.

_____
Signature of Party or his/her Attorney
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(e), Subpoena for Deposition (Issued by Clerk) (08/17)

*495

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.911(e), Subpoena for Deposition (Issued by Clerk) (08/17)

*496

Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

STATE OF FLORIDA
COUNTY OF _____

Sworn to or affirmed and signed before me on _____ by _____.

_____
NOTARY PUBLIC or DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp commissioned name of notary or deputy clerk.]

___ Personally known
___ Produced identification
Type of identification produced _____

If you are a person with a disability who needs any accommodation in order to participate in this proceeding, you are entitled, at no cost to you, to the provision of certain assistance. Please contact:

_____
(identify applicable court personnel by name, address, and telephone number)
at least 7 days before your scheduled court appearance, or immediately upon receiving this notification if the time before the scheduled appearance is less than 7 days; if you are hearing or voice impaired, call 711.

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW:
(fill in all blanks) This form was prepared for the (choose only one) ( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent
This form was prepared with the assistance of:
(name of individual) _____
(name of business) _____
(address) _____
(city) _____, (state) _____, (telephone number) _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.913(a), Subpoena for Deposition (Issued by Clerk) (03/17)

*497 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.930(a), NOTICE OF SERVICE OF STANDARD FAMILY LAW INTERROGATORIES

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

You should use this form to tell the court that you are asking the other party in your case to answer certain standard questions in writing. These questions are called interrogatories, and they must relate to your case. The standard family law interrogatories are designed to supplement the information provided in the Financial Affidavit, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b) or (c). You should carefully read the standard interrogatory forms, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(b) and (c), to determine which questions, if any, the other party needs to answer in order to provide you with information not covered by the financial affidavit forms.

This form should be typed or printed in black ink. You must indicate whether you are sending the interrogatories for original and enforcement proceedings or the interrogatories for modification proceedings. You must also indicate which questions you are asking the other party to answer. After completing this form you should file the original with the clerk of the circuit court in the county where your case was filed and keep a copy for your records.

What should I do next?

You must serve the other party with a copy of this form along with an original and a copy of the appropriate interrogatories, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(b) or (c), if service is by mail or hand delivery. You must serve a copy of this form and a copy of the interrogatories if service is by email. Service must be in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

You may want to inform the other party of the following information:

As a general rule, within 30 days after service of interrogatories, the other party must answer the questions in writing and serve you with the answers. Service of the answers must be in compliance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516. His or her answers may be written on as many separate sheets of paper as necessary. He or she should number each page and indicate which question(s) he or she is answering, and be sure to make a copy for him/herself. All answers to these questions are made under oath or affirmation as to their truthfulness. Each question must be answered separately and as completely as the available information permits. The original of the answers to the interrogatories is to be provided to the requesting party. Do not file the original or a copy with the clerk of the circuit court except as provided in Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.340(d).

The other party may object to a question by writing the legal reason for the objection in the space provided. He or she may also ask the court for a protective order granting him or her permission not to answer certain questions and protecting him or her from annoyance, embarrassment, apprehension, or undue burden or expense. If the other party fails to either answer or object to the questions within 30 days, he or she may be subject to court sanctions.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self–Represented *498 Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. The words that are bold underline in these instructions are defined there. For further information, see Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure 12.280, 12.285, 12.340, and 12.380.

Special notes...

Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

499

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No. _____
Division: _____

_____,
Petitioner,

and

_____,
Respondent.

NOTICE OF SERVICE OF STANDARD FAMILY LAW INTERROGATORIES

I, (full legal name) _____, have on (date) _____, served upon (name of person served) _____, to be answered under oath within 30 days after service, the Standard Family Law Interrogatories for (check one only)

( ) Original or Enforcement Proceedings ( ) Modification Proceedings

I am requesting that the following standard questions be answered: (check all that apply)

_____ 1	_____ 2	_____ 3	_____ 4	_____ 5	_____ 6	_____ 7
Background Information	Education	Employment	Assets	Liabilities	Miscellaneous	Long Form Affidavit

In addition, I am requesting that the attached (A) _____ questions be answered.

I certify that a copy of this document was (check all used): ( ) emailed ( ) mailed ( ) faxed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date) _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

_____
Signature of Party or his/her Attorney
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(a), Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories (03/17)

500

City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW:
(fill in all blanks) This form was prepared for (choose only one): ( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent
This form was prepared with the assistance of:
(name of individual) _____
(name of business) _____
(address) _____
(city) _____, (state) _____, (telephone number) _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(a), Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories (03/17)

501 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.930(b), STANDARD FAMILY LAW INTERROGATORIES FOR ORIGINAL OR ENFORCEMENT PROCEEDINGS

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form should be used to ask the other party in your case to answer certain standard questions in writing. These questions are called interrogatories, and they must relate to your case. If the other party fails to answer the questions, you may ask the judge to order the other party to answer the questions. (You cannot ask these questions before the petition has been filed.)

The questions in this form should be used in original proceedings or enforcement proceedings and are meant to supplement the information provided in the Financial Affidavit, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b) or (c). You should read all of the questions in this form to determine which questions, if any, the other party needs to answer in order to provide you with information not covered in the financial affidavit forms. If there are questions to which you already know the answer, you may choose not to ask them.

This form should be typed or printed in black ink. You must complete the box at the beginning of this form to indicate which questions you are requesting that the other party answer.

You must serve the other party with an original and a copy of these interrogatories and a copy of the Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(a), if by mail or hand delivery. You must serve an original of these interrogatories and a copy of the Notice, if by email. Service must be in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

You should also keep a copy for your records. You should not file this form with the clerk of the circuit court. However, you must file the Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure 12.930(a), to tell the court that you have sent this form to the other party.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self–Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. The words that are in bold underline in these instructions are defined there. For further information, see the instructions for Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(a) and Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure 12.280, 12.285, 12.340, and 12.380.

Special notes

In addition to the standard questions in this form, you may ask up to 10 additional questions. You should type or print legibly your additional questions on a separate sheet of paper and attach it to this form. If you want to ask more than 10 additional questions, you will need to get permission from the judge.

You may want to inform the other party of the following information: As a general rule, within 30 days after service of interrogatories, the other party must answer the questions in writing and serve you with the answers. Service of the answers must be in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516. His or her answers may be written in the 502 blank space provided after each separately numbered interrogatory. If sufficient space is not provided, the answering party may attach additional papers with the answers and refer to them in the space provided in the interrogatories. He or she should be sure to make a copy for him/herself. All answers to these questions are made under oath or affirmation as to their truthfulness. Each question must be answered separately and as completely as the available information permits. The original of the answers to the interrogatories is to be provided to the requesting party. DO NOT FILE THE ORIGINAL OR A COPY WITH THE CLERK OF THE COURT EXCEPT AS PROVIDED BY FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULE OF PROCEDURE 12.340(d) AND IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE REQUIREMENTS OF FLORIDA RULE OF JUDICIAL ADMINISTRATION 2.425. The other party may object to a question by writing the legal reason for the objection in the space provided. He or she may also ask the court for a protective order granting him or her permission not to answer certain questions and protecting him or her from annoyance, embarrassment, apprehension, or undue burden or expense. If the other party fails to either answer or object to the questions within 30 days, he or she may be subject to court sanctions.

Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

503

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

_____,
Petitioner,

and

_____,
Respondent.

STANDARD FAMILY LAW INTERROGATORIES
FOR ORIGINAL OR ENFORCEMENT PROCEEDINGS

TO BE COMPLETED BY THE PARTY SERVING THESE INTERROGATORIES
I am requesting that the following standard questions be answered: (check all that apply)

_____ 1 Background Information
_____ 2 Education
_____ 3 Employment
_____ 4 Assets
_____ 5 Liabilities
_____ 6 Miscellaneous
_____ 7 Long Form Affidavit

In addition, I am requesting that the attached (8) _____ questions be answered.

The answers to the following questions are intended to supplement the information provided in the Financial Affidavits. Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b) or (c). You should answer the group of questions indicated in the above shaded box. The questions should be answered in the blank space provided below each separately numbered question. If sufficient space is not provided, you may attach additional papers with the answers and refer to them in the space provided in the interrogatories. You should be sure to make a copy for yourself. Each question must be answered separately and as completely as the available information permits. All answers are to be made under oath or affirmation as to their truthfulness.

AFTER YOU ANSWER THE INTERROGATORIES, DO NOT FILE THE ORIGINAL WITH THE CLERK OF THE COURT. ALL PERSONAL INFORMATION CONTAINED IN THE COURT FILE BECOMES PUBLIC RECORD. INSTEAD, SERVE THE ORIGINAL OF THE ANSWERS TO THE INTERROGATORIES ON THE OTHER PARTY AND FILE FORM 12.930(d), NOTICE OF SERVICE OF ANSWERS TO INTERROGATORIES, WITH THE CLERK.

I, (name of person answering interrogatories) _____, being sworn, certify that the following information is true:

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b), Standard Family Law Interrogatories for Original or Enforcement Proceedings (10/17)

1. BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

a. State your full legal name and any other name by which you have been known.

b. State your present residence and telephone numbers.

2. EDUCATION:

a. List all business, commercial, and professional licenses that you have obtained.

b. List all of your education including, but not limited to, vocational or specialized 504 training, including the following:

(1) name and address of each educational institution.

(2) dates of attendance.

(3) degrees or certificates obtained or anticipated dates of same.

3. EMPLOYMENT:

a. For each place of your employment or self-employment during the last 3 years, state the following:

(1) name, address, and telephone number of your employer.

(2) dates of employment.

(3) job title and brief description of job duties.

(4) starting and ending salaries.

(5) name of your direct supervisor.

(6) all benefits received, including, for example, health, life, and disability insurance; expense account; use of automobile or automobile expense reimbursement; reimbursement for travel, food, or lodging expenses; payment of dues in any clubs or associations; and pension or profit sharing plans.

b. Other than as an employee, if you have been engaged in or associated with any business, commercial, or professional activity within the last 3 years that was not detailed above, state for each such activity the following:

(1) name, address, and telephone number of each activity.

(2) dates you were connected with such activity.

(3) position title and brief description of activities.

(4) starting and ending compensation.

(5) name of all persons involved in the business, commercial, or professional activity with you.

(6) all benefits and compensation received, including, for example, health, life, and disability insurance; expense account; use of automobile or automobile expense reimbursement; reimbursement for travel, food, or lodging expenses; payment of dues in any clubs or associations; and pension or profit sharing plans.

c. If you have been unemployed at any time during the last 3 years, state the dates of unemployment. If you have not been employed at any time in the last 3 years, give the information requested above in question 3.a for your last period of employment.

4. ASSETS:

a. Real Estate. State the street address, if any, and if not, the legal description of all real property that you own or owned during the last 3 years. For each property, state the following:

(1) the names and addresses of any other persons or entities holding any interest and their percentage of interest.

(2) the purchase price, the cost of any improvements made since it was purchased, and the amount of any depreciation taken.

(3) the fair market value on the date of your separation from your spouse.

(4) the fair market value on the date of the filing of the petition for dissolution of marriage.

b. Tangible Personal Property. List all items of tangible personal property that are owned by you or in 505 which you have had any interest during the last 3 years including, but not limited to, motor vehicles, tools, furniture, boats, jewelry, art objects or other collections, and collectibles whose fair market value exceeds $100. For each item, state the following:

(1) the percentage and type interest you hold.

(2) the names and addresses of any other persons or entities holding any interest.

(3) the date you acquired your interest.

(4) the purchase price.

(5) the present fair market value.

(6) the fair market value on the date of your separation from your spouse.

(7) the fair market value on the date of the filing of the petition for dissolution of marriage.

c. Intangible Personal Property. Other than the financial accounts (checking, savings, money market, credit union accounts, retirement accounts, or other such cash management accounts) listed in the answers to interrogatories 4.d and 4.e below, list all items of intangible personal property that are owned by you or in which you have had any ownership interest (including closed accounts) within the last 3 years, including but not limited to, partnership and business interests (including good will), deferred compensation accounts unconnected with retirement, including but not limited to stock options, sick leave, and vacation pay, stocks, stock funds, mutual funds, bonds, bond funds, real estate investment trust, receivables, certificates of deposit, notes, mortgages, and debts owed to you by another entity or person. For each item, state the following:

(1) the percentage and type interest you hold.

(2) the names and addresses of any other persons or entities holding any interest and the names and addresses of the persons and entities who are indebted to you.

(3) the date you acquired your interest.

(4) the purchase price, acquisition cost, or loaned amount.

(5) the fair market value or the amounts you claim are owned by or owed to you:

(a) presently, at the time of answering these interrogatories.

(b) on the date of your separation from your spouse.

(c) on the date of the filing of the petition for dissolution of marriage.

You may comply with this interrogatory (4.c) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. However, if the date of acquisition, the purchase price and the market valuations are not clearly reflected in the periodic statements which are furnished then these questions must be answered separately. You do not have to resubmit any periodic statements previously furnished under rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

d. Retirement Accounts: List all information regarding each retirement account/plan, including but not limited to defined benefit plans, 401k, 403B, IRA accounts, pension plans, 506 Florida Retirement System plans (FRS), Federal Government plans, money purchase plans, HR10 (Keogh) plans, profit sharing plans, annuities, employee savings plans, etc. that you have established and/or that have been established for you by you, your employer, or any previous employer. For each account, state the following:

(1) the name and last 4 digits of the account number of each account/plan and where it is located.

(2) the type of account/plan.

(3) the name and address of the fiduciary plan administrator/service representative.

(4) the fair market value of your interest in each account/plan.

(a) present value.

(b) value on the date of separation.

(c) value on the date of filing of the petition for dissolution of marriage

(5) whether you are vested or not vested; and if vested, in what amount, as of a certain date and the schedule of future vesting.

(6) the date at which you became/become eligible to receive some funds in this account/plan.

(7) monthly benefits of the account/plan if no fair market value is ascertained.

(8) beneficiary(ies) and/or alternate payee(s).

e. Financial Accounts. For all financial accounts (checking, savings, money market, credit union accounts, or other such cash management accounts) listed in your Financial Affidavit, in which you have had any legal or equitable interest, regardless of whether the interest is or was held in your own name individually, in your name with another person, or in any other name, give the following:

(1) name and address of each institution.

(2) name in which the account is or was maintained.

(3) the last 4 digits of account numbers.

(4) name of each person authorized to make withdrawals from the accounts.

(5) highest balance within each of the preceding 3 years.

(6) lowest balance within each of the preceding 3 years.

You may comply with this interrogatory (4.e) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. You do not have to resubmit account statements previously furnished pursuant to rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

f. Closed Financial Accounts. For all financial accounts (checking, savings, money market, credit union accounts, or other such cash management accounts) closed within the last 3 years, in which you have had any legal or equitable interest, regardless of whether the interest is or was held in your own name individually, in your name with another person, or in any other name, give the following:

(1) name and address of each institution.

(2) name in which the account is or was maintained.

507 (3) the last 4 digits of account numbers.

(4) name of each person authorized to make withdrawals from the accounts.

(5) date account was closed.

g. Trust. For any interest in an estate, trust, insurance policy, or annuity, state the following:

(1) If you are the beneficiary of any estate, trust, insurance policy, or annuity, give for each one the following:

(a) identification of the estate, trust, insurance policy, or annuity.

(b) the nature, amount, and frequency of any distributions of benefits.

(c) the total value of the beneficiaries' interest in the benefit.

(d) whether the benefit is vested or contingent.

(2) If you have established any trust or are the trustee of a trust, state the following:

(a) the date the trust was established.

(b) the names and addresses of the trustees.

(c) the names and addresses of the beneficiaries.

(d) the names and addresses of the persons or entities who possess the trust documents.

(e) each asset that is held in each trust, with its fair market value.

h. Canceled Life Insurance Policies. For all policies of life insurance within the preceding 3 years that you no longer hold, own, or have any interest in, state the following:

(1) name of company that issued the policy and last 4 digits of policy number.

(2) name, address, and telephone number of agent who issued the policy.

(3) amount of coverage.

(4) name of insured.

(5) name of owner of policy.

(6) name of beneficiaries.

(7) premium amount.

(8) date the policy was surrendered.

(9) amount, if any, of monies distributed to the owner.

i. Name of Accountant, Bookkeeper, or Records Keeper. State the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of your accountant, bookkeeper, and any other persons who possess your financial records, and state which records each possesses.

j. Safe Deposit Boxes, Lock Boxes, Vaults, Etc. For all safe deposit boxes, lock boxes, vaults, or similar types of depositories, state the following:

(1) The names and addresses of all banks, depositories, or other places where, at any time during the period beginning 3 years before the initiation of the action, until the date of your answering this interrogatory, you did any of the following:

(a) had a safe deposit box, lock box, or vault.

(b) were a signatory or co-signatory on a safe deposit box, lock box, or vault.

(c) had access to a safe deposit box, lock box, or vault.

(d) maintained property.

(2) The box or identification numbers and the name and address 508 of each person who has had access to any such depository during the same time period.

(3) All persons who have possession of the keys or combination to the safe deposit box, lock box, or vault.

(4) Any items removed from any safe deposit boxes, lock boxes, vaults, or similar types of depositories by you or your agent during that time, together with the present location and fair market value of each item.

(5) All items in any safe deposit boxes, lock boxes, vaults, or similar types of depositories and fair market value of each item.

5. LIABILITIES:

a. Loans, Liabilities, Debts, and Other Obligations. For all loans, liabilities, debts, and other obligations (other than credit cards and charge accounts) listed in your Financial Affidavit, indicate for each the following:

(1) name and address of the creditor.

(2) name in which the obligation is or was incurred.

(3) last 4 digits of the loan or account number, if any.

(4) nature of the security, if any.

(5) payment schedule.

(6) present balance and current status of your payments.

(7) total amount of arrearage, if any.

(8) balance on the date of your separation from your spouse.

(9) balance on the date of the filing of the petition for dissolution of marriage.

You may comply with this interrogatory (5.a) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. You do not have to resubmit account statements previously furnished under rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

b. Credit Cards and Charge Accounts. For all financial accounts (credit cards, charge accounts, or other such accounts) listed in your Financial Affidavit, in which you have had any legal or equitable interest, regardless of whether the interest is or was held in your own name individually, in your name with another person, or in any other name, give the following:

(1) name and address of the creditor.

(2) name in which the account is or was maintained.

(3) names of each person authorized to sign on the accounts.

(4) last 4 digits of account numbers.

(5) present balance and current status of your payments.

(6) total amount of arrearage, if any.

(7) balance on the date of your separation from your spouse.

(8) balance on the date of the filing of the petition for dissolution of marriage.

(9) highest and lowest balance within each of the preceding 3 years.

You may comply with this interrogatory (5.b) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. You do not have to resubmit account statements previously furnished under rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

*509 c. Closed Credit Cards and Charge Accounts. For all financial accounts (credit cards, charge accounts, or other such accounts) closed with no remaining balance, within the last 3 years, in which you have had any legal or equitable interest, regardless of whether the interest is or was held in your own name individually, in your name with another person, or in any other name, give the following:

(1) name and address of each creditor.

(2) name in which the account is or was maintained.

(3) last 4 digits of account numbers.

(4) names of each person authorized to sign on the accounts.

(5) date the balance was paid off.

(6) amount of final balance paid off.

You may comply with this interrogatory (5.c) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. You do not have to resubmit account statements previously furnished under rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

6. MISCELLANEOUS:

a. If you are claiming an unequal distribution of marital property or enhancement or appreciation of nonmarital property, state the amount claimed and all facts upon which you rely in your claim.

b. If you are claiming an asset or liability is nonmarital, list the asset or liability and all facts upon which you rely in your claim.

c. If the mental or physical condition of a spouse or child is an issue, identify the person and state the name and address of all health care providers involved in the treatment of that person for said mental or physical condition.

d. Detail your proposed parenting plan for the minor child(ren), including your proposed timesharing schedule. Alternatively, attach a copy of your proposed parenting plan.

e. If you are claiming that the other parent's time-sharing with the minor child(ren) should be limited, supervised, or otherwise restricted, or that you should have sole parental responsibility for the minor child(ren), with or without time-sharing with the other parent, or that you should have ultimate responsibility over specific aspects of the child(ren)'s welfare or that these responsibilities should be divided between you and the other parent, state your reasons and all facts which you rely upon to support your claim.

7. LONG FORM AFFIDAVIT: If you filed the short form affidavit, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b), and you were specifically requested in the Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories to file the Long Form Affidavit, Form12.902(c), you must do so within the time to serve the answers to these interrogatories.

510

I certify that a copy of this document was (check all used): ( ) emailed ( ) mailed ( ) faxed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date) _____

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

I understand that I am swearing or affirming under oath to the truthfulness of the answers to these interrogatories and that the punishment for knowingly making a false statement includes fines and/or imprisonment.

Dated: _____

_____
Signature of Party
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

STATE OF FLORIDA
COUNTY OF _____

Sworn to or affirmed and signed before me on _____ By _____.

_____
NOTARY PUBLIC or DEPUTY CLERK

_____
(Print, type, or stamp commissioned name of notary or deputy clerk.)
_____ Personally known
_____ Produced identification
Type of identification produced _____

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW:
(fill in all blanks) This form was prepared for the: (choose only one) ( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent
This form was completed with the assistance of:
(name of individual) _____
(name of business) _____
(address) _____
(city) _____ (state) _____, (telephone number) _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(b), Standard Family Law Interrogatories for Original or Enforcement Proceedings (03/17)

*511 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.930(c), STANDARD FAMILY LAW INTERROGATORIES FOR MODIFICATION PROCEEDINGS

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form should be used to ask the other party in your case to answer certain standard questions in writing. These questions are called interrogatories, and they must relate to your case. If the other party fails to answer the questions, you may ask the judge to order the other party to answer the questions. (You cannot ask these questions before the petition has been filed.)

The questions in this form should be used in modification proceedings and are meant to supplement the information provided in the Financial Affidavit, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b) or (c). You should read all of the questions in this form to determine which questions, if any, the other party needs to answer in order to provide you with information not covered in the financial affidavit forms. If there are questions to which you already know the answer, you may choose not to ask them.

This form should be typed or printed in black ink. You must complete the box at the beginning of this form to indicate which questions you are requesting that the other party answer.

You must serve the other party with an original and a copy of these interrogatories and a copy of the Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(a), if by mail or hand delivery. You must serve an original of these interrogatories and a copy of the Notice, if by email. Service must be in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516.

You should also keep a copy for your records. You should not file this form with the clerk of the circuit court. However, you must file the Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(a), to tell the court that you have sent this form to the other party.

After you receive the completed answers to the interrogatories, DO NOT FILE THE ORIGINAL OR A COPY WITH THE CLERK OF THE COURT UNLESS THE ANSWERS ARE ADMITTED INTO EVIDENCE BY THE COURT AND ARE IN COMPLIANCE WITH FLORIDA RULE OF JUDICIAL ADMINISTRATION 2.425

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read "General Information for Self–Represented Litigants" found at the beginning of these forms. The words that are in bold underline in these instructions are defined there. For further information, see the instructions for Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(a) and Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure 12.280, 12.285, 12.340, and 12.380.

Special notes

In addition to the standard questions in this form, you may ask up to 10 additional questions. You should type or print legibly your additional questions on a separate sheet of paper and attach it to this form. If you want to ask more than 10 additional questions, you will need to get permission from the judge.

You may want to inform the other party of the following information: As a general 512 rule, within 30 days after service of interrogatories, the other party must answer the questions in writing and serve you with the answers. Service of the answers must be in accordance with Florida Rule of Judicial Administration 2.516. His or her answers may be written in the blank space provided after each separately numbered interrogatory. If sufficient space is not provided, the answering party may attach additional papers with the answers and refer to them in the space provided in the interrogatories. He or she should be sure to make a copy for him/herself. All answers to these questions are made under oath or affirmation as to their truthfulness. Each question must be answered separately and as completely as the available information permits. The original of the answers to the interrogatories is to be provided to the requesting party. DO NOT FILE THE ORIGINAL OR A COPY WITH THE CLERK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT UNLESS THE ANSWERS ARE ADMITTED INTO EVIDENCE BY THE COURT AND ARE IN COMPLIANCE WITH THE REQUIREMENTS OF FLORIDA RULE OF JUDICIAL ADMINSTRATION 2.425. The other party may object to a question by writing the legal reason for the objection in the space provided. He or she may also ask the court for a protective order granting him or her permission not to answer certain questions and protecting him or her from annoyance, embarrassment, apprehension, or undue burden or expense. If the other party fails to either answer or object to the questions within 30 days, he or she may be subject to court sanctions.

Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

513

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

_____,
Petitioner,

and

_____,
Respondent

STANDARD FAMILY LAW INTERROGATORIES FOR MODIFICATION PROCEEDINGS

TO BE COMPLETED BY THE PARTY SERVING THESE INTERROGATORIES
I am requesting that the following standard questions be answered: (check all that apply)

_____1 Background Information _____2 Education _____3 Employment _____4 Assets _____5 Liabilities _____6 Miscellaneous _____7 Long Form Affidavit

In addition, I am requesting that the attached (#) _____ questions be answered.

The answers to the following questions are intended to supplement the information provided in the Financial Affidavits, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b) or (c). You should answer the group of questions indicated in the above shaded box. The questions should be answered in the blank space provided below each separately numbered question. If sufficient space is not provided, you may attach additional papers with the answers and refer to them in the space provided in the interrogatories. You should be sure to make a copy for yourself. Each question must be answered separately and as completely as the available information permits. All answers are to be made under oath or affirmation as to their truthfulness.

AFTER YOU ANSWER THE INTERROGATORIES, DO NOT FILE THE ORIGINAL WITH THE CLERK OF THE COURT. ALL PERSONAL INFORMATION CONTAINED IN THE COURT FILE BECOMES PUBLIC RECORD. INSTEAD, SERVE THE ORIGINAL OF THE ANSWERS TO THE INTERROGATORIES ON THE OTHER PARTY AND FILE FORM 12.930(d), NOTICE OF SERVICE OF ANSWERS TO INTERROGATORIES, WITH THE CLERK.

I, (name of person answering interrogatories) _____,
being sworn, certify that the following information is true:

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(c), Standard Family Law Interrogatories for Modification Proceedings (03/17)

1. BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

a. State your full legal name and any other name by which you have been known.

b. State your present residence and telephone numbers.

2. EDUCATION:

a. List all business, commercial, and professional licenses that you have obtained since the entry of the 514 Final Judgment sought to be modified.

b. List all of your education since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified including, but not limited to, vocational or specialized training, including the following:

(1) name and address of each educational institution.

(2) dates of attendance.

(3) degrees or certificates obtained or anticipated dates of same.

3. EMPLOYMENT:

a. For each place of your employment or self-employment since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, state the following:

(1) name, address, and telephone number of your employer.

(2) dates of employment.

(3) job title and brief description of job duties.

(4) starting and ending salaries.

(5) name of your direct supervisor.

(6) all benefits received, including, for example, health, life, and disability insurance; expense account; use of automobile or automobile expense reimbursement; reimbursement for travel, food, or lodging expenses; payment of dues in any clubs or associations; and pension or profit sharing plans.

b. Other than as an employee, if you have been engaged in or associated with any business, commercial, or professional activity since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified that was not detailed above, state for each such activity the following:

(1) name, address, and telephone number of each activity.

(2) dates you were connected with such activity.

(3) position title and brief description of activities.

(4) starting and ending compensation.

(5) name of all persons involved in the business, commercial, or professional activity with you.

(6) all benefits and compensation received, including, for example, health, life, and disability insurance; expense account; use of automobile or automobile expense reimbursement; reimbursement for travel, food, or lodging expenses; payment of dues in any clubs or associations; and pension or profit sharing plans.

c. If you have been unemployed at any time since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, state the dates of unemployment. If you have not been employed at any time since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, give the information requested above in question 3.a for your last period of employment.

4. ASSETS:

a. Real Estate. State the street address, if any, and if not, the legal description of all real property that you own or owned during the last 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter. For each property, state the following:

(1) the names and addresses of any other persons or entities 515 holding any interest and their percentage of interest.

(2) the present fair market value.

b. Tangible Personal Property. List all items of tangible personal property that are owned by you or in which you have had any interest during the last 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter, including, but not limited to, motor vehicles, tools, furniture, boats, jewelry, art objects or other collections, and collectibles whose fair market value exceeds $100. For each item, state the following:

(1) the percentage and type interest you hold.

(2) the names and addresses of any other persons or entities holding any interest.

(3) the present fair market value.

c. Intangible Personal Property. Other than the financial accounts (checking, savings, money market, credit union accounts, retirement accounts, or other such cash management accounts) listed in the answers to interrogatories 4.d and 4.e below, list all items of intangible personal property that are owned by you or in which you have had any ownership interest (including closed accounts) within the last 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter, including but not limited to, partnership and business interests (including good will), deferred compensation accounts unconnected with retirement, including but not limited to stock options, sick leave, and vacation pay, stocks, stock funds, mutual funds, bonds, bond funds, real estate investment trust, receivables, certificates of deposit, notes, mortgages, and debts owed to you by another entity or person. For each item, state the following:

(1) the percentage and type interest you hold.

(2) the names and addresses of any other persons or entities holding any interest and the names and addresses of the persons and entities who are indebted to you

(3) the present fair market value or the amounts you claim are owned by or owed to you, at the time of answering these interrogatories.

You may comply with this interrogatory (4.c) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. However, if the date of acquisition, the purchase price and the market valuations are not clearly reflected in the periodic statements which are furnished, then these questions must be answered separately. You do not have to resubmit any periodic statements previously furnished under rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

d. Retirement Accounts: List all information regarding each retirement account/plan, including but not limited to defined benefit plans, 401k, 403B, IRA accounts, pension plans, Florida Retirement System plans (FRS), Federal Government plans, money purchase plans, HR10 (Keogh) plans, profit sharing plans, annuities, employee *516 savings plans, etc. that you have established and/or that have been established for you by you, your employer, or any previous employer. For each account, state the following:

(1) the name and last 4 digits of the account number of each account/plan and where it is located.

(2) the type of account/plan.

(3) the name and address of the fiduciary plan administrator/service representative.

(4) the present fair market value of your interest in each account/plan.

(5) whether you are vested or not vested; and if vested, in what amount, as of a certain date and the schedule of future vesting.

(6) the date at which you became/become eligible to receive some funds in this account/plan.

(7) monthly benefits of the account/plan if no fair market value is ascertained.

(8) beneficiary(ies) and/or alternate payee(s).

e. Financial Accounts. For all financial accounts (checking, savings, money market, credit union accounts, or other such cash management accounts) listed in your Financial Affidavit, in which you have had any legal or equitable interest, regardless of whether the interest is or was held in your own name individually, in your name with another person, or in any other name, give the following:

(1) name and address of each institution.

(2) name in which the account is or was maintained.

(3) last 4 digits of account numbers.

(4) name of each person authorized to make withdrawals from the accounts.

(5) highest balance within each of the preceding 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter.

(6) lowest balance within each of the preceding 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter.

You may comply with this interrogatory (4.e) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. You do not have to resubmit account statements previously furnished pursuant to rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

f. Closed Financial Accounts. For all financial accounts (checking, savings, money market, credit union accounts, or other such cash management accounts) closed within the last 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter, in which you have had any legal or equitable interest, regardless of whether the interest is or was held in your own name individually, in your name with another person, or *517 in any other name, give the following:

(1) name and address of each institution.

(2) name in which the account is or was maintained.

(3) last 4 digits of account numbers.

(4) name of each person authorized to make withdrawals from the accounts.

(5) date account was closed.

g. Trust. For any interest in an estate, trust, insurance policy, or annuity, state the following:

(1) If you are the beneficiary of any estate, trust, insurance policy, or annuity, give for each one the following:

a. identification of the estate, trust, insurance policy, or annuity.

b. the nature, amount, and frequency of any distributions of benefits.

c. the total value of the beneficiaries' interest in the benefit.

d. whether the benefit is vested or contingent.

(2) If you have established any trust or are the trustee of a trust, state the following:

a. the date the trust was established.

b. the names and addresses of the trustees.

c. the names and addresses of the beneficiaries.

d. the names and addresses of the persons or entities who possess the trust documents.

e. each asset that is held in each trust, with its fair market value.

h. Name of Accountant, Bookkeeper, or Records Keeper. State the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of your accountant, bookkeeper, and any other persons who possess your financial records, and state which records each possesses.

5. LIABILITIES:

a. Loans, Liabilities, Debts, and Other Obligations. For all loans, liabilities, debts, and other obligations (other than credit cards and charge accounts) listed in your Financial Affidavit, indicate for each the following:

(1) name and address of the creditor.

(2) name in which the obligation is or was incurred.

(3) last 4 digits of loan or account number, if any.

(4) nature of the security, if any.

(5) payment schedule.

(6) present balance and current status of your payments.

(7) total amount of arrearage, if any.

You may comply with this interrogatory (5.a) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. You do not have to resubmit account statements previously furnished under rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

b. Credit Cards and Charge Accounts. For all financial accounts (credit cards, charge accounts, or other such accounts) listed in your Financial Affidavit, in which you 518 have had any legal or equitable interest, regardless of whether the interest is or was held in your own name individually, in your name with another person, or in any other name, give the following:

(1) name and address of the creditor.

(2) name in which the account is or was maintained.

(3) names of each person authorized to sign on the accounts.

(4) last 4 digits of account numbers.

(5) present balance and current status of your payments.

(6) total amount of arrearage, if any.

(7) highest and lowest balance within each of the preceding 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter.

You may comply with this interrogatory (5.b) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. You do not have to resubmit account statements previously furnished under rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

c. Closed Credit Cards and Charge Accounts. For all financial accounts (credit cards, charge accounts, or other such accounts) closed with no remaining balance, within the last 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, in which you have had any legal or equitable interest, regardless of whether the interest is or was held in your own name individually, in your name with another person, or in any other name, give the following:

(1) name and address of each creditor.

(2) name in which the account is or was maintained.

(3) last 4 digits of account numbers.

(4) name of each person authorized to sign on the accounts.

(5) date the balance was paid off.

(6) amount of final balance paid off.

You may comply with this interrogatory (5.c) by providing copies of all periodic (monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual) account statements for each such account for the preceding 3 years, or since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, if shorter. DO NOT FILE THESE DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT FILE. You do not have to resubmit account statements previously furnished under rule 12.285 (Mandatory Disclosure).

6. MISCELLANEOUS:

a. If you are claiming a diminished earning capacity since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified as grounds to modify alimony or deviate from the child support established in your case, describe in detail how your earning capacity is lowered and state all facts upon which you rely in your claim. If unemployed, state how, why, and when you lost your job.

b. If you are claiming a change in mental or physical condition since 519 the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified as grounds to modify alimony or change the child support established in your case, describe in detail how your mental and/or physical capacity has changed and state all facts on which you rely in your claim. Identify the change in your mental and/or physical capacity, and state the name and address of all health care providers involved in the treatment of this mental or physical condition.

c. If you are requesting a change in shared or sole parental responsibility, ultimate decision-making, the time-sharing schedule, the parenting plan, or any combination thereof, for the minor child(ren), describe in detail the change in circumstances since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified that you feel justify the requested change. State when the change of circumstances occurred, how the change or circumstances affects the child(ren), and why it is in the best interests of the child(ren) that the Court make the requested change. Attach your proposed parenting plan.

d. If you do not feel the requested change in shared or sole parental responsibility, ultimate decision-making, the time-sharing schedule, the parenting plan, or any combination thereof, for the minor child(ren) is in their best interests, or if you feel there has not been a change in circumstances since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified, describe in detail any facts since the entry of the Final Judgment sought to be modified that you feel justify the Court denying the requested change. State what requested change, if any, in shared or sole parenting responsibility, ultimate decision-making, the time-sharing schedule, or of the parenting plan is justified or agreeable to you and why it is in the best interests of the child(ren).

7. LONG FORM AFFIDAVIT: If you filed the short form affidavit, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.902(b), and you were specifically requested in the Notice of Service of Standard Family Law Interrogatories to file the Long Form Affidavit, Form12.902(c), you must do so within the time to serve the answers to these interrogatories.

520

I certify that a copy of this document was (check all used): ( ) emailed ( ) mailed ( ) faxed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date).

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

I understand that I am swearing or affirming under oath to the truthfulness of the answers to these interrogatories and that the punishment for knowingly making a false statement includes fines and/or imprisonment.

Dated: _____

_____
Signature of Party
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

STATE OF FLORIDA
COUNTY OF _____

Sworn to or affirmed and signed before me on _____ by _____.

_____
NOTARY PUBLIC or DEPUTY CLERK

_____
[Print, type, or stamp commissioned name of notary or deputy clerk.]
_____ Personally known
_____ Produced identification
Type of identification produced _____

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW:
[fill in all blanks] This form was prepared for the: (choose only one) ( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent
This form was completed with the assistance of:
(name of individual) _____
(name of business) _____
(address) _____
(city) _____ (state) _____ (telephone number) _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(d), Standard Family Law Interrogatories for Modification Proceedings (03/17)

*521 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.930(d), NOTICE OF SERVICE OF ANSWERS TO STANDARD FAMILY LAW INTERROGATORIES

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

You should use this form to tell the court that you have responded to the other party's request to answer certain standard questions (interrogatories) in writing.

This form should be typed or printed in black ink. You must indicate whether you are sending the answers to interrogatories for original and enforcement proceedings, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(b), or modification proceedings, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(c). You must also indicate whether you have additional questions that you were asked to answer. After completing this form you should file the original with the clerk of the circuit court in the county where your case was filed and keep a copy for your records.

What should I do next?

A copy of this form and the original completed answers to the interrogatories must be mailed or hand delivered to the other party in your case. However, file only this form with the clerk. DO NOT FILE THE ORIGINAL ANSWERS TO THE INTERROGATORIES OR ANY ATTACHMENTS WITH THE CLERK UNLESS THEY ARE ADMITTED INTO EVIDENCE BY THE COURT AND ARE IN COMPLIANCE WITH FLORIDA RULE OF JUDICIAL ADMINISTRATION 2.425.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self-Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. For further information see Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Rules 12.280, 12.285, 12.340, and 12.380.

Special notes

Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

*522

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

_____
Petitioner,

and

_____
Respondent.

NOTICE OF SERVICE OF ANSWERS TO STANDARD FAMILY LAW INTERROGATORIES

I, *(full legal name)*_____ have on *(date)*_____ served on *(name)*_____ fully completed and sworn answers to the standard family law interrogatories served on me, and additional interrogatories if requested. The interrogatories were for (check one only) ( ) original or enforcement proceedings ( ) modification proceedings.

I UNDERSTAND THAT I SHOULD NOT FILE THE ANSWERS TO INTERROGATORIES WITH THE CLERK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT EXCEPT AS PROVIDED BY FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULE OF PROCEDURE 12.340(d).

I certify that a copy of this document was [check all used] ( ) e-mailed ( ) mailed ( ) faxed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on *(date)*_____.

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

Dated: _____

_____
Signature of Party
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
Email Address(es): _____

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW:
[fill in all blanks] This form was prepared for: (choose only one) ( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(d), Notice of Service of Answers to Standard Family Law Interrogatories (03/17)

523

This form was completed with the assistance of:
(name of individual) _____
(name of business) _____
(address) _____
(city) _____, (state) _____, (telephone number) _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.930(d), Notice of Service of Answers to Standard Family Law Interrogatories (03/17)

*524 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.975, NOTICE OF COMPLIANCE WHEN CONSTITUTIONAL CHALLENGE IS BROUGHT

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

You should use this form to provide notice of a constitutional challenge as required by section 86.091, Florida Statutes. This form is to be used when the Attorney General or the State Attorney is not a named party to the action, but must be served solely in order to comply with the notice requirements set forth in section 86.091, Florida Statutes.

This form should be typed or printed in black ink. After completing this form, you should file the original with the clerk of the circuit court in the county where your case was filed and keep a copy for your records.

What should I do next?

A copy of this form must be e-mailed, mailed, or hand delivered to any other party/parties in your case. Please note that if the notice is mailed, the court in certain circumstances may not consider mailing to be adequate notice. This is a technical area of the law; if you have any question about it, you should consult a lawyer.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self–Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. For further information, see Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure 12.071 and section 86.091, Florida Statutes.

Remember, a person who is NOT an attorney is called a nonlawyer. If a nonlawyer helps you fill out these forms, that person must give you a copy of Disclosure from Nonlawyer, Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.900(a), before he or she helps you. A nonlawyer helping you fill out these forms also must put his or her name, address, and telephone number on the bottom of the last page of every form he or she helps you complete.

525

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE _____ JUDICIAL CIRCUIT,
IN AND FOR _____ COUNTY, FLORIDA

Case No.: _____
Division: _____

_____
Petitioner,

and

_____
Respondent.

NOTICE OF COMPLIANCE WHEN CONSTITUTIONAL CHALLENGE IS BROUGHT

( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent files this notice of compliance with section 86.091, Florida Statutes, and hereby gives notice of compliance with Florida Family Law Rule of Procedure 12.071, with respect to the constitutional challenge brought pursuant to _____ ( ) Florida Statute ( ) charter ( ) ordinance or ( ) franchise challenged _____. The undersigned complied by serving the:

( ) Attorney General for the state of Florida or ( ) State Attorney for the _____ Judicial Circuit with a copy of the pleading or motion challenging _____ ( ) Florida Statute ( ) charter ( ) ordinance or ( ) franchise challenged _____, by ( ) certified or ( ) registered mail on (date) _____.

I hereby certify that a copy of this document was (choose only one) ( ) e-mailed ( ) mailed ( ) faxed ( ) hand delivered to the person(s) listed below on (date) _____.

Other party or his/her attorney:
Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____

_____
Signature of Party or his/her Attorney
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
Fax Number: _____
E-mail Address(es): _____
Florida Bar Number: _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.915, Notice of Compliance When Constitutional Challenge is Brought (03/17).

526

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW:
[fill in all blanks] This form was prepared for the: (choose only one) ( ) Petitioner ( ) Respondent
This form was completed with the assistance of:
(name of individual) _____
(name of business) _____
(address) _____
(city) _____, (state) _____ (telephone number) _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.997, Notice of Compliance When Constitutional Challenge is Brought (03/17)

*527 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA FAMILY LAW RULES OF PROCEDURE FORM 12.999, FINAL DISPOSITION FORM

(03/17)

When should this form be used?

This form is filed by the petitioner or respondent for the use of the clerk of the court for the purpose of reporting judicial workload data under section 25.075, Florida Statutes. When your case is completed, the petitioner or respondent must complete this form and file it with the clerk.

What should I do next?

This form must be typed or printed in black ink. After completing and signing this form, you should then file it and keep a copy for your records.

A copy of this form must be e-mailed, mailed, or hand delivered to the other party(ies) in your case.

Instructions for completing this form

I. Case Style. Enter the name of the court, the case number assigned at the time of the filing of the petition, counterpetition, or motion, the name of the judge assigned, and the names of the petitioner and respondent.

II. Means of Final Disposition. Place an "x" on the appropriate line before the major category and the appropriate subcategory, if applicable. The following are the definitions of the disposition categories.

A. Dismissed Before Hearing or Trial. The case is settled, voluntarily dismissed, or otherwise disposed of before a hearing or trial is held.

B. Dismissed Under Settlement, Before Hearing or Trial. Before hearing or trial, the case is voluntarily dismissed by the petitioner, respondent, or movant after a settlement.

C. Dismissal Under Mediated Settlement, Before Hearing or Trial. The case is voluntarily dismissed by the petitioner or respondent after a settlement is reached with mediation before a hearing or trial is held.

D. Other, Before Hearing or Trial. The case is dismissed before a hearing or trial in an action that does not fall into one of the other disposition categories on this form.

E. Dismissal Before Hearing or Trial. The case is dismissed by a judge voluntarily after a hearing or trial is held.

F. Dismissed Under a Settlement, After Hearing or Trial. The case is voluntarily dismissed by the petitioner, respondent, or movant after a settlement is reached without mediation after a hearing or trial is held.

G. Dismissal Under a Mediated Settlement, After Hearing or Trial. The case is voluntarily dismissed by the petitioner, respondent, or movant after a settlement is reached with mediation after a hearing or trial.

H. Other, After Hearing or Trial. The case is dismissed after hearing in an action that does not fall into the categories listed on this form.

I. Disposed by Default. A respondent chooses not to or fails to contest the petitioner's allegations and a judgment against the respondent is entered by the court.

J. Disposed by Judge. A judgment or disposition is reached by the judge in a case that is not dismissed and in which no trial has been held. Includes stipulations by the parties, conditional judgments, summary judgment after hearing, and any 528 manner in which a judgment is entered, excluding cases disposed of by default as in category I. above.

K. Disposed by Nonjury Trial. The case is disposed as a result of a contested trial in which there is no jury and in which the judge determines both the issues of fact and the law in the case.

L. Disposed by Jury Trial. Any part of the case is disposed as a result of a jury trial (considered the beginning of a jury trial to be when the jurors and alternates are selected and sworn).

M. Other. The case is consolidated, submitted to mediation or arbitration, transferred, or otherwise disposed of by any other means not listed in categories (A) to (L).

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self–Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. The words that are in bold underline in these instructions are defined there.

529

FINAL DISPOSITION FORM

I. Case Style

(Name of Court) _____

(Petitioner) _____ (Case number) _____

(Judge) _____

(Respondent) _____

II. Means of Final Disposition

Place an "x" on the line for the major category and one sub-category, if applicable only.

_____ Dismissed before hearing/trial
_____ Dismissed pursuant to settlement, before hearing or trial
_____ Dismissed under a mediated settlement before hearing or trial
_____ Other, before hearing or trial

_____ Dismissed after hearing or trial
_____ Dismissed pursuant to a settlement, after hearing or trial
_____ Dismissed pursuant to a mediated settlement, after hearing or trial
_____ Other after hearing or trial

_____ Disposed by default

_____ Disposed by judge

_____ Disposed by nonjury trial

_____ Disposed by jury trial

_____ Other (specify) _____

Date: _____

_____
Signature of Attorney or Party
Printed Name: _____
Address: _____
City, State, Zip: _____
Telephone Number: _____
E-mail address(es): _____
Fax number: _____

IF A NONLAWYER HELPED YOU FILL OUT THIS FORM, HE/SHE MUST FILL IN THE BLANKS BELOW:
[Fill in all blanks] This form was prepared for the: (choose only one) ¡ Petitioner ¡ ¡ Respondent

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.999, Final Disposition Form (01/17)

530

This form was completed with the assistance of:
(name of individual) _____
(name of business) _____
(address) _____
(city) _____, (state) _____ (telephone number) _____

Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure Form 12.999, Final Disposition Form (03/17)

All Citations

214 So.3d 400 (Mem), 42 Fla. L. Weekly S319

Footnotes

1 The Committee has proposed, and we adopt, other minor and editorial amendments to the family law forms to conform to the Court's Style Guide for rule amendment submissions.

2 Other minor and editorial amendments are made to the rules.

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

191 Cal.App.4th 420
Court of Appeal, First District, Division 4, California.

Rebecca SPIELMAN et al., Plaintiffs,
Cross-defendants, and Appellants,
v.
EX'PRESSION CENTER FOR NEW MEDIA,
Defendant, Cross-complainant, and Respondent.
Lawrence Yu, Yuki Ikeda, Deron Delgado, and Jason Ho, Plaintiffs, Cross-defendants, and Appellants, Brian Clarke and Brian Toomajian,
Plaintiffs and Appellants;
v.
Ex'pression Center for New Media, Defendant,
Cross-complainant, and Respondent.

Nos. A122357, A123563.
|
Dec. 2, 2010.
|
Certified for Partial Publication.*
|
As Modified Dec. 30, 2010.
|
Review Denied April 13, 2011.

Synopsis

Background: Former students brought actions against postsecondary educational institution, alleging violations of the Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education Reform Act of 1989 and misrepresentations. Institution filed cross-complaint for breach of contract, open book account, account stated, money had and received, and quantum meruit. After consolidation, the Superior Court, Alameda County, RG04174927, Ronni MacLaren and Steven Brick, JJ., entered judgment on jury verdict awarding zero damages to former students and awarding damages to institution for breach of contract, and former students appealed.

Holdings: The Court of Appeal, Rivera, J., held that:

[1] repeal of the Act did not abate former students' claims, and

[2] former students were not required to show materiality, reliance, and causation in connection with claims under the Act regarding misleading statements.

Reversed in part; otherwise affirmed.

West Headnotes (7)

[1] Education
Constitutional and Statutory Provisions

Repeal of the Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education Reform Act of 1989 did not abate former students' claims against postsecondary institution under the Act, in light of express preservation of the claims by statute. West's Ann.Cal.Educ.Code § 94809.6(a); § 94877 (2007); § 94999 (Repealed); West's Ann.Cal.Gov.Code § 9607.

Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Statutes
Pending Actions and Proceedings

The general rule is that the unconditional repeal of a special remedial statute without a saving clause stops all pending actions where the repeal finds them, and if final relief has not been granted before the repeal goes into effect it cannot be granted afterwards, even if a judgment has been entered and the cause is pending on appeal; the reviewing court must dispose of the case under the law in force when its decision is rendered.

Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Antitrust and Trade Regulation
Other particular subjects and regulations

Former students were not required to show materiality, reliance, and causation in connection with claims and defenses against postsecondary educational institution under Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education Reform Act of 1989 section providing that, if an institution commits certain statutory violations, including making untrue or misleading statements or engaging in false, deceptive, misleading, or unfair acts, in connection with an agreement for a course of instruction, that agreement shall be unenforceable, and the institution shall refund all consideration paid by or on behalf of the student. West's Ann.Cal.Educ.Code § 94877(a) (2007).

See Cal. Jur. 3d, Universities and Colleges, §§ 111, 112, 147.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Statutes

Plain Language;Plain, Ordinary, or Common Meaning

To determine the intent of legislation, the court first consults the words themselves, giving them their usual and ordinary meaning.

Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Statutes

Absence of Ambiguity;Application of Clear or Unambiguous Statute or Language

When statutory language is clear and unambiguous, there is no need for construction, and courts should not indulge in it.

Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Statutes

Plain Language;Plain, Ordinary, or Common Meaning

Statutes

Construction in View of Effects, Consequences, or Results

The plain meaning of words in a statute may be disregarded only when that meaning is repugnant to the general purview of the act, or for some other compelling reason.

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Statutes

Common or civil law

There is a presumption that a statute does not, by implication, repeal the common law.

Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

*788 Daniel A. Grout, Grout Law Firm, Oakland, Attorney for Spielman Appellants.

Joseph J.M. Lange, Jeffrey A. Koncius, Lange & Koncius, LLP, El Segundo, Attorney for Yu Appellants.

Keith Zakarin, San Diego, Eric J. Sinrod, Paul J. Killion, Michael J. Dickman, Duane Morris LLP, San Francisco, Attorney for Respondent.

Opinion

RIVERA, J.

423 In these consolidated appeals, plaintiffs in consolidated actions against Ex'pression Center for New Media (Ex'pression) contend the trial court misinterpreted a portion of the Education Code, wrongly granted Ex'pression's demurrer on the theory that certain of their claims were barred by the statute of limitations, and wrongly denied their motions for a directed verdict. We agree the trial court misinterpreted Education Code former section 94877, subdivision (a), and shall remand for further proceedings. In all other respects, we shall affirm. [1]

I. BACKGROUND

Ex'pression is a private postsecondary educational institution in Emeryville, California, which offers courses in sound arts, digital visual media, and Web design and development. In 1998, Ex'pression received temporary approval to operate from California's Bureau for Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education (the Bureau), a part of the Department of Consumer Affairs. The Bureau approved Ex'pression as a California private postsecondary degree-granting institution in January 2001, authorizing it to offer bachelor of applied science degrees in comprehensive sound, comprehensive digital visual media, and Web design and development; and diplomas in comprehensive sound arts, digital visual media, and Web design and development.

On September 13, 2004, Rebecca Spielman, Anna Navone, Christopher Friend, 789 Amanda Instone, Jillian Meador, and Bobby Cochran (collectively, the Spielman plaintiffs), all Ex'pression graduates, filed an action against Ex'pression and others (collectively, Ex'pression) for violation of Education *424 Code[2] former sections 94312, 94832, and 94875, as well as various other causes of action not relevant to this appeal. (Spielman v. Ex'pression Center for New Media (Super. Ct. Alameda County, 2008, No. RG04174927).) On the same date, Lawrence Yu, Brian Clarke, Brian Toomajian, Yuki Ikeda, Matthew Morales, Michael Elias, and Deron Delgado (collectively, along with Jason Ho, the Yu plaintiffs), all former students at Ex'pression, filed an action against Ex'pression. (Yu v. Ex'pression Center for New Media (Super. Ct. Alameda County, 2008, No. RG04175490).) Jason Ho was added to this action as a plaintiff in a first amended complaint filed December 1, 2004. The Yu plaintiffs' second amended complaint alleged a cause of action for violations of the Maxine Waters School Reform and Student Protection Act of 1989 (former §§ 94850–94882) (the Waters Act),[3] as well as other causes of action not at issue in this appeal.

The Spielman plaintiffs alleged that Ex'pression misrepresented to them that it would soon be nationally accredited, that they would graduate from Ex'pression with degrees from a nationally accredited institution, that their degrees and credits would be transferable to other accredited institutions, that Ex'pression had a "100 percent" job placement rate, that it was highly regarded by Bay Area employers and would provide meaningful career placement assistance, that its education would allow plaintiffs to obtain employment in their fields of study, that plaintiffs would be eligible for government student loans or that they could apply for such loans retroactively, and that when Ex'pression became accredited, plaintiffs' degrees would retroactively be deemed accredited. The Yu plaintiffs similarly alleged that before they enrolled, defendants made various false representations, including that Ex'pression was or soon would be fully accredited, that the Yu plaintiffs would receive valid associate of science or bachelor's degrees, and that the units earned at Ex'pression were legitimate and transferable.

Ex'pression demurred to the Yu plaintiffs' second amended complaint, contending, as pertinent here, that the cause of action for violations of the Waters Act was barred by the applicable statutes of limitations. Ex'pression argued that some of the plaintiffs (Toomajian, Morales, Elias, and Delgado) last attended Ex'pression on May 12, 2001, and that Ikeda last attended Ex'pression on July 20, 2001. According to Ex'pression, these plaintiffs were barred from pleading any claim with a three-year statute of limitations. The *425 trial court sustained the demurrer to this cause of action without leave to amend as to Toomajian, Morales, Elias, Delgado, and Ikeda.[4]

Ex'pression cross-complained against the Spielman plaintiffs and Yu, Ho, Ikeda, 790 Elias, and Delgado, alleging they had defaulted on their tuition loan payments and asserting causes of action for breach of contract, open book account, account stated, money had and received, and quantum meruit.

The Yu and Spielman actions were consolidated. During trial, Ikeda and all the Spielman plaintiffs except Instone moved for a directed verdict on Ex'pression's cross-complaints on the ground that their tuition had been paid to Ex'pression by a third party, EJW, which was not a party to the consolidated actions, and that there was no evidence EJW had assigned to Ex'pression its right to collect on the loan amounts due to EJW. The trial court denied the motion.

The jury returned separate special verdicts as to each plaintiff.[5] We here summarize the special verdicts to the extent they are relevant to the issues on appeal.

On plaintiff's claims under section 94877, subdivision (a),[6] the jury was asked to make several findings.

Question No. 9(a): The jury was asked whether, in connection with an agreement for a course of instruction, Ex'pression had presented to plaintiffs "information that was false or misleading relating to the school, to employment opportunities, or to enrollment opportunities in institutions of higher learning after entering into or completing courses offered by the school." *426 The jury answered "[y]es" to this question as to Meador. It answered "[n]o" as to Cochran, Friend, Instone, Navone, Spielman, Clarke, Ho, and Yu.[7]

Question No. 9(b): The jury was asked whether Ex'pression had "[m]ade or caused to be made any statement to [plaintiffs] that was in any manner untrue or misleading, either by actual statement, omission, or intimation." The jury answered "[y]es" to this question as to Cochran, Friend, Instone, Meador, Navone, Spielman, Clarke, Ho, and Yu.

Question No. 9(c): The jury was asked whether Ex'pression had "[e]ngaged in any false, deceptive, misleading, or unfair act with [plaintiffs] in connection with any matter, including Ex'pression's advertising and promotion, the recruitment of students for enrollment in Ex'pression, the offer or sale of a program of instruction, course length, course credits, the withholding of loan or grant funds from a student, training and instruction, the collection of payments, or job placement." The jury answered "[y]es" to this question as to Cochran, Friend, Instone, Meador, Spielman, Clarke, and Ho. It answered "[n]o" as to Navone and Yu.

Question No. 10: The jury was asked whether "any of the acts that [it had] found to have occurred in [its] response to Question No. 9 related to an important fact to [plaintiffs]." The jury answered "[y]es" to this question as to Meador. It answered "[n]o" as to Cochran, Friend, Instone, Navone, Spielman, Clarke, Ho, and Yu, and did not go on to answer the remaining questions.

*791 Question No. 11: The jury was asked whether plaintiffs "actually rel [ied] on any of the act[s] that [it had] found to have occurred in [its] response to Question No. 9." It answered "[y]es" as to Meador.

Question No. 12: The jury was asked whether plaintiffs' "reliance on any of the acts that [it had] found to have occurred in [its] response to Question No. 9[was] a substantial factor in causing [them] to enroll at, or remain enrolled in, Ex'pression." The jury answered "[n]o" as to Meador.

Ex'pression's Cross–Complaints: On Ex'pression's cross-complaints, the jury found the following plaintiffs had breached their contracts with Ex'pression and that Ex'pression had suffered damages: Cochran (damages of $29,143.24); Friend (damages of $45,273.57); Instone (damages of $32,331.40); Meador (damages of $40,370.41); Navone (damages of $45,382.09); Spielman (damages of $47,381.95); Ho (damages of $41,642.35); Ikeda (damages of $38,857.38); and Yu (damages of $35,929.47).

Plaintiffs took nothing by their complaints, and the trial court awarded damages to Ex'pression as found by the jury.

II. DISCUSSION

A. Abatement of Claims

[1] We first consider Ex'pression's contention that plaintiff's claims have been abated by the repeal of the Reform Act, including section 94877, effective January 1, 2008. (§ 94999; Stats.2004, ch. 740, § 7.)

[2] 427 The general rule is that " ' "[t]he unconditional repeal of a special remedial statute without a saving clause stops all pending actions where the repeal finds them. If final relief has not been granted before the repeal goes into effect it cannot be granted afterwards, even if a judgment has been entered and the cause is pending on appeal. The reviewing court must dispose of the case under the law in force when its decision is rendered." ' [Citations.]" (People v. Bradley (1998) 64 Cal.App.4th 386, 397, 75 Cal.Rptr.2d 244.) However, in 2009, the Legislature enacted section 94809.6 providing that, notwithstanding the repeal of the Reform Act, "any claim or cause of action in any manner based on the act that was commenced on or before June 30, 2007, whether or not reduced to a final judgment, shall be preserved, and any remedy that was or could have been ordered to redress a violation of the act on or before June 30, 2007, may be ordered or maintained thereafter." (§ 94809.6, subd. (a).) Moreover, "[t]he rights, obligations, claims, causes of action, and remedies described in subdivision (a) shall be determined by the provisions of the former Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education Reform Act of 1989 in effect on or before June 30, 2007, notwithstanding the inoperative status or repeal of the former [Reform Act]." (Id., subd. (b).) This language is unambiguous. It is clear that the Legislature intended to allow parties who, like plaintiffs here, initiated claims under the Reform Act before June 30, 2007, to continue to maintain those actions.

Ex'pression contends, however, that this result conflicts with Government Code section 9607, which provides: "(a) Except as provided in subdivision (b), no statute or part of a statute, repealed by another statute, is revived by the repeal of the repealing statute without express words reviving such repealed statute or part of a statute. [¶] (b) If a later enacted statute that deletes or extends the date of termination or repeal of a previously enacted law is chaptered before such date of termination or repeal, the terminated or repealed law is revived when the later enacted statute becomes operative." (Italics added.) Ex'pression argues that 792 Education Code section 94809.6 is inconsistent with the italicized portion of Government Code section 9607, subdivision (b) because it was enacted after the effective date of the repeal of the Reform Act. We reject this contention. Education Code section 94809.6 did not "revive[ ]" the Reform Act; rather, the Legislature "preserved" those claims under the Reform Act that were pending on or before June 30, 2007. Accordingly, we will consider plaintiffs' appeal on the merits. [8]

428 B. Elements of Cause of Action Under Section 94877, Subdivision (a)

[3] Before trial, Ex'pression filed a motion seeking a legal interpretation of the elements necessary to establish plaintiffs' Education Code claims, arguing that in enacting section 94877 the Legislature intended to incorporate the common law of misrepresentation. For purposes of this appeal, the relevant portion of section 94877 is subdivision (a), which provided: "If an institution violates this article [the Waters Act] or Section 94832 or commits an act as set forth in Section 94830 in connection with an agreement for a course of instruction, that agreement shall be unenforceable, and the institution shall refund all consideration paid by or on behalf of the student."

Section 94832, among other things, prohibited private postsecondary educational institutions from making or causing to be made untrue or misleading statements, either by actual statement, omission, or intimation; and from engaging in false, deceptive, misleading, or unfair acts in connection with any matter. (§ 94832, subds. (a) & (b); see also § 94730.) Section 94830 authorized the Bureau to refuse to issue or renew, or to revoke, an institution's approval to operate if the institution had, among other things, presented false or misleading statements to prospective students about the school, employment opportunities, or enrollment opportunities in institutions of higher learning. (§ 94830, subd. (h); see also § 94724.)

The trial court agreed with Ex'pression and, as reflected in the special verdict forms, required plaintiffs to show not only that Ex'pression had made the requisite false or misleading statements, presented false or misleading information, or engaged in false, deceptive, misleading or unfair acts, but also that the acts related to an important fact, and that plaintiffs relied on the acts and were induced by them to enroll or remain enrolled at Ex'pression, in order to prevail on their causes of action under section 94877, subdivision (a). Plaintiffs contend on appeal that the trial court erred in requiring them to show materiality, reliance, and causation in connection with their claims and defenses under section 94877, subdivision (a).

[4] [5] [6] We begin with the fundamental rules of statutory interpretation. "To determine the intent of legislation, we first consult the words themselves, giving them their usual and ordinary meaning. [Citations.] When ' "statutory language is ... clear and unambiguous there is no need for construction, and courts should not indulge in it." ' [Citations.] The plain meaning of words in a 429 statute may be disregarded only when that meaning is ' "repugnant to the general purview of the act," or for some other compelling reason....' [Citations.]" (DaFonte v. Up–Right, Inc. (1992) 2 Cal.4th 593, 601, 7 Cal.Rptr.2d 238, 828 P.2d 140 (DaFonte).)

*793 Ex'pression asks us to infuse into the provisions of section 94877, subdivision (a), all of the elements of the common law cause of action for misrepresentation: that is, the elements of materiality, reliance, and causation. But these elements are not included in the plain language of the statute, which is clear and unambiguous: if an institution commits any of the acts in question, the agreement for a course of instruction is unenforceable and the institution must refund all consideration paid "by or on behalf of the student." (§ 94877, subd. (a).) Accordingly, we cannot, absent some compelling reason, add to the statute additional requirements.

This conclusion is bolstered by Goehring v. Chapman University (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 353, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 39 (Goehring). As relevant here, the court in Goehring considered whether a private right of action under Business and Professions Code section 6061 was governed by the one-year statute of limitations for "an 'action upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture' " (Code Civ. Proc., § 340, subd. (a)), or the three-year period for "an 'action upon a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture' " (id., § 338, subd. (a)). (Goehring, at p. 374, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 39.) Business and Professions Code section 6061 required any unaccredited law school to provide a disclosure statement containing certain information and provided: "The disclosure statement required by this section shall be signed by each student, who shall receive as a receipt a copy of his or her signed disclosure statement. If any school does not comply with these requirements, it shall make a full 430 refund of all fees paid by students." (Bus. & Prof.Code, § 6061, 10th ¶ .) The Court of Appeal noted that a penalty is " ' " ' "any law compelling a defendant to pay a plaintiff other than what is necessary to compensate him [or her] for a legal damage done him [or her] by the former" ' " ' [citations]" (Goehring, at p. 386, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 39), and concluded the purpose of the refund provision of Business and Professions Code section 6061 was "penal in nature, as actual damage is not an element of the claim. Rather, to obtain a refund of tuition a plaintiff need only show the law school did not timely comply with disclosure requirements " (Goehring, at p. 387, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 39, italics added).

Ex'pression tries to distinguish Goehring on the ground that the jury there found the law school had knowingly and recklessly made false representations with the intent to defraud the plaintiff students, and that the plaintiffs had justifiably relied on the misrepresentations. (Goehring, supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at p. 362, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 39.) These findings, however, were made in connection with the plaintiffs' fraud claims, rather than their statutory cause of action for refund of tuition and fees. (Ibid.) They did not form part of the Court of Appeal's reasoning concluding that Business and Professions Code section 6061 was penal in nature and that to obtain a refund, the student need only show that the school did not comply with the disclosure requirements. (Goehring, at pp. 386–387, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 39.)

Ex'pression also contends—and the trial court agreed—that the provisions of section 94877, subdivision (a) are less clearly penal in nature than those of Business and Professions Code section 6061. According to Ex'pression: "[W]hile both statutes involve tuition refunds, [Business and Professions Code s]ection 6061 directly links violation of the statute to the refund.... In contrast, [Education Code s]ection 94877(a) ties violation of the referenced Reform Act provisions to the unenforceability of the enrollment agreement, with the refund as the remedy." We find this distinction unpersuasive. Both statutes require the school to refund tuition if it *794 violates the statutory provisions. Section 94877, subdivision (a)'s additional provision that an agreement for a course of instruction is unenforceable if the institution commits the violations does not change that fact.

Ex'pression relies on Prudential Home Mortgage Co. v. Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 1236, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 566 to argue that section 94877, subdivision (a) does not provide for a penalty; but Prudential is inapposite. The court in Prudential looked to three factors to determine whether sums imposed under a statute constituted a penalty or forfeiture governed by the one-year-state of limitations or were remedial in nature and governed by a longer limitations period. These factors were (1) whether the statute's language characterizes the sums as a penalty or forfeiture, (2) whether the legislative history refers to the sums as a penalty or forfeiture, and (3) whether the sums are imposed without reference to the actual damage sustained by the plaintiff. (Prudential, at pp. 1242–1243, 78 Cal.Rptr.2d 566.) The question before us, however, is not whether to apply the statute of limitations for a penal provision or for a remedial provision; it is whether the Legislature incorporated within section 94877, subdivision (a) a requirement that the plaintiff show the elements of a cause of action for misrepresentation.

[7] Ex'pression also cites authority for the proposition that, as a general rule, statutes should be interpreted in light of common law rules, unless their language clearly shows an intention to depart from those rules. (See California Assn. of Health Facilities v. Department of Health Services (1997) 16 Cal.4th 284, 297, 65 Cal.Rptr.2d 872, 940 P.2d 323 (Health Facilities).) Under this rule, " '[t]here is a presumption that a statute does not, by implication, repeal the common law.' " (Ibid.; see also Dillingham–Ray Wilson v. City of Los Angeles (2010) 182 Cal.App.4th 1396, 1407, 106 Cal.Rptr.3d 691.) This unexceptionable principle does not, however, lead to a conclusion that the 431 Legislature intended to incorporate within section 94877, subdivision (a) the elements of a cause of action for common law fraud. We acknowledge the Legislature's stated intent that one of the purposes of the Waters Act was to prevent harm to students because of the fraudulent, deceptive practices of institutions, and the Legislature's concern for students who have been induced to enroll through misrepresentations. (§ 94850, subds. (b), (c), & (d).)[9]

But this expression of legislative 795 intent does not change the fact that the statute the Legislature actually adopted—section 94877, subdivision (a)—by its terms does not require a plaintiff to prove the elements of a cause of action for misrepresentation. We note, further, that the money to be paid under this provision is limited to a refund of tuition paid; the statute does not supplant or implicitly repeal the common law of fraud, which allows for consequential damages, but only adds an additional statutory protection for students. (§ 94877, subd. (d).)

Finally, Ex'pression contends that any interpretation of section 94877, subdivision (a) that does not require a showing of materiality, reliance, and causation could lead to absurd results, for example by requiring a refund even if the only violation were the failure to use a 12–point font type for certain required language in the preenrollment disclosure statement. (§ 94871, subd. (a)(9).) Whether or not a minor deviation from this requirement would support a claim that the institution had not substantially complied, the misrepresentations found to have been made here are not mere technical lapses. (See Goehring, supra, 121 Cal.App.4th at pp. 384–386, 17 Cal.Rptr.3d 39.) Moreover, the law provides a limited remedy—a refund of consideration paid by the student—and only if the improper acts were committed in connection *432 with an agreement for a course of instruction. (§ 94877, subd. (a).)[10] In light of this limited remedy, and the statutory purpose of requiring full disclosure and fair dealing (§ 94850, subd. (d)), our interpretation is neither absurd nor " ' "repugnant to the general purview of the act" ' " (DaFonte, supra, 2 Cal.4th at p. 601, 7 Cal.Rptr.2d 238, 828 P.2d 140).

Our conclusion in this case is also buttressed by the fact that there are similar statutes containing heightened consumer protections which have been found not to include the elements of common law fraud unless those elements are made express in the law. For example, state laws require that securities sales be "qualified" prior to being offered (Corp.Code, §§ 25110, 25120, 25130) and provide that purchasers of securities that have not been qualified may sue for return of the consideration paid, less any income received, or for damages if the purchaser no longer owns the security (id., § 25503). "[These statutes] create liability affording the immediate purchaser several specific remedies. None of the above sections require scienter, negligence, or plaintiff's reliance. [Citation]." (Bowden v. Robinson (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 705, 712, 136 Cal.Rptr. 871; and see id. at p. 714, 136 Cal.Rptr. 871 ["[Corporations Code s]ections 25400, subdivision (d), and 25500 establish a statutory cause of action for fraud, however, conspicuously avoiding the requirement of 'actual reliance.' [Citation.] 796 The Legislature is again expressing its intention to afford the victims of securities fraud with a remedy without the formidable task of proving common law fraud."].)

The Legislature is fully capable of expressing in the statutory language those elements required to be proved in order to secure the statutory remedy. (See, e.g., Corp.Code, § 25401 [making unlawful an offer to sell or buy a security by means of a communication that includes "an untrue statement of a material fact" (italics added)].) Perhaps the most salient example of this is found in the recent amendment to the unfair competition law (Bus. & Prof.Code, § 17200 et seq.) (UCL). "Before the November 2004 General Election, when the voters approved Proposition 64, California courts consistently held that liability for restitution under the UCL could be imposed against a defendant without any individualized proof of causation or injury; the *433 plaintiff needed only to show that the defendant engaged in a practice that was unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent and that the defendant may have acquired money or property by means of that practice. [Citations.] Proposition 64 changed this. It amended the UCL to provide that a private action for relief may be maintained only if the person bringing the action 'has suffered injury in fact and has lost money or property as a result of the unfair competition.' (Bus. & Prof.Code, § 17204.)" (Steroid Hormone Product Cases (2010) 181 Cal.App.4th 145, 154, 104 Cal.Rptr.3d 329.)

In sum, whether or not we are comfortable with the result, we can find nothing in the statutes under consideration that would invite or countenance the addition of elements that are not contained in the plain language, particularly where the law expressly states that "[t]he remedies provided ... supplement, but do not supplant, the remedies provided under other provisions of law." (§ 94877, subd. (d).)[11]

The question of the remedy remains. Plaintiffs Clarke, Ho, Ikeda, and Yu ask us to direct the trial court to enter judgment in their favor on their claims under section 94877, subdivision (a). As to Clarke, Ho, and Yu, however, the jury found against each of these plaintiffs on the question of materiality. It therefore had no occasion to reach the factual issues related to whether their causes of action were barred by the applicable statute of limitations, under which an action must be brought "within three years of the discovery of the facts constituting grounds for commencing the action." (§ 94877, subd. (e).)[12] Accordingly, rather than directing the trial court to enter judgment on the remaining 797 causes of action for violation of section 94877, subdivision (a), we shall remand to the trial court for appropriate further proceedings.

C.–D.[]

*434 III. DISPOSITION

The judgment is reversed as to the claims and defenses of Cochran, Friend, Instone, Meador, Spielman, Clarke, Ho, Navone, and Yu under section 94877, subdivision (a), and as to Ikeda's defense to the cross-complaint under section 94877, subdivision (a). In all other respects, the judgment is affirmed. The matter is remanded for further proceedings consistent with this opinion. The parties shall bear their own costs on appeal.

We concur: RUVOLO, P.J., and SEPULVEDA, J.

All Citations

191 Cal.App.4th 420, 120 Cal.Rptr.3d 787, 264 Ed. Law Rep. 288, 11 Cal. Daily Op. Serv. 17, 2011 Daily Journal D.A.R. 74

Footnotes

* Pursuant to California Rules of Court, rules 8.1105(b) and 8.1110, this opinion is certified for publication with the exception of parts II.C. and II.D.

1 In the unpublished portion of this opinion, we reject plaintiffs' contentions regarding the statute of limitations and the denial of their motions for directed verdict.

2 All undesignated statutory references are to the Education Code.

3 The Waters Act was encompassed within the Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education Reform Act of 1989 (former § 94700 et seq.) (the Reform Act). The Reform Act became inoperative as of July 1, 2007, and was repealed as of January 1, 2008. (Former § 94999; Stats.2004, ch. 740, § 7.)

4 The trial court also disposed of other claims. We shall discuss only the claims relevant to the issues raised on appeal.

5 It appears that Morales and Elias were dismissed before trial; neither is a party to this appeal.

6 Section 94877, subdivision (a) provided: "If an institution violates this article or Section 94832 or commits an act as set forth in Section 94830 in connection with an agreement for a course of instruction, that agreement shall be unenforceable, and the institution shall refund all consideration paid by or on behalf of the student."

7 Ikeda asserted a defense under the Education Code to Ex'pression's claim for breach of contract; on this defense, the jury found Ex'pression made an untrue or misleading statement, but that it did not relate to a fact that was important to him.

8 On August 20, 2009, Ex'pression moved to dismiss these appeals on the ground they had been abated by the repeal of the Reform Act. By separate order, we deny Ex'pression's motion to dismiss these appeals.

9 In section 94850, subdivision (b), the Legislature declared that "students have been substantially harmed and the public perception of reputable institutions has been damaged because of the fraudulent, deceptive, and unfair conduct of some institutions that offer courses of instruction for a term of two years or less that are supposed to prepare students for employment in various occupations. Students have been induced to enroll in these schools through various misrepresentations including misrepresentations related to the quality of education, the availability and quality of equipment and materials, the language of instruction and employment and salary opportunities...." The Legislature also found that "[s]tudents who leave schools before the completion of instruction, often because of misrepresentations and inadequate instruction, do not receive adequate refunds of tuition for the instruction not received...." (Id., subd. (c).) The Legislature declared: "(d) It is the intent and purpose of this article to protect students and reputable institutions, ensure appropriate state control of business and operational standards, ensure minimum standards for educational quality, prohibit misrepresentations, require full disclosures, prohibit unfair dealing, and protect student rights. It is the intent and purpose of this article to save millions of dollars of taxpayer's funds from being misused to underwrite the activities of institutions that depart from the standards of fair dealing and the requirements of this article. [¶] (e) This article shall be liberally construed to effectuate its intent and achieve its purposes." (Id., italics added.)

10 A broader remedy was provided by section 94877, subdivision (b), under which "a student may bring an action for a violation of this article or Section 94832 or an institution's failure to perform its legal obligations and, upon prevailing, shall be entitled to the recovery of damages, equitable relief, and any other relief authorized by this article, and reasonable attorney's fees and costs." As to the claims of the plaintiffs who asserted a cause of action under this provision, the jury was asked whether Ex'pression had committed the predicate acts (including making false and misleading statements); whether the acts related to an important fact; whether the plaintiffs actually relied on the acts; whether they were harmed; and whether their reliance was a substantial factor in causing the harm. There is no contention that in order to show damages under section 94877, subdivision (b), plaintiffs were not required to show materiality, reliance, and causation.

11 This provision also negates Ex'pression's contention that the Education Code provisions must incorporate the common law elements of fraud because statutes " 'should be construed to avoid conflict with common law rules' " (Health Facilities, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 297, 65 Cal.Rptr.2d 872, 940 P.2d 323), or because "[t]here is a presumption that a statute does not, by implication, repeal the common law" (People v. Zikorus (1983) 150 Cal.App.3d 324, 330, 197 Cal.Rptr. 509). Obviously, subdivision (d) of section 94877 makes clear that the remedy provided neither conflicts with nor repeals remedies available under any common law causes of action.

12 As to Ikeda, the procedural posture is different. The trial court had sustained without leave to amend Ex'pression's demurrer as to his cause of action for violation of section 94877, subdivision (a). The jury was asked to decide whether Ex'pression had violated this statute as to Ikeda, but only in order to decide his affirmative defense to Ex'pression's cause of action for breach of contract. As we are remanding for further proceedings in connection with the other plaintiffs' claims under section 94877, subdivision (a), we will likewise remand as to Ikeda for further proceedings consistent with the views expressed in this opinion.

 See footnote *, ante.

End of Document

© 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

168 So.3d 468
Court of Appeal of Louisiana,
First Circuit.

LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY SYSTEM RESEARCH & TECHNOLOGY FOUNDATION and LAETC Management Company, L.L.C.
v.
QYNTESSA BIOLOGICS, L.L.C.

No. 2014 CA 0311.
|
Dec. 12, 2014.

Synopsis

Background: Following audit of limited liability company's (LLC) records pertaining to funds paid to LLC by university research and technology foundation and its subsidiary pursuant to consulting service agreements for design and construction of clinical manufacturing facility, foundation and its subsidiary filed petition against LLC and its sole member, asserting claims of breach of contract, intentional interference with contract and with right to audit, unjust enrichment, detrimental reliance, fraud, and spoliation. The 19th Judicial District Court, Parish of East Baton Rouge, No. C572458, Kay Bates, J., granted foundation and subsidiary summary judgment. LLC and member appealed.

Holdings: The Court of Appeal, McDonald, J., held that:

[1] member owed foundation and subsidiary fiduciary duty, and

[2] member fraudulently enticed foundation and subsidiary into entering consulting service agreements.

Affirmed and remanded.

Crain, J., concurred and assigned reason.

West Headnotes (8)

[1] Judgment

Absence of issue of fact

Because it is the applicable substantive law that determines materiality, whether particular fact in dispute is material, for purposes of summary judgment, can be seen only in light of substantive law applicable to the case. LSA–C.C.P. art. 966.

Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Fraud

Duty to disclose facts

To find fraud from silence or suppression of the truth, there must exist duty to speak or disclose information. LSA–C.C. art. 1953.

Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Fraud

Duty to disclose facts

Whether one party owes another duty to speak, as required to find fraud from silence or suppression of the truth, depends on nature of relationship between parties and nature of information allegedly suppressed. LSA–C.C. art. 1953.

Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Fraud

Fiduciary or confidential relations

Although not every contractual relationship involves fiduciary relationship, defining characteristic of the latter is special relationship of confidence or trust imposed by one in another who undertakes to act primarily for the benefit of principal in a particular endeavor.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Fraud

Duty to disclose facts

Fiduciary cannot further his own interests and enjoy fruits of advantage of such relationship and must make full disclosure of all material facts surrounding transaction that might affect decision of his principal.

 © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Fraud
Duty to disclose facts

Sole member of limited liability company (LLC), which received funds from university research and technology foundation and its subsidiary, pursuant to consulting service agreements, to design and construct clinical manufacturing facility, owed foundation and its subsidiary fiduciary duty to disclose all material facts concerning terms of the consulting service agreements with LLC, as required to support finding of fraud based on silence or suppression of the truth; during all but the last few months of the agreements, sole member of LLC was also member of foundation's board of directors, and foundation was sole owner of its subsidiary. LSA–C.C. art. 1953; LSA–R.S. 12:91(A), 12:226(A).

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Corporations and Business Organizations
Conflicts of interest and dealing with corporation, shareholders, or members

Corporations and Business Organizations
Contracts and indebtedness

Limited liability company's (LLC) sole member, who was also member of board of directors for university research and technology foundation, fraudulently enticed the foundation and its subsidiary into entering consulting service agreements with LLC to design and construct clinical manufacturing facility, such that foundation and its subsidiary were allowed to rescind the agreements; member's failure to disclose LLC's 60% profit margin on the consulting service agreements was a suppression of the truth made with intention of taking unjust advantage of foundation and its subsidiary or to cause loss or inconvenience to them, in violation of member's fiduciary duty to foundation to disclose all material facts concerning terms of agreements. LSA–C.C. arts. 1948, 1953–1955; LSA–R.S. 12:91(A), 12:226(A).

Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Corporations and Business Organizations
In general;nature and status

Limited liability company (LLC) is a separate legal entity from its members.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

Attorneys and Law Firms

*470 Lee C. Kantrow, Richard F. Zimmerman, Jr., Randal J. Robert, W. Scott Keaty, Baton Rouge, LA, for Plaintiff/Appellee, Louisiana State University System Research & Technology Foundation and LAETC Management Company, L.L.C.

John Dale Powers, Steven H. Watterson, Baton Rouge, LA, for Defendants/Appellants, Qyntessa Biologics, L.L.C. and Steve E. Moye.

Rodney A. Ramsey John P. Murrill, Baton Rouge, LA, for Defendant/Appellee, Board of Supervisors of Louisiana State University Agricultural & Mechanical College, including the Louisiana State University System and its Office of Internal Audit, P. Raymond Lamonica, Dr. Carolyn Hargrave and Carla Fishman.

Before PARRO, McDONALD, and CRAIN, JJ.

Opinion

McDONALD, J.

2 In this appeal, Qyntessa Biologics, L.L.C. (Qyntessa), and its sole member, Steve E. Moye, challenge a summary judgment against them and in favor of the Louisiana State University System Research and Technology Foundation (Foundation) and its subsidiary, LAETC Management Company, L.L.C. (LAETC). In rendering the summary judgment, the trial court determined the Foundation and LAETC were entitled to rescission of four consulting services agreements to which the Foundation, LAETC, and Qyntessa were parties, because Mr. Moye had fraudulently enticed the Foundation and LAETC into entering the agreements. For the following reasons, we affirm and remand.

FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

The Foundation is a nonprofit Louisiana corporation with its principal office located at the Louisiana Emerging Technology Center (LETC) on the campus of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. The LETC serves small and startup businesses focused on developing and commercializing university technologies. LAETC is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Foundation and the property manager of LETC. From 2005 through 2008, pursuant to cooperative endeavor agreements (CEAs), the Louisiana Department of Economic Development (LDED) provided funds to LAETC to operate LETC and to subcontract with Qyntessa for the start up and operation of a clinical manufacturing facility (CMF) within the LETC. In turn, from July 2005 through June 2008, pursuant to four consulting services agreements (CSAs), the Foundation and LAETC paid Qyntessa $4,810,000 of the LDED funds for Qyntessa's services in the design and construction of the CMF. [1] Qyntessa is a *471 limited liability company and Mr. Moye is its sole member. Additionally, from some time in 2002 through March 1, 2008, Mr. Moye was also a member of the Foundation's board of directors.

In August of 2008, with concerns as to whether the LDED funds had been properly used, and after receiving less than full disclosure from Qyntessa, the Foundation and LAETC initiated a formal audit of Qyntessa's records. Dissatisfied with 3 Qyntessa's level of cooperation, in November 2008, the Foundation and LAETC filed a petition for audit and declaratory judgment against Qyntessa. Qyntessa answered the petition and filed a reconventional demand against LAETC for amounts allegedly due under the 2007 CSA. [2] Ultimately, the trial court issued a judgment declaring that the Foundation and LAETC were entitled to audit the records and accounts of Qyntessa as expressly authorized by the four CSAs. This court affirmed that judgment on appeal. Louisiana State University System Research and Technology Foundation and LAETC Management Company, L.L.C. v. Qyntessa Biologics, L.L.C., 09–1479 (La.App. 1 Cir. 4/15/10), 2010 WL 1509486 (unpublished opinion), writ denied, 10–1060 (La.9/3/10), 44 So.3d 692.

The Foundation and LAETC then hired an outside accounting firm, which conducted the Qyntessa audit beginning in 2010 and continuing through 2012. After receiving information from the audit, the Foundation and LAETC twice amended their petition, adding Mr. Moye as a defendant and asserting claims of breach of contract, intentional interference with contract and with the right to audit, unjust enrichment, detrimental reliance, fraud, and spoliation. Qyntessa and Mr. Moye answered the amended petitions and amended their reconventional demand to assert claims of defamation, libel, and slander against the Foundation and LAETC. [3]

In July 2013, the Foundation and LAETC filed a motion for summary judgment against Qyntessa and Mr. Moye, claiming they were fraudulently enticed into entering the four CSAs and seeking rescission of the CSAs, damages, and attorney fees. In support of their motion, the Foundation and LAETC submitted documentation indicating that over $2,900,000 of the $4,810,000 paid to Qyntessa under the four CSAs, amounting to 60 percent of the total sum paid, was used to pay Mr. Moye's salary, personal expenses, and/or taken as profit. By way of illustration, the summary judgment evidence demonstrated that, from the funds paid to Qyntessa under the four 4 CSAs, the following payments were made from Qyntessa's account: Mr. Moye received $910,897.68 in salary; an interior decorator business, Beth Claybourn, was paid $176,121.07 for furnishings for Mr. Moye's residence; a jeweler, Darakjian Jewelers, was paid $152,150 for a man's watch; a jeweler, Shapur Mazaffarian Fine Jewelry, was paid $85,000; a men's watch vendor, Tourneau, was paid $15,024; three home audio and entertainment vendors, Ne Plus *472 Ultra, Audio Resources, and Wilson Audio, were paid $92,207.50, $36,530, and $7,050.64, respectively; and two men's clothing stores, George Bass and Stanley Korshak, were paid $17,489.05 and $20,745, respectively.

Qyntessa and Mr. Moye opposed the summary judgment, claiming they complied with the terms of the CSAs, were not prohibited from profiting by the terms of CSAs, nor required to disclose Qyntessa's profit margin. Further, they argued that Qyntessa fulfilled all terms of the four CSAs without questions or concerns about the work it performed. Also, they submitted evidence showing that, during the three years the CSAs were in place, Mr. Arthur Cooper, the Foundation's CEO and LAETC's manager, never questioned, but instead approved, Qyntessa's budget submissions, as evidenced by his monthly certifications to the LDED that LAETC's cost reports and requests for reimbursement for the CMF contract were true and correct, had been actually incurred, and that reimbursements were due.

After a hearing, the trial court signed a judgment on December 6, 2013, granting the summary judgment in favor of the Foundation and LAETC, and stating:

> (1) Mr. Moye had a duty to disclose to the Foundation and LAETC all material facts concerning the terms of the four Consulting Services Agreements with Qyntessa, and (2) the Foundation and LAETC were fraudulently enticed into entering into the four Consulting Services Agreements with Qyntessa and thus are entitled to rescission thereof as well as damages and attorney's fees to be proven.

Qyntessa and Mr. Moye now appeal and contend the trial court erred in granting the summary judgment, because: (1) Mr. Moye had no duty to disclose all material facts concerning the terms of the four CSAs to both the Foundation and LAETC; (2) the evidence did not support a finding that Qyntessa and Mr. Moye fraudulently enticed the Foundation and LAETC into entering the CSAs; (3) the CSAs did not require Qyntessa to disclose its profits or payment of profits/draws to Mr. Moye; and (4) Mr. Moye did not 5 submit budgets containing inaccurate information and/or omitting pertinent information, as the record clearly shows the budgets were created with the assistance of Mr. Cooper.[4]

DISCUSSION

[1] An appellate court reviews a trial court's decision to grant a motion for summary judgment de novo, using the same criteria that govern the trial court's consideration of whether summary judgment is appropriate. Smith v. Our Lady of the Lake Hospital, Inc., 93–2512 (La.7/5/94), 639 So.2d 730, 750. The motion should be granted only if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to material fact and that the mover is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. LSA–C.C.P. art. 966(B)(2);[5] George S. May International Company v. Arrowpoint Capital Corporation, 11–1865 (La.App. 1 Cir. 8/10/12), 97 So.3d 1167, 1171. Although summary judgments are now favored, factual inferences reasonably drawn from the *473 evidence must be construed in favor of the party opposing the motion, and all doubt must be resolved in the opponent's favor. Willis v. Medders, 00–2507 (La.12/8/00), 775 So.2d 1049, 1050. Because it is the applicable substantive law that determines materiality, whether a particular fact in dispute is material, for purposes of summary judgment, can be seen only in light of the substantive law applicable to the case. Gaspard v. Graves, 05–1042 (La.App. 1 Cir. 3/29/06), 934 So.2d 158, 160, writs denied, 06–0882 and 06–0958 (La.6/16/06), 929 So.2d 1286 and 1289. The substantive law applicable in this case is the law of conventional obligations, or contracts, found in Title IV of Book III of the Louisiana Civil Code.

A contract is an agreement by two or more parties whereby obligations are created, modified, or extinguished. LSA–C.C. art. 1906. A contract is formed by the 6 consent of the parties established through offer and acceptance. LSA–C.C. art. 1927. Consent to a contract may be vitiated by error, fraud, or duress. LSA–C.C. art. 1948. In this case, the trial court found that the Foundation's consent in entering into the 2005 CSA with Qyntessa, and LAETC's consent in entering into the 2006, 2007, and 2008 CSAs with Qyntessa, was vitiated by Mr. Moye's fraud. Fraud is a misrepresentation or a suppression of the truth made with the intention either to obtain an unjust advantage for one party or to cause a loss or inconvenience to the other. Fraud may also result from silence or inaction. LSA–C.C. art. 1953. Fraud does not vitiate consent when the party against whom the fraud was directed could have ascertained the truth without difficulty, inconvenience, or special skill. This exception does not apply, however, when a relation of confidence has reasonably induced a party to rely on the other's assertions or representations. LSA–C.C. art. 1954. Error induced by fraud need not concern the cause of the obligation to vitiate consent, but it must concern a circumstance that has substantially influenced that consent. LSA–C.C. art. 1955. See Shelton v. Standard/700 Associates, 01–0587 (La.10/16/01), 798 So.2d 60, 64.

Summary judgment is seldom appropriate for determinations based on subjective facts of intent, motive, malice, good faith, or knowledge. Jones v. Estate of Santiago, 03–1424 (La.4/14/04), 870 So.2d 1002, 1006; Biggs v. Cancienne, 12–0187 (La.App. 1 Cir. 9/21/12), 111 So.3d 6, 10; Eskind v. Marcel, 06–0369, 06–1185 (La.App. 1 Cir. 12/28/06), 951 So.2d 289, 292. Nonetheless, Louisiana courts have recognized that, while rare, summary judgment may be granted on subjective intent issues when no issue of material fact exists concerning the pertinent intent. Jones, 870 So.2d at 1006–07; see Romano v. Altentaler, 11–0303 (La.App. 1 Cir. 9/14/11), 77 So.3d 282, 284. While the burden of proof on a motion for summary judgment remains with the movant, fraud may be established by circumstantial evidence. LSA–C.C.P. art. 966(C)(2); LSA–C.C. art. 1957.

There is no dispute that the first CSA between the Foundation and Qyntessa and the three subsequent CSAs between LAETC and Qyntessa constituted contracts whereby the parties consented to be bound by certain obligations. See *7 LSA–C.C. arts. 1906, 1927. Basically, the Foundation and LAETC agreed to pay Qyntessa a certain sum, to be paid with LDED funds, and Qyntessa agreed to provide consulting services for the establishment and operation of the CMF within the LETC. It is also undisputed that 60 percent of the money paid to Qyntessa was not used for the establishment and operation of the CMF, but rather was used for Mr. Moye's personal benefit. The relevant inquiry is whether the facts indisputably establish that Mr. Moye's failure to disclose 474 Qyntessa's 60 percent profit margin was a suppression of the truth made by him with the intention of taking an unjust advantage of the Foundation and LAETC or to cause a loss or inconvenience to them. See LSA–C.C. art. 1953.

[2] [3] [4] [5] To find fraud from silence or suppression of the truth, there must exist a duty to speak or disclose information. Greene v. Gulf Coast Bank, 593 So.2d 630, 632 (La.1992); Terrebonne Concrete, LLC v. CEC Enterprises, LLC, 11–0072–0079 (La.App. 1 Cir. 8/17/11), 76 So.3d 502, 509, writ denied, 11–2021 (La.11/18/11), 75 So.3d 464. Whether one party owes another a duty to speak depends on the nature of the relationship between the parties and the nature of the information allegedly suppressed. Allstate Insurance Company v. Community Health Center, Inc., No. 08–810, 2014 WL 1689701 (M.D.La. Apr. 29, 2014) (slip opinion), citing Greene, 593 So.2d at 632. It has long been held that the duty to disclose exists where the parties stand in some confidential or fiduciary relation to one another. Bunge Corporation v. GATX Corporation, 557 So.2d 1376, 1383–84 (La.1990).[6] Although not every contractual relationship involves a fiduciary relationship, the defining characteristic of the latter is a special relationship of confidence or trust imposed by one in another who undertakes to act primarily for the benefit of the principal in a particular endeavor. Terrebonne Concrete, LLC, 76 So.3d at 509. A fiduciary cannot further his own interests and enjoy the fruits of an advantage of such a relationship and must make a full disclosure of all material facts surrounding the transaction that might affect the decision of his principal. Id.

[6] [7] 8 In this case, during all but the last few months of the four CSAs, Mr. Moye was a member of the Foundation's board of directors; thus, he owed the Foundation a fiduciary duty. See LSA–R.S. 12:91(A) and 12:226(A); Terrebonne Concrete, LLC, 76 So.3d at 509. And, although Mr. Moye was not a member of LAETC's board of directors, the trial court determined that he "had a duty to disclose to the Foundation and LAETC all material facts concerning the terms of the four [CSAs] with Qyntessa." (Emphasis added.) Given the Foundation's long-term relationship with Mr. Moye, its status as the sole owner of its subsidiary, LAETC, and Mr. Moye's status as the sole member of Qyntessa, we agree with the trial court.[7] As a fiduciary, Mr. Moye was prohibited from furthering his own interests at the expense of the Foundation and LAETC. He was required to make a full disclosure of all material facts surrounding the CSAs that might affect the decisions of the Foundation and LAETC. See Terrebonne Concrete, LLC, 76 So.3d at 510.

475 In conjunction with the CSAs, Mr. Moye submitted Qyntessa's annual budgets to Mr. Cooper, LAETC's manager. These budgets included detailed figures for Qyntessa's start up and operating expenses for the CMF, such as employee salaries; facility expenses; professional services; consultant fees; equipment, lab, and office expenses; and travel and training expenses. None of the budgets listed a salary figure for Mr. Moye (although other Qyntessa employee salaries were listed) or the measure of profit to be taken by Qyntessa. Mr. Moye does not dispute that he personally benefited from 60 percent of the funds paid to Qyntessa under the four CSAs. But, as he continually stated at his deposition, the CSAs did not require that Qyntessa provide this information and Qyntessa was entitled to make a profit. Admittedly, a reasonable salary to Mr. Moye and a reasonable profit to Qyntessa would not have been objectionable under the CSAs. However, we conclude that, had the Foundation and LAETC known that Mr. Moye would use 60 percent of the LDED funds paid to Qyntessa to personally benefit 9 himself, rather than to further the establishment and operation of the CMF, then the Foundation and LAETC would not have entered into the CSAs with Qyntessa. See LSA–C.C. art. 1955. It is clear that Mr. Moye's failure to disclose Qyntessa's 60 percent profit margin was a suppression of the truth by him with the intention of taking an unjust advantage of the Foundation and LAETC. See LSA–C.C. art. 1953. Thus, despite the rare nature of summary judgments on subjective intent issues, the trial court did not err in finding that Mr. Moye fraudulently enticed the Foundation and LAETC into entering the CSAs nor in granting summary judgment allowing rescission of the CSAs.

[8] The party against whom rescission is granted because of fraud is liable for damages and attorney fees. LSA–C.C. art. 1958. See Stutts v. Melton, 13–0557 (La.10/15/13), 130 So.3d 808, 815. [8] Thus, we will remand this matter to the trial court for a determination of all outstanding issues.

CONCLUSION

For these reasons, we affirm the December 6, 2013 judgment, granting summary judgment in favor of the Foundation and LAETC. This matter is remanded to the trial court for further proceedings consistent with this opinion. Costs of this appeal are assessed to Qyntessa and Steve E. Moye.

AFFIRMED; REMANDED.

CRAIN, J., concurs and assign reason.

CRAIN, J. concurs.

1 I concur in affirming the summary judgment because the undisputed facts establish that Qyntessa Biologics, L.L.C., represented by its sole member, Steve E. Moye, suppressed the truth with the intention of obtaining an unjust advantage when the parties entered the subject consulting service agreements. See La. Civ.Code art. 1953. The parties do not dispute that the agreed "compensation" under the agreements was a publicly funded subsidy intended to cover any financial losses or deficit incurred in the operation of the clinical manufacturing facility during the term of each agreement. The parties also *476 do not dispute that Qyntessa was required to submit an annual budget for the facility. Those budgets consistently projected substantial operating losses or deficits, which were then used by the Louisiana Department of Economic Development, through the LSU System Research and Technology Foundation and its subsidiary, LAETC Management Company, to determine the "compensation" or subsidy. The budgets did not reflect a salary for Moye, or any other anticipated distribution of a "profit" to Moye. This omission resulted in a misrepresentation of the facts by Qyntessa consistently overstating the necessary expenses for operating the facility.

According to Qyntessa's budgets, the facility's cumulative operational deficit for the three year period covered by the agreements was $5,298,000. In reliance on those figures, Qyntessa was paid the "compensation" amount of $4,810,000. During that same period of time and from these same funds, Moye used what is now referred to as Qyntessa's "profit" to pay himself undisclosed salaries totaling in excess of $800,000, and to fund undisclosed lavish expenditures for his personal benefit.

Qyntessa's explanation that the budgets were merely pro forma projections ignores that Qyntessa continued to submit monthly invoices requesting a pro rata distribution of the subsidy, which invoice amounts were calculated using the agreed compensation amounts set forth in the agreements, and which agreed compensation amounts were derived from the budgets. At the same time Qyntessa failed to disclose that the invoice amount was either not needed, or was more than was needed, for Qyntessa to avoid an operational loss for the facility. The assertion that the agreements did not prohibit Qyntessa from making a "profit" simply disregards the undisputed fact that the distribution of the agreed compensation amount was based upon Qyntessa's representations that the clinical manufacturing facility was generating losses, not profits.

Through the projected annual budgets, Qyntessa publicly represented that the clinical manufacturing facility was losing money—thus ensuring the continuance of the subsidy under the agreements—while privately Moye treated a significant portion of the subsidy as "profits" for his personal use and benefit. The payments to Moye were neither disclosed nor determinable from the budgets. By failing to reveal completely the source of the operational losses (i.e., the payments to Moye), Qyntessa's budgets misrepresented material facts. Based upon these undisputed facts, we are left with only one reasonable conclusion, that the truth regarding the payments to Moye was suppressed by Qyntessa with the intention to obtain an unjust advantage. Therefore, the Foundation and LAETC were fraudulently induced into entering into the agreements, and summary judgment was appropriate. See La. Civ.Code art. 1953.

All Citations

168 So.3d 468, 320 Ed. Law Rep. 522, 2014-0311 (La.App. 1 Cir. 12/12/14)

Footnotes

1 The Foundation and LAETC served as "pass through" entities for the operating funds provided by the LDED and paid to Qyntessa for the CMF. The four CSAs provided payment to Qyntessa as follows: the July 1 through December 31, 2005 CSA between the Foundation and Qyntessa for $600,000; the January 1 through June 30, 2006 CSA between LAETC and Qyntessa for $660,000; the July 1 through June 30, 2007 CSA between LAETC and Qyntessa for $1,680,000; and the July 1 through June 30, 2008 CSA between LAETC and Qyntessa for $2,040,000.

2 Qyntessa also filed a third party demand against LSU, the LSU Systems Office and Office of Internal Audit, P. Raymond Lamonica, Dr. Carolyn Hargrave, and Carla Fishman. The third party demands were later dismissed.

3 Qyntessa's and Mr. Moye's defamation claim was later dismissed.

4 Although this opinion does not address each assignment of error individually, it disposes of all issues raised.

5 Louisiana Code of Civil Procedure article 966 was amended in 2013 and again in 2014. The amendments are not implicated in the issues presented in this appeal. See 2013 La. Acts, No. 391, § 1, effective August 1, 2013, and 2014 La. Acts, No. 187, § 1, effective August 1, 2014.

6 The confidential relationship is not restricted to any specific association of the parties. While the most frequent illustrations are those of trustee and beneficiary, attorney and client, parent and child, or husband and wife, a confidential relationship also embraces partners and co-partners, principal and agent, master and servant, physician and patient, and generally all persons who are associated by any relation of trust and confidence. (Citation omitted.) Bunge, 557 So.2d at 1384, n. 4.

7 Louisiana courts examine whether there is a duty to disclose on a case-by-case basis, and this determination is a legal question. Mose v. Keybank National Association, 464 Fed.Appx. 260 (5 Cir.2012) (unpublished opinion), citing Barrie v. V.P. Exterminators, Inc., 625 So.2d 1007, 1016 (La.1993); Terrebonne Concrete, LLC, 76 So.3d at 509. Even if Mr. Moye did not independently owe LAETC a fiduciary duty, he would arguably still owe LAETC a duty of full disclosure arising from the parties' relation of confidence. Accord Skannal v. Bamburg, 44,820 (La.App. 2 Cir. 1/27/10), 33 So.3d 227, 238, writ denied 10–0707 (La.5/28/10), 36 So.3d 254.

8 A Louisiana limited liability company is a separate legal entity from its members. Charming Charlie, Inc. v. Perkins Rowe Associates, L.L.C., 11–2254 (La.App. 1 Cir. 7/10/12), 97 So.3d 595, 598. Absent proof of fraud, members of a limited liability company generally may not be assessed with personal liability for the debts and obligations of their limited liability companies to third parties. See LSA–R.S. 12:1320; Charming Charlie, Inc., 97 So.3d at 598.

End of Document © 2017 Thomson Reuters. No claim to original U.S. Government Works.

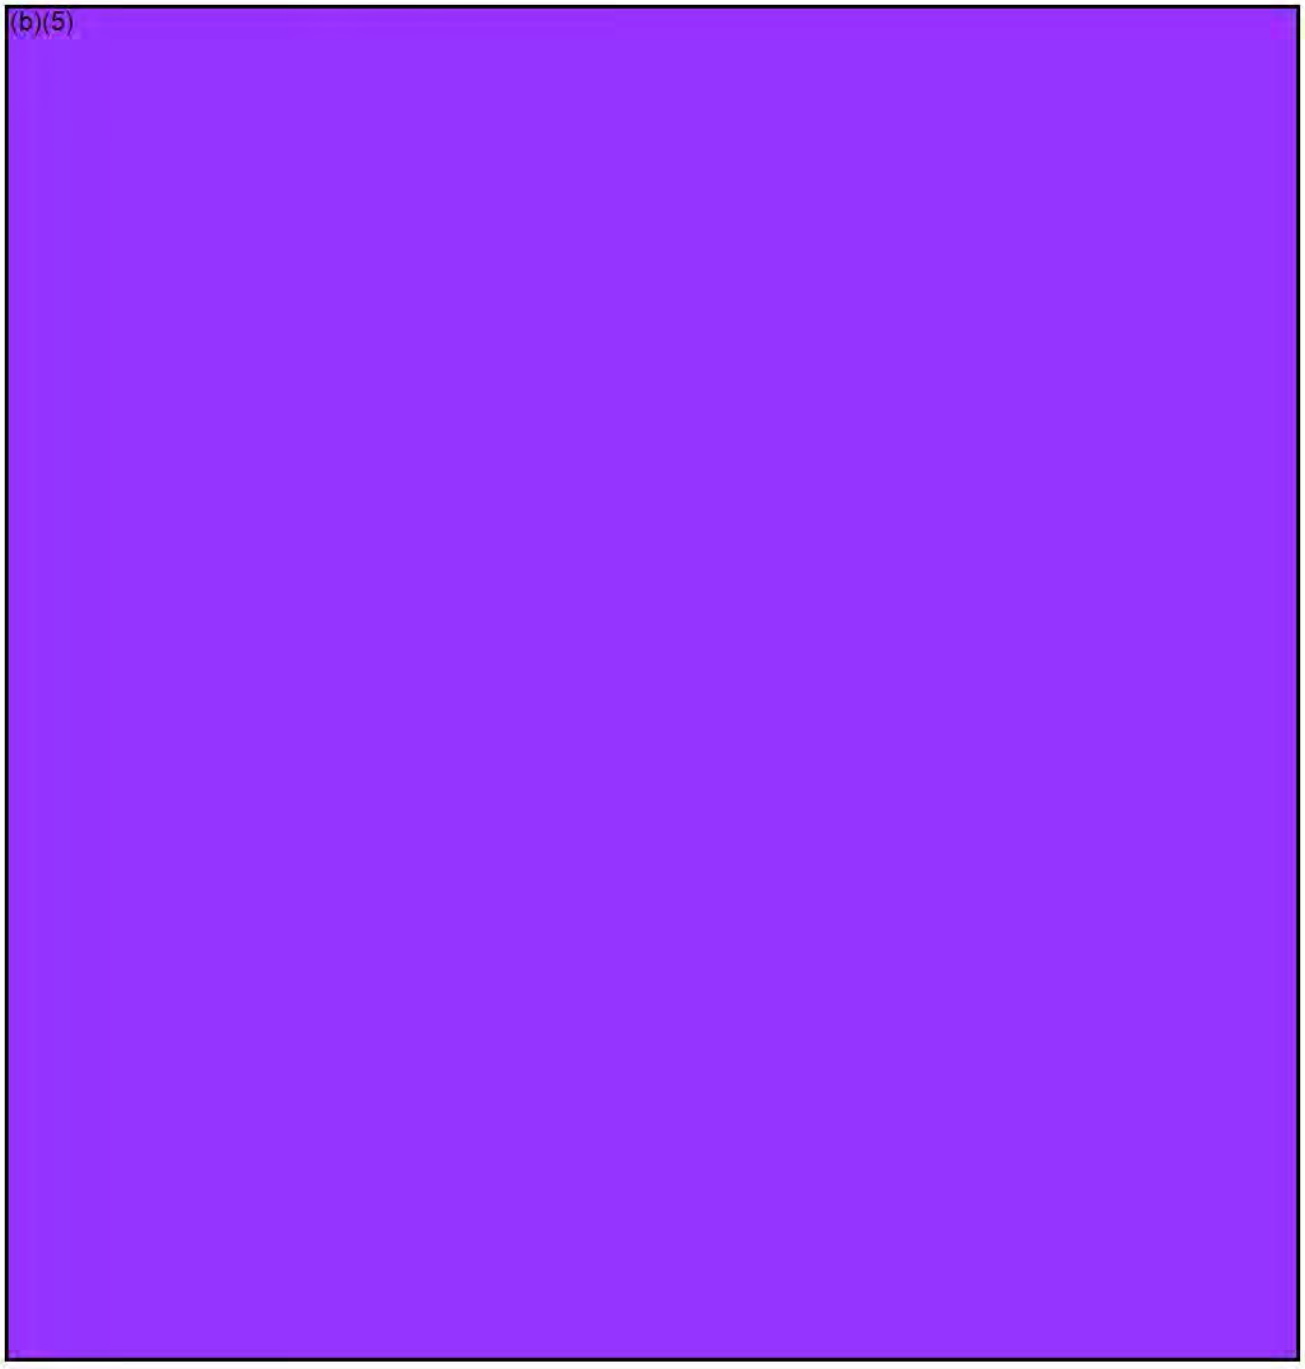
Borrower Defense Data Group Meeting Agenda

Location: 6C101

Date: July 26, 2017

Time: 2:00 pm – 3:00 pm

(b)(5)



Page 1638 of 1643

Withheld pursuant to exemption

(b)(5)

of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Act

Page 1639 of 1643

Withheld pursuant to exemption

(b)(5)

of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Act

Page 1640 of 1643

Withheld pursuant to exemption

(b)(5)

of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Act

Page 1641 of 1643

Withheld pursuant to exemption

(b)(5)

of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Act

Page 1642 of 1643

Withheld pursuant to exemption

(b)(5)

of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Act

Page 1643 of 1643

Withheld pursuant to exemption

(b)(5)

of the Freedom of Information and Privacy Act